

Mana 1021

Chapter 1021 - Notoriety!

WAA!

Overflowing mana released billions of beings in the Automaton Universe, 9 Legions that were filled to the brim with powerhouses from the 9 Supreme Bloodlines of the Animus Universe as at the lead were Noah's Animus Summons and subordinates from the Dark Universe.

Their forces left behind a terrifying presence as their eyes looked at their surroundings, many of them coming in contact with the unique Automaton Universe for the first time!

Automaton simply meant a machine that is capable of acting independently, and this Universe was one where the machines reigned supreme as they controlled every aspect of life with all the creatures within this Universe.

Over its long history, two Hegemonies had risen from this Universe as one was termed the Hegemony of the Steel and the other was known as the Mechanical Hegemony!

Currently, both of these powerful beings were watching the entrance of Noah forces as interestingly, one was outside of the boundary of the Automaton Universe as the other was stationed in front of a Universal Construct.

One of the Hegemonies had chosen to follow Chronos as the other knew nothing of it, the Hegemony of Steel being the one outside the boundary as his literal made of steel figure was extremely somber while looking at the longest friend that had betrayed him, as well as the new forces of the Paragon he and many others became acquainted within the Universal Banquet!

Like many others, he could only watch the events about to play out!

Within the Automaton universe, the golden beak of the Emperor Penguin shone brightly as it reflected the gigantic mechanical Galaxy that wasn't too far away from them.

It was extremely vast in size as it bordered over half a million light years, the entire mechanical galaxy shining with an obsidian purple glint as it released a piercing pressure to the outside void!

It looked like an expansive fortified fortress as planetary sized Pulsar Cannons thousand of meters in size shone dangerously in the boundaries of this Galaxy along with Mana Combustors and Void Rippers that could tear apart the very void itself.

The whole Galaxy looked like a moving mechanical giant as from it, they could feel the terrifying auras of robotic beings as within seconds, they began to see them step out in droves.

Enormous in size and each of them shining with a purple glint, terrifying looking robotic figures began to swarm out of the mechanical Galaxy as beings like Kazuhiko looked at this scene with an excited light!

"Robots...fucking living and moving robots at the Monarch and Paragon Ranks! Who the hell would have thought...!"

Those from Noah's homeworld were looking at this scene in incredulousness and excitement as a second later, they were reigned in by the singular voice of the Queen Dowager.

"Focus! We're not just here for sightseeing or even a war...our goal is to spread the influence of a single being!"

OOOOOOH!

Bellows resounded throughout as the Bloodline Races thrummed with power, Noah's subordinates moving through these Legions with a light of dominance as the planetary sized figures like the Cthulhu stood out the most!

In the Automaton Universe, Noah's 9 Legions began to move as unique life forms flew out to meet them!

Far from this new Conquest, at the boundary of the Animus Universe.

WAP!

Valentina's figure appeared close to the Hegemony tasked with keeping watch over the events of the Animus Universe. Her gaze was filled with a sharp light of confidence and strength that only beings connected to Noah would come to express!

It was the mentality one gained after coming across an overpowered being that had too many cards on his hands, and Valentina had gotten her hands on some of them as today, she planned to utilize them fully.

"I'm about to take a probing action against them with this body that is a clone. Don't be shaken by any result that happens!"

RUMBLE!

She spoke to the watching Hegemony outside of the boundary as they could nod in a stupor, Valentina's figure disappearing as she made her way towards Ambrose and Solerno who were still guarding the Universal Construct!

"You limp d??ked old men, who said you can be so relaxed?!"

...she might have also been listening to Barbatos's foul mouth recently as this regal Hegemony picked up a new method of insulting others, her figure teleporting in front of the two Hegemonies guarding the Universal Construct as she released horrendous attacks!

There were many moving pieces taking their steps throughout the Primordial Cosmos, but the central one remained the same as with dominance and authority, they were making their moves not in the Animus or Automaton Universes, but in the Necrotic Universe.

His forces moving throughout three Universes of the Primordial Cosmos had placed him on the spot light as many Hegemonies turned their eyes towards him, his notoriety rising as he was becoming known to many at a rapid pace!

But to Noah himself...none of this mattered.

OOOOH!

Strong bellows resounded throughout as his Legions of Undead moved across the Necrotic Universe, the defeated Undead Paragons giving him more knowledge of their Universe and where all the quintillions of Undead were clustered at.

The clans of Undead Specters, Undead Dragons, Undead Vampyres...there were a myriad of races stretched throughout the Necrotic Universe as many of them heeled under the boot of the Hegemony of Necromancy, while a few powerful ancient clans of Undead retained their autonomy.

Noah would move across all the regions of this deathly Universe as at this moment, they were stepping out of the Death Void Valley as they crossed the chaotic void towards a region that held Clusters of power not under the Hegemony of Necromancy- it was the Alcyoneus Spectral Galaxy Clusters where the Ancient Undead Draconic Vampyres ruled!

You read that correctly! Ancient Undead Draconic Vampyres that were Unique existences brought to be by death were some of the strongest Clans existing in the Animus Universe, their power being something Noah could not wait to taste as this time around, he didn't plan on decimating billions in seconds.

It was a Dao that would cement his title as the future Hegemony of Conquest.

It was, of course....the Dao of Conquest!

Chapter 1022 - Making Daos is Easy!

Out of the Daos that Noah had designed, the first was Subterfuge as it acted to mask and hide his Essence of Ruination along with giving him any identity he chose, while the Dao of Fealty was an even more crucial one as it opened the way for him to efficiently harvest the Marks of Antiquity like never before.

Fealty indirectly and directly increased the level of his strength as it granted him an even larger Destiny and Fortune with the number of beings he influenced, while him obtainings the Marks of Antiquity meant that he could forge Dao Galaxies that directly increased his damage output and also paved the way towards creating a Universal Seed!

The next Dao he was designing was something similar to Fealty, with the increase in strength applying more solely to him as out of the many ideas he calculated, the one that fit the current situation the best and would provide him with the most benefits...was Conquest!

THRUM!

Essence was already bubbling wildly within the Universal Core, Noah's body floating extremely close to the core as all around him were seas of essence from numerous universal laws as well as...dense Ruination Essence.

The main essence of the Dark Universe had been changed to become the Ruination Essence, so of course this was the densest that one could find within the core of the Universe!

As for what major changes Ruination brought, Noah was still observing everything as for now, all he cared for was the fact that he could easily birth Daos. This one would be his last one for who knew how long, just until whatever requirements needed for him to birth more Lesser Daos or possibly Grand Daos were met.

WAA!

His multicolored hair flew around wildly as he had freely drenched it with too many law and Dao essences, but it still retained its dark color as streaks of gold and red dominated, the others colors much dimmer. But his devilish handsomeness only continued to increase over time as with his overflowing Fortune and Destiny, he unconsciously let off an aura that would draw anybody towards him in time!

His 100 Billion Galaxies shone brightly as from the illusory image on his ?h?st, over 1.5 Billion of them were Already Dao Galaxies. The power pulsing from them was immense as in conjunction with his Universal Core, mana flowed freely as a character soon rose from the core of the Universe.

The character was shining a pristine white color and was extremely beautiful in ?uster, expressing but a single meaning in all languages.

CONQUEST!

RUMBLE!

The Dao Character rushed and fused into Noah's origin, making it his third birthed Dao as he closed his eyes to enjoy the sheer feeling of it while the description of the Dao appeared before his eyes.

LESSER [Dao of Conquest] :: A Lesser Dao birthed by the Universal Core of Noah Osmont. As the Dao Architect, Noah Osmont can comprehend and ?ssimilate the Dao at 10 times the normal speed. Conquest is Dao which enhances the strength of the User based on their path of Conquest. It will birth the Star of Conquest that passively increases the power of the user when undertaking Conquest and within the lands they have conquered. Conquered lands will always allow the user to display triple their power while fighting within them, while their strength will always be doubled when they are in the process of Conquest. It also provides the essence termed the Light of Conquest that can be used to Empower current abilities and elevate them to much greater forms. The effect of Empowerment varies based on which abilities or aspects of existence that the Light of Conquest is used on. Initial Comprehension of the Dao of Conquest grants the user the capability to Empower their attributes and normal skills. Complete Comprehension in the Dao of Conquest grants the user the capability to Empower Unique and Ultimate Skills, as well as the Essence of the Universal Laws they comprehend. Full Assimilation of Conquest grants the user the capability to Empower Absolute Skills as well as the essence of the Lesser Daos they Comprehend, along with their power being quadrupled in Conquered Lands and tripled while in the process of Conquest. Elevation of the Dao of Conquest to the Grand and Cosmic Levels will open up even grander possibilities....

A Dao made for the exact situation that Noah was currently in! One that doubled his strength effectively anytime he stepped out to conquer, and then tripled his power when he fought within the bounds of conquered lands like the entirety of the Dark and Animus Universe. With it fully ?ssimilated, these numbers jumped to being quadrupled in Conquered Lands and bring tripled when he was in the process of Conquest.

And aside from all that...there was the Light of Conquest that gave him the capability to further enhance other aspects of himself!

He had made all the specifications as at this moment, Noah did not delay. The techniques to comprehend the Dao were already made as he directly began to cultivate it through his clones in the Ruination Realm that had the one thousand to one time ratio.

As the Architect of Conquest, he could traverse through the Dao at ten times the speed. The ridiculous scene of him comprehending the Dao in minutes and assimilating it a few minutes later played out at this moment as nobody was there to witness such a stupendous occasion!

At full comprehension, one could use the light of conquest to empower unique and ultimate skills among other things, but at full assimilation- one could even empower Absolute Skills as well as the Lesser Daos that they carried.

As for the light of conquest that one would gain from this Dao? Noah began to feel it surging the moment that he finished assimilating Conquest!

RUMBLE!

How could it be described? It seemed like an abstruse essence that was far different from any other type of essence he had come across, and this one uniquely grew from the actions that the holder had carried out and was still carrying out.

For Noah, the action of Conquest was something he had been doing for the past days and months, and he was even carrying out conquest as of this very moment as the Light of Conquest he received...

It was simply glorious as from his body, beautiful pristine white light erupted out in a dazzling fashion!

It was strongest right above his head as an instant later, a white star-shaped object appeared in a dazzling fashion.

It was....the Star of Conquest!

Chapter 1023 - The Dao of Conquest!

The Star of Conquest began to spin brilliantly as it pulsed with immense white light that washed over Noah endlessly.

Pure white! This was what the Dao of Conquest could be best described as! It seemed to be condensing from the atmosphere and rushing into Noah's origin through the brightly spinning white star as it bathed his Galaxies in a wondrous white splendor, the surrounding few miles turning pure white as it granted Noah the Light of Conquest for his action in the Dark Universe, the Animus Universe, and now the Necrotic and Automaton Universe.

Even though he had only created the Dao now, he was already in the process of Conquest and had even taken multiple Universes with it!

So the Light of Conquest he gained...gushed out in droves as the pure white light of Conquest permeated throughout the surrounding miles and continued to emanate out!

From the deepest corner of the Universal Core, trillions of beings turned towards a certain direction as they noticed an awe-inspiring white light shine brightly for a few seconds.

The light seemed extremely domineering as none of them knew exactly what it was yet, but those living this deep in the Universal Core of the Dark Universe had long since learned to ignore the crazy and ridiculous events that occurred throughout it every now and then!

So it was only Noah alone that experienced the droves of the Light of Conquest surrounding him and sinking into his Origin as the light show died down soon after.

Multiple Universes' worth of the Light of Conquest, where exactly would he put it? What could he Empower with the gathered Light of Conquest that nobody had actualized before?!

In the future, he would be using the Light of Conquest to empower many things like the newly created Tyrannical Lich Emperor skill tree, but his most immediate target of Empowerment was actually an Absolute Skill!

It was, of course, the Absolute Skills of the Seven Deadly Sins that he passively used to strengthen himself as they contributed to the crazy boosts he currently held. Out of the many options he looked at when he stared at his vast number of skills in his Status Panel, this one shone with a brilliant golden ?uster as he trusted himself enough to go ahead and carry out the process.

He spoke out lightly as the pristine white essence around him reflected in his eyes, the Star of Conquest above him shining from a visible to an invisible state as he could choose for it to appear or disappear.

"Let the Light of Conquest flow into the Seven Deadly Sins."

RUMBLE!

His words only just finished as the Star of Conquest shone brightly, the pristine white essence beginning to permeate and fuse into specific portions of his soul- it was the areas where the Absolute Skills of the Seven Deadly Sins were inscribed in!

To better visualize it, Noah stared at his extremely long Status Panel where his many Absolute Skills lay. Those under <<Absolute Sin>> had begun to shine with a brilliant white ?uster in the blue status panel, Noah feeling his Soul buzzing with a unique power as soon after, he saw the appearance of an identical set of words from every single Deadly Sin.

The word read....<Empowered>!

{Seven Deadly Sins- Sin of Gluttony} <Empowered> :: One of the Seven Deadly Sins unique to the Dark Universe. After becoming Empowered with the Light of Conquest, the skill is capable of manifesting itself under the commands of the holder of the Absolute Sin Skill...

{Seven Deadly Sins- Sin of Wrath} <Empowered> :: One of the Seven Deadly Sins unique to the Dark Universe. After becoming Empowered with the Light of Conquest, the skill is capable of manifesting itself under the commands of the holder of the Absolute Sin Skill...

Every single one of the powerful Seven Deadly Sins skills was bathed with the Light of Conquest as they became empowered to do something they had never done before!

Manifestation.

This was the fantastical capability that Noah's skills had gained after they were enhanced with the Light of Conquest!

Noah didn't know whether this would be the major effect every time that he Empowered something with the Light of Conquest, but he sensed the bright Star of Conquest above him shine weakly as a major portion of the Light of Conquest was utilized, the star still rotating brilliantly as it released a powerful pressure.

Noah's eyes shined brightly as he stared at it with his main body, his eyes reflecting this Star of Conquest in multiple different universes as at this moment, his Primordial Ruination Clone in the Necrotic Universe was at the forefront of the Undead Legion as above it, a brilliant white Star was shining gorgeously!

The pressure that the Tyrannical Lich Emperor released doubled as it became even more horrifying, being something that even the strongest Paragons could not compare to.

KEKEKE!

A cackle came out of his skeletal skull as this Tyrannical Lich Emperor would be the one to test the Absolute Skills empowered by the Light of Conquest.

"Sin of Gluttony!"

WAA!

His call reverberated across the deathly chaotic void as in the next second, a hellish-looking demonic runic circle appeared in the void of space, spreading out to be over a hundred meters in diameter as it shone with a brilliant red light!

"Huuu...!"

A deep and ancient voice reverberated from this demonic-looking runic circle, a figure beginning to descend from it as it looked like a terrifying mass of flesh was coming down.

THRUM!

A brilliant crimson light later, whatever was called out came to fruition as a horrifying Manifestation of the Sin of Gluttony made its appearance for the first time.

"Huuuung...!"

A distorted humanoid shape with huge rolls and mass of flesh that looked like an oversized abomination, its over 100 meter tall stature looking extremely grotesque as deformed limbs shot out from multiple areas of its body...and one could see multiple sharp toothed mouths twisting horribly all over its body.

The utter manifestation of gluttony made its appearance in a terrifying fashion as it released a peak aura of a PARAGON, its bellows resounding out across the Necrotic Universe!

"HUNGRY...!"

RUMBLE!

This...was just a single manifested Sin.

There were still 6 more!

Chapter 1024 - The Star of Conquest Shines Brightly! I

In a certain region of the Necrotic Universe...a horrifying aura that seemed to devour space itself arose as for the first time ever, the skill of the Sin of Gluttony was manifested as a terrifying creature came to be.

Across the Universal boundaries though, there was another holder with the title of Gluttony that Noah had appointed with his authority as the [Harbinger of Sin]!

Barbatos felt her Origin rumbling with strength as one of the strongest powers within her seemed to get even stronger. The manifestations of Noah's Seven Deadly Sins through the Empowerment didn't just elevate his strength and allow for the current terrifying reality to be playing out, it would also elevate the strength of those he appointed specific sins to months ago!

RUMBLE!

After the appearance of the Sin of Gluttony, the Tyrannical Lich Emperor continued to call out madly as his body thrummed with wild mana, the Star of Conquest above him shining brightly as the next names were called out consecutively.

"Sin of Pride!"

RUMBLE!

"Sin of Wrath!"

WAA!

"Sin of Lust!"

"Sin of...!"

One after another, the six remaining Sins were called out as 6 crimson runic magic circles shone brilliantly in the deathly chaotic void, figures of all shapes and sizes appearing as in the following seconds as even the summoned Lich Emperors and the recently subjugated Agobo quietly remained behind without making too much noise.

For the wondrous and magisterial Sin of Pride, the 100 meter tall humanoid figure of a being made solely from golden flames could be seen, the surrounding void burning slightly as this creature domineeringly carried a deadly golden axe that seemed to be empowered by millions of suns!

The Sin of Wrath and Lust on the other hand were devilishly handsome to look at. Starting with Wrath, the figure was that of a graceful looking being with crimson red skin and even more crimson hair, a smile of limitless wrath appearing on its face as it gazed around with murderous intent.

Meanwhile, the Sin of Lust could more closely be described as a Succubus that had proportions no man should see, her 100 meter tall stature that was the same as all the other Sins being something that meant all her blessings both in front and back were being seen very clearly in her scantily clad appearance!

Her gaze was alluring as even the Undead behind Noah shivered when this Sin of Lust flashed an amorous smile towards them, feeling any essence they held into their origin nearly leave their bodies.

The Sin of Sloth was extremely unique as a chubby looking figure that did not even have its eyes open appeared, thunderous snores being heard in the chaotic void as this was its method of expressing its arrival. The fat on its 100 meter tall body seemed to tremble with every snore as its entire body was wrapped in a warm blanket, a unique energy carrying it forward as it was the most inconspicuous sin there.

The Sin of Envy on the other hand dyed the chaotic void near it a terrible green color, a figure of a being with the upper body of a human and the lower body of a snake appearing as Noah could only describe it as a Naga!

Lastly, there was the manifestation of the Sin of Greed, the ridiculous figure of a 100 meter tall human wearing a tight neat red suit that was inlaid with gold lines appeared. Around it, red-gold chains flew calmly as they wrapped themselves all over his body, a terrifying aura leaking from this creature as it released a horrendous light of avarice.

OOOOOH!

But at this moment, the Star of Conquest was shining brightly above his head as out of all the Paragons surrounding the Undead Legions, the aura that Noah released was the most terrifying with the tripling of his power by the Star of Conquest.

Its bright white luster washed over him gloriously as it drew in the gazes of two watching Hegemonies that instantly reported something shocking to their respective camps!

"The problematic Paragon is showing a never before seen Dao Essence...!"

"The problematic Paragon is showing a never before seen Dao Essence...!"

Shockingly, both the Hegemony of Necromancy that reported to Chronos and the Hegemony outside of the boundary of the Necrotic Universe that used his [Wings of Primordial Destiny] to report to Oathkeeper both called Noah the same way.

A problematic Paragon!

Both of them had noticed the unique essence flowing around the Tyrannical Lich Emperor from the shining Star of Conquest, these knowledgeable beings that had lived for many years actually not recognizing this type of essence.

This could only mean...it was a type of essence from a Dao they had never come across before!

The implications this had were tremendous as both camps very quickly focused on this issue.

All of the Dao of Fealty would have its essence erupt around Noah's main body as he enjoyed the Marks of Antiquity that brought about this unique dao's ease of conquest! But now, a type of Dao Essence erupted from Noah's Primordial Ruination Clone that was the Tyrannical Lich Emperor, and it was there to stay as the Hegemonies very quickly saw it!

Of course if it was shown, it also meant that Noah didn't bother to hide it- and this was simply the case. To start building his authority and power in the Primordial Cosmos until it reached or even surpassed beings like Oathkeeper, Chronos, and the Goliath, he would simply start by leaving behind bread crumbs for others to follow.

For him, the things he considered bread crumbs were Lesser Daos that even Hegemonies only dreamt of designing to fruition!

On this day, aside from his continuing conquest with a Dao being created with the same name- he would also be revealing some of his power!

Chapter 1025 - The Star of Conquest Shines Brightly! II

Above Noah's head, the Star of Conquest shone brilliantly in the Necrotic Universe as he looked at the glorious and grotesque appearance of the Manifested Seven Deadly Sins.

It was putting another 7 Existences at the same level as him on his ??p, and the auras of these beings were unlike any other PARAGONS as it was even more oppressive than the Lich Emperors!

Now, Noah just needed to test them against his enemies as he marched forward in the Necrotic Universe while outside of it, word had begun to pass around the allied Hegemonies as even Oathkeeper stopped what he was doing to once again pay attention to a certain Paragon.

A brand new never before seen Dao had appeared, something that puzzled many as nobody had sensed the birth of a new Dao in the Primordial Cosmos since the most recent birth of an artificial Dao by the Hegemony of Summoning- Valentina!

The birth of a Dao was always a showy affair, its essence reverberating out across a Universe as it was knowledge that would be spread quickly. So in seeing a brand new type of Dao they had never come across on top of the body of the Tyrannical Lich Emperor, it was an affair that was taken seriously as its mere implications were stupendous.

Actually, they weren't even wrong with the belief that any artificially birthed Dao would cause a huge commotion during the time of its birth, it was just that when Noah created his Daos...the commotion was spread among the single Dark Universe that was floating far from the Primordial Cosmos!

SHAA!

The figure of Oathkeeper used the wondrous capabilities of the [Wings of Primordial Destiny] as he teleported near the Hegemony keeping watch outside the boundary of the Necrotic Universe.

His powerful eyes honed in on the shimmering white star above the moving Lich's head as they shone sharply, even someone of his caliber confirming that this was a brand new Dao Essence they had never come across before!

This meant that either a Universal Hegemony had created a Dao they didn't know about and Noah was using it, or the even more impossible possibility of the Paragon before them being the Architect of the Dao.

"Valentina, have you designed another Dao that we don't know about that the so-called Tyrannical Emperor is utilizing?"

THRUM!

His voice traversed across the boundaries of the Universe as it reached Valentina who had her clone in the middle of something fantastical, while her main body experienced something even more wondrous in the Dark Universe.

Before Oathkeeper's words came through to her, she was staring at the unbelievable scene of the birth of a new Dao as in the depths of the Universal Core, she could see Noah's main body be showered in the cascade of white light that represented a new Dao!

She had not been there for the birth of the first or second Dao, but she was there for the third one as even then, she could scarcely believe what she saw.

'He's using a genuine Universe as an intermediary to design Daos...'

Her mind was in turmoil at such a scene as beside her, a sigh could be heard from Barbatos as her small but voluptuous figure shook majestically while she spoke.

"You have to just accept his ridiculousness after a certain point. If you try to question or understand how he does what he does, you'll be sitting there for days without getting anywhere."

It seemed like the voice of a big sister giving advice, rousing the powerful mind of the Universal Hegemony as she looked at the figure of Barbatos who stared at the depths of the Universal Core just like her as Valentina...took her words seriously!

She received Oathkeeper's words around this time as she knew by this point Noah had the Dao of Subterfuge capable of masking the essence of any Daos. If Oathkeeper and the others were seeing his clones displaying a certain Dao, it meant that Noah wanted them to. And who was she to stand in the way of the being with seas of golden fortune?

So a short reply came from her as she received lessons on everything to do with the Dark Universe and Noah from the unreliable Barbatos, while her clone continued with her current mission in the Animus Universe!

"No."

The short reply was sent across Universal boundaries and reached the astounded Oathkeeper soon after.

"No?" Even the Oathkeeper didn't expect such a short reply as he asked once more but the answer was...

With this being the case, the eyes of this aged being shone ever brighter as they landed on the figure of the Tyrannical Lich Emperor itself that held a shining white star above it. Was it truly possible for a Paragon to do something only those at the Universal Realm could do?!

Could this being in front of them really be something they could fully utilize against the forces of Chronos and the Goliath of the Primordial Cosmos? When a being such as this became a Hegemony, his power would just...

RUMBLE!

"You...have successfully created a Dao?" Oathkeeper seemed to be asking this with utter incredulity as even a being as old as him couldn't believe it!

What exactly would the Paragon that had begun making waves recently say?

What reason could he possibly give to explain such a shocking phenomenon?! Would he deny or would he...

"Yes?"

"..."

A clear cut and unexpected answer came out that caused the minds of all who heard it to buzz with stupor. Noah didn't even bother to hide it as he replied, making Oathkeeper have no words to retort as through the Wings of Primordial Destiny they were speaking through, the other Hegemonies holding this unique dao treasure could hear their conversation as they were all silent!

Noah's voice came out once more a second later.

"Why are you asking about this? You guys have also created your own Daos, right? It's not that hard."

"..."

Oathkeeper's ancient face turned sour as the listening Hegemonies felt their overall knowledge become twisted as their hearts were rumbling with anger!

It took Oathkeeper a few seconds to compose himself before he spoke out again.

"How is this possible? There has never been an instance in history where a Paragon had been able to design and successfully birth a Dao."

WAA!

His reply made the many powerful listening Hegemonies nod vigorously, but Noah's reply knocked them down again a second later!

"Well, after the first one, it gets easier."

RUMBLE!

"...!!!"

Silence!

Chapter 1026 - Fine, I'll do it myself! I

A shocking conversation that landed on the ears of many powerful Hegemonies of the Primordial Cosmos was playing out, one that would be etched into the recesses of all their memories for the years to come!

"Well, after the first one, it gets easier."

WAA!

Noah's reply to Oathkeeper caused essence to grind to a halt in the Origins of the powerful Universal experts who heard it.

Not a single reply came towards Noah from the other side as those listening had the area around them shaking as they unconsciously released their terrifying auras!

"...You've birthed more than a single Dao before you established a Universe within your Origin?" Oathkeeper's voice was the only one to return as this powerful being kept searching for more information to understand this newly rising power within the Primordial Cosmos.

"Naturally, I couldn't stop at the first one after seeing how smoothly it went. The second one was even more expertly designed, but the third one...Ah!"

THRUM!

Noah felt an intense wave of essence release from the Wings of Primordial Destiny within his Expansive Space, a devilish smile appearing on his face as he continued.

"The third one is the glimmering white star you all can see above my head in the Necrotic Universe. The Dao of Conquest..."

...!

The angered and envious eyes of many hegemonies trembled as those that had arrived near the boundary of the Necrotic Universe honed in on the figure of Noah that had a rotating Star of Conquest above him!

A Paragon had actually gone ahead and birthed 3 Daos- something that should in no way be possible for a being at his rank to do, much less to do it three times! Even most Hegemonies birthed 1 Dao, or at most two if they had lived long enough and been just as lucky.

Yet this being...

They felt like they shouldn't listen to his words anymore or they would find themselves not capable of finding the will to live, many of them stopping their input of essence in the Wings of Primordial Destiny as they stopped listening!

"I created this Dao of Conquest for the occasion of the 9 Universes, maybe I'll design a fourth one when the time comes to tear down the Universal Constructs that Ambrose and the others are protecting..."

RUMBLE!

"..."

Even more Universal Hegemonies stopped inputting their essence into the Wings of Primordial Destiny as soon enough, only the Oathkeeper was left behind listening to Noah's ruthless words.

But to his words, nobody replied! At a certain point, Noah stopped his train of thought as he sent his voice into the Dao Treasure to see who was on the other side.

"Hello?"

"Is anyone still there?"

"..."

"Alright, I'll head back to the mission on hand."

"..."

THRUM!

A Paragon that could create their own Dao...what could they even call him?

Normally, when a Universal expert birthed their own Dao, they were referred to by that name as Valentina was known as the Hegemony of Summoning, or a being like Ambrose was known as the Hegemony of Slaughter.

But...they couldn't really term this Paragon the Hegemony of Conquest as he had not even reached the title of a Hegemony yet!

As for what his power would signify when he reached the Universal Realm? The many powerful Hegemonies were actually expectant, but at the same time they didn't hold too many feelings attached to Noah.

This was because they needed to solve the problem of Universal Amalgamation and whatever Chronos and the others were calling forth now. It was a time s?ns?t?v? issue! To become a Hegemony, it took the brightest geniuses over 150,000 years- and an example of this was Oathkeeper himself.

The youngest being to reach the stage of a Hegemony in history, that title was held by the glorious Oathkeeper!

For such a time s?ns?t?v? issue, could they really rely on a powerful Paragon that had limitless potential which could only be unlocked tens of thousands of years into the future? To them, the answer was no!

So while they looked at Noah as a unique existence to appear in their Primordial Cosmos, they still didn't think he would be a deciding factor for the challenges to come...

At this moment though, they could not even put their focus on him as something was happening within the Animus Universe!

It was...the attack of the Hegemony of Summoning that had returned into the Universe as one of the few beings who still had access to it as she was within its boundaries when the process of Universal Amalgamation began.

BOOM!

Valentina's face was that of utter coldness as a planetary sized phantom of herself struck down towards the somber figures of Ambrose and Solerno. Similar to before, hundreds of hands seemed to bloom from the body of this phantom as they all struck down towards the two Hegemonies, threatening to smash into the red barrier protecting the Universal Construct if they weren't stopped.

"Foolish woman!"

Ambrose bellowed out strongly as his Cosmic Essence waved around him, Solerno also moving with a grim expression as his body ballooned up to a planetary size as well.

But...similar to before, we knew the end result of this battle!

Against the enhanced Valentina that had her mana reserves expanded by over a hundred times, these two Hegemonies could not stand her! Last time, Chronos had appeared and saved the Universal Construct and the Hegemonies protecting it, Valentina running away before she fell into his grasp.

This time, a clone of Valentina was making the attack as she had no worry for her life, her hands ever closer to reaching the crimson barrier protecting the Universal Construct!

"Sigh."

An ancient sigh reverberated out from the Animus Universe.

The purple aura of a certain disastrous Hegemony bloomed.

But this time...Valentina didn't run.

Soon after, a brilliant white star began to shine brightly on top of her!

Chapter 1027 - Fine, I'll do it myself! II

After the Hegemonies were left in a stupor from listening to the words of a certain Paragon, they turned their attention towards the Animus Universe where they saw the appearance of the Hegemony of Summoning standing against Ambrose and Solerno!

Her shockingly powerful attack could not be withstood by the two Hegemonies, the many palms she threw out sinking into the body of the planetary sized Solerno as he was smashed back towards the crimson barrier protecting the Universal Construct.

As for Ambrose, the essence of a Cosmic Dao was dismantled in seconds from the sheer quantity of Annihilation from Valentina, his figure ultimately also smashing back as ten of palms were left free to smash into the barrier around Universal construct!

BOOOM...CRACK!

As if space itself shattered, the crimson barrier broke.

Universal experts watched the next second with shining eyes as the phantom of Valentina's fair hand tumbled towards the unprotected Universal Construct.

This was when the ancient sigh was heard. This was when the purple ?uster of Chronos appeared once more but...it was also when a glimmering Star of Conquest began to shine atop Valentina's head!

Even with the appearance of the regal purple essence, she was unhindered as she continued with a strong expression!

But...

"Absolute Reversal."

In front of a Dao that stood above many other Daos, what could one do?!

At the words that manipulated the Dao of Chronos, time moved back.

The shattered crimson barrier began to reform as if it shattered glasses coming together, while Valentina's figure was inadvertently being pushed back as even while she released more mana, she still could not stop herself!

RUMBLE!

The color of the regal purple essence spread throughout as Chronos appeared once more in the flesh within the Animus Universe, this time his gaze first landing on the figures of Ambrose and Solerno as his eyes seemed to carry a light of disappointment.

His compatriots failed him for a second time as Chronos appeared, this time intending to finish things himself as he looked towards the valiant looking figure of Valentina that remained floating before him, her aura beginning to rise ever higher as the Star of Conquest above her rotated majestically!

One must recall the boosts a being received for becoming a Vassal under the Lesser Dao of Fealty- among the many things, access the Laws and Lesser Daos of the Tyrannical Emperor was one of them!

Her aura rose madly as Chronos stared at her, his voice coming out calmly.

"You did not run."

WAA!

"No, I did not!"

At the end of her words, Valentina's eyes shone with a brilliant ?uster as under the gazes of the recently appearing Oathkeeper behind the boundary of the Animus Universe as well as many other Hegemonies, she actually made a move against Chronos.

One of the giants of the Primordial Cosmos!

A being that only Oathkeeper and the Goliath could stand against- Valentina was fearless as she called out vibrantly.

"[Efflorescence of Annihilation]."

In front of her, enormous droves of essence were utilized as the essence of Annihilation erupted out, forming into blooming illusory flowers that trembled with the destructive forces of hundreds of thousands of galaxies!

Yet, power could not so easily be scaled when it came against beings with such powerful Daos that they had even lived multiple lifetimes!

WAA!

A purple clock appeared above everyone, this clock being over ten thousand miles in size as it released a glorious purple light that washed over everything.

Even the figures of Ambrose and Solerno came close to Chronos as they avoided this shower of purple light, the voice of the terrifying being that had reincarnated countless times ringing out.

"[As it was, so shall it be]."

...!

A set of words that Ambrose and Solerno had uttered before multiple times, but this time they were cast in the form of a skill under the Dao of Chronos.

For other beings with this same Dao, the effects of this skill could be easily negated. But for those that did not comprehend Chronos?

"What...!"

Oathkeeper looked at the scene with cold eyes as even though this was something a being like him could defend against, he knew that others couldn't. This was the difference of quality between some Daos.

In just a second, the planetary sized phantom disappeared no matter how much mana Valentina churned the essence of Annihilation to defend against it, eventually only leaving her 2 meter figure behind as the purple essence of Chronos wrapped around her as well!

Her body still burned all the mana it could to try and defend, but it was useless as one could shockingly see her figure was getting increasingly older. From her upper 20s to looking like a woman in her 50s. Wrinkles appeared everywhere as ancientness began to leak from her body.

Her back became hunched as she very quickly looked over a hundred!

Eventually, her skin began to crack and turn grey as very soon...her body split into countless particles of ash.

As it was, so shall it be!

Nothing could escape the ravages of time.

Under the Dao of Chronos, a being could choose to instantly age a being until they turned into dust, or regress them in age until before they were born.

A terrifying ability, and one that Chronos displayed fully today as after he finished, he gazed towards the figures of Oathkeepers and others that just watched the scene of him "killing" a Hegemony in seconds!

But...

"Hmph!"

A harrumph rang out clearly as outside the universal barrier of the Animus Universe, the figure of Valentina who should have died from the hands of Chronos appeared once more.

...!

A clone had died, so an immense amount of mana was used to make another!

This creation of a clone with the battle power of a Hegemony was extremely taxing, such that Valentina would utilize half of all her mana with every creation. The mana regeneration thereafter could range a few hours until her Universe was fully revitalized even with the immense boosts she received as a vassal.

So her second clone appeared as the observing Hegemonies had their eyes shake at such a scene, Valentina not even glancing at them as the figure of her clone shot through the Universal barrier seamlessly, the star of conquest above her shining brilliantly as she spoke out while prepared for battle once more.

"I wonder...do you get tired, or can you last as long as a certain someone?"

RUMBLE!

Valentina continued her probing attacks in the Animus Universe as the goal the being she pledged Fealty to wasn't just to try and break the Universal Construct, it was to also learn about the abilities of their enemies as today, they had been able to draw out the terrifying Chronos and make him reveal his skills!

For the future, Noah was preparing heavily as he planned to cover all his bases as he moved against the powerful existences within the Primordial Cosmos...

Chapter 1028 - The Goliath Makes a Move! I

The capability to form a clone wasn't an exclusive or never before heard of ability within the ranks of Paragons or Hegemonies.

In most instances though, it was an ability that could only create something half as strong as the Original, and the few that could do it didn't focus on such an area of their ability as the mana requirement to call forth a clone at the same stage of a Universe were simply too taxing!

So many Hegemonies focused on other aspects of their power, but they had their eyes open as they glanced at the image of Valentina's second clone crossing the Universal barrier as she thundered towards the figure of the calm Chronos once more.

Towards the lifeform that had reincarnated too many times and thought he knew everything, but this development of Valentina that should have never been a possibility was now plaguing him along with a certain problematic Paragon!

As he saw the figure of Valentina coming down with intense might a notch higher than many Hegemonies, his body circulated with essence as the enormous purple clock swirling in space moved.

THRUM!

The essence of the Cosmic Dao of Chronos permeated throughout once more as Valentina's fearless figure approached them, her body exploding into many dazzling attacks as she tried to get through the powerful might that Chronos displayed unsuccessfully!

Even with her power being increased multiple times over, she couldn't get over the boundary of the type of Daos that her enemy cultivated!

After the death of the second clone of Valentina within the Animus Universe, things seemingly became calm again.

Chronos's eyes were languid as he stared at the beings outside the boundary, Oathkeeper staring back at him with utter coldness as his body vibrated with power.

The being releasing the regal purple aura then focused onto Ambrose and Solerno who were still healing from the attacks of the first clone of Valentina's.

"That woman has become proficient in cloning and will continue to return to this Universe. Since the two of you cannot stand her, go and oversee the Chthonian and Liberated Universes for now, I will stay here."

...!

He sent a mental message towards Ambrose and Solerno as the two beings nodded with grim looks, the Hegemony of Slaughter looking particularly wrathful as he imagined countless ways he could destroy the figure of a certain woman!

SHAA!

Their figures disappeared as a second later, only Chronos was left in front of the enormous Universal Construct, his eyes carrying a trace of regality and wisdom as he looked like a being that was carrying the weight of many Universes on his shoulders.

Outside the boundary of the Animus Universe, Oathkeeper and a few other Hegemonies watched this scene while listening to a message that Valentina sent out to them at this moment!

"I'll keep on forging clones and sending them over into this Galaxy to hinder them and learn about their skills as much as I can in the future. I'll let everyone know in advance if you all want to observe and come up with methods to stand against these beings!"

...!

Valentina spoke with strength and power as she was one of the few Hegemonies who could do anything against Chronos and his people at the moment, her words being taken seriously as Oathkeeper's figure flashed away from the boundary of the Animus Universe while he continued to send messages to Valentina to discuss a few more things.

This instance created for a new reality where Chronos alone guarded the Animus Universe while Ambrose and Solerno were spread to the Chthonian and Liberated Universes, the only existences being able to make significant moves being Valentina and a certain Paragon bent on Conquest!

The seas of Universal Fortune above Noah churned as his Destiny shone brightly, a devilish smile apparent on his face as his eyes shone with the reflection of events in the Necrotic Universe.

There, the Tyrannical Lich Emperor made its way across the deathly chaotic void of this Universe filled with Undead as at this moment, he led the terrifying presences of the Manifested Seven Deadly Sins along with the terrifying Undead Legions that had a swirling ring of death around them!

The clans of Undead he met...had no path of resistance as even the terrifying Undead Draconic Vampyres could do nothing but fall as their Paragons alone could not withstand the terrifying sight of the abomination of the Sin of Gluttony crossing the chaotic void to devour everything- even she void itself.

The terror of the Sins spread amongst the Undead from Noah's battles as while he moved and conquered vast regions of the Necrotic Galaxy without a single existence being able to stop him, a week passed!

Over 7 days of Noah relentlessly moving within the Necrotic Universe as his terrifying force of Undead had grown to ridiculous numbers, the Sins acting as Generals as they fought at the very forefront.

Noah had traversed through half of the Necrotic Universe in this period of time, taking over the Galaxy Clusters of many regions at the terror of the Tyrannical Lich Emperor had spread throughout, and Noah wasn't the only one as his Subordinates were also making progress within the Automaton Universe!

It seemed like everything was going smoothly for them as in a short period of time they would break the influence of the Hegemonies within these Universes and greatly decrease the amount of essence that the Universal Constructs were drawing in.

But...were things ever that easy?

In response to Noah's and the movements of his forces, certain beings had also been making plans and progress in the past week.

Across the Universal boundaries, there was a certain existence that was currently hidden in the Microbial Universe. This being had a swirling black hole for a head as his entire body was entirely a mass of the essence of chaos, his power shaking the very surroundings his body occupied!

At this moment, this being raised his head as in front of him, the terrifying image of miniaturized forms of himself that numbered in the hundreds were displayed- their bodies releasing a unique power as the Goliath spoke out in a raspy voice.

"It is done..."

Chapter 1029 - The Goliath Makes a Move! II

"It's done."

Chronos received a message in the Animus Universe as his eyes flashed, a regal purple clock being controlled in the void of space above him as the figure of another one of Valentina's clones was aged until it became nothing but dust!

"You've confirmed things multiple times with Fate and Destiny?" Chronos's eyes flashed with a powerful purple light as he asked, a reply coming from the Goliath a second later.

"I wouldn't make a move if I wasn't sure. Let's get this over with."

RUMBLE!

The words were filled with irrevocable might as Chronos nodded while he replied.

"Good. We can begin with the Necrotic Universe and the Automaton Universe. Let's nip both of these problems in the bud right away."

WAA!

A horrendous plan was given the go ahead as Chronos's eyes flashed brightly, a light of wisdom coursing through them as another one of his ideas that he came across in a previous lifetime would be instituted today!

It was something that didn't come to full fruition in a certain life time until hundreds of thousands of years from this time point, during an era where Chronos moved behind the scenes and waged a Cosmic War.

In the current life time, there was actually a being that had also begun dabbling with this method, and it was the Cerulean Hegemony that had actually used this method when he was chasing after a Cosmic Treasure!

The terrifying Lich would move across the Necrotic Universe as he faced forces from multiple Galaxy Clusters, moving his horrible abomination of Sins as they wrecked havoc across the Legions as he then forced them to submit.

Those that submitted became a part of his force as his Legions grew ever bigger, and as for those that did not submit? The even more terrible Undead Legion that had an expanding Necrotic Ring of Death would move forward as any that denied his authority would be decimated with a swirling storm of bones within seconds, the only surviving existences being the Paragons that would be given a way out if they pledged their souls to him!

It was an extremely ruthless sight that even though the Hegemony of Necromancy was wrathful at the fact that he couldn't stop this being, he had to commend him for his methods as a Lich that thrived on death himself.

The entrance of the Goliath caused the Hegemony of Necromancy to turn towards him with shining eyes as one of the giants of the Primordial Cosmos waved his hands, causing for the appearance of 100 miniaturized forms of himself that were barely 5 inches in size to appear.

His voice rang out chillingly soon after.

"Have the Paragons under your command consume these. They will gain power far exceeding that of Paragons but...their small Origins will not be able to handle it as after a month passes, they will perish!"

RUMBLE!

Shocking words left resounded out from the being that had a black hole for a face, the Hegemony of Necromancy nodding with fervor as he asked carefully.

"These are..."

"A Compendium of my power. Those consuming them will have their Origins vitiated as they can display a portion of my power, gaining access to a sliver of the Daos of Extinction and Chronos for a few weeks as after that, their Origins will no longer be able to bear it and they will die. Because of this, it is absolutely vital that they choose to consume them of their own free will."

...!

"It is the method to bypass the restriction of us not being able to act against creatures of the lower Realm. It will always be these Paragons themselves moving, their power simply elevated to levels no Paragons can reach. You can call them...Incarnations of Chaos."

RUMBLE!

Incarnations of Chaos!

This was the answer that the Goliath had come up with after he was designated to deal with the problem of a rampaging Paragon that was standing in the way of the smooth accumulation of universal essence by the Universal Constructs.

For his goal of Antiquity...the Goliath produced a method that caused the Hegemony of Necromancy to shudder as he took the 100 seeds of Incarnations of Chaos and disappeared, teleporting to a nearby Galaxy Cluster with Undeads under his command that the Tyrannical Lich Emperor would come across soon enough!

WAA!

The aura of majesty spread out from the Hegemony of Necromancy as he appeared in the depths of a certain Galaxy. Mountains of bones filled the starry space as the auras of 3 Paragons could be picked up in the middle of an Undead Legion, the newly appearing Hegemony waving his hands as he threw out 3 seeds of the Incarnations of Chaos while speaking out commandingly.

"The Tyrannical Lich Emperor's path will soon reach here. If you absorb this treasure...you will be able to stand against him and take him down!"

"But...if you will and Origin is too weak to withstand the power, you might also perish. Are the Undead Rulers of our Necrotic Universe weak enough to perish?"

His air of death spread out as it enticed the minds of the powerful Undead, the Dao of Necromancy pulling the strings as thereafter, the Hegemony let them make their own choice as he disappeared.

The three Lich Emperors looked at each other and then at the obsidian glowing figures in front of them, they deathly flames in their eye sockets blazing with light as their jaws opened, consuming the seeds of the Incarnations of Chaos as a second later, overbearingly powerful auras began to skyrocket within the deathly Galaxy!

Chapter 1030 - Overwhelming Strength! I

When the Goliath of the Primordial Cosmos left the Necrotic Universe and left behind 100 seeds of the Incarnations of Chaos, he then appeared in the Automaton Universe and did the same thing with the Mechanical Hegemony that was overseeing things there!

With such actions, the rivers of fate churned as destiny began flying in a different direction. Yet, the being that was the cause of it had simply too much Universal Fortune and Destiny, so what exactly would be the result of it?

What would come of Paragons becoming Incarnations of one of the strongest beings in the Primordial Cosmos as they gained access to unique Daos such as Extinction and Chronos? How infinitely close to the power of Hegemonies would they be?!

The answer, as always, could only be seen in time.

---

Within the Necrotic Universe.

OOOOOH!

The Sin of Gluttony let out horrendous wails as its many mouths chewed on the surrounding chaotic void, actually devouring this space itself as its body thrummed with power! This creature had been swallowing entire dead Galaxies as Noah's Legions moved across the Necrotic Universe, its horrendous actions making its aura the strongest out of all the Sins in the field.

Behind it, Noah was seated upon a throne built from the essence of multiple Daos, this throne currently inlaid with glimmering bones as it fit the demeanor of the Tyrannical Lich Emperor too well.

Even further behind Noah, there were an uncountable number of Undead Legions that had moved from Billions and were currently in the Trillions, the sea of Undead seeming like moving planetary bodies when one looked at them from far away!.

The pressure they released was something no enemies could stand against as with over half of the Necrotic Universe conquered, Noah expected the remaining half to be fully assimilated into his forces within another week or two.

This was because he knew towards the end of the conquest of this Universe would be the time that his enemies fought back the most! It would be around this time that they would not sit still as the Hegemonies that Chronos worked with made grand moves! Due to this...Noah wanted to prepare.

Even though he had a Legion that swirled with an unbeatable Necrotic Ring of Death that even Hegemonies could not stand against. Even though he had Seven Manifested Deadly Sins whose power exceeded that of normal Paragons!

Even with all this...

"Maybe I can get just a bit stronger?"

Because of this, Noah had been busy designing the next grand skill that covered an area he considered himself to be currently weak at.

He seemed to excel in many things, but when it came to the area of Cosmic Daos...he thought he lacked something in this region!

He could cultivate and assimilate any Grand or Lesser Dao that he wished for just from defeating his enemies and obtaining Dao Crystals, but Cosmic Laws fell under different rules as even with the defeat of Paragons that comprehended them, no Dao Crystals for Cosmic Daos were given!

It was something so abstruse and out of reach that as it was mentioned in the details of Ruination before, it had to be comprehended and assimilated with the efforts of the being themselves as no outside items or treasures would have an effect when it came to Cosmic Daos.

Given this information...Noah wanted to design a skill that still made it possible for him to comprehend and assimilate Cosmic Daos! To bring such a skill to fruition, Noah looked at the accumulated skill points after the conquest of the Animus and now the Necrotic Universe.

[Skill Point(s)] ::...139,534,357,149

139 Billion Skill Points!

Fantastically, the idea he had in mind would make him a poor man as it would utilize the entirety of these Skill Points, but it would bring to fruition something that would make it possible for him to obtain Cosmic Daos in another way besides just from [Protagonist's Bookmark]!

He looked at how this ability allowed for him to obtain a Cosmic Dao, and everything lied in the fact that he took the comprehension of another being and made it his own. Unlike when he just designed the skill tree to comprehend the Dao of Summoning many weeks ago in the past Nexus Galaxy of the Dark Universe, such a thing wasn't made feasible to him through [Skill Creation] as it required Skill Points in the Trillions to bring to fruition.

It wasn't that it was impossible- he just couldn't pay its price!

But he could pay the price of tens of billions of Skill Points to produce a skill that had many requirements that had to be met, but at the end of it...a Cosmic Dao awaited him.

The skill actually had the cost of 500 Billion Skill Points when he first put its specifications in [Skill Creation], but this number dropped by 150 Billion when he secluded the Dao of Ruination. It then dropped by another 150 Billion after he dropped the Primordial Dao that the Oathkeeper was the only one to comprehend!

After adding many more restrictions like a cool down, mana requirements, and a few other things...the skill of [Cosmic Dao Essence Integration and Emergence] was born.

[Cosmic Dao Essence Integration and Emergence] :: A skill that allows the user to integrate the Essence of the Cosmic Daos they come across as after a sufficient value is reached, the emergence of the Cosmic Dao would bloom within them. The essence of only a single Cosmic Dao that the user comes across and selects will undergo the process of integration and emergence. After every successful emergence of a cosmic Dao, 7 Cosmic Days have to pass before the process can begin with another Cosmic Dao. The process of integration requires a sufficient amount of mana to be used in order to deconstruct and analyze the Essence of the Cosmic Dao, necessitating the mana output of the full mana reserves of a Universal Realm existence for every second of integration. If an insufficient amount of mana is provided, the Cosmic Essence under integration will cause an implosion of the user's Origin. Cosmic Daos such as Ruination and Primordial are excluded from the effects of this skill. Cost of Skill Creation:
130,000,000,000

A glorious method of obtaining Cosmic Daos was born on this day, Noah thinking he was lacking in an area as he sought to get stronger!
