Chapter 591 - A Signal!

Memories are a curious thing.

One can look fondly when going through memories of the past, or one can even try to forget them depending on what they contain. But when it came to stealing the memories of someone else, when it came to absorbing the memories of a being who had lived for close to two millennia...one could not even begin to describe such an experience!

While being surrounded by three wrathful Terrors, Noah had crushed Aldrich within his palm as he began absorbing all of his memories, giving this task to his two clones as his attention focused on the powerful entities that surrounded him while also trying to focus on memories pertaining to Aldrich's goals and what exactly was the full meaning of his actions just now.

"Foolish! Foolish! Foolish!"

RUMBLE!

The body of the Terror of Aether, Cthulhu, moved closer as its eyes focused on the octagonal broken area on the boundary of the Novus Galaxy. An oppressive force continued to leak outwards into an extremely black void that nobody but Grand Controllers could be able to survive in as the gaze of this Terror turned towards Noah's three bodies.

"Based on your essence signature, you should have stopped something like this from ever happening! What made you so useless?!"

The voice was wrathful as the body of Cthulhu continued coming ever closer, Noah feeling the intent of this Terror to push him away from the area of the shattered boundary as he did not resist, his mind having already located the most important and most pertaining memories of the current situation from the dead Aldrich as he sifted through shocking information!

Cthulhu came towards the shattered area of the boundary as his tentacles landed on the areas around it, a unique energy beginning to leave his body as his voice of wrath continued to come out.

"Such a thing...such a thing should not have been possible..."

Mysterious words were uttered as the other two Terrors came close, glancing towards Noah closely as a unique energy also released from them to go towards the shattered space, Noah observing that the miles-long shattered area was slowly beginning to reform at this moment!

"Unless..."

Words of hesitation leaked out of the Terror of Aether as his body began to shake while affirming its thoughts and observing the state of the shattered area, his enormous red star-sized eyes trembling as the wrath within them only became more potent, the voice he released only becoming grander!

"You allowed for this!"

RUMBLE!

His voice rang out clearly as it had an accusatory tone, the other two Terrors opening their eyes as understanding registered into them as well, the gazes of all these three powerful Terrors at the level of Controllers turning towards the direction that Noah and Aldrich had come from- each of them were glancing towards the Central Realm while the Terror of Aether released accusatory words!

"It was you! You allowed for this to happen! You would have sensed the moment the thoughts of that creature were aiming to harm you like this, and you would have sent us to stop him long before! You allowed for the barrier to be breached!"

WAA!

Shocking words were released from the booming mouth of the Terror of Aether as he actually looked towards the Central Realm while releasing words that seemed to be filled with pain and sorrow, and Noah would have not been able to understand their full meaning had he not just grasped the memories of Aldrich that pertained to this.

"That creature should not have even had the knowledge to do this unless you granted it to him! So why!"

Even more mysterious and shocking words left Cthulhu as the energy that he and the other two Terrors released went to reform the shattered portion of the barrier even faster.

Noah's own thoughts had turned chaotic as he actually grasped the full picture, being able to understand exactly what Aldrich had done and the significance such a thing had!

When Aldrich saw that he could not win the battle against him, his unwillingness and unfairness he felt for not being able to get his hands on the only thing he wanted drove his maddened mind towards one thing, and it was the thing he was screaming about- mutual destruction!

If he could not have what he believed to be the biggest treasures in the Novus Galaxy and he was about to fall under the hands of a being that had not even appeared before just a few months ago, he might as well perish along with the enemy that prevented him from achieving anything.

With this thought, Aldrich actually chose to go towards the bounds of the Novus Galaxy where a barrier that only Grand Controllers could affect existed, a barrier where one could pass through as they left behind their Galaxy to explore the wide Universe!

But his goal was not to simply pass through this barrier, but to shatter a portion of it as he did something no inhabitant of a Galaxy would ever do, but it was the only way he saw of causing the destruction of his enemy- the Novus Galaxy itself. Aldrich chose to shatter the barrier because it was the only way to invite beings stronger than him into this galaxy, it was the only way to release a signal to powerful entities in the outside Universe that a Galaxy still in its beginning stages existed in this area of space!

Aldrich's action of shattering the small portion of the barrier of the Novus Galaxy was simply that- a way to send out a signal to the outside Universe.

A way to invite unknown dangers towards the Novus Galaxy that had always been unknown and undiscovered this entire time!

This was why he had been screaming that the bell had been rung. That they were coming.

A native had actually sent a signal that invited the destruction of his own Galaxy!

Chapter 592 - Why?!

As Noah sifted through the memories, he also understood why the words of the Terrors were accusatory as they looked back towards the direction where he had expelled Aldrich from the Central Realm. These Terrors were glancing towards the location where the entity that could represent the Novus Galaxy resided as they accused this entity of actually calling for destruction itself!

The Terror of Aether had screamed that the creature known as Aldrich should have never had the knowledge that the capabilities of a Grand Controller would be able to shatter a portion of the barrier of their galaxy, nor should Aldrich had known what doing such an action represented.

Yet he had the information that did just that, and when he could not win, Aldrich made it his goal to simply call for the destruction of the Novus Galaxy through the hands of others!

Noah also understood where this information came from as while Aldrich was journeying throughout the Celestial Realm, the technologies of the Warsh.i.p.s and Realm Dreadnaughts as well as the techniques of the Law of Fate were not the only things given to him.

Noah used the word given because it was actually just that- all that Aldrich found during his exploration were simply things he was allowed to have, those he wasn't allowed to have being placed behind a golden barrier that he never crossed!

Information about Terrors and even the small tidbits of information about the Novus Galaxy itself and the working of the barrier protecting it...they were all spoonfed to him by a single entity- the Novus Galaxy itself.

This was why the Terror of Aether had turned towards the Central Realm while sending out accusatory words.

This was why he blamed the happening of the shattered area of the boundary of the galaxy...on the Novus Galaxy itself!

It was an event that sent a signal of their location to the wide and dangerous Universe full of things they had no knowledge about, and now that this signal had been sent out...something was coming!

"Why?! Why would you do such a thing!"

Noah continued sifting through the memories of Aldrich as the red eyes of the Terror shook while his voice continued to resound across space.

"Why subject us all to death?! Why seek for more? Are we not enough for you?!"

Words that were filled with extreme pain and shock left the Terror of Aether as the reality of what this event signified fully settled in all their hearts, their many questions wanting to at least be answered as they looked towards the Central Realm.

"What goal could you possibly have to invite such a disaster towards us..."

The voice of the Terror of Aether had turned dejected as the shattered space on the barrier became completely stitched up, the powerful gravitational force stopping as everything seemed to have gone back to normal.

But each of them knew that nothing would be normal again as in the foreseeable future, something they had no knowledge about would be descending upon them soon enough.

OOOM

The essence of the three Terrors was flowing wildly as with the closure of the shattered space, their eyes turned fully towards the Central Realm as they portrayed emotions of anger and frustration, emotions of unwillingness and non-understanding as Cthulhu's voice rang out once again.

"Why-"

[Quiet.]

RUUUUMBLE!!!

Space seemed to shake and tumble as the Terrors felt searing pains in their minds, Noah being in the same state as he felt like his head was burning the moment this voice erupted out!

That's right! It was a voice!

A voice that felt familiar in Noah's mind, yet at the same time, it felt extremely foreign! A voice that seemed to resonate with the very deepest parts of the Origins of the Terrors and even Noah!

...!

Noah's heart was beating wildly as this voice erupted out, the Terrors beside him turning mute as it was only Cthulhu with his shaking red eyes still actively moving, the enormous tendrils of Aether coiling around him shaking with wild destruction as he actually disobeyed this voice and continued.

"No! You have freely done unexplainable things for centuries and I have kept quiet while following orders! You have let unneeded wars and deaths occur by uncountable numbers on the same creatures living within you over the millenniums. This time I will not just sit idly by, this time I at least want answer!"

RUUUUMBLE!!!

A magisterial energy erupted out of nowhere at this moment as it wrapped and bound the body of the Terror of Aether, his eyes trembling in shock as these energies ignored his balefully destructive Aether and even his identity as a Grand Controller, his enormous planet sized body being covered by these unique energies entirely as his figure disappeared in the blink of an eye!

Gone!

Noah sensed the fluctuations of a huge spatial movement as the entire planet sized Terror of Aether, Cthulhu, was forcefully teleported away from this position instantly!

[Anyone else feel like talking?]

"..."

The Terror of the Void and the Ancient Terror shook fearfully in their position as they actually got into kneeling positions, their eyes bowing down as not a single word was heard from them.

Noah saw this shocking scenario as his own heart continued to beat wildly, his gaze still on the thousands of miles where a terrifying Cthulhu used to be, yet this same being was forcefully taken away in less than a second by the entity whose voice was permeating in the surroundings- by the Novus Galaxy itself!

[Go back to your posts.]

RUMBLE!

Without so much a millisecond delay, the remaining two Terrors moved away as they turned into streaks of lights, spreading to different directions as they went back to their original positions in the Letalis Expanse without so much as another word.

Noah floated at the same spot as he ridiculously just watched the shocking set of events playing out, waving his hands as he sent his two clones back to the Time Space of the Infinite Realm so that they could go through the memories of Aldrich faster, his gaze looking towards the void of space and the boundary of the Novus Galaxy near him as the shocking voice that seemed to cause searing pain in his mind every time it rang out expressed itself again.

[You have questions.]

Noah closed his eyes as he felt the searing pain in his mind dim little by little every time the voice spoke, his eyes squinting coldly as he looked towards the Central Realm while activating Apathy to calm his rapidly beating heart.

Damn right he had questions. He had a whole lot of f.u.c.k.i.n.g questions!

[The time is here for all the answers. Come...]

[...My Champion.]

Chapter 593 - What Lies Behind the Golden Barrier? I

Space was extremely huge and vast.

This was even more so when one looked at an entire galaxy that housed an uncountable number of planets and creatures, and it was even vaster if one took into account the unknown that lied outside of a galaxy!

Yet there existed a few specific beings that could effectively achieve a high enough level as they actually changed how vast things seemed to their perception, rising to such extreme lengths of power that even the vast distances of a Galaxy did not seem as vast as they were before.

This was the case with Noah after he achieved the level of a Grand Controller, the type of movements he could do within the Novus Galaxy expanding greatly to the point that he could not even compare it to his past self!

An example was how he and Aldrich had gone from the Central Realm and into the Letalis Expanse, and then just a few minutes later reached the bounds of the Novus Galaxy as the events that had already occurred took place.

With his position as a Controller, the vast Light, Dark, and Letalis Expanses could actually be explored by him in time as he would at most have to spend a few months or even a year or two to fully explore the entirety of the Novus Galaxy and everything that was lying within!

But at this moment...he had an enormous task ahead of him as he heard a shockingly powerful voice that had teleported away a Terror of Aether without its will, an entity that the Cthulhu had accused of bringing calamity to itself and all of them by allowing the actions of Aldrich to go through unstopped!

"You still know nothing about this?"

He sent his words towards his own Realm System, which was the integrated Infinite Realm that had all the worlds he was connected to put together as he sought for even a bit more guidance to try and understand what was about to happen.

[No. I am experiencing this at the same time as you.]

His System replied curtly, Noah analyzing the distinct differences between the voices in his mind as he affirmed they were different, that the commanding voice that had simply teleported Cthulhu away was much colder and emotionless, one feeling a distinct chill from it!

He glanced at the surroundings where the boundary of the Novus Galaxy had reformed, preparing himself fully as he used enormous amounts of mana to teleport directly to a single location.

Of course, his location was the wondrous Central Realm that he had left not too long ago, returning close to the golden barrier where he had left behind the Nebula Rank Infernal Lords.

The land around the Golden Barrier was already getting back to normal as the destruction his [Madness Hegemony] caused was slowly wiped away by the abundant essence of the Central Realm, the vegetation already regrowing. Noah saw the figure of the three Infernal Lord standing straight in front of the Barrier as the 1st Infernal Lord looked towards him with a smile.

"I trust it went smoothly?"

Her words were as melodious as always, Noah staring towards this woman as he nodded while speaking.

"Not necessarily. There's something about a bell being rung and all that."

His eyes were squinting as he tried to figure out the mysteries around him, wanting to see the full connection this 1st Infernal Lord had with the commanding voice that had called him a Champion, wanting to know the things that had been held in the dark for too long!

"I am in the same situation as you and many others, but I have received guidance that all the answers lie on the other side."

The 1st Infernal Lord bowed apologetically as she spoke, her hands pointing behind her as Noah saw a blinding golden light shining out, a blinding rectangular opening being created on the fearsome golden barrier that Aldrich had wanted to get behind for so long!

RUMBLE!

The golden barrier that he was completely kept out of was now opened towards Noah even though he could have just chosen to pass through it with his power as a Grand Controller.

[Communication will be much smoother the further in you are. Come.]

Noah turned his head in pain as he still felt a searing tinge every time the cold voice entered his mind, looking towards the three Infernal Lord that seemed to be waiting for him before they entered the golden rectangular opening that showed something entirely different than what Noah and many others were expecting.

He left behind his reservations as he floated down and walked through the opening, feeling like a film of light was peeling in front of his eyes the moment he passed through the golden barrier that Aldrich had wanted to get behind for long!

He began spreading his awareness out as the auras of the three Infernal Lord entered with him, his eyes opening wider at everything he was discovering as the contents within this barrier were really outside the expectations of many!

Aldrich and many other powerful Celestials had made passing this golden barrier their goal over centuries, imagining all the wondrous treasures they would be able to find in the hidden region as they used it to reach even greater heights of power.

Yet over all the years, they had never been able to achieve it as Noah was currently the only one to explore this mystery with his own eyes!

"This is what Aldrich spent his life trying to reach? This was the reason for all the chaos over the past hundreds of years...?"

Noah could not help but voice out as the Infernal Lord beside him let out a light laugh, an indistinguishable light shining in her eyes as she nodded.

"We often have wild delusions of grandeur on things we cannot get our hands on. What Aldrich sought...he would have never found here."

Noah shook his head with emotion at these words as he thought about the being that had lived over 2000 years while having the singular goal of passing through this golden barrier and putting his hands on all that lied within!

He shook his head as he confirmed with his own eyes that it was better he took away Aldrich's life with his hands, for if he had actually been able to pierce through the barrier and see what lies behind it...he might have just taken his own life right then and there!

Chapter 594 - What Lies Behind the Golden Barrier? II

Behind the golden barrier that Noah had crossed...was a spectacular environment that had 10 times the concentration of essence as the area immediately outside of it!

Noah's awareness at the level of a Grand Controller could spread out to cover an extremely wide distance, so even though he had just entered an area that covered the remaining portion of the Central Realm that had not been explored by anyone, he was able to notice many things in the immediate surroundings!

Shockingly, those he could sense the nearest were the droves of Infernals who had been spread out across the Novus Galaxy to stop the advancements of Celestials.

The auras of the remaining 6 Infernal Lords and the hundreds of billions of Infernals that had been in all the Infernal Realms had returned into the Central Realm, into the home they had originally deep behind the golden barrier!

But this was only the first thing that Noah noticed. As he rose to the skies and watched the mystical surroundings filled with extremely tall trees that further increased the aesthetics of this surrounding land to make it seem as if he was walking through an ancient primordial land, he saw even more shocking things.

Aside from the nearing Infernal Lords, the further out that Noah spread out his awareness, the more beings he came across as he actually saw their levels of power increase ever so higher!

Some looked like Behemoths, others were creatures he had never seen before, but the most unique thing was their realm of power.

Nearly all of them stood at the Star Forging Realm, without a single one being a rank lower!

That's right- aside from the Infernals with their varying levels in the immediate surroundings, Noah could only observe a truly large number of creatures that all had their Realms at the level of a Star Forger and nothing less.

As his awareness went out even further, he began coming across the auras of creatures at the level of the Nebula!

...!!!

Even further inland where his awareness could not reach and it became foggy, he could sense the aura of the powerful Aether of Terror that was forcefully teleported away from the Letalis Expanse not too long ago.

This was why he thought if Aldrich had really been able to cross the golden barrier, he might have just taken his own life as the things within were wholly different from what he expected!

"Are there actually any truly spectacular treasures in here...?"

He unconsciously asked the 1st Infernal Lord floating beside him as he focused his awareness on the smaller details of this area past the golden barrier. It actually wasn't wrong for many beings to think that there were countless treasures past the golden barrier, as his sharp eyes actually noticed a section a few hundred miles away that had something he had taken in the past that pushed him to the World Rank- the [Luminescent Rainbow Dew]!

He actually saw these Luminescent Rainbow Dews freely coming off of extremely tall trees as if they were fruits, and there was a large number of them that they would have made any beings in the Novus Galaxy to look towards them with greedy eyes.

Yet they peacefully swayed in the branches of these tall trees among this fantastical environment filled with an overabundance of essence, making Noah look around everywhere else for treasures he did not even know about.

"Of course, there is also an abundance of treasures. All the techniques that allow one to advance through normal and Supreme Laws, even unique laws like Aether that are just a small distance further ahead than Supreme. Of course, the other things which might not be considered treasures but are abundant in nature...are the Protectors you are seeing."

The 1st Infernal Lord replied to him as their figures floated further inside, stating that the beings which all seemed to be at the level of Star Forging were termed as Protectors!

"...and the multiple auras of Nebula Realm creatures?"

His awareness was focusing on seeking out exactly how many of such creatures laid within this place as he asked, another reply coming towards him. But this time it was from an extremely cold and monotone voice.

[Existences made for the sole purpose of Protecting. It is not hard to make many once you set restrictions on their Origins, with their greatest restrictions being bound by universal laws that they cannot escape.]

His head did not feel a searing pain anymore as he floated further and further past the area of the golden barrier, this voice being clearer as he began receiving answers from the entity itself!

[Lying just a level before Controllers, with their sole purpose to remain in the Central Realm for guard duty and nothing else. The moment they do anything else but that, their Origins implode.]

Concepts similar to what Noah had read when he achieved the Nebula Rank in the Terror of Aether skill tree rang out, an idea of how these beings came to be filling Noah's mind. He recalled the description of the ability as he continued flying towards the depths of this new land, flying over the droves of Infernals standing completely motionless below him.

[Terror of Aether] (5/5) :: An inborn ability granted to the special existences known as Terrors by the Novus Galaxy. For an extremely high price and restrictions, this ability normally granted 100% comprehension in the law of Aether. As the current user has not paid this price nor any of the restrictions and yet still holds this title, only 50% of comprehension in the Law of Aether shall be granted. The technique of cultivating Aether, [Disciple of Aether], is also granted.

Based on the description of this ability, the creatures within this area behind the golden barrier were granted their power at the Star Forging or Nebula Realm in exchange for huge restrictions from the universal laws themselves. But the ability to make these protectors as well as place the restrictions that allowed for their power...this ability was only something that the entity known as the Novus Galaxy could carry out!

Noah continued forward as he noticed the three Infernal Lords stopping behind him at a certain point, the 2nd and 3rd Infernal Lords descending down as only the 1st Infernal Lord remained in the skies with him. They had passed the area where hundreds of billions of Infernal Lords were motionlessly and noiselessly standing, with their figures about to enter further in where Noah saw multiple creatures at the level of Star Forging and even a few at the Nebula Realm moving.

[It should be much easier to communicate now at this point.]

He heard the voice of the powerful entity once more, but he had to turn his head this time around as it came from the figure right beside him- from the 1st Infernal Lord herself!

Her eyes had lost their blue light as they turned a blank white, becoming completely emotionless as they stared towards Noah while the two of them floated in space. The delightful expression and melodious words of the past Infernal Lord were gone, her cold gaze telling Noah he was currently talking directly to the entity known as the Novus Galaxy itself!

She waved her hands as the trees below them stretched up and formed two mystical chairs of identical stature and length. The body of the Infernal Lord floated down to one as she pointed her hands towards the other, Noah's body descending unto it as his eyes locked onto the figure in front of him.

[I'm sure you have many questions, but it would be even easier if you first listen to a story. It will answer many if not all of them, and shed light on exactly what is to come in a much smoother fashion.]

Noah glanced at the blank eyes of this creature in front of him as he nodded, the entity known as the Novus Galaxy beginning to narrate a grand tale.

A tale of how many things came to be!

Chapter 595 - The Novus Galaxy!

The Novus Galaxy was extremely vast and wide, but it was not always like this!

Like many things, it began somewhere, and ended somewhere!

[The answer to the question you heard the Terror of Aether spouting actually lies here.]

The monotone voice rang out in front of Noah as the tale began.

The accusatory questions that the Cthulhu had thrown towards the Central Realm indicated that even though Aldrich had carried out the actions of shattering a portion of the barrier of the Novus Galaxy and sending out a Signal to the unknown universe of exactly where their Galaxy was...the Cthulhu said that this dangerous action that would put them all at risk could only be made because the Novus Galaxy itself let it happen!

So why would this be? Why would a galaxy incite destruction to itself?!

[To understand this, you must realize the true nature of a Galaxy, as well as the workings behind it.]

[Over the many eons of time...the Novus Galaxy has actually risen and fallen numerous times.]

Noah's eyes shook as he listened, hidden truth that nobody knew being revealed simply in front of him.

Over the past tens of thousands of years, and who knew how much further, the Novus Galaxy had actually come to be and then been destroyed multiple times!

[Each time was different. Whether by the hands of the natives, or by outside forces, or by something completely unknown.]

[But no matter what, every time there was complete destruction before everything restarted once more.]

RUMBLE!

Lines of fate seemed to be swirling around Noah as he learned this truth, the shocking reality that a Galaxy actually went through cycles of destruction and rebirth, the truth that trillions of beings would inexplicably be moving within at every cycle as they lived their lives before all of them were wiped away...only for the Galaxy to begin anew as the process repeated itself!

[I have gone through this process too many times to count.]

The voice coming out from the 1st Infernal Lord felt even colder and more emotionless at this moment, Noah beginning to understand exactly why that was so as he thought about just the idea of countless destructions and rebirth, of seeing trillions die over and over again!

[To try and prevent this, I strove to make strong Protectors over the eons that could withstand the challenges which ultimately led to my destruction, but even that was never successful.]

OOOM!

The first Infernal Lord waved her hands as an illusory screen appeared beside their two figures, Noah turning towards it as he saw numerous shocking scenes being played.

One scene showed multiple figures with the auras of Controllers releasing horrendously powerful attacks towards a shining white core.

[Whether it was by my own inhabitants...]

Another scene showed a shocking large-scale battle that involved creatures Noah had never seen before, of powerful beings that even caused Noah's heart to stir!

[Or by Outsiders who inadvertently found the location of the Novus Galaxy in this vast universe.]

No matter what happened, the conclusion was always the same- destruction!

But there existed a unique feature about Galaxies where they did not utterly face extinction, going into hibernation for countless years before enough essence can be absorbed for everything to restart yet again.

[Even more recently, I have been trying new methods of raising powerful Protectors with unique abilities that can stand against any coming forces, but even that failed.]

The scene changed as it portrayed five figures releasing auras at the level of a Grand Controller, these five figures facing unknown beings that were not shown clearly on the illusory screen.

Noah's eyes shook as he saw that at the forefront of the five figures, a single woman with dark hair was wildly leading the others with a cold expression. This figure was very prominent in his eyes as she looked to have a face that was very similar to Noah's, the features just slightly more feminine to match the body!

This being that looked just like him but had a different gender faced the unknown enemies as in the end...all five Grand Controllers fell!

[Every time. All that I could look forward to was destruction. That is...until something changed.]

Yes! Something had changed!

Noah's eyes looked towards the 1st Infernal Lord that carried a blank expression as he could feel his beating heart even though he had Apathy activated. He wanted to know exactly what change had occurred, but the cold voice skipped over it entirely as the story continued.

[After that change, I tried something new. I tried not to have multiple powerful Protectors that all seemed to lose in the end, I tried to forge a single Champion that I was confident could withstand anything that came.]

RUMBLE!

[That is where you come along. You are...that Champion.]

...!

After whatever Change she mentioned occurred, the Novus Galaxy had stopped focusing on making multiple powerful protectors who always fell in the end to either their own conflicts or to outside enemies, and she instead focused on forging a single powerful being who could possibly withstand any and all coming forces!

She wanted to forge a Champion of ultimate proportions, a being that could shoulder a task that nobody would dare put on their shoulder!

[Accomplishing this was not possible before, but the change allowed for me to be able to bend the Universal Laws even by a little, and it expanded the possibilities as I focused on a single aspect of strength that I saw over the eons of destruction and rebirth.]

[I observed this aspect on the Outsiders that occasionally caused my destruction, where the Outsiders had extreme strength and power in one aspect, a strength that culminated in giving them a tremendously powerful presence that is collected and termed into a single word...a Trait.]

RUMBLE!

A Trait!

[Some Outsiders had traits focusing on the extremes of Laws, some had Traits that allowed them to do unimaginably powerful things with ease, and others had so-so Traits as they could even be matched by the Controllers I made.]

But the one singular truth remained...and that truth was if someone had a strong enough Trait, an extreme of a law or something else that could overpower any other beings...they would be victorious!

[Because of this, I went forward with the goal of forging a Champion that had an unbeatable Trait, a Champion who could trample on all other beings regardless of the trait they held in the coming future.]

RUMBLE!

Space seemed to be shaking around them as the emotionless words of the Novus Galaxy continued to ring out!

[What do you think about Infinite Mana?]

...!

Chapter 596 - A Trait!

A Trait!

Noah's eyes opened wide as he heard this word, his mind going back months ago when he saw a dash in the stat panel when it came to his [Focus].

At that time, this dash that represented nothing meant that the amount of the attribute of focus- the amount of mana, could not be properly displayed as it was too exorbitant! He later found out that this was because of his connection with the planet he was on, and he even actively expanded this connection as time passed so that he could accumulate even more mana!

[There were multiple trial and errors, but I am now seeing that the Trait of Infinite Mana ranks higher than any of the Traits I have come across before.]

RUMBLE!

[It is also a Trait that could not just be granted, but it had to be grown to the stage it is at currently, where even at this moment it has not achieved a full bloom to be properly called an official Trait. This is because you have only created a connection with a Realm, and to fully complete this Trait...a connection with something even larger is required.]

THUMP! THUMP! THUMP!

Noah could feel his heartbeat as if it was the sound of a drum, shocking information about all that was occurring to him being displayed so freely at this time!

All the connections that he had formed with the many worlds, and even when all of these connections were combined into a single powerful Realm...all of this was still just progress he was making towards creating a particular Trait- the Trait known as Infinite Mana!

Even at this moment in time, this trait was not complete as he still had work to do before it could officially manifest.

[When you take the final step and officially achieve this Trait, you can unequivocally say that you have Infinite Mana. This is because a completed Trait is forced to intertwine with the Universal Laws, whatever the trait is granting being made into a reality.]

When he officially completed this Trait, he would never have to worry about any mana he used at any stage he achieved! He would never have to worry about adding this planet or that planet in order to expand his reserves...he would for as long as he lived always have Infinite Mana!

Noah's eyes shone with l.u.s.ter as he reached this point, his heart nearly jumping out as he wanted to grasp this Trait in his hands right away! But this posed the question...of exactly how to complete this trait.

He glanced towards the white blank eyes of the 1st Infernal Lord that had been taken over by a separate entity as he had an idea of exactly what he had to do to achieve the completion of such a spectacular Trait. The eyes of this entity seemed to understand his thoughts as their monotone words continued!

[As it is a trait that I doubt has ever risen across the vast Universe, it is one with very strict requirements to bring to fruition.]

Yes! It was extremely hard and required many factors coming together to bring to light a Trait such as Infinite Mana! First, one had to begin with forming a dangerous connection between a world and a creature that had yet to even experience any forms of Mana, and then have this creature awaken to the workings of mana while keeping their lives during this whole time!

If they perished, the planet would perish. If somehow everything lined up and continued, the creature would then have to grow to enough power as they had to be able to traverse in the starry space as they formed even more connections and expanded the usage of this incomplete Trait, all the while none of the planets they were forming connections to had to also remain safe with no destruction.

Noah had shockingly gone through all of these stages as he arrived at the point where all the worlds he was connected to were combined into a single Realm, paving his path in an even smoother direction as it granted him a level of safety he did not have before!

[Now that you were able to form a Realm, the next steps are relatively easier as all you have to do is fuse into your Realm the Worlds present in the Light Expanse, Dark Expanse, and Letalis Expanse.]

"..."

Jaws would have dropped down if there were any other beings listening to this conversation, but Noah managed to release a question during this time.

"How many more Stars will have to be fused...?"

[This, I have not been able to confirm. There is a last stage you must still complete after the fusion of many worlds into your Realm. I will know if you are ready for that final stage as you fuse the worlds, and the Trait that shall stand against any enemies will be complete.]

A Trait unlike any other!

A Trait that would be able to stand against Outsiders and anything that had appeared before and destroyed the Novus Galaxy, causing it to experience rebirth over and over again until this current era!

As Noah arrived at this point and tried weaving everything together in his mind, he was reminded of the accusatory words of the Cthulhu, and the fact that the actions of Aldrich shattering a portion of the barrier of the Novus Galaxy had sent out a signal which actually let unknown beings know exactly where their Novus Galaxy was.

It was a signal that effectively called Outsiders over to them!

Noah locked his gaze with the apathetic eyes of the entity residing in the 1st Infernal Lord as he asked.

"If in the past eons you faced destruction and rebirth multiple times because of Outsiders or other sources...why allow for a signal that would invite disaster to be released by Aldrich this time around?"

He could feel the space around him beginning to shake as he asked this same question that the Cthulhu had asked and was forcefully teleported away for. He asked a question that demanded an answer!

RUMBLE!

Lines of Fate and chaotic particles began to swirl around them as Noah actually observed the emotionless and impassive face of the 1st Infernal Lord show emotion for the first time since this entity had taken over it and adopt an extremely enigmatic and cruel smile, a smile that would cause the spines of beings to curve as their very Origins trembled!

[Well...]

Chapter 597 - Multiple Law Inheritances!

Sometimes, too many shocking things can occur at once that one would often feel a sense of numbness after consecutive shock after shock.

Over an hour had passed, and Noah was currently feeling like this as he finished listening to shocking information from the entity that was the Novus Galaxy. He had asked for the reason as to why a Signal was allowed to be released to the outside Universe and invite destruction towards them, and the answer was a shocking one!

His head felt blank as he looked towards the face that had turned impassive once, any emotion it showed the moment he asked the question being completely gone as if it was never there.

[It will take some time, but I am confident in the Champion of this era.]

The voice of the Novus Galaxy was monotone, but held a hint of certainty as the blank while eyes stared at Noah.

[You are completing a Trait that requires the workings of an entire Galaxy to complete, whereas other creatures can only be granted Traits that are slightly exceptional or even normal by their Galaxies depending on what the river of fate tells them.]

The 1st Infernal Lord rose as she said this, looking around them while Noah continued to sit in a contemplative tone. This was because the bombshells dropped today had been too numerous, with their answers also being questionable!

[I know you may still not fully agree with or understand my reasoning as it jeopardizes the lives of all the creatures in this current era, but I did this after multiple cycles where creatures just like them faced complete destruction before everything started over again.]

The tone was somber as the concept of an entity watching as trillions died over and over again was brought up, the possible emotions behind it being something that very few could understand!

[You may feel emotional as you are connected to and know a few creatures in this Galaxy, but realize that I am connected to all of them! The emotions you feel are nothing compared to mine. If I still chose to undertake this route, it is naturally the route that I believe will give them the most chance to not be like the others in the past cycles that have destruction!]

RUMBLE!

Waves of fate and chaos rolled around as these words were said with certain strength, Noah looking up while still contemplating, looking at the many things around him that lay behind a certain golden barrier.

"What of Aldrich's words about puppets?"

His pondering gaze asked another question in his mind as the 1st Infernal Lord turned towards him and tilted her head.

[Do you truly believe you are a puppet?]

It was a questioning tone that held a hint of surprise, Noah not needing to wait as the voice continued.

[Do not confuse the moving of the river of fate with someone controlling you. Any time in the past months, you could have chosen to do different things that would have led you on a completely different path. Fate does not lead to a singular location, it can change and shift at any time because of just a single being's actions. Even now after all this, you can choose to complete your Trait or not, you can choose to go forward with what I proposed or not. I cannot force you.]

Her blank gaze looked around the very deep areas of the Central Realm as she said this, Noah taking in the words as he half agreed with them and half didn't!

Even though it was something wondrous that he himself knew he wanted to achieve, he still wondered whether he could really say no to all of it! This was the paradox he found himself in, as when he thought about the fantastical concept of an Infinite Mana Trait- he wanted to complete it.

When he thought about saving himself and all those he was connected to from eventual destruction that the Novus Galaxy had faced multiple times in the past, he also wanted to do this.

The entity that was the Novus Galaxy also wanted the same things that he wanted, so was he really being controlled to do all these things, or were they all just his choices?

His gaze was that of pondering as he felt that he already had an answer, but he left this topic behind as his eyes glanced at the many Protectors around the area behind the golden barrier.

"Alright, we can leave this behind for now. I should get started if we want to see a chance of success in the coming weeks."

The blank face of the 1st Infernal Lord nodded as they began to float further into the inner area of the Central Realm as Noah followed along.

[Aside from your Trait, you also carry the attribute unique to this Galaxy that allows you to quantify your abilities and universal laws into visible numbers, this attribute also allowing you to very easily comprehend universal laws when paired with your Trait.]

Their figures currently went towards the inner depths as Noah observed the numerous creatures that were all at the Star Forging Realm, a few at the Nebula Rank that also acted as Protectors popping up!

[In this Inner Realm, I have been able to put together the techniques for advancing through the normal and Supreme Laws, as well as unique laws such as Aether that a creature born in this galaxy is proficient in. Aside from other treasures that will mostly be useful to the beings you choose to elevate the strength of as your subordinates, these techniques will be the things that will be the most useful to you.]

The entity currently residing in the 1st Infernal Lord said this as their figures dove down towards the ground, passing the many scintillating ancient trees around them that vibrated with essence as Noah came upon a circular clearing that held multiple pedestals.

These pedestals each shone with their own unique essence as an enormous Inheritance Crystal lay on top of them, each Inheritance Crystal representing a different law!

He saw the ones shining red and blue as he recognized the Inheritances of the Disciple of Fire and Water, and he saw that nearest to them were two huge Crystals that shone green and grey- representing Earth and Air.

There were even more Inheritance Crystals that represented the laws of Space, Time, Light, Dark, Fate, Chaos, Karma, and even Aether!

An abundance of Inheritances for him to choose from on where he wanted his journey in the Universal Laws to continue.

[They should continue overlaying even more boosts to your power as you gain Authority from each of them and eventually becoming a Controller of multiple laws. You should have also seen the path of advancement as a Controller, yes? This will be the toughest gap to close between the coming Outsiders, as they have long begun on that path.]

The entity that was the Novus Galaxy looked towards Noah as she said this, Noah's head nodding unconsciously as his eyes were fully focused on the many Inheritance Crystals in front of him.

He knew the path of advancement after gaining the title of Controller, and any enemies that could do anything to him would be those that already embarked on this path!

But he was leaving all of this for the future as he now focused on the abundant treasures lying before his eyes, as he went forward to learn the techniques of advancing through multiple universal laws so that he could fully put his clones to use in the Time Space of the Infinite Realm!

Chapter 598 - A Signal is Received!

At the circular clearing where enormously tall ancient trees shimmered with essence, Noah was going across every single Inheritance Crystal as he learned multiple techniques to traverse through universal laws.

Laws were the one thing that always continued to add more and more boosts to his strength, and it was one of the things he planned to focus on aside from completing his Trait!

He glanced at the description of a law comprehension technique that he had yet to start on.

{Disciple of Earth} :: A technique that allows one to form an Earth Origin Core. It comes with the techniques of the Herald of Earth.

{Disciple of Karma} :: Every action will have a reaction, every deed will have its consequences, every being will be surrounded by Karma. This technique allows the user to embark on a loosely understood law as they read and try to interfere with the workings of Karma while cultivating Karma Lines.

{Disciple of Air}...{Disciple of Light}...

All of the Inheritances that Noah could get his hands on...he did!

Once this was completed, he sat down at the center of the mystical clearing as he closed his eyes, all these new techniques he had obtained being reflected in the eyes of his clones currently residing in the Time Space of the Infinite Realm as he began cultivating numerous Laws at once.

Yes, simultaneously and without reservations!

RUMBLE!

Space quaked in the surroundings of the Time Space and the mystical area deep inside the golden barrier that Noah was in, the convergence of numerous elemental particles beginning to head towards him as he once more performed something that would shatter the common sense of others without so much as blinking an eye.

One could observe a hint of light green elements that repressed Earth swirling around Noah's body, the formation of an Earth Origin Core beginning seamlessly beside the Fire Origin Core and Water Origin Core.

At the same time, an Air Origin Core from the Disciple of Air appeared as Noah felt his central Core shaking!

RUMBLE!

The four commonly known and cultivated laws of Air, Earth, Water, and Fire were being comprehended simultaneously as they caused for a splendorous reaction that very few geniuses would be able to achieve!

Even if they could achieve it, it would only be brief and not as long as Noah was about to as he had the mana to keep on going for as long as wished.

Within his Origin, the slowly rotating Fire and Water Origin Cores seemed to have been lit by spark, soaring to life as they began to spin rapidly!

The newly appearing Earth and Air Origin Cores rapidly finished forming as they acted the same way, an outrageously beautiful congregation of blue, red, green, and white colors of elements beginning to form outside of Noah's body as he began a cultivation session of multiple laws!

As if these laws were not enough, mysterious particles of essence that represented Space, Time, Aether, Karma...all of them seamlessly rushed towards him as he fearlessly took all of them in, his eyes only opening to see his Stat Panel that was rapidly changing.

Aside from the four Cores of Fire, Water, Earth, and Fire, even more brilliant cores of Light and Dark had also appeared as milky waves of white and black freely ran rampant around Noah!

Not too far away from him, the figure of the 1st Infernal Lord still had another entity residing within, the blank white eyes looking towards Noah seeming to have a multitude of thoughts as they turned to look above.

These blank eyes pierced through the layers of the Central Realm and even the boundary of the Novus Galaxy, going on to observe the dangerous and chaotic void outside of it as they waited expectantly!

In the vastness of space, a great number of unknowns were constantly in motion.

The Universe was wide and vast, with many beings finding it hard to grasp the sheer size when discussing it, that the understood concepts of miles or kilometers had to be thrown away!

At this juncture, one had to look at a distance in terms of light-years!

For the knowledge creatures, there was an understanding that a single light-year was equivalent to 6 trillion miles, a distance that the majority of beings would never even dream of traversing throughout their lives.

Yet in this vast Universe, at a distance of an unknown number of light-years, a Signal was traveling along the waves of universal laws!

The unique thing about this signal was that it never traveled in one direction, the chaotic and deadly nature of the Void outside of galaxies throwing it around millions of miles of random distance every second.

The signal had been strong but was gradually growing more and more feeble over time as one could be led to believe that it could disappear completely any second. It was blinking on and off as it traversed the Chaotic Void where only Grand Controllers could travel across, occasionally passing powerful entities by a hair's breadth as it continued forward.

It traversed through the void directionless and soon enough, it came to stop at a certain point and disappeared completely!

It wasn't that the signal had grown weak and been snuffed out, it was that this signal had stumbled into an extremely large presence in the chaotic Void as it was sucked in right away.

This presence could be considered extremely large as it represented a Galaxy that had lived for who knew how many eons, a Galaxy whose very presence shook the surroundings of the Chaotic Void!

Inside this vast Galaxy, the sucked-in Signal was attracted towards a single location that was actually an extremely prominent feature.

This feature was enormous in size, actually being a shimmering portal that was hundreds of miles long as it shone with a rainbow-colored luster that would enamor the eyes of all that saw it!

The Signal sunk into this portal as a small vibration could be felt, this vibration being picked up by numerous beings not too far from this enormous portal, beings that had the title of Watchers!

"Hmm?"

One of these Watchers closed their eyes as they read the essence of the vibrations and the signal it received, a smile blooming on their face as they spoke with utter calmness.

"We might have just discerned something new...though it is an extremely weak signal..."

RUMBLE!

Waves of fate distinctly rolled around the area surrounding this enormous rainbow-colored portal, a portal that was actually known by a different name among the locals of this Galaxy.

The area where the signal of the Novus Galaxy had reached was actually the location where a Universal Rift existed, a Universal Rift that was extremely rare to find or come across in the expansive Universe!

The Signal reached this Universal Rift as it signaled the beginning of something spectacular, of a Grand future that very few could never have even imagined!

Chapter 599 - A New Era

Among the knowledgeable forces of the Dark Expanse, shocking news had begun to spread that caused all those that heard it to stop in disbelief!

This news had passed from Noah to his forces and Old Man Inuit before he delved into a resplendent session of universal law cultivation as he really did not pay full attention to what the news represented.

When Old Man Inuit heard it, he tilted his head as he looked towards the solemn-looking Fritz absentmindedly, uttering the message he just received from Noah thereafter as the two brothers looked towards one another in shock!

"What do you mean it's all done? Aldrich is nearing complete completion of a universal law..."

"He's dead."

RUMBLE!

This shocking and unbelievable knowledge about the being that was considered a top tier expert in the Novus Galaxy, a being that had been able to interfere with more than half of the galaxy with his own ideal was hard to swallow by many!

It caused Old Man Inuit and Fritz to feel a grand weight lifted off their shoulders, and it caused Edrusim and the other forces in the Dark Expanse to breathe as they also accepted it incredulously.

Many commanders had thought the news was a ploy to let them lower their defenses, but as the source was a being like Old Man Inuit that they knew from the War of The Righteous, they accepted it with immense joy and celebrations began for the first time in many years throughout the Dark Expanse!

Can you imagine the feeling of being placed in a constant state of war where you feared for your life, only to be told that it was all over? All the fear that many people had begun to evaporate rapidly as they absorbed the news, with some forces taking this news in very differently.

In the Infinite Realm, Elena was floating in the skies of the lands that used to be the Ancient Blood World, Vladivostok floating beside her as they looked down towards masses of Vampyres below them. The gaze of Elena was chilly even amidst this victory as her voice rang out.

"The Progenitor avenged all our dead brethren from the War of the Righteous and the Last War, and you fools were stupid enough to begin celebrating!"

RUMBLE!

"What were you all doing as the Progenitor faced a powerful enemy by himself and saved us all? You were doing nothing!"

Elena was reproachful as she stared at the powerful forces of Vampyre Lord and lesser Vampyres around her, her status of being closer to the Progenitor than most earning her a high seat among the race of Vampyres as she actually floated above them commandingly.

"Do you know how many races there are in this Infinite Realm? Do you know just how grand and majestic the might of the Progenitor is going to continue expanding? As those directly sharing his blood, we cannot be falling behind in strength in this realm, and must live to be worthy of even uttering the name of the Progenitor, of the Overseer!"

OOOOH!

The Vampyres could feel their blood pumping as they heard this, Elena's curvaceous body shining brilliantly in the skies as she pushed for the continued growth of her race- something that many beings were doing in the Infinite Realm as it wasn't just the forces of Vampyres doing this!

In the land that used to be Noah's home world, Steel Mikhail and Kazuhiko were addressing the forces of the past Blessed Empire and the United Federation with solemnity in this time of great joy.

"The Overseer came from our past world, and yet our forces are actually the weakest among the many in the Infinite Realm. Are you all content with that?!"

RUMBLE!

"NO!"

"Continue working hard to raise your strength! You have all the resources you can want, all the ideal environments in this wondrous Realm. Choose a path and stick to it as we elevate our power to not let down the Overseer!"

OOOOH!

In another location, The Inquisitor Athena had boarded the enormous Realm Dreadnaught with the Emperor Penguin and a few other Harbingers, these figures already setting off towards the destabilized Light Expanse where the gap left behind by the Celestials was causing chaos.

The Inquisitor was leading forces for the first time as she sought to re-establish order in the Light Expanse, the Emperor Penguin coming along as he felt stifled for not being of any use when battling a huge guy like Aldrich.

All around the Infinite Realm as the news spread that the powerful force of Celestials were dismantled, many beings overcame the initial joy as they made vows to get even stronger and began moving to stabilize the chaotic environment left behind by the Celestials.

None of them knew at this moment that an unknown threat was approaching, a threat that their own Galaxy called towards them as motions were in play for a shocking future!

In the depth of the Central Realm past the golden barrier, Noah's body rose as he shone with ridiculously colorful lights, his mouth breathing out as a multicolored rainbow essence flowed out with his breath- the cultivation session he had undergone being ridiculously multiplicative to his power! He could feel an overabundance of numerous essences of universal laws vibrating stably within his body, knowing his path as a Controller would be a much different one than many beings.

He was comprehending a number of laws that no beings would dare to comprehend, and he was even speeding through them at a rate that they could not even begin to imagine!

"Setting off?"

His thoughts were brought to a close as the voice of the 1st Infernal Lord rang out beside him. Her cheerful expression had returned as her eyes were back to shimmering blue, Noah nodding towards her as he glanced at the surrounding area and the even deeper area of this inner portion of the Central Realm that he had yet to explore.

Aside from the Inheritance Crystals that taught how to advance in laws, there were still abundant treasures in this area like the Luminescent Rainbow Dew and even more potent treasures that he wanted to give out to his forces to raise their strength.

During all of this, he was also about to move as continued towards the completion of a single Trait by continuing to fuse more worlds into his Realm...he went towards the completion of the Unranked Trait that would be the cause of much change in the coming years, the completion of the Trait of Infinite Mana!

Chapter 600 - Realm Expansion!

Hello.

It is your trusted Shadow Guard Night once more.

This is the 36th Journal Entry in the new Volume I've started since the day the Infinite Realm was established.

It has been an extremely busy period of time, with many beings moving around this wondrous Realm as they mostly harvested its abundant resources that did not seem to be ending.

Delegations were sent from numerous Lands that used to be Worlds, beings of different Races meeting as they began to work together towards a common goal. I was always present and protecting Queen Adelaide during these meetings, her delight as she handled any matters that would be helpful to the Esteemed Person being extremely visible every time.

During this busy time period, the Esteemed Person abruptly passed down the word that the biggest enemy was defeated. Just like that.

He didn't need an army with him or millions in order to come out victorious in such an ordeal, and this knowledge caused many of us within this Realm to feel a burning desire to get stronger- just so that this Esteemed Person would not leave us all behind!

We wanted to participate in the battles, you know? Be of some help as we received so many benefits that we never thought possible, you know?

Yet not too long thereafter, on what should have been a period of relaxation and resting...a change began to occur.

RUMBLE!

Ahh, it's actually just happened once more as I am writing this. Over the past few days, a tremor would pass throughout the Infinite Realm every now and then. Sometimes it came in a few minute intervals, sometimes just a few every hour. We didn't know what these tremors represented at first, but every time a tremor finished the extremely perceptive beings could notice that the atmospheric essence had risen once again.

This was an easy thing if you had been following the Esteemed Person for a while and was there was the Worlds ascended to higher ranks before ultimately forming into a Realm, and I noticed it right away as a shocking truth was confirmed right after as the changes became more noticeable and word passed down from the culprit in question!

It seemed that every time this tremor occurred, it signified that yet another World was joining the expansive Infinite Realm, that another few billion creatures had joined us once again!

It was such a shocking thing as we expected the Esteemed Person to rest for even a little, but it seemed like he could not sit still as every few minutes, another World was fused into this grand Realm filled with wonders.

RUMBLE!

Multiple worlds have already been fused as I am writing this Journal Entry, the task we have at hand to continue reaching out to the newly joining worlds and establish communications and governance only continuing to increase as many beings would have to be mobilized.

But this entire unbelievable and shocking issue of the Esteemed Person actively moving as he combined numerous worlds into this Realm made many of us who could think realize that something big was coming.

He would not be moving like this unless another enemy we do not even know about had risen, or maybe the Esteemed Person just enjoyed achieving ridiculously higher realms of power that he didn't wish to stop.

But either way, I was already preparing my mind to withstand any shock that the Esteemed Person wanted to send towards us next. Me being even surprised at the fact that a new world was being fused into this realm every few minutes was a loss on my mission, but I am now vowing with all my strength to never be shocked at the things this being did in the future.

I would wholly expect unbelievable and shocking things to continue to occur, and I will succeed in never having my jaw drop at the next unbelievable event.

Until then, there is an entire Realm to explore and numerous races to meet. I'll update next time on the progress of my mission, whenever the time comes that the Esteemed Person chooses to break all common sense again.

RUMBLE!

Yet another world seamlessly fused into the Infinite Realm as Noah used the feature of {World Integration}. He had stopped counting the hundreds of billions after a certain point as many beings found their worlds suddenly changed, his focus working overtime in the Infinite Realm as they stabilized any newly appearing fused lands and spoke to their people.

The billions of Vampyres that were spread out all over the Dark Expanse were those at the forefront of wanting to take on this task, trying to be of some help to their Progenitor as they moved diligently to make sure everything continued smoothly!

But just like this, Noah was able to seamlessly integrate many worlds as he first teleported across the Dark Expanse where he only had to let beings like the Grand Mage Edrusim know what he was doing as they only nodded in a stupor, already sending him messages of when their own Worlds being integrated into this wondrous Realm that only a few higher of ups of the Dark Expanse knew about.

They were at the forefront of it as Old Man Inuit had told them the being who had so easily taken care of Aldrich and the billions of Celestials that nobody could find at this moment was the 9th Infernal Lord, a being that was moving for the peace of the Novus Galaxy!

All those with the tiniest bit of intelligence wanted to attach themselves to this being as Noah was able to bring in multiple powerful Prime Worlds in this manner.

Days passed like this as his main body integrated new worlds while his two clones continued cultivating multiple universal laws at once, the areas where these two clones stood turning into shockingly overabundant fields of essence as the mana of numerous laws freely swirled around.

RUMBLE!

His origin shook at this moment as he detected yet another change, reaching another stupidly grand milestone in a short span of time as one of his clones briefly opened his eyes to observe the changes in the stat panel.

[Noah Osmont][Title(s): Infernal Lord(Variant), Grand Controller(Fate)]

[Bloodline(s): Vampyre Progenitor]

[Aether Particles(s) : 5,526,932]

[Authority(s) : Aether Lord, Fate Lord, Chaos Lord, Flame Lord, Water Lord]

Beautiful numbers that were enough to make a grown man cry were displayed in front of him, the shocking speed of progress he had made in just a matter of days being visualized for the first time!

Multiple laws now littered his stat panel as he managed to break the 50% mark in the Law of Chaos, gaining yet another Authority aside from Aether that was just handed to him. Even more shocking was the rate of progress for the four laws that had amazing synergy- it was Fire, Water, Earth, and Air!

The synergy of cultivating these four laws at the same time allowed for him to simply speed run their advancements, the four Origin Cores of these laws spinning at such a rapid rate as they devoured all the essence they came across.

Yet as Noah stared at the new information on the laws of Karma, Aether, Light, Dark, Space, and Time...he couldn't help but bring a smile to his face while thinking of the future!

The Novus Galaxy had a grand plan aside from Noah completing his Infinite Mana trait, and it was a plan that Aldrich had helped to initiate as he sent out a signal to the chaotic Universe! Whatever this signal would bring to them...Noah had to be ready for it as it would determine the success or failure of the plan that his own Galaxy had concocted, and whether it faced another cycle of destruction and rebirth because of it!

It was a shocking and cruel plan when considering the lives of the creatures within this wide Novus Galaxy...yet Noah could not help but think back to the grand goal that the entity overseeing the Novus Galaxy had discussed with him back then, his face becoming firm as he chose to continue advancing his strength and make sure nothing went wrong.
