Son In Law Madness Chapter 470

Reduced To Ruins “You are all just a bunch of weasels who aren’t afraid to die. If I don’t show you what it feels like to be beaten up, all of you will never learn.” Upon speaking, Donald started to walk toward the military base. Almost simultaneously, various attacks started falling from the sky. From far away, the army that was up against Donald started attacking with intense firepower. The entire scene that had unfolded was deeply engraved in everyone’s mind. It was a sight Rosie would never forget. In the next second, Donald retaliated. A large wave of energy rolled out from his body while his eyes turned gold and shone brightly. He then slowly raised his right hand and pointed at the army.

started to malfunction just as the alarm sounded. “Sir, that man’s body is emitting high levels of radiation with energy fluctuations. It is interfering with the launch!” “Sir, our electronics have been tampered with by the radiation emitted by the enemy. All of our weapons are down!” “Sir, our system shows that the enemy has a power level of more than five million. Wait, it’s already at a level of six million!” The soldiers in and swung out his halberd. The halberd sliced through the air as it soared. It was one hundred meters long, and it headed straight for the military base. With a loud boom, the entirety of the military base was reduced to ruins. All of their advanced equipment broke apart and fell to the ground as scraps. Their loss was definitely more than six hundred billion. “What should we do now?” a middle-aged soldier with blond hair asked. Even though his eyes were filled with murderous intent, he could not do anything about the situation. Just as he spoke, a chill ran down his spine while his hair stood on an end. He stiffly turned his head only to find that Donald was standing right behind him, staring coldly at him. Smoke was still coming out of the ruined military base. “I have killed one of the exchange either advanced technology or even six hundred billion in cash for your lives. You are given three days, and three days only. If I find out that you have failed to do so by the end of the third day, I will be sure to pay a visit to your country personally.” Donald was holding the jurganite halberd in his hand as he spoke. He looked just like a God of War who descended
