Chapter 1181 - Samsara Universal Dao Origin! II

<Death and Destruction, Life and Creation...there is a link with all these. The task of putting them all together is insurmountably hard as I don't know when you will be able to do it.>

The voice of RUINATION now echoed in Noah's mind as he gave a light of recognition.

When the Cosmic Treasure spoke, it didn't say that Noah might or might not even be able to do it, but the Cosmic Treasure said 'when'!

To this treasure, the Cosmic Core, and to Noah himself...it was a matter of when!

When a fusion of Ruination and the Primordial Dao occurred, just what Nomological Edict would it produce? Would they be alone or accompanied by other Daos and Laws? Would...

The questions and possibilities were too many as even Noah couldn't sift through all of them at this time!

"Hoo..."

Noah breathed out slowly on the Ruination Sea as he felt his new body closely, going through every single point of unknown as the awe of having his entire humanoid figure glimmering like a Universe was something even he would need a few hours to get used to.

He began as a human not too long ago and achieved the Vampyre Progenitor Bloodline thereafter, now he had added to himself not Bloodline, but an entirely different race of a Universe as it caused him to think of many things!

As he read over the details of this Race, he truly wondered whether his Progeny would be capable of being born in this manner, and the intricacies of it all with how they were conceived! There were a myriad of unknown factors as one had to ask themselves...how would a child of the Universal Race be birthed? Would it be something dangerous or life threatening for the woman who conceived his progeny? There were many questions, but no answers!

As he couldn't find them right now and he had no plans for bringing forth terrifying little things of his own blood, he put this thought aside for now and focused on his current situation.

He looked at this stark naked body as he waved his hands and caused the appearance of simple Obsidian pants to cover up below so he wouldn't scare everything alive, his figure disappearing from the Ruination Sea as he teleported away, his voice echoing out at the same time.

"Continue running the simulations on the Cosmic Dao and get ready for its design soon."

These words were meant for the Cosmic Treasure and Cosmic Core as similar to how the Trait had been born, it only came from the accumulations of ideas from the Cosmic Core that it brought to light!

Now, RUINATION and the Cosmic Core were completing going through the possibilities of Cosmic Daos to complement Noah's new Trait and grant him the capability to easily begin peering into the stage of forming Nomological Edicts.

While this occurred, Noah's Universal Body reappeared in the golden grasslands where his clone was with Adelaide, his appearance coinciding with his normal clone teleporting away as Adelaide saw one Noah leave and another one appear before her!

But the one to appear before her eyes was just...

She rose in alarm as she saw the existence that looked like an incandescent stellar being, his bare chest and head covered by a Galactic light as miniaturized Galaxies by the billions made what should have been his skin.

His body glimmered like a beautiful universe...this was Adelaide's thoughts, and she wasn't too far off!

"Fuck me..." Adelaide was in a stupor as she didn't even know how to put out her words, a profanity escaping her mouth as she gazed on Noah's body with utter shock!

"Well, I'll do that later, but how do you like the new body?" Noah's voice echoed out in a mesmerizing fashion as he raised his arms that were filled with the glimmer of billions of Galaxies.

"I...this...what did you do?"

The icy exterior of the Ice Queen couldn't keep up as she walked up to Noah's body and laid her hands on it.

The feeling was truly unique as it felt like she was touching skin and yet not at the same time! She was holding onto Noah's arms that literally seemed to be made up of billions of galaxies- and they were, as she felt like she was holding onto something sacred that she normally shouldn't be able to touch.

"I went for a third Trait and split my soul into a newly forming Universe, gaining a Universal Body..."

Noah spoke out as every word that came from his mouth seemed like the words of sages and ancient beings. Adelaide heard search a thing as she looked into his Galactic eyes in shock, still seeing the light of the man she knew but also being faced with a sense of majesty and awe that she never thought possible.

When she ran her fingers over Noah's arms, she felt like she was actually holding onto a sacred being that someone like her should touch, and yet it felt normal to her as if she uniquely had such a right when it came to Noah.

"Ridiculous..."

She couldn't help but utter such words as she tried to get a grasp on the scene before her!

Noah only smiled lightly as he wrapped his arms on her waist, their figures disappearing as Noah transferred them to the Novus Universe where his people were breaking into the Realm of Universal Filament at this moment.

Amidst the birth of new Antiquities, Noah and Adelaide appeared above them in the stellar void as no matter how in tune they were to absorbing the Primordial Hearts they received, they all unconsciously turned their eyes towards their direction!

RUMBLE!

Gazes that fluctuated from shock to disbelief erupted out, everything brought into utter silence as they all laid eyes to Noah's body that glimmered like a Universe.

The aura he released, the majesty, the awe...they all felt it closely as they couldn't even find the words to speak! Kazuhiko was the only one who was capable of opening his mouth, but even he...

"What the hell...."

Speechless!

All speechless!

Chapter 1182 - Designing The Second Cosmic Dao! I

Newly born Antiquities were looking towards the existence of the Universal Race with awe as he only smiled lightly at them as if it wasn't a big deal!

Barbatos looked at the scene before her as her small figure flew towards him and began touching his chest and head, turning him side to side as she asked while in shock.

"Little Fish, what did you do?!"

WAA!

What did he do! Towards such a question, Noah only smiled towards everyone as his body emanated shocking regality, his voice ringing out!

"One of my bodies just obtained the Universal Race and looks like this. It is a momentous event and calls for a celebration!"

THRUM!

His words caused the surroundings to shake as spatial waves emanated out, Noah bringing out the torn up pieces of the body of the Primordial Beast as enormous chunks of glimmering golden muscles and bones the size of worlds began to appear all around gloriously.

"This..."

The Emperor Penguin and others had barely finished with their initial shock when their bodies trembled, glancing towards the chunks of meat that still gave off a terrifying aura of a beast that seemed above them in level and could wipe them if it was still alive!

Yet it was only its meat floating in the void of space, its meat making everything nearby glow gold as Noah's voice echoed out.

"The meat of a Primordial Beast. These are the terrifying existences that devour universes and Cosmos...and the ones you all will face in the future!"

WAA!

"But before you face them, you get to enjoy their meat. Come!"

Noah spoke grandly as his body glimmered with power, a light stemming from him as it formed into a clone of the Universal Body that glimmered in the same shocking light, an apron appearing on the chest of this clone that glimmered with billions of galaxies as the main body of the Universal Clone teleported away from this location.

Noah would let his clones be with his people as he let them know of the larger Cosmos out there and have them understand much of the things that were happening under the guise of this celebration, while the main Universal Body was teleported off into the Ruination Realm as Noah was about to begin a fantastical training session there!

His Universal clone that remained behind took in all the gazes from Barbatos and others, his hands waving up he looked towards a certain galaxy and tapped his fingers towards it, its boundary shaking and then bursting as a stellar body was quickly pulled out of it. It was a blazing hot sun that could scorch everything...and yet Noah brought it over their heads as this would be the heat source he would use to grill meat from a Primordial Beast.

Using a genuine sun...to barbecue the meat of a Beat capable of devouring Universes and Cosmos. Ah, what a life!

As this celebration began within the void of space of the Novus Universe, Noah's main Universal Body appeared in the Ruination Realm as he stared at the pulsating Primordial Heart that was reduced to more than half, going towards it and placing his hands on this wondrous treasure as waves of essence began to emulate out.

His body was born as a Universe and he had this Realm, never even experiencing the ranks of F Rank or crossing through to Star Forging or Quasar or even Galaxy...just purely at the Universal Realm. Now, he would elevate this body to a higher realm as from a Universe, he would make it into a Universal Filament!

THRUM

Droves of pristine and unique essence washed over Noah's Universal Body, his whole figure lighting up brilliantly as the billions of Galaxies within it began to be filled with Marks of Antiquity. His body was already brilliantly glowing from the incandescence of galaxies, but as they changed to become Dao Galaxies...they became even more vibrant as waves of light undulated from him.

10 Billion, 50 Billion...100 Billion! In a short period of time, 100 Billions marks of Antiquities were used up as Noah's body shone brightly- as his Universe shone with an incandescent brightness. Thereafter, his Billions of Galaxies seemingly condensed as they were enclosed in his upper body, becoming surrounded by a barrier as his lower body also formed another barrier that began to be filled with Galaxies!

It was the formation of another universe inside of him, these universes causing his figure to shine with an even more splendidous luster as the forging of Galaxies continued.

This was actually something unique with Noah and his bodies as when he split his soul the first time with the figure of Alexander, the second body was very quickly able to be elevated to the same rank as his first body through using its already higher origin.

An even more simple clarification is to look at Noah like a cup that was filled to the brim with water, with this water being his cultivation! His second and third bodies were the other two cups connected to the first one, with them also becoming filled to the brim relatively quickly when in the lower stages of the Realms.

But now there was the Universal Realm that for one to advance forward...they had to brand Marks of Antiquity and change the nature of their Galaxies into Dao Galaxies! So for Noah to elevate his other bodies to the stages past the Universal Realm that required the birth of Splendiferous Universes, they all required their own set of Marks of Antiquity to proceed forward- Noah couldn't just replicate the Dao Galaxies in his other bodies!

So the different bodies were connected as they could depend on the one with the highest realm for support, but for proceeding to higher stages of power...they had to walk the path of obtaining Marks of Antiquity separately.

But this...was not an issue for Noah as he still had half of a genuine Primordial Heart remaining and a full duplicated one he hadn't used! His advancement from now on would focus on his Universal Body whose might that could be displayed was just...ah!

Chapter 1183 - Designing The Second Cosmic Dao! II

The issue of three connected bodies that were also separate was a unique one to tackle, and one must also bring into account the Primordial Ruination Clone and how it could always display more power than Noah's main body.

The description of the Primordial Ruination Clone that was one of the features of his Cosmic Treasure was inscribed in his stat panel as such: [...As a creature made from the very essence of a Cosmic Dao, it has a +200,000% Increase in the speed of progression through the Realms of Power, +200,000% Increase in the Comprehension and Assimilation of all Daos, can display 400% of the strength of the Master of Ruination, along with its power increased by 2000% when in the Ruination Sea...]

The key within these words was that it could display 400% of the strength of the Master of Ruination. It meant that whichever of Noah's bodies was the strongest...this was the power that the Primordial Ruination Clone could display 400% of!

You then of course had the Cosmic Dao of Conquest that allowed his Parameters to be increased by 6 times while in the process of Conquest and 10 times in Conquered Lands which further exacerbated his power...it was so many boosts and multipliers that one would have a headache trying to keep track of them all!

THRUM!

His Universal Body continued to bathe in the essence of the Primordial Heart as a second Splendiferous Universe was completed within Noah, his body seemingly dividing in half by two beautifully glimmering universes as a third one already began to form.

Around this same time, the voice of RUINATION and the Cosmic Core stretched into his mind at the same time.

<<A Cosmic Dao that matches our requirements is ready for its design.>>

As if they couldn't be outdone, they both spoke in unison as Noah nodded lightly, his eyes that glimmered with billions of galaxies shining as he spoke out light while reading over the information that the two consciousnesses were sending him.

"Then...let us design the Cosmic Dao of Fusion."

RUMBLE!

Simple in name but grandiose in function!

Noah gave the go ahead as the second Cosmic Dao was designed at this very moment, the Cosmic Core releasing a glorious array of colors that after a few minutes coalesced to form into a runic word that said...FUSION!

BZZT!

This regal symbol then vibrated intensely before it thundered towards the Architect that was Noah, whose first body was still floating in the wondrous Primordial and Ruination Sea within the Cosmic Core itself. This Dao then branded itself to him as it etched itself deep into his soul, bouts of information flying before his eyes as they all coalesced to form into the description of a Cosmic Dao.

COSMIC [Dao of Fusion] :: A Cosmic Dao birthed by the Cosmic Core of Noah Osmont. As the Dao Architect, Noah Osmont can comprehend and assimilate the Dao at 10 times the normal speed. The Cosmic Dao of Fusion is geared more towards laws and daos, with its sole purpose being to comprehend and understand the myriad of ways to link together Daos and Laws for the possible design of Nomological Edicts. Due to its nature, the Cosmic Dao of Fusion has the prerequisites of only being initiated with the assimilated Dao Essences of the Primordial Dao and the Dao of Ruination. Aside from the possible fusion of laws and Daos, unique materials, entities, and treasures have a chance of undergoing successful fusion under the essence of this Cosmic Dao. Under the Dao of Fusion, the unique abilities of {Understanding}, {Compatibility}, {Extrapolation}, and {Nomological Inquisitor} are granted to its Architect and the first 10 Existences to achieve full assimilation of the Dao. Full assimilation of the Dao grants an increase of 10% chance for all fused targets.

Once more...simple, but wondrous in its effects!

Noah read over it as his galactic mouth curved upwards slightly, wanting to gaze upon the secrets of this Dao, but it wasn't fully opened to him yet until he assimilated it! And so...he went on to do just that as his Universal Body in the Ruination Realm stopped its absorption of the Primordial Heart briefly and sat in a meditative position to comprehend and assimilate this Dao.

There were so many uncountable number of boosts when it came to his Dao Comprehension and Assimilation, along with the fact that he could traverse his own designed Daos at ten times speed! And now...there were also the boosts of the Samsara Universal Dao Origin Trait that gave him through the Absolute Ability of <Dao Child>.

<Dao Child> :: With the Samsara Universal Dao Origin, one gains the moniker of a Dao Child as they become capable of comprehending and assimilating all Daos at +10,000,000% speed, the Parameters of all comprehended Daos are enhanced by +1,000,000%, and utilizing the essence of any Dao reduces the cost of mana by 99%.

With such types of boosts in the picture and others not even mentioned, the moment Noah began comprehending this Cosmic Dao...he achieved 100% comprehension a second later.

His heart stirred as another second passed, a magisterial glow of rainbow colored light suffusing from his body- this rainbow colored light representing the essence of the Dao of Fusion itself as it bathed over him...and he achieved full assimilation!

A second for comprehension, and then a second for the assimilation of a Cosmic Dao.

Not under accelerated time or anything, this was just the passage of 2 seconds in the Ruination Realm itself!

"Ah..."

Even Noah couldn't help but sigh at such a scene, reminding himself over and over again not to let his ego overinflate because he could do such unbelievable things! But he still couldn't stop a smile from stretching out as his universal body pulsed with glorious light, his eyes honing on the four unique abilities that he obtained as the Architect of the Cosmic Dao of Fusion that he could now view with clarity.

{Understanding} :: The mysteries of many things are laid bare with the usage of Primordial and Ruination Essence to paint the essence of Fusion over one's mind. With the conjunction of these three essences, one can glance upon Daos, Laws, or a myriad of other natural entities to gain understanding of their nature and working.

{Compatibility} :: The compatibility of Daos and Laws are seen under the essence of fusion, its user becoming capable of sifting through those with match and those that will cause destruction.

{Extrapolation} :: The user can place the essence of a myriad of Daos and Laws into a Splendiferous Universe as with its sacrifice, the possibilities of the fusion of selected Daos and Laws can be extrapolated. If more Splendiferous Universes are sacrificed, the higher the chance of success becomes.

{Nomological Inquisitor} :: As one that forges towards the stage of Nomological Edicts, you begin to touch upon the utmost mysteries that very few will ever experience. The passive ability of Nomological Inquisitor grants its holder a 10% increased chance of success in the fusions they carry out.

The glorious tools for Noah to begin his path towards forging Nomological Edicts were displayed right before his eyes!

Chapter 1184 - Inscribing Daos And Edicts Is Easy! I

The abilities that came with the Cosmic Dao of Fusion were unique in name and function, Noah's eyes honing on them as he wanted to be practical and test them right away.

To even activate the Dao of Fusion, one had to utilize the assimilated essence of Ruination and the Primordial Daos, Noah's body providing this requirement as he called upon the skills of this Cosmic Dao!

First, there was the unique skill of {Understanding}.

WAA!

A unique multicolored essence bloomed out as it moved to focus on Noah's eyes, the innumerable Galaxies within his eyes becoming glazed over with a rainbow color as he felt like...he could overcome the very veils of space with just his eyes!

Pierce through them and understand all their secrets as with {Understanding}, everything would be made bare. It was an ability that Noah found to be very similar to Eyes of Truth under the Protagonist Trait, but {Understanding} felt far above it in usage.

"Let's look at...Ruinination."

RUMBLE!

His eyes seemingly became capable of gazing at the essence of Ruination all around him in a new sense, wisps of knowledge flowing into him about this Dao that he never expected as one would think full Assimilation granted them everything!

It's hidden nature, how it could best be regulated in one's origin, how to...

A myriad of new possibilities and understanding of this unique Cosmic Dao appeared before Noah's eyes as if he was rediscovering it for the first time.

It was hard to quantify what change such understanding would bring, and we can only grasp it in the sense that all of this understanding could be used when the time came to form a Nomological Edict that involved Ruination!

As a counterpart to this ability, there was {Compatibility} that allowed Noah to test different Daos, and this went hand in hand with {Extrapolation} which would allow Noah to actively burn Splendiferous Universes in order to perceive the possibilities of Dao and Law fusion.

Lastly, there was the passive skill of the Nomological Inquisitor that vastly increased the chances of successfully designing a Edict in the future!

Like this, a Trait and a Cosmic Dao were created as they effectively solved Noah's biggest stumbling blocks, only leaving behind countless possibilities that Noah would navigate as time passed.

"Good. Let's start by understanding all Daos and Laws more closely, and then we will see what it takes to form a Nomological Edict!"

RUMBLE!

Noah's gaze glimmered with the light of Galaxies as he spoke, mobilizing the vast consciousnesses of his bodies to work on multiple sets of tasks while the task of his Universal Body...was to achieve the purpose it was built for.

The Samsara Universal Dao Origin would now be used to inscribe all of the Daos and Laws that Noah had assimilated as only after that would he be able to form Runic Lines again!

Everything was following a fantastical order as while Noah used the abilities under the Cosmic Dao of Fusion to understand and extrapolate possibilities of fusion, another body would inscribe the Laws and daos that would be used for deconstruction and reconstruction in the near future.

When it came to the Inscription of Daos themselves onto Noah's Origin under the Trait of Samsara Universal Dao Origin, the process was relatively simple as Noah called out lightly.

"Dao Inscription."

Noah called out lightly as a rainbow colored essence surged within him, this light looking for a target as Noah directed it to the Grand Dao of Ruination!

THRUM!

The string of this Dao that had been within his Origin was locked onto by this absolute essence that stemmed from the Trait of Samsara Universal Dao Origin, this string being yanked out as Noah felt a searing pain, but he then came across extreme pleasure as this very same Dao was inscribed onto his Universal Dao Origin.

Not simply inscribed within the Samsara Universal Dao Body, but inscribed across time as if Noah went back in time again before he even awakened- he would find that he had the full Assimilation of the Dao of Ruination!

If he went back to when he was even a baby...the same thing would occur as he would find he had the complete assimilation of this Grand Dao.

That was what it truly meant under the description of the Samsara Universal Dao Origin Trait...that the inscribed Daos and Edicts would never be lost, even in time.

It was a truly stupendous possibility as it would allow a being to move in a myriad of ways, but Noah kept his gaze forward as he continued to speak out lightly.

"Inscribe the rest of the Daos and Laws...and even the Nomological Edict of Samsara."

RUMBLE

His figure began to undulate with a glorious array of colors as his Universal Body did its job, the passage of time churning as days passed while Noah fully lost himself in inscribing Daos, understanding them, and then extrapolating them along the way!

---

In the Primordial Empire, Indigo Cosmos.

King Augustus was staring at three grand proclamations that floated in front of the Primordial Scaffoldings that connected to the other Cosmos of the Primordial Empire.

These grand proclamations looked like galaxy sized paper scrolls, each of them carrying the insignias of the three forces within the Primordial Empire as these scrolls represented the Writs of Challenges that the Indigo Cosmos received!

In a matter of days, they would have to choose which forces they faced and from what faction...this deciding the direction of their Cosmos from here on out.

"Hmmm..."

Augustus had a pondering expression as he looked at these Writs of Challenges, his gaze going towards the figure of Noah that was also staring towards them with interest.

"Which House would Daolord Osmont choose to match the Daolords of? I can't seem to pinpoint a better choice between the three!"

The voice of the old ruler echoed out as Noah smiled lightly, his mind having long since been made up on which Daolords he wanted to face in the days to come.

It would be his official entrance into the Primordial Empire, and the time when a spotlight would shine on him as after this....he would be out in the open!

Chapter 1185 - Inscribing Daos And Edicts Is Easy! II

The content of the Writs of Challenges were fairly simple.

They were written in official terms with quite a decent amount of information added in, but the most important portions were the ones that Noah focused on the most.

For example- the Writ of Challenge from the House of Springforge stated that the Indigo Cosmos would face the Rulers of the Shimmering Cosmos that was under the influence of Daolord Azazel and Daolord Rosanna!

If they accepted the challenge, their Cosmos would be facing the power of these two Daolords and all those they chose to participate, having to trump over the upper echelons of this Cosmos and come out on top as if they succeed...Noah would be able to spread his influence onto the Cosmos and even decide the fates of Azazel and Daolord Rosanna.

But Noah wasn't planning on choosing to fight the two Daolords, and he was actually looking at the 2 that stemmed from the House of Stormdust!

The ones that had spoken and said they would humiliate him and all those around him after they won the Writ of Challenge- the female Daolord Ilyad and Daolord Ray that were adorned with crimson black robes and sporting fiery red-black hair.

His destiny and fortune shone a little brighter when he looked at the Writ of Challenge from these beings, his voice echoing out towards King Augustus whose face was filled with worries.

"The ones we will face will be those from the House of Stormdust, with the first target being the Anthracite Cosmos!"

WAA!

The first target was decided as King Augustus heard the words of confidence and nodded, not helping but speak in a questioning tone once more as his heart truly wasn't yet settled against the terrifying beings that had appeared before them once.

"What will Daolord Osmont require of us? Even though we won't be able to make up much of the numbers, we will be right there with you defending our Cosmos!"

His voice was filled with strength as it resonated in Noah's mind, his reply quick as he thought about his people that had been training hard in the past day to consolidate their newly risen strength.

"We won't have to worry about the numbers. I actually have to introduce you guys to a few beings, and now is as good a time as any..."

Noah moved as he spoke, rising above the void within the Indigo Cosmos as his eyes focused on a certain point in space, his fingers tapping forward as he used the feature of Universal Gateway of the Cosmic Core to form a gateway from the Novus Universe and into the current Universe within the Indigo Cosmos!

THRUM

Gloriously red and gold in color, a gate spanning 1 mile formed before their eyes as it pulsed with colorful light, King Augustus's eyes twitching as he felt the auras of multiple Antiquities begin to step out of this Gateway.

Uniquely, the beings coming out were seemingly grouped up together by color, Augustus landing his eyes on a set of beings that glistened purple and black coming out together, and other beings glistening gold and white stepping into the Indigo Cosmos together!

What he was seeing was actually the different divisions Noah had made based on the Archetypes that his people had chosen, with those who had chosen Temporal Lords being grouped up together as Kazuhiko and Steel Mikhail were leading this group, and those who chose the Necromancy Archetype were following behind Barbatos with shining eyes as their bodies were adorned with black robes that held cackling skulls.

There was of course, the Emperor Penguin that was leading the Archetypes of Incandescent Guardian, its body glinting gold as the entire region behind him was bathed in this color, Athena also seen standing beside the Emperor Penguin valiantly as her golden spear shone dangerously!

There was Valentina leading those that had chosen the Archetype of Summoner, and Elena was the lead for those that had chosen the Archetypes of Blood Rulers...

All of Noah's people were divided beautifully into their camps as there was one thing unique about all of them- and it was the fact that they held multiple glimmering Universes!

They were all beings that had achieved the Universal Filament Realm and were currently Antiquities, King Augustus looking at such a scene in a stupor as he turned his head towards Noah and then back to this group of beings multiple times.

"Haha! Come and get yourselves acquainted. In just two days, we will be making an introduction into the Primordial Empire!"

The Primordial Empire!

A vast and nigh endless cluster of Cosmos that a single being ruled over, establishing set rules and guidelines that all beings had to live under.

Such was the place that Noah had stepped in, and also the location that he had brought his own people to play around in as they had already achieved a stage of power similar to his.

Aside from the fact that they had yet to begin comprehending and assimilating the Cosmic Dao of Ruination and the Primordial Dao making them a step away from deconstructing and reconstructing Daos to become Daolords...they were all genuine Antiquities that could shake entire Universes!

Their eyes hungrily wandered around their new environment as the local Antiquities of this Cosmos began to appear, Lexis Marcus Tiberius along with Antiquities Charles and Viola also arriving in their stupor to welcome the new beings.

Noah looked at such a scene carefully as his eyes foresaw of a glorious future, his bodies and mind still moving with haste as he prepared himself in many ways for this future!

The House of Stormdust was one that controlled an expansive Cluster of Cosmos within the Primordial Empire, its connections as vast as the seas as the powerhouses within this faction were just as frightening.

The Antiquities and Daolords within were many, but the ones with particular focus at this moment were the two that had been among the welcome party that came to receive the Indigo Cosmos!

"Interesting..."

Deep within the Anthracite Cosmos, in a Universe that was bathed in a crimson hue as droves of magma could be seen floating seamlessly within its void of space...a voice echoed out.

It echoed out from an expansive world that was over a million light years in Diameter, a world that wasn't truly a world as it let out waves of heat that would make one assume it was a star!

Cylindrical snaking clusters of magma could be seen moving over the top of this enormous world as at the center of this unique location, there were two Daolords looking at each other with sharp lights in their eyes.

The male Daolord had sharp eyes and sword like brows as he continued his thoughts slowly.

"It seems as if he plans to choose us, Daolord Ilyad."

RUMBLE

With a voice so deep the surrounding magma shook, the Daolord spoke out of something Noah had just decided to do seconds ago!

Chapter 1186 - Utilizing One's Power To The Fullest! I

Deep within a world that was over a million light years in diameter in a Universe within the Anthracite Cosmos, two Daolords were discussing something they shouldn't have had knowledge of at the deepest corners of this star!

Daolord Ilyad was the female Daolord that had glimmering crimson hair, her dress matching this as it was a mix of black and red.

Her eyes were currently shining with an excited light as battle intent was practically leaking out of her, her voice stretching towards Daolord Ray before her.

"Did the Head..." She questioned in an excited tone as Ray replied with a nod and a smile right after.

"Yes. Forefather Julius just sent word that the Family Head has seen the newly joining Cosmos accepting our Writ of Challenge."

RUMBLE!

A shocking sentence escaped the lips of Daolord Ray, Ilyad nodding with a fervent expression in front of him as she replied with a sigh and a voice of wonder!

"To this day I can't fathom the strength of Family Head and Forefather Julius. To be capable of perceiving things such as this..."

The amazement and pride in her eyes weren't hidden as Ray agreed with such an expression, but his voice became stern soon after as he continued.

"This wasn't all that Forefather Julius told me. He also said that along with the challenge...we have to be careful!"

...!

"What? Careful? Against the single Daolord and the few Antiquities behind him?"

Ilyad spoke in a disbelieving tone as Ray touched his bearded red chin in a pondering tone as he replied.

"Forefather Julius would never tell us something worthless, it means that the task before us is more of a challenge than we expected! After all, the Daolord was capable of taking a Lesser Primordial Beast down by himself, something that I and you would have to work hard together to accomplish..."

The expression of this aged Daolord was filled with care, Ilyad wiping away her disbelief as she also nodded.

They were beings that had lived for millions of years and been able to comprehend and even assimilate the Cosmic Dao of Ruination and the Primordial Dao, their foresight and intelligence not being low as they knew when to be arrogant and when to be careful!

"Then...how should we move?" Ilyad asked with eyes that shimmered with the light of caution.

At such a question, Daolord Ray smiled as he spoke out with a cruel light glimmering within his eyes.

"A newly joining Cosmos with beings that have yet to experience the glory of being the Protectors of the Bastion of Reality...even if the strength of their Daolord is on par or slightly stronger than us, we can still move in many different ways!"

WAA!

"We'll do what Daolord Vizer and his group did when they fought against the new forces of the Pygmalion Cosmos..." The light of cruelty within Rays's eye only intensified as Daolord Ilyad nodded with a glint of brilliance.

"Target those they are trying to protect and break their convictions right before their eyes..." She uttered as her eyes became brighter and brighter, Ray nodding with erupting battle intent as he smiled brightly and added on.

"Once you break a man's conviction...their women and all those they wish to protect, everything else becomes easy."

RUMBLE!

The battle intent and light of cruelty only intensified in the surroundings as the two Daolords looked at each other and formulated plans and schemes.

After all...they would be the stars of a glorious upcoming show of a Writ of Challenge!

As the tides of destiny churned and many beings moved with their own ideals, Noah continued on his path as while waiting for the Writ of Challenge to begin, he was able to do something that he had held off on doing for quite some time.

This was, of course, the deconstruction and reconstruction of his Daos that he had now inscribed onto the Samsara Universal Dao Origin, gaining the capability of doing so without losing them in the process!

This was what his Samsara Universal Dao Origin Trait allowed him to do!

But...there was the issue of a Cosmic Dao of Annihilation and the Lesser Daos of Withering, Voidspace, and Alacrity being Daos that Noah had already deconstructed and forever lost.

He couldn't regain these...or he shouldn't have been able to regain these!

Gloriously for Noah, he had the Nomological Edict of Samsara.

He also had the Trait of Samsara Universal Dao Origin that inscribed Daos and Edicts unto him as they...would not even be lost through time!

This was the stupendous combination Noah had forged, and now he was about to use it fully as he did something that would have otherwise been impossible.

"Nomological Edict of Samsara."

His Universal Body that was in the Ruination Realm called out lightly as Noah's eyes unconsciously closed, his Origin and soul tapping onto a vast and endless river as within it, Noah's thoughts tapped on a certain point as his consciousness shifted and he descended onto another time point!

His eyes opened as he saw he was releasing resplendent beams of Ruination and Primordial Essence from his mouth and eyes, coming back to when he had just devoured Primordial Apples and Ruination Strawberries, fully assimilating these Daos as it was here that he proceeded to first deconstruct the Lesser Dao of Withering and then the Cosmic Dao of Annihilation.

He was floating above the void of space of the Novus Universe with his subordinates below him, very few of them having achieved Antiquity as they were gazing towards his advancement in awe.

The uniquely stacked Galaxies where he planted a myriad of Dao Herbs and Fruits could be seen as the next actions Noah would take at this time point was to explore the path of a Daolord!

But this time around...he wasn't planning on carrying out such actions first as he looked within his Origin!

There, he could see not just the assimilated Primordial and Ruination Daos...but also the Nomological Edict of Samsara that he would only get sometime later after he bookmarked the Primordial!

He returned to a point a few days back as he would stupendously take actions that would ensure an even smoother path for the future...

Chapter 1187 - Utilizing One's Power To The Fullest! II

Along with the Nomological Edict of Samsara, he also felt the stupendous power of the Trait of Samsara Universal Dao Origin...this Trait that was capable of inscribing Daos and Edicts and keeping them across time of course being with Noah's body even now.

A Trait he had yet to be granted was carried with him across time...it was a mind-bending phenomenon as the Cosmic Treasure and the Cosmic Core were the first to sense the changes, their consciousnesses swarming towards Noah with questions as he pacified their hunger for knowledge within minutes!

Thereafter, Noah utilized the Samsara Universal Dao Origin that he carried through time to inscribe the Daos of Annihilation, Withering, Voidspace, and Alacrity as none of the daos he had would ever be lost to him!

To others, everything was proceeding normally as only the Cosmic Treasure and the Cosmic Core knew of the changes, even Noah not making too many changes thereafter as when he finished the inscriptions of these Daos, he let events and time flow as it originally did, where he began by first inscribing the Lesser Dao of Withering and then Annihilation, not changing too many things thereafter.

In the near future of this time point, he would have bookmarked the Primordial as his soul almost got caught by the terrifying Aegon and the Primordial herself, but he didn't have to do it this time as he already had the Edict that he would never lose!

The only question was to ponder on whether to Bookmark the Primordial a second time and increase his percentage with this Edict to 20% or even higher, but his vast golden seas of destiny became clouded black the moment that such a thought even appeared in his mind.

It was a sign for him to not even think about doing such a thing! He had already poked the nest of the Primordial once as he alerted her to something, this existence having the Nomological Edict of Samsara and who knew what else as he couldn't predict what she could do.

If he could traverse in time and keep his memories, so could she. If he tried to Bookmark her again for the second time, this terrifying being would more than likely be waiting for him as after that...the future was unknown!

So Noah only fixed his mistakes as he inscribed Daos before he deconstructed them and let everything play its course as it should have thereafter, opting not to Bookmark the Primordial for a second time unless he wanted to lose his little life.

The only other change he made was for him to use Cosmic Dao Integration and Emergence along with Protagonist's Bookmark to obtain the Cosmic Daos of Phantasm and Tenebrosity that the Blue Slime had obtained from Devouring Dark Shadow and the other Hegemonies, Noah using this as a window to amass even more Daos under his feet!

Him exploring the vast seas of Ruination, coming in contact with the Primordial Beast and Indigo Cosmos, seeing the formed Primordial Scaffoldings as the Indigo Cosmos was connected to the Primordial Empire!

His Universal Body being designed along with the Cosmic Dao of Fusion...he went through all of it without altering how things went originally as with the unique essence of the Nomological Edict of Samsara undulating over his Universal Body, Noah opened his eyes again in the Ruination Realm.

As if barely a second had passed!

As if he had just closed his eyes and woken up, but when he checked his Origin...he could sense and freely utilize the Cosmic Dao of Annihilation and the Lesser Daos that were forever lost to him before.

"Haha!"

What a glorious reality! What wondrous possibilities!

This was something unique that only Noah could do, and he had done it in a stellar fashion as he could now enjoy the wonders of Nomological Edicts and Runic Dao Lines without losing anything on one side or another.

"Now..."

With everything in place and still only 4 Daos turned into Runic Dao Lines, Noah had nothing holding him back from deconstructing and reconstructing other Daos, and his next focus was just that!

The only problem was....the Light of Conquest!

There was a limited amount of the Light of Conquest as in more than a week, Noah hadn't done any conquering while he continued to use this light freely to enhance Skills and Daos.

Enhanced Lesser Daos gave boosts from 5,000% to 10,000% due to the Light of Conquest, and with the 100 fold increase when they were turned to Runic Dao Lines, this boost became 1,000,000%!

Even more gloriously, normal Cosmic Daos granted a 50,000% boost to specific parameters that became 100,000% once enhanced by Conquest, this number becoming 10 million percent when such a Dao was turned into Runic Dao Lines.

So before Noah ever deconstructed a Dao to make it into Runic Dao Lines, he always wanted to enhance them and pull out the most strength from them, this only continuing to be made a possibility if he continued to amass more of the Light of Conquest!

And beautifully enough, a Writ of Challenge was issued as he would be able to compete against powerful Daolords and have the chance to Conquer another Cosmos.

"I love when it all comes together..."

Noah couldn't help his lips from curving into a smile as his eyes flashed with a dangerous light!

Currently, he had enough of the Light of Conquest to enhance three normal Cosmic Daos. If he wished to enhance Ruination or the Primordial Daos...he would need twice the amount of Light of Conquest to do so, so he began by doing what he could at this moment and started with the three normal Cosmic Daos he voiced out powerfully.

"Let the Light of Conquest shine on Extinction, Chronos, and Reincarnation."

RUMBLE!

He held no chance of losing them while deconstructing them would only hand him a stupid level of strength...and so he proceeded to do just that as after these Daos were enhanced by the Light of Conquest, the vibrant essences of the Primordial Dao and the Dao of Ruination began to wrap around them for the purpose of blooming brand new Runic Dao Lines.

All together, the three Cosmic Dao would grant a myriad of boosts as just based on the pure damage of these three Daos alone, the modifier would be no less than 30,000,000%!

A number like this made one realize just how terrifying a level of power existences that had begun inscribing Daos held, but even this was just the tip of the iceberg for Noah.

And while he did all this and continued to ceaselessly improve himself....the time for the Writ of Challenge was fast approaching as it would be carried out within mere hours!

Chapter 1188 - The Cosmic Battlefield! I

The time for a new Writ of Challenge to take place was fast approaching, and it dealt with a newly joining Cosmos as the possible contenders from the Primordial Empire were renowned Daolords who oversaw single Cosmos for the past 100 years.

They didn't oversee these single Cosmos because they didn't have the ability to amass more, but they followed the wills of their Houses as carrying out their influence this way meant they were guaranteed to win over newly joining Cosmos and bring them under the control of their houses!

Those who oversaw single Cosmos also frequently carried out Writs of Challenges against other houses to try and expand the influence of their factions on a small scale, Daolords such as this being were promised to oversee multiple Cosmos and would be handed treasures for their services- such treasures being something like Primordial Hearts that allowed them to elevate their strength crazily.

Having Writs of Challenges where the Heads of the Houses challenged each other for all of the expansive clusters of Cosmos had never occurred in history, but there had been instances of powerful Daolords from the factions coming to blows and staking dozens of Cosmos under them to carry out terrifying battles.

So even though the soon to be occurring Challenge was interesting, it generated small waves as the attention given to it was simply a few Daolords from the three Houses expectant to see which House would be chosen by the Indigo Cosmos as this would be the one to obtain a new Cosmos under them!

The chance of the forces of the newly joining Cosmos winning was entertained in the minds of these powerful Daolords and Antiquities, but it was something unlikely to happen as it was only looked at as a mere small percentage.

"They have to choose soon, right?"

The female Daolord besides Azazel spoke out with sharp eyes as she gazed at the three galaxy sized scrolls that represented Writs of Challenges. Those accepting the challenge had to rip apart one of these scrolls to show their stance, where after that...a portal would be formed that would teleport the Antiquities and Daolord within each of the battling Cosmos onto a grand battlefield!

A battlefield that was so vast and fantastical that it was the size of a Cosmos, this being the area where most of the Writs of Challenges took place with little exceptions.

Those teleported would only ever be Antiquities and Daolords as the measure of the Cosmos's strength, everything lower in rank being seen as a non contributing factor!

Daolord Azazel and many others knew this as they waited patiently within their Cosmos, ready for battle at any point.

"Any second now...though I do have an inkling that I won't be able to face this Daolord Osmont just yet!"

The voice of Azazel stretched out to the surroundings as his verdant green hair waved in the wind, his childish expression being overshadowed by the immense experience hidden within his eyes!

---

"You're all ready?"

Noah voiced out loudly as his voice reached the edges of the Indigo Cosmos and raged onto the minds of all Antiquities within it.

RAA! RAA!

The fearsome cry of more prominent existences rang out with palpable excitement, a glorious glow of gold stretching out behind a certain Emperor Penguin as he led those with the Incandescent Guardian Archetypes!

The planetary-sized figures of Cthulhu and the other Terrors could be seen, along with the manifested Seven Deadly Sins that took up their own region while shining with unbridled might!

Barbatos led those that released waves of deathly light under the Necromancy Archetype, groups like these being one of the many that stood behind Noah.

King Augustus and his forces watched all of this with hopeful gazes, their eyes going towards Noah who was floating towards the three glimmering Writs of Challenges that were the size of Galaxies.

Under the gazes of everyone, Noah went ahead and neared a Writ that stood to the left, his eyes releasing bright rays of light as he waved his right hand and caused a crescent blade of Ruination to erupt out and strike on the scroll the size of a Galaxy, tearing this fantastical scroll apart with utter ease as a moment later, a spatial storm erupted out!

The scroll he ruptured was crimson black in color, the insignia of a crimson fist illustriously seen at the very center as Noah naturally selected the challenge from the House of Stormdust.

The moment this happened...

"Hmmm..." The figure of Azazel was notified of them missing the selection as his eyes hid their thoughts deeply.

Far from Azazel in the Cosmos under the House of Havenbreaker.

"Cowards!?" The twin Daolord pair that was adorned with gold spoke out simultaneously, their hearts frustrated after missing the chance to easily obtain a new Cosmos!

But what occurred couldn't be changed as the male Daolord spoke with a sharp golden light.

"Well, we could at least go see what type of fight they will put up. Given how that little Daolord talked do big and the fact that he can take down a Lesser Primordial Beast, I expect him to give some challenge to those brats from Stormdust."

"Well, this should have some audience as it's been some time since the last Writ of Challenge. Let's go measure what the skills of Ilyad and Ray have amounted to...we'll have to face them soon enough in the future!"

With such an exchange, the figures of the twin Daolords disappeared as they tunneled across the folds of space towards another Cosmos!

As for where they were going, it was naturally the location that most of the battles from Writs of Challenges took place- the fantastical arena that was known as the Cosmic Battlefield!

When Noah ruptured the Writ of Challenge from the House of Stormdust, the spatial storm that erupted out from it wrapped around all the Antiquities and Daolord nearby as all of them were shuttled from this Cosmos and into another one deep into the heart of the Primordial Empire.

THRUM!

At the same time, the challengers from the Anthracite Cosmos under the House of Stormdust were also teleported to the Cosmic Battlefield, this point in time being when many players stepped onto a grand stage!

Chapter 1189 - The Cosmic Battlefield! II

When one imagined a Cosmic Battlefield, what exactly came to mind?

Such a question was answered in a single glance before Noah's eyes as after the spatial storm from the Writ of Challenge wrapped around him, he found himself shuttled across multiple boundaries of Cosmos, crossing through the folds of space and being placed at the very center of a unique one.

When his awareness spread around to observe this new location, he saw that he and his subordinates were floating in a glimmering void of space as all around them and stretching out for millions of light years were...shattered Galaxies and planetary bodies!

One could see the shattered boundaries of a dozen Universes that pulsed with light, the remnants of destroyed stellar bodies and Galaxies stretched out as far as the eyes could see, giving a unique aesthetic of destruction and beauty as some glimmering stellar bodies caused the apocalyptic scene to be filled with cascading glimmering glory.

Such a scene occupied nearly 80% of the Cosmic Battlefield as the other 20%...was a vast and exquisite circle of magisterial floating seats that spread all over the region near the Cosmic Boundary!

Seats adorned gold and white, all of them facing the destroyed universal barriers and countless Galaxies that filled up the region of over 1000 Gigaparsecs.

Although they were displayed along the boundary of the Cosmos, these coliseum like seats had unique colors on their bases as they identified the specific houses.

One third of all seats held a blooming green flower, another third held a crimson fist that seemed to be dripping with blood, and the remaining third held a golden tree that seemed to be sprouting from a galaxy!

They represented the areas where the existences from the Houses of Springforge, Stormdust, and Havenbreaker would be situated, and there was a particular area that held a singular golden seat that was the size of a Galaxy- this death looking like a grandiose throne that only the Great Conqueror could sit on.

At this moment, this enormous seat was empty as among the areas that could seat quintillions of beings from the different houses, only a few million of them were filled as they looked towards the figures of existences who would be battling in today's Writ of Challenge.

Daolord Azazel along with a few other Daolords and Antiquities from the House of Springforge could be seen situated lavishly in their spots, existences from other houses doing something similar as there was a bustle of discussions while they all gazed below.

Only a few million beings from the faction of all three Houses were gathered as it was an abysmal number, but this showed the deep history and complex structure that had yet to be explored of the Primordial Empire, and how even a Writ of Challenge like this was considered a mere nonconsequential blip in a vast history!

The gazes of these beings that knew themselves as the Protectors of the Bastion of Reality were locked onto the center of the Universal and galactic devastation of this Cosmic Battlefield where a crimson barrier that differentiated two sides could be seen.

This barrier was something that could not be destroyed even by the most powerful Daolords, and it was one that always divided the forces before a Writ of Challenge.

One side held the domineering and crimson colored Daolords and Antiquities overseeing the Anthracite Cosmos- it was Daolord Ilyad and Daolord Ray that appeared with over 300 Antiquities, this being a norm of power for a Cosmos within the Primordial Empire to have!

But what was interesting was that when it came to the number of Antiquities, the newly joining forces of the Indigo Cosmos actually had over 500 Antiquities behind a single Daolord!

This raised some eyes as from the magisterially floating golden green seats of the House of Springforge, Azazel had a disappointed expression as he spoke out.

"For him to produce 500 Antiquities that quickly...he must have already consumed a significant portion of the Primordial Heart. I never thought he would be a wasteful existence...nor make a choice to not even strengthen himself, but produce Antiquities that are not the decisive force against important battles!"

Azazel's voice was filled with disappointment and displeasure, not expecting the being he thought highly and was cautious of to actually do such a thing.

So what if he produced 500 Antiquities?

At the end of the day, it was Daolords that decided who won and who lost!

But what Azazel and many others were wrong about was that the 500 beings they saw as Antiquities...were not even Antiquities to begin with as the vast majority of them were still merely in the Universal Realm in power.

This was because it was the 500 chosen to be capable of selecting Archetypes, the power they could display being that of Hegemonies as on top of the 5% of Noah's power that they could borrow...it was actually enough to allow them to give off the shocking aura of an Antiquity!

Among the 500, only a few like Barbatos, the Oathkeeper, the Goliath, Elena, the Emperor Penguin, Valentina, Kazuhiko, and a few others that Noah granted the Primordial Hearts to...only they were true Antiquities.

But the myriad of powerful experts saw this scene and gained hints of displeasure at what they considered to be a pure waste of a Primordial Heart, the ones that had been keen to obtain it being the first ones to move as Daolord Ilyad's crimson hair nearly burst into flames as she spoke coldly towards Noah behind the erected veil.

"You wasteful little bumpkin...you really used the Primordial Heart to mass produce Antiquities? What's the logic behind that?"

Her words were filled with ridicule as Noah stopped gazing at the fantastical landscape of shattered Universes and Galaxies around them, his shining eyes glancing towards this being as he paid her no heed, but instead focused on the few billions of beings situated at the edges of the Cosmos that were watching everything playing out.

Her words didn't bother him as he didn't do what she misunderstood him to have done, where he still had a full Primordial Heart and 25% of a second one after he absorbed a vast majority of it and given an insignificant portion to a few of his most powerful subordinates to make them Antiquities!

So he didn't even bother to reply to this Daolord as he gazed upon the quintillions of seats floating at the edges of this Cosmic Battlefield, as well as the central one that was the size of a Galaxy that was currently empty.

This seat...

THUMP!

Noah could feel his heart beat faster as his vast seas of Destiny churned, feeling as if this enormous golden throne was calling out to him...as if he had to get his hands on this seat and occupy it himself!

It was the first rebellious thought against the Great Conqueror that no beings even dared to think!

Chapter 1190 - Dumb Bitches Die First!

A grand golden throne the size of a Galaxy that was meant for only a single being, yet Noah's gaze was stuck on it the longest before he shook his head and looked at the beings before his eyes.

"Are you so tongue-tied that you cannot even reply, little thing?"

Ilyad's taunting voice continued to ring out as her body undulated with powerful levels of power, her Runic Dao Lines swirling atop her scene as she looked like a valiant queen of war!

Daolord Ray was beside her with eyes that flashed with a light of cruelty, his gaze seemingly only waiting for the veil between them to be torn down.

At the constant taunting, Noah didn't even have to reply as not too far from his, Barbatos who was adorned with a dress inscribed with cackling black skulls spoke out with a domineering tone.

"Can a bitch like you shut up for a second? We can't even take in the sights with your constant yapping."

RUMBLE!

It wasn't the powerful Daolord that replied, but a mere Antiquity behind him as her voice stretched into the ears of Ilyad and the millions of powerful beings from the three factions watching this Writ of Challenge at the edges of the Cosmic Battlefield!

BZZZT

Daolord Ilyad's body began to burn with an obscene amount of power at such a juncture, her eyes becoming locked onto the small yet curvaceous figure of Barbatos who was still staring towards her with a sneer that could topple kingdoms.

A Daolord insulting her was already demeaning and unbelievable enough, but now even an Antiquity did the same?!

A lesson! These new bumpkins that didn't know the rules and honor of Daolords that had to be respected in the Primordial Empire that even Antiquities thought they could talk back to someone like her.

She gritted her teeth as it sounded like multiple worlds exploding, her voice resounding out.

"Ray...start the challenge. I'll rip apart that little bitch first before anyone else"

WAA!

She called for the Writ of Challenge to be started right away as beside her, Daolord Ray raised his hand and called out majestically.

"I put the Anthracite Cosmos and every existence within it on the line for this Writ of Challenge!"

RUMBLE!

The moment his words finished, a bundle of white light shot forth from him and rose to the very top of the Cosmic Battlefield, this light signifying the authority that would be relinquished if he lost the battle of this Writ of Challenge.

Noah's figure also shone at this moment as he felt a pull, uniquely feeling a type of essence wrap around the far away Indigo Cosmos and connecting itself to him, this essence becoming clustered in a bundle of light that was bubbling with his body as he also smiled whole calling out lightly.

"I put the Indigo Cosmos and every existence within it on the line for this Writ of Challenge."

...!

THRUM!

A single sentence.

Yet it was all that was required to initiate the first ever Writ of Challenge Noah would face as the bubbling white light within his body also shot out, coming opposite to the one that Daolord Ray shot out as when these lights intermingled...the crimson barrier that was holding all of them back instantly disappeared!

WAP!

The two sides became utterly exposed to each other amidst the apocalyptic destruction of entire Galaxies.

ZAP!

Amidst this lull, the angered eyes of a particular Daolord moved first, Ilyad's fiery figure tearing through the folds of space as she didn't go for the Daolord of the opposing side, and she instead went to the small curvaceous figure of Barbatos that had insulted her!

Runic Dao Lines rotated throughout her right hand and shoulder as they covered a majority of her body, her figure appeared before Barbatos in but a blink of an eye as her hand that palpated with enough strength to shatter a Universe thundered forward.

It went forward to completely disintegrate the figure of this curvaceous woman, and it went forward to give a lesson of how the authority of a Daolord could not be denied!

Yet before it could arrive and achieve its intended purpose...

RUMBLE!

The space between Daolord Ilyad and Barbaros seemingly shook as a figure materialized right in front of her, her eyes unconsciously being sucked into this beings gaze as she felt alarm bells ringing crazily in her mind!

PAH!

In her daze, she barely noticed as her fist that was filled with enough might to shatter a Universe was stopped by the palm of a hand, the force behind it becoming dissolved into nothingness as the figure before her eyes seemingly covered all her sight, becoming larger than anything she had ever seen.

"OOOOOH!"

A bellow erupted from the mouth of this being that had lived for millions of years, her figure breaking into cold sweat as she shook herself out of her unconscious fear and gazed towards the figure of nobody other than Daolord Osmont beside her in utter somberness, feeling like there was danger from all around her!

His eyes seemed to glimmer with the light of billions of Galaxies, staring like at her like she wasn't even worth more than a fly.

Amidst this intense situation, the figure of a curvaceous Necromancer came forward.

Barbaros peered from behind the broad shoulders of her man as with an enticing and provocative expression, he spoke out.

"Dumb bitches like you always die first because you don't know who you should and should not provoke."

RUMBLE!

Ilyad's eyes trembled out of pure rage, fear, and wrath as she heard such a tone directed towards her, but she couldn't keep her attention from the Daolord that had stopped her punch so calmly!

But she was actually told she was someone that didn't know who she should and should not provoke.

She didn't know this, but who was she to threaten one of Noah's women? Who was she to even make a move against her?!

Her actions may have seemed small, but they had grand consequences!
