

Madness 451

Son In Law Madness Chapter 451

At Nine The second the guard receive the token, he got out of the car straightaway and hustled off to the airport. Xylus spoke with lingering dread once the power level readings on his own evaluation glasses returned to normal, "With a power level of five million, he's simply not human. Maybe even Nathan himself would not be a match for him." Having already surpassed the million power level mark ten years ago, Nathan Long was a legend on the battlefield. Tyrone shook his head.

"Perhaps we had been mistaken." Xylus was taken aback.

"How so?"

"The working principle behind the evaluation glasses is the detection of fluctuations. A reading of five million could only be found on assault weapons that are usually nuclear powered. In other words, only nuclear power could produce that sort of energy value. Do you think he could be wearing some gear on him that is powered by nuclear energy?" Tyrone asked.

Initially taken aback, Xylus then shook his head. "Impossible. Nuclear-powered devices like the Tokamak toroidal devices are way too large. They are as big as a mansion and could possibly weigh up to several tons... Unless you mean to say that Tokamak devices could be developed using controlled fusion technology?"

by a Tokamak toroidal device. If Lord is originally as huge as a pyramid into the size of explanation." When he developed the Anti Golden Lord Device, Rupert had to expend enough power to light a few dozen streets before he could get it started up. In spite of it, he had never actually managed to deploy it to power it using this Tokamak device, he may very well be able to activate it more than a hundred times! On the twenty-third, the engagement date between pause in preparation to extend their own congratulations to Tyrone and Jennifer. It lucky, Jennifer!"

hasn't even arrived, and already, so many have come you married Donald, it didn't even come anywhere close to this. In the end, only his grandfather came, and none of his other relatives even bothered to show up!" Relatives Tayhaven had sent representatives, and Sylvia had personally come to Pollerton herself to suck up to the mighty Campbell clan. By nine in the morning, Rivebale Hotel had become fully occupied. It was around the same time that Silas arrived, stepping out the moment his Maybach rolled to a halt. With his piercing gaze, he cut an imposing character. Walking alongside him, was a man who was in his sixties. Dressed in a tunic suit, the latter had scrutinized Lana from head to toe with eyes narrowed when he saw her. Hmm... that face and that sort

