A Man Like None Other Chapter 2016

A Man Like None Other Novel

When Masato and the rest saw the golden dragon rush toward them with a howl, they were scared senseless. Never had they expected that a simple sword. attack like that could have such divine powers.

It almost seemed out of the world. Something like that could only be conjured by a god. Kawano gripped the katana tightly. He was in no place to care about the Watanabe family anymore. His body trembled violently. Raising his katana which glowed brightly, he swung it down heavily.

The blade shot out like a bolt of lightning streaking across the sky, zooming toward the golden dragon. Not daring to be careless at all, Kawano had gathered all of his power into that attack.

Boom! The sword energy and the blade clashed against each other once more. However, instead of simply swinging the sword this time, Kai channeled the Power of Dragons into the Dragonslayer Sword.

With a loud explosion, martial energy filled the venue with blood again. Just like Kai, who was standing there motionlessly with his Dragonslayer Sword, Kawano did not budge at all. He was still grasping his katana tightly.

“Mr. Chishima! Mr. Chishima!” Asuka called out to Kawano softly. However, he merely stood there fixedly, as if he did not hear anything. When Asuka stood in front of Kawano to check on him, he realized that Kawano’s eyes were wide open. However, his pupils were not moving at all.

Looking downward, Asuka saw there was a red. line constantly expanding across Kawano’s neck. Asuka screamed in shock, causing a commotion to erupt immediately.

Kawano’s head suddenly rolled off his neck and tumbled in front of Masato. It was only then that Kawano’s body finally collapsed onto the ground. Staring at Kawano’s head beside his feet, Masato was stunned. To them, Kawana was a powerful swordmaster who could never be defeated.

However, he was defeated just by a single blow from Kai. Even his head had been cut off. The Watanabes stared at Kawano’s corpse in a stupor, unable to react to what had just happened. They could barely believe what had unfolded in front of them.

“H-How is this possible?” mumbled Masato. No one replied because everyone from the Watanabe family was equally stunned. A long time passed before they finally returned to their senses. This time, their eyes were filled with fear when they glanced at Kai.

He was so terrifying that they could hardly describe him in words. Meanwhile, many of the relatives from the Watanabe branch families glared at Asuka, their eyes filled with reproach.

If Asuka had not provoked Kai, he would not have come to Jetrouna to seek trouble with the Watanabe family. Yet, no matter how much they blamed Asuka, it was too late.

Having seen Kai kill Kawano with a single blow, Ryosuke was filled with even more admiration for him. He knelt in front of Kai's feet, not even daring to lift his head. With the Dragonslayer Sword in his hand, Kai strode toward the Watanabes. The color drained from everyone's faces when they saw him walking over with strong, murderous intent.

"Asuka, you brought this demise upon the Watanabe family! Since you caused everything, you must take responsibility. Kneel and apologize to Mr. Chance right now and atone your sins with your death." Masato had no choice but to push Asuka out.

Since Asuka was Kai's target of revenge, they might have a chance to live if Asuka died. "Yeah! You created this mess. You must shoulder the consequences!"

"Don't drag us down. The Watanabe family. doesn't acknowledge someone like you." Now that Masato had made his stance clear, everyone started to rebuke Asuka. A look of surprise crossed Asuka's face.

"Grandpa." Asuka looked at Masato. "If you don't die, do you expect the whole family to perish together with you? Once you're dead, our family won't have to worry anymore." Masato glared at Asuka.

Asuka had no choice but to step forward and kneel before Kai. Kai looked at Asuka indifferently without saying a word and merely kicked a katana toward him.

Looking at the katana before him, Asuka fathomed Kai's intention. He slowly picked up the katana while lifting his head to look at Kai. "I can die, but I hope you can spare the others."

However, Kai didn't spare Asuka a glance, nor did he acknowledge him. Seeing that, Asuka let out a resigned sigh, gently wiped the blood off the katana, and stabbed his own abdomen with the weapon.

Right before the katana pierced Asuka's stomach, his eyes gleamed, and he swiftly changed the direction of the sword with a flick of his wrist to thrust it at Kai, who was standing very close and entirely off guard.

Pop! The katana was jabbed forcefully into Kai's abdomen by Asuka. Unexpectedly, just as Asuka was about to celebrate, he realized the sword appeared stuck after it penetrated a certain distance into Kai's body.

No matter how hard Asuka tried, he couldn't push the sword any further. Shocked, he jerked his head up and noticed Kai sneering at him. Immediately afterward, Asuka saw a flash of white light before him.

Kai severed Asuka's head with a sword while the katana fell from the latter's hand. Only then did members of the Watanabe family see that the katana didn't pierce Kai's abdomen.

It didn't even leave a scratch on him. Kai, who had ascended to the level of Martial Arts Saint, had a physical toughness that couldn't be penetrated by just anyone.

Thump! Subsequently, everyone from the Watanabe family fell to their knees. Even the arrogant Masato trembled as he knelt. They were all begging for Kai's forgiveness, hoping that he would spare them.

Kai stared at the kneeling members of the Watanabe family without the slightest trace of sympathy in his eyes. "Ryosuke!" Kai shouted. Ryosuke slowly got up and walked toward Kai.

"You'll handle the Watanabe family's affairs on your own." With that, Kai put away his Dragonslayer Sword and took a few steps back. Noticing that, Ryosuke picked up a katana from the ground and approached his family: members who were kneeling on the ground.

Complicated emotions filled his eyes. "Ryosuke, what are you doing? I'm your grandpa, Masato, quivering badly, shrieked.

The other members of the Watanabe family also began to appeal to Ryosuke's emotions, one after the other, hoping he could let them off the hook.

Conflict and agony churned within Ryosuke as he wielded the katana. Ryosuke's feelings wouldn't have been as intense if Kai were to kill them.

However, he was extremely torn if he had to execute them personally. Ryosuke turned to look at Kai, wishing he could get an answer from Kai.

At that moment, whether Kai instructed him to take action or let the Watanabe family go, Ryosuke would follow the orders without hesitation. To his surprise, Kai didn't give him any command.

Instead, he turned around and retraced his steps. Kai didn't care if Ryosuke would do it, but if Ryosuke showed mercy and spared those people, Kai would do away with Ryosuke without a second thought since Kai had told Kawano the Watanabes must die. At that instant, Kai was merely giving Ryosuke a test.

“Ahh!” Shortly after Kai spun on his heel, horrible screams sounded behind him. Eyes bloodshot, Ryosuke seemed to have turned into a madman as he relentlessly slaughtered his family members.

Meanwhile, at Ryosuke’s mansion, Flaxseed and Fandor were lounging in a luxurious hot spring. Placed beside Fandor were a few bottles of fine wine, while Flaxseed was accompanied by two young girls who were gently massaging him.

“Fandor, do you think Kai can defeat that Kawano?” Flaxseed asked worriedly. After all, Flaxseed wasn’t familiar with the samurais from Jetroina, so he wasn’t sure if Kai could win.

“Don’t worry. If my guess is right, Kawano should be dead after enduring one strike from Kai. They should be back soon.” Fandor leisurely sipped on his wine.

Right after he finished saying that, Kai and Ryosuke returned. “Dad.” Seeing Ryosuke, Yuri hurriedly stepped forward. “Dad, how did it go?” “Master killed those people, including Kawano,” Ryosuke replied excitedly.

“Master?” Yuri was caught by surprise. “That’s right. From now on, Mr. Chance will be the Watanabe family’s master. Members of the Watanabe family must unconditionally obey his orders from now on,” Ryosuke said.

She gazed at Kai’s back in astonishment. Kai merely kept quiet. He wasn’t interested in becoming the Watanabe family’s master. Perhaps he would never come to Jetroina again after this time.

Kai strode to the backyard of the mansion. He couldn’t help but chuckle when he saw Fandor and Flaxseed enjoying the time of their lives soaking in the hot spring, not to mention there were even two girls serving Flaxseed.

Noticing Kai, Flaxseed hastily got up and dismissed the two girls. “Kai, how did it go? Were you able to beat Kawano?” he asked. “One hit was all it took,” Kai answered nonchalantly.

“Well, what did I say? Dealing with Kawano won’t take more than one move,” Fandor chirped. “Mr. Flaxseed, you should get ready. We’re going back soon.”

Kai planned to return to the country. Now that Asuka was dead, he wanted to go back and think of a way to save Josephine. After all, rescuing Josephine took precedence over everything else.

The trip to Jetrouina had allowed Kai to advance to the level of a Martial Arts Saint, which gave him even more confidence in liberating Josephine. "We're going back so soon?" Flaxseed was stunned.

"That's right." Kai nodded. Despite his reluctance, Flaxseed had no choice but to acquiesce to Kai's order. However, when Ryosuke heard Kai was leaving, he knelt in front of him with a thud. "Master, please help the Watanabe family break free from Thousand Crane Shrine's control."

Ryosuke knew that although the other members of the Watanabe family had been eliminated and no one could threaten his position as the head of the family anymore, he reckoned the shrine would never let him go. After Kai left, the shrine would undoubtedly trouble him. By then, he figured his family might suffer a worse fate.

Kai glanced at Ryosuke expressionlessly. "Helping you kill Kawano is my repayment for the snow lotus you gave me. I have no obligation to assist you in wiping out Thousand Crane Shrine now, nor do I have the time to spare."

"Master, the Watanabe family is willing to be in your service forever and offer tribute to you in the form of resources every year." Ryosuke groveled at Kai's feet.

"Kai, I think you should stay. The resources owned by Thousand Crane Shrine are far more abundant than these martial arts families. Besides, each shrine has its own deity. I figure you should be interested in acquiring the power gathered within those deities," Fandor persuaded Kai while picking up his wine glass. Kai shot a quick look at Fandor and contemplated for a few moments before nodding. "All right."

Ryosuke was overjoyed to see Kai agree. That night, Kai lay on his bed, his mind occupied with ways he could rescue Josephine. At that moment, soft footsteps sounded. Kai sat up at once, only to see the door being pushed open. The next second, Yuri entered, her body barely covered by clothing.
