Chapter 601 - A Party Sets Off

A brilliance that was reminiscent of gorgeous stars was continuously shining from an enormous Rift that stood at a central position of a Galaxy. This Rift towered over 100 miles in size, being something so ridiculously large that it could be seen from great distances away.

This rift was commonly known as the Universal Rift, a unique tool that the inhabitants of the Galaxy that just recently received a weak signal utilized!

Monitoring the signals coming through this rift was the job of the Watchers, a powerful group of beings chosen to tirelessly release their auras as they learned to communicate with this radiant Rift that allowed for them to reach the point they were at today.

The uses of the Universal Rift were many, and it made it possible for this Galaxy to stand strong over an unknown number of years as its inhabitants used this Universal Rift to explore the Chaotic Void of their Universe.

The first beings to utilize and test this Universal Rift realized that it had the capabilities to smoothly allow for the exploration of their Universe by allowing whoever stepped into it a smooth passage across the Chaotic Void!

A unique energy would surround the beings that passed through it, making them appear outside of the Galaxy as this unique essence given by the Universal Rift would surround them for an entire month before it disappeared.

This meant that one did not have to be a Grand Controller to be able to leave their Galaxy, where anyone bold enough to explore could do so!

Over the numerous years, the inhabitants of this Galaxy had done just that. Numerous explorations occurred as they rose to new heights and gained strength of colossal proportions, multiple Controllers and other powerful beings rising over the years.

More often than not, Grand Controllers were favored as they could traverse the Chaotic Void with ease, each party that was setting off for an exploration almost always leaving with one or two beings at the level of a Grand Controller.

But in this Galaxy, Controllers were not even the beings that were at the peak of power! Given the title of Law Masters, Controllers were actually just a powerful force that resided in this Galaxy and focused on the comprehension of Universal Laws. There was an even more terrifying force that was led by powerful beings that were directly chosen by this Galaxy and granted fearsome power to wield.

These were the beings that were granted Traits, beings that were known as Blessed!

The Blessed were powerful beings either born with a Trait or awaking to it in their prime, beings such as them becoming more and more prominent over the years as their Galaxy garnered more and more strength from their explorations.

It was like a feedback loop of elevating to higher levels of strength, where the inhabitants of the Galaxy went out to explore the unknown Universe and brought back spectacular treasures which enhanced the power of their Galaxy, this unique realm that had a Universal Rift within it continuing to rise over the eons as it now stood at an unshakable level of strength!

On this day though, another Exploration was about to occur as an advanced party was being sent to check out a weak Signal that Watchers had noticed being attracted to the Universal Rift. It was a Signal that was weaker than all the others they had come across, so the higher ups had simply given the task of checking out exactly what this signal was first.

Sometimes it was the signal of a Galaxy filled with treasures and wonders, other times it was a signal released by powerful entities seeking to devour unsuspecting beings for fun, or it could be an unknown treasure simply floating around the Chaotic Void of this vast Universe!

The Signal that was received recently would be checked out by a powerful group of Law Masters and Blessed, which consisted of multiple Controllers and beings with powerful Traits. Even though it was simply a scouting mission, all precautions were taken as the beings about to pass through this Universal Rift knew of dangers they could come across the Chaotic Void.

Near the Universal Rift, multiple beings adorned in regal attire walked across the golden floors below as they entered into an expansive chariot, this chariot having a shimmering starry blue barrier covering it as the animals that would be pulling it were fearsome creatures letting off an aura similar to that of a normal Controller.

This was known as an Imperial Vessel that was pulled by creatures commonly seen outside of Galaxies, creatures known as Void Beasts that could traverse through the Chaotic Void with ease!

These Void Beasts had wide dark wings swirling with runic circles as their bodies could very similarly be compared to a Gryphon, but their eyes oozed the power of Space and Chaos as they looked forward coldly, the reigns attaching them to the grand chariot making them shockingly seem like docile creatures.

Multiple figures entered this Imperial Vessel as a single stone-faced man sat at the forefront of this spectacular chariot, holding the reins as his essence of a Grand Controller fully tamed the Void Beasts that began releasing a powerful essence of Space and Chaos which caused the chariot to take to the skies.

RUMBLE!

The many Watchers and beings carefully observing and noting the changes of the Universal Rift gave their permission as the chariot pulled by Void Beasts flew forward, going into the Rift as they soundlessly disappeared!

On this day, a shimmering blue chariot pulled by Void Beasts entered a Universal Rift as they went on to search for a signal. Within this chariot known as an Imperial Vessel, three Law Masters and three Blessed took this exploration mission that would bring about unintended consequences.

This marked the first time that the Galaxy known as the Nexus Galaxy, a terrifyingly powerful realm that had survived eons and collected powerful beings of stupendous strength- it marked the first time that the forces of the Nexus Galaxy set off as they would come in contact with a being that would soon bring to fruition a spectacular Trait!

Chapter 602 - Into the Nebula Realm!

On another side of the Chaotic Void, a singular being in the Novus Galaxy continued to advance forward as multiple milestones were achieved.

The first milestone was the continued upgrade of his subordinates, the Harbingers of Sin and other powerful beings overseeing the Novus Galaxy actually being granted entrance past the golden barrier of the Central Realm!

Using the ability of Pocket Realm, Noah used it as a simple transfer portal as his subordinates came into the depths of the Central Realm with ease, their minds being shaken once more as they sensed an abundant atmospheric essence that was even greater than the Infinite Realm that was still expanding even now.

Noah had brought his subordinates over to the mystical clearing that had numerous Inheritance Crystals which contained the techniques of comprehending universal laws, and he gave them the option of choosing what law they wanted to follow!

Unlike him, none of them could afford to focus their attention on multiple laws, with his subordinates choosing the law that fit them best as they also embarked on their path to become future Controllers.

Kazuhiko's eyes shone when he glanced towards the Crystal containing the techniques of the Law of Chaos, looking at the dark glint as he rushed towards it right away. To him, he would finally be achieving his dream of releasing dark rays of chaotic light from his blade once he became proficient in the law of chaos!

Athena had only come into the Central Realm briefly as she sought to learn more of the truth of this realm that many Celestials fought for, being one of the last few remaining Celestials who had even been able to enter past the golden barrier. She remained on the path of the Law of Fate as her resolve became even stronger when looking at the level of strength her Junior Brother displayed, knowing that she had to work that much harder.

Others like the Kraken were humble as they remained comprehending the normal laws of Fire, Air, Earth, and Water. One particular Emperor Penguin was even bolder and more arrogant than the rest as he chose to study both the law of Time and Space, making it his goal to increase his spatial abilities and combining it with time to be even more deadly!

"RAA! RAA!"

Excitement was abound in the hearts of Noah's subordinates as they learned these techniques as well as the treasures of the Central Realm. Things like Luminescent Rainbow Dews that could upgrade one into the World Rank were free and many, with other treasures of similar potency or even stronger being able to be found in these deep areas of the realm.

Their goals of rapidly increasing in strength to catch up to Noah seemed to be possible at this moment as the next few days were spent with them making rapid progress!

The second milestone was the bringing another Skill Tree into the Star Forging Realm, Noah getting ready for whatever was coming as best as he could, and he chose the goal of bringing at least one more skill tree into the Nebula Realm before whoever received the released Signal came.

The skill trees he chose for this task were the Fate's Guardian skill trees! He chose Fate's Guardian naturally because the law of Fate was currently one of the only laws he had at 100%, and the skill tree would benefit greatly from its backing.

Over the past few days, the product of this skill tree at the Star Forging Realm had been produced as it added even more to his abilities, their skills seeming subpar at this point compared to Terror of Cthulhu skill tree currently at the Nebula Realm.

He gained another pair of skills that passively increased his comprehension of the law of Fate, as well as a skill termed Celestial King that was very similar to what Aldrich had used in the past battle!

But this skill tree was just one of the major things in Noah's mind, because he was currently focused on absorbing the Nebula Realm cores that he had obtained from the defeat of Aldrich.

He had chosen not to convert the Origin of Aldrich into skill points in order to obtain these cores, as the strength and resiliency of his level would matter just as much as the perks being given by becoming a Controller as he advanced to further stages!

From the stage of a Star Forger, one would have to destroy their very Origin that was in the shape of a star as they later used the shattered dust of this star to try and form a Nebula, an Origin that was so strong that it would contain multiple miniature small stars.

As Noah absorbed more and more Nebula Realm Cores, his Origin had continued vibrating at a high speed as it even caused the artificially formed Origin Cores of laws to bounce in excitement.

Within Noah's body, there existed not just his main Origin Core, but also the Fire, Water, Air, Earth, Light, and Dark Origin Cores!

He was shockingly walking around with multiple cores within his body, and his main one was about to dissolve into dust as it served as a base to build even more miniature stars in the future!

RUMBLE!

His main body was situated in a beautiful scenery of green as enormously tall ancient trees surrounded him, his position currently being in the depths of the Central Realm past the golden barrier as an overabundance of essence surrounded him.

Much of this essence was currently swirling towards him rapidly as he had already started the process of entering into the realm of a Nebula!

His Origin had been vibrating at a high frequency as a pained expression continued to deepen on his face, the process of essentially shattering one's own core before reforming into something grander being extremely dangerous.

CRACK! CRACK!

Lines of cracks spread throughout the Origin Core as Noah felt the other origins representing multiple laws rotate even faster, bringing a sense of stability as in the next millisecond...his main Origin shattered!

RUMBLE!

It felt as his Origin had been completely ground into dust, leaving behind a cloudy mass that began to circulate rapidly. This cloudy mass was the initial formation of a Nebula, and it needed enormous reserves of essence as it was circulating faster and faster while trying to birth multiple stars within.

Yet it turned out that at this time, the nearest sources of essence was the unique energy that the Fire, Water, Earth, Air, Light, and Dark Origin Cores that had been even more actively rotating and releasing essence as this multicolored assortment of energies rushed forward to build the stars within this Nebula!

The unique essence of Universal Laws themselves! Going towards building a single being's Nebula!

Such a thing was unheard of, and it would be the beginning of a shocking set of events as far from the Novus Galaxy where Noah was trying to condense his first stars, an entity that was freely floating in the Chaotic Void of the expansive Universe multiple light-years away opened his eyes the moment that Noah began establishing a new Core that was being built with the essence of Universal Laws themselves.

RUMBLE!

"After countless eons..."

WAA!

The body of the entity took a seated position as this moment as a shocking event played out light years away!

Chapter 603 - Too Many Eons!

The Entity floating amidst the Chaotic Void that would shred the defenses of any being that did not have a unique treasure or the essence of a Grand Controller had gotten to a seated position, his stature simply too enormous to even comment on how large it was, there being no suitable point of comparison in the current space he presided!

"Truly too many eons for such a being to rise again...hmm"

The Entity waves his hands as in front of it, a page that shone with the most gorgeous color of gold appeared.

This page had an archaic language written on it, the Entity reading the words of the page with a somber expression!

"A being with an Origin molded from the Universal Laws themselves...a being with multiple unique powers that will cause even the most powerful Void Beasts to tremble...Ah, why isn't there more information!"

RUMBLE!

The Entity grumbled with unhappiness as he waved his hands and caused the golden page to disappear, his gaze glancing around the chaotic void as he opened his mouth and began sucking in the surrounding void as if it was malleable, the Chaotic Void that could rip many beings apart actually being devoured by him rapidly as he patted his stomach thereafter and released a burp!

"Alright, guess I will continue searching for the remaining pages of this trash Book of Ruination. Such a pain..."

His body began moving through the Chaotic Void once more as this Entity continued forward while releasing shocking words.

"Too many eons have passed...too many..."

RUMBLE!

"If I just had more pages...maybe I would be able to locate you...Bah!"

OOOM!

This entity shockingly had the page of a treasure called the Book of Ruination, a treasure so extremely high that it should not even be talked about at this stage of the story!

This creature had been able to sense a change because it held a page from this book, noticing the advent of a being that had a core molded by the essence of the Universal Laws themselves!

Unbeknownst to many, this being moved!

Back in the Central Realm, a wondrous scene was occurring as amidst a forming nebula, the colors of red, blue, grey, green, white, and darkness that represented the numerous Law Origin Cores within Noah's body were freely flowing into the establishing nebula, the stars sprouting up having a spectacular array of colors as they shone with magnificence!

Within the spinning Nebula, colorful round stars had begun forming as one could count their numbers in tens!

This was an extremely shocking thing as those familiar with the process of stepping from the Star Forging Realm and into the Nebula Realm would know that normally, one would form a few stars within their new Nebula, with the norm being around 3 stars or geniuses forming close to 10 the moment they established their Nebula.

Yet Noah...! Noah had tens of stars forming within his Nebula during his first time condensing it, the starry nebula rotating heavily as if it was carrying enormous weight, the essence of numerous Universal Laws surging into it endlessly!

RUMBLE!

All the surrounding essence particles were also being sucked in rapidly as the many ancient trees around Noah lost their l.u.s.ter, even their essence being devoured as his Nebula took every source of essence that it could find.

BZZZ!

Its heavy rotations slowly got faster as this Nebula spun while absorbing even more energy, numerous small stars shimmering with color being seen within as a resplendent ray of multicolored light shot forth from Noah at this moment and pierced the skies of the Central Realm!

WAAA!

It was a magisterial sight of wonder that attracted the attention of the nearby Protectors and Infernals as they looked towards this sight with confounded shock.

Noah opened his eyes at this moment as he felt the rotating Nebula that drew in a ridiculous amount of energy at every rotation- energy from the Law Origin Cores, energy from his own body, and even atmospheric energy, all he could say as he felt this rotation was a feeling of unbound and wild strength!

This Nebula had a myriad of colors as it looked extremely beautiful, where one could actually get lost in it if they observed it long enough. The feeling of strength that this Nebula brought to him...was simply too much.

He felt like he could step out into the starry space as he threw out a fist towards a world...and this world would shatter!

He felt as if he could throw a punch in the skies and it would crack!

It was such a joyful feeling of strength as each of the cells within his body felt drunk by the unique essence floating through them, the 6 Origin Cores of Fire, Water, Earth, Air, Light, and Dark rotating even faster than when he was actively cultivating using their techniques...as if they were receiving an enormous pull from the Nebula they surrounded.

It was a shocking and much-welcomed development where even Noah did not understand the complete meaning of it!

[It seems a change has occurred with your very Origin, the essence of the Universal Laws becoming more closely entwined than they should be...]

He heard the voice of his own Realm System as he tried to sense the enormous changes within himself as well as his strength, but even he could not fully fathom it.

He released a breath as even his breath unconsciously released a colorful burst of mana, as if he was simply too full at this moment in time!

"How different is it from the breakthroughs of other Nebula Rank beings you've observed?"

Noah voiced out a question not towards his own Realm System, but towards the entity known as the Novus Galaxy as he received a reply soon after, the pain from hearing this voice being much dimmer after all this time.

[Completely different from what I have observed before. There should be a special property with your Nebula as it looks to be made of the unique essence of universal laws. I will see if it is possible to decipher it.]

RUMBLE!

Essence freely flowed from Noah in droves as he nodded, moving his body as explored this ridiculous feeling of strength while moving on to his next goal.

Shockingly, more than 50 Stars had formed within his Nebula at the time that he established it.

Fifty. F.u.c.k.i.n.g. Stars.

If the knowledgeable creatures of this expansive Universe heard this, they would tumble from their seats as they lost all hope in the meaning of what genius was!

Chapter 604 - The Requirements are Met!

As his main body ascended to new heights of power and ridiculous new possibilities he did not even fully know about yet, one of his clones was currently exploring the Letalis Expanse.

This was the same Letalis Expanse that was mysterious to him before as he moved while observing the positions of the Ancient Terror and the Terror of the Void that had gone back to their posts as commanded the day that Aldrich was defeated.

He could also sense the wild power of the Terror of Aether that had sulkingly returned back to its post after whatever the Novus Galaxy told it, but Noah could still feel boundless anger from the heart of the Cthulhu as it still was not convinced of why they invited doom over to themselves!

Even now as Noah thought about what the Novus Galaxy had told him, he had slight apprehension as it involved the lives of simply too many, but his apprehension was overshadowed by the possibilities that the Novus Galaxy spoke about as he resolved himself and continued forward.

He had been going around the Letalis Expanse the past few days as he connected more and more worlds from this Expanse while exploring the race of Ancients that he did not get the chance to interact with before.

Many of these Ancients actually stemmed from the Ancient Terror that stood at the level of a Controller, one of the three Terrors currently residing and watching the boundaries of the Novus Galaxy that were thinnest in this Expanse.

When one looked at a Galaxy, they could not just look at it as a circle with many things contained inside of it, but something that existed within its own space as it only had one side that could be seen as a door.

Using this analogy, the entirety of the Letalis Expanse could be considered as a door, the area that if one wanted to enter the Galaxy, it would have to be through here!

This was why the Three Terrors at the level of Controllers were stationed to monitor the boundary around the Letalis Expanse for the past thousands of years, and still the reason why they were there until now.

The rest of the Letalis Expanse had vibrant Prime Worlds that held the unique race of Ancients, with Noah coming across beings nearly the same as the ones he came across before when he used [Summon the Ancients] from the Blood Lord skill tree!

The Ancients living in the Letalis Expanse were very closely tied with the Terrors, their race being similar to the Infernals that had recently returned into the Central Realm as they also had the task to act as protectors.

The Vampire Progenitor had originated from them, and this was why Noah believed that the [Blood Lord] skill tree that came with the bloodline of the Vampire Progenitor would lead to the abilities of the Ancient Terror when he made it into the Nebula Rank, very similar to how [Amorphous Space Beast] led to the abilities of the Terror of Aether!

Thus, he continued traversing the Letalis Expanse as he connected more of its worlds, the passing days allowing for the count of the Worlds integrating into the Infinite Realm to increase more and more rapidly.

RUMBLE!

At this moment, he had just finished the integration of another world when he felt a rumbling within his own Origin, his connection to the Infinite Realm communicating something to him as he stopped to pay attention.

[The time is nearing.]

OOOOM

His main body in the Central Realm heard the voice of the Novus Galaxy as he was still studying his newly built Nebula, the last World Integrated into the Infinite Realm causing some type of reaction as Noah could sense the entire Realm was overflowing with essence.

With the addition of this world, the goal of completing the Trait of Infinite Mana was actually nearing!

"You mentioned that you would know when the conditions are met?"

[Yes, the base requirement was for your Origin and Soul to be strong enough to withstand the last step, as well as your Realm being expanded into at least a Large Realm.]

The conditions were for him to achieve the Nebula Rank, which granted him a ridiculously strong Origin that was even more stupendous than even the Novus Galaxy expected with the unique formation where the essence of Universal Laws was now flowing within it, as well as his Realm being expanded multiple times as hundreds of Worlds were now integrated with it!

[All the hard parts are finished, and your Origin should be strong enough at this point to withstand the last step- which is establishing a connection...with the Novus Galaxy itself.]

RUMBLE!

To bring to fruition the Trait of Infinite Mana, he didn't need to spend months and years connecting and integrating every single World in the Novus Galaxy into his Realm, all he had to do was grow strong enough where he could withstand a connection with an entity at a much higher stage than him, and he would effectively share a connection with everything it was connected to!

[This will only be possible using your Infinite Realm as the intermediary for the connection, with it really being a three-way connection where I shall be connected to your Realm, and you are connected to it.]

Yes! Even though Noah had stepped into the Nebula Realm, the task of successfully forming a connection with an entire Galaxy was much too grand to even be thought about! But they could use other means to force a connection, and therein lay the use of the Infinite Realm!

"Good. Let us get started."

Noah's eyes shone with l.u.s.ter as he floated to the skies and went even deeper into the depths of the central realm. His face was calm as his heart beat soundly, not an ounce of nervousness appearing on his expression as he exuded strength and confidence.

This was the same being that was only a Rank F hunter a few months ago!

This was the same man that had been fighting with goblins in [Goblin King's Abode], the same man that was tussling with lowly Demon Lords in the Frozen Lands of the Beast World!

Yet now, he stood at the precipice of something grand as he set out to do something that others could not even imagine!

Chapter 605 - Trait: Infinite Mana I

The wings of change were rapidly blowing as many beings were taken into a grand new era.

The dynamics of the Light and Dark Expanse had changed greatly just over the span of the last few days, the name of the Overseer known as Noah Osmont beginning to spread around the two Expanses as he went around integrating worlds into his Realm.

Many beings came to know that a wondrous Realm called the Infinite Realm existed, and that this being that had quite literally wiped Celestials off the face of the Galaxy was the one controlling this Realm!

In just a matter of days as many worlds were integrated from the Expanses, the dynamics of power shifted greatly as many realized the strength they carried could not even be held in comparison.

Yet even before the beings could absorb this change as they learned to adapt to this starting of a new Era, Noah was changing things once again as his main body appeared in front of a huge blue door!

This door was near the position where his home world used to be, and it was also the door that led into the Infinite Realm.

Noah's hands rested upon this shimmering blue door as he utilized a feature of the Infinite Realm that would make possible what he wanted to do!

[Realm Gateway] :: A shimmering blue archaic door of light is all that remains of the Infinite Realm to the outside universe as it exists in its own spatial space. This Gateway can be shifted under the will of the Infinite Realm Master, as well as set restrictions for the beings allowed in or out.

RUMBLE!

His mana rushed into it as the gateway shone with l.u.s.ter, disappearing along with him as he transported it towards the Central Realm.

This blue door was the only official entrance of the Infinite Realm that was located in its own spatial space, and this space could be easily accessed by the Novus Galaxy when Noah brought its gateway into another Realm!

He reappeared at the depth of the area past the golden barrier as he moved forward, creating for a spectacular scene as the Protectors and Infernals all around the area turned their heads upwards to observe a shocking scene.

They observed a single being with his hand placed on an archaic blue door, and this being was flying through the skies as he dragged this archaic blue door with him!

It was a majestic sight to come across as Noah continued going deeper into the Central Realm, his surroundings gradually changing as more and more vegetation came to be, even the numbers of Protectors reducing as it was becoming quieter and quieter.

He continued forward while dragging the archaic blue door behind him, following the guidance of the Novus Galaxy as he came upon a small grove of thick ancient trees in a circular formation.

The Ancient Trees seemed to be surrounding something, their leaves wriggling and shifting as Noah neared and created an opening.

Noah patted the door that he was dragging as it became smaller in size, entering through the area where the ancient trees created an entrance as he appeared in what could be considered an entirely different space.

His eyes shone as within the encirclement of the ancient grove of trees where no outside light could penetrate, it shimmered brightly as colorful particles of elements were abundantly floating around. Essence of all colors freely overflowed in a gorgeous array of green, red, blue, white, and gold as they danced around a single black core!

This core was unlike anything that Noah had come across before, observing it being completely still as it made no movements at all since he appeared! It had a glossy obsidian black color that actually reflected Noah's own devilishly handsome face, showing his figure and the outline of the shimmering archaic blue door he dragged with him.

Shockingly, as he came across what should be the core of an entire galaxy, there weren't some brilliantly rotating miles long core that was at the deepest depths of a hard to get location- it was simply an obsidian core staying entirely still in the middle of an ancient grove of trees!

The only thing different was the fact that there was an extremely dense amount of universal law essences in this area, where Noah could feel all the particles of different laws visibly move even in liquid form the nearer they were to the obsidian dark core.

[At the end of it all, everything returns to simplicity. Galaxies have a tremendous amount of power, but they also have grand restrictions that make them extremely vulnerable.]

RUMBLE!

[If an enemy had somehow managed to break through the boundaries of the Letalis Expanse, and then the golden barrier was breached, and then all my Protectors failed to stop their advance...they would be able to pry open the trees around me and do as they wish.]

The words of the Novus Galaxy revealed more and more information as Noah let the blue archaic door representing the entrance of his realm float alongside the river of universal law essences around this mystical obsidian black core, his hands instinctively reaching towards it as it looked very enticing!

[Careful, even a small touch or mistake can cause the deaths of trillions. The cores of Galaxies are some of the most fragile things in existence, which is a ridiculous paradox when considering what they are able to do.]

His hands pulled back as he adopted a serious expression and contained his wonder inside of him.

"What do I need to do?"

[At this point, focus on your connection with the Infinite Realm. The singular connection that you share with it. During this whole process, you will need to focus on the stability of this connection the most as I open up a channel between myself and your Realm.]

RUMBLE!

[I will share a connection with your Realm and not you directly, but just this action will be enough to fully bring the Trait of Infinite Mana into a reality as I will have met all conditions to grant it at that stage.]

Yes! Traits had requirements that had to be fulfilled if they were crazy powerful, and the requirement of the ridiculous Trait of Infinite Mana was for one to really have a source where they could use as much mana as they wished without ever having to worry!

The Universe would be forced to acknowledge and grant this trait when a being who would actually share a connection with an entire galaxy appeared, as no matter what he did in his lifetime- he truly would never be able to run out of energy! Thus, Infinite Mana would be fully bright into fruition!

Chapter 606 - Trait: Infinite Mana II

In the ancient grove where the essence of universal laws was freely flowing around an obsidian core, Noah took a deep breath as he sat down while closing his eyes, his entire mind focusing on his Infinite Realm as he even utilized [Skill Creation] to make two new skills to support his thoughts and make sure that everything went smoothly.

After spending 30 Skill Points in total, the skills [Ultra Speed Computing] and [Parallel Thought Enhancement Support] came to be as his mind was further enhanced, grasping all the minute details that would have made any being's head hurt!

RUMBLE!

The moment that he was able to fully focus on the connection he shared with his Infinite Realm, a change finally occurred as the obsidian core that represented the core of an entire Galaxy shone with a distinct light, a black line released from it as it latched onto the archaic blue door that represented the entrance of this realm.

This black line briefly stopped on the surface of the blue door before it pierced through instantly, entering into a different spatial area as a shocking sight occurred in the Infinite Realm on this day.

Many beings within the realm were able to observe it with their eyes just briefly, and from the stories played out in the future, some said they saw a flash of a dark line that shot from the skies and pierced deep into the Infinite Realm!

This was actually what happened, this thin black line being the connection that the Novus Galaxy was forming as it found the core of Noah's Infinite Realm as it smashed into it with a purpose!

RUMBLE!

[Connection initiating.]

Noah heard the words of his System that had now begun resonating with the cold voice of the Novus Galaxy, the voices ringing out in conjunction within his mind as he focused all his mental faculties on keeping his connection with the Infinite Realm.

Within the Realm itself though, great changes were occurring as the back like that had appeared and disappeared briefly had begun causing great changes, the establishing of a connection between a Galaxy and a Realm creating for a wondrous exchange of essence as the atmospheric levels of mana in the Infinite Realm began rising crazily once again.

In the Infinite Realm, the Harbingers had exasperated expressions as they truly did not even know what was happening now!

So many shocking events after shocking events continued to occur that they thought they were ready for anything, but they were proven wrong at every turn.

At this moment, the inhabitants of the Infinite Realm felt strong waves of essence vibrating and permeating throughout as it went yet another grand change.

[No errors have occurred. Beginning Synchronization.]

RUMBLE!

In the ancient groove of the Central Realm where the obsidian core of the Novus Galaxy existed, Noah heard this voice again as his brow began sweating, feeling the connection he shared with his Realm rapidly expanding!

The line of connection that could be observed by him in a cylindrical manner was expanding more and more, ballooning to greater sizes as a connection was formed between his Infinite Realm and the Novus Galaxy.

RIIING!

The black light that represented the connection shooting forth from the Novus Galaxy seemed like a taut string that had found an anchor on both sides, vibrating rapidly as the atmospheric essence of the Infinite Realm began to rise ever so greater!

[Synchronization successful.]

RUMBLE!

When Noah thought the process would slow down or even pause briefly as he sensed the enormous cylindrical line within his mind that actually still continued to expand even after the connection between his Realm and the Novus Galaxy continued- the process sped up even faster as the Novus Galaxy initiated the culmination of the Trait right away, Noah unconsciously raising his head to the skies as he felt a burning sensation with his very Origin!

This sensation was actually a branding, a ritual where a certain trait was being attached to his very Origin and Soul, a process of a Trait being granted to him!

This would be the first Trait that the Novus Galaxy granted to any creature, and this entity had chosen to do this purposefully so because the being granted the first Trait was special- being granted their abilities in the most optimum and powerful form.

For the past thousands of years since its last cycles of destruction, not a single trait had been granted to any creatures in the Novus Galaxy as most only fumbled through the levels of power and dabbled into laws. Yet today, the first being to have a trait would be born in the Novus Galaxy as it gained its first Blessed!

[Trait culmination and harmony confirmed.]

RUMBLE!

Noah felt the branding on his soul heat up as he felt a sense of tremendous calm and accomplishment, feeling 'something' appearing within him that wasn't fully there before, this 'something' granting him an enormous sense of freedom and power!

[A New Trait has been born.]

OOOOM!

A magisterial sight played out around Noah at this moment as his body subconsciously lifted off the ground, the color blue dominantly spreading out from him as his body shone brightly!

CRACK!

As this mana was senselessly leaking from his body, the surrounding earth below him cracked at the pressure as the soil became ground to dust, an awe-inspiring presence shooting forth from him as crackles of blue energy coiled around his body.

This was mana! Pure and una.d.u.l.terated mana!

Mana that he could choose to do whatever he wanted with as at this point, no matter what realm of power he achieved- he would never ever have to worry about his reserves of energy!

It did not matter if he stayed at the Nebula Rank or somehow crossed ten ranks above it, for as long as he lived he would always have what his trait foretold- Infinite Mana!

RUMBLE!

His eyes opened at this moment as resplendent and gorgeous arcs of blue light permeated out from them, his form at this moment looking extremely ethereal as there was such an overabundance of mana that it was leaking from his eyes as they took on a form of shining blue lights with arcs of mana occasionally flashing out.

OOOOOOH!

He released a primal below that shook the skies and earth as he announced the arrival of something grand, the arrival of a Trait that would comfortably stand above many Traits in this unexplored universe.

He was announcing the arrival of Infinite Mana!

Chapter 607 - What are your traits?

As Noah completed a new trait in the Novus Galaxy, a grand chariot was being pulled across the chaotic void of the Universe by two fierce Void Beasts.

This chariot caused for a mystical sight to play out as these ferocious beasts seamlessly trudged along the chaotic void and carried along with them the inhabitants that were coming from the Nexus Galaxy.

The bodies of these Void Beasts released a mystical aura of chaos and space, this chaotic void actually making them feel as if they were home as they happily moved forward while directed by the essence of a Grand Controller!

Inside this carriage, two Law Masters aside from the Grand Controller and three Blessed were sitting in contemplation or talking with each other.

At this time, one of the Law Masters, a being that comprehended the law of fire in its entirety- glanced towards the three Blessed as an envious light flashed through his eyes. He couldn't help but ask out carefully as the colorful essence of fire danced around him.

"So...what are you guys' Traits?"

The question was a simple one, but it caused for a weird atmosphere to develop inside of the magnificent Imperial Vessel as it dealt with the unique powers of the beings they were working with!

But the Blessed at the very forefront smiled as he spoke out mildly, his extremely white hair and frosty appearance adding on to a mysterious air about him.

"My Trait is [Ice Man]. I can utilize the element of ice even better than a controller of the law of water to the point that I'm capable of turning my entire body into a pure form of ice as no physical attacks can even reach me."

RUMBLE!

The envy in the eyes of the fire Law Master only increased as he heard these powerful words, his eyes going towards the other two Blessed that also had smiling expressions as if they knew of their high status!

The man at the forefront continued as they pointed towards the other two Blessed beside him.

"This one has the trait that is called [Supernova], where each one of her strikes always releases the explosive force of a dying star."

The Blessed holding the Trait of [Ice Man] pointed to a curvaceous woman beside him as another shocking trait was revealed, with the voice of the frosty Blessed continuing to ring out!

"Lastly, my friend here has the trait called [Ability Mimic] that effectively allows him to mimic and display the abilities of his opponents."

Every single word that left the Blessed's mouth on what trait he and his two partners held had only caused the envy of the Fire Law Controllers eyes to increase, only the eyes of the other Controllers trying to remain without a change as the majestic chariot continued to traverse the chaotic void.

The Grand Controller that was at the forefront of the chariot and releasing his essence to steer the Void Beasts listened to this conversation as he only smiled, speaking out towards the five others inside the chariot at this moment.

"With this signal that we are exploring, we don't really know what we might come across. So your Traits and our masteries in the Universal Laws will work together nicely to defend against anything that we come across."

His voice was magnetic as it held a sense of power that only Grand Controllers that fully comprehended a Supreme Law could feel!

The others nodded at the words of the Grand Controller as even the three Blessed took on serious looks. This was because even they could not simply look down upon a being that had mastered a Supreme Law, and this being steering the Imperial Vessel had comprehended the Supreme Law of Chaos!

"We were lucky so far to not have come across too many powerful Void Beasts, where all of the ones that appeared I could easily take care of. But keep your minds sharp as anything can happen!"

The eyes of the Grand Controller were vigilant as the aura of chaos spread out from him calmly, sensing the many happenings of the Chaotic Void around him as he used his unique essence of a Grand Controller to continue steering the two Void Beasts pulling the Imperial Vessel forward.

"What if we are unlucky and the signal was a powerful entity?"

At this point, the frosty Blessed posed a question as the Grand Controller laughed warily.

"Haha, we can only try to run at that point. Only a few parties have been unlucky enough to come across dangerous entities that cared enough to act against them, and we never heard from them again."

His expression was portraying calm, but he knew there was a level of danger with the task they were undertaking where anything could go wrong!

"Anyways, I assume that you three should have been given some life-saving Talismans from the Imperials, yes?"

The Grand Controller said this to the three Blessed as they scratched their heads with smiles.

"The life-saving measures are only enough to survive against an extremely powerful Grand Controller's or a Beginner Assimilator's attacks for a short period of time as we try to make an escape."

The frosty Blessed holding the Trait of [Ice Man] said this as he shook his head, a somber atmosphere occupying the inside of the majestic chariot.

"We shall see. Normally a signal reaching the Universal Rift should not be something too dangerous or too meaningless."

The Grand Controller voiced his words as the Imperial Vessel continued traversing across the chaotic void with even more speed, only a streak of light being visible in the utter darkness of the terrifying void.

These beings from the Nexus Galaxy were heading towards a singular location. The location where a Grand Controller of Fate had actually shattered a portion of the boundary of his own galaxy and released the signal that reached them!

As these beings traversed towards the source of this signal, towards the Novus Galaxy, one would wonder exactly what they planned to do once they found it!

Chapter 608 - Why stop at one?!

In the Novus Galaxy, Noah was floating in the skies of the Central Realm as his body took in the feeling of strength and power that his newly granted Trait gave him.

The Trait of Infinite Mana didn't reinforce his body or grant him strength in any visible way, but it gave him the feeling of power that made him think he could do anything he wanted!

This was a unique feeling the very few beings could come across, and Noah was feeling it because of the fact that from now on until whatever stage he reached in his journey, he would always have Infinite Mana!

[With the success of granting this Trait, you have fully taken the mantle of the Champion off this galaxy.]

RUMBLE!

The voice of the entity that controlled the Novus Galaxy rang out in his mind as Noah sensed the connection that was now added to his Infinite Realm.

He shared a connection with the Infinite Realm, and now the Infinite Realm shared a connection with the Novus Galaxy itself!

He could continuously observe new changes continue to occur as every second passed in the Infinite Realm, and all of these changes could be attributed to the singular black line that represented the connection that this realm now shared.

[The lives of the trillions in this galaxy. Those you know, and those that you do not know. They are now all intertwined with your future actions and mine.]

[Whether we succeed or undergo another cycle of destruction and rebirth will depend on our actions from here on.

As Noah heard these heavy words, he shook his head as he completely wiped away any feelings of weakness or uncertainty from his mind. His thoughts became calm and he affirmed to himself that he would succeed!

He glanced at the blinking Stat Panel in front of his eyes as new changes displayed themselves, but he focused on a single row that displayed new information.

He saw that a new section had appeared which displayed his Trait of Infinite Mana!

[Noah Osmont][Title(s): Infernal Lord(Variant), Grand Controller(Fate)]

[Bloodline(s): Vampyre Progenitor]

He simply stared at the top of the stat panel as he focused on the newly appearing section with shining eyes. If one was perceptive enough, they would be able to notice the way that the stat panel was structured held its own meaning.

When one looked at the section that displayed the titles, it showed [Title(s)] that put an 'S' in the parentheses which indicated that one could start with one title and gain many, thus having the singular and plural form of the word displayed on the Stat Panel!

The same applied to the section listing [Bloodline(s)] as at this moment, in the section that displayed Noah's Infinite Mana Trait, one could also see the singular word Trait with the parentheses of 's' attached to them!

This shocking hidden clue actually showed that in the future there was a possibility not just for one Trait, but multiple!

RUMBLE!!!

Noah's eyes became even firmer as he stared at the word of Traits on the stat panel and thought about the words of the Novus Galaxy days ago when he confronted it and asked for the reason why she let Aldrich release a signal that would effectively endanger all of them. This memory was very vivid in his mind!

At that time, the words of the Novus Galaxy had shocked him!

[I have undergone multiple cycles of destruction and rebirth. I am tired of it, and I never want to experience that again. Thus when the change happened, I vowed to make a Champion that wouldn't just stand above other beings, but a champion that would completely and unilaterally be able to smash all of them into nothingness.]

While talking through the 1st Infernal Lord, a cruel and wicked enchanting smile had appeared on what would be a normally blank face, the Novus Galaxy feeling very strongly about this issue!

[Infinite Mana as a Trait was only the first stage of this. It was a trait that granted the Champion all the mana for them to do whatever they wanted, and it was such a shocking trait that it could raise one to be a future powerful entity in this unexplored Universe.]

At that time when Noah heard these words, his heart was shaken as he realized that the plans of the Novus galaxy did not just finish at one trait!

[Since one trait can give you such a power, why not another? Why not a third? Why not a fourth? What if...what if we continue along this path as we create something that will be able to trample on any being that ever thought about standing in our way. Why stop here?]

RUMBLE!

The words of the Novus Galaxy were extremely cold and dominating when she talked about this, as Noah sensed a variety of emotions in them that were surging with confidence and arrogance!

But the more he heard them, the more that his heart beat even faster as those same thoughts began to occupy his mind.

If a single trait that required so many conditions just to be brought to fruition would be able to create a future entity that would be powerful enough to stand among the ranks of the unknown entities of the unexplored universe, what if you simply had another trait just as powerful as it?

What if he had three or four?! This shocking thought occupied his mind as it seemed to be the only thing he could see, but of course, there were rules that restricted such things to be brought to fruition! As the universal laws would have it...a being could only have a single trait!

That is why only Galaxies could grant Traits to their inhabitants, and the Traits were branded into their very origin and soul. It was because of this problem, because of this universal restriction, that the Novus Galaxy let a signal be released into the outside universe.

The Novus Galaxy had actually invited unknown forces that would hopefully be from another galaxy in order to just bypass just this single restriction!

She had a grand plan that involved bypassing the restriction of the galaxy only being able to grant a single trait to a being residing within! She had thrown out the bait of the signal to whatever galaxy caught it as she planned to do something terrifying to whatever force they sent in order to achieve her goals.

[If I cannot grant you another Trait because of such stupid restrictions, then I will simply have another Galaxy do it for you...]

[For the goal of creating an unbeatable Champion...for the sake of gaining strength to withstand all the terrifying unknowns waiting for us...this will succeed!]

RUMBLE!

A terrifying plan! A scheming Novus Galaxy! Just what exactly would come out of all this?!

Chapter 609 - Peace

As Noah completed the terrifying Trait of Infinite Mana, the beings connected to him simply experienced the huge changes of the Infinite Realm that continued to get denser and denser atmospheric essence as it further strengthened their resolve to get stronger.

In the core area of the Infinite Realm where the central continent of the Spiritual World used to be, an arrogant penguin had his beak raised high as he faced thousands of beasts, beings that the penguin considered his brothers and sisters!

The area they were currently in was filled with the universal essence of space as it was very conducive to cultivating the Law of Space, and the Emperor Penguin was currently acting as the teacher as he faced the crowd of beasts.

This arrogant Penguin was floating at the forefront as one could see that in order to fit into the role of a teacher more, this penguin had adorned a nice fitting white suit that shone with great contrast to his sleek black feathers, the appearance of a bow tie being even more prominent as it gave the Emperor Penguin an appearance that would make many beings stop on their tracks!

"RAA!"

He released a bellow that relayed his intentions to the many beasts, each of them activating [Disciple of Space] as they tried to comprehend this law around them, some of them beginning to display their skills as they bowed to the Emperor Penguin and sought guidance.

It was a carefree and peaceful scene of these beings only striving their best to get stronger, because even though the Overseer of the Infinite Realm had not relayed them any information that made them feel any sense of danger, many of them were still striving to improve their strength as they saw the continued changes of the Infinite Realm every day!

Noah had not yet told anyone else about the events that occurred at the boundary of the Novus Galaxy and the Signal sent out, or that a force could be making its way towards here at this moment. He knew that his subordinates would grow to be extremely powerful in time as they used the resources of the Infinite Realm and the Novus Galaxy, but they were currently nowhere near being ready to face beings that could traverse the Chaotic Void.

He knew the knowledge that because the Novus Galaxy had finally granted him the first Trait of this Galaxy, it could now begin to awaken Traits on those that met the qualifications or those who were destined for them as many beings would gain even greater forms of power in the coming future!

But the battle to come, Noah would most likely be fighting it alone, only supported by the fearsome Terrors that held the titles of Controllers. Thus, his subordinates had no idea of what was coming, but they still instinctively continued to train with even more vigor.

Aside from the Emperor Penguin who was working to improve the strength of the high ranking beasts of the Infinite Realm, there were also Barbatos, Athena, Elena, and many others that were doing just the same!

In one region of the Infinite Realm that was filled with the essence of Chaos, Barbatos was sitting on a throne of bones releasing a distinct black hue that continuously strengthened thousands of high ranking Undead of a powerful Legion that she herself was creating, this legion being reinforced by the power of Chaos as she chose to comprehend this law.

Her gaze was distant as her fingers unconsciously released essence, her thoughts rotating around a single being as she felt the continuing changes of the Infinite Realm and sighed!

"Ah, Little Fish..."

She thought of a single man who seemed to be elevating himself to greater and greater heights each day, her resolve of getting stronger only increasing as she sought to go towards the same level of power as this being! To just be able to stand alongside him while raising her head high!

Barbatos was not the only one with these emotions as in another location, Athena was actually facing the three remaining Mythical Beasts of the Beast World, some of the Demon Lords from the Demon World, and various other beings all over the Infinite Realm that sought to learn the law of Fate.

One could also see Old Man Inuit and Fritz by the side giving their own guidance, these old beings looking at their surroundings in shock and awe still as the fantastical sights continued to play around them.

Athena was currently following the routine where she aided those needing to see the techniques of Fate in the Infinite Realm for half of her day, using the other half of the day to traverse the Light and Dark Expanse with Old Man Inuit and Fritz as they continued to oversee the healing period for these two Expanses.

Her goal of seeking Order was still just as steadfast as she also had another reason to seek for strength at this time.

ROAR!

In another location of the Infinite Realm, one could observe a fearsome Draconic Fire Behemoth nearing 100 meters in size, the pet known as Draco having grown to the powerful peak of the World Rank as it sparred with Elena and hundreds of other Vampyres.

Scenes like these were abundant all over the Infinite Realm as many beings strengthened themselves while feeling a period of peace.

This sense of peace was enhanced even more when they looked at the nearly endless resources of the Infinite Realm!

Anytime they wished, they could walk to a nearby field that would be filled with wondrous medicinal herbs or fruits that were potent with essence, aiding them in regenerating their strength or even advancing through ranks as they enjoyed an atmosphere that very few could come across!

Even while feeling this peace, many of the top commanders under Noah were nearing the rank of Star Forgers as time passed while they also began traversing in the path of laws. Being in an environment where they could dedicate all of their time to training while keeping calm hearts, it was actually the perfect recipe to create powerful soldiers that would grow their strength at terrifying speeds.

Even if they would be nowhere near as close as Noah when it came to their breakthroughs and even with comprehending laws, it would not take them hundreds of years like their predecessors for them to achieve high levels of strength!

Just a few years would be enough to produce multiple experts, and Noah even expected to have multiple Controllers in around 10 years or less as he thought about his subordinates and all the opportunities they had access to!

But for all of this to come to fruition, he had to make sure that the plan of the Novus Galaxy was carried out seamlessly, that whatever they invited would be taken care of with no problems as he would then continue on this grand journey!

Chapter 610 - [Controller](Fire, Water)

As Noah repeated the words of Novus Galaxy in his mind over and over again, he was staring at the description of his Trait while continuing to sense the confounding sense of power from his Origin that had birthed a Nebula.

[Infinite Mana] (Unranked) :: Its uses are pure and simple, granting exactly what the trait says. The holder of this Trait can cast as many abilities as he wants for however long he wants, with mana never being an issue for them. It is currently unranked as there is very limited knowledge of where it might stand amongst the numerous Traits in the outside galaxies.

Noah glanced at the details of the Trait as he smiled, knowing that on this day, he could full well look down upon all others when it comes to the reserves of mana as he can confidently ask- Mana depletion? What's that?

His smile was wide as he glanced at the description of this trait with vigor, only being taken out of this trance when he felt his Origin begin to vibrate with power!

He sent his awareness in as he found the now over 50 stars in his Nebula floating in a mystical formation, each of these stars contributing to granting him stupid levels of attack and defensive power.

If beings in the Star Forging Realm were powerful because they had a star supporting them in their Origin, one would only have to think a little to understand the realm of power where a being at the Nebula Rank had multiple stars that were doing just the same!

This created for a vast gulf for beings in the Nebula Rank, where one could have tens of stars while others only had two or three- the former being able to trample on the one holding fewer stars with ease!

But currently, the reason that Noah's origin was shaking was because extremely pure streams of essence continued to come from the law Origin Cores surrounding his Nebula, but the current flow of universal essence was even stronger from two particular Origin Cores- the Fire and Water Origin Cores.

This was because the comprehension of these two laws...were about to hit 100%!

RUMBLE!

Tremors spread out because of the majestic energy as the size of the red and blue cores were the second largest after Noah's Nebula, where they were glowing even brighter than the Light and Dark Origin cores that were a level higher in terms of laws.

Their rotation only increased as the seconds passed, and Noah felt their vibrations reach a breaking point as the two Origin Cores came to halt instantly...thereafter exploding into a shower of colors as they were both ground into dust!

Similar to how his Nebula formed, the Origin Cores of Fire and Water had dissolved into milky red and blue particles as they actually formed the base of a Nebula, extremely small red and blue stars beginning to erupt from these Nebulae as Noah felt an even more intense rush of universal essence washing over his own Origin.

This was an extremely interesting sight to come across as in the vast Galaxies, Nebulae were huge clusters of gas and dust in space that come about from the supernova of a dying star, and they are also the regions where new stars begin to form as they were actually termed the Nursery of Stars!

Seeing the Origins of two laws forming into a Nebula at this moment represented a grand future that showed the path of these laws was only just beginning.

The two newly appearing Nebulae that represented the comprehension of law of Fire and Water vibrated with essence as they began to float around Noah's main Nebula in a circular motion, following the same path as the four other Origin Cores of Air, Earth, Light, and Dark that were all still singular circular origin cores!

But the essence they released towards Noah's Origin was ten times what the other cored released, Noah feeling this awe-inspiring sense of strength as he looked at his Stat Panel.

[Authority(s) : Aether Lord, Fate Lord, Chaos Lord, Flame Lord, Water Lord]

Shockingly, he had just seamlessly advanced forward as he became a Controller in another two universal laws, where he now stood at the level where he had complete comprehension of 3 laws!

He focused his attention towards the two newly appearing titles of Controller.

Controller :: A title granted to those with complete comprehension of the law of Fire. All fire-related skills will exhibit their power at the level of a Controller regardless of their rank, the user beginning to embark on truly understanding the essence of Fire. The essence of a Fire Controller allows them to be immune to any fire-based attacks of those at lower stages of the Law of Fire.

Controller :: A title granted to those with complete comprehension of the law of Water. All water-related skills will exhibit their power at the level of a Controller regardless of their rank, the user beginning to embark on truly understanding the essence of Water. The essence of a Water Controller allows them to be immune to any water-based attacks of those at lower stages of the Law of Water.

Nearly identical descriptions with the only changes being whether it was fire or water were displayed in his eyes, Noah gaining two more Laws that granted him the title of a Controller as he could actually claim Immunity to any beings with less advancement in the two laws!

Another even more ecstatic thing was the fact that being a Controller of the laws of Fire and Water allowed one to display the immense power of such a level on all possible cast skills of the user.

This made Noah's eyes shine with l.u.s.ter as he imagined a shocking sight of him defeating powerful enemies with skills of the lowest tier!

"Haha!"

He gave a boisterous laugh as he was not the least least fearful of whatever was coming, his main body letting his clones continue their advancement in the laws and proficiencies of a particular skill tree that would soon enter into the ranks of Nebula as he went off towards the Letalis Expanse.

His 100% comprehension in the law of Fate told him that whatever was coming would be upon them in just a day or two, thus he went towards the only location that any Outsiders could enter- and that was the Letalis Expanse where three Terrors were stationed!
