Chapter 1241 - The Primordial Eye And The Eye Of Ruination! II

One of the first features of the Primordial Eye wasn't something as simple as skill copy or replication, but Noah would analyze and bring forth any concept he came across as even if chanced upon someone using the essence of a Cosmic Dao he hadn't comprehended before- he would be able to gleam its mysteries and comprehend it after a mere glance from the Primordial Eye!

It effectively made the [Cosmic Dao Integration and Emergence] ability null as Noah could obtain all he wished as long as he saw it- with the very clear exception of Edicts and other Concepts that Noah didn't know of.

It wasn't just Skill Replication...but also Law Replication, and Dao Replication!

No matter if a Dao was Lesser, Grand, or Cosmic!

What a Primordial Eye!

Apart from him being able to do this and be able to see the source and Origins of the things he came across, he could also alter his own body, soul, and Origin as this ability would be akin to the Grand Dao of Subterfuge being made to a Cosmic one. With such an ability, nobody could see what he didn't want them to see with surety.

It was utterly ridiculous as to top it all off, the description spoke of being capable of even seeing the veils of different Realities and being capable of crossing them if one obtained the Eye of Ruination.

"Well..."

He had also obtained just that!

His right eye that shone with a crimson radiance and was filled with endless circular lines that seemed to be pulling even space into it was brought into the picture as Noah pulled up the information for this as well.

<Runic Dao Line of Ruination> :: A unique manifestation of a deconstructed and reconstructed Dao of Ruination that should normally not be possible. The Dao Line has settled into the right eye of the holder as they have been instilled with the Eye of Ruination. The holder of the Eye of Ruination gains the capability of dealing True Annihilatory Damage from the rays of light released from the eye, and they can deconstruct and absorb all incoming attacks unless they hold the essence of a concept with True Annihilatory Damage. All absorbed attacks by the Eye of Ruination can be released and reflected with an amplification of 10,000,000% True Annihilatory Damage. True Annihilatory Flames of Ruination can also be released and extinguished under the user's will, with these flames being capable of burning entire Cosmos if they are allowed to spread. The Eye of Ruination also allows the user to be capable of perceiving 5 seconds into the future as well as be capable of precognition manipulation and immunity from others with similar capabilities. If a being is capable of gaining both the Primordial Eye and the Eye of Ruination, they can even go as far as being capable to see the barriers between different Realities and go as far as to cross them. It grants +20,000,000% Increased Ruination Damage,+20,000,000% Health and Mana Regeneration, +20,000,000% Cast and Attack speed...

Another wondrous description lay before Noah's eyes as while they illuminated the entire Ruination Realm, he continued to stare at their details breathlessly.

The Eye of Ruination was much more offensive based than the Primordial Eye, and it provided something that Noah had only gotten his hands on through an Edict- True Annihilatory Damage!

On top of this, he could also utilize True Annihilatory Flames of Ruination that could spread to devour an entire Cosmos if uncontrolled, flames that could only be distinguished if an existence held similar abilities to do so.

Even further, he could absorb and deconstruct all incoming attacks into his Eye of Ruination as it effectively gave him such a ridiculously robust defense that only existences that could deal True Annihilatory Damage would be able to even harm him.

What an eye!

Apart from all this, there was also the stupendous capability of precognition that came with immunity and the capability for him to even manipulate the visions of the few seconds into the future.

All of it was just...

"Ridiculous..."

All of it was purely ridiculous as Noah still found a huge smile on his face, gazing upon the outside space with his eyes once more as when he saw how ridiculously bright he made the Ruination Realm, he exerted control onto his eyes as his left side that was colored white receded and his right side stopped being a beautiful crimson light.

The terrifying waves of power of his eyes became fully contained within as they only shone their pristine white and crimson lights for a few inches, Noah gazing at his surroundings while marveling as he truly saw the Ruination Realm for what it was.

Then, his heart shook as he thought of the space of the Universe and Cosmos themselves, and even the Ruination Sea as the figure of his Universal Body instantly disappeared from the Ruination Realm and returned into the Novus Universe where the main bodies of his subordinates were training in while enjoying the abundant Dao Fruits and Herbs.

His eyes captured the surroundings of the Cosmos in wonder as he saw the scene of the essences of space and time filling most of the space, and they were then held intricately by the essence of Chronos as within the nearby space, the essence of too many daos and Laws were also present as it made everything muddy!

When his eyes gazed towards the Galaxies that he entirely turned into Dao Spaces for the purposes of farming, he could see circular fields of gold or purple or black that represented a single Dao of Destiny or Chronos or Tenebrous, but even these spaces had the influence of other Daos as it all came together to form the beautiful scene that everyone else could see.

Noah looked at all these scenes while floating perfectly still, his eyes being capable of gazing to positions too many light years away as if he was right there- capable of viewing things to their microscopic levels even if they were millions of light years away!

He had to explore.

He had to explore just to what extent his new eyes could see, just what many more things he could do now that he obtained these eyes!

With him being able to see the nature of daos and Laws so clearly, just how easy would it become to form another Nomological Edict?

How easy would it be to understand the secrets of the vast Cosmos and the endless Ruination Sea that contained them?!

WAA!

Unbeknownst to Noah, his Primordial Eye had begun to rotate its unique iris majestically as he absorbed bundles of information, vibrating with unseen fervor as it seemed more excited than he was to gaze upon everything!

Chapter 1242 - Cold And Unfeeling!

As Noah obtained a terrifying set of eyes and was about to explore their stupendous uses, other beings dancing atop the same board he was on were also moving as things didn't just remain static with him out of the picture!

In the Havenbreaker Cosmos that was even more prestigious than the Propitious Cosmos that held the Golden Citadel that had hosted a recent stellar banquet.

Princess Halcyon had been summoned by none other than the Family Head of Havenbreaker herself!

The steps of this unique being were light as she was in the core universe of this Havenbreaker Cosmos, walking in the halls of another majestic castle that was towering to be larger than most Galaxies as she went towards a throne room that only powerful Daolords and Forefathers normally entered.

She passed by many beings in the long hall of this castle as they bowed to her with respect, her languid eyes remaining calm as he continued forward until she opened the huge golden doors leading to a throne room!

OOOM

The huge doors opened with a sound as the scene inside was revealed, showing a singular golden throne atop pristine stairs that a curvaceous queenly woman was sitting on, with figures of powerful Forefathers and Daolords situated below the steps as they were discussing busily before Halcyon entered.

Seeing her figure appearing, the eyes of more than half of them lit up as they bowed towards her, the other half keeping their eyes on Havenbreaker who was situated upon the throne as the eyes of this being turned sharp, her voice echoing out soon after!

"Leave us."

WAA!

The moment her command was given, spatial light flashed for a mere two seconds as the entire throne room was empty, leaving behind two women- one still situated regally and with authority upon a throne as the other walked towards her with light steps...Halcyon coming to stop before the golden steps that led towards the throne as she bowed her head while calling out lightly.

"Mother."

A light call. But no reply met her as she raised her head to find her mother's gaze tightly locked onto hers, the figures of these two women being utterly shocking as if one were to look at them- they would think they were twins!

Havenbreaker herself seemed to be in her late forties as she let out an aura of an experienced queen, while Halcyon seemed to be in her mid 20s as she seemed fairly young. What was most surprising was that when comparing their beauty...the daughter actually gave off a sense of more awe and splendor even though they were both dressed in gold.

The pair of mother and daughter stared at each other for a few seconds before Havenbreaker spoke in a commanding tone.

"Daolord Osmont. Why did you invite that creature to the Propitious Universe...why did you associate and mingle with him...and what exactly have you been doing this whole time, my dear daughter?"

A commanding tone of a queen speaking to her subject! No warmth of a mother speaking to her daughter could be felt as Halcyon calmly took in the words while replying.

"He's a new Daolord I am trying to rope in for our House, Mother. I was the first to reach out to him and form a strong connectio-"

"Do not try to play me with your act and pretty words."

RUMBLE

Before she could finish, the responding voice of Havenbreaker interrupted her as this Queen rose up from her throne, beginning to walk with light steps down towards her daughter!

"A mother knows their daughter best...or so I've heard. I've known your movements and scheming for many years now, my dear daughter."

Havenbreaker's expression was utterly impassive as she stepped on the golden stairs, coming to a stop on the last one as she stood a head above Halcyon and stared down while she spoke.

"My sweet, sweet daughter." Havenbreaker raised her hands as she cradled the cheeks of Halcyon, but no warmth could be felt from it as Halcyon's body even shook!

"Do you know...when you were first born, my very own Destiny and Fortune reacted as they told me to kill you?"

"Can you imagine that? My own baby girl that I cradled in my hands, and every cell within my body was telling me to strangle her. My own destiny was telling me that my very blood would scheme against me, that my very own blood would threaten my life and hegemony."

...!

With an expression utterly devoid of emotion, Havenbreaker removed her hands from the cheeks and spoke while she stared at the eyes of Halcyon that had begun to shake.

The eyes of this daughter listening to her mother say the words to a scene she had actually seen over a million years ago, this scene playing itself now as Halcyon thought she was prepared!

She thought that after seeing it happen over and over again in her dreams, watching it happen for real would not be so painful. That it wouldn't hurt her so much to hear these words from her very own Mother. The one person that should have loved her the most.

She...would never feel that warmth in her life as with her eyes shaking, she stared straight on towards the woman that had a face very similar to hers and continued listening to her cold words.

"I had confidence in myself as I said no. My very own daughter would not be able to do such a thing to me. And since then until now...I have continued to believe that. Whatever schemes or games you play at, you will always be in the shadow of Havenbreaker!"

With an utterly chilling tone, Havenbreaker walked up to Halcyon as she raised her hands that had begun brimming with a dangerous essence- an essence that could wipe out the whole Universe they were in if it wished!

She brought her hand clad in such an essence as she held Halcyon's ears and spoke into them.

"I could have snuffed you out when you were a mere child, and I can still snuff you out now. So I will ask again...tell me everything about the Daolord Osmont, and exactly what you have been playing around with him."

Cold and unfeeling.

These were the eyes of Havenbreaker as they held onto the ears of her daughter that were becoming dyed with a black color and decaying as if they would fall off at any second!

Against such words and a threat, Halcyon's shaking eyes actually calmed as her breathing steadied, her languid eyes staring at the woman who should have been her most loving mother as she replied slowly.

"He is just a Daolord I am trying to rope in to our-"

PAH!

A resounding sound of a slap echoed out the throne room as from the golden steps of the throne, Halcyon's figure was flung out like a ragdoll as it smashed into the golden doors behind her and left a huge dent!

None of the daos or law essence she had raised up could protect her.

Not even the rough assortment of laws and daos she was trying to fuse could stop the slap of a hand that was palpating with a striking golden light. After all, how could one stand against an Edict?!

Halcyon's figure fell down weakly as she released ragged breaths, multiple pristine white teeth falling to the ground as blood flowed freely. The terrifying essence from the slap surged through her body as it left behind broken bones and nearly ripped apart her Origin!

Yet....her golden eyes still filled with calm and defiance as she stared at the woman glancing at her coldly from a distance away!

Chapter 1243 - Search For The Source!

While shocking events were unfolding in the Primordial Empire, Noah was still marveling and pondering on the Primordial Eye and the Eye of Ruination in the Novus Universe.

Something that was at the back of Noah's mind as he obtained the Primordial Eye and the Eye of Ruination was the fact that they were things that were in the playing field of Primordials. He had to know just how common it was for Primordials to obtain the Primordial Eye, and whether every single Primordial was born with it or they had to acquire it in a unique manner similar to him.

He thought back to the only Primordial he had met so far as he wondered if that veiled woman also had something like this!

There was also the Eye of Ruination that should be just as rare if not more in Noah's eyes, where if a Primordial obtained both this eye and the Primordial Eye- they could traverse the veils between different Realities.

When thinking like this, one would come upon the terrible truth that the Primordial Noah had met either had both the Primordial Eye and the Eye of Ruination, or the Primordials had unique abilities like the Great Usurper- the Noah Eckert that he had met not too long ago who could use their own unique means to traverse across Realities!

'Whatever is that guy doing now, anyway? I met him when I entered Antiquity as I'm now leagues ahead in power. He wants to stand against Primordials and he was raised as a Champion similar to Aegon...but can he even keep up?'

As he stared at the galaxies turned into Dao Spaces in the Novus Universe, Noah smiled as he had such a thought about the being with the same first name as him, thinking that in no way could someone have a fast rate of progression similar to his as he would leave everyone else in the dust!

But since Noah had gained the Primordial Eye and the Eye of Ruination, there were many more things he could now do as he had to plan greatly for the future. As for where to start? It was to understand just what extent of power these two new eyes had!

In the Novus Universe, his entrance was soon noticed by his subordinates as the Emperor Penguin flew towards him happily, but when this arrogant bird chanced upon Noah's eyes gazing from faraway, his consciousness suddenly became jumbled as he fainted right away and floated listlessly in space!

"Hmm?"

Noah felt the changes as he gazed over right after, thinking everything was under control but the sense of awe and power that his eyes released were still too much.

"Noa-" The figure of Barbatos also floated towards him quizzically as the moment she stared into the white and crimson eyes, her eyes also rolled back as she fainted...and Noah saw that this would be the case for any of his subordinates in the next few seconds as his figure disappeared from the Novus Universe soon after!

His essence had wrapped around the Emperor Penguin and Barbatos as he made sure they were okay, their minds only receiving a momentary shock as they should be fine in a matter of minutes.

He needed time to control the output that his eyes released, and his main body would do just this as when he reappeared again, he was in the Ruination Sea as he stared at the vast and seemingly endless Infinite Cosmos before him since he was still only 2 meters large currently.

He saw the unique mixtures of laws and daos that formed the boundaries of the Universes that made up this Cosmos, his body gradually beginning to enlarge as he went towards becoming billions of light years large while also moving further and further away from the Cosmos!

It gradually stopped looking like an endless object as he grew to be the same height as the Cosmos, and he then exceeded it until he was double its size! Then, he stared at it again as he felt like he was breaking down all of its secrets, his Primordial Eye shining brightly as this eye that could break down and look at the source and Origin of everything before it was feeding Noah with too much information currently.

He saw the Infinite Cosmos as a mass of colors, the predominant one being white as it represented Primordial Essence that was constantly washing from the Cosmic Core and onto the Universes within the Cosmos.

He also saw a string of a blue lines extending from the Cosmic Core and attaching to his chest and towards the Origin of his other two bodies, his heart shaking as on top of this...he was able to see another glimmering line that should have represented the true source or origin for the Infinite Cosmos!

One had to always wonder, where was the Primordial Essence that kept a Cosmos and all of its Universes alive from the Ruination Sea coming from?

The Cosmic Core told Noah before that all Cosmos were connected to the Primordial Sea, but Noah had only ever found an Expanse of the Sea of Ruination when he explored outside as he found nothing else.

Now, he could see everything hidden as from the Infinite Cosmos that shone majority white, he saw a tout white river connected to it that shot forth into the crimson Ruination Sea to an unknown location!

A white river of pristine Primordial Essence he couldn't see before, yet now it shone with glorious splendor as his destiny and fortune churned when he looked at it.

"The source..." His voice was hoarse as he called out, his newly gained eyes releasing increasingly bright light as the Ruination Sea around him began to be bathed with a white light!

Before Noah knew it, his body was reducing from its ginormous size and already shooting forward in the direction this hidden river of Primordial Essence was leading to, wanting to see for himself the Primordial Sea that couldn't be found no matter how much one searched in the Ruination Sea.

BOOOM!

The Ruination Sea churned from the sheer speed Noah was traveling at, his body only becoming a blur of multicolored light as he chased after something he could only see after he obtained a set of ridiculous eyes!

Chapter 1244 - Confidence!

As Noah followed a hidden pristine white river from the Infinite Cosmos in search of something even he didn't know of yet, the brutal scene within a certain throne room in the Havenbreaker Cosmos continued!

A daughter stood up weakly after suffering a strike that was the deadliest one she had faced her entire life- where even the Grand Primordial Beast had not been able to wound her this much just over a day ago.

Such a strike stemmed from her very own Mother, this being remaining where she was as she looked down towards her coldly.

"At least try to be a bit smarter and try to be useful to me, then I might keep you around longer."

WAA!

"If I find that I have no use for you anymore, then I will have no problem doing what my very core told me to do the day you were born."

Words of utter cruelty resounded out as Halcyon felt her heart to be seemingly pierced too many times, biting her lips as she heard the words she was waiting for this whole time, the words she had seen along with everything else that was playing out at this moment.

"Clean yourself up and leave. Do not shame the House of Havenbreaker with such an unsightly demeanor."

After slapping her daughter with an attack filled with the essence of an Edict, Havenbreaker still didn't get any useful information that she wanted about a certain Osmont as she sent Halcyon away!

"Yes, Mother."

As cordial as ever, Halcyon tried to bow amidst her broken teeth and bones, her body being wrapped in a spatial light as she disappeared from the throne room while utilizing one-fourth of the essence she left behind to perform a long distance teleportation to a specific location in the Primordial Empire.

Her figure with a tattered and shredded dress with lacerations all around her fair skin appeared in a verdant realm that she had just left, a figure not yet turning towards her direction as she spoke out teasingly.

"For you to return so soon, did little Halcyon miss m...!!!"

Alarm rose on Springforge's face as she turned to see Halcyon, as she saw the battered girl whose Origin and body screamed of weakness!

"What is...!"

Wrath filled Springforge's mind as she instantly appeared around Halcyon and began to release shocking waves of life force and a unique glimmering essence of a verdant Edict, lifting up the face of Halcyon that after holding strong this whole time against being attacked by her very own Mother...tears began to drop down freely as she threw herself into the chest of Springforge.

The minds and actions of existences could be cruel, no matter if it was against strangers or their own family.

If they stood in the way of power...everything could be discarded!

But in the depths of the hearts of the truly strong, there was something unique known as Confidence.

Confidence that stemmed from knowledge of their own power, and confidence in themselves as these beings always looked at life as if things revolved around them!

Confidence. Aegon was a truly strong individual as he had a great deal of it, the recent example of this feature showing being the fact that he saw through a being moving in his Empire wielding an Edict in secret...but he had such utter confidence in his power and strength that he knew that being he saw would never be able to even measure up to one-hundredth of his abilities.

It was confidence that didn't just stem from his own Edicts, but from a power that he knew no others in this Reality could ever grasp. This was his knowledge and belief, and his confidence stemmed from this and much more.

Champion of Reality. Can one imagine what the psyche of such a being was? How the thought process of such a being worked day in and day out?

A chosen existence that was protecting the very Bastion of Reality with countless quintillions of existences below him. How could one not grow a sense of unbound confidence?!

Then...there was Noah himself! He knew very well that this feature of confidence and arrogance he had of himself was one of the negative aspects that he constantly tried to fix- always reminding himself to be humble and to always expect the unexpected!

To always move with care as even the smallest problem could become a big one if it wasn't taken care of carefully. This was why he moved in the past Primordial Cosmos with Clones and the Dao of Subterfuge, and why he was currently moving in the Primordial Empire with his Primordial Ruination Clone.

Even though he had utter confidence in himself- confidence that stemmed from Infinite Mana, a Trait that literally termed him as the Protagonist, and a Nomological Edict that branded his very soul onto this Reality that death for him would be hard to come by!

Yet even with all of these factors that would make a being extremely arrogant and conceited, Noah still tried his best to keep his ego and confidence in check as he still moved with care and more than always used clones.

It was a habit he was gradually learning and continuing to carry out as in case anything unexpected occurred, he would always be safe.

He didn't consider it cowardly, where his Universal Body that wielded the full Primordial Eye and the Eye of Ruination had for the first time left the Infinite Cosmos while chasing the river of Primordial Essence that stretched out towards an unknown location.

It was just one of his main bodies traversing outside, but he still moved with utter care as he learned to what extent the Primordial Eye and the Eye of Ruination were applied to his clones.

Noah was one of the very few beings that should be filled with utmost confidence that should rival Aegon if not supersede it, but he was slowly learning to curb it and not let it lead to unbound arrogance and a huge ego as such an action might just greatly help to save him in the future!

Chapter 1245 - The First Billion Is Always The Hardest I

Apart from Noah and Aegon, there were Halcyon, Springforge, Havenbreaker, and Stormdust.

Existences with their own unique features as each one had their own reasons for their utmost Confidence.

Halcyon had seen things that had yet to occur, her heart was serene as she moved with knowledge others only wished they had.

Havenbreaker had her own source of confidence as even when she knew how unruly her own daughter was, she still kept her at hand as she had the confidence to reign her whenever she wished!

All of these beings and the levels of Confidence and arrogance they had...it would be one of the features that contribute to their shocking rise and grandeur, or their ecstatic falls in the future to come.

In the throne room that Halcyon was just thrown around in like a ragdoll, Havenbreaker returned to her seat calmly as a second later, spatial waves of essence erupted around her to cause the appearance of a certain crimson haired suave man.

"Nearly killed your daughter there, Havenbreaker."

Stormdust released a deadly smile as he spoke, as if he hadn't just ordered an assassination a bit over a day ago that had Halcyon as one of the targets!

"She still has her uses, especially now with her connection to this Osmont." Havenbreaker replied languidly as she wasn't the least bit surprised at Stormdust's appearance, this shocking meeting that would cause turmoil if any beings saw occurring in this hidden space as the essence of an Edict had spread around the room in case there was anyone prying.

"Why are you here?" Her golden eyes filled with coldness turned to Stormdust as this being nonchalantly stepped towards her figure on the throne, his coarse hands reaching out towards her as she raised her brows while continuing to speak out calmly.

"If you want Aegon to rip you apart without any more reservations of your friendship, you can go ahead and try that."

WAA!

At the mere mention of Aegon, the smile on Stormdust faded as he stood up with sharp eyes, his voice ringing out.

"Springforge has made her move. You need to make yours afterwards."

His voice carried a unique tone that always pulled others' attention towards him, Havenbreaker nodding her head nonchalantly as she replied to him.

"As we agreed. We will take things a step at a time and see how all the cards will fall. This Osmont..."

"He is not just a piece that Halcyon and Springforge are using. You need to be careful of this creature." Stormdust replied languidly as he stepped away from the throne with a smile, his figure becoming wrapped in spatial essence as he continued.

"I've already been here too long for comfort. Let me know if you want to meet again."

His devilish smile was dazzling as with a glimmer of crimson, he faded away!

Havenbreaker looked at the area as she released a harrumph, her cold eyes staring out at the area she had just smacked her daughter onto as many thoughts danced in her mind.

As all of this occurred, Noah continued to follow the shimmering River of Primordial Essence as his Primordial Eye and the Eye of Ruination still released terrifying lights, Noah learning to better control them as he continued to take in everything around him.

At the same time, he had duplicated the Resplendent Runic Dao Line Enhancers as the moment he felt a certain level of control on the new eyes, he wanted to enhance the Runic Dao Lines of Ruination and the Primordial Daos that made them!

From the 190, he now had 380 Resplendent Runic Dao Line Enhancers after the duplication to work with as he could further elevate the parameters of his power.

SHAA!

His figure was going who knew how many light years every second as if there was anyone strong enough watching, they would simply be seeing a multicolored blur flash on the chaotic Ruination Sea. But Noah's eyes showed him that he was swimming towards a certain location as with this time he had, his essence moved onto the Resplendent Runic Dao Line Enhancers as he began to direct them onto the Primordial Eye.

The colorful lines shot from his expansive space and into the Runic Dao Lines that made up the unique structure of the white gold left eye, one Enhancer after another being eaten up as Noah's aura could feel the three stacked triangles that formed his iris and even the circular rims of his eyes...resplendent golden circles began to etch themselves around them as they began to create for such colorful eyes that common Protagonists would feel shame.

Lines of gold weaved themselves into his left eye as they gradually caused its structure to have prominent minuscule golden rings, Noah watching as the number of Enhancers absorbed by the Primordial Eye reduced by ten, thirty, sixty...until he reached 100!

BZZT!

The light that the Primordial Eye released became even brighter as normally, the 100 Resplendent Runic Dao Line Enhancers limit should have been reached...and yet!!!

"That's just beautiful..." Noah watched with a smile as the 101st Enhancer sank into the Primordial Eye seamlessly, the number continuing to shoot up higher.

The Cosmic Primordial Dao Line was a stage higher than Annihilation and all the others. Naturally, its limits would also be above them. Such was the reality displayed before Noah's consciousness as he saw another 50 Enhancers after the 100th sink into the Primordial Eye that these Dao Lines created, giving birth to the white gold eye that had many concentric golden rings wrapped all around it.

150 Resplendent Dao Line Enhancers was the limit for Ruination and the Primordial Dao Lines!

A single Resplendent Runic Dao Line Enhancer was a 10% increase to the base attributes of the Runic Dao Line. Wondrously, the Primordial Dao Line had 20,000,000% for its base attributes as every single enhancer going into it was an addition of 2 million percent...and 150 Enhancers had sunk into the Primordial Dao Line.

The results were stellar, to say the least.

<Runic Primordial Dao Line> :: A unique manifestation of a deconstructed and reconstructed Primordial Dao that should normally not be possible for Common Existences....The Runic Primordial Dao Line also grants +320,000,000% Increased Primordial Damage, +320,000,000% Health and Mana Regeneration, +320,000,000% Cast and Attack speed...

It was a beautiful result that would make one question just why such a thing was even allowed to happen!

Chapter 1246 - The First Billion Is Always The Hardest II

BOOM!

Noah felt an explosive sense of strength reverberate from his body continuously as the Runic Primordial Dao Line shone with utter majesty and power, his heart steeling itself at the sight of 320 million percent increase in Primordial Damage, Health and Mana Regeneration, and Cast and Attack Speed

Just what exactly would a 320 million percent in boosts mean anyways? How could we actualize and understand this number with our very own eyes?! For this, we will have to talk numbers briefly!

If we start with a small number like 1000% and someone's Cast Speed was a numerical number of 10, such an increase would grant one ten times their base speed as 10 times 1000% was 100.

Going further- 100,000% was 10,000 times the base of 10, and 1 million percent was 100,000 times the base value of 10, granting one a speed of 100,000 from just their base 10. 10 million percent was a numerical increase of 1,000,000 times, and 100 million percent was a numerical increase of 10 million times!

So a 320,000,000% increase was actually an increase of 32,000,000 times, the value of 10 becoming 32 million. If in the case that Noah had the numerical cast speed of 10 and could shoot 10 [Fireballs] per second, with the 320,000,000% boost to Cast and Attack Speed stemming from the Runic Primordial Dao Line, he could now cast 32 million [Fireballs] per second.

From releasing 10 attacks per second...to releasing 32 million of them every second! This was what such a number meant when one actually actualized it into reality. This was how we could understand it realistically! This was also why Noah had been able to move at such crazy speeds that would put speedsters to shame- it was because some Dao Lines increased his Movement Speed by millions of times that he couldn't help but see everyone else as if they were moving in slow motion!

This same numerical concept could be applied to the Damage he could deal and his Health Regeneration- he could effectively heal all of his health after the passing of a mere second even if he lost 99% of it.

Unless he met an enemy that could land deadly attacks filled with True Annihilatory Damage within less than a second multiple times until his health ran out, they would not be able to kill him as they would find it all regenerated in the next second.

This was what all of these crazy percentages in the millions meant!

One must keep in mind that the previous 480 million percentage boosts he had stacked varied depending on the Dao he boosted, with some Daos increasing him in the damage he could deal along with Cast and Attack Speed and Regeneration like the Primordial Dao, others enhancing him on the AOE Damage percentage or Movement Speed and many more parameters.

So it wasn't 480 million percent on everything- but on specific parameters of the daos enhanced by the Resplendent Runic Dao Line Enhancers. Now, 320 million in boosts were being added from the Runic Primordial Dao Line alone as we could add these two numbers and say Noah currently had 800 million percentage boosts spread out over different parameters, and even this didn't seem enough for him as in the next second...

"The Runic Dao Line of Ruination!"

BZZZT!

With a glorious illumination of light, his right eye released might just as intense as his left, yet another 320 million in percentage points coming to light! Uniquely, Ruination also granted the parameters of Cast and Attack Speed with Health and Mana Regeneration, the only exception being instead of Increased Primordial Damage- it was increased Ruination Damage for the parameters that gained the 320 million percent.

Now we went from 800 million percent boosts to 1,120,000,000% in the total number of boosts allocated to different Parameters among Noah's different Dao Lines!

The billion percentage barrier was breached just with the addition of Enhancers to the Dao Lines of the Primordial Dao and Ruination.

The first billion in percentage points that Noah had reached, and it made him wonder just what waited in the future!

"..." Noah took a deep breath as he took in this number, his consciousness continuing to feel the endless waves of surging power in his body that would make anyone think they were the most powerful existence across the countless light years.

"But I am not."

WAA!

His Primordial Eye and Eye of Ruination flashed sharply, reminding himself that there were Champions of Realities with unknown Systems and Primordials that might have already had these same eyes he just obtained a long time ago, the only thing he had that they might not have being the Resplendent Runic Dao Line enhancers that required multiple conditions to be obtained.

He shot down the rising arrogance and conceit as he continued on the search for where the river of Primordial Essence would lead, his consciousness continuing to understand his newly gained eyes as he also familiarized himself with all of his boosted parameters and what Dao Line had the specific parameters he wanted to boost with the remaining 80 Resplendent Runic Dao Line Enhancer he still had left!

As he thought about all of this, the monotonous view around him changed as his eyes flashed, finding another Primordial Essence river a few light years away that led towards the same direction of the one that connected to his Infinite Cosmos!

It indicated the connection of another Cosmos as it also told Noah he was close to what he was looking for, his body continuing forward as in the next few seconds, he continued to see other rivers of Primordial Essence appearing as they converged towards the same location he was going to.

All of these pristine white rivers that one could only see with the Primordial Eye represented different Cosmos, such a reality causing Noah's heart to shake as it opened up many possibilities for him!

As he followed the river connecting to his Infinite Cosmos, he could now see to hit left, right, top, and bottom...multiple other rivers continued to converge towards the same location. The further he went, the more careful and apprehensive he became as his destiny churned, and after another second....

THRUM!

He came to a stop.

His body stopped being a blur as it stopped instantly, the sheer force breaking the Ruination Sea around him as it released waves of deadly chaotic storms that caught the attention of the thing that had caused Noah to stop to begin with!

There, just a few thousand light years away, Noah could see the glorious figure of a Lesser Primordial Beast in all of its splendor.

On his way towards what he believed to be the source of the Primordial Essence for the Cosmos within this Reality, he actually found a Primordial Beast for the first time by himself.

A Primordial Beast floating serenely in space as currently, its eyes had landed on him as they began to blaze with a light of bloodlust and destruction!

Such a development caused Noah's mind to blaze as he began to have some ideas on just what shocking truth he was about to come across if he continued going forward!

Chapter 1247 - A Fantastical Finding! I

A Primordial Beast. As clear as anything, such a Beast stood before Noah in a dominating fashion as after seeing him appear and break the Ruination Sea around him when he did so. This beast roared out madly with no reservations and thundered forward!

To Noah's eyes though...the Lesser Primordial Beast was so incredibly slow.

OOM!

His body began to emanate colorful light as he turned into a multicolored blur, instantly appearing above the Lesser Primordial Beast as he came to sit upon its vibrant pair of wings that seemed to be made of the Primordial Essence itself.

Noah used his Primordial Eye as he gazed on this beast, looking at its astounding physiology as it saw a unique rotation of primordial essence and life force throughout its body and Origin, much of it coursing through its vibrant heart and even coalescing on the wings he now nonchalantly stood on!

He had actually grown to such a stupendous level of strength that against a Lesser Primordial Beast, it was actually too slow for him as he could climb atop its body and study it without any worries!

"Hmm?"

His vast spatial acuity then saw the eyes of this beast tremble, having seemingly found out or felt that its target had moved at such speeds that it now stood above him as Noah saw a change in the regulation of the dense essence within its body.

He curiously watched something that he wouldn't even be able to watch before without the Primordial Eye, seeing this beast command more than a half of its essence to rush into its legs and wings as he saw its movement speed rapidly increasing, its body actually swooping down as it increased the aspect of its movement to try and keep up with Noah's!

But...

"It is not enough."

WAA!

Noah enjoyed the new things he could see with the Primordial Eye as he gave a light nod to this beast, gazing down upon it as essence began to flood into his right eye.

Into his Eye of Ruination as he called out lightly.

"True Annihilatory Flames of Ruination."

...!

The circular rings of his right eye turned in a show of glorious splendor as a crimson light flashed from it, and then the scene of the Lesser Primordial Beast becoming bathed in crimson black flames bloomed in the next second.

"ROAAAAR!"

A baleful roar of utter pain ruptured the nearby space as Noah watched curiously, his Origin also beginning to churn as 100 Splendiferous Universes began to burn, the Cosmic Dao of Loot becoming activated as Noah obtained a 1000% Increased Loot Quantity and a 100% Increased Loot Rarity!

The effects of the True Annihilatory Flames of Ruination were terrifying as they gnawed on the defenses of the Lesser Primordial Beast as if they were paper, eating up over half of its body in but an instant as within half a second, its Origin was ripped apart in a fiery blaze as its body released a burst of light that shot towards Noah- a prompt popping up right before his eyes.

"Ah..."

Noah's eyes released a light of brilliance at this juncture as a myriad of emotions coursed through him, his right eye first focusing on the scene before him as he wiped out a Lesser Primordial Beasts in less than half a second, but the raging True Annihilatory Flames of Ruination continued to burn and even spread across the Ruination Sea madly as he gave the command for them to disappear!

The burning of his Splendiferous Universes also came to a stop within his Origin as the light of the Cosmic Dao of Loot faded.

Thereafter, his brilliant eyes glanced at the single Primordial Heart turned into 10 with the addition of the tag [Resplendent], and he was both happy and sad at this as his dream of seeing a Lesser Primordial Heart turned into 10 Grand Primordial Hearts did not occur.

He expected it to be like this after he received the Resplendent Universal Filament Cores from the Daolords and Antiquities and not Cosmic Core, and it made him think of just what he had to do in order to skip the ranks of treasures for his Cosmic Dao of Loot!

Would a 200% or 300% Increased Loot Rarity be enough for him to obtain a Grand Primordial Heart from a Lesser Primordial Beast or an even higher number? He didn't know the answer, but he would work on it in the future to bring his dream into a reality.

He came out of his lamentations as he looked at just what changes the addition of [Resplendent] would have to the Lesser Primordial Heart as its details unfolded before his eyes.

[Resplendent Lesser Primordial Heart] :: A unique culmination of the essence of a Lesser Primordial Beast. It has undergone changes as its absorption allows one to choose the rapid proliferation of normal Galaxies or the change of Normal Galaxies into Dao Galaxies, with enough essence existing to birth 800 Splendiferous Universes. Other uses of the Primordial Heart have become available after the change in their nature as a heart can now be utilized to allow for a Dao Induction, where one fourth of the essence of a Resplendent Lesser Primordial Heart is enough to allow one to gain initial comprehension in any Lesser, Grand, or Cosmic Dao they come across the essence of. Half of the essence of a single Heart can also grant one complete comprehension, with the other half allowing them complete Assimilation in any Dao. Current Resplendent Lesser Primordial Hearts- 10.

A pristine loot elevated to another level as a single one absorbed would grant 800 Splendiferous Universes. Noah had obtained 10 of them from a single kill as it equated to 8,000 Splendiferous Universes...nearly the same as all the Universes he had forged so far!

And all of it was from a single mere Lesser Primordial Beast.

Ah!

Chapter 1248 - A Fantastical Finding! II

Apart from the large number of Universes one could forge with a Resplendent Lesser Primordial Heart, there were also the features of Dao Induction where one could forcefully gain initial comprehension in any Dao- and Noah saw one of the biggest uses being granting his subordinates initial comprehension of Ruination and the Primordial Daos as they could choose to step on the path of Daolords or try to fuse Daos and Laws into Edicts thereafter.

This was a thought for the future as Noah left the Resplendent Lesser Primordial Hearts in his Expansive Space for now, his gaze continuing towards where a myriad of rivers of Primordial Essence were converging towards!

His eyes shone with care as before he moved any further, he had to prepare.

One of the many features of the Primordial Eye was being capable of not only being able to see the source and Origin of the things around them, but also to alter what others saw when they looked at the holder of the Primordial Eye.

This was something Noah utilized right now as he simply had too many secrets, beginning to alter what others saw when they looked at him or his clones at this moment.

He falsified the number of his Universes, Dao Lines, even up until the aura he released. Everything he could change to make others underestimate him or look at him as average or even slightly above average was altered.

"Oh?" Noah came to a stop as he was about to mask his Nomological Edict of Cessation as he felt a prickly feeling the moment he was about to do so. A feeling of danger that foretold of an unfavorable outcome if he did this!

It could only mean one thing- that someone powerful had already seen that he could utilize this Edict, and him being able to hide it fully now? would actually bring attention to himself and cause an outcome that would not be the best for him right now.

He knew the only place he had displayed it while masking it with the Dao of Subterfuge as he already had an idea.

"More than likely Aegon..." Noah's eyes turned sharp as he finished masking everything else but the Edict of Cessation. If it was already found out and the Great Conqueror did not make any moves, it more than likely meant that he considered him nothing even with an Edict and didn't bother to make a move, and Noah liked such conceited existences the most as it actually made things easier for him!

'Give me time to grow. You can then reevaluate your mistakes in the future!' His eyes shone with brilliance as after he did this, his figure continued to shoot forward carefully towards the direction where many rivers of Primordial Essence were converging towards.

If a Primordial Beast, Primordial, or even a Common Existence like himself were to look at Noah now, they would see a Daolord that had forged a few thousand Universes and had glimpsed an Edict, with those being more perceptive being allowed to notice that he actually had an already fused Edict!

They wouldn't see his physiology and how crazy it was, nor would they see that he had the Primordial Eye and the Eye of Ruination.

With his bases covered, Noah continued to tear through the Ruination Sea in a blur of light as he increasingly found more and more rivers of Cosmos- and ideas had already formed in his mind on what else he could do as he now knew the location of hidden Cosmos apart from those that Aegon had collected into the Primordial Empire!

He could be proactive and not just remain targeting the Cosmos in the Primordial Empire, and he could expand his influence over new and untouched Cosmos that even Aegon had yet to touch.

This idea and many more lingered in his mind as he played with it, his body continuing forward silently.

Another hour passed, and he fantastically came across a second Lesser Primordial Beast.

SHAA!

This time, he continued to move at his ridiculous speed as his Origin moved to silently cover his body in the Nomological Edict of Cessation, his right hand outstretched as he used it like a mere knife to slice through the body of the Lesser Primordial Beast as if it were butter!

Before it even knew what was going on, Noah had moved all over its body and cut it apart throughout, finishing it all by waving his hand to cut off the head of the Primordial Beast as a golden light of loot was released thereafter.

[+1 Lesser Primordial Heart obtained...] DING! The effects of the Cosmic Dao of Loot are applied...[+10 Resplendent Lesser Primordial Hearts obtained.]

He had already subconsciously activated and deactivated the Cosmic Dao of Loot, yet another 10 Resplendent Lesser Primordial Hearts landing in his hands as his Loot collection continued to expand!

But he didn't pay attention to this currently as he silently went forward, his destiny and fortune churning wildly at this moment as he approached further in towards the direction he was following.!

The area before him had stopped being utterly crimson as he saw the many rivers of Primordial Essence shooting into a vast and endless whiteness that lay up ahead- a whiteness that took over everything and looked like a behemoth swallowing all of the rivers of Primordial Essence!

This was more of what he saw with the Primordial Eye as the light years before him were still the crimson sea, but he could see the outline of what lay up ahead.

Ruination and Primordial Essence had begun to move and intertwine freely at this point as Noah's eyes flashed, the composition of his body beginning to change instantly.

His body turned into pure Primordial Essence as this was how he proceeded forward slowly, his Primordial Eye incorporeally shining as it would show others nothing but a Primordial Essence!

His mind continued to buzz as the further in he went thereafter, he finally began to see clusters of Primordial Beasts moving around as they actually weren't too far away from each other.

Clusters of Primordial Beasts!

He saw two Grand Primordial Beasts on one side leading 5 Lesser Ones, and just a few million light years away, he saw another similar cluster.

Clusters that if Noah made a move on a single one, all the other nearby ones would follow as at this moment, Noah held himself back and chose to simply observe before making Grand movements!

A few million light years was a negligible distance as Primordial Beasts could cross it in seconds, and Noah's destiny churned as it told him he would be swarmed the moment he made a move as he was currently in an extremely dangerous environment!

He steeled himself as he flowed forward undetected, his horizons being expanded as he began to sense the auras of more and more Primordial Beasts, the area around him fully shifting into becoming a gorgeous white sea that glimmered in the crimson darkness.

Deep within this vast white sea, he saw countless Primordial Beasts that swam freely in the Primordial Sea that was providing the essence for all Cosmos to thrive!

Chapter 1249 - Boundless Opportunities!

"I'll rip that bitch apart the next time I see her!"

The expression of Springforge was filled with anger as she looked at Halcyon's healed figure beside her, the two of them currently watching the battle that was initiated under her commands as 40 Cosmos were on the line.

One side had Forefather Akainu with dozens of Daolords and thousands of Antiquities, and another side had Forefather Robert with a similar line up!

These powerful beings were currently engaged in a stellar show of combat as the trillions of powerful experts watching it in the edges of the Cosmic Battlefield were watching with rapt attention, but Springforge herself watched the Illusory screen that showed the battle while her eyes still flashed with anger.

"Her own daughter? Is she serious? Her need to break into the Cosmic Realm is so strong that it makes her forget how to act like a human being?"

She spoke of the cold Havenbreaker as the figure of Halcyon beside her smiled sadly, pulling herself back to get into her usual calm demeanor as she spoke out.

"Beings will always go for what is important to them no matter what stands in their way. The problem is that the price that she will have to pay for what they want...it is just you much."

"Reality itself..." Springforge sighed as she spoke absent-mindedly, seemingly in the process of believing and disbelieving at this moment!

"Not if I can help it. This move will be among the first!" Her verdant hair shone as she looked at the screen that showed the dominance Forefather Akainu was putting in with the Daolords under him.

The battle was one that the inhabitants of the Primordial Empire were used to seeing, and it didn't end in a single minute or mere seconds like the battles of a certain someone as the Daolords fought brutally for their lives and honor!

All sorts of stellar skills flew across the center of the Cosmic Battlefield as Forefather Akainu acted like a commander, everyone else following his lead as within both of his hands were two glimmering Quasi-Cosmic Treasures that flowed with an intense minute of laws and Daos- a glimpse of Edicts that he was using along with these treasures to dominate Forefather Robert and gradually wind down his forces.

The battle reminded the many Daolords, Antiquities, and Paragons among many of those in the Cosmic Battlefield of how the Writs of Challenges went. But even they and the masses of quintillions that were watching the match in their own Cosmos like Springforge and Halcyon had similar thoughts as they watched on.

"It feels nothing like the previous two Challenges. It feels...a bit boring."

In a certain Cosmos, a Hegemony was is a huge stadium within a certain universe that showed an illusory screen of the battle, and she spoke out what many beings were feeling as they found this battle not to have the flair that they just witnessed from the two Writs of Challenges prior!

No shocking actions or battle power, no nominate in the Battlefield that gave others shock.

It was just what they had come to expect from such battles as they actually found themselves thinking of Daolord Osmont and how his Writs of Challenges were much more vibrant!

OOOOH!

They didn't have to wait too long for this current battle though, where after an hour- Forefather Akainu's body released one final attack with waves of power that tore apart and heavily wounded Forefather Robert.

The forces from the House of Stormdust could stand no longer as within seconds, all those that didn't want death submitted in defeat- the result that Stormdust himself had predicted actually playing out as a Primordial Light of Authority that held 80 Cosmos flew towards Akainu seamlessly!

"That is one of many..." Springforge's eyes shone with victory after watching this scene, but Halcyon beside her shook her head as her seriousness returned and she spoke out slowly.

"It is just the beginning." Yes! It was just the beginning of a snowball effect of events as while the House of Springforge celebrated their victory, the Family Head beside Halcyon soon had her smile fading as she received a communication from a Forefather in her faction!

She gritted her teeth as her eyes flashed, her regality reigning in her eyes as she spoke coldly.

"We just received two more Writs of Challenges. The total number of Cosmos amounts to 100...and both challenges are from the House of Havenbreaker."

They made their moves, and others made theirs! And it was in a stellar fashion at that as it wasn't the recently losing House of Stormdust that counterattacked, but it was the House of Havenbreaker that sent these challenges.

This alone was enough to say many things for those paying attention!

Halcyon listened to such a development as she knew the tumultuous Era of war had arrived for the Primordial Empire, and what would be left behind were shattered pieces with no winners to be found- just chaos and Death running rampant as a specific foe sought more and more power.

They would be reducing and fracturing their power as enemies closed in around them, the results of it being horrendous if not rectified in time!

'Unless he moves to change it. Unless I move.' She thought of the vibrant Daolord Osmont while her eyes pierced into the veils of the future, wanting to see just what was in store for them!

She thought of the Daolord Osmont that under nobody's knowledge- he was currently sneaking into the vibrant Primordial Sea and watching the cluster of countless Primordial Beasts.

Noah became more and more careful the further in he went, his body in the form of Primordial essence silently passing between the wings of terrifying Grand Primordial Beasts that were swimmingly freely, going deeper into this Primordial Sea as he was currently just at the edges of it!

The further in he went, the more somber and excited he became as the number of Grand Primordial Beasts just increased, and he could begin to sense an overwhelming aura even deeper into this sea that could even be felt from this far distance.

Somber and excited! This was what he felt.. The reason for this was because with such a vast number of Primordial Beasts all around him, there were many possibilities lying before Noah. He could observe and gather information while leaving everything untouched, or he could poke the hornet's nest and do something wild!

Chapter 1250 - Analyze And Copy! I

Something wild that would involve him silently teleporting his main body away and bringing in his clones...and then spamming and utilizing his crazy percentages to collect an astound amount of loot that would make the strongest of beings shocked.

All of these were possibilities.

As for what Noah would do?

His liquid form of Primordial Essence nearly formed into a devilish smile as the moment he came across the first clusters of Primordial Beasts, he already knew what he would be doing!

Further ahead in the Primordial Sea as Noah weaved across the bodies and auras of too many Lesser and Grand Primordial Beasts, he could feel a singular overpowering aura waving out maddeningly as it was uniquely different from any of the Lesser or Grand Primordial Beasts.

This aura caused Noah's consciousness to churn as a terrifying thought crossed through them.

'Has one already risen? An Ender of Reality?'

WAA!

A Cosmic Primordial Beast! Ender of Reality!

This was one of the few things Noah could attribute to the vastly terrifying aura he had begun to sense as he went deeper into the Primordial Sea while being surrounded by countless Primordial Beasts all around him!

When such creatures arose, the fall of a Reality wasn't far away as Noah could not truly confirm that this aura was one of these creatures, or if it was simply a Grand Primordial Beast that was about to become a Cosmic one, or something even more unique.

There were too many things he didn't know, so he would continue to go deeper as he found out more information first before he did anything! And he did not have to wait long as he came across something fantastical.

A few billion light years to his right, across a cluster of countless Primordial Beasts- his awareness actually found an area of the Primordial Sea that was utterly clear, the Primordial Beast seemingly making a path as 5 enormous Grand Primordial Beasts billions of light years in size had white chains erupting from either side of their mouths- each of the chains clasp onto the barriers of a glimmering Universe as it was being dragged behind them!

A Universe separated from its Cosmos as it was 100 billion light years in size, and yet 5 Grand Primordial Beasts that looked different and released auras more terrifying than all other Grand Primordial Beasts were dragging this Universe in a solemn manner, the action even seeming sacred before Noah's eyes as he saw it wasn't just a single universe being pulled forward.

He shockingly saw that it was like a procession of Universes, each one having 5 Grand Primordial Beasts with pristine white chains attaching to their boundaries and dragging these Universes along towards a single location.

A location that Noah couldn't help but now gaze towards as his Primordial Essence form moved rapidly to appear in the surroundings where other Primordial Beasts were watching this sacred procession in solemn silence.

The procession of Universes were seemingly like glimmering circles plucked off a Cosmos, Noah sensing quintillions of life forms within it as he found his currently nonexistent heart shaking as he knew even if he made a move...the ensuing destruction would shatter all of these Universes! He counted 12 of them as he made his heart firmer while following them, spending a whole hour as the procession went to the depths of the Primordial Sea, Noah actually finding that fewer and fewer Primordial Beasts could be found as they went deeper in.

As for the reason why there were fewer Primordial Beasts? It was due to the fact that the terrifying aura he had felt this whole time was becoming more and more prominent, and Noah was finally able to see what it was as the process of 12 Universes pulled by Primordial Beast finally arrived before a vast open space within the Primordial Sea, this space having a single existence within it as this existence caused Noah's heart to turn cold!

'Woah...'

How could he even describe it?

Floating to be ten times as large as any of the Universes being dragged towards it, a beast of utter regality that had golden white scales could be seen. Five pairs of multicolored wings erupted on its back, and it had four ginormous scaled limbs shining in gold as uniquely, this beast was floating upright as it showed mannerisms reminiscent of humans!

Yet it was anything but that as on its face, scaled draconic eyes dripping with majesty and power could be seen along with two pairs of pristinely white tusks and a trunk that made Noah think of a war elephant! Its head truly seemed like a terrifying mixture of the oldest dragons and ancient war elephants.

Something that caused Noah's consciousness to vibrate was that when he looked at all the Primordial Beasts he came across in this Primordial Sea, he was able to see them and their wondrous composition as well as the movement of essence within their bodies, but he could not see this same sight for the terrific beast before him!

He couldn't see any of its inner essence movements nor find out what type of Origin it had, such a thing leading to a terrifying conclusion that one could easily affirm when they looked at the slit on the forehead of the creature that showed a hidden third eye that was currently closed.

An eye that even while closed was releasing bright rays of pristine white light, none of the secrets of this existence being revealed to Noah as in the next second, its trunk lifted up to reveal a bottomless abyss that was its mouth as it was directed to a Universe that was brought before it.

The 5 Primordial Beasts pulling it flashed away with haste as below the raised golden trunk where an endless void could be seen, an accumulation of dao essences gathered in a unique fashion as Noah in his Primordial essence form felt his left eye throbbing!

It was throbbing as shockingly, it observed the activation of a skill from this magisterial existence- a skill that was so profound that Noah was forced to pay attention and watch as after the trunk of this creature opened and its abyssal jaws were seen, the Universe directly before it was instantly fractured as it turned into a mass of light that was directly absorbed into the mouth of this creature.

As if its mouth was a quasar or black hole capable of swallowing everything!

It was a devastating sight, but Noah's consciousness was buzzing as after seeing the utilization of daos to enact a stupendous skill, something fantastical was arranged in Noah's mind as the mere words for it floated before his eyes seconds later.

<Esurient True Devouring>.
