Chapter 1151 - A ! III

The Daos that Noah was seeking to obtain through [Cosmic Dao Integration and Emergence] and even through a later Protagonist's Bookmark actually landed on his lap so simply as they were the Daos required to fuse to bring to light the Nomological Edict of Samsara.

WAA!

Their essence rotated gloriously within Noah's Origin as he felt his Comprehension of these 2 new foreign Daos clearly, their majesty not one bit lower than Chronos as these Daos, Destiny, and a myriad of laws went together to birth Samsara!

A Nomological Edict that granted Noah a Ten million percent increase in All Parameters while he had only traversed it by 10%.

There was no such thing as comprehension and assimilation for Nomological Edicts, one only being able to traverse them and bring them to completion once they entirely fused the required Daos and Laws.

The 30 seconds of Bookmark has granted Noah a mere 10% as even this was shocking enough, granting Noah a myriad of ridiculous boosts that continued to propel his strength to crazy levels, His Origin currently shaking madly from the sheer pressure that he alone released!

But aside from any boosts that this Nomological Edict provided...there was the most important feature that made it a true Edict.

The undeniable truth of someone binding their soul to their reality as for them...death was extremely hard to come by! Only those with other Edicts could interfere against them, and even those Edicts had to be opposing to be able to match and dispel the effects of another!

This was the true and most stupendous boost that Noah had received as aside from his Origin erupting with the brand new essences of Reincarnation and Extinction, his soul had begun to brighten up magisterially as he experienced a shocking phenomenon.

As if he was in the dark, his eyes brightened up as his consciousness was brought to an entirely new location. He saw an ever expanding whiteness as his eyes came to finally focus on the sight in front of him...and it was an endless river!

A vast river that churned forward endlessly as it contained a myriad of colors, this river releasing a shocking sense of might and awe as Noah's mind shook at the fact that the Primordial he had Bookmarked...had something similar to this.

Hers was vastly smaller, being even a few thousand times smaller...but!

He was shocked as from the knowledge he was currently receiving, this endless river before him represented the vast timeline of this reality, and it truly represented a Reality!

What he had seen within the Primordial's soul...it couldn't have been a stage of power that one could achieve, right?

The thoughts caused Noah's heart to shake as his surprises weren't over, his consciousness watching as he was drawn closer to the vast and endless multicolored river, his soul sinking into it seamlessly as at this moment...he felt as if he had been anchored to something.

He felt a feeling of utter stability and confidence, the most important effect of the Nomological Edict of Samsara being achieved at this moment.

One's soul being bound to a reality as death was hard for them to chase even if they wanted, and they could seamlessly traverse through the timeline of this reality without any repercussions!

Granted, one could not go forward to a time point they had yet to experience, but they could traverse to the past and back to the area they already reached seamlessly as such a thing made Noah's mind abuzz with possibilities.

As he felt his soul bound tightly to the vast and endless river before him, Noah felt like he was a mere ant floating in the waves of an endless ocean, a grain of sand in an expansive desert!

Yet within this vastness...he could now see himself.

He could see a barely discernible line in this vast and endless river that represented his life- his timeline!

THRUM!

Essence weaved out of Noah's Origin in large amounts, even larger than anything he had utilized it for in the past, even more abundant essence than when he had helped form the Infinite Cosmos.

It was the essence that beings far above his level required in order to utilize the unique powers of a Nomological Edict, and Noah was currently expanding his mana as he unconsciously activated the Nomological Edict of Samsara!

His consciousness brightened as while looking at the thin line traveling in the endless river that represented his timeline, Noah glanced at a time point of this line as his soul sank into it seamlessly.

Droves and droves of essence were expanded as the Nomological Edict of Samsara was activated by Noah for the first time, this activation actually causing him to jump back to a previous time point within his life seamlessly as the abundant mana was required now to guarantee that he could return to the future- the cost of the return being zero as mentioned in the definition within the Nomological Edict of Samsara seen before.

This was to prevent a scenario where a being returns back to a time when they had none or very little power, and they might find themselves stuck back in time tens or hundreds of years without being capable of returning to their original future time point through a jump in time!

Noah paid this price as he felt his consciousness seemingly go to sleep for a second, but a moment later, his sight brightened up as he opened his eyes and saw...

The image of the powerful figure of the Holy Emperor of the Expansive Dragon Cluster, the father of Anna's mother from the Nexus Galaxy who was currently speaking to him in a domineering manner!

"I want to provide you with the protection you need as you grow, as well as all the resources you can think of. All I want from you is your allegiance once you reach the rank of an Entity, as this will strengthen our Expansive Dragon Cluster even further."

Noah was in a stupor as he raised his arms to look at himself as he also sensed the QUASAR that made up his Origin!

Before Noah even replied with the domineering words he said to this being before, an invisible light shone over his soul as he experienced darkness again, this time the feeling being something he was used to as droves of mana were used yet again, his intentions being sent out to the Nomological Edict of Samsara as after what seemed like forever, Noah opened his eyes again.

Everything had changed again.

This scene before him was a despondent one, being that of an unkempt apartment room as he found himself in a scrawny body that was currently holding a skill book in his hands.

It was a Rank F [Fireball] Skill Book within his hands, Noah raising his head as his eyes shined with innumerable lights, coming back to a time right before he awakened!

This was the Nomological Edict of Samsara!

This was what one could possibly do with it!

Chapter 1152 - Infinite Possibilities! I

It was an extremely interesting sight for Noah to see himself when he was in the past, and even more interesting when he could think and move as he wished!

His thoughts moved as his intentions were felt by the skill book in his hand, a brilliant light spreading out as it disappeared into a flicker of light and entered his chest.

Awakened.

Noah had returned to the time when he first awakened as with curious eyes, he pulled up the Stat Panel to see the same thing he experienced before!

[Noah Osmont]

[Vitality: 10]

[Focus:? -?]

[Strength: 10]

[Skill(s): Fireball]

"Ah..."

What a sight to see! This was the point in the journey where Noah had begun, with his life only reaching greater and greater heights from here on out. The biggest conundrum that Noah had when he obtained such a unique thing like the Nomological Edict of Samsara was just how he would utilize its aspect of allowing him to travel to different time points within his life.

Would he actively go back in time and change something? With the knowledge he now had, could he do something different or advance at an even faster pace? The possibilities when one thought about this were endless!

But for the current Noah...he didn't see the need to re-live his entire life as the choices he had made during it got him to where he was today!

His journey was always one filled with excitement, and he had only ever gone back in time once during the battle with the Devilish Time Unveiler to relieve a brief period of his life. Could he progress through the Realms faster now that he knew of many things that would be considered secrets to him before? Possibly! But Noah already saw the strongest foundation of his current life right now as at this moment...he would not remain here to relive all of it.

"Maybe another time..."

He uttered out slowly with a smile as he gazed at his old dilapidated apartment, an anchor deep in his soul shimmering brightly at this moment as he sent his thoughts forward, his consciousness being pulled away once again!

THRUM!

A cacophony of light and regality later, his eyes opened once more as he found himself in the Ruination Realm.

His Cosmic Treasure was vibrating peacefully within his Origin as he felt the connection with the Cosmic Core and the Quintillions of existences within it, his heart utterly at peace as he had gained something that made him feel extremely safe and content!

With the Nomological Edict, Noah felt that his journey that was somewhat uncertain before had gained a sense of stability, and he could move forward with confidence with such stability as he wouldn't look back- but only ceaselessly go forward!

If ever there was a need to relieve his life in the future? Maybe things would change then. But for now...his attention returned to his current events as he looked at everything that he was.

His body was still swirling intensely with the Cosmic Daos of Reincarnation and Extinction, the respective Dao Fruits of these Daos becoming available for him to plant at the moment that he gained comprehension in them. Then there was the grand feeling of the Nomological Edict of Samsara.

He felt as if this Edict was an illusory thing, where one wouldn't even be able to check his Origin and Soul to find traces of such a thing!

The knowledge of Nomological Edicts and such things would be something that Noah planned to place a lot of focus on in the near future, along with the stupendous question of what was better between Nomological Edicts and Runic Dao Lines.

If he deconstructed and reconstructed Daos into Runic Lines, he permanently lost them in exchange for the stupendous power they provided, the Runic Dao Tattoos they formed being the thing that would release the essence of these Daos when he activated them.

But Nomological Edicts required the fusion of Daos and Laws as it seemed even more pristine, even the Primordial having such a thing with her! She didn't seem to opt into the option of Runic Dao Lines as her focus lay in Nomological Edicts, while the Aegon that Noah saw with her was fully on the path of Runic Dao Lines- but Noah also couldn't say if this being didn't know Nomological Edicts!

It was something that Noah would have to put a lot of thought into for how exactly he wanted to proceed from here!

Across the vast Ruination Seas.

In the location where Noah's portion of soul had escaped quickly, the cold voice of the Primordial stretched out.

"Nomological Edict of Samsara."

THRUM!

Her figure released shocking amounts of light as beside her, Aegon's figure seemed to fade away into nothingness! Under the use of the Edict of Samsara, the Primordial operated under shocking rules and authority as she weaved back in time, trying to see just who had been snooping on their conversation earlier!

"Let's see...it was around this time that little Aegon noticed it?"

Her veiled eyes flickered with powerful light as she saw time being wound back and returned to half a minute ago. Yet...

No matter how she spread her senses, she wasn't able to find what she was looking for! No consciousness, no other existence, nothing!

In the rewind time, She glanced towards the figure of Aegon who was actually looking towards her, his voice echoing out slowly.

"You still cannot find what was here?"

...!

With his eyes utterly black and devoid of emotions, Aegon voiced out as if he remembered exactly what occurred in the future! Even though the Primordial was the one to use the Edict of Samsara, Aegon still somehow remembered the events of a future he had yet to experience as even the Primordial looked towards him with a sharp gaze!

This existence...was truly powerful and unique!

Even the Primordial thought as much as her figure began to be covered with an intense light, her words ringing out.

"Either a powerful Cosmic Primordial Beast has arisen or there is another existence playing tricks. I have to leave and check a few things."

Before her words even finished, her figure had already disappeared in a flash of Primordial and Ruination essence as the only being left behind was the wild and sharp looking Aegon!

Chapter 1153 - Infinite Possibilities! II

The Primordial had tried to locate whatever consciousness had been around them and failed, such an action being something extremely unique as it meant interferences or even more unsavory possibilities.

Thus, it had to be looked into right away as without waiting for too long, she disappeared with a flash of Ruination and Primordial Essence!

With his exquisitely defined and sculpted figure, Aegon stared at the position that the Primordial just left for a few more seconds before his eyes returned to the myriad of Cosmos below him some light years away.

A consciousness had arisen to snoop a conversation between him and another powerful existence, and yet they couldn't catch or find traces of it no matter what the powerful Primordial did! Such a thought caused the eyes of this existence to flash with intense light, his figure beginning to light up with multicolored lights as the runic lines on his skin undulated powerfully!

He then tore through space as he returned to the manyCosmos below, this being carrying a myriad of mysteries and thoughts as the main thing remained centermost for him.

That was...authority and strength!

Thus...the trace of a certain someone wasn't found, even with the horrendous power of a Primordial. But why was it so?

Of course, it was all due to the Edict of Samsara.

Noah obtaining the Nomological Edict of Samsara as the first thing from the Primordial was extremely important, and it was the thing that would make way for a stupendous future to become a reality!

If his soul had grabbed onto anything else, the Primordial would have easily been able to use her immense power to locate him throughout time as knowing their wrath- Noah would have been eradicated.

Even if he grabbed another Nomological Edict from the Primordial, escaping death would have been nigh impossible as his enemy could just go back to when he wasn't even an F Rank Hunter to kill him!

But he grabbed the Nomological Edict of Samsara.

One of the few Edicts that masked a being from others capable of using Edicts- one of the few Edicts that made it very hard for one to find out any information about him as he had anchored himself onto a Reality!

This...would be a reason for a future that even Primordials would only be watching in utter shock and horror to come to fruition!

Within the Ruination Realm.

Noah saw the hard work of the Primordial Ruination Clone that was currently forging Galaxies within a universe at a visible speed, the boosts in advancing through Realms under the newly gained Nomological Edict of Samsara not being light ones!

Seeing the rate of progress, Noah calculated that he should now be capable of forging over ten Universes daily if not slightly more- and this was a change from him only being able to forge a single Universe in a day.

Such was the stupendous power of a Nomological Edict as Noah truly wondered how the Primordials were able to fuse a myriad of Daos and Laws to make them possible, with his mind also focusing on himself as he asked...how could he do it as well?!

WAA!

His eyes flashed brightly as the Runic Dao Lines within his right hand undulated with power, many things coming to his mind as for him, the first thing he could think of would be to either design a skill or a Dao that could help with such a thing!

But...would it really be possible to form things as high as Nomological Edicts in this manner? Only time would tell as he began to experiment.

Time ebbed and flowed.

In the Novus Universe that had properly lined Galaxies that acted as cultivation fields for Dao Fruits and Herbs, Noah's figure reappeared grandly as it seemed he was only gone for a minute or two at most.

Yet when he returned...

RUMBLE!

The surrounding space shook and actually fractured as his right arm unconsciously released terrifying pressure, a pressure that even caused the existences that had just chosen Archetypes and were feeling high and mighty to have a great change in expressions!

Noah noticed this right away as this pressure disappeared soon after, the Runic Dao Tattoos on his arm becoming much milder as he smiled apologetically while glancing at those closest to him that had chosen their Archetypes.

He could see Temporal Lords, Blood Lords, Annihilators, Summoners, and even Incandescence Guardians from the unique light that they now carried with them, all of these beings now wielding the power of Hegemonies even though their Origins had not yet formed a Universe.

It was a unique scenario to experience as these beings had to work hard to quickly have their Origins catch up to the level of power they could wield, otherwise they might not be able to handle the expenditure with their lower levels alone!

In the future, Noah imagined 500 existences with powerful Archetypes divided into multiple camps, where groups of beings with the classes of Temporal Lords could fight together, or existences choosing Summoners could bring entire armies of beasts by themselves!

If ever he upgraded the Grand Dao of Archetypes to the Cosmic Level, this number would be even higher as such were all possibilities.

If he brought all of such beings to the rank of Antiquity...the force he would wield would be something terrific as he looked forward to such a future.

With such thoughts in his mind, Noah spoke out grandly.

"You all consolidate your strength and your new abilities...I will be forging ahead first and begin exploring the vast Ruination Seas for what else is out there. Be ready for anything and everything!"

THRUM!

After just leaving for a few minutes, Noah returned with a new proclamation as many beings couldn't even keep up, those that were closest to him smiling wryly as they watched his oppressive figure that had shattered space just from its mere appearance fade away.

The exploration of the vast seas of Ruination!

It was the finding of new lands and opportunities, with Noah expectant to see what he would find hidden across the crimson seas that very few could cross!

Chapter 1154 - Exploring The Vast Seas Of Ruination! I

The expansive and endless Ruination Sea that contained a myriad of hidden existences and Cosmos floating within!

Very few beings got a chance to explore such vastness, and such privilege was left against unique beings that comprehended the Dao Ruination or the Primordial Dao, and those with unique power that they could survive against the ravaging of Ruination in one piece for a long period of time.

Noah...had both the Primordial Dao and Ruination, as well as a Cosmic Treasure that stemmed from Ruination as his journey across the vast Ruination Sea could not have been any more comfortable.

While his subordinates chose their Archetypes and he wrapped up his preparations in the Primordial Cosmos, he had pulled out the Primordial Ruination Clone to be the one to traverse the Ruination Sea as his main body took its place in the Ruination Realm to continue forging new universes, with his clones moving throughout the Cosmos to complete any tasks needed of him as well as spend time with the people that he was gradually becoming very connected to!

The job of his main body wasn't just to forge new universes as the task of theorizing about Nomological Edicts and the fusion of Daos and Laws and how he could seamlessly bring this about was being handled by him, as well as the design of the remaining slots for Cosmic and Grand Daos.

The design of Daos was something Noah didn't want to rush as even the Cosmic Core didn't know when the next time would be where it would gain the capability to forge more Cosmic Daos, or what conditions would have to be met for the Infinite Cosmos to achieve the next step and unlock a myriad of new possibilities!

Then there was the deconstruction of the reconstruction of Daos to form new Dao Lines. This method of power was extremely overbearing with the permanent erasure of the selected Dao, but the power obtained was stupendous as it could make one more powerful by multiple factors. But its cost reduced the possibility to form Nomologic Edicts! So even with this, Noah was tasked with a problem he had to solve.

Meanwhile, his Primordial Ruination Clone...

"Ah..."

Was relaxing on the back of the Colossal Helios Leviathan that was currently traversing across the Ruination Sea, a myriad of Extinction Grapefruits being dawned into his mouth as he held the face of contentment while traversing the red seas with the Leviathan.

The enormous creature had its entire body glistening in a crystalline fashion as it was galaxy colored, making it seem like a galaxy was moving through the crimson sea while a human surrounded by multiple other Animus Summons sat atop it!

The wobbly Blue Slime was bouncing happily on Noah's head as beside them, Tiamat was looking at the terrifying Slime that was actually stronger than all of them with sharp eyes.

The black flash of light that was the rapidly moving Obsidian Panther could be seen constantly around them, with one occasionally hearing this summon voice out "I'm fast as F!"

The magnificent Oculothorax shining in gold and emanating deadly rays of soul destroying light was floating nearby peacefully, the Galaxy Devouring Serpent coiled up like an old man as its eyes shone with a light of dominance!

A golden crown could be seen on the Calamity Bear and the Golden Crow as even the Draconic Serpent twins could be seen in their human forms nearby...all of Noah's summons moving with him across the Ruination Sea as each of them had a thin layer of Ruination Protecting them that stemmed from nobody else but Noah.

Each of their bodies glimmered brightly with a myriad of Universes, these Summons being some of the luckiest existences in this time as they could have their power elevated to the level of their Master with a spam of a skill.

All of them had been traversing the Ruination Seas peacefully in the past few days, everything seeming brand new and fun during the first day but as time dragged on and everything they saw was just an expanse of red all around, it all seemed bland to them at this moment as they wished for something to happen!

"What exactly are you looking for?"

Tiamat grabbed the wobbly Blue Slime from Noah's head as she placed it on her chest, the body of the slime struggling to get out of her grasp and return to Noah's head as she posed a question.

Towards this, Noah only smiled lightly as he continued to throw more Extinction Grapefruits into his mouth, his voice coming out between the bites.

"A wandering existence, a Cosmos...even a Primordial Beast would do at this point."

WAA!

He calmly stated out domineering words like meeting the terrifying Primordial Beasts as he continued.

"Of course, we don't have to worry. Destiny had told me a few days back that we wouldn't be bored for too long, and it should be something exciting that we come across as I can already feel my Fortune churning."

Yes!

Even though they had been traveling across the expansive Ruination Seas for the past few days and found nothing, this was extremely normal! The Colossal Helios Leviathan had been moving faster than the speed of time as it tore across the red seas, but not once did they come by anything. But his fortune and destiny were already telling Noah that it would not be this way for too much longer.

Coincidentally enough or due to his Protagonist Trait that was always trying to affect reality in a certain direction, his words didn't even fully settle for long before he raised his head as his eyes shone brightly.

"Hmmm?"

His eyes shone lustrously as he could see something that wasn't an expansive red sea!

"Slow down."

He patted the crystalline surface of the Colossal Helios Leviathan as the beast stopped tearing through the sea at light speed, the moving titan slowing down as the scene a few light years away from them gradually became clear!

It was that of a glimmering Cosmos....but a huge commotion seemed to be occurring as in front of this Cosmos, they could all see and feel the aura of a terrifying Beast!

Chapter 1155 - Exploring The Vast Seas Of Ruination! II

The scene before Noah was an astounding one, his eyes capturing the image of an expansive Cosmos right before their eyes, but he could also see that a portion of the boundary of this Cosmos was torn, a tear made through one of its Universes as a powerful Beast shining in a gorgeous array of colors could be seen sending out terrifying attacks into the torn Universal Layer as the aura of multiple Antiquities and Hegemonies could be felt within defending!

"Beautiful..."

Noah was in a stupor as this was the only way he could describe the sight of the beast and what it was currently doing. Its figure shone with an incandescence of colors, glimmering gold and white as he could see streaks of red on its lustrous fur, the Beast before his eyes only being described as something that was the combination of the most pristine dragons and phoenixes!

With glimmering pairs of three phoenix like wings and terrifying jaws with sharp teeth that were tearing apart the very layers of a Universe, Noah watched as this beast would send out a claw that released storms of Ruination Essence into the defenders of this Cosmos, and while these beings defended against that- it would open its wide jaws and suck in a portion of the nearby Universe.

The boundary of the universe continued to decrease as the Antiquities, Hegemonies, and a myriad of Paragons and Monarchs behind them only continued to be pushed back, none of them actually gaining the upper hand against this beautifully terrifying creature!

"Primordial Beast..."

Noah's eyes glimmered with intense light as he gazed upon these existences for the first time. He saw how they shone brightly as if they were sacred creatures, but these were the very same beasts that devoured entire Universes and Cosmos to grow stronger.

He was seeing one right before his eyes at this moment as he could see hundreds of manifested Universes glimmering brightly on the chest of this creature, this Primordial Beast at most being a Lesser Primordial Beast that had yet to devour enough Universes or Cosmos to become a Grand or Cosmic Primordial Beast.

As he glanced upon this and the new Cosmos before his eyes, Noah rose from the Colossal Helios Leviathan as it began to slowly swim forward, his eyes releasing golden rays of light as the Star of Conquest shone brightly above his head!

"Persevere!"

RUMBLE!

A bellow came from an aged looking figure that had a pristine wizened face of an old man, and yet his body thrummed with immense power as hundreds of Universes shone brightly within this being's Origin.

"Father...we cannot take another minute of this! We have to pull back, otherwise the death toll will only increase. Let them stay behind to defend as we prepare an impenetrable wall in the Skylar Universe!"

WAA!

Not too far from the Old Man releasing waves of power and trying to withstand the storms of Ruination barraging his way, his son- another existence releasing the aura of an Antiquity as his body shone with bright golden rays of light...this being spoke out in a cold tone while glancing at the millions of Hegemonies, Paragons, and Monarchs behind him.

He would rather sacrifice these beings and this Universe as they prepared their forces to fully withstand this beast in the adjacent Universe, seeing the torn barrier and storms of Ruination around them as this being considered this Universe as good as gone!

"Alex...you!"

The wizened Old Man had a trace of anger course through his eyes when he heard the words of his son, his eyes that were sharp like swords and the white hair from his head and beard dancing madly as his hands weaved out, miniaturized galaxies filled with unstable essence of Extinction being released as they smashed into the Ruination storms around them and slowly dissipated them.

"We cannot let this Beast have even a single Universe, or it will grow too powerful and we cannot defend against it anymore. It would seal the fate of our Cosmos!"

RUMBLE!

"Hold strong...I have already sent word, help should soon arrive. Charles, Lexis, Viola...with me!"

His aged voice contained countless wisdom as well as anger, his eyes gazing towards his son while dimming ever so slowly waves of disappointment flew out.

'What a son! What a future ruler! To be discarding his subjects and run to the next universe while not thinking of the consequences...ah'

BOOM!

His essence moved with even greater fervor as his son and the few other Antiquities he called upon continued to pour in all their strength to defend against this beast before them.

"Yaa!"

Battle cries could be heard throughout as they each used their own unique skills, their bodies shining with the essence of a myriad of Cosmic and Grand Daos as they tried their best to fend off a Primordial Beast that had attacked their Cosmos for the first time in history.

It was a race against time as they had already called for reinforcements, but they didn't think they could hold on!

When it came to this Primordial Beast, they couldn't even enter the Ruination Sea to battle it or deal any damage to it as none of them comprehended Ruination or the Primordial Dao, and the Beast was cunning enough to always remains in the Ruination Sea while beginning to swallow the Universe they were defending.

A light of intelligence crossed through its eyes as it continued to lay out attacks filled with Ruination on one side, and it then swallowed portions of the Universe on the other side.

"AWOOO!"

The magisterial creature let out a frightful bellow of excitement as the situation continued, knowing that a momentous chance had come upon its life as if it devoured the universe within this Cosmos before it...ah!

But...

There were expectations, then there was reality.

Reality...would not always play out as most expect it to!

THRUM!

At this moment, The Primordial Beast and the myriad of Antiquities, Hegemonies, Paragons, and even Monarchs that were trying to defend their Cosmos all turned towards a single direction in the crimson Ruination Sea.

Normally, nothing would be able to be seen there, but at this moment, they felt the oppressive aura of something bellow out and reach them, each of their eyes widening as they looked over and found a single man at the very forefront of an enormous Colossal Helios Leviathan, a few other auras situated beside him as this being....had a bright smile across his face as his eyes shone with beams of golden light!

Chapter 1156 - A Primordial Beast! I

BOOM!

The scene before Augustus was an abysmal one as even while his body released waves of Extinction, all he could do was merely hold back against the attacks of the terrifying Primordial Beast before him as even those he depended on were faring no better than him.

Time seemed to be moving in slow motion as his eyes captured the powerful crimson storms descending from the claws of the glimmering Primordial Beast before them, as well as the figures of Antiquities letting out waves of power only slightly below his!

His son Alex and daughter Lexis, as well as the Antiquities under him known as Charles and Viola. Then there was him. The ruler of this Indigo Cosmos, and the being that should be able to defend it against all the threats it ever faced.

Augustus Marcus Tiberius!

The King of the Indigo Cosmos who always sat upon a high throne, and yet his brilliant blue robe was currently looking dim under the attacks of the Primordial Beast as his heart was turning increasingly more somber and pained.

He only arrived at the position he was in due to the quintillions that supported him, and he truly didn't want to let them down or sacrifice any of them to this beast! Not even a single universe! But...the options weren't there.

He recalled his son's words of sacrificing this Universe as anger flared up within him yet again, his body rumbling with power as he bellowed out!

"PERSEVERE!"

RUMBLE!

Extinction waded out madly as waves of pristine blue were carried with it, everyone moving with emotion when they saw King Augustus move with such fervor before them. Their universes burned brightly as all of them moved with a single belief- and that belief was that help was coming.

They had already sent word to the force they were connected to as they should be able to send someone to help them even with the terrifying beast before them. They were waiting...which was why it was an even more shocking thing for them to be surprised when they saw the appearance of multiple existences nearing their location from the crimson Ruination Seas!

King Augustus and the Primordial Beast were the first to see the arriving figures, their sheer aura causing a lull to appear in the battle as their figures alone demanded to be looked at as they stole all attention. Even the Primordial Beast had for some reason paused as its eyes flashed with a chilling light.

A figure with sharply shining golden eyes had his hair flying wildly, standing atop a Colossal Helios Leviathan as he actually looked at the scene below him with a smile!

Around him, a terrifying Serpent and a myriad of other Beasts could be seen as weirdly enough, even a slime was bouncing excitedly on his head.

When King Augustus saw this scene...he was actually slightly disappointed as it wasn't the help he was expecting! But nonetheless...anything that wasn't a Primordial Beast in the Ruination Seas was not an enemy, even more so when such a being could traverse the Ruination Seas! And even more so when it was a whole party of them, even if it looked like a man walking around with his beasts.

Anyone with such an ability meant they had comprehended Ruination or the Primordial Dao, and any of such beings were renowned Antiquities with great strength. So Augustus recovered first within this lull in battle as he bellowed out.

"Friends! Aid us to hold this beast back just until aid arrives!"

WAA!

A call for help!

The hearts of the other Antiquities lifted at such a scene, observing that all of the newly appearing existences before them had multiple glimmering Universes that represented multiple Antiquities. With this they should be able to hold on with ease or even possibly push this beast back, right?

WOOOO!

A unique cry was released from the Primordial Beast as it actually stopped attacking the universe of the Indigo Cosmos, its eyes fixed on Noah as this existence could instinctively sense something different about this newly appearing being!

It was first angered that an easy meal was interrupted, and even more angered that it could feel a threatening sensation against this being before it.

How dare for such a puny existence to deny the might of a magisterial galaxy-sized Primordial Beast?!

RUMBLE!

With a frightful bellow, King Augustus and others watched in shock as the Primordial Beast that had been focused on their Universe this whole time actually turned around and turned into a streak of light that tore through the Ruination Sea towards the newly appearing being.

Its bestial golden, white, and crimson furred body glistened gloriously as Ruination Essence weaved around it dangerously, intent on ripping apart the intruder before they even got a chance to make an introduction!

But...

WAP!

Before the Primordial Beast could even reach the enormous Colossal Helios Leviathan that the figure stood on, everyone heard a sound akin to glass shattering as they felt their hearts shake, the crimson seas in front of the Primordial Beast unstably breaking apart and leaving an expansive space filled with a void as in a nigh instantaneous manner, the figure standing on the leviathan had appeared right before the Primordial Beast.

King Augustus watched this scene as his pupils began to dilate, watching as the small figure of the human that was a few thousand times smaller than the Primordial Beast actually appeared before it fearlessly and in such a? fast manner that even the nearby crimson seas were pushed apart...this being stretching out his right hand as if he was merely punching!

RIIIP!

The exquisite robe that draped over his hand began to rip apart from his fist as it stretched up to his shoulders, wondrous tattoos beginning to weave beautifully and powerfully as a terrifying pressure descended in the near few hundred light years.

Glistening Runic Dao Lines weaved majestically as they caused the eyes of all those watching to light up with shock, every single being finding their eyes focused on this being and his multicolored right hand that thundered straightforwardly towards a Primordial Beast!

No tricks or skills! Just sheer unbelievable speed and power as even the eyes of the Primordial Beast constricted with its fur standing at high alarm, shields of Ruination beginning to form around it as the terrifying multicolored hand arrived at this moment.

The sound didn't register at first.

It was the void of Ruination that first shattered as its terrifying explosive force only reverberated thereafter.

BOOOOM!

Chapter 1157 - A Primordial Beast! II

A sound even louder than the implosion of a universe.

A sound that stemmed from a single being gloriously appearing before a Primordial Beast as he pushed out his hand that was glowing a myriad of colorful lights and smashed into the oversized creature in a devastating fashion!

BOOM...CRACK!

With a shatter and a crack of the very void of ruination, it seemed as if Noah's small figure had rammed into a thick and impenetrable balloon as his fist that was reinforced by Runic Dao Lines from a Lesser and Cosmic Dao actually tore apart the myriad of shields of ruination that the creature had conjured, smashing into its body as the impact sent it shooting back a few thousand miles!

"ROAAR!"

A painful cry ruptured out of the body of the Primordial Beast, its majestic figure stabilizing after a few thousand more miles as its eyes turned to look towards Noah in shock.

The eyes of King Augustus and the Antiquities around him also trembled as they could see the area where the Primordial Beast had been hit...ruptured muscle could be seen as golden blood sprayed out gloriously.

"...!"

Silence!

There was utter silence of shock not just from the Primordial Beast, but also the watching Antiquities as the Beast they could barely defend against was actually pushed back by a single punch from this being!

When their eyes locked upon his right hand that glimmered with a myriad of Dao Lines, their eyes brightened up as King Augustus voiced out with a vibrant and majestic voice.

"Daolord!"

OOOOOH!

A terrifying title was released by the leading Antiquity of the Indigo Cosmos as currently, Noah's figure was experiencing waves and waves of power coursing through him!

The feeling of the Runic Dao Lines swirling within his right hand was to the point of it being euphoric, making him want to put in more and more essence into his hands as the Runic Dao Lines would only swirl faster.

Nomological Edicts were unique...but the Runic Dao Lines had something with them that Noah couldn't put a finger on, but its feeling of power alone was purely stupendous as Noah's figure undulated with waves of light, his eyes and mouths releasing rays of golden light amidst his bellow as his figure turned into a streak of light that arrived in front of the Primordial Beast once more, another punch was thrown out!

BOOM!

It was a fight of brutality and pure strength as with the Runic Dao Lines of Annihilation and Withering giving stupendous boosts as well as the 10 million percent increase in All Parameters from the Nomological Edict of Samsara... Noah received the perfect opponent to test the extent of his current strength.

It was against a magisterial Primordial Beast that looked like a combination of phoenixes and dragons, its golden white fur shimmering brightly in the crimson seas as at this moment, its golden blood had begun to leak out with fervor!

BOOM!

"ROAAR!"

Its furious bellows could be heard as it swiped at empty stops where Noah used to be, this existence not being able to catch Noah's figure on speed alone as its pristine skin continued to get mutilated while golden blood flowed out.

The eyes of the Primordial Beast flashed with wrath and madness at such a scene, its body undulating with Ruination essence as Noah's figure continued to weave around out and releasing terrific punches that were unavoidable!

The Antiquities of the Indigo Cosmos watched this scene in a stupor as the beast that they would have considered the ender of their Cosmos was actually matched against a single being. But these beings were not the only ones in a stupor.

From the direction their gazes had left, the enormous figure of the Colossal Helios Leviathan was floating forward powerfully. Above it, the humanoid form of Tiamat began to pulse with power as her curvaceous figure stood at the forefront of all the Animus Summons.

"We won't just be here gawking...show your worth to Master and don't be mere leeches!"

RUMBLE!

At her words, Noah's summons flew out like streaks of light fearlessly, her own figure letting out powerful waves as a ten-headed dragon very soon erupted from it, rushing towards the enormous golden Primordial Beast that Noah was powerfully facing!

ZIP!

The cerulean figures of the Blue Slimes and Obsidian Panther were at the very forefront, their eyes shining brilliantly as they joined a battle of brutality to test their worth at the stage of Antiquity for the first time.

Noah felt his summons joining the battle as his smile only became brighter, the beat of his heart becoming even more excited as he rose above the figure of the Primordial Beast that gazed up at him with wrath. It had been trying to grasp onto him unsuccessfully in the past few seconds, the body of the beast currently vibrating with dangerous waves of power as at this time...Noah would go ahead and give it another head-on collision!

WAA!

In a magisterial fashion, his figure rose like a majestic Phoenix before descending down head-on towards the terrifying Primordial Beast

Augustus Marcus Tiberius! this was his name and title as the King of the Indigo Cosmos, this being having seen a great deal of things throughout his life.

He had seen much, but the scene of this being before him would forever be etched into his mind!

"Daolord..."

He called out a title again as he and the allies around him could only call the vibrant being this name after seeing the pulsating Runic Dao Lines coursing through his hand.

Daolords! Existences that had fully assimilated the abstruse laws of Ruination and the Primordial Daos as they crossed the vast Ruination Seas and lay waste to Primordial Beast using the tremendous power they obtained from the deconstruction of Daos!

Such beings were few and rare to see, with King Augustus only knowing of them as they were the Champions of the force he had already called for help from.

He also knew how to identify those beings as the one before him...didn't stem from that force!

'Just who is...'

The thought of this being's identity crossed his mind as the surrounding situation changed at this moment, all of them watching as his figure rose above the Primordial Beast before descending towards it in a fervor.

What was different this time around was that he wasn't descending down with his shimmering multicolored right hand outstretched alone, with there being a myriad of Dao Essences extending behind him as the most potent one was the Primordial Dao!

From his small figure, they could hear a set of words ringing in their ears clearly.

"Primordial Wheel of Extinction."

THRUM!

The first ability of a specially designed skill tree for the Cosmic Primordial Dao made its first appearance at this moment!

A pristine white wheel larger than a galaxy bloomed in the Ruination Sea as the beautiful crimson in the surroundings began to be dyed utterly white!

Chapter 1158 - A Glorious Introduction! I

In the Infinite Cosmos floating silently in the Ruination Sea.

Within the Novus Universe, the Oathkeeper was standing on a planet within a Galaxy that was designated as one to cultivate Primordial Apples, this entire galaxy suffusing with Primordial Dao Essence throughout!

He was currently in the fields of this planet that held the tall trees shining gold and white and bearing these fruits, plucking them one by one as he passed the field of golden white trees and came towards a clearing where two figures could be seen.

One was the miniaturized form of the Great Old Nazzagath that was normally far larger than a planet, this Chthonian currently floating off the earth silently in his form of a star as beside him...the imprisoned figure of the Goliath of the Primordial Cosmos could be seen!

Only half of his body had been released from the circular prison of Primordial Essence that the Oathkeeper initially put him in, his gaze silently on Oathkeeper as he came beside them with a handful of Primordial apples.

The look on the golden winged Antiquity was full of emotion as he looked at the two other oldest beings of the Primordial Cosmos, his voice stretching out slowly!

"Choices...we all make bad ones every now and then, I just never thought someone as experienced as you would do what you did."

His voice was melancholic as he bit down on the Dao Fruits before him, the Great Old Nazzagath sighing as he partook in the Fruits as well- the oldest beings within the Cosmos being together as they looked for the direction of their lives!

Oathkeeper had a faraway look as he gazed upwards and looked towards the Ruination Sea outside, thinking of the being traversing it as he spoke out slowly.

"The Antiquity of Mana actually left me with all the leeway on what happens to you, you know? He even said that without the actions that you and Chronos took, he wouldn't be where he was today. He wanted me to pass along the thanks."

RUMBLE!

The body of the Goliath shook at such words as a period of silence descended.

It wasn't until a minute later that this existence opened his mouth for the first time since his imprisonment!

"Yes. Choices will always unfold paths none of us thought possible. I don't know where this path will lead for me...but I am curious on what path that existence is going towards."

...!

The black hole on this being's head swirled magnificently as he also gazed out into the vast Ruination Sea, wondering what Noah's path had brought him to now!

The answer to this thought was complex and simple at the same time, Noah having found another Cosmos and actually battling a Primordial Beast at this time in a shocking fashion.

In the middle of this battle, the appearance of a shocking wheel filled with ancientness and majesty caused a milky white layer to appear in the crimson seas!

It swirled behind Noah majestically, this wheel seemingly made up of innumerable primordial runes that weaved together and turned like the gears on a clock. As Noah's figure was descending down with his right hand shining with gorgeous colors, this wheel behind him...began to spin.

BZZZT!

The moment that the wheel began to spin, the Primordial Beast felt a stifling sensation lock onto it as razor-sharp Primordial Essence wrapped around its skin and began to constrict!

But it wasn't just Primordial Essence.

Hidden within it all was another awe-inspiring Cosmic Dao...Extinction acting to support Primordial Essence as they created for a fantastical phenomenon.

"ROAAR!"

A shocked loud bellow was released when it felt the opposing Primordial Essence crush the ruination essence protecting it, and even more so as when the wheel continued to turn...the sense of constriction and suffocation the beast received from the Primordial Dao only became more and more terrifying.

This was the single skill termed [Primordial Wheel of Extinction] that Noah had designed among others when he was floating for days in the Ruination Sea and had nothing but time in his hands. A skill stemming from the skill tree that Noah ridiculously termed...[Cosmic Dao Integrations and Combinations]!

A skill tree he designed as a preliminary test for the future, one that would allow him to test the possibilities of combining and fusing daos to see if he could sense how to put them all together to form a Nomological Edict!

Since he hadn't been able to do such a thing this whole time, he was beginning slowly with Daos to see what the effects of it would be. The result...was stupendous.

[Cosmic Dao Integrations and Combinations] :: A mere testing skill tree that observes the effects of combinations of different Dao Essences. Whether the combinations work or not, the effects are bound to be destructive. Abilities include Universe of Turbidity, Primordial Wheel of Extinction, Endless Rays of Time, and Compatibility. Cost of Skill Creation: 300 Billion Skill Points.

Universe of Turbidity :: The daos mixed within are too many, giving birth to a turbid and unstable compressed Universe. Within this Turbid Universe are the unstable essences of Ruination, Primordial, Conquest,? Extinction, Chronos, and Reincarnation. The combination of daos is too unstable as once cast, one should run far, far away. Only the caster is exempted from the deleterious effects of this ability. To cast this skill, the sacrifice of a normal Universe from one's Origin is required.

Primordial Wheel of Extinction :: An ability that conjures a runic wheel that utilizes the Primordial Essence and the essence of Extinction. The wheel will continue to turn as long as it is not broken, its selected target being constantly compressed and suffocated by the essence of the two Daos until death.

Endless Rays of Time :: An area of effect ability that utilizes the Dao essence of Chronos, Reincarnation, Space-time, and Vitality, along with the laws of Life and Death to bring to fruition scorching rays that tear apart time itself wherever they cross. Enemies hit by the Rays of Time experience Body and Soul Degradation, Instantaneous Necrosis, -100,000% Movement and Attack Speed, and -100,000% Reduction to Physical, Daos, and Laws Resistance.? Once the ability activates, it continues to rain down the rays of time until it is deactivated.

Compatibility :: A Passive ability that allows for the successful combination casts of different daos without negative feedback on the caster's origin, along with the ability to feel the compatibility of utilized Daos.

A stellar skill tree that Noah made to take the first steps towards Nomological Edicts was made!

Chapter 1159 - A Glorious Introduction! II

The skill tree of [Cosmic Dao Integrations and Combinations] was one of the things Noah had been working on in the past few days!

A Skill tree that tried to combine and put together a myriad of Daos, with the results varying to a shocking level for each of them. The [Primordial Wheel of Extinction] was actually the most stable as a terrifying wheel that would grind down the enemy until their death was produced, and there was also something like the [Universe of Turbidity] that held a combination of too many Daos as just to cast it required the sacrifice of a universe, with its effects being horrendous as it was more deadly than even the implosion of a Universe.

The ability of [Endless Rays of Time] even more compatible, Noah using the daos he already saw worked well together from the Nomological Edict of Samsara as the main base and adding other Daos to see what was possible.

It was actually with this combination that Noah saw the most possibility when it came to any future of him possibly making a Nomological Edict!

Lastly, there was the [Compatibility] passive that made the birth of this whole skill tree viable.

THRUM!

The Primordial Wheel of Extinction released an oppressive air that even caused the far away Antiquities to tremble as one could only imagine one the target of its attack would be feeling. Under the oppressive pressure of the Primordial Essence and Extinction grinding its body down, the Primordial Beast actually had its golden white fur becoming torn apart!

As its defenses tried to fight off this terrifying attack, there was an even more monstrous one coming as right before it, Noah's figure was like an outstretched arrow with his pulsing right hand leading the way, descending down in a magisterial fashion as it seemed like the weight of an entire Cosmos lay behind him.

THUMP!

The powerful heart of the Primordial Beast churned and released waves of power as for the first time in its life, this terrifying beast actually felt fear!

A wave of savageness crossed through its eyes, its draconian phoenix-like jaws opening towards Noah's descending figure and the Primordial Wheel of Extinction behind him as this terrifying beast began to spit out one of the unique attacks of Primordial Beasts.

CAA! ROAAR!

The cry of dragons and phoenixes resounded as a [Primordial Breath] was released from the Primordial Beast.

A glorious crimson pillar of Ruination blasted out from its jaws, this pillar of light moving faster than the speed of light as it instantly devoured Noah's figure and the Primordial Wheel of Extinction behind him!

But...!

WAA!

When King Augustus and the other Antiquities squinted their eyes, they could still see that within the pillar of ruination snaking out from the Primordial Beast, Noah's figure was still crossing through it as he neared the jaws of the beast.

Like a glimmer of light cutting through the red, the expansive white wheel behind him looking even more pristine as the Primordial Breath bounced off of it!

Even the Animus Summons coming to aid Noah found their eyes glimmering at the beautiful and fantastical scene, Noah withstanding the Primordial Breath of Ruination as a Cosmic Treasure rotated brightly on his chest and sucked in all the destructive blasts around him, his figure reaching the beast an instant later.

"..."

The surroundings turned utterly quiet as his pulsing right hand shimmering with a myriad of Runic Dao Lines tore into the jaws of the Primordial Beast and actually stretched towards in exposed throat, Noah's figure sinking into its muscles as he disappeared into the body of the Primordial Beast!

...!

BZZZZT!

The Primordial Wheel of Extinction continued to turn as the eyes of the Beast were filled with even more savagery, its internal state beginning to heat up when it heard a set of words that would come to spell doom for many of its kind.

"[Universe of Turbidity]."

Quiet words stretched out as from within Noah's Origin that now held dozens of Universes, with a majority of them being Splendiferous Universes- a normal one burnt and disappeared.

With its disappearance, the essence of a Ruination, Primordial, Conquest,? Extinction, Chronos, and Reincarnation ran wild as from within the body of the Primordial Beast, a Universe was born!

An unstable and shockingly potent universe filled with the most destructive forms of Cosmic Dao Essences, Noah watching with his own eyes as the compressed universe began to shake unstably before in the next moment...it shattered.

BOOOOM!

Those watching were stupefied at the scene playing out as the moment Noah's glistening figure had disappeared into the body of the Primordial Beast, its eyes and muscles began to contort and expand as it there was something ballooning inside it that it could not bear...and this majestic golden furred beast had its tough bones and muscles ruptured and exploded out in the next moment as golden chunks of flesh and blood sprayed out gloriously!

WAA!

Along with this was a terrifying wave of force that even pushed away Noah's Animus Summons that were coming to help, this wave of force even stretching out towards the figures of Antiquities from the Indigo Universe as it washed over them and caused them to spurt out bulbs of blood.

...!

A shocking attack that ended the life of a Primordial Beast!

When they all recovered, they refocused their eyes at the scene before them as all they saw was gold amidst the crimson red of the Ruination Sea.

River of golden blood had sprayed out as a terrifying beast had actually exploded from within, the cost of it being a forged Universe from one's origin!

To Noah, this was only the cost of a few hours' worth of hard work as he could forge a few Universes within a single day after he obtained the stupendous boosts from the Nomological Edict of Samsara.

His figure floated alone where the center of the beast used to be, with his body being entirely bathed in gold as his eyes still held a trace of might and battle intent!

But his focus had now turned above him, where he could see a pulsating Primordial Heart shimmering gold and white, drawing in the pristine golden rivers of blood around it as a supreme treasure was being forged.

It wasn't the small heart that Noah was given by the Primordial, but a genuine and full Primordial Heart that was a few thousand miles in size!

Chapter 1160 - Indigo Cosmos! I

A Primordial Heart a few thousand miles in size!

Such a thing caused Noah's heart to beat faster as he approached it, sensing its overabundance of essence as it drew in all the surroundings golden rivers of blood.

It glistened gold and white all over as other colors soon began to occupy it, Noah going forward as his luminescent right hand grabbed onto this Heart and pulled out a chunk from it thoughtfully!

THUMP!

It released waves of power as the chunk that he pulled out vibrated powerfully, very quickly condensing and turning into a smaller looking heart the size of his thumb.

"Hmm?"

His eyes flashed with light as he waved off his hands again, cutting off a huge chunk of the heart that was a few tens of miles, watching this fleshly mass also wriggle powerfully before it formed into a heart the size of his head!

The Treasure that was the Primordial Heart seemed like an extremely unique one, and this instance allowed Noah to know that the Primordial had only given him a small section of a Primordial Heart before! Granted, it was from a Grand Primordial Beast, but he now held a genuine Primordial Heart that was a few thousand miles long.

Imagine how many universes and Marks of Antiquity such a treasure would give! Even more so when he Duplicated it with the Cosmic Treasure of Ruination...

THUMP!

The enormous heart continued to release waves of power rhythmically, its enticing light washing over all the beings nearby as some Antiquities from the Indigo Universe had unknown lights sharply cross through their eyes.

The Primordial Heart before them represented many things, just some of them being a vast advancement in one's level of power and might!

With it, one could also produce multiple Antiquities, and this was exactly what a certain being that stood above a myriad of Cosmos had done!

But for now, they could only stare at it all from afar.

SHAA!

The figures of the Blue Slime and Obsidian Panther arrived beside Noah as they also looked with hungry eyes towards the heart, the Blue Slime even going as far as to form a mouth and salivate while glancing at the thumping multicolored heart!

Tiamat in her draconic form also came over along with the rest of the summons, her voice grumbling out her discontent.

"You could at least give us a chance to be useful..."

The booming voice turned into a pouting one as she returned to her human form and came in front of Noah, a light laugh being released from him as he patted her head while waving his other hand and causing the enormous Primordial Heart to disappear.

The luminescence around them dimmed a little as the Ruination Sea calmed, only golden chunks of flesh remaining in the surroundings, and even these chunks were pulsating with power and awe!

Noah also collected these largest chunks of this beast as he wanted to see just how the taste of a Primordial Beast would be under his skills as a chef, the Ruination Sea gradually becoming cleared of any evidence that a Primordial Beast was here as only wisps of golden blood remained.

After the defeat of the Primordial Beast, Noah turned his eyes towards the direction of a torn Universe, his gaze being met with the eyes of multiple Antiquities that stayed behind the repairing barrier of the Universe and Cosmos.

The few of them had differing expressions as the one and only King Augustus came forward with a light smile- as if the shocking events that had just occurred had no bearing whatsoever as he called out.

"Friend! We are a bit restricted with our own power and cannot come out to give you our thanks. Please, come into our Cosmos so we can host the one to get us out of this predicament today!"

WAA!

The air of regality spread out from this being as he recovered faster than anybody else, pacifying the unique atmosphere as he straight away clarified their position while inviting Noah!

With a light smile, Noah returned atop the body of the Colossal Helios Leviathan as his Animus Summons did the same, all of them becoming smaller as they went towards the boundary of the Indigo Cosmos.

Before them were 5 Antiquities that were followed behind by millions of beings from the stages of Hegemonies until Monarchs, the one at the very forefront being the sharp King Augustus that was currently smiling warmly as he watched Noah and his summons near the boundary of the current universe and step in.

"Seeing that you don't have the unique attire of the Primordial Empire, is it best to assume that Friend stems from another location from the vast Seas of Ruination?"

Noah observed the Antiquities before him and their varying expressions and power, picking up a great deal of details as he returned to focus on the wizened old man before him that had the aura of a powerful ruler!

"Primordial Empire?" Noah heard this term as he stepped before these beings with his summons, questioning in a light tone as his words caused the eyes of King Augustus to brighten up as he floated before Noah without an ounce of fear.

"A surprise to have a Daolord like yourself not stem from the Primordial Empire around here! Please, allow us to express our thanks as we can share some knowledge between us as we go. We can call Young Friend Daolord..."

King Augustus spoke questioningly as Noah heard the term Daolord once more, looking towards this Antiquity with curiosity as he voiced out lightly.

"Osmont."

THRUM!

Noah uttered his name as uniquely, this alone caused a glorious air to suffuse out as Augustus nodded and began to point towards those behind him.

"Daorlord Osmont, this is my son Alexis Marcus Tiberius, my daughter Lexis Marcus Tiberius, and our close compatriots Charles of the Blue Seas and Viola of the Vast Plains! I myself am Augustus Marcus Tiberius...and I welcome you to our little Indigo Cosmos!"
