Chapter 1121 - What Would You Do?! II

A destruction of a Dimension with a blink of their eyes!

Such an action gave a glimpse of the power of Primordials as when Noah heard it, his eyes flashed with intense light!

"If I wasn't careful enough, they would have decimated everything I held dear as if I didn't have the tools that I have...the tools of the Great Usurper, even I wouldn't have survived."

...!

The words of the Antiquity caused many thoughts to swirl in Noah's mind as all he got from this was that this being was so much a cockroach that he survived against a killing strike of a Primordial.

Was it clones? Other bodies? Just what from this Great Usurper granted this being such capabilities?

But his questions would have to wait for later as the monologue of the Antiquity continued.

" I am growing my power and stretching across Cosmos and Dimensions to become capable enough to take on these terrifying beings, to be able to stand up to them as those gaze of looking at everything as if they were mere ants...I want to erase those gazes from their faces."

WAA!

"The Primordials took something else extremely important to me when I said no to them...they took the System they granted to me as months later, I've barely been able to re-establish a semblance of it!"

'Hmm?'

Noah's ears pricked up when he heard the mention of a System, but his words nonetheless came out calmly as he regularly checked his churning destiny and fortune.

"This seems more like a you problem. I have no issues with the Primordials. In fact, they just handed me a free Primordial Heart just now!"

His sharp words caused the Antiquity's eyes to shine sharply as after a few seconds passed, he posed a certain question.

"What System do you have? What made you who you are currently?"

"..."

What System did Noah have? Unlike the original inhabitants of the Dark Universe and Primordial Cosmos, his world stemmed with a game like system that allowed them to change the nature of their defeated enemies into Cores and skill books!

It was just the changing of their Origins and what they accumulated into their lives into other quantifiable forms, and this came in the form of Cores, skill books, and even skill points.

But all of it was made possible from Noah's homeworld utilizing the might of a Cosmic Treasure!

Even Noah's Infinite Mana...it began as a Trait that wasn't truly what its name said, with it being made possible through Noah drawing large amounts of Mana from the world he was connected to, and then later to the worlds and Galaxies he was connected to.

But thereafter...he actualized this Trait and made it something that didn't rely on anything- just purely the Trait and what its name stated!

But even this was also done with the aid of a Cosmic Treasure.

As he went through this thought process, Noah pondered of any outside influence aside from the one he knew...and came to a certain conclusion!

"I made me who I am, nothing else. All the tools I used, I only obtained through hard work and perseverance!"

"...so a pie didn't just fall from the sky and land on your lap? An undeserved cheat or system that made you exceed all others?"

"..."

The question of the Antiquity caused Noah to squint his eyes before he replied.

"I worked to make my strength to the stage that it is. Even the descent of the Primordial that handed me a Primordial Heart- it was through my actions that she was called down!"

"As for where I get my source of strength...nobody can take that away from me. Not even the Primordials."

WAA!

His figure was unconsciously bathed with a golden glow as he spoke, the Antiquity's consciousness sighing before it spoke out somberly.

"They already have their eyes on you. If you haven't become their tool, they will make you one. What will you do when they come to you exactly as they came to me? When they ask you to put your life on the line for them?"

"What would you do about the Primordial Beasts that want to devour Universes and Cosmos to return things to what they once were, or the Primordials that just want to expand their dominion and power across multiple realities?"

...!

Yes!

This was an important question to be pondered, and one that didn't have an easy answer!

Who should one side with?

There were the Primordial Beasts that were a force of nature, trying to unravel branching realities and return them to the Original one. But...this would mean the destruction of an uncountable number of Multiverses, Cosmos, and Dimensions as it was the deaths of beings numbers couldn't even begin to put into picture.

But that...was the natural order.

Then there were the Primordials that caused all of these branching realities in the first place, and to keep them active without being destroyed- they were battling the Primordial Beasts and even spreading out their influence across many Dimensions to raise Champions to withstand their enemies.

These existences didn't do this compassionately, but they did this to keep the 'lands' they controlled alive and well as they continued to reap the rewards of their dominion across a myriad of realities.

Against all of this...what choice would one even make?

"What I would do, huh? If that time ever comes..."

His body was suffused with a golden glow as he looked extremely domineering, and he was letting out a tyrannical light that seemed to oppress the surroundings!

"The Primordials that caused a myriad of branching realities, the Primordial Beasts that want to destroy these realities and bring things back to the natural order, and even the so called tools or Champions in between...no matter what is in play, all I have to do is put these existences under me."

RUMBLE!

"Whether it be the Beasts, Champions, or Primordials...I will just dominate them and put them all under my feet. Then, I can be the one to decide how things will go. That will naturally solve all problems."

...!

Ah!

Chapter 1122 - NOAH! I

"Whether it be the Beasts, Champions, or Primordials...I will just dominate them and put them all under my feet. Then, I can be the one to decide how things will go. That will naturally solve all problems."

...!

Ah!

As Noah said these words, his Primordial Ruination Clone in the Ruination Realm briefly stopped absorbing the Primordial Heart as he looked within himself at the Cosmic Treasure that was lying peacefully in his Origin.

Even though he loved to talk big, a portion of him still felt the words of the Antiquity had some truth in them. The Cosmic Treasure could be considered an undeserved cheat and a deserved one at the same time as he had obtained the first piece without doing anything, but had used his own power to collect the rest of the Tools of Ruination and complete it.

When he first awakened, his blank [Focus] was also a pie falling from the sky that others didn't have, but even the World Core itself mentioned that this was all random occurrence!

That he wasn't somehow chosen as if he were special.

But with the knowledge of beings sharing his name actually stemming from Primordials, was that truly the case?

We're things being steered by destiny and fate even without the knowledge of the World Core and Noah?

"Haaa..."

Noah's Primordial Ruination Clone sighed deeply within the Ruination Realm as he focused on the Primordial Heart within his hands again.

Even though they were stupendous treasures, when Noah thought about the larger picture of undeserved things and Primordials, the glow of these treasures dimmed just a little!

'Arrogance and confidence is good, I guess I could learn to be just a bit more humble with all that I've gained...'

This thought crossed his mind as he continued to calculate a myriad of things, going back to absorbing the Primordial Heart as billions of galaxies were already filling his second Universe!

The Antiquity heard the domineering words from Noah as his cerulean blue eyes trembled, his gaze that was reaching across Cosmos shaking as he saw the unbridled confidence and belief in the eyes of this being!

As he saw such conviction, he couldn't help but shake his head as he uttered out unconsciously.

"Madman..."

Yes!

Who else but a madman could say with belief that he could put Primordials that could cause the destruction of entire Dimensions with a blink of their eyes under their control?

Who could say they would put under their feet Primordial Beasts that devoured entire Universes and Comos?!

Or the tools of Primordials that held terrifying power and Systems that they reigned supreme in their Dimensions?

"..."

As this Antiquity thought about all this, his eyes couldn't help but inexplicably land on Noah again.

"I see..."

At this moment, he felt something click in his mind as he realized that after his meeting with the Primordials and the shocking strength they could display, he had inadvertently looked towards them as if they were some insurmountable wall.

He had unconsciously put a block in his mind as even though he was rising in strength rapidly, he always felt like he was behind and still so extremely weak!

'But...only a few months have passed. I've been rushing too much. With my capabilities and restructured system...I can be just as confident to do what this being believes he can do!'

WAA!

'But this being...he is too unique!'

The eyes of the Antiquity still focused on Noah as he could still see the unique light of dominance and confidence, a domineering light that seemed to draw everything towards it.

Seeing such a thing, his voice from his consciousness in the Abyssal Universe couldn't help but reach out.

"Just...just who are you?"

"..."

As his glowing eyes reigned in the glorious light of conquest and domination, Noah glanced forward calmly as he spoke out.

"Noah. Noah Osmont."

RUMBLE!

"Get the fuck out...what?" The Antiquity was in a stupor as his voice rang out, the surprise in it evident as he couldn't help but ask again!

"Are you serious?"

And the reply from Noah came as he looked in front of him as if he could actually see the expression of the Antiquity even though he was only a consciousness at this moment.

"Yes...you're not..."

Across Dimensions, the Antiquity shook his head in an exasperated manner as he spoke out with utter incredulity.

"Fucking ridiculous...I am Noah! Noah Eckert!"

A lull of silence descended at this moment as neither side spoke!

"..."

The figure of Noah paused at this time, incredulous at the situation around him as he spoke out unconsciously.

"Before...you mentioned the words to be or not to be. You wouldn't have happened to hear that from an English playwright..."

WAA!

The consciousness of the Antiquity buzzed at Noah's words as his reply came before Noah even finished!

"...the poet from the UK that they focused too much on in school..."

...!

Silence pervaded in the surroundings again.

No side spoke at this moment.

The reality of branching parallel timelines and concepts that the Antiquity had just been talking about finally fully delved into Noah's mind at this moment as they became very real!

A whole minute passed as no side spoke, each one lost in their own thoughts!

"Haaa..."

Noah sighed again at this juncture as he looked up around him seconds later and had his voice stretch out calmly.

"Ok. Alright. It's something we can discuss later. Let's get to the root of our current reality first. Destiny seems to say that there lies some stupendous benefits for me when it comes to associating with you, and it's the only reason I even bothered to speak to you in the first place."

"For you to be so proactive, I guess it's the same on your side. Primordials and Primordial Beasts...and even the Champions that they control. When it comes to this...we can cooperate in some form!"

WAA!

Noah's voice was firm as he thought of many things, not entirely turning down this being that he ridiculously shared the same first name with as a thin and shaky connection began to form at this moment!

Chapter 1123 - NOAH! II

The reply from Noah caused an eruption of fortune both from him and a certain Antiquity that was located far across Dimensions, both of these beings monitoring this situation closely as the consciousness of the Antiquity spoke out.

"We'll need a way to communicate. This consciousness will fade away entirely soon, and I won't be able to reach out into this Dimensions again unless there is a medium."

The voice seemed to be searching for something when it was speaking, changing entirely to a quizzical tone next.

"The medium in the past was Chronos...where is that guy?"

"Oh?" Noah raised his head towards the question of the Antiquity as he smiled lightly.

"That guy? I locked him in a time prison since I have some plans for him later. For him to be a medium across Dimensions, did it have something to do with his Dao of Reincarnation?"

...!

Noah hit the nail of the head as the Antiquity was surprised, shaking his head wryly with his real body as his consciousness in the Abyssal Universe looked pitifully at the Oathkeeper and the 12 locked Hegemonies beside him.

"These guys and Chronos were really fighting against a guy with a cheat-like system and didn't know it...no wonder everything was such a mess."

The voice of the Antiquity was that of pity as when Noah picked it up, his brows perked up as he spoke out quizzically.

"Don't forget you were above them, it was your loss too."

...!

The Antiquity nearly choked from this as his rumbling voice shot back. "Well...just a small setback for me as I lost a Subjugated Antiquity. But yes, if you can somehow obtain The Dao of Reincarnation, just enter a half dead state and you should be able to see your timeline."

"My authority has spread into this Cosmos and timeline enough that I'll be able to sense you with my unique abilities when you do, and we can discuss more things then."

Gradually the voice of the Antiquity was filled with conviction, this being having figured something out during their conversation!

Noah nodded to his words as he saw his Destiny and Fortune settling down, where he had already sown certain seeds as he would wait for them to bloom and see exactly what would come out.

"Until then...I have some work to do."

His voice reached the Antiquity as their conversation came to an end, a possibility being planted at this moment as the consciousness of the being Noah shared a similar name to began to fade away.

"I'll be waiting to hear from you soon...Noah!"

THRUM!

With a transparent flash of light, Noah felt a pressure be lifted as the consciousness of the Antiquity was now gone!

Far across Dimensions, the scene that this Antiquity could see also faded away, his eyes only seeing the expanse of white coldness around him as his cerulean blue eyes flashed beautifully.

The existence made of ice beside him saw he was done as she spoke with a smile.

"How long will you be staying this time?"

The voice seemed to be tinged with happiness and sadness, causing the Great Usurper to let out a light smile at this as he patted her head and replied.

"I won't be going anywhere for a while. We'll take some time to reinforce our strength and plan. Maybe we won't be alone in this battle...."

With such words, the red haired woman made of particles of ice smiled brightly as she nodded.

"Un!"

In the Ruination Realm.

Noah's Primordial Ruination Clone had already finished absorbing the first Primordial Heart as he was halfway through the second one, and he came to a halt at this moment as he gazed within his Origin.

There, he could see 4 beautifully swirling Universes as one was a complete Splendiferous Universe, two being normal complete ones with 100 Billion Galaxies each, and the 4th one being a Universe that only had 10 Billion Galaxies within it!

The 25% remainder of the first Heart and 50% of the second one had actually been enough to grant Noah two complete normal Universes and begin on the fourth one! He could have continued at this moment as he forged another 2 or 3 Universes, but he actually came to a stop.

This was because he was thinking further ahead about a few things, his mind focused on the Primordial Cosmos and the task of the Quintillions of beings he had brought into the Dark Universe.

When it pertained to the Primordial Cosmos...he was thinking of his newly gained Vassal that was the strongest Hegemony within it...and also the being with a Cosmic Treasure!

He had been debating what to do with this being that had sworn Fealty to him...as well as his Cosmic Treasure. At this moment, he had made a decision as he entirely stopped the absorption of the Primordial Heart and put it into his [Expansive Space].

Thereafter, the figure of the Primordial Ruination Clone disappeared from the Ruination Realm as it instantly teleported into the Abyssal Universe!

The clone arrived right before the Oathkeeper as the figures of the Blue Slimes and the normal Clone in the surroundings faded away with a spatial light.

Noah stared at the old existence that had lived for millions of years as he spoke out with a light smile.

"As the being helping maintain order in the Primordial Cosmos and affecting a vast number of quintillions...how many Dao Galaxies do you currently have, Oathkeeper?"

His question was one that no expert would tell another, but the Oathkeeper actually gazed at Noah with placid golden eyes as he replied right after!

"Over 60 Billion Dao Galaxies."

RUMBLE!

His voice was steady as Noah's eyes flashed grandly when he heard it.

This being had not wasted his millions of years, especially so with the fact that he was one of the strongest beings in the Cosmos!

Even if he hadn't been able to do something like Noah and create a Lesser Dao that allowed him to literally control and closely influence all the existences within Universes, Oathkeeper had still acted out a major role all these years.

As he affirmed this, Noah gave a brilliant smile while he waved his hands and caused the appearance of a glimmering Primordial Heart!

"Based on recent events, we could have a terrifying Primordial Beast attack at any moment. The Primordial Cosmos needs powerful protectors...and I won't strip you away from that position!"

WAA!

Yes! Noah wouldn't snatch the Primordial Disk in the hands of the Oathkeeper, instead planning on making this being and another one that were the best candidates closest to reaching Antiquity even more powerful! The other was, of course, the Blue Slime that was at 95 Billion Dao Galaxies and was even closer to Antiquity than nobody else!

Others would follow as he and the Blue Slime would just be the first.

The forces Noah was planning to raise to prominence were too stupendous and numerous, with his eyes already planning for a glorious future of these forces beginning to stretch their fingers across the Ruination Sea.

"But first..."

There was still the Primordial Cosmos! There were still many things to be done!

Chapter 1124 - A Universe Aspiring To Become A Cosmos! I

A uniquely shining Primordial Heart floated above Noah's palm as the Oathkeeper's gaze inadvertently locked onto it.

He wasn't the only one as the Hegemonies of the Primordial Cosmos were watching these scenes from afar, none of these beings having even had the chance to help to contribute anything with how things had rapidly progressed!

Currently, the most astounding moment had come as the being that was a Paragon just moments ago had now become an Antiquity and had just appeared with the pulsating Heart he was given not too long ago, seemingly about to hand it to the Oathkeeper!

But at this moment, a miniaturized Blue Slime just a few inches in diameter appeared beside the valiant figure of the Oathkeeper, Noah giving a light smile at this guy as the Slime made sure to call dibs first on the remaining Primordial Heart before anyone else!

Noah nodded towards the true body of the Blue Slime as a blue tentacle shot from it, wrapping around the Primordial Heart as a resplendent glow erupted out from the process of absorption beginning.

The Blue Slime was already an Apocryphal Antiquity as he had begun to form a second Universe, but it seemed the true authority of an Antiquity was always given after one completed the first full Splendiferous Universe!

After the constant Devouring of the Universal Constructs with the authority of the...being that shared a similar name to Noah, the Slime now only had 5 Billion Galaxies to be changed into Dao Galaxies, the soft glow of the Primordial Heart flowing into him as this process ensued.

THRUM!

A cerulean glow flashed out as it drew the eyes of the Hegemonies from all around, the unique phenomenon of a being stepping into the ranks of Antiquity actually playing out right before their eyes as they couldn't not pay attention!

The Origin of the Blue Slime shone with an iridescent glow in the next few seconds as a few billion Dao Galaxies bloomed, the Origin vibrating in resonance soon after as a full 100 Billion Dao Galaxies now flowed within it.

WAA!

The aura of the Blue Slime gradually changed as it became even more oppressive, but it's cerulean eyes flashed with light as it didn't get drunk on the feeling of absorption of the Primordial Heart, the tentacles it released letting this treasure go as it floated towards Noah.

Noah himself watched the scene of the birth of another genuine Antiquity with a smile, simply nodding towards the Oathkeeper to absorb the Primordial Heart next as after some slight hesitation...this ancient being hardened his resolve and went forward!

The vast numbers of Hegemonies were looking at the incredulous scenes occurring within the Abyssal Universe in shock as they didn't even dare to approach at this moment!

The sequence of events just had too many shocking results as from an Antiquity descending because of Chronos and the Goliath along with many others Hegemonies seeking a method to achieve it themselves...all the way to this moment where these Hegemonies were missing or dead along with the Antiquity they called down.

Instead, the Apex Paragon that had shown shocking prowess was the one to inexplicably rise to Antiquity along with his Blue Slime, and now the aura of the Oathkeeper was changing as well as this being also went towards the same direction!

It was a truly ridiculous sight as the ones who were trying to prevent the descent of Antiquity were the ones to actually obtain Antiquity in the end, those searching for it like Chronos and The Goliath missing out...

The Great Old Nazzagath looked at this scene with eyes that flashed with intense light, recalling the words of the Apex Paragon that was now an Antiquity.

'Fealty...is that what Oathkeeper has now done? Just that and given the chance to advance to Antiquity?'

The thoughts of the Ancient Chthonian were his own as he and many others watched the scene before them in wonder!

They watched as the golden wings and aura around the Oathkeeper expanded rapidly after he began to absorb the Primordial Heart, his eyes shooting out majestically beams of light as he bellowed out like the primal ancient being that he was.

"OOOOOH!"

This bellow was followed by the continued rapid conversion of normal Galaxies into Dao Galaxies as every few seconds, billions would be added as this being put together the less than 40 billion that he needed for Antiquity.

The scene was one of utter wonder and awe as nobody could take their eyes off of it, even the Hegemonies counting the number of converged Galaxies as after a few minutes...they neared the complete 100 Billion just like the Blue Slime moments ago.

The surrounding space shook as a golden glow washed over the Oathkeeper, his entire body being covered seemingly with liquid gold when the 100th Billion Dao Galaxy was reached, rays of light stretching from him as if he was breaking out of a cocoon and becoming something else!

RUMBLE!

After the golden waves of power settled down, the figure of the Oathkeeper became visible again as the eyes of the Hegemonies trembled when they saw him.

He didn't have the usual pair of wings, this existence currently having three pairs of shimmering golden wings behind him as he had grown to be nearly 4 meters, his body fully suffused with a golden glow as he looked like a primal creature gracing lower world's with his presence!

Noah looked at such a scene and nodded as he sent multiple mental messages to the Oathkeeper, the figures of his Primordial Clone and the Blue Slime disappearing soon after.

All that was left behind...was the newly risen Antiquity and 12 white eggs that contained Hegemonies that worked with Chronos, the Oathkeeper glancing at these prisons made of Primordial Essence as he then glanced towards the Hegemonies that didn't dare approach before.

"Come. It is time for healing and restructuring!"

THRUM!

His commanding voice reached the Hegemonies as it raised them out of their stupor, Great Old Nazzagath and the others moving into the Abyssal Universe at this moment!

Chapter 1125 - A Universe Aspiring To Become A Cosmos! II

In the Dark Universe.

Noah's main body watched the appearance of his Primordial Ruination Clone along with the Blue Slime with calm eyes, a crimson object that was the Cosmic Treasure leaving the chest of his clone and landing onto his hands at this moment!

He held on tenderly to the Treasure as he spoke towards the bubbling figure of the Blue Slime that came and sat on his head.

"What do you want to do with the rest of the Hegemonies of the Primordial Cosmos? If you want to devour them for their actions towards your Race..."

"..."

The bubbly Blue Slime was actually silent when Noah asked, only speaking out moments later with a low tone.

"What has occurred in the past can't be changed. I know the being responsible and have devoured nearly all of those that worked with him...and I'll also devour Chronos myself whenever you finish with him!"

WAA!

"Besides, even though I lost all of my race...I was able to find you and everyone else...so it's ok."

...!

The Blue Slime said the last words as they could barely be heard by those around him, seemingly embarrassed as the bubbly body remained still and closed its eyes above Noah's head!

"You..."

Noah smiled towards the slime atop him as he shook his head, his heart feeling a sense of warmth he wouldn't have thought would come from an existence like this.

Seeing how the slime would budge no matter how much he poked, Noah left the embarrassed being alone and focused on what was on his hands.

He looked at the Cosmic Treasure with a sharp smile as his current essence of a being in the Universal Filament Realm flowed into it, the Cosmic Treasure buzzing with happiness as in a short period of time... its Master had broken through two Realms!

From Galactic Filament to Universal Realm, and now into the Universal Filament Realm as when Noah entered this level...the Cosmic Treasure could be utilized even more as its features were expanded and enhanced to another level.

First off was the stupendous clone before Noah, its strength being something he could hardly believe as its boosts just continued to become more and more immense!

[Primordial Ruination Clone] :: Out of the innumerable number of creatures in the vast Cosmos, there are a few whose bodies uniquely rise above all others. The Primordial Ruination Clone is a? feature that only the Master of RUINATION can utilize, allowing them to forge a Primordial Ruination Clone from the very essence of Ruination. As a creature made from the very essence of a Cosmic Dao, it has a +300,000% Increase in the speed of progression through the Realms of Power, +300,000% Increase in the Comprehension and Assimilation of all Daos, can display 500% of the strength of the Master of Ruination, along with its power increased by 3000% when in the Ruination Sea. It can seamlessly utilize the abilities of [Miniature Ruination Rupture Generation], [Instantaneous

Universal Teleportation], [Ruination Essence Skill Conversion and Amplification], [Sword of Ruination], [Cosmic Chains of Ruination],? and [Universal Budding], [@$%@$%]...

It's percentage boosts were further enhanced as along with this, Noah's advancement into the Universal Filament Realm opened up another feature.

It was the feature that was termed [Universal Budding]!

[Universal Budding] :: With the sacrifice of a Universe from the Origin of the Master of Ruination, a genuine Universe under the control of the Master of Ruination will be born.

"..."

A fantastical ability.

The capability to sacrifice one's own Universe for a genuine one, something that could only be made possible when Noah himself stepped into the Universal Filament Realm as it was only here when he could afford to sacrifice Universes!

What a fantastical treasure RUINATION was!

Noah had many thoughts when he first saw this ability, with an array of possibilities on how to utilize it. Many of these possibilities actually related more to his Universal Core!

There were a myriad of Treasures around Noah, as well as what one would consider his most prized possession, or what could be considered most unique.

When it came to this...it actually wasn't the Cosmic Treasure RUINATION. It was definitely unique and overpowered by its own right, but there was another Cosmic Treasure at its level within this same Primordial Cosmos.

But one thing that Noah hadn't found any others have and the thing that continued to uniquely advance without stopping...was the Universal Core of his Dark Universe!

The unique treasure that was once a floating Spiritual Land and had gone on to become a Spiritual World and Galaxy, with Noah even granting it the term [Infinite] next to it due it's ceaseless possibilities of expansion.

Currently, this Unique Treasure was a Universe as after all this time...Noah wanted to be able to see it advance into a Filament of Universes as it went towards becoming a Cosmos!

This was because one may not consciously think about it...but this unique treasure was also one of Noah's strongest weapons.

It still had the myriad of features of [Size Dilation], [Offensive Maneuvers], [World Integration], [Froze Barrier],[Assimilation]...and many more!

Due to extra caution and not really needing to, Noah had not been using the unique treasure as a weapon recently as if ever he did...the reality to play out would be a shocking one as even he didn't know what would happen.

If he condensed the entire Dark Universe into an object that could fit into his hands with Size Regulation and then used Offensive Maneuvers to throw an entire Universe onto an enemy as a weapon, just what would happen?!

Furthermore, when he upgraded it to a Universal Filament or even a Cosmos....just who would be able to withstand having an entire Cosmos thrown at them?

Could a being handle such a ridiculous concept?!

There were so many things and possibilities associated with this treasure that Noah couldn't wait to see how everything would play out, and he was making the moves to ensure he could see this future at this very moment.

One of the ways to upgrade the Universal Core was to introduce 100 Quintillion existences into it. The number had currently spilled over 60 Quintillion as Noah could go around the Primordial Cosmos to obtain the remaining amount whenever he wished, but there was also another way to go about this!

The first method was the [Universal Budding] that had just appeared from the Cosmic Treasure....and then there was the method that utilized the Primordial Cosmos!

Chapter 1126 - A Universe Aspires To Become A Cosmos! III

Multiple methods existed before Noah as he could choose any of them to achieve the goal of taking the Dark Universe and have it begin forming Universal Filaments!

The [Universal Budding] method would require him to sacrifice one of the newly made Universes within his Origin as he could do this...but why do such a thing when there was a perfectly situated Primordial Cosmos before him?

A Cosmos filled with Universes that were just affected by the Universal Amalgamation and were currently empty...a Cosmos that had a myriad of other Universes filled with countless Quintillions of creatures!

At this moment, Noah had turned his eyes towards this Cosmos as he had already begun the preparations.

For this, he of course talked to Oathkeeper that held the Primordial Disk and knew much more about the Primordial Cosmos than anyone else, with Noah letting this being wrap up the imprisoning of the Goliath and others before he would follow him to speak to a certain consciousness!

"A Cosmos...."

Noah couldn't help but utter out such words as he looked around him, at his subordinates below that were gazing up at him and even further from them, the countless existences that he had brought from the Primordial Cosmos into this Universe.

Then there were the natives of this Dark Universe whose lives continued to be inexplicably changed everyday...the quality and way of living in the Dark Universe being something that others could only imagine!

In a small, nondescript corner of the Dark Universe.

A small world rotated slowly around a star system with a sun at its very center, creating a serene scene of the starry space.

But at this moment, one would be surprised to see the figure of a mischievous young boy that didn't seem older than 8...actually fly out of the small world and into the starry space!

Yes! A young boy that was barely 10 as he was still wiping his snot from his nose, his eyes shining brilliantly as he left the layers of his world and entered space while gazing up towards a far away sun.

Around his body, a unique source of power circulated around him as it caused this child to ignore the rules of space, being able to survive in such an environment indefinitely as his mischievous eyes made up his mind, his small body beginning to shoot towards the sun.

But before this child could get too far...

"Richard! How many times did I tell you to stay on the ground!"

RUMBLE!

Behind him, a furious bellow reverberated out as a figure shot towards the child as a streak of light, coming up behind him and grabbing his hand as it caused the mischievous child to be utterly frightened!

"Mom..."

The young boy was looking with fearful eyes towards the other hand of his mom that was holding a sandal that was ready to smash onto him at any moment.

His mom looked at him with eyes of anger as she spoke out while pulling him back to their World.

"What were you doing now?"

The gaze of the mischievous child was downcast as if they were caught doing something they shouldn't have, his voice coming out slowly.

"I just...wanted to grab some more sunlight and bring it close to our garden. I thought the plants would be happier..."

...!

"You stupid little...!"

With a flash of light, the figure of mother and child returned back to their world as routinely, one could see other figures leave the small world and fly about across the stars...this shocking reality only made possible by a single being!

All of these existences so freely flying about in space whether they were children or adults could only do so due to the fact that they held 5% of Noah's current level of power!

This was one of the best ways to describe just how ridiculous this was, as at this level...this power had far surpassed the Void Rank that one needed to freely cross the void of space.

It made possible for shocking realities that only the inhabitants of the Dark Universe could experience!

The inhabitants of the Dark Universe obtained such stupendous power from Noah, his 5% making it easy for so many things that we could hardly cover the many variable consequences it held.

Noah understood this well as he used his role as the Emperor of his Vassals to instill in their souls that the stupendous power they obtained from him would not be used to harm one another maliciously in any way!

Under such commands...the Vassals could only follow.

There wouldn't be scenes of children or problematic beings destroying cities or worlds, or anything of the sort as deep within their souls, any of such actions were prohibited before they were even carried out.

But these beings could use this power to spar with each other and delve into the wondrous Dungeons that were constantly still being produced across the Dark Universe, obtaining Cores and skill books to further elevate their ranks as a unique reality was formed in the Dark Universe.

It was a reality that one had to live and experience in order to fully understand it, and the newly brought in inhabitants of the Animus Universe, Automaton, Chthonian, Necrotic, and Euthenia Universes among a few were getting the chance to experience it first hand!

It was an inclusion of a myriad of Races, the 9 Supreme Bloodlines of the Animus Universe occupying a region of space by themselves due to their pride, but when they saw the power of every single being within this Universe and the game like System they could now also utilize...even these prideful beings began to come down and associate with the myriad of other Races within this Universe.

This could only be done in the period of the past day as all Races settled in and got to learn more about their new environment, where the future would fantastically have the friendly interactions of Robotic beings from the past Automaton Universe and the Abyssal Undead from the past Necrotic Universe!

This was just a single example as it would soon become common place to see the World Trees of the Euthenia Universe and the terrifying planetary sized Chthonians get to know each other, Noah inadvertently making an environment that even he himself didn't know just what a shocking result it would display!

But aside from the inhabitants living with this Universe...there was the Universe itself.

It also had goals and aspirations as at this moment...this Universe aspired to become a Cosmos!

Chapter 1127 - A Universe Aspires To Become A Cosmos! IV

A Universe aspiring to become a Cosmos!

This was actually a reality playing out as after the fusion with Noah's unique treasure, the Universe was much more autonomous as many things were done even without Noah's input.

The use of the feature of [Architecture] to design new structures,? worlds, and Galaxies that would uniquely suit the races from the Automaton, Animus...and all the other Universes.

Where to establish Universal Law Spaces and Dao Spaces that were filled with unique and bountiful concentrations of the essence of some Daos.

Even the features of [Frozen Barrier] for defense and [Offensive Maneuvers] for offense...the Universe could autonomously do it while borrowing from Noah's unlimited mana reserves!

After all this time, this Universe aspired to achieve even greater stages as it let its thoughts be known to Noah.

Noah already had many things in play, putting away the wondrous Cosmic Treasure he was playing with as it sank into the chest of his main body, the Primordial Ruination Clone flashing away with a spatial light as only he and the Blue Slime were left behind in the skies.

"Come on."

He had a light smile on his face as he glanced below him, his figure beginning to descend towards the figures of Valentina, Barbatos, Emperor Penguin, and many others.

"Ready?"

Noah's Primordial Ruination Clone reappeared in the Abyssal Universe, glancing at the many Hegemonies that were hauling away the imprisoned existences that followed Chronos and the Goliath.

The Oathkeeper nodded with a somber expression as his six wings vibrated powerfully, the Primordial Disk appearing within his hands as it pulsed with a pristine white essence.

BZZZT!

This essence built up at a rapid rate within his hands as after a few seconds, it released a ray of white light that shattered the very void near them, a white crack in space forming as it led to a special location!

Noah looked at this scene with shining eyes as the Oathkeeper kept his somber expression, looking towards Noah with a myriad of thoughts as this being had only asked him of a single thing.

Noah had told the Oathkeeper that he wouldn't ask too much of him in the future...with the main thing he wanted now being his help in locating the consciousness of...the Primordial Cosmos!

The place where the most Primordial Essence was congregated, and the location that only the existence with the Primordial Disk and Comprehension in the Primordial Dao could get to.

This was where the crack in space led to.

Noah had an impassive expression as he stepped into it, the figure of the Oathkeeper following closely behind as the moment they entered, the crack disappeared as only a few Hegemonies were left in the surroundings.

The moment that Noah stepped through this crack though, he felt an extremely suffocating and oppressive force descending onto him from all sides, the area he arrived in being filled with sea of the Primordial Essence!

If the cool down of his [Cosmic Dao Essence Integration and Emergence] had already finished, this would be the most wondrous place for him to quickly integrate the Primordial Dao just with the sheer amount of it in the surroundings.

The Oathkeeper was looking at Noah carefully at this moment as he knew he could survive due to understanding the Primordial Dao, but what about Noah?

His questions didn't last long as in a moment, a red glow surrounded Noah's Primordial Ruination Clone as in the seas of whiteness, a beautiful crimson light appeared as the being releasing this light...spoke slowly.

"I came to seek an audience with the consciousness of this Cosmos."

RUMBLE!

His voice was neither servile nor overbearing, Noah keeping an impassive expression as the Oathkeeper shook his head off to the side!

He had come here many times in the past, even more recently just within the last days to seek guidance on what he should do against the schemes of Chronos and the approaching Antiquity.

He had received no answers as this was one of the reasons he wasn't averse to bringing Noah here when he asked!

If even the Holder of the Primordial Disk who comprehended the very essence that supported the Cosmos couldn't get an answer, why would another being that seemed to have the Cosmic Dao directly opposed to it get an answer?

But...

<You came.>

WAA!

...!

The eyes of the Oathkeeper nearly popped out with incredulity as a monotone but ancient voice reverberated around them!

This...

He had gotten an answer the first time he came?!

Turbulent emotions flew around the Oathkeeper's heart at such a scene, this ancient being keeping his face expressionless even though he was aggrieved inside.

Noah looked around the vast white Primordial Sea he was in as he spoke out slowly.

"You speak as if you were expecting me?"

The question was one that made Noah curious, especially after talking to another being with his name that spoke a great deal about puppets and existences moving on the palms of others!

<The existence that ultimately saved the Dark Universe from complete destruction. I could not sustain it any longer from such a distance, and I sensed and felt it when you changed the nature of the Universe into something else before the Ruination Sea ripped it apart.>

...!

Oathkeeper looked towards Noah in shock at such words, many things finally clicking into place within his mind as the voice continued to resound out.

<Your visit here has to do with the Dark Universe.>

The Ancient monotone voice reverberated out as it stated Noah's possible purpose without question!

Noah scratched his head as he smiled lightly while voicing out.

"Yes, this has everything to do with the Dark Universe. The Universe wants to rejoin with its Cosmos as the times are rapidly changing, with terrifying threats never faced before on the horizon as Primordial Beasts intent on erasing entire realities could arrive at any moment!"

THRUM!

"The process of rejoining the Cosmos though...will be something that requires the Dark Universe to assimilate the myriad of Universes within this Primordial Cosmos. For the purpose-"

<There is no need for explanation or games.>

...!

Before Noah could even finish his words, he was actually interrupted by the Ancient monotone voice as it continued emotionlessly!

<The broken off Dark Universe still stemmed from me, with most of its memories being accessible. I know of the unique treasure and methods in your hands, so there is no need for games. It will be a great Undertaking that will take some time...so let's get started right away.>

RUMBLE!

Noah felt his heart shaking as a moment later, a deep smile appeared on his face! He....truly liked how some of these consciousnesses went about doing things!

Chapter 1128 - The Glorious Light Of Assimilation! I

In a unique space filled with vast amounts of Primordial Essence.

The Oathkeeper was looking between Noah and the vast space around him as after holding himself back for so long, he spoke out.

"I'm sorry...the Assimilation of this Cosmos with a single Universe?"

His voice let his incredulity be known as Noah allowed the surprise from the words of the ancient voice to fade as he nodded toward the Oathkeeper.

"If the consciousness of the Primordial Cosmos already understands everything...then I will just get things started."

WAP!

Without so much an another explanation, Noah's eyes gazed towards a faraway direction from the space he was in, his gaze seemingly capable of peering through the layers of space and gazing out from the Universes of the Primordial Cosmos all the way into the vast Ruination Sea roiling outside of it.

Within this Ruination Sea...there was a single Universe countless light-years wide that was floating peacefully.

At this moment...this Universe began to actually move, and it was moving at a high speed at that as it seemed like a rapidly mobile object more than a grand stellar structure!

It was making its way towards the Primordial Cosmos as since it was already close, the process would take a short period of time before the outer boundary of the Universe would come near the Cosmos.

Around this same time, Noah's main body in the Dark Universe flew away from his subordinates as he went towards the core area of the Universal Core.

"Wait, what exactly are you doing now?"

Valentina couldn't help but ask as Noah just flew up while saying he had to do something real quick, Noah only turning around to give a light smile as his reply came nonchalantly.

"I'm just beginning the process of assimilating the Universes of the Primordial Cosmos into my Dark Universe. When all of it is done...a new Cosmos should be born."

RUMBLE!

In a nonchalant manner, Noah said this as his figure disappeared a second later!

Valentina looked towards the area he disappeared from in a stupor as this Hegemony had to repeat his words over and over again just to try and comprehend what he meant.

"Did he just say...assimilate the Primordial Cosmos?"

She spoke out in disbelief and near her, the vivacious figure of Barbatos glanced towards Valentina while shaking her head, her sonorous voice ringing out.

"Just sit back and enjoy the show. I told you before...don't try to understand what this guy is doing or how he does it, you'll sleep much better at night!"

...!

The figures of Adelaide, Kazuhiko, Steel Mikhail, Emperor Penguin...a myriad of beings familiar with Noah nodded their heads at Barbatos's words in agreement as Valentina looked back and forth from them as if they were crazy.

This guy just said he was going to assimilate a Cosmos? Why was everyone taking it with such easy strides?! Such a thing shouldn't even be possible!

But no matter the possibility of it or not...even as some of his own people were left flabbergasted, Noah proceeded forward as the figure of his main body with the Cosmic Treasure RUINATION appeared at the deepest parts of the Universal Core.

Here, dense amounts of Ruination Essence freely pulsed and undulated as this was the essence that kept this Universe together, being directly replenished by the Ruination Sea outside as it was a nigh endless source of energy!

Within this innermost area of the Universal Core, Noah sat down in a meditative position as his Cosmic Treasure began to pulse wondrously, resonating with the Universal Core as everything began to vibrate.

This was because at this moment, Noah was initializing the feature of [Assimilation] as the Dark Universe neared the boundary of the Primordial Cosmos!

He was accounting for many things to their utmost as with the Dark Universe already near the Cosmos, it reached its boundaries within seconds as the Universe closest to it...was the Microbial Universe.

If one could accurately portray what was occurring in the Ruination Sea, it would be akin to a single pulsating circular mass coming close to a coagulation of circular masses closely interconnected together and wrapped up by a single powerful circular barrier!

A single circle...approaching and about to come in contact with a myriad of circles enclosed in a single larger one that represented the boundaries of multiple Universes and the boundary that surrounded them that made up a Cosmos!

A hidden light of gold and blue mixed in with red began to shine out from the core of this single pulsating circular mass as Noah and the Universal Core were the origin of it, this being the light of the feature of Assimilation that could fuse things of similar nature to the Dark Universe.

To observe everything carefully and make sure that nothing was out of place, Noah had his main body with the Cosmic Treasure overseeing things from the end of the Dark Universe, and the Primordial Ruination Clone in the depths of the Primordial Cosmos that could only be entered with another Cosmic Treasure.

After all of this was in place...Noah's eyes in the depths of the Universal Core breathed out calmly as he spoke out.

"Let it begin then."

RUUMBLE!

The boundary of the Dark Universe came in contact with the thin transparent boundary of the Primordial Cosmos.

This boundary...did not repulse or stop the advancement of the Dark Universe as it actually allowed it to go through- and this was only because Noah had talked to the consciousness of the Primordial Cosmos as it allowed for this!

This meant that the boundary of the Dark Universe came in contact with and smashed into the boundary of the Microbial Universe as at their point of impact...a glorious light suffused between them.

It was the light that held the colors of gold, blue, and red as it shone in a fantastical manner, this light having wrapped around the entirety of the Dark Universe as at this moment...it was spread to cover the boundary of the Microbial Universe as well!

It was the glorious light of Assimilation that meant the fusion of a myriad of Universes was now starting!

THRUM!

Chapter 1129 - The Glorious Light Of Assimilation! II

Noah observed all of this closely with all of his bodies as there was a terrifying thought in his mind as he was looking at the grand process about to begin.

As he looked at the Dark Universe begin to assimilate a portion of the Primordial Cosmos, Noah thought of the future.

He thought of this Primordial Cosmos before him, and the myriad of Cosmos within this branch of reality that lay out there in the Ruination Sea.

He was about to assimilate and bind the Primordial Cosmos to him as his thoughts actually also veered towards the other Cosmos within the vast Ruination Sea. He...actually began to have the grand designs of even possibly binding these Cosmos to him!

If he could assimilate the Cosmos across the vast Ruination Sea, every single one of them at that...would it be possible for him to bind this whole branching reality? This whole Dimension?!

RUMBLE!

The thought even caused his own heart to tremble at the sheer grandness of it, and it also expressed immense possible danger as if he did such a thing, it would mean he would be encroaching on the dominion of the Primordials as they were the ones that benefitted from spreading their influence across branching realities.

He would be making himself an enemy of existence that had live for who knew how many years and had so much power to even allow what was currently happening possible!

But the prospects of it...Noah couldn't help but think of this over and over again.

Not just the myriad of Cosmos within this branching reality, but what of the innumerable number of realities out there? What of the Original reality that all of this stemmed from?!

'Bind this Primordial Cosmos, then the myriad of other Cosmos, then this branching reality, and then...the myriad of infinite realities out there...!'

THUMP!

His heart and origin released a terrifying beat as such a thought crossed his mind, Noah shaking himself out of his stupor as he breathed out slowly.

'Slow down. Slow down.'

Every breath caused his beating heart to settle, his eyes becoming sharp as he tucked away shocking thoughts into the back of his mind and focused on the task ahead of him.

His main body had the Cosmic Treasure spinning beautifully as the Universal Core was the one putting in all the work, Noah acting as a conduit as he provided any additionally needed mana to facilitate the process that had ensued in full!

After the light of Assimilation touched the Microbial Universe, its boundary began to fade away at a rapid pace as the gold, blue, and crimson light went on to serenely cover it and cause the layers of this Universe to merge with the Dark Universe.

The first step was always the hardest, but when it succeeded...

RUUMBLE!

Everything else would fall into place.

The Universal Core vibrated as it began to expand rapidly, its deepest corners that held dense amounts of Ruination Essence at this moment actually brightening up as within it...Primordial Essence began to flow out!

When Noah changed the nature of the Dark Universe, there was barely any Primordial Essence left as it was easy to change its source to Ruination Essence.

But the Universes of the Primordial Cosmos he wanted to absorb had dense amounts of Primordial Essence supporting and surrounding them as in the process of Assimilation...the Universal Core would be bathed with Primordial Essence!

A mixture of Ruination and Primordial Essence.

A mixture of something unknown as it wasn't a process carried out before, even causing Noah to observe it closely as his Primordial Ruination Clone wanted to understand the true nature of the Primordial Essence that sustained the Primordial Cosmos and all of the Universes within it for all these years, this clone staring this question to the consciousness of the Primordial Cosmos as they observed the nigh complete successful assimilation of the first Universe.

"The Primordial Essence that sustains these Cosmos and its Universes...just where is it all coming from?"

A stupendous question that deserved an answer!

There was the vast and endless Ruination Sea that surrounded all the Cosmos, so one would wonder exactly how Cosmos could protect themselves indefinitely and sustain a myriad of Universes.

<All Cosmos have a unique access into the endless Primordial Sea hidden somewhere within our Reality. It is this sea that can cause the induction of new Cosmos...and it is this that makes it possible for Cosmos to freely float within the Ruination Sea.>

The ancient consciousness replied in a monotone fashion as magisterial bundles of information were released.

Noah took in all of this information and added it to what he already knew as he still needed to know more!

"The changed nature of a Universe to be sustained by Ruination Essence hasn't appeared before, much less for this Universe to begin assimilating other Universes that are sustained by Primordial Essence. I'm currently observing the changes right now but, it seems like the two essences are...harmoniously swimming around each other!"

RUMBLE!

His words talked of an impossible thing as even the ancient consciousness took a second before its words came out.

<There is no deviation to the process of Assimilation as of right now, the Microbial Universe should be fully fused.>

...

Yes! At this moment, the barrier separating the Microbial Universe from the Dark Universe entirely faded as it was akin to a big circle swallowing a smaller one, all of the contents within the smaller circle falling into the bigger one as the Dark Universe now contained the billions of Galaxies that were with the Microbial Universe!

Its core reflected this change as it was pulsating and shaking madly, expanding at a rapid pace as the more pressing thing was something that both Noah and the consciousness of the Primordial Cosmos was paying attention to.

It was the flood of Primordial Essence that had begun to permeate throughout the Universal Core that was now supporting not a single Universe, and it could instead be considered a Universal Cluster!

Amidst the dense reserves of Ruination Essence that was supporting the past Dark Universe, pristine white Primordial Essence began to permeate throughout as it caused both Noah and the consciousness of the Primal Cosmos to pay attention to this!

Chapter 1130 - A Cosmos Bound To Me! I

Elements that were of opposition nature were now swimming together peacefully in the Universal Core.

It reminded Noah of the powerful Primordial that had descended down not too long ago, this being commanding Primordial and Ruination essence with ease as one would wonder if they had entirely comprehended or assimilated these two Cosmic Daos!

Noah was observing such a scene occurring with the Universal Core right now as after the successful assimilation with the Microbial Universe, its inner depth had the vast reserves of Primordial Essence that this Universe used to have.

This Microbial Universe was actually very crucial as it now held a connection between both Noah's Universal Core and the Primordial Cosmos, making the next few steps extremely easy as it was like a chain reaction!

It was akin to dominoes falling as after the light of Assimilation covered the Microbial Universe and fused its boundaries with the Dark Universe completely, this light traveled at an even faster pace as it bathed the Necrotic and Euthenia Universes next.

THRUM!

Noah felt his Origin pulse with gorgeous light as more and more mana was drained from him to support the terrifying levels of expenditure currently taking place.

<It's not a fusion of the two essences...but they are respecting and flowing amidst each other.>

The voice of the consciousness of the Primordial Cosmos came out curiously as Noah also nodded, this being their verdict when they looked at the very center of the Universal Core where the two different types of essences were flowing together beautifully!

"Their activity is actually enhanced every time they cross paths...it is a positive feedback effect!"

But as the Master of the Universal Core, Noah was able to notice the minute differences within it as when he observed Ruination and Primordial Essence together, he saw that the two complimented each other as their opposing nature's allowed the power of each of them to be enhanced as they fought for dominance.

All in all...it just meant that the currently changing Universal Core was becoming much stronger and vibrant as the Assimilation of the Universes continued!

After the light of Assimilation covered the Necrotic and Euthenia Universes, the boundaries of these Universes fell apart soon after as their contents became connected to the Dark Universe. The Light of Assimilation was relentless as it continued further on into the Animus and then Automaton Universe, the process actually becoming faster and faster!

It felt like a well-oiled machine working at a rapid pace as its processing only became more vibrant, with Noah being the one to feel the most changes intimately as he could count every Universe that was being assimilated.

These actions...also had their consequences as what was currently happening was under Noah's instructions, with his authority actually being placed over multiple Universes every time that one was fully assimilated!

The ones that he already emptied out might not grant him a whole lot, but there were multiple other Universes within the Primordial Cosmos that Noah hadn't even been to that were filled with countless quintillions of creatures.

The number of Marks of Antiquity he would receive when he assimilated the Universes of all of these beings and then the entire Primordial Cosmos, not to mention when he utilized his Dao of Fealty to have them even more closely interconnected with him...the rewards were bound to be bountiful as Noah would be able to birth who knew how many more Splendiferous Universes!

As Noah carried out shocking actions in a corner of the Ruination Sea, many things were occurring elsewhere.

In a unique expanse of space that held vast clusters of swirling storms of Ruination and Primordial Essence.

The veiled figure of a certain existence that Noah and the others had seen not too long ago could actually be seen floating peacefully across such a dangerous region!

Her right hand was outstretched as one could actually see a fair palm coming out, this palm currently having an illusory figure of none other than Noah spinning on top of it!

"I felt the shockwaves of your destiny ripple across the Ruination Sea as you actually obtained my attention..."

WAA!

Her voice was extremely apathetic and as unemotional as it could be.

She was speaking to no particular being as this shocking Primordial moved across storms of Ruination and Primordial Essence, her voice continuing to ring out.

"...the question is whether you can actually keep it, little thing."

...!

She spoke as Noah's illusory figure continued to spin on top of her palm, her veiled figure gazing towards a certain direction as if she could peel the layers of space.

"I thought this branching reality already had a nearly completed champion that could defend it against any Primordial Beasts that arose...but this is certainly interesting."

Interesting! This was the only reason why this being had given Noah the Primordial Heart- because she thought he was an interesting variable to appear within this branching reality!

Within this branching reality, he wasn't even a champion as such a being had already been rising in a distant Cosmos, Noah's existence piquing the interest of the Primordial in this manner.

"The little Aegon of this reality is almost capable of completely withstanding against a Grand Primordial Beast...I should pay him another visit soon. As soon as he is completed, I can leave behind this reality and delve into the next one!"

RUMBLE!

Her soliloquy contained shocking amounts of information, this Primordial waving her other hand as within it, the image of a valiant man with sharp eyes could be seen, this being the existence she referred to when she spoke about Aegon.

"The Primordial and Ruination Seas hold countless secrets and unfathomable possibilities...so let us see what your limits will be, little thing."

...!

With these words, she seemed to have arrived at her destination as she waved her palm and caused both illusory figures to disappear, her gaze on a pulsing Rift that trembled with unstable Primordial and Ruination essence up ahead.

Without so much as a pause, her figure delved into it as she instantly disappeared!

So the tides of destiny continued to churn.

The vast and endless Sea of Ruination ebbed and flowed relentlessly as they held within them endless possibilities!
