Chapter 1161 - Indigo Cosmos! II

An introduction was made as Noah laid his eyes on those mentioned. The two siblings- Alexis and Lexis, all had prominent glimmering white hair, this being even more prominent on Lexis that had this white hair cascading down her shoulders and even being long enough to cover her bountiful chest.

Her expression was one filled with an intelligent light as her eyes were gazing thoughtfully at Noah and all those around him!

Alexis had a careful expression as he looked forward with an impassive expression, this being looking like a suave middle aged man as his black robe covered expertly built muscles underneath it.

But as he looked at Noah who seemed even younger than him and the sense of power he wielded, a myriad of emotions passed through this being as he kept them hidden underneath!

The ones that King Augustus termed compatriots were powerful Antiquities that similar to Augustus and his children, had dozens of Universes glimmering brightly within their Origins.

The two of them gave polite bows to Noah as they expressed their thanks, Augustus waving invitingly towards Noah as he spoke to the Antiquities behind them.

"You all take care of everything here as I welcome Daolord Osmont. Lexis, come and help get things ready!"

His eyes gave many commands as he spoke, motioning for his son, Charles, and Viola to oversee the boundaries and areas of the destroyed Universe as well as the army behind them while he took in Noah and his party further into the Indigo Cosmos.

Noah was looking and feeling the atmosphere of the Universe and Cosmos around him as it truly felt uniquely different from the one he knew, this current universe he was in actually being filled with wisps of blue as he could actually see vast sparkling cerulean rivers stretching out across the void of space!

Bodies of water...snaking across the void of space!

Each of them glimmered brightly as unique lifeforms at the level of the Void Rank and above could be seen within.

King Augustus saw the scene of Noah marveling at the surroundings as he was about to speak, but his daughter beat him to it as with eyes flashing with a thoughtful light, she spoke.

"Seeing as you must be a visitor from a faraway Cosmos, we can introduce somethings to Daolord Osmont. We're currently in the Bluefield Universe, one of the many universes within the Indigo Cosmos that shared the unique feature of vast bodies of water stretching out across the void and within its Galaxies..."

With an elegant demeanor, Lexis Marcus Tiberius began to introduce the new land before Noah as behind them, the figure of Alexis looked at this scene closely as he began to give orders, he and the other 2 Antiquities beginning to move busily!

Noah was listening carefully to the introduction he was being given, nodding here and there as soon enough, he posed his own question as they floated past the boundary of the Bluefield Universe and entered another.

"You mentioned the Primordial Empire?"

His question was directed to the King in front of him as he smiled lightly, an unknown light crossing through his eyes as he actually sighed before he spoke.

"Yes. The Primordial Empire. The force that oversees a myriad of Cosmos- this one included, and the ones we sent word for help when the Primordial Beast first appeared. In exchange for our...allegiance, the Daolords and Antiquities of the Primordial Empire will come to our aid whenever they are called upon!"

His eyes carried a myriad of emotions when he said this, a light of anger crossing through his and his daughter's eyes at the fact that even now, these beings they sent word to help had not appeared!

Augustus had a thoughtful look as he floated forward, his aged eyes thinking of many things before they turned decisive, turning around and facing Noah as he spoke.

"For the account of saving us from making any sacrifices against the Primordial Beast, I can share some knowledge with Daolord Osmont...as I know that is what you want the most!"

WAA!

Noah's eyes flashed as he reevaluated the old man before him once more, nodding his head as he saw the daughter of this King Augustus begin to emanate waves of power that released an Isolation Field around all of them.

This was a unique power of hers that allowed them to disappear into multiple layers of folded space, none of them being able to be perceived or seen in the outside space as whatever they talked about would be that of utter secrecy!

In this space, King Augustus breathed out as if a heavy weight was on his shoulders, glancing at Noah with a serious tone as he asked.

"Daolord...if I were to ask you on what you think the most precious resource in a Cosmos is, what would you say?"

The most precious resource in a Cosmos!

Noah had not expected such a question as he thought deeply, evaluating what he had experienced himself in the Primordial Cosmos as Tiamat voiced out an answer behind him that caused King Augustus to smile in an apologetic manner.

"Of course, it is the Hegemonies and Antiquities that can defend the Cosmos in times like today!"

"Ah...I'm afraid not, my Lady!"

The reply from Augustus caused Tiamat to raise her brows, turning towards Noah as she saw him reply with a smile.

"It is the uncountable Quintillions of existences within it."

RUMBLE!

Yes!

For the many instances, the most precious resource within a Cosmos was not not its experts or a unique treasure that was found within it, but it was actually the myriad of beings that littered the Cosmos in large numbers!

"Yes." The gaze of King Augustus had turned serious as he spoke. "The existences within a Cosmos are the most important...and this is because all Hegemonies and Antiquities need them to achieve greater Realms of Power."

The eyes of Tiamat and the other summons shone sharply as a lesson began to be given by the king of another Cosmos.

For one to achieve Antiquity, they had to step into the Universal Filament Realm that could only be done after they transformed their Origin fully with 100 Billion Marks of Antiquity.

Everytime they wanted to increase their strength thereafter, they had to utilize another 100 Billion Marks of Antiquity to create Splendiferous Universes, their path to power always being limited by the number of Marks of Antiquity!

If one could obtain a precious treasure like a Primordial Heart, such an ordeal would be surpassed as they could forge multiple Splendiferous Universes with it, but those who could freely obtain such treasures already had thousands of Universes or were already in the Cosmic Realm!

So for the vast majority of existences...they had to obtain their strength from amassing Marks of Antiquities, and the most direct and efficient way to do this was to oversee and influence quintillions of beings across a myriad of Universes...or even Cosmos.

"Ruling over and influencing countless quintillions of existences gives a huge boost in the Marks of Antiquity in the beginning, and the Marks continue to form over the years as one would just accumulate strength as time passes."

King Augustus spoke as he stared out across the hidden folds of space they were in and spoke shocking words.

"This truth is what brings about our current situation...this truth is the reason behind everything that occurs in the Primordial Empire, in the Empire that Aegon the Conqueror forged!"

Chapter 1162 - Indigo Cosmos! III

For Antiquities to advance, they needed the common people!

The quintillions of existences across Universes were the resource they depended on to obtain their Marks of Antiquity, as very few had the ability to traverse the Ruination Seas to search for, much less win against a Primordial Beast.

"Antiquities fight over the influence of their Universes and Cosmos, and Emperor Aegon revolutionized this as he created a vast Primordial Emperor with a myriad of Cosmos under his influence, all others working under him to oversee these Cosmos as it caused the rise of Kings below the single Emperor."

King Augustus spoke as if it was ancient history, Noah listening to his words carefully as he picked up on the name Aegon once more!

This was more than likely the terrifying figure he saw with the Primordial, many things fitting into place as Noah was gradually outing the pieces of the puzzle together.

"Along with all this...there are the guidelines of newly discovered Cosmos that come under the banner of the Primordial Empire..."

When new Cosmos were discovered by the Primordial Empire, they were placed under their protection as its Antiquities were given a method to contact the forces of the Primordial Empire if any problems ever arose- with these problems almost always referring to an attack from a Primordial Beast!

"Herein lies another truth that very few know...the fact that once a Cosmos had been found an attacked by a Primordial Beast, it will inevitably continue to attract such terrifying creatures as if it has been branded- making it easy for it to face subsequent attacks whether it is a few days or thousands of years later!"

This new information caused Noah's eyes to change as King Augustus continued.

"This key truth is also something that Emperor Aegon used to his advantage as he...would gather close all the Universes that have survived the attacks of Primordial Beasts into his Primordial Empire, making it so that he and those below him would face these terrifying beasts whenever they come as their power...is something none of us can fathom!"

WAA!

It was a stupendous action that guaranteed the safety of a Cosmos, but it had its own disadvantages as along with this...

"Such an action means many things, but the most important thing is that when a Cosmos fully becomes a part of the Primordial Empire, they fall under its rules. The most important rule under Emperor Aegon states that...power goes to the strong."

...!

The gaze of this old King turned somber at this time as he stared at his daughter, Lexis seemingly urging him on as she nodded, this being sighing and continuing.

"Power goes to the strong...so all newly joining Cosmos more than always have their ruling forces deposed and put under the influence of one of three most powerful forces within the Primordial Empire!"

"All so that the precious resource of quintillions of existences within a Cosmos falls under those who are truly strong, and it is not divided into weak kings that cannot contribute in the battle against the Primordial Beast. Emperor Aegon has established many rules on this process, but the core of it remains that the stronger will get even stronger...while the weaker will perish under the vicissitudes of time."

The strong get stronger while the weak only get weaker!

It was an ideology that Noah couldn't argue with, the more he heard about this Emperor Aegon- the more he became impressed with this being!

Just who could drag a Cosmos across the Ruination Sea and place it as part of their empire?

Well, Noah could if he wanted- but he wondered of what means an existence like Aegon was using to transfer an entire Cosmos across the Ruination Sea.

This was a Cosmos!

Something countless light years in diameter that the numbers were something we couldn't truly comprehend, and yet an existence could actually cause a Cosmos to change locations within the Ruination Sea.

This was the power of Aegon the Conqueror!

As Noah was introduced to something huge in the Indigo Cosmos, his main body in the Infinite Cosmos opened its eyes in the Ruination Realm as he stared into his Expansive Space.

There, an enormous pulsating heart could be seen as the parts he had cut off had rejoined the original one, the heart that was the size of a Large World pulsating beautifully as he took it out of the Expansive Space.

WAA!

An air of majesty and power emanated from this fantastic treasure, Noah looking at it with shining eyes as the Cosmic Treasure within his Primordial Ruination Clone was quickly transferred into his Origin, the pulsing RUINATION appeared beside him as he voiced out calmly.

"You can duplicate it even if it is this big right?"

<Size doesn't matter to me, Master!>

THRUM!

The moment its words finished, a crimson light shone from RUINATION as it bathed the multicolored heart that was still majorly gold and white, this crimson light wrapping around it entirely as the enormous heart was somehow quickly pulled into the small Cosmic Treasure!

BZZT!

Waves of intense power undulated over the treasure for the next few seconds, the seconds becoming minutes as the process took some more time, but time was nothing for Noah. In another few minutes, rays of red light emerged from RUINATION as along with these lights, two world sized hearts emerged from it.

It was the seamless duplication of a genuine Primordial Heart, one that even Noah didn't know how many Universes and Marks of Antiquities it would help him forge!

"Well, let's find out!"

WAA!

With his multicolored hair flying around madly, Noah's hand landed on the world sized Primordial Heart as he felt as if he connected onto a vast entity, surging energy oppressively shaking within it as its energy began to come in waves into his Origin.

It could be transformed into essence to forge Galaxies and Universes, or what could change the nature of their normal Daos into Dao Galaxies as they forged Splendiferous Universes. For Noah, he was going to do it all as he would turn all his remaining universes into Splendiferous ones and also forge even more, wanting to breach past the barrier of just dozens of Universes to go above a hundred!

Chapter 1163 - We Are The Protectors! I

WAA!

Vast droves of essence swirled around Noah as his hair waved madly, his Origin accepting the unique essence of the Primordial Heart as he focused on just one at this moment. As he saw millions upon millions of Dao Galaxies being forged, he was also making plans for sharing this wondrous treasure with his people as with it, he could effectively raise multiple antiquities and elevate the power of those with specific Archetypes to a greater level.

All of this...stemmed just from killing a single Primordial Beast as the importance one could place on such existences was not little.

And even though Noah was placing great importance on the type of treasure that was a Primordial Heart, he was actually still majorly off on its importance- as it was even higher than he could have imagined!

With the Primordial Hearts, things that were insurmountable and unimaginable one day could only be seen as an inevitability the next day!

The strong get stronger while the weaker get weaker!

These words rang out clearly in the minds of those listening to King Augustus, the face of this powerful antiquity returning to utter calm as he voiced out.

"The Indigo Cosmos will soon be pulled into the vast Primordial Empire as with the terrifying Antiquities and Daolords there, even though the subjects I have been overseeing for millions of years within this Cosmos might be safe, the fate of all of us will fall into the hands of whatever power in the Primordial Empire deposes my family!"

...!

The eyes of this Antiquity and his daughter flashed powerfully at this, their eyes focusing on Noah at this moment as King Augustus spoke hesitatingly.

"But...getting the chance to meet Daolord Osmont might open up another path tha-"

THRUM!

Right at this crucial moment, a robust voice reverberated out from a shimmering medallion that was attached to the robe of the white haired King Augustus!

"Father, the Antiquities of the Primordial Empire have arrived!"

...!

The voice of Alexis Marcus Tiberius rang out as an unhappy expression covered Augustus, looking at the buzzing medallion as he sighed and then spoke apologetically towards Noah.

"I'll have to cut it short for now and go see the Envoys of the Primordial Empire."

Augustus nodded to his daughter as she waved her hands to return them to the visible folds of space, Noah's eyes lighting up at the coming information as he spoke out with a light of interest.

"Antiquities of the Primordial Empire? I'm curious to see them myself...we shall follow!"

Tides of destiny churned as the King of the Indigo Cosmos nodded with wise eyes, their figures returning to the Bluefield Universe where other guests had arrived!

"Are you joking? A single being took out a Lesser Primordial Beast? Someone not from the Primordial Empire?"

RUMBLE

A booming voice filled with power and pride dominated out towards Alexis and the other 2 Antiquities left behind, this voice stemming from a powerful Antiquity that was releasing waves of Primordial Essence!

He was surrounded by 4 other Antiquities that either had Primordial or Ruination Essence surrounding them- these existences being the Envoys that came after hearing the call for reinforcements from the Indigo Cosmos.

Alexis glanced at their robes that had a golden insignia of a mythical sword, his eyes lighting up as he replied with a smile.

"Respected Envoys, the one to take care of the Primordial Beast alone was a Daolord..."

...!

The words caused the eyes of the 5 Envoys from the Primordial Empire to constrict, looking at everything more closely as they looked at the chunks of glimmering meat and blood that could still be seen floating in the Ruination Sea!

A Daolord! One that didn't stem from the Primordial Empire as he came from an unknown location. And this being had not only defeated the Primordial Beast but...

The eyes of the leading Antiquity raised up as he spoke out domineeringly.

"And the Primordial Heart?"

Yes! The treasured Primordial Heart that could open up doorways of possibilities- the thing that if any of them obtained, they could advance their might greatly! Getting the chance to even find a Primordial Beast was rare, and the Indigo Cosmos fell under the jurisdiction of their family but...someone else had snatched it right under their nose.

Seeing the expressions of Alexis and the other two Antiquities, the Envoys from the Primordial Empire could infer all they needed to know as the leading figure harrumphed and spoke out powerfully!

"And where is this so-called Daolord right now?"

The voice was that of power and full of unblemished pride, where even though it was talking about a being that had more power than them, they seemingly weren't afraid as these Envoys dared to talk like this!

"Oh, are you looking for me?"

THRUM!

From the boundary of the Bluefield Universe, a voice stretched out to reverberate in their ears calmly, a figure materializing before them as he was followed by a myriad of summons and the stout image of King Augustus and Lexis.

Augustus looked towards his son Alexis with a stern face that was utterly filled with disappointment for him giving such information freely, looking towards the Envoys of the Primordial Empire as their eyes were not even focused on him.

Their 5 pairs of eyes were focused on Noah alone as he carried himself with a unique air, the two sides locking gazes with each other as Noah laid his eyes on the beings from the lands that Aegon the Conqueror ruled!

Each of them was adorned with a white robe that had the symbol of a golden sword, this golden sword being further distinct as it had a green flower blooming from its hilt.

The golden sword represented the Primordial Empire, and the blooming green flower represented the power within this Empire that these beings stemmed from!

Their very bodies screamed regality and majesty as they weren't just nobodies- they were existences from the Primordial Empire! These were beings that had lived for millions of years in a prosperous environment, one that had powerful families in the lead as they enjoyed a certain treatment throughout.

Pride and arrogance were ingrained in their bones, and they knew this in their hearts as they didn't bother to correct it! After all, they were the ones stemming from the Bastion of Reality, the place where Aegon the Conqueror ruled with an iron fist...the Primordial Empire!

So even against a foreign Daolord, these beings were fearless!

"We were. Daolord Osmont, is it?"

RUMBLE!

Chapter 1164 - We Are The Protectors! II

5 white robed Antiquities that screamed of power and majesty, all of them looking at Noah without an ounce of fear!

Noah found this extremely unique as he stepped forward, looking at them curiously as he wondered just what such beings would do. Two were drop dead gorgeous women that looked to be in their 30s, aging gracefully as they looked like beings that were in the wet dreams of many men! The other three were men that seemed to be in their 40s, their gazes filled with power and knowledgeable light that distinguished them from others.

The one at the very forefront and the four behind him had shimmering verdant green hair that made them extremely unique, their bodies pulsing with power as they gazed at Noah carefully before a voice rang out again.

"You must be from an undiscovered Cosmos, having bided your time well until you could reach such a realm of power...I commend you for that!"

Words said with a tone that one wouldn't think it was a lesser ranked being speaking to a higher ranked one!

Even though the 5 Envoys from the Primordial Empire were only at the level of Antiquity as they comprehended either the Cosmic Daos of Ruination or the Primordial Dao, they actually talked towards Noah as if he was on the same level as them if not lower.

Noah's eyes turned sharp at this as his body floated forward, leaving the boundary of the Bluefield Universe as he stepped into the Ruination Sea where these beings floated serenely. His body began to emulate waves of power as he floated forward, but this seemingly wasn't put in the eyes of the 5 Envoys as they continued.

"Since you come from the wilderness and do not know the rules...we will not penalize you as we will simply teach them to you."

RUMBLE!

"The Primordial Beast you hunted and took the Primordial Heart of...you did so in the territory of our Springforge Domain. Whatever Primordial Beast falls in our domain...its spoils are ours for the taking."

...!

In a straightforward manner and without even blinking, the frontmost Antiquity said this to Noah fearlessly, Noah almost looking at these beings as if they were utterly stupid to be talking the way they were! They must be over a million years old if not more, right? Why would such beings be carrying themselves in such a manner when talking to someone obviously stronger than them?!

Noah's eyes turned sharp as he floated a few feet away from them, looking at these beings closely as he voiced out calmly.

"Are you...are you actually telling me that you want the Primordial Heart of a Beast you never defeated because it fell in a region you say is your own?"

WAA!

His words were calm but filled with power, causing the brows of the Antiquities to become stern as their verdant hair glimmered with even more light.

Yet neither of them backed down as instead of answering Noah's question, they glanced at Noah with even more coldness!

"Titus, what are we?"

The leading Envoy from the Primordial Empire spoke out calmly without even turning around, calling upon someone behind him as an Antiquity stepped out and locked his eyes with Noah.

His eyes glanced at the right hand of Noah that held striking Runic Dao Lines that still gave off a wave of power, this being floating forward to actually stand just a few inches away from Noah's face.

His gaze was somber as his eyes were serene, his hand going forward on his robe to touch the insignia of a golden sword and blooming green flower on its hilt as he spoke out mesmerizingly!

"We are the Chosen. The Protectors of the Bastion of Reality. We are the embers that will burn bright even in death, with our legends becoming myth across the River of Time."

RUMBLE!

A shocking set of words that seemed to hold boundless power erupted out, the very air becoming more oppressive as even Noah's gaze turned cold!

The Chosen! The Protectors of the Bastion of Reality that was the Primordial Empire!

"From the House of Springforge, we oversee these lands as ordained by the Emperor of the Bastion of Reality...by Aegon the Conqueror himself! Do you dare blemish his name and deny his authority?"

WAA!

An Antiquity that had a glimmering manifested Origin of a few hundred Universes stood before Noah, this being having a tremendous amount of power, but it wasn't his own that he was using! He actually used the name of someone else that had such immense and overwhelming influence that others could do nothing but kneel before it!

These Antiquities from the House of Springforge were actually using the name and Authority of Aegon the Conqueror as they wanted to extort the Primordial Heart that Noah had obtained all on his own.

A treasure of such immense significance that these beings couldn't just let it fall into the hands of just anyone when the beast appeared within their Springforge Domain, with these beings standing up against Noah as if he was nothing!

And truly...in the larger grand scheme of things in the perspective of the existences of the Primordial Empire that knew themselves as the very defenders of Reality, as the last line of defense against terrible yet fantastical beasts that roamed the vast Ruination Seas...to them, Noah was nothing.

Just a mere Daolord! How could he compare to the Daolords within the Primordial Empire? How could he compare to the Protector of Reality himself, the Emperor that stood over the Bastion of Reality!?

BZZZT!

An overpowering sense of power began to fly out at this moment as Noah's gaze turned utterly cold.

His essence moved as his right hand began to shimmer brightly, a myriad of Runic Dao Lines beginning to snake throughout it as a terrifying air erupted out!

The Antiquity that was mere inches from him still had a somber face full of majesty as he withstood this pressure, his Universal Filament filled with hundreds of Universes shining gloriously as he didn't budge.

The other 4 behind him were the same manner as their bodies began to undulate with power, a fight seemingly about to break off at any time!

Chapter 1165 - Remember My Name! I

Two sides facing off as it seemed like a battle could break off at any moment, Noah's right hand beginning to shine with a glorious array of colors as the pressure of Runic Dao Lines caused waves of power to undulate from him!

The five verdant haired beings had their origins shimmering brightly as they seemed ready to go, their eyes calm as if they still didn't think Noah would make a move against them.

At such a crucial juncture, the wizened voice of an old man began to stretch out of the barrier of the Bluefield Universe.

"Envoys of the Primordial Empire, I'm sure there is no need for any of this."

WAA!

The aged voice of King Augustus stretched out, the bated eyes of many beings that were watching the show at the edge of their seats all turning to look towards him as they found this powerful Antiquity to actually be stepping out from the vast boundary of the Bluefield Universe!

"Father!"

Lexis called out in shock as she and all the others knew all too well that he had not comprehended the Primordial Dao or the Dao of Ruination. He could use his own power to ward off the Ruination Essence outside, but he wouldn't be able to do it for long as it could overwhelm him at any moment!

Yet he stepped out slowly as his while his body looked old and decrypt, his eyes glimmered with an intense light as a strong barrier of all the Dao Essences he controlled wrapped around his body tightly.

His white hair shimmered in the crimson sea that was trying to devour him alive, his figure floating forward as he came to stand beside Noah and speaking out in a somber tone.

"A hundred thousand years ago, the Indigo Cosmos was found by the Envoys of the Springforge Household from the Primordial Empire, coming under their domain and protection. I understand very well the rules that whatever falls in the Springforge Domain is under your jurisdiction...but I also know that you do not take from your own people!"

RUMBLE!

The eyes of Augustus shone with innumerable lights as his gaze seemed to contain countless galaxies, his voice continuing to flow out.

"We are also a part of the Springforge Domain, and we have rights as such we can keep the spoils of battles to ourselves. This Daolord before you...is part of our Indigo Cosmos as his spoils are our spoils. The rules of the Primordial Empire are clear...with the Great Conqueror stating that the spoils that others worked hard to obtain cannot be deprived from them by pure force, and there are proper methods for this. I am sure that the renowned Envoys will not be open to stealing from your own people?"

The eyes of the Antiquities that had called themselves the Protectors of the Bastion of Reality shone brightly at the words of King Augustus, Noah also gazing at this being and reevaluating this old man over and over again as he saw his stout essence continue to try and fight off the raging Ruination Sea around them, but the protection could fall at any moment as the Ruination Sea was too deadly!

His expression was impassive as if his essence wasn't being drained out of him at this very moment, where death could come at any moment...but he was placing his trust on Noah as he avoided conflict with existences that had Daolords, existences that stemmed from the Primordial Empire!

Noah's eyes flashed brightly as he placed his hand on the figure of Augustus, Ruination Essence beginning to wrap around him protectively as the seas that were trying to devour him became calm. Noah then gazed towards the Envoys of the Primordial Empire that continued to speak out coldly.

"Your son's words made it seem like this was a foreign existence that just happened to appear here. Are you sure you want to swear the future of your Cosmos for him?"

THRUM!

The air was palpating with power as Augustus's eyes dimmed at these words, turning towards his son as the light of disappointment flashed again as he spoke out slowly.

"My son is not privy to the secrets of the Indigo Cosmos, with the one groomed to be the next Ruler being my daughter. Of course, the knowledge of Daolord Osmont was not shared with him. But he has been with us all this time as he is a resident of the Indigo Cosmos that will soon be officially becoming a part of the Primordial Empire! The rules of the Great Conqueror have to be followed...I am sure the Envoys do not dare wish to blemish his name and authority."

WAA!

The words of the old man wire tight nit as no gaps could be seen, Alexis looking towards him in shock as his figure began to tremble, while the Envoys turned utterly silent at having the same exact words used against them at this time!

Many beings were brought to a stupor from the actions of the old King, the glimmering white hair on this being's head fluttering in the Ruination Sea as he effectively avoided conflict against powerhouses of the Springforge Household of the Primordial Empire.

Under the rules of Aegon the Conqueror, the possession of others could not be taken blatantly as there had to be proper methods taken between different powers and families for all those in the Empire! If Noah was a part of the Indigo Cosmos that was about to be fully tied to the Empire, they couldn't use their influence to simply take the Primordial Heart from him!

The surroundings were eerily quiet as no side spoke.

Noah kept his gaze locked with the 5 Envoys as they seemed indecisive, but their brows quickly raised in happiness as they looked towards a certain direction. Noah also looked in this direction even faster than them as his eyes constricted, seeing a flash of light coming before them as its voice stretched out before the figure even fully formed!

"Haha, what a good King Augustus! You're as wily as when I first discovered your Cosmos. You must be very blessed to produce a Daolord in just over a hundred thousand years."

RUMBLE!

Instantaneously, a terrifying new aura appeared before everyone, forming into the shape of...a kid that couldn't be any older than 13 or 14!

This existence looked like a mere boy, but half of his entire body was filled with glimmering Runic Dao Lines as he released waves and waves of pressure.. A simple white and green robe covered him as the insignia of the golden sword and blooming green flower could be seen, his eyes shining with an iridescent glow. His verdant hair danced wildly above his head as he gave a cheeky smile towards King Augustus, his eyes locking with Noah as the Ruination Sea began to churn!

Chapter 1166 - Remember My Name! II

A Daolord!

An existence that had assimilated Ruination and the Primordial Dao, and then had then begun to deconstruct and reconstruct daos to brand them to their bodies and soul!

A Daolord from the Primordial Empire had actually arrived, his face full of smiles as nobody took his stature as a mere kid seriously.

The five that were standing before Noah actually bowed towards this being as they called out reverently.

"Daolord Azazel."

The five Antiquities treated this existence with much respect as he nodded lightly, looking towards Noah and King Augustus as he spoke with a beaming smile.

"So, are we sticking with the story that this Daolord here is someone from your Indigo Cosmos?? All of this is for a Primordial Heart mind you, something that even stronger Daolords than me covet- something that even my Family Head would want to get his hands on. Are you all sure you can keep it after your Cosmos joins the Primordial Empire with the regulations you will fall under?"

THRUM!

His face was all smiles, but his words were full of threats and terrifying pressure, Noah's eyes gazing at this being coldly as [Eyes of Truth] only granted his name. The Runic Dao Lines running across half of his body showed off immense power, making Noah calculate how a battle with such a being would play out.

But against his battle intent, he would learn more about the terrifying Bastion of Reality that this Aegon had built before he began conflicts. After he learned everything about them...he wouldn't mind giving them a good beating and wiping the arrogant smiles off their faces!

"Daolord Osmont has the Indigo Cosmos as his home as much as I do. If there is nothing else, we will be preparing for the movement of our Cosmos as we won't delay Daolord Azazel any longer."

The strong voice of King Augustus replied calmly even at this time, the vibrant light on Noah's hands dying down as his stern expression was wiped away and replaced by a smile. The opposing Daolord matched his eyes as he nodded with shining eyes, his voice stretching out as he came to float a few inches from Noah.

"Daolord...Osmont, is it?" With eyes full of childish mocking and ridicule, Azazel came before Noah with his power flaring out madly, Noah nodding towards him as he replied with a smile.

"Osmont. It is a name that I promise you will remember!"

RUMBLE!

As if thunder had smashed down, the bright smile on the face of Azazel slowly faded as he nodded, waving his hand to the 5 Antiquities behind him as they began to turn into streaks of light and fade away. Azazel himself began to flicker with light as he spoke out.

"We eagerly await your entrance into the Primordial Empire, Osmont. The Great Conqueror has already been notified of this Cosmos as it should be taken away in the next day or two. Be ready."

WAA!

With these words, this being disappeared as the terrifying pressure in the surroundings faded away! King Augustus stared at the scene with a somber gaze as he then turned his eyes towards the vast Cosmos behind him, as well as the innumerable faces that depended on him!

Across the vast sea of Ruination, 6 figures were shooting forward to a certain location with cold faces. Daolord Azazel was in the lead as one of the 5 Antiquities behind him spoke out slowly.

"Daolord...we have always made moves in the dark before, why don't we hiddenly return to that Indigo Cosmos and rip apart their rulers, taking the Primordial Heart even before they join the Empire?"

A cruel set of words reverberated out as the childish face of Azazel merely shook, his reply coming after!

"Anything that our Great Emperor will touch in a few days, we don't take any actions towards it. After they become part of the Empire and things settle down, it won't be a problem to call for Writ of Challenge against them as they will lose the rights to their Cosmos and all the treasures they have. Even moving in the dark...we can think of it then."

His words were extremely commanding as the Antiquity that just spoke nodded, a sharp light crossing the eyes of Daolord Azazel as he continued to think about the one known as Daolord Osmont. When he thought of this being...he had a prickly feeling that told him not to make a move just now!

Even though the being seemed to have fewer Runic Dao Lines than him, there was something that made him not take any risk and silence everyone in the surroundings for a Primordial Heart.

He didn't know what it was, but as someone that had lived for millions of years, his senses were very sharp!

'I'll have to let the Family Head know. A Primordial Heart is too precious to be left in the hands of bumpkins...'

SHAA!

Their figures tore through the void of Ruination as they made their way back to a grand location in the vast Primordial Seas. As they did this, they had no knowledge that a fight light years away from them, a set of red eyes were watching them calmly.

These eyes were as large as Galaxies, making one wonder just what terrifying size the existence holding the eyes boasted! Such a presence was actually looking at the figures of a Daolord and Antiquities coldly without making a move, none of them being the wiser that they were being watched!

In this vast Ruination Sea, there wasn't just the Primordial Empire that boasted to be the Bastion of Reality...there were also other forces that very few knew about! Existences far more horrifying than what most believed, existences that would terrify Hegemonies and Antiquities alike if they ever came to light.

The existence currently watching in the darkness was one of them! Its titanic eyes turned its gaze from the figures of Daolord Azazel as it looked towards the Indigo Cosmos, locking onto the figure of Noah that was talking with King Augustus, as well as the Cosmos behind them.

Its eyes flashed coldly as this existence remained still, merely continuing to watch in the folds of the Ruination Sea silently!

Chapter 1167 - An Emperor Shifts A Cosmos! I

"I didn't want you to have a conflict because of saving us, especially against a force connected with an existence capable of forming an Empire within these vast and chaotic seas!"

The figures of Augustus and Noah were floating in the Ruination Sea as they watched the direction that Daolord Azazel and his party left in.

Noah had a smile on his face as he spoke lightly while turning to face the old King.

"You want to bind me to your Cosmos?"

RUMBLE!

Noah didn't beat around the bush or play any games, getting to the heart of the issue of what this wily old King had done to prevent a conflict just now!

He made it so that Noah stemmed from the Indigo Cosmos, and so the existences from the Primordial Empire had to treat him as such.

They couldn't fight him or bully him, the only thing they could do being possible after the Indigo Cosmos joined the Primordial Cosmos fully in the coming future!

"Partly!" The gaze of King Augustus was starry as he turned to focus his eyes on Noah. His aged face seemed to have seen the vicissitudes of time as if he had seen it all, his voice continuing out.

"Becoming enemies with even a party of beings from the Springforge Household means becoming enemies with the whole Primordial Empire...with Aegon the Conqueror himself!"

WAA!

"But once you are part of the Empire, you can fight them as much as you want and they can fight you as well- all in the battle for supremacy as there will be no consequences."

...!

"Oh?" Noah's interest was perked up as he stared at the old man that continued with a somber tone.

"A Writ of Challenge. The Kings of Cosmos can issue such Writs to other Kings under the regulations of Aegon the Conqueror, where the one that comes out to be the strongest in this publicly displayed battle will be the Victors and take everything from the one that loses!"

"The quintillions of existences within their Cosmos that they depended on for the continued source of Marks of Antiquity, those in their families...and all the treasures they have goes to the Victors."

"There is absolute order in the Primordial Empire, with these Challenges being allowed as the Great Conqueror believes the strong should rule...but they have to prove their strength clearly in the open without any underhanded means."

What an Emperor!

What a Ruler!

King Augustus spoke more of such an Emperor and the Bastion of Reality he made, their two figures receding from the Ruination Sea and returning to the boundary of the Bluefield Universe.

"My actions might not have been without other motives, but I hope Daolord Osmont can be with my Indigo Cosmos as you get a chance to see the Primordial Empire. As long as you don't have obligations that need you from your home, I hope you can be with us as the one to lead us against the Writs of Challenges that will be issued to us soon enough!"

"The benefits are all yours...I just wish to keep those within my Cosmos safe as they don't fall under the banner of the Households of the Primordial Empire, becoming mere pawns that get handed off from one king to the next. I wish to keep my family safe so that others cannot claim them to do whatever they wish with them!"

King Augustus was gazing towards his daughter as he said this, their two figures arriving past the boundary and entering the Bluefield Universe as the Antiquities within came forward with worried faces filled with shock.

This was even more so for Alexis Marcus Tiberius, who could barely form his words as he looked at his father with a mix of emotions!

"Father...I...you...!"

This powerful Antiquity was still incredulous at the fact that his father had stripped him of his future kingship and given it to his sister so fast, even inviting an outsider that was stronger than them to sit above them.

He...was unwilling to accept this!

Augustus turned his gaze towards his son as it was filled with disappointment, his voice ringing out.

"Over the last tens of thousands of years...I've seen you increasingly make bad choices throughout! Your actions today made me realize you will not change, wanting to sacrifice your own people and even freely giving information to your enemies as if they were your best friends. Bad judgment through and through...your sister will be more than enough to replace you!"

RUMBLE!

A grand proclamation was made as the Antiquity felt like multiple attacks pierced deep into his heart, looking betrayed and shaken all at once as he stared at the cold face of his father until he could take it no longer, not being able to withstand all the gazes as he turned into a streak of light and sunk deeper into the Indigo Cosmos in indignation.

Noah looked at this soap opera as he nearly laughed, speaking out with a smile towards King Augustus.

"We all can see how this will play out, right? A son who should've obtained everything being stripped of it as his little sister takes it all and even someone like me coming into the picture...I'm pretty sure your son will become a spy or betray you soon enough to whatever wolves lie in wait in the Primordial Empire."

...!

His words were ones that weren't normally said, causing the Antiquities nearby to glance at each other as Augustus's aged face obtained a few more wrinkles while he sighed and replied.

"I'll take care of that, Daolord. Please, get yourself acquainted with our Cosmos. Lexis will inform you of a few more things and show you our Universes, choose any that you wish to take as your abode. We will discuss some more soon enough."

Augustus seemed to have aged a few more years with this encounter, giving commands to the Antiquities Viola and Charles as everything became busy, leaving Noah and his party to glance towards the woman that was just crowned to be the future Queen of the Indigo Cosmos!

Lexis Marcus Tiberius glanced towards Noah with a dazzling smile as her white hair cascaded down gracefully. Her eyes carried a hint of grace, maturity, and confidence that was rarely seen in a woman.

She was currently adorned in a light blue robe with white embroidery that made it extremely unique, matching her glimmering white hair beautifully as her sonorous words rang out as if what just happened didn't concern her at all.

"Daolord Osmont, please. I can continue the tour and tell Daolord all we know about the Primordial Empire..."

Her smile and words caused Tiamat to let out a harrumph as she glanced at Lexis closely, Noah giving a light nod as he and his summons followed this Antiquity into the Indigo Cosmos once more!

As all of this occurred, far across the folds of space, in the Ruination Realm.

Noah's main body was laughing madly as he saw a vibrant number of Splendiferous Universes that now surpassed 100, his eyes letting out beams of light as he spoke out gloriously.

"Good! Good! With this...why don't we burn some Universes and form more Runic Dao Lines?!"

RUMBLE

Ceaselessly and without stop, Noah continued to look for the path forward as he prepared to elevate his strength even further!

Chapter 1168 - An Emperor Shifts A Cosmos! II

At this moment, Noah's main body was floating in the Ruination Realm as his figure let out an aura of majesty. His top was bare as his fair skin glistened like crystalline jade, his eight packs looking sculpted to the point of them being fake as he only had thin black pants that billowed in the winds of the Ruination Realm.

On his chest, one could see the illusory manifestation of a Universal Filament, but it didn't just have 30 something Universes as currently...over 100 Splendiferous Universes could be seen!

Each of them having been forged with over 100 Billion Dao Galaxies from the essence of the pulsing Primordial Heart before Noah as it had shrunk by a few hundred miles. There was still a vast amount of it left as it was akin to a world, Noah expecting to produce hundreds of Splendiferous Universes from this treasure when he devoured all of it, and this still didn't put into account the second one that he had duplicated through his Cosmic Treasure.

"But now..."

He uttered under his breath as he stopped absorbing the essence of the Primordial Heart briefly, looking at the Splendiferous Universes within him as he wanted to further elevate his power after he came in contact with Daolord Azazel, if just a little.

Even though he knew with the boosts of the Nomological Edict of Samsara, he could take on a being with a level of power like him- he still wanted to be able to dominate in the battles he fought, not just be capable of matching others in power!

So he turned towards his fully assimilated Lesser Daos as the light of Conquest began to shine brightly, the star above him glimmering in the light as he spoke out.

"Let the light of Conquest shine on the Daos of Alacrity and Void-Space."

Just two Lesser Daos, ones that would be enhanced from their 5,000% boost to 10,000% after their enhancement with the Cosmic Dao of Conquest! Noah could only afford to spare Lesser Daos like these as he didn't plan to touch any other Grand or Cosmic Daos until he found a solution on the issue of Nomological Edicts and Runic Dao Lines.

Noah adopted a serious expression as he began to burn two Splendiferous Universes, the assimilated essence of Ruination coursing through his body as it began to burn the 2 Daos and deconstruct them while using the burning essence of the universes as fuel.

This was the price of power! The price that Noah wanted to overcome as after these daos were deconstructed, he didn't have their comprehensions nor could he comprehend them again!? It was a barrier he wanted to overcome so that he could have a vast array of Daos to work with when he tried to fuse them to possibly create an Edict!

This was also the reason why he was taking the deconstruction and reconstruction of Daos slowly, waiting for a solution to this issue. There were already a few possibilities that Noah was looking at, with the design of a new Cosmic Dao being a solution...or the possibility of a third Trait!

A Cosmic Dao or a third Trait aside from Infinite Mana and the Protagonist might show him the way...this was what his vast destiny and fortune told him!

But he currently watched as the two daos were broken down into primordial Runic Dao Lines, the Primordial Essence weaving in as it put them together expertly and caused the lines to shine with a glorious allure.

They then snaked into Noah's body as the Runic Dao Tattoos on his right arm began to swirl like snakes, the new Runic Dao Lines weaving across them as they began to populate across Noah's shoulder and cover his right chest!

They magisterially went over his right side as they began to brand themselves further down, wrapping across his right thigh and stopping at his knee. Now, the right side of his body was covered with primal looking ancient tattoos almost completely, giving him a wild look as they pulsed with power.

When he activated them, he saw the space around him breaking and tearing apart as he smiled lightly, stopping his supply of essence as the area around him calmed down. He breathed out slowly at this shocking sense of power as he then turned towards the glimmering Primordial Heart before him, his right hand raising as he struck down and released blades of light that went on to cut a few miles of the heart before him into multiple sections!

The cut up sections vibrated gloriously before they formed into their own hearts of varying sizes, Noah calling them to him as he released more sharp lights to cut off sections of the enormous Primordial Heart and form smaller ones. He couldn't just advance in power alone, and there was an entire Cosmos before him with existences he could elevate to become powerful Antiquities!

Lexis Marcus Tiberius.

This was the name her mother had given her, and the name that she wanted to ring out across the Cosmos!

She had grand ambitions, but she was limited with her meager talent to cultivate, only being able to achieve where she was at right now by putting in twice the work others had to put in...and by relying on the help from her father.

By ruling over the Universes of the Indigo Cosmos under her father, she had achieved Antiquity. Even though her brother was an unchangeable fool that her Father had only chosen to admit after hundreds of thousands of years, he was still the one that was in line to lead as she wasn't the first choice!

With the appearance of a Primordial Beast and the inevitable joining of their Cosmos to the Primordial Empire, even with her Father's strong protective feelings of his family...she half expected having to make the choice of joining the House of Springforge as a Concubine of their arrogant Antiquities or Daolords.

As a Ruler of the Indigo Cosmos and bearing the responsibility of ensuring the safety of all those within it, it was a sacrifice she was prepared to make! This was because the terror of Primordial Beasts was much more terrifying, so they had to instead face the challenges of the Primordial Empire.

But now...she saw a different path glimmering brightly before her, a path of possibility that lay in the appearance of the unique Daolord that had appeared quite literally from nowhere- and it was a being that could easily rebuff Primordial Beasts.

Her eyes lingered on his figure alone as she spoke about all the information they had gathered on the Primordial Empire through the Envoys that passed by over the years, ignoring the looks she was receiving from the dragoness Tiamat.

"Apart from the House of Springforge, the other two prominent forces in the Primordial Empire are-"

...!

Her words trailed off before she could finish as while gazing at Daolord Osmont's figure, she saw and felt a wild wave of power erupting from him as brand new Runic Dao Lines could be seen coalescing beneath his robe and covering the right side of his body, his expression smiling apologetically as they calmed down a second later and looked towards her while speaking lightly.

"You were talking of the forces within the Primordial Cosmos?"

Nonchalantly! Magisterially! Daolord Osmont simply carried on with such an attitude as he added terrifying Runic Tattoos on his body!

Chapter 1169 - An Emperor Shifts A Cosmos! III

Lexis recovered from her stupor as her brilliant eyes shone, finding her voice once more.

"Hmm? Ah...yes. Aside from the House of Springforge..."

Even as she spoke, her mind was buzzing with shock as she just saw this Daolord casually increase the number of his Runic Dao Lines while he was being given a tour of a Cosmos!

What a level of power! What a being!

At this juncture, Lexis fully decided that after her Father's push of tying this being to their Cosmos, she would do all she could to change their fate and bind him even closer to them, no matter the price. A being like this was worth more than any of the arrogant Daolords populating the Primordial Cosmos and thinking of themselves better than all others as the Protectors of the Bastion of Reality.

'Daolord Osmont...'

She repeated his name in her mind as her eyes flashed sharply, revealing all the information she could before things began to drastically change and they were pulled into the Primordial Empire!

The information that Noah gained from the future ruler of the Indigo Cosmos was vast, increasing his knowledge of the Bastion of Reality that Aegon the Conqueror had made greatly!

Within this vast Primordial Empire, there were three forces that were the most prominent. The one that Noah had just met the Antiquities and Daolord of were known as the House of Springforge.

The second faction was known as the House of Stormdust, and the third was the House of Havenbreaker!

Three powerful factions that all stood strongly under Aegon the Conqueror.

This was much of the information that the Antiquities of the Indigo Cosmos could find from coming across the forces of the House of Springforge in the last tens of thousands of years, with the hierarchy of these factions still being in the dark, as well as the knowledge of just how many Daolords and Antiquities being hidden.

But this was something that Noah could slowly find out for himself in the future to come, a few hours passing as they visited the myriad of Universes within the Indigo Cosmos under the lead of its future ruler- Lexis Marcus Tiberius!

Noah followed the lead of this woman closely as he could see the light of ambition in her eyes, merely laughing at such a light inside his heart as if anyone thought they could use him to achieve their aims...they would more than likely find themselves beneath his feet without even knowing what had happened.

Everyone had their own goals and aims in these vast Cosmos. King Augustus and his daughter had their goals, and they knew that Noah had his own. Even though they wanted to tie him to their Indigo Cosmos for the sake of keeping their rulership and safety in a dangerous new Empire, they knew this had to come at a price...Noah just didn't think they knew the price they would have to pay!

That price...was fealty!

King August had said that he wanted Noah to lead the Indigo Cosmos against the Writs of Challenges that would come after this Cosmos joined the Primordial Empire, and that the benefits of winning these Challenges would all fall upon him. This was already a stupendous price to pay as they effectively barred themselves from future advancements, and they would have to rely on Noah to make any achievements.

Of course, if they fully came under Noah without any ulterior motives, the achievements they could make would be out of their wildest dreams!

"What are you thinking about, Daolord?" Lexis Marcus Tiberius saw that Noah's gaze was far as he was thinking of something, their figures stopping in the void of one of the central Universes in the Indigo Cosmos as this future Ruler asked with a smile.

Noah's bright eyes locked onto her as he spoke sharply.

"I'm thinking of the Writs of Challenges, and all that I could obtain." His words were straightforward as they caused the heart of the Antiquity to tremble, but her smile was as bright as ever as she replied gracefully.

"Unimaginable prizes. If crowned Victor, Daolord Osmont can obtain an entire Cosmos to influence, powerful weapons and unique treasures...anything that th-"

THRUM!

Her words never finished.

The gazes of all those around changed as they suddenly felt an overpowering pressure descend over everything, their hearts feeling constricted and fearful as if they were the smallest ants, and an enormous boot was about to step over them!

It wasn't just the Universe that they were in, but all the existences within the myriad of Universes within the Indigo Cosmos felt this overpowering wave of essence cover them as they couldn't move a single muscle.

Their very origins were frozen as those that could move were nearly zero.

Nearly!

Among the myriad of beings within the Indigo Cosmos, there was currently Noah. His origin also felt this overpowering force descend and limit his movements to nothing, but he felt as if he could burn some of his Universes in addition to activating his Runic Dao Lines...he could move!

He could also pull upon the Nomological Edict of Samsara as this...would also allow him to move!

But he did not do so. He did not need to. The overpowering that had arrived wasn't for him, but it was for the whole Indigo Cosmos. The promised transfer of the Cosmos from its current location and into the Primordial Empire did not happen in the next day or two as Daolord Azazel had said, and it instead occurred in a matter of hours.

A terrifying presence had wrapped up the Indigo Cosmos at this moment!

If one were to be capable enough to observe the shocking scene in its full scope, they would be able to lay their eyes on a vast Cosmos countless light years in size. Yet below this Cosmos, there was an existence a few million light years in size currently hoisting this Cosmos on his back, his arms placed below its thick boundary as if he was pushing up a heavy rock.

Even though this being was a few million light years in size, he still seemed like a speck of dust in the span of the Cosmos that was an unknown billions of light years in diameter...but this being still caused the position of this Cosmos to shift as he pushed up!

With his figure scintillating beautifully with colorful lights, an existence carried an entire Cosmos on his back!

Chapter 1170 - Stellar Bridges Secure A Cosmos!

Thereafter, waves of unique essence released from him as they went on to cover the entirety of this Cosmos, the body of this being shining a glorious array of colors as vast droves of essence rushed from him and traveled billions of light years instantly, covering the entire Cosmos instantly as it made it seem like a glimmering crystalline ball of light was floating in the vast Ruination Seas.

If anyone were to be watching this scene, they would find themselves to be utterly shocked as interestingly enough...there was actually an existence watching all this from afar! With red eyes the size of Galaxies, this existence was watching the figure hoisting the Cosmos with eyes flashing with hatred, but its Origin trembled a moment later as shockingly, the being below the Cosmos that was shining with an array of lights seemingly turned his head towards its direction.

Towards the hidden folds of space it should have been hidden in, a place that nobody should have found!

RUMBLE!

The hidden existences felt like eyes of utter calm and dominance locked onto it, a magisterial power being carried with this gaze as one of its eyes instantly ruptured!

The space around it began to fold and twist amidst its terror as this creature quickly left, leaving behind nothing in the surroundings except its utter horror and shock.

The colorfully glimmering existence that had turned its gaze towards that direction harrumphed coldly, his arms pushing up the Cosmos above him ever higher as even more droves of essence erupted out, causing an overpowering light to shine from the vast Cosmos as a second later...this entire Cosmos flashed away.

Disappeared!

The space it left behind was soon filled up by a churning Ruination Sea as with a matter of minutes, everything regained its calm.

No Cosmos, no hidden watchers, nothing.

Just the vast Ruination Sea and the vast secrets that lay within it!

After the awe inspiring aura covered the entirety of the Indigo Cosmos, it only permeated throughout for less than a minute at most before it disappeared.

Disappeared as if it was never there!

Every single being regained the ability to move as a moment later, the figures of King Augustus and the other two Antiquities Charles and Viola soon flashed beside Noah and his party, their faces grim as Augustus's ancient voice rang out.

"That should have been the aura of the Great Conqueror, which means our Cosmos has already been transported to the vicinity of the Primordial Empire!"

RUMBLE!

The reality settled into everyone's faces as they prepared.

Noah, on the other hand, could feel his destiny and fortune churning as he felt like he had arrived into a huge playing field of unlimited possibilities, his gaze shooting from the current Universe they were in as he peered past its boundaries to observe the outside environment.

The sight to see outside of the Indigo Cosmos...was one that could cause the jaws of even the most powerful and aged beings to drop just at its sheer grandeur and fantasy!

Outside of the Indigo Cosmos, Noah could see the vast outline of another Cosmos when he gazed in one direction, and he could see another Cosmos when he turned his head to another direction...all around them, everywhere that one could turn except a single direction- the boundaries of other Cosmos could be seen shining in a stellar fashion!

The powerful existence that had caused everything to come to a pause in the Indigo Cosmos had actually teleported this vast Cosmos from one location to another as it was now situated like a single circle in the outer ring of an extensively and unbelievably large circle...a circle that represented a ridiculous number of Cosmos.

To properly understand the scope of all this, we have to first talk numbers!

A mere world was a few thousand miles in diameter, and a galaxy was over 50,000 Light years in diameter. Keep in mind the conversion of a single light year being 6 Trillion miles! Now from a galaxy, we delve into a Universe. A single universe was on average 100 Billion light years in diameter or 33 Gigaparsecs!

A single gigaparsec equated to 3 billion Light years...and this is the scope of numbers that we are currently working with.

Now, with there being dozens of universes within a single Cosmos, one could estimate that the diameter of a single Cosmos with just 50 Universes was...1650 Gigaparsecs! That was trillions in light years! Such was the vast grandeur and fantasy that Noah was laying his eyes on.

His 2 meter human size was so infinitely small in the scope of it all as it was enough to make someone feel insignificant when he gazed at just the boundaries of Cosmos as wide as trillions of light years. It was enough to cause weak beings to shake as their souls broke from the sheer size of everything!

But Noah took it in slowly as he noticed something unique occurring at this moment around the barrier of the three nearby Cosmos that shared borders with them.

He saw...a vast rainbow colored cylindrical light that was billions of light years in size stretched past the boundaries of these Cosmos as they came towards the indigo Cosmos, these vast cylindrical lights having a flat rainbow colored surface at the bottom as they looked like...bridges!

Pristine multicolored stellar bridges stretching out from three Cosmos as they snake out across the Ruination Sea to smash into the barrier of the Indigo Cosmos as they tore through it and spilled into one its universes!

THRUM!

Coincidentally or not, one of these stellar bridges tore the cosmic layer of the Indigo Cosmos and the universal layer of the Cosmos that all of its Antiquities were currently in, the eyes of Noah and all the others turning upwards as far above them, they saw the appearance of a vast tunnel that shone with glorious light and splendor.

...!

A tunnel...a bridge that tore through one cosmos to another that existences could use to easily move across these Cosmos as they wished without having to traverse the Ruination Sea!

It was the appearance of the Primordial Scaffolding that connected the vast number of Cosmos in the Primordial Empire!
