

Mana 1171

Chapter 1171 - Roll The Fuck Out! I

The scene was such of pure wonder and fantasy as it even caused Noah to marvel at it, the bridge spanning billions of light years actually occupying a tenth of the boundary of the current Universe they were in, and there were three of these bridges that now connected into the Indigo Cosmos!

Going across this bridge alone was akin to passing through a tenth of a universe, the ends of it releasing an incandescent multicolored light that permeated the surroundings and caused an influx of atmospheric essence to rush into their current universe.

As if the other end of this bridge was connected to a Cosmos that had far better quality and quantity of essence, and how could it not be so when it was a Cosmos that was already connected to a vast number of other Cosmos in the Primordial Empire?

All of the Antiquities were still marveling at this scene before them as it was only now that things seemingly came to a level of calmness.

But this calmness didn't last long as from the three connected glimmering bridges, the auras of powerful beings could be felt crossing it and coming to enter their Cosmos!

Augustus turned towards Noah at such a juncture as he sent a mental message.

"Daolord Osmont...this is where I entrust the honor and lives of the quintillions of existences in the Indigo Cosmos to you."

WAA!

A brilliant golden light erupted out as Noah only smiled lightly, his head nodding briefly as he had his own thoughts, his gaze and the gazes of everyone here stuck on the enormous rainbow bridge before their eyes as the figures tearing through the folds of space faster than light soon arrived at the entrance of their current universe!

A party of twelve beings made their appearance, all of them clothed in white robes with green inscriptions, a golden blade with a verdant green flower blooming from its hilt being present on the right side of their chest as all of these beings had bright verdant hair that made them stand out.

It was the existences stemming from the House of Springforge, two Daolords coming before their eyes as 10 Antiquities floated behind them!

The smiling figure of Daolord Azazel could be seen as his face was filled with a smirk, the other Daolord being an expressionless woman who looked towards them with unbounded arrogance and pride, her head raised so high that it seemed her chin was raised too much!

But these weren't the only shocking beings to make their appearance as from the other two rainbow colored bridges, the auras of beings no less than them entered the Indigo Cosmos as they all congregated into this Universe where the auras of all Antiquities and Daolords were clustered in.

In a matter of seconds, Noah and the others were able to see another group aside from the House of Spring Forge, two groups of beings appearing to their right and left as the level of strength was no less than what Azazel and his group released.

12 powerful existences in each group similar to the House of Springforge, but they were all dressed in their unique attire as the group to their left sported pristinely gold clothing, the men adorned in gold-laden suits that looked extremely sleek while the women were adorned on gorgeous golden dresses that all fashion icons would scream for!

They also held the insignia of a golden sword on their chest, but this golden sword was surrounded by three gold halos as it gave it a sacred feel, this entire group of existences looking unapproachable as their two Daolords were a man and a woman that looked extremely alike as if they were twins, their hair also glimmering a mixture of white and gold.

From the descriptions Noah had received beforehand...this was the group from the House of Havenbreaker!

Unapproachable and lofty, looking over everything below them with extremely disdain as their name alone was enough to stand for itself.

Havenbreaker!

But the third and last group could not be outdone, 2 Daolords and 10 Antiquities coming forward as these beings were adorned with engraved red and black robes, their heads sporting similar dark red hair for the men and women alike as their eyes were filled with a light of power.

These were the existences from the last and third force within the Primordial Empire, the House of Stormdust!

RUMBLE!

All of them arrived in a stellar fashion as the Daolord at the front of these groups looked closely at Noah's group, ignoring most of the Antiquities as their eyes landed on Noah and Augustus beside him.

The voice of Azazel was the first to ring out.

"Daolord Osmont and old Augustus...it is the honor of our House of Springforge to be the welcoming committee of your Cosmos into the Primordial Empire."

With a childish mocking tone, Azazel spoke with a bright smile as the other Daolords glanced in his direction distastefully. The two Daolords with vibrant black and red robes from the House of Stormdust came forward with sharp eyes, glancing at Noah carefully as the woman spoke out commandingly while waving her hand to release a glimmering crystal.

"We welcome the new champions from across the sea into the Primordial Empire. This Primal Crystal contains base information on the regulations and laws of the Empire, as well as your rights and the rights of the three Houses that oversee everything!"

WAA!

As the Daolord spoke, her commanding voice reverberated throughout as it drew distaste from other Daolord, but she continued regardless as her eyes focused on Noah.

"The most important piece of knowledge will be about the Writ of Challenges that determine the flow of power in the Primordial Empire...and the fact that your Indigo Cosmos will have a one week grace period before you have to choose to accept a Writ of Challenge from one of the three Houses! We hope fellow Daolord and the Antiquities around you will choose wisely when the time comes...as such an action will decide just which House you will fall under!"

...!

Domineering! Powerful! Her eyes flickered with red light as the Daolord spoke, Runic Dao Lines swirling powerfully beneath her robe as she spoke of the Writ of Challenges where victors would have everything while the losers lost everything.

The way that she talked...she made it seem like it was an inevitability that when this Writ of Challenge was issued, those fighting for the Indigo Cosmos would lose as the only choice that mattered for them was who they chose to accept the Writ of Challenge from!

The mere possibility that the forces of the Indigo Cosmos could win the Writ of Challenge didn't even appear in the minds of these beings, their power and arrogance being put on full display as this was the first impression that Noah had of the powerful forces moving within the Primordial Empire!

Chapter 1172 - Roll The Fuck Out! II

"Hmph, Daolord Ilyad...why would they bother accepting a Writ of Challenge of a lesser House?"

The two Daolord that looked like twins from the House of Havenbreaker floated forward as their auras vibrantly matched those from the House of Stormdust, the female Daolord turning and locking his gaze towards Noah's direction as he spoke out with a ridiculous amount of pride.

"Little Daolord, if you wish for an easy life and a future of great prospects...accept the Writ of Challenge from the House of Havenbreaker. We'll be able to change even aboriginals like you into those worthy of being Protectors of the Bastion of Reality."

...!

When these powerful existences said these words, they genuinely thought them to be of help and mercy as they didn't notice the heavy insults they came with, the hearts of Augustus and others shaking in anger as Noah only had a smile on his face as he waved his hands to pull in it Primal Crystal holding information on the Primordial Empire.

"Then I'll thank Daolords for your stupendous hospitality."

Noah had a light smile as the Daolords from the House of Stormdust and Havenbreaker nodded approvingly, seeing this as the perfect demeanor that bumpkins like him should have when meeting with such graceful and powerful existences like themselves!

Under the weight of the powerful forces inhabiting the Primordial Empire, what could new entrants do but bend the knee and grovel at their feet for resources and influence?

Azazel looked at the scene occurring with sharp eyes as he didn't expect the Daolord he was careful of to actually have no backbone, but the situation rapidly changed in the next moment as the voice of this Daolord continued to ring out.

"Since the kind Daolords have made the trip over to our Indigo Cosmos and acted their part as the welcoming committee...why don't you all roll the fuck out of this Cosmos for now?"

...!

RUMBLE!

The surrounding void began to tremble the moment Noah's words finished, the Daolords that heard them not sure if they had heard correctly!

But they registered very clearly as all of their gazes changed and turned utterly frosty, their Runic Dao Lines swirling majestically as they locked their gazes onto Noah that was playing with the Primal Crystal containing the information of the Primordial Empire on his palm, his voice continuing to echo out!

"We have a week grace period before we have to accept the challenge, yes? No moves can be made against this Cosmos and the existences within it before then, so I suggest the great Daolords and the little Antiquities they came with to fuck off for now until that time. I'll give you all the answer then."

THRUM!

His words became more and more domineering as time passed, the smile on his face gradually wiped away as it became one of utter coldness!

Tiamat looked at this scene from her master as the heart of this dragoness fluttered.

She wasn't the only one as even the ambitious Lexis Marcus Tiberius saw herself turning towards Noah in shock and awe as her body felt lightning course through her!

King Augusts was the one most shocked as he never expected this side from what Noah had shown before, but the Daolords and Antiquities from the Primordial Empire were even more in a stupor as they never expected a being they considered lesser to ever talk to them in such a way.

"IMPUDENT!"

WAA!

The twins from the House of Havenbreaker released the word in synchrony as their eyes blazed out rays of golden light, ancient Runic Dao Lines beginning to swirl on their bodies as the pristine suits and golden dresses hugged them tightly!

"A little thing like you dares?!"

The Daolords and Antiquities from the House of Stormdust merely blinked as the void above them changed color, turning into a metallic red tinge that threatened to devour and overwhelm every single thing right then and there.

"Haha...haha!"

Meanwhile, Azazel had begun to laugh in a raucous manner after seeing Noah's reply, his side being the only ones that seemed to be simmering in anger amidst the laughter.

They were the prestigious existences of the Primordial Empire! The Protectors of the Bastion of Reality! They were existences that had lived for a very long time and knew very well of their qualities of arrogance and pride...but they deserved to be so based on what they had accomplished!

Who was this being before them to disparage that and talk to them in such a manner?

RUMBLE!

The surroundings quaked and tumbled as if everything could shatter into nothingness at any moment, but Noah simply continued to play with the Primal Crystal within his hands as his now cold voices continued to echo out.

"Under the rules of the Great Conqueror, no harm or moves shall be made against any existences of a newly joining Cosmos for the period of 1 week. I want to ask the Daolords before me...are you all planning to reject the rules of the Great Conqueror? Are you all planning to rebel against the guidelines of the Emperor?"

His voice was cold and steady, perfusing into the minds of all those in the surroundings as their wild and flaring power came to a halt as they looked at this being incredulously.

Was he...was he actually using the rules of the Primordial Empire against them? After barely arriving here for a few minutes?

The void froze at such a development as the smiles were wiped off from the faces of the Daolord Azazel and others from the House of Springforge. The beams of golden light shooting from the twin like existences from the House of Havenbreaker calmed down as they stared coldly, while those from the House of Stormdust gazed on coldly as the tinge of metallic red disappeared from the skies.

Noah domineeringly raised his head to meet all of them as he continued to speak out.

"You cannot move a muscle against me, and you cannot remain within this Cosmos at this time. Thus, you can just scurry back along the same rainbow bridges you came from."

WAA!

Chapter 1173 - A Mere Nobody!

The area was utterly cold and palpating with battle intent as the auras of multiple Daolords spread out, but Noah's voice continued to ring out.

"If you wish to step onto this Cosmos again, just win the Writ of Challenge in a week, and you can choose to do whatever you wish to me and this Cosmos. The only question that remains is whether the party I choose can even win."

...!

His eyes seemed to be filled with ridicule as he gazed upon the angered and arrogant faces of the Daolord of the three Houses, his figure looking extremely domineering at this moment!

His hair danced wildly as his eyes released wondrous rays of light, locking his gaze with every single one of the Daolords from the Three Houses as he said the next words with utter clarity.

"Seeing the poor quality of Daolords before my eyes right now...the competition seems abysmal so far."

THRUM!

His last words were the nail in the coffin as the glimmering golden suits on the powerful Antiquities and Daolords of the House of Havenbreaker glistened dangerously, their eyes letting out palpable beams of light as the twin Daolord nodded vigorously, their voices resounding out a second later!

"Good! Good!"

With the utterance of the same word twice, the twins gave a signal as the domineering party of the House of Havenbreaker was actually the first to leave! They could do nothing by staying here unless they wanted to break the rules of the Great Conqueror, so they would rather not listen to another word that a mere nobody before them continued to utter due to his unique protection.

After them, the crimson black dressed powerhouses from the House of Stormdust gave Noah deadly gazes that could kill a few times over, the one female Daolord gazing towards Noah with deadly malice as she spoke out and enunciated every word slowly.

"You will find this to be the deadliest mistake you made since the beginning of your existence, little thing."

RUMBLE!

With her words cold and decisive, her face was raised high arrogantly as she continued coldly.

"When we strip you of your rulership and influence, I'll make extra sure to humiliate the men and women you are connected to first before I do anything to you. You mark my words."

With such hateful words, the powerful Daolords and Antiquities of the House of Stormdust turned into streaks of light that returned to their own magnificent rainbow colored Bridge!

This left behind only the figures of Daolord Azazel and the female Daolord beside him along with the party behind them.

Even though the female Daolord beside Azazel seemed about to speak, Azazel raised a hand to stop her as their party only stared coldly towards Noah.

Their white-green robes fluttered majestically in space as Azazel's voice flowed out calmly, his childish smile still present even now!

"Until next time then...Daolord Osmont!"

WAA!

With that, they returned to the glimmering rainbow colored Bridge above this Universe as their figures quickly disappeared, only leaving behind the stupefied Antiquities of the Indigo Cosmos and Noah.

As she saw the Daolords and Antiquities of the Primordial Empire turn into lights that left into the rainbow colored bridges they came from, Lexis felt her mind still buzzing in shock and stupor as her eyes locked onto Noah.

His recent words and demeanor while facing the horrendously powerful forces of the Primordial Empire played on her mind over and over again as she couldn't erase it even if she tried.

What guts! What power! What a man!

Her face unconsciously became flushed as when she gathered her bearings, she was shocked to find that on a certain private place on her body, it was somewhat damp purely from the thrill of watching Daolord Osmont control the situation and tell off multiple powerful Daolords from the behemoth that was the Primordial Empire!

"Ah..."

She could hardly believe that an Antiquity like her could actually have such a thing occur, using her aura to wipe away any evidence as if those around her could somehow see.

But her eyes and the eyes of all others locked towards Noah at this moment as if they could still hardly believe what had occurred, King Augustus not even knowing where to begin!

When King Augustus first laid eyes over Noah and judged his temperament, never did he expect it would be boisterous! So domineering!

The face of the old King was twitching constantly as he wondered what he had actually connected himself to...

But you then had the figures of Noah's summons, with the Blue Slime seeming gleeful as it bounced on Noah's head with happiness, Tiamat seen pulling herself even closer towards her master as her eyes flashed with powerful pride and reverence.

The other Animus Summons felt their hearts ignite with passion and power as they wanted to be capable of doing such a thing as their Master one day!

Such a feeling of power...was extremely enticing!

—

In such a manner, the welcoming parties of Daolords returned to the Cosmos they came from, each of them with their own thoughts as one thing remained the same- their thoughts swirled on a single Daolord Osmont.

In the Cosmos adjacent to Indigo Cosmos that was known as the Shimmering Cosmos.

Daolord Azazel led his party as the female Daolord beside him looked towards him carefully, her voice ringing out.

"Azazel, this Osmont..."

"He...is someone we have to be careful of! I know the others are seeing him as a mere bumpkin with an overinflated ego, but I felt something from him even before you met him just now...something that I can't put a finger on!" Azazel actually moved with care, his childish face becoming extremely somber as he replied to the Daolord beside him and continued.

"I'll write a report and send it to the Family Head just in case, but this Daolord Osmont...I don't like him or how he operates. We'll need to watch closely how the Writ of Challenge he faces in a week will turn out."

RUMBLE!

Chapter 1174 - Writ Of Challenge!

A new Cosmos had joined the Primordial Empire, and its entrance caused small waves to emanate out as the welcoming parties were actually rebuffed with utter disrespect!

Within one of the myriad of Cosmos under the jurisdiction of the House of Havenbreaker.

The two twin-like Daolords that just came from the Indigo Cosmos were bowing towards a figure of shocking prestige and power, a Daolord that had numerous Runic Dao Lines inscribed throughout her whole body as she emanated a notorious charm!

She was adorned in a golden dress that had unique inscriptions of white, her eyes cold as she glanced at the two Daolords below that spoke respectfully.

"Ancestor...the forces of this small Cosmos are actually so daring as to insult the prestige of all the Daolords of the Primordial Empire! They put nothing in their eyes as even if the Family Head was before them...they would probably be just as impetuous!"

WAA!

Their faces were utterly cold as they reported, but the gaze of the Daolord they termed Ancestor only nodded with a sharp light crossing her eyes as she spoke out lightly.

"I know you two are up next to manage another Cosmos and increase your pace in the collection of Marks of Antiquity, so I nominated you two to handle the Writ of Challenge for this Cosmos. But..."

The gaze of the powerful Daolord turned sharp as she continued.

"...this Cosmos has a Lesser Primordial Heart in their hands! Something that can produce multiple Antiquities and help one advance by hundreds of Universes. Many are eyeing such a treasure as you two are some of those that will uniquely be capable of sending a Writ of Challenge to them. You...cannot fail in this!"

...!

Her words were extremely commanding as the Daolords nodded, the two of them knowing full well the restrictions of the Writ of Challenge that a certain someone was learning about right now from a Primal Crystal.

"We don't know which Writ of Challenge this Daolord will choose, but be ready when the time comes..."

The carefully designed machinations of powerful existences began to weave wondrously, all of them targeting a single new Cosmos that apart from the Quintillions of existences within it...it had a Primordial Heart!

The inhabitants of this Cosmos were just now learning more of the Primordial Empire and the most important Writ of Challenge.

Within the Indigo Cosmos, Noah held the Primal Crystal as a fantastical light cascaded from it, knowledge flooding into his mind as his focus currently revolved around the Writ of Challenges!

What exactly were they?

They were a system established by the Great Conqueror to allow those with power to shine and rule over others!

The strong should lead, and the weak will remain so.

This was the system of power in the Primordial Empire!

But it had to be done in a proper way, and this was what Aegon established as the Writ of Challenges worked in a manner that would allow similarly powerful entities to fight and vie for supremacy. This is where the core of the Writ of Challenges lay- beings of similar power!

And the determinant of power in the Primordial Empire...was how many Cosmos an existence controlled.

'Kings' ruling and influencing a single Cosmos would be able to challenge other existences that rule over another Cosmos. Only the forces of these Cosmos would fight as the victor would take everything from the loser!

This system was designed with the knowledge that the most powerful Daolords would have multiple Cosmos they were overseeing, and weaker Daolords and Antiquities would only have a Cosmo or two that they looked over.

To prevent schemes of corruption where a tremendously powerful Daolord that controlled dozens of Cosmos momentarily relinquished control of them to only control 1 and then use his might to slowly win over lesser Daolords with Writs of Challenges, there was a time limit of them having to be influencing their cosmos for the past 100 years!

To be counted as a King overseeing a single cosmos, they had to have been doing this for 100 years before they could issue a Writ of Challenge to others who only controlled one Cosmos. After they won such a battle, they would right away be elevated to controlling two Cosmos as utilizing this method would grant nothing substantial in the end, so all powerful Daolords opted to increase the number of Cosmos under them as they amassed billions upon billions of Marks of Antiquity over the years.

This system will be explored more closely in the future for the sake of clarity, but all one had to know was that it was very hard to cheat this system of power!

But of course, the powerful Houses of the Primordial Empire always found ways to play things to their favor.

An example was the current Writ of Challenges that Noah could choose from the 'Kings' that stemmed from the three Houses, these beings each being in control of a single Cosmos just like him. Each of the Writs was from existences influencing a single Cosmos, and yet the forces of this single Cosmos included two or three Daolords!

Winning a battle against them would be nigh impossible for newly joining Cosmos that operated under different regulations than already established ones. But...that was only for other average Cosmos under average beings.

The Indigo Cosmos had Noah!

He absorbed the knowledge of the Primal Crystal as he made himself more and more clear of the Writs of Challenges and the other prominent things dealing with the Primordial Empire as the Antiquities around him looked towards him with worry.

"Daolord Osmont...was that wise to do?"

King Augustus spoke carefully as he looked towards the direction that the forces of the House of Stormdust had left in, these beings actually promising to not just take everything they had, but also to humiliate the forces under him as such distasteful words were not things that Augustus expected to hear from prestigious Daolords!

"Hmm?"

Noah glanced at this old ruler that was filled with worry as he let out a light laugh, looking towards the rainbow colored bridges that he now knew were called Primordial Rainbow Bridges and sometimes Primordial Scaffoldings as his voice stretched out powerfully.

"Against those filled with arrogance, you can only reply to them with arrogance! Otherwise, you will just be rolled over for the foreseeable future."

His eyes shone with power as he said so, those around him not being able to help but focus on his figure as he spoke. He looked as if he was larger than they perceived him, his back being extremely wide and dependable as he seemed capable of shouldering everything by himself!

Chapter 1175 - Making Antiquities Is Easy! I

Within the vast Primordial Empire.

In a Cosmos deep in the cluster of Cosmos within this Empire, an existence that was floating in a unique environment filled with the Primordial Essence and the Essence of Ruination opened her eyes.

Her verdant green hair washed over her shoulders as this existence looked extremely pristine, not a single layer of clothing on her as the glorious blessings were open, but there was nobody there to see!

All her proportions were so pristine that she was more than fully worthy of titles such as Miss Universe, if not Miss Cosmos!

Ruination and Primordial Essence wrapped around her tightly as her languid eyes gazed towards a certain direction, her hand raising as her fingers tapped the air and allowed the entrance of multiple Primal Crystals that contained bouts of information.

Much of it were things she expected and knew, the situation of the shifts of power within the Primordial Empire and which House was able to expand their influence across other Cosmos displayed before her. But her eyes raised as she came across a Primal Crystal from Daolord Azazel- one that included a certain scene of a new Cosmos being welcomed into the Primordial Empire!

"Oh?"

Her green eyes shimmered in the wondrous environment of the calm Primordial and Ruination Essence as her eyes locked onto the domineering figure of Noah on the scene playing out. The report Azazel sent along with the scene playing out only caused ripples to cross through the eyes of this being, but it was nothing more than that as she only gave it a bit more attention.

"Is there actually something there, or is it just some hot air?"

Her voice was like bells ringing throughout as she spoke with a smile, her hands waving the Primal Crystal containing this information and scene away as she moved on to other issues that pertained to someone like her!

Someone who was a king above many kings, someone that was the head of the House of Springforge!

In the unique space, her pristine body could be seen as it was utterly spotless, not a single Runic Dao Line in sight being seen on her body as it seemed to ring with another source of power.

Someone who oversaw the myriad of Kings within her House and controlled the expansion of their power into the territories of other Cosmos through the Writs of Challenges...she was a truly powerful individual, and it was a wonder as to why she didn't have a single Runic Dao Line inscribed on her stark naked body!

But her glimmering green eyes continued to move from one Primal Crystal to another as she sifted through droves of information, her fingers tapping the air every now and then as strings of commands were released.

—

In the Infinite Cosmos.

Noah was lying down on a field of lush golden grasses, a small picnic blanket beside him where the figure of Adelaide could be seen sitting regally with glistening foods all around her.

In her hands though, one could see a pulsating multicolored heart that released waves of potent essence that even caused the surroundings to take on a hue of multiple colors!

The two of them were currently in the Dark Universe of the Infinite Cosmos, in the land that used to be Noah's home as all around them were fields of glimmering golden grasslands with just the two of them having a picnic, a Primordial Heart in the hands of Adelaide as she looked towards Noah while shaking her head with a hint of shyness.

"Why would you give this to me first? I don't delve into any of the battles like everyone else...just let everyone else have these. I don't need to reach Antiquity so soon."

The Ice Queen loved the present she received profoundly, but she couldn't bring herself to absorb it as she thought about Kazuhiko and all the others who always fought on the front lines and could benefit from treasures like this much more!

"Hmm?"

But she only saw the man she was completely enamored with rising up and look at her with teasing eyes, his voice dancing in her ears.

"Oh, then who should I take it to? Barbatos? She'd get too excited from getting such a gift as I don't know what she'll do...Valentina? She's wanted to reach Antiquity the most over the years..."

His teasing eyes seemed to be thinking of many things as Adelaide harrumphed while she pouted at him mentioning other women during their time, her hand pulling the Primordial Heart back as she spoke in a sulking manner.

"Fine...I'll absorb it later. Or can we mix it with the food and eat it cooked?"

RUMBLE!

Dangerous words were mentioned from her mouth as she spoke of a prized treasure that even Daolords sought for as an ingredient for a meal, Noah smiling at such a scene as his eyes remained locked on her clear eyes. Clear eyes that he felt like he could get lost in and freeze in time as any worries faded away.

He shook himself out of his reverie as he spoke out lightly.

"Don't worry, the others will receive Primordial Hearts just like this to advance forward."

"Oh?" Adelaide raised her brows at this as her sonorous voice continued to echo out. "Just like this?"

"Well, yours was the first. You'll always be the first!" Noah was quick on his feet as he replied, causing a dazzling smile to appear on Adelaide as she nodded happily while putting glistening food on two plates.

"Come on, tell me what's happening in the Indigo Cosmos..."

Her fair fingers moved towards the food around them as she prepared a plate for Noah, his figure teleporting beside her on the picnic blanket as his eyes shone with light while his mouth moved, a smile still persistent throughout!

He had already begun to distribute the cut up Primordial Hearts to his people as at this very moment, they would soon be forging Billions of galaxies to set up their universes and then proceed to connect them.

Because they could amass Marks of Antiquity with the Primordial Hearts, they would be able to become Hegemonies and then Antiquities within the same day!

Noah was setting up his forces for a stupendous rise in strength as given their capability to borrow a percentage of his power and the boosts from their chosen Archetypes- it was bound to be a fantastical reality when he brought all of them into the Indigo Cosmos and fought against the forces within the Primordial Empire!

Chapter 1176 - Making Antiquities Is Easy! II

In the Infinite Cosmos, grand changes were occurring throughout in its upper echelons of power, the myriad of existences within experiencing spurts of growth they never would have believed possible!

Noah had only left for a few days, yet his clones came and passed out the stupendous Primordial Hearts from an existence that none of them could currently face.

Within the Novus Universe.

Waves of essence were undulating in a region of space as one could see the figures of multiple existences floating near each other, all of them clenching a Primordial Heart in their hands as they absorbed its stupendous essence to forge millions of Galaxies every second!

The figure of the glimmering golden Emperor Penguin could be seen floating majestically, his Galaxies already reaching 100 Billion as he was currently changing them into Dao Galaxies and connecting them, wanting to achieve the stupendous feat of having all 100 Billion be Dao Galaxies as they could connect them all to form their Universe...and then be capable of stepping into Universal Filament right away to become Antiquities!

It was a ridiculous reality that only those having access to treasures like a Primordial Heart could accomplish, and many of Noah's subordinates were taking this route.

Kazuhiko and Steel Mikhail could also be seen floating in the region of space near the Emperor Penguin and a few hundred other beings, their bodies undulating with power in this same manner as they had almost completely finished forging their Dao Galaxies. It meant that within a matter of seconds, multiple Antiquities would be born from these Existences that already had the Classes of Temporal Lords, Blood Rulers, Summoners, Annihilators, and much more!

The Oathkeeper was watching such a scene with disbelief as beside him, the body of the Goliath had become completely unshackled, his figure shaking as he saw the treasures before his eyes that would birth hundreds of Antiquities soon.

Something that he chased for countless years to achieve...and yet others would be achieving it so simply because of a single being! The heart of this aged unique existence shook as his figure trembled in the shimmering space, his ancient voice stretching out soon after.

"I pledge Fealty to the Tyrannical Emperor."

RUMBLE!

His voice echoed out in waves as a glorious light shined upon him, his body feeling the stupendous power coursing through him as he sighed with unknown emotions!

Oathkeeper saw such a scene as he nodded, his hand flashing as a pulsing Primordial Heart appeared. A heart that Noah had to cut miles of the primary one to form, the Oathkeeper sending this towards the Goliath as he spoke.

"Yours and Chronos's actions went forward to causing the quick rise of the Antiquity of Mana and contributed in making what we have now possible. If you fully wish to redeem yourself, achieve what you always sought to and be ready to fight for him."

The Goliath's body shook at such words, his hands grasping onto the pulsating heart as he could hear the whispers of something he sought for too many years.

Antiquity!

It was not being made possible in a way he never imagined, the black hole on this being's body shaking emotionally as he gazed towards the region above the few hundred beings that were absorbing Primordial Hearts just like these.

It was a clone of Noah's that was observing everything, the Goliath looking at this being as this oldest living being of the past Primordial Cosmos...kneeled towards Noah's figure while he began to absorb the Primordial Heart!

THRUM!

A stupendous show of Fealty from someone that had lived for millions of years to an existence that had barely lived over 20s!

It was a fantastical reality as while the Goliath began to absorb the Primordial Heart, the first set of Antiquities began to be born, Noah's clone observing all of them from above as bouts of power began to weave out.

RAA! RAA! RAA!

A fearsome bellow echoed out from a golden beaked existence, its flippers glistening with glorious power as its Origin showed a Splendiferous Universe and the initial few billions of Galaxies for a second Universe.

It was a Universal Filament as this first Spiritual Beast became a Hegemony and then an Antiquity a few seconds after!

BOOM!

The auras of other beings also began to explode as in another direction, the figure of Valentina could be seen shaking her head incredulously as she looked at the two glimmering Universes within her Origin. She had been seeking this greater level of power for so many years, yet a single man came into her life as he gave it to her in mere days.

Her eyes gazed towards the figure of Noah's clone with a light of fondness shining within it, her heart settling down as even a being like her felt her heart settle down, her very Origin settling down as she told herself she could put her everything on this single man's shoulders.

THRUM!

Such a realization caused the light of infatuation within her eyes to increase even more, her gaze remaining locked on Noah as she didn't take her eyes off of him after she became an Antiquity!

Near her, Barbatos, Elena, Anna, and even the War Princess Athena were shining with fantastical lights as their figures caused their surroundings to tremble as the levels of power they released.

YAA!

Vibrant bellows released from these women as they felt the birth of a second Universe within them, their gazes also turning towards the being that made all of this possible!

Meanwhile, Noah was overseeing all of this with a smile as while Antiquities continued to pop up with ease below him, he actually found himself to have a shocking thought that others would strangle him for if they heard it.

'Ah...so making Antiquities was this easy!'

RUMBLE!

A domineering thought as over his main body, countless Marks of Antiquity continued to rain down not just from the many beings that had pledged their Fealty to him and provided him a slow constant farming of these Marks, but also from the fact that he was responsible for the birth of hundreds of Antiquities.

The golden seas of Destiny and Fortune above him only continued to expand outwards, foretelling of an imperious future that even he didn't know where it would lead!

Chapter 1177 - Just Who Is More Domineering?!

As Antiquities arose in the Infinite Cosmos, Noah's main body was still in the Ruination Realm as he tried to tackle a particular issue he faced, and he had the time to tackle this issue at this moment as he had a week before the wonders of the Primordial Empire began to churn in full swing.

After a week, he would have to accept a Writ of Challenge from the members of one of the three Houses of this Empire, his influence beginning to expand as if he won...another Cosmos would fall under his lap!

And for as long as he continued to win these Writs of Challenges and prove himself to be the strongest, he could take the myriad of Cosmos that Daolords and Antiquities were controlling as he would make himself an enemy of all the established powers within the Primordial Empire.

He had to be careful, but most of all...he had to be powerful!

So he was tackling the issue of Nomological Edicts and Runic Dao Lines as he was currently talking with the consciousness of his Cosmic Treasure and the Cosmic Core of the Infinite Cosmos.

It was the question of the feasibility of another Trait or the design of a Cosmic Dao to possibly solve this issue, and exactly how to go about it!

<The addition of the trait of Protagonist was only possible due to my influence that overcame the universal rules, and you had to split your soul to achieve it before. The same thing would have to occur again as I don't recommend this route.>

The voice of RUINATION echoed out carefully in Noah's mind, the subject currently being on what made it possible for multiple Traits to arise!

With the split of a soul, Noah acted as if he was an entirely different existence being reborn in another Galaxy, his body being capable of birthing another trait. It wasn't something that he could do endlessly, as the splitting of one's soul was an extremely dangerous and arduous procedure that only succeeded based on the help from a Cosmic Treasure and the consciousness of a Galaxy Core.

<You could at most split your soul one or two more times to grant yourself a Trait, but it becomes exceedingly dangerous, especially with the high level you achieved. But a Cosmic Dao won't cost you anything, you can design one that can record all previously learned Daos or something along these lines.>

RUINATION was cautioning when it came to the splitting of one's soul and Traits, but the ancient voice of the Cosmic Core rumbled out around them a second later in a domineering tone!

<<It is just the splitting of a soul. He did before with a Galaxy Core, and I am currently a Cosmic Core. There would be very little risk of danger doing it this way.>>

RUMBLE!

<<Something you are also overseeing is that the body of the new soul doesn't have to be human, where we can design something more in tune with laws and Daos, possibly bringing forth something even more powerful than his main body or the Primordial Ruination Clone. I've already been running simulations of something like a Sacred Dao Physique or a Universal Race. A split of the soul also means three different entities that can use skills independently, increasing the number of Clones from abilities like Blood Clones by another 5. We must follow this method.>>

...!

The Cosmic Core was adamant on Noah splitting his soul and forming the third trait, even going as far as to propose this third one didn't have to be human!

It could be something like the Goliath's body that was born in a Black Hole and took this quality, with Noah's being something that would be even more stupendous depending on what they did, which from the words of the Cosmic Core might be something like a Race based off of a Universe.

"..."

Noah listened to the discussion between the Cosmic Treasure and the Cosmic Core as he weighed his options carefully, liking the idea of another Trait immensely as just Infinite Mana and the Protagonist Trait had brought him so far!

Between his thoughts, the voice of RUINATION echoed out.

<So long as there isn't a disproportionate risk to reward ratio and we are confident in doing it, I am not entirely against the third splitting of the soul. But we've also seen what could be made possible with the design of Daos. A?Cosmic Dao based on allowing one to be capable of stepping on the path of Runic Dao Lines and Nomological Edicts would be something incredible, and it would also be usable by others apart from Noah, benefitting his own people.>

A Cosmic Dao capable of allowing one to traverse on both the path of Runic Dao Lines and Nomological Edicts!

It was a stupendous possibility as Noah also saw this as the path to true power, where he didn't leave behind Runic Dao Lines or Nomological Edicts, but gained the boosts of both.

But the words of the Cosmic Core were ruthless as they stretched out in the next second.

<<A Trait capable of recording or permanently keeping Daos even when they are deconstructed and reconstructed into Dao Lines would allow him to traverse both paths with ease. As for a Cosmic Dao being usable to others within this Cosmos? A single truly strong being is better than a few average ones. The Trait will make this possibility come to reality. Even now, a single Noah is worth more than all of the existences within this Cosmos.>>

RUMBLE!

Domineering and ruthless words erupted out as it seemed the two entities- Cosmic Treasure and Cosmic Core, were about to come to blows!

"..."

Noah's eyes shone brightly at such a juncture as his consciousness fully stepped into the picture, his voice echoing out.

"A trait and the dangers it brings and the design of a Cosmic Dao and the limited slots it uses...both are great possibilities, but you all are forgetting one thing!"

The voices of RUINATION and the Cosmic Core could be domineering, but he was even more so as he captured both of their attention with his words.

Noah's eyes began to glimmer with intense light as beams of light gradually began to shoot from them, his voice echoing out magisterially.

"A Trait or Cosmic Dao...it is not as if it has to be one or the other."

THRUM!

"We could design both a Trait that allows me to retain previously reconstructed Daos and a Cosmic Dao that allows for me to be capable of fusing Daos into Nomological Edicts..or the other way around. Both. I want them both!"

WAA!

His voice gloriously echoed out as the consciousnesses of RUINATION and the Cosmic Core could only stare at his body suffused by an imperious glow!

Chapter 1178 - The Third Trait! A New Race! I

Both a Trait and a Cosmic Dao!

The two consciousnesses of RUINATION and the Cosmic Core could not deny it, thereafter looking at possibilities of what exactly they could design.

The Cosmic Core was the first one to speak.

<<When it comes to the Trait, I've been exploring the possibilities of what body you could transmigrate into. We could have the new soul not in a traditional race like a human or dragon...I want to explore the possibility of your soul entering a Universe. During the process of me utilizing Universal Singularity, I want to attach your soul to its core and procure the Universal Race for you. This will be where we will be capable of granting a powerful Trait and have it successfully be entrenched in your soul.>>

RUMBLE!

Words akin to a madman speaking came out, everything the Cosmic Core said sounding ridiculous to the extreme as it wanted Noah's new body to be a Universe!

The Vital Essence of the Cosmos would be utilized as [Universal Singularity] would be cast, and Noah's split soul would enter the core of this Universe as he obtained a race he didn't know was even a possibility in the vast different Realities.

THUMP!

His heart was beating immensely with excitement even now, his thoughts not finding anything better at this time as he nodded.

"The Universal Race..."

A Universe as his race! What boosts would come? How would it all even work?!

There were too many questions swirling in his mind when it came to this, but he would only know when it actually happened, so he breathed out and spoke with a resolute expression.

"Let's do it. We can get the hardest part out of the way and split the soul for this rebirth into a new race with its own Trait."

RUMBLE!

His words resounded in the consciousnesses of the Cosmic Treasure and Core, these entities shining brightly to show their agreement as Noah's figure was teleported into the Cosmic Core, his body becoming suffused in the Primordial Essence and the Essence of Ruination within this vast space.

His chest was laid bare as only jet black pants covered him, the dense essence of two Cosmic Daos making him feel as if he was swimming in a vast river. A moment later, he felt these two essences wrap around his body as the voice of the Cosmic Core resounded out.

<<With the capability to utilize Ruination and Primordial Essence along with the capabilities of a Cosmic Core and a Cosmic Treasure, the dangers of splitting the soul are greatly reduced as the Trait that can be born from this is something that others can only ever dream of.>>

As the archaic monotone voice of the Cosmic Core stretched out, Noah's Cosmic Treasure within his chest began to pulse with intense red light as a second later...his body jolted up as if he was struck by trillions of bolts of lightning, his forehead seemingly beginning to split apart as even in the Ruination and Primordial Sea...Noah couldn't help but let out a frightening bellow!

"OOOOOH!"

Pain! Immense and unadulterated pain coursed through him as for the second time in his life, his soul was split apart!

WAA!

The glows of Primordial and Ruination essence sunk into his origin and soul as they seemingly tried to make it better, but they only caused even more bouts of pain to course through him.

The stronger one's soul was, the more terrifying the pain there would be when one did an action as drastic as splitting it apart. Noah was only able to do it and come out unscathed because he had a literal Cosmic Core carrying out the procedure, and the might of a Cosmic Treasure capable of going against universal and cosmic rules was aiding him in doing everything!

Amidst the glow of resplendent colors and Noah screaming out bellows filled with pain, his head that had split apart had a chunk of his soul pulled out, a glimmering ball of incandescent light filled with power and mysteries ripped out of him as his main body became pale and weak.

His eyes were still brimming with light as he observed the chunk of his soul glimmering brightly before him, this scene not lasting long as this soul began to shoot out towards a certain direction!

The direction was of course...the place where a new Universe was about to be born.

<<Universal Singularity.>>

With a somber tone, the Cosmic Core called out as immense droves of Vital Cosmic Essence were used. The first time they were utilized after Noah obtained this Infinite Cosmos gave way to the Novus Universe, and now...it was being utilized for the second time to give birth to a Universe that he would use as his body.

A body that was on average 100 Billion light years in diameter or 33 Gigaparsecs!

RUMBLE!

Near the boundary of the Novus Universe, an extremely dense Singularity of a myriad of colors began to form.

From the Cosmic Core, a significant portion of Noah's soul shot out as it moved faster than the speed of light to quickly rush forward, its target being the barely formed Universal Singularity as the moment it formed, Noah sank into it!

...!

Silence.

Half of his soul sunk into the Universal Singularity as everything seemed utterly quiet. But it was only the calm before a storm began to rage.

It was only a lull before something exceedingly unbelievable came to fruition!

<<Soul has successfully fused with the Universal Singularity. Beginning the granting of the Trait Samsara Universal Dao Origin.>>

RUMBLE!

The feature of Trait Bestowal of the Cosmic Core was utilized in a shocking fashion as the Cosmos recognized the newly born Universe not as a true Universe, but a mere body of one of its existences!

A mere body that would be the birth of a being from the Universal Race within the Infinite Cosmos.

As always, it was Noah forging the way forward...his new soul fully sinking into the Universal Singularity that had begun to buzz with utter fantastical activity, the Trait that was only known as the Samsara Universal Dao Origin being born at this time!

Chapter 1179 - The Third Trait! A New Race! II

A soul entered a Universal Singularity as before a genuine Universe could be formed, the light of a Cosmic Core and the influence of a Cosmic Treasure went forward to mold this Singularity into something it wasn't!

First was the acceptance of the soul into the Singularity, and then it was the bestowal of a Trait that was a feature of the Infinite Cosmos.

The moment the Trait Bestowal landed on the fusing Universal Singularity and half of Noah's soul...it sealed the deal as the conflagration of Universe and Soul became recognized as one entity.

THRUM!

Once this recognition occurred, the extremely dense Universal Singularity then began to expand outwards countless billions of light years, with the goal being to reach 100 Billion Light years or exceed it!

It was at this time that Noah could 'feel' something from the connection of his soul, the expansion of the Universe into billions of light years feeling like the beating of a heart.

THUMP! THUMP! THUMP!

It was rapid and magisterial as with every thump, dozens of billions of miles were added as Noah's consciousness began to wake up fully, the heart of his main body beginning to shake incredulously as he felt the awe inspiring and simply fantastical sense of power of a Universe as a body!

With one final thump...

OOOOOOOH!

A Universe bellowed out.

WAA!

A glorious array of colors suffused all around as near the newly designed Novus Universe, another one even more stupendous and gloriously shining made its appearance.

It towered over 144 Billion Light Years in diameter, its boundaries trembling with fantastical wonders of light as from deep within its core, one could still hear a resounding bellow echo from it!

Within this Universe, Noah's consciousness fully awoke.

"..."

He...truly didn't know how to even describe it. He actually had no words as for one to comprehend what it meant for an existence to have a Universe for a body, they must experience the feeling first hand as the words to describe it would not be entirely accurate!

All of the 144 Billion Light Years of his body...Noah could feel them all. Naturally, he could also move his body as he wished, the newly forged Universe plucking off from the Cosmos smoothly as it stood alone in the Chaotic Ruination Sea.

<<How do you feel?>>

The ancient voice of the Cosmic Core rang in his ears as Noah's bellowing voice stretched out slowly.

"I feel..."

RUMBLE!

Along with his words, the 144 Billion light years Universe began to shine with rainbow colored light, beginning to reduce in size at such a rapid rate as it became a Billion light years in the next second, a single light year after that, then a mile...and then 2 meters in the second that followed!

The entire Universe condensed down into 2 meters as it took on a humanoid form, Noah raising his hands and glancing at them as he didn't see skin, but the reflection of countless Galaxies flowing calmly over his hands.

When one looked at him, they would only see a humanoid figure whose entire body was filled with the stellar light of Galaxies and stars, his very own eyes being a cluster of millions of miniaturized galaxies as it was extremely shocking to gaze into them!

His hair stretched on his head gloriously, every single strand also filled with glimmering Galaxies as he looked like an ancient entity that existed in the Primordial Times!

His voice only finished coming out at this time as when he spoke, his mouth unconsciously released an Incandescent galactic light.

"...good. I feel good!"

His entire body glimmered with stellar light as when one even gazed at his manhood, they would notice a well-endowed spear that glistened with billions of Galaxies.

Everything about him was a genuine Universe as he took a few minutes to take it all in, but he eventually raised his head as he glanced towards a Status Panel before his eyes that showed many things!

The voice of the Cosmic Core echoed out, a hint of emotion actually being present in it this time.

<<You have successfully gained a body whose race is a Universe, such a thing having its own perks as our main objective of inscribing the third Trait within this body's soul has succeeded. This...is the Trait known as the Samsara Universal Dao Origin.>>

THRUM!

Magisterial light suffused over Noah's eyes as the Status Panel zoomed in on a particularly grand addition.

[Samsara Universal Dao Origin] :: Among all the traits granted by the Infinite Cosmos, it is nigh impossible to even replicate something such as this as the only possibility lies in the Progeny of the holder of the Samsara Universal Dao Origin. It is a Trait that requires the Origin of a Universe to come to fruition, and one that allows for the inscription of Any Daos and Nomological Edicts onto the Samsara Universal Dao Origin, the accumulations of these Daos and Nomological Edicts never being lost...even in time. The Trait contains the Absolute Skills of <Dao Inscription>, <Nomological Edict Inscription>, <Dao Child>, <Traverser of Edicts>, and <Universal Origin>.

"Well damn..."

Noah stared at the description of the Trait in a stupor, his heart continuing to shake from what he read as it was at this moment that he noticed something odd.

He had been taken in by the grandeur of it all that he just now noticed that he didn't truly feel an Origin in his body!

When his eyes landed on the Absolute Skills under the Samsara Universal Dao Origin Trait, he began to fathom just what had happened as before anything else, he looked at a particular skill first.

<Universal Origin> :: Your body is your Origin. When you advance through Realms, your body advances forward as from a Universe, you can become a Universal Filament or even a Cosmos...or something even grander.

"..."

Speechless.

Noah was truly speechless as he didn't even have the words for what he was currently experiencing!

Chapter 1180 - Samsara Universal Dao Origin! I

At the birth of his new body...it was actually already at the Universal Realm!

The first time that Noah split his soul, he had to elevate the Realm of Alexander all the way to his main body's current one, such a thing being easy as the body just used the essence of the main Realm to quickly rise, and this only worked because it was in the lower Realms of power.

But the second time that Noah split his soul, the race of his new body was at the Universal Realm at birth as this being itself...was a Universe! But the more stupendous thing was that this body didn't have an Origin.

The body itself was an Origin as when Noah advanced it in power...the possibilities were just fantastical to think about!

The beating heart of his main body calmed as the physiology of his Universal Body was too unique, even its heart being filled and made up with billions of Galaxies as just its heartbeats came in low Ancient thumps.

Noah's eyes that were filled with the light of billions of Galaxies then turned their attention to the other absolute skills in the Samsara Universal Dao Origin Trait.

<Dao Inscription> :: Allows one to inscribe any previously learned Daos onto the Samsara Universal Dao Origin. Inscribed Daos cannot be lost as they remain with the user throughout time.

<Nomological Edict Inscription> :: Allows one to inscribe Nomological Edicts on the Samsara Universal Dao Origin. Inscribed Edicts cannot be lost as they remain with the user throughout time.

<Dao Child> :: With the Samsara Universal Dao Origin, one gains the moniker of a Dao Child as they become capable of comprehending and assimilating all Daos at +10,000,000% speed, the Parameters of all comprehended Daos are enhanced by +1,000,000%, and utilizing the essence of any Dao reduces the cost of mana by 99%.

<Traverser of Edicts> :: The task of fusing Daos and Laws to design an Edict is one that is tackled by Primordials. This ability allows its user to gain an enhanced understanding of the versatility and Compatibility of Laws and Daos to increase the chance of designing a Nomological Edict by 1%.

"..."

Noah's Galaxy glimmering eyes took in these stupendous skills silently as he understood all of them in a second, but they required a few more seconds for him to accept them!

Dao Inscription and Nomological Edict Inscription were easy ones to read about, but Dao Child and the Traverser of Edicts were just ridiculous- Dao Child even more so as its perks were things others only ever dreamt of.

The Traverser of Edicts was a unique one as the subject of Nomological Edicts was extremely hard that it was mainly the terrifying Primordials that were learning them. For Noah to gain the capability to understand and feel out the compatibility of laws and daos, and even gain a 1% of designing an Edict successfully...this was a huge deal!

Even though 1% may seem small...even Primordials didn't innately have that 1% chance increase when it came to designing Edicts.

<<But you do. Along with it, your new race also has its own perks that are somewhat interesting. I've gone ahead and compiled the data here.>>

The ancient voice of the Cosmic Core entered his mind as the screen before his eyes faded from the Trait and into the description of...his race!

[Samsara Universal Race] :: A blessed race that has the life force of a Universe, with such existences being able to live upto 20 Billion Years. Unless every molecule of their body is destroyed, death for such a race is extremely hard to achieve as the only efficient way is through the ravages of time. The Samsara Universal Dao Origin Race has the inborn of perks of being able to regenerate 25% of their maximum Mana and Health every minute, have the innate +1,000,000% increase to All Parameters, capable of absorbing 50% of all Incoming Damage, hold +1,000,000% Increased Resistance to all Law and Dao attacks, and are naturally able to produce Primordial and Ruination Essence within their body as they can survive in the Ruination Sea with ease.

...!

His new race was a bit too...overpowered, to say the least.

Its inborn abilities were simply too much as this wasn't the most surprising thing.? The most surprising thing was the fact that his body could naturally produce Primordial and Ruination Essence!

RUMBLE!

He was forged with such essences when the universe was born, and his body had this capability as when he closed his eyes...he could deeply and closely feel the essences of Primordial and Ruination Daos coursing through his billions of Galaxies and countless number of Universal cells that made him, and he was feeling these Dao Essences in such a close was that he didn't even get when he fully assimilated them.

Even when fully assimilated...they didn't feel as close as he felt them now!

WAA!

His Universal Body unconsciously shone an array of incandescent light as many thoughts flowed into his mind, one of the main ones being the fact that he could now also inscribe the Daos of Ruination and the Primordial Dao onto him, which meant that these Daos that were required to carry out the deconstruction and Reconstruction of other Daos to form Runic Dao Lines...could actually now be broken down themselves.

After he inscribed them, he could form them into Dao Lines as they wouldn't be lost, and he could continue carrying out more deconstruction of Daos while also having the perks of Runic Dao Lines from such supreme Daos!

What a wonder it was just to think about what power one could gain from becoming capable of deconstructing and reconstructing something that was normally not even capable of being deconstructed.

But more than that...with Noah being capable of producing his own Primordial and Ruination essence, he gained a unique and instinctive feeling as he felt these Dao Essences course through him.

He gained the unique feeling that these two Daos...there was a pathway to fuse them he didn't even see before as even though they were diametrically opposed and didn't mix, he felt like their fusion should be possible!

WAA!