Chapter 541 - Her ability makes her fit!

Across the vastness of space, a few Golden Commanders, Celestials that had achieved the Star Forging Realm- were sitting with serious faces as a cold atmosphere over took the command room of the Realm Dreadnaught they were in.

This enormous Vessel that very few Star Forging Commanders got the chance to pilot was actually not alone, another Realm Dreadnought of exactly the same enormous size stationed not too far from it. The size of these vessels were nearing those of Continents, with them being packed by hundreds of thousands of Celestials with their exterior shimmering with deadly weapons that could easily decimate Prime Worlds.

Currently, this second Realm Dreadnaught was actually not occupied with any Commanders, only masses of Celestials moving within it as the Commanders that normally took its reigns were the two Star Forging Celestials that had been chosen to assassinate Noah!

Now with their death, a new Commander had to be chosen for this monstrous vessel of death, and it was why this meeting was taking place.

"I can take over to avenge our brothers. I will see to it that Verittas Fortress falls!"

A strong voice erupted from a Star Forger that had sharp green hair, his eyes wild with power as the elements of the Law of Earth and Fate shimmered around him.

The surrounding Star Forgers nodded at his words as they saw no issues, the green haired Star Forger looking at a single Celestial at the forefront of the command table they were situated around.

All the eyes of the room turned towards this being who was known as Golden Child, the Celestial that currently acted as the right hand man of Aldrich!

This being had eyes that seemed to constantly be shining with a golden light, his gaze calm as he voiced out.

"No."

Unexpected gazes locked onto the Golden Child as they wondered for the reason of the denial, silence overcoming the room as his face seemed to show a certain level of uncertainty before he spoke.

"The one to take control of the Realm Dreadnaught shall be the upcoming Commander Athena."

Shocked faces were the only thing that met him as the powerful Celestials looked around the room in confusion, the green haired Star Forger known as Commander Verdant speaking out carefully.

"The War Princess? But...that makes no sense. Not to even talk of her merits, but she has only just bega-

RUMBLE!

Waves of essence tumbled out at this as everyone shut up, any misunderstandings or grievances they had wiped away instantly as they nodded!

Even though they had many questions, even though many of them did not follow the train of thought of why an upcoming Commander who was still at the World Rank would be given command of one of the few powerful weapons of the Celestials- they still agreed because it was the words of the Founder!

"It is because of her unique ability that allows her to see the movements of the enemy even before they happen- {Precognition}."

"Our enemies are veiled in chaos where we cannot discern their future even with our techniques of Fate, which led to us losing two brothers today. This unique War Princess actually has an ability that will help counter that 9th Infernal Lord with all his surprises becoming things we can anticipate."

The Golden Child spoke of the ability of the War Princess as the listening Star Forgers adopted astonished expressions, their gazes agreeing as time passed while the Golden Child continued to speak.

"Brother Verdant and Lyle, you two will accompany Athena on the Blazing Realm Dreadnaught, along with the company of the other three geniuses that participated in the recent tournament. The Founder plans to create an enormous legion to specifically counter the forces stationed at the Verittas Fortress, and you will be at the forefront of it!"

RUMBLE!

A golden glow erupted from his eyes at these words as the surrounding Star Forgers nodded.

"For order!"

"For balance!"

Waves of change continued to spread out as the effects of the recent battle continuing, a being that should have taken months to show great battle merits actually being flung to the center stage in a short period of time!

Was this the meaning of one with a Noble Fate, or something else entirely? Nobody could say they knew as the preparations were made, the commands being related to Athena, Crixus, the Three-Eyed Fate Child, and Grandmaster Light.

It was at this time that Noah's main body received the telepathic commands, and he was actually performing a change at this time as his first clone that had been moving to acquire prime world cores all this time teleported into the expansive Prime Warship of the Celestials he was on, both these two bodies appearing at the same veiled location as Noah curiously stared at himself.

As this clone teleported into the Prime Warship, Noah teleported out as [Unique Origin] was initiated to make the first clone seamlessly adopt the identity of Crixus. This ability stemming from the Progenitor bloodline being something that even the eyes of the Founder had not bypassed!

His main body was switching positions with his clone as during the momentous event of upgrading his Spiritual World and his many connected worlds into a Realm, he wanted his main body that held the actual connections and his full Origin to be presiding over it.

He always veiled himself with a Blood World whenever he was making breakthroughs or making progress in the laws, and he did not know how wild the effects of this coming upgrade would be. Thus, his main body would now assume the identity of the 8th Infernal Lord while presiding over everything else, his figure teleporting is the quadrant where his home world and many of the connected worlds stood.

He absorbed the news of Him and Athena being thrust into the forefront of the coming battles as his eyes shone with many ideas, seeing another bright opportunity open up in front of him as he pushed aside these thoughts for now.

This was because he was ready to get started on the project to transform many worlds into a singular Realm!

Chapter 542 - Realizing the dreams of many!

In the past day, Noah's first clone had been moving diligently as the required Prime World Cores were obtained, a shocking phenomenon spreading out across the Light Expanse where four Prime World had suddenly faced destruction!

Cries of horror and the state of war fully entered into the minds of the inhabitants of the Light Expanse as they became aware of this event, those who were apprehensive for this Last War fully committing to fighting and siding with the Celestials as they saw the events of Prime Worlds disappearing and not four of them shattering being something that could happen to their homes as well.

Everything had a cause and effect- Noah knew this as he carried out his actions. Even while he did not take the lives of any of the beings on these stars that had faced destruction after their Cores were taken, this action would still be received and exploited in many different ways by those who wished. Even though he carried out mass teleportation for the billions of beings on these planets he took the cores of, others would not know that! But he had no fast alternative for now, so this was all he could do as he continued to increase his power until all of these beings that were put in a state of war...did not have to fight anymore!

For him to do this, his strength must continue to grow to insane levels until even monsters like Aldrich could be taken down.

He pushed the thoughts of his actions out of his mind as his main body began to actively move, this time teleporting to the many worlds he shared a connection with as he used the device that was the [World Engine] to move these worlds near the area of his homeworld where he anchored the Spiritual Realm.

The Beast World, the Demon World, the Ancient Blood World...any worlds he shared a connection with were shifted across space to surround his homeworld and his Spiritual World in a circular manner, a majestic sight of numerous stars of varying sizes appearing in the small quadrant in the Light Expanse.

Noah had no worries about doing his realm upgrade near his home, this location being somewhere special where he had begun, and he had zero worries of the coming events being seen by anyone else. Even his covert skills would still be covering everything just in case, but he expected no issues as all that remained would be exactly how successful he could be to achieve his goal.

He had to allow for the realm upgrade of his Spiritual World, and then use his connection with this World as a conduit to include all his other connected worlds, fusing all of them together into something that would be too wondrous for him to even imagine!

There were many things to take care of, and he would need the cooperation of all the Systems of his connected worlds to ensure the safety of the beings within them would not be an issue while the worlds were fusing into a singular realm.

He would also need the cooperation of his powerful subordinates to bring order into an enormous realm that would contain a number of beings upwards of roughly 300 Billion, the billions of beings coming from literally different worlds and having their own cultures and understanding all suddenly being placed together in one location.

He was sending telepathic messages to Vladivostok and the Harbingers of Sin to be ready, all of these beings feeling a sense of wonder and slight apprehension while looking forward to whatever was to come as they followed this singular man that shone too bright!

The beasts in the Time Space of the Spiritual World were consolidating their upgrade into the World Rank, the requirement of beasts already being met a few hours ago as the Emperor Penguin as his brothers and sisters advanced forward.

RAA! RAA! RAA!

The Emperor Penguin was currently taking the role of a Big Brother as he lectured all the other Spiritual World Beasts to be ready, this upgrade being of even more significance to them as the original inhabitants of the Spiritual World which was known as the Frozen Plateau Spiritual Land just a couple of months ago!

In the Beast World, Queen Adelaide was situated on a grand blue throne, the Shadow Guard Night who was currently at the Void Rank, her Father, as well as all of her many Frozen Generals all preparing as they received news of what was to come.

Very few of them even fully understood what was happening, but they all knew it was connected to their Queen who was connected to a very ill.u.s.trious person!

The Queen in question was staring out absentmindedly as never in her wildest dreams would she have expected the unique skill her mother passed down, {Golden Rule}- would have ever made something like this possible.

It only allowed her to find the being that would give her the brightest future, but she never expected for someone so out of this world! Her frozen gaze looked forward as their world took its position among many in surrounding a single Spiritual World.

Across the many stars that Noah was connected to, many beings were having their own thoughts as ideals out of their wildest dreams were becoming realized. In Noah's homeworld, Steel Mikhail was in the skies of the Blessed Empire, his wide figure accompanied by the Guider, Sophia, and many other higher ups of Noah's homeworld.

Sophia's eyes shone with l.u.s.ter as she spoke out with a smile.

"If we had been walking and stumbling in the darkness all this time, then we are about to start running forward at full throttle into a brand new era."

Simple words that were filled with hidden meanings erupted out, Steel Mikhail's calm heart shaking as he heard them, his thoughts tumultuous as he thought of the being that only an F Rank Hunter a few months ago!

"Be ready for what is to come, for we are stepping into an Era we had only thought to be possible, but never something we could realize."

Her words faded out as those around her gulped and nodded. Above them in the void of space, Noah had returned above his homeworld and Spiritual World, his gaze turning around to observe the many cl.u.s.ter of stars arranged in a circular formation all around him as he felt his heart beat remaining stable.

He felt the gravity of what he was about to do as [Unique Being] was activated, the effect of Apathy bringing him to utter calmness and serenity as he closed his eyes.

He felt the void of space and the stars around him. He felt his heart and thoughts that remained stable. He felt his very origin as he committed to advance forward, waving his hands as five sparkling Prime World cores flew out of his expansive space and rushed towards the Spiritual World!

The stage was set, the requirements met.

A grand realm full of possibilities was waiting at the other side as an event that would forever change the lives of an uncountable number of beings began.

From the Frozen Plateau Spiritual Land to the Spiritual World. Now, it would be advancing into the...

Chapter 543 - Realm Formation!

An unbelievable scene was playing itself out in a small quadrant of the light expanse. There was an enormous shimmering floating land mass that was a size larger than most prime worlds. This landmass was made of a singular central continent and four floating continents mystically floating above it.

This was the spiritual world that was currently stationed above Noah's home world! The blue planet was floating mystically below the enormous spiritual realm, and not too far from it, there were the shadows of numerous planets with each of them sharing a connection with Noah.

All of them were stationed in a circular formation as an invisible line that connected each of them went towards a singular person. This singular person was floating above all the stars as his apathetic eyes looked down towards the spiritual world that had just absorbed five prime world cores.

RUMBLE!

The entire spiritual world was trembling as the transformation had started, blue light wrapping around it in a luminous fashion. Noah closed his eyes as he sensed his connection with the spiritual world and followed along its path of the upgrade into a Realm.

An immense amount of essence was already converging towards it, and he followed all of this essence towards the core of this world, his awareness noticing the formation of a thin archaic-looking illusory door.

Yes, a door!

As the process began with this spiritual world absorbing an enormous amount of essence, the thin outline of an archaic door had actually erupted out from the core of the spiritual world, this outline rising from the depths as it shot out of the expansive world and into the void of space, coming to rest at Noah's eye level!

His closed eyes opened with a flash as he stared at the illusory door that was shimmering with mystical lights.

RUMBLE!

The entire spiritual world continued to vibrate rapidly as Noah monitored everything while sending messages to all the planetary systems connected to him.

"Be ready."

The systems of all the worlds that he was connected to had to ensure the safety of all the beings living within them from what was about to happen next. The sight was a fantastical one to see as Noah observed the spiritual world to actually start becoming smaller and smaller while gravitating towards the illusory figure of the door that had continued to expand in front of his eyes.

This was the process that the spiritual world was taking to upgrading to a realm! After the initiation an illusory door had appeared, the landmasses of the spiritual world would all be absorbed into this door as they were placed in their own spatial plane, becoming a full fledged realm thereafter!

As Noah observed one of the continents of the spiritual world getting closer to the door and being absorbed into it, he focused on his connection to his main world- the connection that was the strongest, as this connection and his will were relayed to the spiritual world. Noah was actually using this connection as a passageway as it served to identify his homeworld with a similar status to his Spiritual World, the blue light that had been covering this unique treasure since its upgrade shooting out as it went to wrap around Noah's homeworld!

This phenomenon was something that only Noah would have been able to do, as only he possessed a Spiritual World with its unique features while also sharing a connection with it and many other worlds.

This light that signified the upgrade into a realm wrapped around his homeworld as it did not just stop there, this blue light going on to jump across the expanse of space as Noah's mind focused on more and more worlds. The blue light continued towards the distant stars that he was connected to, each of them gaining a shimmering glimmer that caused for the ecstatic scene of multiple stars glowing brightly in this empty corner of Light Expanse!

The inhabitants of all of these affected worlds felt the earth rumbling beneath their feet as each of them felt a movement they had never experienced before. It felt like their worlds were spinning out of control, and yet at the same time they weren't. It felt as if they're moving forward, but at the same time, they weren't. It was a feeling that could not really be expressed in words!

The phenomenon that was occurring to the Spiritual World was now happening to all the connected worlds, each of them becoming wrapped in the bright blue light as they began to be pulled towards the illusory door in front of Noah while they rapidly reduced in size.

Noah's eyes shone with l.u.s.t.e.r as he observed the rapid movements of enormous planets shooting towards him only to disappear the moment they came within the bounds of the illusory door.

VOOM! VOOM! VOOM!

It was such a fantastical site to see as Noah felt the many connections that he had forming into a singular powerful, strong and more robust connection. The many stars he shared connections with all rushed towards the illusory golden door as each of them disappeared, going towards a different spatial plane that even Noah did not know how the formation of it would be nor what results would come out of it.

The central continent of the spiritual world was actually the last thing to fly into this illusory door, waiting until all the chosen planets had been sucked in before it acted like a final piece, disappearing into the doorway and initiating the rest of the process as the rumbling of immense fluctuations of essence ensued!

RUMBLE!

With all the worlds absorbed into a singular door that was gradually becoming more physical, Noah focused on his connection as his eyes peered into the formation of the Realm inside of this door, his hands landing on it as even he disappeared!

When he reappeared, he was actually above the skies overseeing a shocking transformation, his eyes watching as the central continent of the Spiritual World flew in to situate itself at an empty area that signified the center of this new Realm, the other continental landmasses already around it.

The more shocking things were the other landmasses that were connecting and fusing with the many worlds, the circular shapes of these worlds ridiculously unfolding in front of Noah's eyes as if they were some malleable material, a unique blue energy holding everything together safely as these worlds attached themselves into the landmasses of the Spiritual World!

It felt like he was watching pieces of a puzzle come together as while he was observing all of this with shining eyes, something unexpected happened deep within his Origin.

POP!

Noah adopted a painful expression as he brought his hand and clutched his chest, his face ashen as the connection between his very origin and the many stars he was connected to actually seemed to explode...and then rapidly begin to reform and expand!

Chapter 544 - Mana Manipulation!

It was a shocking feeling to go through, Noah experiencing something he always felt exploding within him, the connection that was established many months ago seemingly gone for a brief period of time before he felt it again.

He could not even describe it as feeling the connection again as he realized it was the same connection, but it was also extremely different as it was much more expansive!

If he could compare his past connection to a single thread of a line that was a few inches long, this current connection was an enormous column that was multiple miles long! That was how expansive and enormous it was.

RUMBLE!

Noah's body actually became bathed in the same blue light that the many fusing planets had, where one could trace a cylindrical column of immense amounts of essence shooting forth from the forming Realm below him, this light seemingly too vibrant as his body could not contain it.

This vibrancy made it shoot out above his head as a column of majestic blue light pierced through the newly forming clouds, a scene of fantastical elements playing out as Noah could not help but stretch out his hands and feet in the skies to take all of it in!

[Everything is proceeding smoothly.]

At this moment, he heard the voice of the System that seemed similar to the apathetic voice of his homeworld, his Spiritual World, and any of the other worlds combined as each of them seemed to be represented in this one voice.

[The living beings will briefly experience a period of extreme nausea. No other effects have been observed.]

Noah's body continued to be bathed in a glorious blue light as he listened to this voice, finding it much more apathetic and systematic than before, but he could not pay too much attention to it as he was also experiencing something profound within himself.

Because this new connection of an extremely large Realm was coursing through him, he could feel something that he had been actively using for the past months with the help of the System. The fuel that allowed for him to use the skills he learned from [Skill Books] or Inheritances, the one thing that he had a nearly infinite amount of.

He could feel...Mana!

Not just feeling it, his Origin was shaking excitedly as he realized that this immense amount of mana from this forming realm...he might actually be able to manipulate it!

It was an ecstatic thought, and something that he had always wanted to get his hands on ever since he first formed his connection. Previously, he had access to large reserves of mana, but he could not freely manipulate it in whatever order he required to bring the effects of skills he thought of or desired.

Even the beings of the Beast World that did not have high realms could manipulate mana in different ways to create new skills with their experience, yet someone like Noah was still not able to after all this time!

The reason for this was uniquely because of his own situation, his Origin and body not being able to withstand the torrent of Mana from the connection with a world, where him only accessing the connection when supplying mana to skills was the only way for him to use it all this time.

But at this juncture, he was forcefully exposed to a torrent of mana multiple times larger than any of the connections before, the reserves of a Realm being something that he could not even wrap his mind around. This exposure should have been extremely dangerous, and might have even caused for his Origin to fracture and explode. But he had achieved a realm only a single level below what the beings in this Novus Galaxy could achieve- he had become a Star Forger before his upgrading of a realm!

This allowed his Origin to expand this new connection, while his body was being shot up with so much mana that even if he did not want to be fully exposed to it and begin to learn how to manipulate it- he would be forced to!

[The Inherent Skill, {Mana Manipulation- Restricted} has been acquired.]

BOOM!

He felt an explosive force erupt out from him with the words of the System, the rowdy and expansive connection of a Realm slightly settling down and reigned in as his body felt ecstatic in ways he could not even describe.

At this time if one was observing Noah's expression, they would observe the blue light that was emanating from his body to be so potent for a release that his eyes actually shone with splendid arcs of blue light, his gaze turning otherworldly as these arcs of light spread out to his surroundings.

His shaking eyes continued releasing gorgeous arcs of light as he could not even wait as he tried to look at his stat panel and observe exactly what the newly gained skill entailed!

{Mana Manipulation- Restricted} :: An inherent ability that allows the user to use mana in specific pathways in order to achieve the desired effect in terms of abilities. It includes the abilities of Mana Operation and Mana Perception. It is {Restricted} because the being, [Noah Osmont], is restricted from freely releasing Pure Mana externally.

His thoughts churned as he read the somewhat different description of this new Inherent Ability, his eyes honing in on the so-called restriction as he seemed to understand. Only someone like him was specifically restricted from freely releasing pure mana, as it would mean he had the output and force of an entire realm to release upon his enemies if he wished!

Such a thing completely broke the scales of balance in the Novus Galaxy and in the Universe as a whole, and in an effort to maintain a similitude of balance- Noah was restricted from being able to do such a thing! Thus, he could only continue to release mana in terms of skills and abilities.

He had an unwilling expression as he thought about this, feeling it to be an injustice. Yet, his thoughts were stopped yet again as the voice of the System continued to ring out in his mind.

[Because of the required condition of having {Mana Manipulation}, the System function of [Skill Creation] is now available.]

The wondrous upgrade into a Realm did not just come with Mana Manipulation, but it came with the ability that went hand in hand- the capability to forge the skills which could put the newly gained manipulation skill into practice!

[Skill Creation] had entered the stage!!!

Chapter 545 - [Skill Creation]!

As a ridiculous amount of essence continued to be sucked into a wondrous process of a Realm Formation, a single being was floating in the skies of the realm as his body was surrounded by a column of blue light!

His arms and legs were outstretched as his muscles spasmed, his eyes shimmering as they shot out beautiful blue arcs of light.

Even though this being looked to be in pain, a smile could be seen on his face as the surprises he was getting were too many!

First was the Inherent Ability of mana manipulation, and then came a feature of his System that many others could already do- the capability to create skills! The feature of [Skill Creation] was added on top of such things as [Skill Combination], Noah taking half of his attention from the forming of the realm and into his panel as he observed the details of this feature.

[Skill Creation] :: A feature that allows the user to create skills or skill trees. The tier of a skill or skill tree is dependent on the stage of the user. Multiple conditions are required for the successful creation of a skill or skill tree: The user is required to describe the intended ability in detail before a skill model can be computed for its feasibility. To bring the skill or skill tree into fruition, [Skill Points] are required. The amount of [Skill Points] needed is dependent on the type of skill being created.

The description of a feature that seemed to actually be shining bright gold in Noah's eyes appeared, this feature being a much-awaited one as he theorized all he could do with it! The only thing that put a damper on his thoughts was the requirement of Skill Points that he had very limited amounts of remaining, much of them being clustered and spread out into numerous Skill Trees.

Unless he found a new source of Skill Points in the near future, he would have to soon inactivate some skill trees as he took the Skill Points within to focus them onto a few specific ones, as he would soon be upgrading the stages of skill trees into the Star Forging Realm!

He would be faced with the situation where Skill Points were gradually becoming a scarce resource, and this was made especially so by the fact that he would need to spend them to create new skills or skill trees.

Thus, he looked forward to the day that he could obtain new Skill Points, but he also abhorred it because it would come with its own terrifying connotations!

[The Realm Formation is 80% completed.]

He locked this thought in the back of his mind for now as the voice of the System rang out in his mind, his awareness focusing on the expanded channel of mana that could intensely feel as well as the changes occurring in the expansive Realm before him. He would play with [Skill Creation] later as he now finished overseeing this realm upgrade.

The circular planets had all inexplicably unfolded into wide and flat land masses that would make for a grand paradise for anyone that believed stars were flat, these landmasses connecting together like pieces of a puzzle that had just been waiting to be fitted this entire time!

The vibrancy of all sorts of colors of essence was abound in this spectacular realm formation that even Noah did not know how to describe it all.

He could see the different regions that used to be the Spiritual World, his gaze seeing those that shone with colors of blue, red, gold, or dark depending on their different Law Spaces. In the location that used to be the Spiritual World, he could see the figures of beasts led by the Emperor Penguin, this arrogant penguin actually standing at the forefront as one could see its body trembling, tears actually coming out of its beady eyes!

This was because this event was simply too important for a few beings much more than others, and the Spiritual World Beasts that were first born when this was still just a small floating landmass in a corner of the Beast World were those affected the most! Thus, one could see the scene of emotions that would never be expected of the face of this arrogant Emperor Penguin as this achievement was simply too much for him!

The Harbingers of Sin that were nearby simply looked on with unbelievable expressions at the grandiosity of everything, Kazuhiko being one of the many that was pinching themselves multiple times to make sure what they were seeing was not a dream.

Noah moved his awareness out further as he could see the blood red Ancient Blood World that was now a landmass which was thousands of miles long, the figures of minuscule Vampyres and beings from the Dark Expanse that he had saved in prior battles looking around them with immense shock.

Even closer to the past Spiritual World was the place that he came from, the blue planet he called his home. Its land and seas were already situated peacefully as the Humans, Atlanteans, and Merfolk within were looking at all the splendor.

Noah gazes at all of these regions as he observed the completion of the Realm formation, sending his thoughts to the System of this new Realm.

"Can we already modify the geography?"

[Yes. What would you like?]

"Spread the different Law Spaces out, let every past world and land have access to fate, chaos, aether, fire, water, earth...all the currently available elements."

RUMBLE!

His words were followed with vast and spectacular changes as a flash of multicolored auras rose, particles of all colors literally washing over this soon to be completed realm as the function of law spaces was spread out everywhere!

It did not matter if it was the Supreme Law of Fate or the Law of Air, every land in this realm would have a region that would be populated with an abundant amount of numerous elements, such a thing making way for an unbelievable realm that was packed with not just dense essence, but also giving the beings dwelling within even more abundant elemental essence of any laws they wished!

The gorgeous display of colors only further made the already spectacular formation to become even greater in the eyes of all those watching, those who did not think they could be shocked anymore being proven wrong time and time again...

Chapter 546 - The Ridiculous Esteemed Person

Hello.

This would have been the 1392nd entry into the Journal of the best Shadow Guard, Night. Yet the times call for me to narrate what is occurring as it is happening, so if there is anyone listening, pay attention.

The day had begun unlike any other, with me going busily about my work looking after the Frozen Queen. It should have remained like that, but all that changed when the Queen received word from the Esteemed Person.

Out of the blue, this Person had said for us to prepare, mentioning that a change would be occurring to our world. Now in the past, such changes had occurred when the Beast World was elevated from a Middle and into a Large World, and even most recently into a Prime World.

With the words of the Esteemed Person, the Beast World was about to be elevated yet again. It was a shocking thing to hear, but what was even more shocking was my and the Queen's acceptance of it all without batting an eye.

This was because there had been just too many things that this esteemed Person did that broke all common sense, and we had learned to simply go along with the things he mentioned and only watch the show thereafter.

This meant that for the show that was currently playing out in front of us- we were wholly unprepared for it.

Within my stupor and surprise after the out of this world majestic scenes began, my eyes noticed the Frozen Queen float to the skies as she looked around us with just as much surprise, confirming my thoughts that even she was just as unprepared for this as we all were.

As I floated up with her, my trained eyes at the Void Rank were able to see the many lands of the Beast World that I had studied my entire life, but then my gaze saw as even more lands came to be, stretching out for miles and miles until even I could not observe where they ended.

My eyes shook as I confirmed the geography of a few of the lands I could observe. The Esteemed Person's Homeworld, the Demon World, and even a few of the worlds that the Esteemed Person only talked about when he came to visit the Queen during his night time rendezvous.

Such a sight had shocking meaning, the simple words of the Esteemed Person meaning something nobody among us could have ever predicted as we observed the many worlds we occasionally traveled to in portals that he created actually to be in the same...plane as ours.

It was a ridiculous idea to even imagine, yet when it came to the Esteemed Person, we were gradually becoming numb to unimaginable things.

It seems I have to bring my ramblings to a close as all the lands in my eyesight are all becoming engulfed in a storm of aurora colored essence that would be something you only see in protected Holy Lands where only the purest of beings could enter, but they were spreading out freely amongst all the lands my eyes could gaze upon.

Truly a Ridiculous Esteemed Person.

For any that were listening to my ramblings, I'll be sure to document them in my Journal for future generations. This is all for the sake of them understanding just how ridiculous the person my Queen found is.

Until then.

Across the many connected worlds that were now fully connected and fused together in a sense that none of their inhabitants could have imagined, many were having their own thoughts and amazements at the scenes playing out around them.

What was happening now did not just affect Noah, but billions of beings that each had their own stories, ideals, and lives. Whether it was those that chose to be connected to Noah or those that did not even fully know his identity, each of them were inextricably connected and brought together into one singular spatial space that was completing its formation.

RUMBLE!

The lands that the many masses stood on trembled for the last time during this process as the last piece of the puzzle fit in place, signifying the end of a wondrous transformation as a brilliant blue light went on to cover everything for the last time.

Atop the vast colors of essence spreading out all across the lands, the blue light overflowed as it all shot towards a place that could be considered the center of this new realm. It was the location where many special beasts were congregating and tearfully looking around them, the location where a single being stood in the skies as the blue energy all converged towards him in a resplendent pillar of light!

The eyes of billions seemed to focus on this being at this moment as they portrayed their amazement, their worries, and their hopes. A being encased in a shining pillar of blue light, his eyes shooting arcs of light as he luminously looked around him in just as much wonder as everyone else.

The mouth of this being opened as those nearby could hear his words with extreme clarity, and they were something that shocked each of them to their very cores.

"This...is my realm."

RUMBLE!

The declaration seemed to be the final ingredient to complete this wonder as the brilliance of light all thundered towards him and disappeared, his figure appearing grandly in all its majesty as some beings could make him out clearly.

Eyes that shone with confidence, one releasing a deep red hue and the other releasing a splendorous blue. Luminous hair that was evenly split in half with colors of gold and black, streaks of silver barely being visible within.

A devilishly handsome face with a jawline that would make many tremble, all draped in an exquisite dark gold robe that fluttered in the wind!

Regal. Majestic. Powerful!

The one known as Noah Osmont floated in the skies of a brand new realm that had just come to fruition in the Novus Galaxy. In the corner of the Light Expanse, one could now observe the appearance of an enormous and exquisitely archaic blue door.

The shimmering blue doorway led to a place full of wonder, a Realm that would be known by a name that would only be suitable to it alone!

Chapter 547 - My Infinite Realm I

[The Upgrade into a Realm has finished successfully, and no living beings were harmed in the process.]

[37 Worlds have been successfully integrated into the new Realm, with geographical changes currently underway...]

The words of the System continued to flow into Noah's mind as the essence that should have been settling after the completion of the upgrade into a realm was actually just as vibrant, widespread changes continuing to occur throughout the new Realm.

All around the newly formed Realm, Noah could see the formation of floating landmasses that shone beautifully, the scene becoming something that would be hard to see even in the wildest fantasy!

Among these newly forming floating landmasses, unique and unheard of plants and vegetations were spreading out along with new lands that many had not come across before. This was because Noah's simple words of spreading out all the unlocked Law Spaces freely across this realm were truly shocking, as one could have been living in an apartment and suddenly found their entire complex surrounded by the vibrant particles of fate, and others could have been living in the sea and suddenly found themselves surrounded by the luminous particles of Aether!

Even a dangerous element such as Aether which was unlocked after this upgrade could be turned into a Law Space, its particles turning docile as they flowed freely among the beings encased in them, this law that Noah still wasn't sure if it stood on the same level as Fate and Chaos or above them being one of the many wondrous things spreading out across the realm.

Noah continued to gaze at all of these changes as he felt the eyes of many beings land on him, his gaze watching the emotional spiritual beasts as well as the stupefied harbingers of sin that looked towards him with varying expressions.

A few thousand miles away, an area filled with Blood Crystals that signified the past Ancient Blood World was even more vibrant, masses of Vampyres beginning to shoot out in droves towards him as they knew his identity more closely than most.

"Progenitor!"

"Blood Progenitor!"

RUMBLE!

He felt the words of many being calling out his name as he felt the movements of a single being flying into the skies towards him from the direction of his past Homeworld. His luminous eyes caught the figure of Sophia, the being that was a figure that his homeworld chose as a representative, the same being who inexplicably had the same face as the 1st Infernal Lord.

Sophia flew towards Noah's position as her vibrant white hair and shimmering blue eyes lit up with happiness, her figure bowing towards him!

"Big Brother."

Noah smiled towards this unique being as she came close to him and turned around to stare at the vast landscapes that seemed to have no ends, her mouth opening up once more as its vibrations actually spread out to every corner of this new Realm.

"To all the beings lucky enough to be a part of this Realm at this very moment, I welcome you. In this Realm, you can live free of worries and fears, completely isolated from the horrors outside of it. A single being made this possible, and you will come to know and acknowledge this being as...the Overseer!"

RUMBLE!

Sophia's gaze shone with resplendence as she spoke out, a commanding tone spreading out across the lands of the Realm as those that heard it felt their very Origins shaking!

"...overseer.."

"...Overseer..!"

Across the wide realm, the sound vibrations of billions of beings began to spread out as they all built up in a crescendo of overpowering voices, the very air trembling as they traveled to reach Noah in the skies.

OOOOH!

"Overseer!"

"OVERSEER!"

WAAAA!

The skies were trembling as billions of beings spoke out, Noah glancing at all of this as it did not even feel like something real. His senses went towards the beings he knew and even those he didn't, his heart filling with an emotion he could not quite describe.

He glanced at the sparkling Sophia beside him as he put his hand on her shoulder, her mouth that was about to open once more turning towards him. She nodded with a smile as she stepped behind him, Noah overlooking the vast expanse of lands once more as he spoke.

"Let us all work together to create something beautiful. Let us all strive for peace and strength in this new Realm- In My...Infinite Realm!"

RUMBLE!

Noah called out these words as the corner of his eyes glanced briefly towards the skill that was now labeled {Spiritual Realm Management}, his eyes seeing the name of Frozen Plateau Spiritual Realm as he chose to change it at this moment, his gaze observing it actually begin to change in the Stat Panel as it adhered to his wishes.

Yes! His Infinite Realm!

From Spiritual World, it had normally gone to become named the Spiritual Realm. But as he looked at the vast landscapes around him and the fact that this Realm was made up of clusters of numerous stars, he called it the Infinite Realm!

This was because to him, it was a realm of boundless possibilities, and it became especially so after his eyes began to look towards the new features that were unlocked with this single upgrade.

It was not just the addition of one or two features, but multiple of them!

OOOOOH!

The shouts of the many beings that had heard his words reached him once again, their vibrant voices shaking him out of his reverie as he listened.

"Infinite Realm!"

"Overseer!"

"Progenitor!"

RUMBLE!

Waves of essence continued to spread around throughout as around Noah, the show of colors never seemed to end as the moment the Infinite Realm completed being formed, thousands of Fate Lines and Chaos Particles had also been descending down madly.

He glanced at all of this as he spoke out once more, this time in a jovial tone that seemed to forget any worries in the outside worlds.

"We have much to do, but first- let us celebrate!"

"OOOH!"

The formation of the Infinite Realm was completed as its Overseer called for a celebration. Multiple new worlds were integrated into this Realm as Noah knew an enormous amount of work would be required to actually oversee all of them and address the lives of billions of beings.

He needed capable beings from all Races to begin the road of this ordeal and actually manage the Infinite Realm, and this would all be initiated the moment the celebratory works finished. His figure and the figure of Sophia flew towards the ground where vibrant yells were abound, his heart set to enjoy this feeling for just a few more hours before he rushed back into a war.

Meanwhile, his eyes were looking through {Spiritual Realm Management} as he fully observed the detailed changes, just the descriptions of the new features being more of a celebration in his eyes more than anything else!

Chapter 548 - My Infinite Realm II

Across the expanse of space, a state of war was apparent throughout as tensions flared all around. Yet at this same time, a grand celebration was beginning in a newly established realm.

Noah had descended onto the center of the Infinite Realm as many of the beings he was close with were here, even the Frozen Queen that was a few thousands miles away being teleported here with her Shadow Guard as well as her father.

The Ill.u.s.trious King Roark now just looked like a proud father, following behind his daughter with a slight smile as he observed the things around them.

Barbatos was looking towards Noah while shaking her head at the ridiculousness, Kazuhiko and the other beings from Noah's homeworld sharing similar feelings as the celebration of this new realm fully went underway!

At this same moment, Noah was looking at the panel under the unique ability that was the {Spiritual Realm Management}, seeing all the new changes with amazement in his eyes.

Upgrade Conditions- ??????????

A similar panel he always observed under upgrades that were extremely different compared to the past ties was displayed in front of his eyes as he hungrily devoured the information. He would first try to fully understand the workings of this new realm before he experimented with [Skill Creation], his gaze going towards the unlocked features after this upgrade that actually amounted to four!

Four entirely new features were unlocked with this single upgrade, his eyes focusing on them as he looked through their details!

[Library] :: The skills of the Master of the Infinite Realm can be transcribed into a grand Library, capable of being passed down to later generations. All skills can be transcribed except Inherent, Unique, Ultimate, or Absolute Skills. Only the first stage of Skill Trees can be transcribed. Those wishing to learn from the Library of the Infinite Realm must be at the same level as the skills they seek to learn.

Noah had to bring himself to a stop just at the first unlocked feature, something that he never even thought about before actually coming to fruition.

The feature called Library actually allowed him to effectively make Skill Books for all his subordinates to learn as long as they were ranked F through the Star Forging Realm! This was such a shocking thing that even the limitations it listed seemed to pale in comparison to its benefits!

One of the biggest boons he saw was his ability to transcribe the skill trees, this being something that many being lacked. Just this single feature would have been enough to show the reward of this upgrade into a realm, but there were three more to go through.

[World Integration] :: The Infinite Realm has the capability to integrate new worlds and entities connected to its Master, being able to expand to unknown territories.

A short and simple description, but one that made the name that Noah had granted this realm be simply perfect! The ability of [World Integration] made it so that any new world that Noah connected could be brought in to be a part of the realm, continuing to ever so expand as it fit the name of an Infinite Realm perfectly!

[Realm Gateway] :: A shimmering blue archaic door of light is all that remains of the Infinite Realm to the outside universe as it exists in its own spatial space. This Gateway can be shifted under the will of the Infinite Realm Master, as well as set restrictions for the beings allowed in or out.

[Pocket Realm] :: A segment of the Infinite Realm can be taken and anchored to the Infinite Realm Master, granting access to its many features for the Master to use as they wish.

Each of the four new abilities seemed greater than the last, the last two making Noah's eyes light up even more because of their versatility!

When it came to realms, the doorways used to enter such locations were always stationed in a specific area in the vastness of space, this doorway not being able to move at all once the realm was established.

Yet, his realm had the feature where its Gateway could be moved, and he could even control who entered or left! It was unheard of as far as he knew, and the unlocked abilities even went as far as giving him something called a [Pocket Realm], its simple name showing shocking connotations as it allowed him to effectively carry a miniature realm with him wherever he went.

4 new features in a single upgrade, each of them more shocking than the last. Noah finished looking through the entirety of the panel under the {Spiritual Realm Management} as he lastly noticed how in front of 'Upgrade Conditions', a bunch of question marks were the only thing visible as even he was stumped as to what it could lead to.

Apparently, upgrading into a Realm was not the last stage of this wondrous unique treasure that he carried, and he could not wait to find out in the future what this next stage was whenever the question marks decided to reveal themselves.

For now, as the celebration of the formation of this Infinite Realm and the choosing of regional rulers that would establish order across it would soon go underway, Noah wanted to take the time to also look through [Skill Creation].

Just exactly what could he do with this feature, and what skill or skill tree should he first try to create?

Chapter 549 - Skill Creation Experimentation

As the celebrations and calibration of how the Infinite Realm would be looked after were underway, Noah was experimenting with the many newly gained features that came because of the upgrade of the Infinite Realm, and he was beginning with the newly added feature of [Skill Creation].

As this was a feature that required the use of Skill Points, he had to find out exactly how many it would take and how vast the difference was depending on the skills he wanted to create.

His eyes conjured up the Stat Panel as he focused on the blue-lit feature of [Skill Creation], an entirely new screen opening up in front of his eyes which allowed him to fill in the information of skill names and their descriptions!

The System would then look over what he placed down and judge its feasibility of being brought to existence, and exactly how much Skill Points it would cost to do so.

He thought for a moment before he tested out something he considered very small and low effort.

"Let's see...something called [Lightning Strike]...at the Star Forging Realm..."

He gave his specifications to the System as a vibrant blue light shone, everything being put together as a clearly defined skill with its usage as well as its cost appeared under the [Skill Creation] panel!

Lightning Strike] :: Lightning thunders down towards your enemy at a speed faster than the eye can follow. Cost of Skill Creation: 10 Skill Points

A very cost-effective and distinct skill appeared in front of him, the 10 Skill Points it would take to create such a Skill not being too much but not too little either. He waved his hands as the skill disappeared from the [Skill Creation] panel. His mind moved rapidly as he now wanted to test a variety of skills and see the difference in cost.

His thoughts were sent to the System as a list of multiple skills were assembled in the Skill Creation panel, his gaze shining brightly as he looked over them!

[Space Shattering Void Devouring Fist] :: Imbued with the power of space and void, destructive energies surround your fist which will shatter the location targeted while devouring anything weak enough to remain. Cost of Skill Creation: 50 Skill Points

[Soul Manifestation(Weapon)] :: Enables the user to create any weapon using their soul. The weapon deals soul attribute damage that cannot be blocked by essence or physical protections. Cost of Skill Creation: 2000

[Life Severing Chaotic Aether Strike] :: Connecting to the destructive essence of Aether and Chaos from the depths of the Unknown, a strike that will take the life of any being at the Nebula Realm or below thunders forth. Cost of Skill Creation: 10,000 Skill Points

[Galaxy Aurora Sword] :: A holy sword condensed from the will of the Galaxy forms and follows the will of the user to exterminate all those in the Nebula Realm or below. Ignores the protections of the Universal Laws even if the comprehension of the targeted being is at 100%. Cost of Skill Creation: 50,000 Skill Points.

He had thought of the most ridiculous sounding skills he could just to gauge exactly what he could do, and the possibilities were actually shocking as ridiculous skills were displayed in front of him!

Of course, they were ridiculous for a reason as their cost for creation was simply too unrealistic. One that took the elements of Aether and Chaos as it shattered and devoured space only cost 50 Skill Points, one that used the power of the soul being placed at a whooping 2000 cost, but he ramped up the ridiculousness with a skill that would take the life of anyone at the Nebula Realm. The corresponding cost for such a skill was 10,000 Skill Points!

But in the next skill, he went even further as he classified that even those with 100% law comprehension could be destroyed under the description of a skill that utilizes the energies of an actual Galaxy, this bridging the cost to 50,000...

One must know that Noah currently had a bit over 2000 Skill Points in total, and he currently had no way of obtaining more!

He gazed at the sweet sounding skills that would erase all of his problems as he sighed, waving his hands as they were all erased from the Skill Creation panel. He thought of what he could create realistically as he went out of the bounds of combat skills for a moment, knowing that he had more than enough of these and he simply needed to raise his rank and comprehension of laws to be able to match the biggest enemy he faced at this current moment.

His thoughts moved as he recalled his non-combat skills such as [Budding Farmer] or [Cook] which had made many things possible in their own right as he tried to design a skill tree at this moment with these types of skills!

This time around, he wanted to reduce the number of required Skill Points as much as possible as he set restrictions and definitions that would only apply to him or to specific areas, trying to see if he could create something wonderful that would not cost too much. His thoughts were relayed to the System as a skill tree was displayed in front of his eyes soon after.

[Versatile Farmer] :: A skill tree geared towards the most versatile agriculturist. Each of its abilities have an abnormally high energy usage to achieve their desired effect. Abilities included are Master Farmer, Automatic Planting and Harvesting, Advanced Inventory, and Five Star Chef. Cost of Skill Tree Creation: 25 Skill Points

[Master Farmer] :: The user can rapidly increase the growth and maturing rates of plants in all fields of the Infinite Realm simultaneously, a holographic display at their use allowing them to observe the areas affected.

[Automatic Planting and Harvesting] :: The user can automatically plant and harvest vegetation in the Infinite Realm, a holographic display at their use allowing them to select the required areas.

[Advanced Inventory] :: All plants harvested with the [Automatic Planting and Harvesting] function are placed in a spatial inventory connected to Noah Osmont's [Expansive Space].

[Five Star Chef] :: A farmer is nothing without the skill of a great chef. Any meal prepared by the user will have the splendor and taste of pure happiness while enhancing the essence contained in the ingredients by more than ten times.

An extremely cheap skill tree with abilities that held their own restrictions and wonders were displayed in front of his eyes, a smile appearing on Noah's face as he paid the 25 Skill Points and gave his confirmation to bring this Skill Tree into fruition!

As a war was continuing to escalate in the Novus Galaxy, Noah had overseen the upgrade of a new realm as he now used one of his newly gained abilities to create his first ever non-combat skill tree!

Chapter 550 - Unreal!

Noah knew that he had very little time before he had to thrust himself back into the ongoing War and training, so he was using this time where his mind wasn't occupied with constant battles and planning to enjoy the first-ever created Skill Tree.

His second clone that was situated in the Time Space of the Infinite Realm had his eyes on an expansive holographic display that was imitating the areas of the Spiritual World before it became a realm, all of these areas having numerous medicinal herbs and plants that held abundant essence!

Many of them were Fate's Orchard and Chaotic Amaranth, golden fruits that were filled with the essence of fate coming out from Fate's Orchard while the Chaotic Amaranth looked like a fantastical medicinal herb that glistened with the cold and dark essence of Chaos.

He had not just created the [Versatile Farmer] skill tree for fun, but because there was a huge aspect of his Infinite Realm that he was not using fully to his advantage, and it was the ridiculously overbearing plants he could grow within!

The plants' growth within the Infinite Realm were extremely effective in raising the level of the Beasts born in this realm, while he as the Infinite Realm Master could also heavily profit and strengthen himself from plants like Fate's Orchard and Chaotic Amaranth which had abundant essence of fate and Chaos which would go towards increasing his Fate Lines and Chaos Particles.

The idea of the Beasts born in the Spiritual Land and the exclusive effects they could enjoy from the plants grown within also brought forward a terrifying concept to Noah- Since all his connected worlds were now fused into this Infinite Realm, would all the different races of beings born in this Realm be given the same rights of strengthening and advancing as the naturally born Beasts?!

[Yes. Any beings born in the Infinite Realm that was formerly known as the Spiritual Realm will have all the benefits and rights given to them at birth.]

His question was answered the moment he thought of it as a terrifying reality made itself clear, this significance of this new realm being something that would change the lives of many in a spectacular fashion.

This new reality meant that newly born beings of all races would have perks of rapidly increasing their strength and ranks very rapidly, as they would be able to enjoy the 100% effectiveness of all the essence filled plants grown within which were extremely conducive to raising the strength of beasts!

It was such a stupendous perk, and the new Skill Tree that Noah created would go above and beyond to fully utilize this feature of the Infinite Realm.

He used [Master Farmer] as the holographic image of all the currently planted fields across the lands that used to be the past Spiritual World were washed over by a blue-green wave of essence, the vibrant particles of the law of earth and a hint of a law that Noah had yet to even come across permeating across the thousands of miles of lands!

RUMBLE!

Noah would not know the identity of the other law besides earth which was mixing to cause the growth rate of plants to explode to extreme degrees until much later, but it was the Ultimate Law of Life!

But such a thought was not currently in Noah's mind as he observed the holographic images of plants beginning to grow and expand rapidly, essence wildly flying around the center of the Infinite Realm one more as the celebrating beings were astonished at the scenes around them.

Noah then used [Automatic Planting and Harvesting] as a hologram of the expansive Infinite Realm spread out from his position and covered a mile around him. This holographic projection was the miniaturized version of the areas that he could designate as fields to plant on, each small area shown within signifying hundreds of miles of land!

It was such a mind-boggling concept that if Noah did not have multiple mind enhancing skills, he would have been overwhelmed! As he felt the strain in his mind of looking over such an expansive Realm, he glanced at the [Skill Creation] function once more as he sent his thoughts towards the System while beginning the process of planting a variety of plants across the Infinite Realm while using the [Automatic Planting and Harvesting] skill.

His thoughts were accepted by [Skill Creation] as a new skill was displayed in front of his eyes.

[Enhance Thought Process] :: The thought process of the user is passively enhanced to extreme degrees. Skill Creation Cost: 10 Skill Points

He paid the price right away as he felt the strain on his mind elevated, his eyes continuing their work as he looked through the many regions of different Law Spaces across the Infinite Realm and chose respective plants to grow.

In regions of fire or water he planted the Ice-fire Persimmon or the Ice Phoenix Fruits. In the areas where the essence of fate and chaos were abundant, the aforementioned Fate's Orchard and Chaotic Amaranth were planted!

He continued to freely release an exorbitant amount of mana to the [Automatic Planting and Harvesting] to plant many new medicinal plants and herbs, and then using [Master Farmer] thereafter to rapidly increase their growth process. He felt like he was playing the easiest farming game as he carried out actions that affected thousands of miles of land, shocking all the beings moving within them as to them, shocking scenes on top of shocking scenes continued to pile up.

Some were still reeling from the surprise of being in an entirely new realm when they felt their cities become filled with fate essence, and then soon after they found golden seeds shooting to the ground as a blue-green light quickly came to watch over it, beautiful trees that shone with gold leaves and glimmering fruits beginning to erupt out in front of their eyes.

It was such a fantastical scene that many were pinching themselves to make sure they weren't dreaming, the person responsible continuing using enormous amounts of mana as they became a farmer for a brief period of time, their goal on the particular plants that were filled with the essence of fate and chaos that would increase Fate Lines and Chaos Particles!
