

Mana 391

Chapter 391 - An Inheritance!

<Inheritance of the Disciple of Fire> :: Left behind to those fate intended, this inheritance grants the unique cultivation ability {Disciple of Fire}, as well as the Absolute Skill <<Herald of Flames>> that are meant to create the most powerful Incarnation of Flames.

The knowledge swiftly came into Noah's mind as he hungrily looked at the abundant information stored in the crystal, the immense value of this treasure just now becoming clear in his mind!

The biggest value that could be gained from this <Inheritance of the Disciple of Fire> was not just its unique cultivation ability and the Absolute Skill, but the fact that this Inheritance was something that could be learned by others!

Similar to the treasure that the Celestials came across that they spread out to their disciples, Noah could bring his people into this area for them to gain this Inheritance themselves, or see if he could learn how to make Inheritance Crystals similar to what the Celestials were doing.

He had used his abundant essence to try and move this ancient pedestal from its spot as he began reading the information on this inheritance, but found that some sort of inviolable law was keeping it in place, where he could not even make it budge an inch! This would not be a problem though, as he would simply have to teleport his people here to have them experience this amazing boon as well.

His gaze went down towards the unique cultivation skill, {Disciple of Fire} first.

{Disciple of Fire} :: A technique geared towards cultivating the Law of Fire. Grants the user the ability to form a unique Fire Origin Core.

Only two sentences for the description of the skill, but he found it eerily similar to the {Fate's Disciple} ability that cultivated the law of fate by inscribing Fate Lines on the body of the practitioner, but this {Disciple of Fire} instead allowed one to form a Fire Origin Core!

Noah put everything else aside as this unique skill that was extremely similar to the one dealing with the law of fate that he received from the Celestials took his central focus.

Far away from his position, the Righteous Fire Exploration Team had already returned after they finished hunting the last Fire Behemoth that also provided Noah with the last piece of the Incandescent Flameborn Set, with his main body going into the regal structures that served as the sleeping quarters of Celestials as he secluded himself.

A mini Blood World bloomed in the scintillating gold room that Noah was in as it covered him entirely, the knowledge about the unique skill {Disciple of Fire} filling his mind as he wanted to see how different it was to {Fate's Disciple}!

RUMBLE!

It felt like an explosion was occurring inside his body the moment he activated {Disciple of Fire}, something new appearing deep inside him! At the position that could be considered the center of Noah's body, there was an incorporeal blue colored core that held streaks of gold that was standing stably. This could be considered the center of his Origin, his Origin Core!

Besides this large Origin Core, a small dot that shone with a fiery red light began to come to life, not even being one hundredth the size of his Origin Core.

This could be referred to as the Fire Origin Core!

RUMBLE!

A storm of converging essence rushed into the room that Noah was staying in as the other Celestials in the exquisitely built structure noticed this wild convergence and looked forward while shaking their heads with smiles.

They knew this to be the dwelling of a new Celestial that was also a being with a Noble Fate!

They took this wild convergence of essence as a breakthrough that affected the surroundings of this being, choosing to be respectful and not even send their auras towards the dwelling.

Meanwhile, an enormous amount of essence continued to accumulate as Noah absorbed both the surrounding essence, as well as the reserves of the planets he was connected to and drove them all according to {Disciple of Fire} into this budding Fire Origin Core.

At the very center of his origin, besides the stably rotating blue core inlaid with a few golden stripes, the formation of an extremely small red core was completed as it was quickly wrapped up in a mantle of flames, a unique energy being released from it and into every single cell on Noah's body as it began to rotate slowly, absorbing as much essence as it could with no reservation!

The unique energy that the Fire Origin Core released the moment it was fully formed went on to wrap around every cell it came across, having an arduous journey in front of it as there were trillions of cells to cover!

The process was slow, but Noah sent his awareness into his own body as he observed this unique energy being released from the Fire Origin Core begin to slowly strengthen the affected cells, each of them gaining a hint of the universal laws, this one being the Law of Fire!

RUMBLE!

It felt like his body was undergoing euphoria as his cells drank this unique energy being released from the Fire Origin Core with wild enthusiasm, Noah sensing his body gain yet another law, this one going on to boost him in a different way than even the Fate Lines that he continued to condense with {Fate's Disciple}.

{Disciple of Fire} had nothing like fate lines, but it did create another Origin Core inside him that had begun to slowly rotate as it accepted the input of a large amount of essence and then released a unique energy that was passively going on to strengthen Noah's body, the crazy effects only being able to be discovered with time.

The aura of fire began to slowly burn within him, his awareness closely monitoring this process as he asked himself- would this be similar to the cultivation of the Law of Fate where he could not condense a large number of Fate Lines continuously, or would this be something different?

Essence was continuing to be absorbed by the small Fire Origin Core that began slowly growing larger as seconds passed, showing no signs of stopping as it went on to release even more of its unique energy to bathe Noah's body. So he wondered as this mystical scene played out inside of him, was there actually a limit?!

Chapter 392 - Fire Origin Core, <>

The small Flame Origin Core continued to spin as it absorbed mana and released a unique energy that continued to release an intense energy drenched in the Law of Fire, this essence continuing to delve throughout Noah's body as he began to feel a constant feeling of increased strength.

His clone that was simply an extension of his limbs also had this energy wrap around him, the body of the clone actually having a more intense reaction in the underground cavern of the volcanic mountain as it brought Noah to the confirmation that he would be able to progress even faster in the environment filled with extreme temperatures and flames.

He continued to test whether there would be a limit to how much essence he could feed the Flame Origin Core as it continued to strengthen his body using the Law of Fire, his gaze turning to his stat panel as he noticed the addition of another law!

[Noah Osmont][Title(s): Infernal Lord(41%)]

[Bloodline(s): Vampyre Progenitor(Awakening)]

[Fate Line(s) : 23,486]

[Origin Core(s) : Fire-1]

[Vitality: VOID]

[Focus: -]

[Strength: VOID]

[Law(s) : Water-11%, Space-8%, Fate-.23%, Fire-2%]

In the condest stat panel, Noah observed the addition of a section that listed Origin Cores, with the only one currently being listed being the Fire Origin Core that was placed at Stage 1!

There was no mention of his much larger Origin that shone with a blue l.u.s.ter slowly rotating at his very center, only this new Origin Core being given a stage as it continued to grow ever so larger and begin to drench Noah's body in the Law of Fire more and more.

Different from the Fate Lines which he could activate and use the strength they provided to bring forth even larger amounts of physical and soul damage, the energy released from the Fire Origin Core went on to directly enhance the strength of his body as he felt like his attacks would always be even more explosive, taking with them a destructive power that would burn all those that stood against him.

Essence continued to pour into this Fire Origin Core as Noah continued to test the limits, because if there wasn't any, then he did not see a problem in raising the Stage of this Fire Origin Core from 1 and all the way to 10, or whatever the maximum stage of such a core was!

But would the universal laws allow for such world shattering possibilities to come to life?

His question was answered soon as he felt his body become drenched in the law of fire more and more, wisps of flames appearing on his skin as they danced around him beautifully.

Beneath the volcanic mountain where his clone was surrounded by immense heat, his body was having an even greater reaction as it fully became wrapped in dark red flames, both the body of the clone and even his main one not feeling any pain as these flames felt very comfortable for them!

POP!

At this point, a metamorphosis seemed to occur with the Fire Origin Core as it instantly doubled in size, its presence even stronger as it changed from Stage 1 to Stage 2!

Noah also saw the Law of Fire slowly rise from 2% until it reached 10%!

In the span of a few minutes, he had ridiculously raised his comprehension of a law from nothing until it reached 10%! He was expectant to continue, but this was when the worries he had were affirmed as similar to when he first gathered Fate Lines, something stopped him from completely breaking the rules and just piercing through the stages!

The large amount of essence from the atmosphere and from the reserves of the many planets he was connected to simply stopped going into the now Stage 2 Fire Origin Core as it began rotating peacefully, not even paying attention to the bountiful energy trying to get into it as it now slowly underwent a cycle of releasing the unique energies it was released before, and then slowly absorbing the essence around it at a rate that would be considered a turtle's pace.

Similar to Fate Lines, he was stopped from rapidly shooting through the ranks of the Law of Fire, his thoughts now focusing on to what extent the effect of this new restriction was, and whether his thoughts of these restrictions being lesser than the supreme Law of Fate would be confirmed.

Noah sighed with a light smile as he finally hit the wall he was testing for, shaking his head as he observed the changes to his body. He felt a fiery and explosive strength in every single part of him, knowing that if he went hunting for Ice Behemoths in the future, he had the perfect skills and body to take them down with a much easier time than other behemoths.

When he thought about the skills that came with the inheritance, his gaze landed on the shining absolute skill called <<Herald of Flames>>, reading its descriptions as he tried to understand exactly what abilities it held.

<<Herald of Flames>> A technique coming from the inheritance of the Disciple of Fire that strives for the aspect of extreme in the Law of Fire. Abilities include Incarnation of Fire, Rejuvenating Flames, Elemental Soul Reinforcement, and Armageddon

[Incarnation of Fire] :: You continuously release flames from your body, dealing Fire Damage to all enemies in the proximity as any Fire Element skills are enhanced. The released flames can be manipulated to form varying shapes depending on the comprehension of the user. The Stage of the Fire Origin Core will determine the enhanced damage. Current Enhancement- +200%

[Rejuvenating Flames] :: Flames of rebirth and healing wrap around your body, granting you increased health and mana regeneration. The Stage of the Fire Origin Core will determine the enhanced regeneration. Current Regeneration- +200%

[Elemental Soul Reinforcement] :: A unique shield of flames rich in the elemental law of fire wraps around the soul of the user, granting increased protection from any sources of Soul Damage. The Stage of the Fire Origin Core will determine the enhanced reinforcement. Current Reinforcement- +200%

[Armageddon] :: The area within five miles of the user becomes a Consecrated Flame Ground that calls forth meteors from the skies, destroying all enemies standing on this Consecrated Flame Ground. The Stage of the Fire Origin Core will determine the damage. Current Damage- +200%

A beautiful set of words appeared in front of eyes, the descriptions of multiple new abilities that fell under a different system than the ones he usually came across opening itself up in front of him. Most terrifying of all was the name of the last ability that fell under <<Herald of Flames>>, and that was the ability coining the name [Armageddon]!

Chapter 393 - Mysteries and Questions

Noah continued to read through the percentages granted to the <<Herald of Flames>> absolute abilities as he realized that it was all affected by the Stage of the Fire Origin Core, watching as this shimmering red core slowly rotated at his very center while his body continued to pulse with power.

He thought back to all the recent events as he breathed out, choosing to continue moving forward as he got used to these new skills while also tending to the bountiful treasures he just received.

This brought into focus the Inheritance of the Disciple of Fire that he could share with his people, the treasure being an inheritance that had a unique skill which allowed one to condense a Fire Origin Core, and an absolute skill that had crazy abilities contained within.

He smiled at the possibilities of the future as he used [Unique Origin] to conceal the strong hint of the Law of Fire on his body while the clone in the underground cavern of the volcanic mountain stretched its body that was now filled with abundant fiery essence and looked over at the ancient pedestal which held the huge Inheritance Crystal that could not be moved.

The Ancient Blood Clone reclaimed the Spiritual Land from the faraway location and brought it close to the blazing ground that had molten magma not too far away from it, the unique floating landmass standing stable against the extreme heat as he sent a few telepathic messages to his people.

Barbatos, Kazuhiko, and a few others chose to train their skill trees in the Time Space of the Spiritual Land, their hearts set on seeing if this cheat area where time was much faster than the outside world would allow them to catch up to a single person.

Many of the ranks of the Harbingers now neared the Void or were stably on it as Noah was coming across Cores very easily, their ranks almost reaching his as he had yet to choose to break through into the Soul Rank yet.

His considerations for this were currently because of the restrictions of the Infernal Realm of the First Hell, which only allowed the origins of beings up to the Void Rank to remain in it. Those who were not of the Void Realm were pushed out of the First Realm of Hell, and in the case of Infernals, they were transferred into the Second Realm of Hell that was much wider and grander, the location where some genuine Infernal Lords made their home!

Many thoughts crossed Noah's mind as he wondered whether they would be a change on the restrictions of the First Hell because of the Infernal Lord title that he held, many of the thoughts leaning towards this possibility as his cast ability that he pushed into the Soul Rank, [Arch Lich Ra'Zan], could be cast in the First Realm of Hell and actually remain there.

To him, this could simply mean because it was a skill cast by a being at the Void Rank, it did not violate the laws of the First Realm of Hell even though its power reached the Soul Rank. This was similar to the strength that Athena showed which made it possible for her to take down an Infernal Aberration that had its power touching the next rank and was about to ascend to the Second Realm of Hell.

Many of these possibilities continued to flow in Noah's mind as he chose to wait before rushing into the Soul Rank for now, the only thing he would be getting being his other attributes hitting that milestone, which was not that big of a deal for him who was now beginning to enjoy the boosts of Universal Laws.

What he wanted to do now was explore the Celestial Realm even more as he used the memories of the new regions that the Draconic Fire Behemoth had explored in his lifetime when he chose to reluctantly leave the volcanic mountain that had the Inheritance of the Disciple of Fire, as well as observe the other regions that held numerous different Behemoths!

There were Ice and Water Behemoths he had yet to come across, Earth Behemoths he had only heard about from the Celestials, and even the powerful Fate Behemoths that were nearly impossible to kill, these Behemoths also being the ones that were disrupting the advancement of Celestials the most.

To combat these Elite Behemoths that were proficient in the Law of Fate, Noah's mind was already on the Behemoths that stood opposite them with the Law of Chaos as his mind continued expanding to multiple places.

The biggest question on his mind was similar Inheritances like the Disciple of Fire and Fate's Disciple that he now had his hands on. If he went into the regions of other elements, would he be able to get his hands on other Inheritances of those elements? Would they be similar to the Origin Core given by the Inheritance of the Disciple of Fire or similar to the Fate Lines made available by Fate's Disciple?

There were so many questions that made his curious heart tremble in anticipation as he wanted to quickly get the answers to all of them!

Among these many questions, the biggest one that still remained unanswered was about the Celestial Realm itself.

What exactly was this esoteric realm that had Inheritances like Disciple of Fire and Fate's Disciple? What was the true identity of this realm that was filled with enormous beings that were extremely intuned to the Universal Laws?

This was the biggest mystery on Noah's mind, and the one he was not even close to answering as he continued to move forward with his own aims!

The Ancient Blood Clone took out the [Origin Core- Behemoth Zygote] from the Expansive Space as he chose to begin with this first, waiting while his people gathered themselves after he sent the telepathic messages pertaining to them partaking in the recent treasure he had found. A curious smile spread out from him as he looked at the shimmering egg in front of him, wondering of the being that would come out of this!

Chapter 394 - A Land of Fire

The [Origin Core- Behemoth Zygote] stated that its incubation period would be affected by the region it was in, Noah looked at the bubbling lava around him as this region was extremely suitable for this purpose, but there was another possibility he could think of that was even more perfect!

He teleported into the miniaturized Spiritual Land as he appeared atop a snowy region in the north of the expansive landmass. He gazed at the beautifully falling snow as he glanced at the description of a particular feature of the Spiritual Land.

[Law Space] :: Fields containing a higher concentration of particular laws can be created, granting increased comprehension speed to all that cultivate within. Currently unlocked spaces: Water, Fire, Earth, Air. Locked spaces: Time, Space, Light, Dark, Fate, Chaos...

Yes, the place he thought would be the most perfect for the incubation of this spectacular egg was something that he could make in his Spiritual Land, and that was the Law Space!

The clone smoothly landed on the snowy field as he breathed out, using Spiritual Land Management to initiate the feature of Law Space. His thoughts went forward as he selected the element of fire, a holographic square image of where he wanted this space to be appearing in his eyes as he tweaked with it.

He found that he could increase its size and also decrease it, expanding the holographic field as he made it a few tens of miles before he used his mind to overlay it to the vibrant snowy field in front of his eyes.

RUMBLE!

The moment he affirmed with Spiritual Land Management and the blue holographic layout was selected, a tremor passed through the entire Spiritual Land as its abundant essence began to congregate towards this selected region!

The bountiful snow that was spread throughout the nearby fields melted rapidly as the clear earth below it was revealed, a shade of red beginning to spread out from all directions as the calm earth of the surrounding area began to crack and fissure.

Some areas were elevated as others were brought down, the phenomenal creation of the Law Space filled with the Law of Fire occurring in front of Noah's eyes in real time.

The environment of the Frozen Plateau Spiritual Land that was always cold and frigid began to change in this particular region as heat spread from all around, the formation of small blazing mountains appearing as the area quickly changed from an austere white and into a blazing red atmosphere with palpating heat.

RUMBLE!

Just as it had begun, the process continued to finish rapidly as the changed geography stopped shaking, the concentration of fire elements in the region now beginning to rise as even Noah felt it becoming increasingly hotter. This was the field being created by a feature of the Spiritual Land, this was the Law Space where there was a higher concentration of the Law of Fire!

WAA!

Waves of heat released outwards continuously as the process finished, the surrounding region that was not even designated as the Law Space also seeing its frigid air melting as the effect spread out for quite a distance. The melting of the snow continued until an area of spectacular balance was reached, Noah observing as a region of flames and fire came to an intersection point as neither of the two invaded the other. Calmness returned to the surroundings as his attention locked in on the newly built Law Space.

To put it simply, it was a shimmering Land of Fire that actually had wisps of flames dancing in its atmosphere, the very earth itself blazing hot as spurts of lava could be seen coming from the ground.

The Ancient Blood Clone entered this spectacular region as he felt the Fire Origin Core attached to his main body tremble in joy as he came in contact with the unique fire elemental energy in this space, its slow spinning in his main body becoming slightly faster as it moved with even more vigor.

The clone walked through the Space filled with the Law of Fire, whipping out the [Origin Core- Behemoth Zygote] as the moment it was released into the hot atmosphere, it shone a red l.u.s.ter as the excited fire elements in the surroundings began to be absorbed into this crimson egg.

Noah carried this large egg the same size as him further into the Fire Space as he neared the center where bubbling lava could be seen, laying this egg down at the location he felt the most congregation of the Law of Fire as half of the [Origin Core- Behemoth Zygote] sank into the rapidly changing earth.

OOONG!

The speed of fire elements converging into the egg only increased with this action, the egg actually rising slightly in the air by itself as smoldering flames and lava began to swirl around it, the intensity of fire elements only increasing in this region as the clone pulled back and watched this process occur.

He watched for a few minutes as this process continued without a change, affirming in his mind that he expected the possible awakening of the creature inside this egg to happen in a matter of hours as he left it alone to float in the sea of flames and lava, his body disappearing to the underground layer of the Spiritual Land where multiple portals stably stood.

He would give the enormous egg the time it needed as he moved on to another task he had to take care of, this one involving the Inheritance of the Disciple of Fire!

Of the portals present in the underground layer of the Spiritual Land, one shone with a red l.u.s.ter, another was tinged with white, one was swirling in darkness, another was verdant green, and the last one was a beautiful blue.

This particular blue portal was connected to his home world, where he had laid down numerous portals in this world and the others that he was connected to, forming something close to what he observed in the World of Cultivation below where a circle of portals that led to different worlds stood.

From the portal that led to the Demon World, the Tactician Agares who was overseeing this world was the first to arrive as he sunk to his knees while bowing his head down towards Noah.

"Master."

From the Beast World, those in the upper echelons from the remaining three Mythical Beast Kingdoms and the Frozen Kingdom also began to appear from their portal as they all did similar bows of respect towards Noah, Queen Adelaide coming to Noah's side with a shy smile.

Steel Mikhail soon came from the portal leading to his home world as he nodded towards Noah with his same strict face, the bulky protector's body gleaming with power as his eyes shone for whatever opportunity laid in store for them today.

From the Ancient Blood World, the exploring Vampyres also appeared from the red portal as the Frost Race of the Icebound World also made their entrance, the underground layer of the Spiritual Land becoming livelier as many beings were granted permission to enter into the Spiritual Land for an opportunity they did not yet fully know of.

Barbatos and Kazuhiko's auras could also be felt as they came out of the Time Space and joined them, a unique event about to take place as Noah was about to share a spectacular Inheritance that could only be found in the Celestial Realm!

An Inheritance that granted one a unique cultivation ability and an Absolute Skill was about to be freely shared to multiple beings as the erection of Noah's own powerful force continued, this time their power being boosted at an unimaginable level as they got their hands on something that nobody else could even find!

Chapter 395 - A Scholar, Chaos and Fate

In the region immediately south of the Sanctum, frigid winds ravaged the snowy environment as a large Ice Behemoth was rolling in the snow peacefully.

Not too far from this Ice Behemoth, a hidden figure covered head to toe with a dark robe was crouching beneath the sparkling snowy vegetation as he wrote a few lines in his note book.

'Both the Northern and Southern regions have a similar level of elemental particles in the atmosphere, but their levels are still much higher than any other realms.'

The being was carefully documenting his findings of the Celestial Realm as his vibrant power at the peak of Soul Realm hid its aura from the nearby Behemoth.

This was someone that had managed to enter the Celestial Realm with the aid of the Pureblood Vampyres from the Underworld, a powerful covert operative from the Scholar's Guild that boasted great power in the Dark Expanse!

'The supposed Celestial Beasts are even more unique, their bodies holding an abnormal amount of universal laws.'

The being continued placing more findings, pushing up his glasses as his eyes remained on the Ice Behemoth rolling in the snow with its enormous body.

'The structures of the Behemoths I have managed to get my hands on shows that their physiology is similar to their species counterparts in other worlds and realms, but their Origins seems to have been influenced greatly by the force behind this Celestial Realm'

Numerous possibilities passed through the mind of the Scholar, comparing his abundant experience and knowledge with the new land that the Celestials had managed to explore for the past thousands of years. With his tenure in the Scholar's Guild that only the most genius Wizards and Magicians had a chance to take positions in, his experience was wide and vast!

'The biggest possibilities so far is that this Celestial Realm is one of the highest tiered realms to be found in our Novus Galaxy, or the even more unbelievable possibility is that this Realm could be what we have all been searching for...the place where universal laws are abundant and the atmospheric essence is immense, this could just be the C-'

ROAR!

The man from the Scholar's Guild stopped taking his notes as his gaze went towards the mountainous Ice Behemoth, seeing an Exploration Team from a Prime World nearing the beast and beginning a hunt as the Scholar used his power to veil his body even more, sinking into the earth as he continued observing. What was on his mind was the same thing that many beings were recently trying to figure out, and it was the question of what exactly was this mystical realm that the Celestials had been enjoying for so long?!

Near the center of the Sanctum itself, Athena and Noah were meeting with a serious Grandmaster Vredral as they discussed their recent ventures, the Grandmaster approving of their fast progress as he adopted a careful expression and spoke.

"You've gotten used to the pace of Normal Behemoths and learned how to best take them down, and we can move on to the next stage of your training as you tackle even more fierce Behemoths, and these ones will actually be of great aid for you to increase the speed at which you obtain Fate Lines!"

Grandmaster Vredral spoke with a powerful Voice as Noah and Athena looked forward respectfully, many thoughts passing through Noah's mind as he looked forward to anything that could enhance the speed he could raise the Supreme Law of Fate.

"Past the Fire Behemoths in the Northern region, the danger increases as you start getting into the dangerous regions where mainly those at the Soul Forging Realm explore, with the highest tiered teams like the Righteous Fire Exploration Team and Elite Teams coming into play as the enemies you might come across...are those proficient in Supreme Laws!"

A powerful light shot through the eyes of the Grandmaster as he said this, using his power as he waved his hands and created the illusory image of a dark Behemoth in front of their eyes.

"The ones that are the most dangerous to us as well as the most profitable...are the terrible Chaos Behemoths that are proficient in the opposing element that we cultivate. This means that our attacks backed with the law of fate are especially harmful to them, but it also means that their attacks filled with the Law of Chaos are especially dangerous to us as well!"

"But with danger comes opportunity, where the hunting of Chaos Behemoths has shown to rapidly cause an increase in the number of Fate Lines one can condense, rapidly gaining strength through this dangerous path."

The Grandmaster finished his words as the two disciples in front of him had shining eyes, Athena being the first one to speak as her body pulsed with a gold light, her expression that of excitement.

"We are willing to brave the dangers, Master!"

Noah's eyes also showed an enthusiastic expression as he nodded towards the Grandmaster, their next steps to increase their already rapid rise in power being set in stone as they prepare to delve further into the mysterious Celestial Realm, and this time it was to search for Elite Behemoths that were proficient in a Supreme Law!

Preparations went underway as the leader of the Righteous Fire Exploration Team became excited at the news that their team was granted clearance to delve past the Fire Behemoths and into the more dangerous regions further away from the Sanctum, the boisterous Boru bringing Noah and Athena to celebrate the entire night as a feast was carried out.

To them, another milestone was coming up as they would get the chance to brave dangers and increase their strength, but Noah's mind was filled with other possibilities as he had entirely different thoughts when he thought about the Chaos Behemoths and their proficiency in the Law of Chaos.

His mind continued to wonder what Items and materials would come out of them, what treasures or Inheritances he could find if he delved into this region, and exactly where his power would be as he amassed more Fate Lines while increasing the Stage of the Fire Origin Core slowly growing inside him!

As others looked at one or two possibilities in front of their eyes, Noah was seeing a bright future filled with endless opportunities that were all just waiting for him!

Chapter 396 - Schemes, Sharing Treasures

In specific locations around the Sanctum that were now designated as marketplaces, a bustling atmosphere spread out as shouts could be heard from all around.

"Claw of an Earth Behemoth for sale, will only trade for Soul Cores or materials from a Fire Behemoth!"

"An Aurora Fruit for sale! The one and only Aurora Fruit!"

"The map layout of the nearby eastern region is available, looking for Ice Behemoth materials to trade!"

Powerful voices spread out as beings from all over congregated and looked for things they could buy if they did not want to risk their lives fighting terrifying Behemoths, many of the materials being on sale currently only being half of the ones that the sellers brought back from their adventures, with half of it already being pocketed by the Celestials.

In the past few days, the Celestials had begun seeing the effect of their decision as they collected materials at a pace multiple times greater than before, these materials coming from every single being moving in the Celestial Realm only acting as another source of rapidly increasing the strength of their disciples as many Prime Warsh.i.p.s were moving from the Celestial Realm and heading towards the Celestial Stars to distribute these wondrous materials to these planets.

They were achieving their purpose of continuing to influence the lives of many of the powerful figures in the Light Expanse, as well as enjoy the benefits of the Celestial Realm at an even faster rate than before.

But as always, decisions had their own positives and negatives!

Among the many beings entering the Celestial Realm, many of those with expert hiding skills from the Dark Expanse also made their way in! Whether in the initial party of Pureblood Vampyres that came in with Elena, or the arrival of later parties as they began to explore and map out the Celestial Realm as well.

Among these beings, there were those who had skills similar to a certain imposter that allowed them to teleport across realms and planets, their only limitation being the distance they could jump across. More mana was required the longer the distance was, which presented an arduous challenge for those in the Dark Expanse as the location of the Celestial Realm was surrounded in all directions by the eyes of the Celestials, any nearby planets being kept under close watch as they took into account the unique spatial abilities that some beings held!

On this day though, another unique being from the Scholar's Guild of the Dark Expanse had managed to pass through the eyes of the Celestials and smoothly enter into the Sanctum, sending a telepathic message to another member of the Scholar's guild that was observing Ice Behemoths in the southern region.

"Argus, I have arrived. We can now begin!"

The contents of the message could only be well understood by the one that heard it, a telepathic message being sent back right away.

"You finally arrive, Malthus. We have much to do. This realm..."

Numerous messages began to be sent back and forth on this day as two well known beings in the Scholar's Guild of the Dark Expanse actively began their plans in the Celestial Realm.

One was known as Argus, the Walking Library who was proficient in covert skills and held a large amount of information on many things!

The other was Malthus, the Spatial Magician that excelled in the Law of Space, holding abilities that many beings envied!

"Yes yes slow down Argus, you've been keeping in contact with Elena? I am ready to establish the spatial connection that will allow us to transfer the boons of this realm with ease in the coming future. Which locations have you scouted?"

"...start heading South, I'll send you my location."

One expert talked to another in the field of powerful beings moving around the wide Sanctum established by Celestials, moving directly under their nose as the initial stages of the plans of the beings from the Dark Expanse went underway. They knew the strength of their enemies stemmed from this realm, and these same enemies were bold enough to open this realm to others as the conflicts heated up and the way neared!

Before all hell broke loose, they would harvest the boons of this realm themselves as they strove for one goal- finding treasures at the same level as the Celestials that have allowed them to move with extreme strength these past thousands of years!

As many beings continued to move across the vast Celestial Realm, a few lucky ones were getting their hands on a powerful Inheritance beneath a volcanic mountain. The forces of numerous worlds connected to Noah were freely getting their hands on a powerful set of techniques that would give them a huge edge over cultivating a universal law, something that many of them had not even done before and would be the first time for them to try!

But they had no need to ponder or try to comprehend the law in an abstruse manner, all they needed was to have enough energy to use {Disciple of Fire} and create the Fire Origin Core, continuing to build up this new origin as they also became able to use the Absolute Skill that came with the inheritance.

The Spiritual Land was stationed very close to the ancient pedestal that held the Inheritance Crystal that could not be moved, Noah guiding those that were too weak with a protective barrier, and those who could handle the baleful lava floating in their surroundings simply went out themselves to accept the Inheritance.

But when this initial process was complete, the many individuals found themselves directed towards a certain location in the Frozen Plateau Spiritual Land that went against the original nature they knew of, observing a wide area that was filled with extreme heat that only got more intense as one went further in!

Those that were more powerful followed Noah's directions as they went further into the field concentrated with the Law of Fire, being told to initiate {Disciple of Fire} for the first time in this mystical area.

RUMBLE!

The power leveling of numerous beings was underway as at the center of this Law Space, a huge egg was resting rapidly while absorbing the abundant elemental particles of the Law of Fire in the surroundings, immense heat being given off of it as it looked ready to pop at any moment!

Chapter 397 - A Pet Behemoth!

Some of the Harbingers of Sin were the first few to enjoy the Inheritance of the Disciple of Fire, their bodies already producing a seedling that they needed to nourish before it could become a Fire Origin Core.

Unlike Noah, they did not have unlimited reserves of mana to play with, so they actually had an arduous task just to accumulate enough mana to establish the Fire Origin Core in the first place!

Noah expected them to take a few days before becoming successful even in this beautiful region that was now filled with the dense elemental particles of the fire element.

His gaze transferred towards the pulsating [Origin Core- Behemoth Zygote] that was showing an even more vibrant reaction after a few hours, his clone teleporting near the very center of the Fire Law Space as he observed the changes with anticipation!

His main body was communicating with Elena as she faithfully released the details of the movements of the Dark Expanse and their covert operations in the Celestial Realm, Noah keeping himself up to date on the occurrences that moved the future forward as he noted the arrival of two powerful unique combatants from the Dark Expanse in the Celestial Realm.

"My Progenitor, could I be so bold as to request for you to create items for us using the materials of the Behemoths we take down?"

A smile came on Noah's mind as he heard this telepathic message from Elena, sending a reply right after.

"That is something I already planned to do. Also, I'll need you guys to find a chance to come into the Northern region of the Celestial Realm to personally accept a unique Inheritance I've gotten my hands on..."

His main body continued communicating with his people who did not get the chance to partake in the Inheritance of the Disciple of Fire yet, as well as begin the process of preparing to move out with the Righteous Fire Exploration Team as they went against Chaos Behemoths!

His clone remained in the fiery Law Space as he observed the [Origin Core- Behemoth Zygote] to be pulsating, its size having already grown double to his own as it began releasing wondrous waves of scalding fire elements as cracks began to spread all around it, a red light beginning to shine out.

RUMBLE!

A unique regal essence began to permeate outwards as the cracks audibly spread across the egg, this regal essence stating the arrival of a powerful being as the fire elements in the surroundings danced wildly!

ROAR!

The clear and crisp roar of a young dragon rang out as magnificently, an eruption of red light blew apart the cage it was held in as the widespread wings of a small Draconic Fire Behemoth became apparent when the light began dying down.

The highly abundant fire elements rushed towards this Dragon speedily as Noah observed with wonder as the size of this beast expanded until it reached 10 meters, its widespread wings shining brilliantly as its young draconic features came to observe the only being near it.

The moment the gaze of the young dragon landed on Noah, its eyes shone with a subservient light as an extremely defined runic circle erupted from it and bound itself to Noah, traveling through the Ancient Blood Clone and his Origin feeling a small connection that was considered the attachment of a pet as this Dragon formed a bond with him successfully with the aid of the unique means of the Planetary System!

The eyes of the young dragon remained on Noah as it looked at him with a mixture of care and confusion, its innate mental strength and power soon coming to play as numerous bursts of information were released from the connection it felt with this being in front of it, the young dragon coming to an understanding as it moved across the blazing atmosphere filled with fire elements and neared Noah.

Its size now towered at 10 meters, being less than one fifth the size of a normal Behemoth right after its birth.

The young Draconic Fire Behemoth brought its regal head near Noah's clone as it cutely nudged and rubbed its head towards him, the clone having a wide smile spread across his face as he patted the subservient dragon in front of him!

"Master."

The voice of a young dragon rang out in Noah's mind as he nodded, looking over the body of this 10 meter beast right after its birth as he calculated its strength.

Currently, it actually held vibrant strength at the Phantasmal Rank, its strength right after being born depicting the regal rank of this being and the huge possibilities it would have for the future.

The thought of the uniqueness of this Draconic Fire Behemoth that he just got his hands on did not pass by Noah, and he perfectly understood that he was most likely the first one to ever hold a Behemoth from this Celestial Realm as a pet!

This was made possible with his Planetary System that took the Origin of the monstrous Fire Behemoth that was half a step into the Domain Expansion Realm and fused it together with the shattered soul, making way for the possibility of this spectacular young dragon in front of his eyes.

In the brief period of time that his clone had entered into the Celestial Realm and began moving by himself, he had managed to find an Inheritance, defeat a Draconic Fire Behemoth that was already half a step into the Domain Expansion Realm, and get his hands on a pet of an unknown caliber as a powerful dragon subserviently nudged his body!

His expectations for the future were bright as he looked towards the Dragon and called out.

"Come!"

There was much to do as he took the time to absorb the boons of the recent venture and continue strengthening the people around him, his thoughts especially focusing on the Behemoth he had gotten his hands on as he prepared to raise a terrifying beast for his own uses. Just the thought of this now 10 meter tall Dragon that could someday grow to become the mountainous Draconic Behemoth that he just battled made him look excitedly into the future!

Chapter 398 - Time is of the Essence!

Noah's Ancient Blood Clone temporarily returned to the First Realm of Hell, his figure teleporting to the blazing skies as he stood on top of a curious young Draconic Behemoth.

His gaze stretched across the area around him as it had already filled with droves of Infernals. The essence within his body thrummed as he adorned the Incandescent Flameborn Set with its ridiculous set boosts, getting ready to carry out high speed farming of the Infernals as he set the goal of fully obtaining the title of Infernal Lord soon!

He had only been leaving the Arch Lich Ra'Zan behind to farm the Infernals and increase the Skill Points along with the progression of the percentage on the title of Infernal Lord, but he planned to move personally and claim this title even faster as he wanted to enter the Soul Forging Realm soon.

He wasn't confident of breaking the laws of the Infernal Realm if he reached the rank that was always pushed out of the First Realm of Hell, so this was his next best choice as his main body began moving with the Righteous Fire Exploration Team to delve deeper into the Celestial Realm looking for Chaos Behemoths.

"Let's go!"

He sent a command to the young Dragon that was ever so slowly growing larger by the minute, the clone providing abundant cores to bring the rank of this Behemoth up as he expected it to reach the Void Realm in no time!

He had with him numerous Saint and Void Rank Cores, with a decent amount of Soul Rank cores put aside to propel his own level forward when the time was right.

As the dragon reveled in another fiery environment that was the Infernal Realm, Noah's clone began casting numerous skills as the Arch Lich Ra'Zan appeared once more in the First Realm of Hell, its qualification as a skill cast by a being at the Void Realm allowing it to bypass the restrictions of this Infernal Realm as it began summoning a large amount of Undead, the huge runic circles that brought forth Abyssal Undead also appearing in the skies!

RUMBLE!

The mystical Ancients were brought to life once more from the use of the ability in the [Kin of the Ancients] skill tree, the dark winged humanoid creatures grandly appearing in the Infernal Realm as they glanced towards the clone.

Noah's thoughts seemed to have gone through to them as their gazes turned towards the maddened Infernals below them, seeing how weak these beings they were summoned to kill were as they turned their heads to the side and glanced at Noah again, seemingly posing a bewildering question that was asking- 'Really? Summoning us for such weak creatures?'

Yes! Compared to the power that Noah and his summoned beings held, this campaign that he was about to carry out against these Infernals whos strongest powerhouses were at the Void Realm was going to be really one sided!

It was similar to a high level veteran coming back to a low level area filled with mobs that dropped loot which still had great uses for them!

If just the Arch Lich moving alone with droves of undead over the past month brought the percentage of the Infernal Lord title over 30%, with how he planned to move personally while using his overpowered abilities in this realm, the only question that remained was how many days it would take him to bring the percentage of the title to 100%.

[Arch Demon Lord Transformation]. [Lesser Cthulhu]. [Dawn of the Blood Lord]. [Incarnation of Fire]...

The repetitive casting of numerous skills and stacked transformation and buffing skills were being cast as a terrifying aura bent on hunting down Infernals with extreme efficiency appeared in the First Realm of Hell!

OONG!

The shining Trident of the Sea appeared in Noah's enlarging hands as he adopted the terrible combination of the transformations of the Lesser Cthulhu and Arch Demon Lord, his other hand carrying the Glaive of Simmering Ember from the Incandescent Flameborn Set as the gorgeous casting of skills erupted from him again, the targeted infernals almost pissing their pants as they felt an aura that was in no way at the acceptable level of this realm come for their lives!

Noah's main body was standing next to a boisterous Boru who was talking about the fearsome power of the Chaos Behemoths they would soon be facing as they waited for the rest of the team members to join them.

"I was able to battle a single one while following an Elite Exploration Team of Grandmasters. I can tell you now that these beasts will make the superiority you feel while aided by the Law of Fate disappear! They will truly show you what beings proficient in Supreme Laws are like!"

The power of the Chaos Behemoths continued to be hyped up as Boru continued.

"The only reason I am confident of our chances this time is because Grandmaster Vredral favors his two disciples that have Noble Fates and will be coming along, haha!"

Noah smiled at this comment as he knew for this upcoming trip, they would be accompanied by the powerful Domain Expansion Realm Grandmaster as they withstood against the unique strength of Chaos Behemoths. The Grandmaster favored their lives too much to let them explore such a dangerous location where these beings resided with just the Righteous Fire Exploration Team, so he would be acting as the leading figure in this upcoming hunt as Noah got a glimpse of the power of this Grandmaster that had a relatively high position on the 7th Celestial Star.

Noah and Boru didn't wait too long before the rest of the team began to gather, Athena appearing last with the Grandmaster as eyebrows were raised at her entrance. A proud smile was apparent on Grandmaster Vredral's face as Athena walked in with an aura that had just broken through from the Void Realm and into the Soul Forging Realm, the strength of the War Princess pulling ahead as her body seemed to be bubbling with power!

Chapter 399 - Venturing Further North

"Congratulations, Senior Sister."

Noah replied with a light smile as he looked towards the shocking strength being released in the small body of the girl in front of him. She had already been at the Void Rank when he first met her months ago, her power slowly continuing to build up as she finally exploded upwards and entered the Soul Forging Realm today!

"Thank you, Junior Brother Crixus. You must not tarry behind."

Her eyes were languid and filled with longing for battle as she joined the team, all the other members sending her their congratulatory words as Noah was instead wondering where the power of this War Princess was actually at now.

As he spent more time amassing fate lines, he was growing more and more capable of discerning just how many lines of fate a Celestial held, and his intuition told him that Athena was actually nearing on the magical number of 100,000!

This was a number that made one qualified to be a Celestial Grandmaster, something that very few joined the honor of achieving in their lifetimes. The power of this War Princess when she was at the Void Rank was terrifying, where she was capable of standing against a Soul Forging Realm Devouring Black Serpent in the Magus World and battle against Soul Rank Behemoths in the Celestial Realm. A smile spread across Noah's lips as he wondered the power this woman could now wield as she entered the Soul Forging Realm herself!

"Hmm, let's go!"

Grandmaster Vredral spoke out jovially as they went towards a particular area where numerous Primal Warsh.i.p.s were located, an expansive space that only Celestials were permitted into as for this exploration trip, they would be using a Prime Warship to traverse the vast distances of the Celestial Realm and into the region where Chaos Behemoths could be found.

From the Sanctum that could be considered an enormous metropolis filled with an ever expanding population of new beings, a particular group of Celestials entered a grand Prime Warship as the energy of a Domain Realm expert wrapped around it and lifted it to the skies.

The nearby forces of numerous Prime World now populating the Sanctum glanced towards the location where this Vessel lifted smoothly and began shooting off to the Northern Region, this not being the first time they've observed something like this happening as they looked enviously at the means of the Celestials.

A particular party that was returning from their hunt, the newly formed Order of Blood, stared at this particular ship as a few of them felt a familiar aura from it!

The Emperor Penguin was walking through the mystical streets of the Sanctum valiantly as it raised its beak towards the skies, a sharp light passing through its beady eyes as the Royal Vampyre Elena had an even more fervent look in her gaze while she stared at the direction that Noah had gone to.

"Onward!"

She decisively sent a message to her people as she communicated with the forces of the Dark Expanse beginning their own plans in the Celestial Realm, the current goal of the Order of Blood being heading towards the same direction where numerous Fire Behemoths could be found, using this as a source of training as they made their way towards a certain Inheritance beneath a volcanic mountain!

The many pieces on the board continued to move as Noah comfortably stood in the advancing Prime Warship and looked out to the expansive landscape of the Celestial Realm below him.

The enormous shimmering trees and the fantasy-like atmosphere always took his breath away, linking this feeling to a similar one he felt when he observed his Spiritual Land but on a much larger scale. He found his thoughts actually wondering as he arrived at this comparison. Would the Spiritual Land ever be able to reach something as remotely as amazing as this? He shook himself out of his fantasies with this thought as he serenely watched the passing surroundings, not trying to daydream about impossible things at such a time.

They came across quite a few Fire Behemoths that were moving below, their gazes turning up towards them with a sharp light as they only observed the powerful vessel shoot past them.

A few times he observed attacks being thrown their way, the vessel either completely evading them, or a thin barrier of light appearing around the Prime Warship that stopped the incoming attacks.

So far, they had not come across any flying Behemoths that would have caused them trouble, beings like the Draconic Fire Behemoth being unique and rare.

Like this, a few hours passed in the Prime Warship as the Grandmaster steered it competently through the explored areas of the Celestial Realm, a contemplating Noah watching the passing scenery and committing it all to his memory as his clone was moving with vigor in the Infernal Realm.

He could observe the constant shooting up of the Infernal Skill Points at a speed multiple times what the stationed Lich was bringing in the past, with the percentage next to the title of Infernal Lord also continuing to rise every now and then!

After another few hours, the Prime Warship that they were on started to slow down and lower towards the tall ancient trees in the ground, Noah noticing that the atmospheric essence had been getting even thicker as he looked towards the location they were arriving at.

Not too far from them, the slowing vessel was landing next to a large tower like structure, this exquisite architecture being a place where powerful Celestials were stationed far into the Celestial Realm, the junction where one could draw a line from Normal Behemoths and Elite Behemoths based on which direction they took.

Noah had arrived at his first Celestial Watch Tower that was surrounded by numerous Prime Warsh.i.p.s, the auras of powerful Celestials even wilder than the ones he normally sensed in the Sanctum being present as he further pierced into the ranks of Celestials, this time following a team being led by a Grandmaster as they planned to hunt Chaos Behemoths!

Chapter 400 - Line Between the Weak and the Powerful

"This is a Watch Tower where some Elite Teams are stationed, monitoring the movements of those that are actually threats to our forces- Elite Behemoths."

The Grandmaster was explaining slowly as they got off the Prime Warship, their gazes only looking towards the Celestial Watch tower as they actually went past it to the region that its threats were abundant at!

The Watch Tower was built in an extremely unique manner, looking like a huge golden skyscraper that pierced through the skies as its size passed the huge ancient trees around it.

The area in its immediate surroundings looked more like a base as numerous Prime Warsh.i.p.s were stationed, a few Celestials being seen moving in and out carefully.

"Passing this Watch Tower means we directly put ourselves at risk of coming in contact with an Elite Behemoth, and any Tower that you pass will be considered a line that distinguishes the truly powerful and leaves the weak behind!"

The expansive Prime Warship they traversed the long distances in would normally be stationed at these Towers, the Celestials moving to explore and hunt Behemoths themselves as the powerful vessels weren't built for battling Behemoths. One would only achieve watching a Prime Warship get destroyed if they tried to pilot one to match an Elite Celestial Beast.

"Stay close to me and pay close attention, I'll walk you through your first hunt and show you exactly what to keep in mind when facing Behemoths that are proficient in Supreme Laws."

The members of the Righteous Fire Exploration Team nodded as even the boisterous Boru filled along with a serious expression, their hearts looking forward to seeing the strength of this wizened Grandmaster as he clashed with an Elite Behemoth!

Noah's senses expanded around his surroundings as they passed through the guarded area of the Watch Tower, venturing further into the mystical forest of the Celestial Realm that seemed to have a foreboding silence!

One would normally hear the sounds of animals moving around, a cacophony of sounds surrounding them as they walked through such a large forest. But all that met them was silence as even the small critters knew not to make noises in this region where powerful beings roamed.

Noah thought about the words of the Grandmaster, thinking of the invisible line that they were now passing which would put them into the field of truly powerful creatures of the Celestial Realm as he prepared himself!

As Noah's main body moved across the deeper regions in the Celestial Realm, his clone continued to carry out a destructive campaign in the First Realm of Hell that was reducing the numbers of Infernals at a rapid pace.

His strength that was able to stand against beings half a step into the Domain Expansion Realm was now bullying the poor droves of Infernals that were defeated as if they were bugs! This was especially so because of the armor he adorned, which had a spectacular ability that he enjoyed watching unfold as he moved rapidly across the First Realm of Hell.

The ridiculously powerful passive ability given by the complete Incandescent Flameborn Set that released a wide ring of flames around him every second acted like an attack that simply swept across an entire area that he appeared in within seconds!

It made for a ridiculous sight where he teleported amidst hundreds of Infernals, a terrifying ring of flames rushed out from him that nearly incinerated half while all those remaining were placed under the Soul Immolation effect that made them take 1000% more damage from skills of the fire element. Those that survived would only remain that way for another second before they were wiped away completely, either by another ring of flames or the terrible abilities of the Lesser Cthulhu as Portals of Terror were cast freely.

The clone had so many means possible as he went all out, freely using the mana gifted to him as he worked efficiently to rack up skill points and increase the percentage of the Infernal Lord title.

Already, in the past day that he had been moving, the Infernal Lord Title had advanced over 50%!

This goal was getting close to being completed as he also went along to achieve smaller goals, the small body of the Draconic Fire Behemoth he was bringing with him as a pet continuing to be fed Cores as its Rank already reached Transcendent over this last day. It was undergoing power leveling at a rate that nobody around Noah had the chance to, its body continuing to grow larger and larger as it began adopting the fearsome expression of a powerful Behemoth Noah had fought before.

"Draco, let's go!"

His miniaturized form teleported to the back of the Dragon as he called it under the impromptu name he had given it in the past day, this fearsome Behemoth going on to be called Draco as it roared resonantly while Noah began to use a variety of skills above it!

From the series of abilities in <<Absolute Sin>> to the skill tree of the [Kin of the Ancients] and the abilities of the Vampyre Progenitor, he played around with as many skills as possible as colorful rays of destruction continued to rain down towards the Infernals in the First Realm of Hell.

While this was occurring in a similar Realm that held entirely different levels of Infernals, a being with horns that formed into the shape of a crown was floating with his back towards the blazing ground of another realm of Hell, his aura causing the numerous Void and Soul Forging Realm Infernals below him to quake in fear.

He was lazily floating in the burning skies of the Second Realm of Hell when another being just like him teleported to his side, her face that of cruel excitement as she spoke out.

"It seems like the upcoming little Lord is working even faster in the First Realm. It should not be long before he joins us. What do you think, Rykker?"

The newly arriving Infernal Lord asked the other Lord floating in the blazing skies, the being called Rykker that replied with a lazy smile without even turning to look towards her direction.

"Azula, you always were a tad bit too excited for these things. Let them take their time. You know that the moment they fully hold the title of the 9th Infernal Lord, it means our future is about to become that much busier."

The cruel expression on Azula's face gained an amorous expression as her hands eerily ran through her body, her head raised high with an expression of joy as she replied.

"Why yes, I wonder who the little baby Lord will be...Aah!"

The attention of numerous powerful Infernal Lords sensed a particular event nearing as they welcomed the future, the being in question not knowing about any of this as he enjoyed the feeling of power while coursing through the First Realm of Hell!