

The Mans Decree Chapter 3075

Upon seeing this, the two bodyguards became furious and immediately charged toward the elderly man. When Zordey witnessed that scene, he knitted his brows, his face filled with displeasure.

The two bodyguards rushed forward but were met with a direct strike from the elderly man's palms, causing them to spew blood and fall dead. With a servant and two guards slain, Zordey finally lost his temper.

He brought a group of men and charged forward. "Those who dare to kill members of the Zupakie family are simply inviting their own demise!"

Being a Top Level Body Fusion Realm cultivator, Zordey erupted in anger, and his aura suddenly surged, creating a gust of wild wind.

The strong wind blew off the hat that the elderly man had been wearing, revealing a skeletal face with sunken eyes, deep wrinkles, and sharp cheekbones.

When Zordey saw the old man's appearance, his fury from just moments ago turned into frozen silence, and he did not dare to speak a word. The elderly man snorted apathetically, readjusted his hat on his head, and then boarded the spirit ship.

Not far away, Kai realized that this old man had an impressive background and definitely possessed strength beyond the Body Fusion Realm.

After glancing at the three lifeless bodies on the ground, Kai and Cloud walked over, searching among the bodies for the tickets. Since they're associated with Zordey, they must have tickets. Now that they're dead, they wouldn't need them anymore.

Realizing that there were people searching his subordinates' bodies right in front of him, Zordey became furious, and his face turned red. I might not have the courage to confront that old man, but that doesn't mean I'll stand idle here and do nothing while others disrespect me!

Moreover, Kai was only a fifth-level Body Fusion Realm cultivator, and Cloud was merely a seventh-level Body Fusion Realm cultivator.. Zordey had no reason to fear them.

“You two have quite the audacity, snatching my tickets right in front of me,” Zordey said, his aura enveloping the two men.

“They’re already dead and won’t need the tickets. We might as well make use of them,” Kai calmly responded to Zordey.

“I won’t allow anyone else to use them, even if I have to destroy the tickets!” Zordey raised his voice. After speaking, a few of his guards stepped forth and surrounded Kai and Cloud.

“Mr. Zupakie, please stop. They’re the two brothers I mentioned who came along with me,” Quinley immediately clarified.

Upon hearing that, Zordey quickly retracted his aura and turned to look at Quinley, asking, “Ms. Tall, these two men are your brothers?”

“Yes. They’re only acting this way because they don’t have tickets,” Quinley explained with a nod. Zordey’s attitude took a complete turn. “Since they’re your brothers, I apologize for my earlier behavior. Please take the tickets. After all, those individuals are now dead and don’t need the tickets anymore.”

It appeared that Zordey had no real concern for the deceased servant and the two guards. For individuals like Zordey, the passing of a few subordinates was as inconsequential as the demise of ants.

With tickets in hand, Kai and the rest proceeded to board the ship, no longer needing to snatch from others. Upon entering the enormous spirit ship, Kai felt as if he had stepped into another world.

A crew member escorted them upstairs after inspecting their tickets. With each level they ascended, the interior of the spirit ship became more luxurious. It was evident that the uppermost level of the vessel was likely the best.

Upon reaching the fifth floor, Kai and the others stopped ascending. The crew member then guided them to their respective rooms.

The journey across the Night Sea would span several days, so the upper decks of the ship were equipped with private rooms. However, the lower decks were more rudimentary, consisting of seats only, offering a harsher environment.

“Ms. Tall, don’t hesitate to inform me if you need anything. There’s a wide array of amenities available on this spirit ship,” Zordey stated.

“And I understand that you may be visiting the Night Sea for the first time and may not be familiar with it. Contrary to the rumors, the Night Sea isn’t as terrifying as it’s made out to be. In fact, it’s a treasure trove,” he further remarked with a friendly smile.

The Mans Decree Chapter 3076

“Treasure trove?” Quinley responded with a puzzled look.

“That’s right. The Night Sea is widely rumored to be extremely perilous, which is why very few people venture here,” Zordey explained. “It’s precisely because of this that many treasures within the Night Sea have remained undiscovered. If it weren’t for the massive waves that recently swept across the Night Sea, washing up some treasures onto the shores for people to find, there wouldn’t be so many treasure hunters here now.”

“Normally, the Night Sea doesn’t attract as many people. It’s mostly due to those who have seen treasures spreading the news that draws others in,” he added with a hint of frustration.

“So, if I understand correctly, the Night Sea is essentially a vast treasure trove?” Kai sought clarification.

Zordey nodded as he spoke. “Of course. The Night Sea is undoubtedly a massive treasure trove, but I’ve never seen anyone venture deep into the sea itself. At most, people ride a spirit ship to salvage some floating treasures or explore the islands within the Night Sea in search of opportunities. Anyone who dares to venture into the sea is essentially seeking death. There’s no way they could survive such an expedition.”

“What about the reports of the sinking of a spirit ship a few days ago?” Cloud, eager for information about his father, asked. He wanted to know if his father had perished at sea.

“I’ve heard about that incident too. The Night Sea is unpredictable, and anything can happen, including the sinking of a spirit ship. Also, there are all kinds of demon beasts in the sea. Otherwise, why would they set up such an extensive arcane array on this spirit ship and sell their tickets at such a premium rate?” Zordey explained confidently. “But rest assured, this is the largest spirit ship. Even though the tickets are costly, traveling on this ship is also the safest option. Moreover, I'm here to take care of you, so you won't encounter any problems. After all, I've crossed the Night Sea several times."

It was evident that he was saying that to impress Quinley. Cloud's heart grew heavier after he heard Zordey's words. If his father had indeed been involved in a tragedy, he would have to take on the responsibility of leading Stellaris Sect.

However, Cloud was aware of his limited abilities, and he feared that the future of the sect might be uncertain.

"Mr. Zupakie, thank you, but I'd like to rest for a while," Quinley politely stated, subtly requesting some privacy. There were many matters she could not discuss with Kai and Cloud if Zordey was present.

"Ms. Tall, please take your time to rest. Later, I'll escort you to the deck to enjoy the scenery. Despite the Night Sea being shrouded in darkness, it has its unique charm," Zordey said before departing with his entourage.

After Zordey left, Quinley turned to Kai and asked, "Kai, if I were your woman, would you still have me use my charm to get you those tickets?"

Kai froze and contemplated her question for a moment before replying, "Could you not make me sound so shameless? I didn't ask you to do anything inappropriate. Whether or not you're my woman, if there's ever a man with malicious intentions toward you, I'd go to great lengths to protect you."

Kai's words brought a smile to Quinley's face, significantly easing her mind..

"Take some time to rest now. I believe Zordey will be looking for you soon. Having an additional free tour guide isn't a bad thing, don't you think?" Kai remarked with a grin.

Quinley glared at Kai. "Kai Chance, listen. carefully. I'm only doing all this for you. If Zordey does anything to me, I'll hold you accountable!"

"Don't worry. If he dares to harm even a hair on you, I'll destroy him," Kai assured. Although Zordey was a Top Level Body Fusion Realm cultivator, Kai was not afraid of him.

He then left with Cloud, leaving Quinley to rest.

“You don’t have to be too upset. We can’t be sure that something has really happened to your father. Maybe we’ll run into him in the Night Sea!” Kai, sensing Cloud’s despondency, tried to comfort him.

Cloud nodded and hummed in response.

At that moment, he could only rely on Kai because there were certain matters he knew he was incapable of handling himself.

The Mans Decree Chapter 3077

Kai and Cloud also returned to their respective rooms to rest. Soon, following a loud rumble, the spirit ship. began to move, instantly creating waves on the sea’s pitch-black surface.

On the dock, the numerous cultivators without tickets observed the departing spirit ship with envious expressions, for this was the largest and safest spirit ship.

Many cultivators emerged from their rooms when they felt the spirit ship moving, and Kai was no exception. He stepped out of his room, intending to take in the view outside. However, just as he left his room, he saw a man and a woman walking by.

The man was dressed in light blue and looked very conspicuous, whereas the woman wore a black dress with a black veil covering her head.

As the two passed in front of Kai, they stopped briefly, and the woman could not help. but glance at Kai. The latter also furrowed his brows and scrutinized them from head to toe.

However, no one spoke, and the two merely paused briefly before heading upstairs. It was evident they lived on the upper floors in better conditions.

“Demonic Cultivators?”

Kai stared at their retreating figures, having sensed their demon auras. Even though the two had concealed their auras well, Kai could still detect them. He was, after all, more sensitive to it than others, having the aura of a demon as well.

Kai turned and returned to his room, where Faiyar uttered, “Mr. Chance, those two earlier are Demonic Cultivators...”

“Yes, I sensed it. Do you know which clan of Demonic Cultivators they belong to?” Despite knowing they were Demonic Cultivators, Kai was unsure which clan they belonged to. After all, the demon race was also divided into many clans.

Kai knew of prominent demons such as Inferno Devil, Baal, Hadad, and Whalreth. As for other prominent ones, Kai might not know of them, but he was confident they existed.

“I don’t know either, as I couldn’t sense it, but. it’s definitely not Inferno Devil. If they were from. this lineage, I would have known,” Faiyar said truthfully.

“I never expected there would be demons infiltrating the spirit ship. Looks like there may be trouble ahead,” Kai remarked, his expression gloomy.

After all, demons nowadays were targets of scorn. Leaving aside the virtues of the two demons, if any of the cultivators onboard were to discover their race, a fight would certainly break out.

However, they were presently cruising on the Night Sea, which was unlike being on land. Even being the size of a small mountain and having the enhancement of arcane arrays, the spirit ship still could not withstand a fight among Body Fusion Realm cultivators.

If the ship was destroyed at that point, everyone would be done for. The man and woman were also discussing Kai as he pondered about them..

“Dalton, I’m surprised the person we bumped into earlier also has a demon aura. Who knew we weren’t the only ones infiltrating this ship,” the woman dressed entirely in black commented, somewhat surprised.

“Rosetta, our priority now is to find a way to treat your bloodlust symptoms. Don’t think about other things. So many years have passed since the Celestial Battle, so it’s normal for many Demonic Cultivators to reintegrate into. life. As long as we conceal our auras well, we won’t be discovered,” said the man in blue.

“I’m just worried that the man earlier will reveal our identities, Dalton. It’s obvious he has detected our demon auras. After all, no matter how well we conceal them, we can't escape detection by our fellow race members," the woman named Rosetta said, looking worried.

Dalton reassured her, "Don't worry. Since he's also a Demonic Cultivator, he won't expose us. Otherwise, he'll also be exposing himself."

The Mans Decree Chapter 3078

"But what if he belongs to the Inferno Devil lineage? Our blood demon clan has always been at odds with them," Rosetta said, still worried.

"That's impossible. Their clan is in the far north. Besides, no one has seen an Inferno Devil Demonic Cultivator in years. How could we have run into one today by coincidence? Stop letting your thoughts run wild. We sneaked out to cure your bloodlust. The more you get wound up over it, the worse it will be for your health," Dalton reassured her once more while patting her shoulder.

"All right," she replied with a nod. However, at that moment, Rosetta's brows suddenly furrowed. Her expression twisted into an agonized grimace as veins protruded on her face and her eyes turned bloodshot.

The woman trembled all over, her face scrunching up as two fangs rapidly extended in her mouth. However, Dalton did not panic at the sight, appearing as though he was already used to it. He merely pulled out a dagger and slit his arm, drawing blood from the cut instantly.

Immediately after, he let the blood drip into the woman's lips. Her expression gradually returned to normal as blood flowed continually into her mouth.

The woman was soon back to her usual self, her agonized expression returning to its lovely state. Distress and guilt filled her countenance as she stared at the wound on the man's arm.

There were already a lot of scars on the man's arms, all evidently caused by similar incidents. "I'm sorry, Dalton, I'm so sorry. I didn't mean to. I couldn't control myself..."

Rosetta burst into tears as she bandaged his wound. "Don't cry. I know you can't control yourself, so there's no need to blame yourself. Despite your bloodlust, you've never harmed anyone," he said with a smile.

"Dalton, why don't we go back? Maybe my dad has a way of treating it. If this continues, I'll drain you dry sooner or later."

The woman was starting to regret coming out and wanted to go back.

“We can’t. If Master learns that you secretly practiced the blood demon technique and developed bloodlust, he’ll burn you alive. Think about how many of us have been dealt with in this manner. Even if you’re his daughter, he won’t be merciful. Master once said we can be heinous demons in the eyes of others, but we must never do heinous things. We can’t choose our identities as demons, but we can choose how to go about things,” Dalton said to her with a serious expression.

Rosetta was rendered speechless and could only remain silent.

“Don’t worry, Rosetta. This time, I’ll definitely find a way to cure your bloodlust...”

After saying that, Dalton drew her into his arms. No sooner had he done that than his expression changed, and he pushed her away.

“Rosetta, stay in the room and don’t wander off.”

With that, he threw the door open. An elderly man shrouded in a black robe stood outside the door. Only his eyes on his skeletal face sparkled with life.

The elderly man grinned when he saw Dalton throwing the door open. “How boring. You’re no fun at all. I thought I would be able to hear your coupling. Who knew you’d discover my presence...”

After saying that, the elderly man spun on his heels and left, not forgetting to glance at the woman inside the room before doing so..

Dalton’s expression was exceedingly grim as he stared at the elderly man’s departing silhouette. Rosetta also appeared horrified when she got a clear look at the elderly man’s face. Dalton entered the room and closed the door behind him..

“Dalton, what is Montane Daemon doing here?”

Rosetta asked fearfully, her eyes wide. “Beats me, but he wouldn’t dare to act recklessly and do anything to us on this spirit ship. Otherwise, everyone would be doomed if the ship was destroyed. Don’t be so nervous.”

Even though Dalton was reassuring her, his expression remained extremely grim.

The Mans Decree Chapter 3079

Quinley was in her room when she heard Zordey knocking on her door, saying obsequiously, "Have you had enough rest, Ms. Tall? Daunting Tides is up ahead, and it's a magnificent sight! Would you like to go to the deck and check it out?"

Hearing that, Quinley immediately opened the door. When Zordey saw her, he greeted her with a simpering smile.

"Please hold on a moment," Quinley said and went to get Kai and Cloud. She didn't know what Daunting Tides was, so she wanted the other two to check it out together.

"Daunting Tides? What's that?" Kai asked Zordey puzzledly.

"Oh! It's a stretch of sea, but there are undercurrents and whirlpools in this area all year round. Besides, there are also massive demon beasts kicking up waves, so it's very dangerous. All the spirit ships have difficulty passing this stretch of sea, so it's called Daunting Tides. However, you guys shouldn't feel worried. We're on the largest spirit ship, so those undercurrents and whirlpools won't affect us!

There are plenty of people on the deck now. If you're lucky, you'll see a waterspout. The Night Sea is a dangerous place, but the scenery here is amazing." Zordey tried his best to hype the place up because he desperately wanted Quinley to go to the deck with him.

Kai's interest was piqued when he heard those words. Hence, he nodded and said, "Sure! Let's head to the deck!"

Thrilled, Zordey led the way. To his dismay, Quinley grabbed Kai's arm while walking toward the deck. Zordey froze momentarily when he saw that, but he felt relieved a few seconds later. They're siblings, so it's only natural for them to be close to each other!

The deck was rather crowded when they arrived there. In the crowd, Kai saw the couple once again. When they spotted him, they merely exchanged a look with Kai before averting their gazes.

"Ms. Tall, look! Look at the whirlpools in the Night Sea! What an amazing sight!" Zordey said excitedly.

Glancing out at the sea, Kai and the others saw countless whirlpools swirling in the waters, seeming to devour everything. Those whirlpools varied in size and were aggressively pulling everything in the area inward.

Yet, the spirit ship the group was on wasn't affected. In fact, when the ship sailed over the whirlpools, the whirlpools were dissipated in an instant.

Not only was the spirit ship huge, but it was also protected by an arcane array, which made the vessel shine faintly. Hence, the whirlpools couldn't pull the ship in, and the passengers had nothing to worry about.

"Do you see, Ms. Tall? Our spirit ship is the largest and safest. You have nothing to be afraid of!" Zordey boasted, acting as though he owned the spirit ship.

Suddenly, a massive black cloud appeared out of nowhere and blocked the sunlight. The sea was as dark as the sky, and it looked as though the spirit ship was sailing in complete darkness.

"That's a waterspout! Look! That's a waterspout!" someone shouted. In the next second, everyone on the deck turned toward the bow of the spirit ship. There, they saw a huge column of water shooting up into the sky.

Since the water in the Night Sea was black, there was a black water column shooting up into the dark clouds. While everyone's attention was drawn to the waterspout, huge water bubbles appeared around the spirit ship.

No one noticed the bubbles because they were all fascinated by the waterspout. In no time, numerous gigantic turtles showed up among the huge water bubbles. The turtles were humongous, and there were dozens of them.

The turtles had the spirit ship surrounded, and the ship soon lost its speed. In the end, it even came to a complete stop.

The Mans Decree Chapter 3080

The crowd only realized something was amiss after the spirit ship came to a halt. When they looked down into the Night Sea, they saw the dozens of huge turtles controlling the spirit ship. "Divine turtles! These are divine turtles!"

"I heard that taming a divine turtle will allow the person to traverse the Night Sea freely!"

“Why did so many divine turtles show up all of a sudden? It looks like they’re trying to stop the spirit ship from going forward!”

The crowd murmured among themselves. When Kai saw the gigantic creatures, he thought they were merely ordinary turtles. I get that these turtles are huge, but why are these people calling them divine turtles?

Right then, Zordey uttered, “These huge turtles are divine beasts and are way more valuable than mere demon beasts. These divine beasts all have spiritual wisdom and are extremely docile. It would be amazing if you could tame one. Although they can be obedient, it’s very hard to tame them because they’re egotistical. They aren’t willing to submit to humans, and some would even die rather than get tamed.”

Upon hearing Zordey’s explanation, Kai finally understood why those turtles were regarded as divine turtles.

“Did Cosmic Sect tame some of these divine turtles? Is that why they can traverse the Night Sea freely? Cloud furrowed his brows.

Prior to that, Cloud’s disciple had told him that the members of Cosmic Sect were riding on spirit turtles as they traversed the Night Sea. Hence, he couldn’t help thinking those were the same creatures as the divine turtles before his eyes.

“That’s right! I’ve also heard about something similar. No one knows how Cosmic Sect managed to get their hands on some divine turtles, but they used them to traverse the Night Sea and ambush Stellaris Sect’s airship. In fact, I think quite a few of Stellaris Sect’s airships were stolen. As a result, Stellaris Sect suffered heavy losses. Besides that, I heard that the lord of Stellaris Sect boarded a spirit ship to go after Cosmic Sect. How silly of him! The others were on divine turtles! What made him think he could catch up with them with a spirit ship? I heard that the spirit ship sank, and he lost his life. I guess Stellaris Sect is doomed!” Zordey didn’t know Cloud was the scion of Stellaris Sect, so the former spoke without holding back.

Those words infuriated Cloud. Fearing that Cloud might retaliate, Kai quickly held him back to calm him down.

Zordey didn’t notice the change of expression on Cloud’s face as he added, “If Stellaris Sect had a bale of divine turtles, they no longer need to fear Cosmic Sect! However, Cosmic Sect is not particularly impressive, so I wonder how they tamed a bale of divine turtles.”

Clearly, Zordey was impressed by the fact that Cosmic Sect had divine turtles. Suddenly, the initially motionless spirit ship began to shake before turning in a different direction and moving away.

The crowd panicked when they realized that the spirit ship’s change of course was caused by the divine turtles. At the same time, the crew on the spirit ship quickly sprang into action.

At the highest point of the spirit ship, several people dressed in eight trigrams robes were muttering and forming hand seals.

When they did that, the spirit ship started to shine with a bright gold light. Evidently, they were trying to resist the divine turtles. Although the divine turtles weren’t attacking the spirit ship, the crew couldn’t let the divine turtles change the course of the spirit ship.

After all, the Night Sea was a perilous place. They wouldn’t know what to expect if they were to sail toward uncharted territory.

Despite the golden rays of light shining brightly the crew still couldn’t stop the divine turtles from moving the spirit ship forward.

Seeing that, one of the people in an eight trigrams robe declared, “Everyone, these divine turtles have appeared out of nowhere, but this is actually a golden opportunity for everyone. Whoever wants to tame a divine turtle should give it a try now. If you can tame one, you’ll be able to traverse the Night Sea freely. Besides, these divine turtles live in the Night Sea all year round, so they’ll surely know where the treasures are. Isn’t this a rare opportunity? Don’t you all want to give it a try?”

Many people were tempted after they heard those words.
