“Is Mr. Chance still cultivating?” Misho went to the backyard and asked after recuperating from his injuries.

“It’s been two days and nights. I wonder when it will end.”

Hamish appeared rather anxious since time was of the essence. The opportunity they might encounter might be more extensive the earlier they arrived on Demonia Mountain.

“Just wait patiently for a while longer. I reckon it should be soon,” Misho replied. No sooner had his words rang out than the earth trembled violently. On the heels of that, gray clouds condensed in the sky.

In a mere heartbeat, the whole of Salinsburgh City was blanketed with gray clouds. It was as though it was the end of the world.

That sudden phenomenon struck worry into the hearts of everyone in the city. Even Atlas sprinted out of his room and stared up at the sky solemnly.

“W-What’s happening here?” Hamish asked in a shaky voice. Wearing a grave expression, Misho shook his head. “I’m not sure either.”

“Don’t tell me a Demonic Cultivator is here,” Kiara said in fear, her gaze trained on the gray clouds.

“Yes, yes, it must be a Demonic Cultivator. I can already sense the aura of one,” Izolda seconded.

The two girls had never seen such a scene, and their faces had paled in terror.

“Shut up. There’s no Demonic Cultivator. No Demonic Cultivator would dare act so blatantly now,”

Misho chided, shooting Izolda a glare.

The gray clouds gradually descended. Everyone felt as though a boulder was pressing on their chests, making it somewhat difficult for them to breathe. Such a feeling felt like the oppression brought by the arrival of an immortal.

Rumble!

All of a sudden, the rumble of thunder rang out from the gray clouds. It was as though countless archangels were galloping above them.

Crack!

A streak of lightning came down without warning, striking none other than Victor’s backyard, where Kai was cultivating. Following that, an infinite windstorm promptly broke out.

Misho and the others, who were initially keeping guard in the backyard, were all blown away. Every one of them were sent flying dozens of meters away.

At the same time, all the houses in the backyard turned into ashes the instant that flash of lightning struck. Even the adjacent mayor’s resident was affected. The force of it was so great that Atlas stumbled back several steps.

“What exactly is going on here?”

Frowning, Atlas leaped up and vaulted over the mayor’s residence to land in Victor’s yard. Right then, Misho, Victor, and the others had just struggled up from the ground in a pathetic state.

Subsequently, they all gaped at the sight before them in shock. Kai remained sitting cross-legged under the celestial tree, but it had long since withered.

Meanwhile, his clothes were in tatters.

“Could it be that the phenomenon earlier was lightning tribulation?” Hamish exclaimed in shock.

“Lightning tribulation?” Misho’s eyes went wide. “The gray clouds blanketing the sky are lightning tribulation clouds? How could there be such lightning tribulation clouds?”

“That’s impossible. Such a lightning tribulation likely won’t even occur for an ascension. He’s only breaking through to Tribulator now. Such a lightning tribulation would kill him. We’ve all broken through to Tribulator and experienced lightning tribulation. There has never been such a terrifying lightning tribulation,” Atlas immediately countered.

While Tribulator was the most challenging cultivation level for cultivators, and the number of people who could break through to it could be counted on one hand, it was not that terrifying.

If it were really that terrifying, not a single cultivator in the entire Ethereal Realm could likely attain a breakthrough.

Just as Atlas had finished speaking, another bolt of lightning struck. Everyone personally witnessed that lightning tribulation striking Kai hard.

All the clothes on him burned to a crisp, baring his skin that shone with a dazzling golden light. That golden light was not because he used Golem Body. Instead, it was the glow of his physical body.

At that sight, everyone was stunned, for the toughness of Kai’s body had gone beyond their imaginations.

"This is lightning tribulation. It must be lightning tribulation!" Hamish shouted in shock. Even if he didn't say that, everyone knew that it was lightning tribulation.

They all wondered if Kai was sick of living to actually use his body to resist such a terrifying lightning tribulation.

"Master is tempering his physical body. After the lightning tribulation this time, his physical body will be even stronger," Feenix explained slowly, grasping Kai's intention.

Her words had everyone gape at the sight before them. They were at a loss for words. Apart from using the word crazy to describe Kai, they could not think of any other adjectives.

Rumble!

Another streak of lightning tribulation shot down from the sky. Despite keeping a significant distance and even forming a shield in front of themselves, they could still sense the terrifying might of it.

With that, nine flashes of lightning tribulation struck successively. The shield before them kept shattering and being mended repeatedly.

Under those nine strikes of lightning tribulation, Kai's physical body did not suffer a burn. Instead, the golden light glowed even brighter.

Shortly after, the lightning tribulation disappeared. The oppressive lightning tribulation clouds in the sky also scattered gradually.

Kai slowly opened his eyes. He could sense that the aura within him had shot up a notch. At the same time, he knew that he had broken through to Tribulator.

After Tribulation were greater heights, and he only had to make preparations for ascension henceforth. He got to his feet, the power within him seemingly still roiling violently.

“Ahh!”

A sudden scream snapped Kai back to reality. It turned out that he had long since been in his birthday suit, his clothes burned to a crisp by the lightning tribulation.

For that reason, Izolda and Kiara shrieked when he stood up. When Kai jolted back to his senses, he also realized that he was in the nude. At once, sheer embarrassment showed on his face, and he was at a loss for action.

Feenix instantly ran over with some clothes in her hands. Positioning herself in front of him, she personally helped him put on the clothes. Having been intimate with him, she was already incredibly familiar with his body.

“Mr. Chance, y-your lightning tribulation was simply too much. I’ve never seen such a terrifying lightning tribulation,” Hamish commented in shock, stepping forward.

“It’s not the lightning tribulation that’s terrifying, but Mr. Chance’s physical body is so strong that he could even withstand such a lightning tribulation. Even if he doesn’t use any techniques now, the average cultivator cannot possibly injure him,” Misho complimented in envy.

“Mr. Chance, I really didn’t expect you to have such outstanding capabilities besides your extraordinary medical skills. I was blind to not notice it previously.”

Atlas stepped forward, all smiles. As he spoke, he dragged Kai to the side and added, “I know you looked at my daughter’s body to treat her, Mr. Chance. But I hope you can marry her. She’s considered the cream of the crop in terms of both looks and figure. And so long as the two of you are married, the whole of Salinsburgh City will be yours. I only have a daughter. Consider it carefully.

There's no need to bustle around."

He fervently hoped that Kai would stay, for he had seen the latter's capabilities and future through the lightning tribulation this time. If Salinsburgh City were handed to Kai, he believed that it would definitely prosper.

"I'm really sorry, Mr. Jablonski. I already have a girlfriend, and I promised she would be the first woman I marry and enjoy the first wedding. I truly don't want to be an unfaithful man. I hope you can understand, Mr. Jablonski," Kai declined firmly.

Atlas looked at him blankly, never having expected that the temptation of a city failed to entice him.

"Oh well, since you're such a faithful man, I won't put you in a difficult position."

Atlas sighed as though having suffered a devastating loss.

After exchanging some pleasantries with Atlas, Kai geared up to set off. He had delayed quite some time with his cultivation, so he must make haste to Demonica Mountain as soon as possible.

They did not choose to take an airship since Salinsburgh City was already near Demonica Mountain, and many cultivators would be hurrying over.

If they did, it would be too conspicuous. Kai did not want everyone's attention to be focused on them.

Having traveled for a day and night, they finally arrived on Demonica Mountain.

As soon as they stepped on Demonia Mountain, they sensed a monumental change. Moreover, a soaring mountain range lay before their eyes, stretching as far as the eye could see.

It spanned exceedingly wide, rendering them as minute as a speck of dust beneath it. Compared with Mount Crimson, which bordered the central and southern regions, it was countless times bigger.

If Demonia Mountain were to have a rule forbidding the use of airships, it would likely take ages to get out of the mountain.

Fortunately, there was no such rule on Demonia Mountain, and cultivators could fly around freely.

“What an expansive mountain range! This is my first time seeing such a huge mountain range. It’s like a giant lying on the ground!” Kiara could not help exclaiming at her first sight of Demonia Mountain.

Kai was also greatly astounded as he looked at Demonia Mountain, for its magnificence had exceeded his imagination.

In the mundane world, he had seen many mountains. However, they all paled in comparison to Demonia Mountain.

Even in the Ethereal Realm, he had seen extensive mountain ranges such as Mount Crimson and Greenoxen Peak. Yet, they could not compare with Demonia Mountain. Everyone else had not seen Demonia Mountain either, and they were all beyond excited.

After all, stepping onto Demonia Mountain was equivalent to having the chance to encounter opportunities and gain various magical items. Contrary to everyone’s excitement, Hamish frowned slightly, his expression solemn.

“Everyone, we’ve now entered the territory of Demoniac Mountain. We’ll be facing many unknown dangers henceforth. You’ve all got to be on alert. Other than demon beasts, there are many Demoniac Cultivators here. Demoniac Mountain is the place with the most Demoniac Cultivators. On top of that, countless cultivators come in search of treasures. They’re all desperadoes and will do anything at all for their interests. Thus, we must unite. No one is to take things lightly or do something that hurts the team for current interests. Otherwise, don’t blame me for showing you no mercy.”

He urged everyone to be united now that they were there. If they wanted to go at it alone, they would never be able to make it onto Demoniac Mountain.

“Don’t worry, Mr. Chevalier. We’ve all had near brushes with death and are ready now.”

“Exactly. If we sought personal interests, we would’ve fled at Mount Crimson instead of fighting those Demoniac Cultivators at the risk of our lives!”

“I have a feeling this time that we’ll definitely gain something with Mr. Chance here!”

Many cultivators expressed their stances, one after another. Had they all fled and abandoned Kai at Mount Crimson, the latter would likely have fallen into Xanthus’ hands.

“All you need to do is to be prepared. There’s no need to be too nervous. I’ve been here to Demoniac Mountain, so I’m considerably familiar with this place. Compared to those here for the first time, we have an edge. The precise location of the battlefield of the celestials this time is still unknown, so we have to search patiently. Also, brace yourself for persevering on Demoniac Mountain for an extended period,” Hamish reassured.

After all, he could not have everyone suffering a psychological breakdown before they had even entered Demoniac Mountain.

The balance between the reminder and reassurance also reflected his capability as the team leader.

At the end of the day, he was considered a veteran and knew how to lead a team.

Subsequently, he led everyone into the territory of Demoniac Mountain and headed toward the heart of it.

In the dense forest of Demonia Mountain, five cultivators were resting under a thick tree. Among them was Xanthus, who had been spared by Kai.

A young cultivator scolded Xanthus, “You guys from Soulless Hall are truly useless to allow a mere Body Fusion Realm cultivator to slip through your fingers. I can’t believe you still have the face to show up here.”

Xanthus lowered his head, not daring to even breathe. After all, the young man berating him was Xavion, the son of Talcott, the leader of the Demon Seal Alliance.

Accompanying Xavion was Zayan, an elder of the Demon Seal Alliance, and two branch leaders from the southern region. They had accompanied him to Demonia Mountain for the sake of his safety.

Tired of scolding, Xavion turned to Zayan and asked, “Mr. Cabeza, have you investigated Kai’s identity? Show me what you’ve got.”

“Mr. Xavion, stop worrying about Kai. Mr. Lefterov has ordered the pursuit, and I believe he won’t live for long,” Zayan replied. “Let’s spend a few more days here on Demonia Mountain and then return. It’s too dangerous.”

Knowing the perilous nature of the mountain, Zayan planned to bring Xavion back after having fun for a few days.

“Mr. Cabeza, I know you’re worried about my safety, but don’t you worry. I’m now a Fifth Level Tribulator. I’ll be safe here. Besides, with you and the two branch leaders, we can handle any Demonic Cultivators or beasts that come our way. Show me Kai’s information. I’m really curious about him,” Xavion insisted.

After listening to Xanthus’ report, he got curious about Kai. After all, it was rare to come across a Body Fusion Realm cultivator who could defeat a Tribulator cultivator.

Xavion wanted to know what kind of person Kai was. Seeing that, Zayan had no choice but to pull out a communication device containing all the gathered data on Kai.

After accepting the communication device, Xavion scanned it with his spiritual sense, and Kai’s information popped up in his mind.

A while later, he returned it to Zayan. “Mr. Cabeza, why do you think Kai can defeat Tribulator cultivators despite being in Body Fusion Realm? The elders from the Night Sea branch, four Tribulator cultivators in the First and Second Level, were all defeated by him.

Isn’t it too unbelievable?”

Xavion simply could not wrap his head around that.

Zayan clarified, “Engaging in battles across different cultivation levels isn’t uncommon among the elite. Many prodigies can accomplish such feats. However, what distinguishes Kai is not just his prowess in combat but also his proficiency in alchemy. Even the alchemists from Soulless Hall find him challenging to handle. That’s what truly makes him formidable. As we are aware, alchemists in the Ethereal Realm typically don’t reach exceptionally high cultivation levels, as they dedicate the majority of their time to alchemy. Moreover, becoming a skilled alchemist often requires several centuries of practice. Yet, Kai, at such a young age, stands on par with a Supreme Alchemist. It's indeed quite peculiar."

Zayan's curiosity was also piqued.

"Oh, I can't wait to see what kind of person he is. Could he be a Demonic Cultivator using demon techniques to increase his strength quickly?" Xavion analyzed.

"Mr. Xavion, he's not a Demonic Cultivator. If he were, I should be able to sense it," Xanthus interjected.

"Your sensing ability is nonsense. As a Sixth Level Tribulator cultivator, you can't even catch a Body Fusion Realm cultivator. I really don't know why Father kept such useless people," Xavion retorted.

Turning to Zayan, he asked, "Mr. Cabeza, could you use an arcane array deduction to deduce if Kai has come to Demonica Mountain?"

“Mr. Xavion, the arcane array deduction will consume a significant amount of my spiritual sense. If we encounter danger after the deduction, it will be challenging for me to fight back, Zayan politely declined Xavion’s request.

Arcane array deduction was a special arcane array that would heavily deplete one’s spiritual sense.

After completion, a long period of rest would be needed for recovery.

Using arcane array deduction in the dangerous Demonica Mountain was risky. If they ran into danger, it would be hard to fight back.

“Mr. Cabeza, you’re being too cautious. There are two branch leaders present, and I am a Fifth Level Tribulator cultivator. Even if we run into danger, I can handle it myself. Start the deduction immediately,” Xavion instructed, his tone allowing no room for negotiation.

Seeing this, Zayan could only sigh lightly. He then said to the two branch leaders, “Take good care of Mr. Xavion. There must be no mishaps.”

“Understood!” Both branch leaders nodded.

After finding an open space, Zayan pulled out something that resembled an eight trigrams mirror and placed it on the ground. He proceeded to draw patterns around the eight trigrams mirror.

The patterns, etched more than an inch deep into the earth, were a labyrinth of chaos, rendering it impossible to decipher the intended design. Zayan pricked his finger, letting a drop of blood fall onto the mirror.

Buzz!

The eight trigrams mirror emitted a red light. Zayan sat cross-legged, chanting incantations. Soon, faint patterns appeared within the red light, revealing the figures of Kai and his companions.

Pointing at Kai, Xanthus said, “Mr. Xavion, he’s Kai.”

However, Xavion’s gaze wasn’t on Kai but was fixed on Feenix, Kiara, and Izolda. The three girls, each with outstanding looks and unique figures, captivated Xavion’s attention. Seeing Xavion’s reaction, Xanthus remained silent.

"Mr. Xavion, they have arrived on Demonica Mountain," Zayan reported, ready to stop his deduction. After all, the longer the deduction was, the more spiritual sense would be used, and the longer the recovery period would be.

"Mr. Cabeza, don't stop. Let me observe a bit more, Xavion said to Zayan as he stared at the girls intently. He licked his lips as desire smoldered within him.

Not knowing that Xavion was admiring the ladies, Zayan gritted his teeth and persevered.

Meanwhile, Kai and his group had no idea they were being spied on.

Kai halted in his steps and glanced at the sky. Seeing him stop, Hamish asked curiously, "Mr. Chance, what's wrong?"

"It seems that we're being spied on." Kai furrowed his brows.

"Who is it?"

Hamish quickly scanned the surroundings, and everyone else became alert.

"Don't panic. The other party is using arcane array deduction. We're probably quite far from them now," Kai reassured.

"Arcane array deduction? It's an ancient arcane array that will heavily deplete the user's spiritual sense. Who is doing that to us? We're not worth spying on," Misho stated, sounding puzzled.

"I'm not sure, but since they are spying on us, they must be our enemy. Everyone, be cautious," Kai concluded. Waving his hands, he sent a spurt of aura into the air. It then burst apart, creating a loud bang.

The moment the aura burst apart, Zayan spat out a mouthful of blood in the middle of his deduction, and the scene on the eight trigrams mirror disappeared instantly.

“Mr. Cabeza, are you okay?” both branch leaders asked anxiously.

Zayan’s face was pale as he nodded. “I’m fine.”

When Zayan turned around and looked at Xavion, he was surprised to see an expression of lingering excitement on Xavion's face. He found it strange, not understanding what Xavion had seen to evoke such a reaction.

If he knew that Xavion's insistence on continuing the deduction was solely for the sake of observing women, he would probably be infuriated.

"Mr. Xavion, Kai is with a group with several formidable cultivators among them. So, when it comes to capturing him, it's more prudent to entrust the task to the Demon Seal Alliance's branch. It's not advisable for you to intervene at this point," Zayan advised Xavion.

"Mr. Cabeza, the more challenging it is, the more we should personally take action. The branch is probably not capable enough to capture Kai," Xavion insisted on capturing Kai personally.

However, at this moment, he wasn't just focused on capturing Kai as he also had his eyes on the three girls in the group.

In the desolate Demonia Mountain, Xavion would feel less lonely if he were accompanied by three girls.

When he was at the Demon Seal Alliance headquarters, Talcott had forbidden him from indulging in romantic pursuits to increase his strength rapidly. Now that he was out, with no one to restrict him, he wanted to have fun.

Zayan shot Xavion a helpless look.

“Go immediately and gather all the Demon Seal Alliance disciples you can summon,” he ordered the two branch leaders.

“Also, find all the Soulless Hall members you can. With the rampant Demonic Cultivators in Demonia Mountain, there must be members of Soulless Hall here,” Zayan commanded Xanthus who was from Soulless Hall.

Now that Xavion’s interest in causing trouble had escalated, Zayan had no choice but to deploy additional manpower.

Talcott had only one precious son, and if anything happened to him, none of them would survive.

Zayan turned to Xavion and said, “Mr. Xavion, I need to recover, so let’s stay here and wait until they return with the rest.”

“Sure. Anything you say.” Xavion nodded in agreement.

On the other hand, Kai and the rest continued to trek deep into Demonia Mountain. As they knew someone was spying on them, they proceeded with caution.

“Why does it feel so eerie here?” Kiara pulled her collar together as they moved forward.

“The lethal intent on Demonia Mountain is heavy. With your cultivation level being lower, being shrouded in lethal intent for a long time might make you feel this way. Here, take this pill. It should help.” Kai took out a pill and handed it to Kiara.

Kiara glanced at Kai and swallowed the pill without hesitation. Soon, her body felt warm, and the eerie feeling disappeared.

“No wonder Demonic Cultivators love Demonia Mountain. The lethal intent here is thick, perfect for their cultivation,” Misho remarked.

“Everyone, shield your meridians with spiritual energy. Prolonged exposure to these negative energy and lethal intent could cause issues,” Kai reminded everyone.

Everyone protected their meridians and continued forward. Along the way, they encountered many corpses of demon beasts and some cultivators who had met unfortunate ends.

Clearly, these cultivators had entered Demonia Mountain and encountered the demon beasts. After they died, their corpses were left here.

However, no one would waste time mourning over someone else’s death. This was the harsh reality of Demonia Mountain. Everyone had risked their life to be here, not knowing when danger would strike. However, danger also came with opportunities.

As the group moved forward, Kai suddenly stopped and shouted, “There’s a Demonic Cultivator!”

Hearing that, everyone immediately prepared for battle.

At the same time, the five Demonic Cultivators near Kai's group had detected their presence and grew tense. Those five Demonic Cultivators were from Blood Spirit Valley, which included Dalton and Rosetta.

There was also an old man, who was the master of Blood Spirit Valley, Rosetta's father, and Dalton's mentor, Igor Lothian. Dalton turned to Igor, asking, "What do we do, Master? Should we hide?"

During their journey, they had been avoiding anyone they spotted to prevent conflicts. After all, they were Demonic Cultivators, and if they met human cultivators, there would be trouble.

However, there were also plenty of cultivators on Demonica Mountain who wouldn't attack the Demonic Cultivators because it was the Demonic Cultivators' territory. Human cultivators were only there in search of treasures, not to eliminate the Demonic Cultivators. If the Demonic Cultivators didn't cause trouble, the human cultivators wouldn't attack them.

"No. They have already discovered us. I hope they harbor no ill will toward us," said Igor before leading his group toward Kai.

Meanwhile, Kai frowned because he could feel the Demonic Cultivators approaching them. He was unsure if the incoming party was hostile, so he asked everyone to be ready.

Misho asked the weaker individuals to stand in the middle of the group while the others surrounded them, creating a battle formation.

Soon, Igor and his group revealed themselves, and everyone sensed the demonic aura emanating from that group. Those Demonic Cultivators needed not to conceal their aura on Demonica Mountain.

"You lot have some nerves! You know we're here, but you still dare to approach us! Are you looking down on us? Today, I shall do society a favor and eliminate you all!" Upon finishing his sentence, Misho wielded his sword and charged toward Igor. When the others saw that, they charged forth, too.

Kai tried to stop them, but he was too slow. Igor hadn't anticipated the depth of animosity Misho harbored towards the Demonic Cultivators. Matching Misho's intensity, he too unsheathed his sword, his face a mask of fury.

The others instantly joined the battle. The Demonic Cultivators had harmed Misho in the past, so he resented them and didn't hesitate to assault them.

Seeing that, Kai turned to Feenix and Cloud somewhat resignedly. "You all stay behind and keep your eyes peeled. I don't want any Demonic Cultivators ambushing us."

Then, he leaped forward with Dragonslayer Sword in hand. Just as he was about to make his move, he spotted Dalton and Rosetta. Those two also noticed Kai. Pleasantly surprised, they shouted with delight, "Mr. Chance!"

"Why are you two here?" Kai was similarly shocked.

"Stop it, Father! Stop it!" Rosetta did her best to hold her father back. Kai also exclaimed, "Everyone stop!"

His roar thundered across the battlefield, instantly causing everyone to stop their attacks.

"What's the matter, Rosie?" asked Igor.

"Dad, this is Mr. Chance, the one Dalton and I mentioned to you before. He was the one who saved us and treated me." Rosetta pointed at Kai.

Igor was stunned. He studied Kai with a look of disbelief. He had assumed Kai would be older, but the latter turned out to be a rather young man. Misho also turned to Kai. "You know these Demonic Cultivators, Mr. Chance?"

Kai nodded. "I do. They're from Blood Spirit Valley and my friends."

"You're friends with the demons?" Hamish was perplexed.

"Not just the demons, but members of the beast race, too. I never care about someone's race when I befriend them so long as they don't hurt innocent people. There are good demons, and there are absolutely awful humans. That is why we can't judge an individual by their race."

Upon hearing Kai's words, Hamish and Misho grew silent. Igor was slightly surprised. "I didn't expect someone as young as you to have such wonderful insight. No wonder Mr. Whalreth was willing to teach you his techniques."

Clearly, Dalton had told Igor about Kai knowing how to perform Sacred Light Fist.

"It wasn't just Mr. Whalreth. Mr. Baal rescued me before, too." Kai smiled.

"What? You've met Baal? Where is he?" Igor was taken aback. Dalton and Rosetta were equally flabbergasted as they had never heard Kai mentioning his meeting with Baal.

"Mr. Baal should be in the Ethereal Realm, but I've no clue where he's hiding." Kai shook his head.

He didn't know where Baal was hiding, but he suspected it was somewhere obscure. No doubt he's investigating the Celestial Battle still. Although over a thousand years have passed, they have been suppressed for such a long time without a clear reason. It's no wonder he wants to get to the bottom of this matter.

Igor sighed. "After Baal and the others vanished, the demons became public enemies."

Following that, he turned to Misho and Hamish. "While Blood Spirit Valley belongs to the demons, I've done nothing reprehensible nor hurt anyone."

"Old Mr. Giuvali, Mr. Chevalier, Blood Spirit Valley is indeed different from other demons." Kai then explained to Misho and Hamish about Rosetta being infected by bloodlust.

When they heard how Rosetta had drunk Dalton's blood to avoid harming innocent people, their attitude toward Blood Spirit Valley became friendlier.

"Dalton, Ms. Lothian..." At that moment, Cloud and the others approached the duo.

"Mr. Seizon!" Dalton and Rosetta exclaimed joyously when they saw Cloud. After all, they had developed a bond when they were at Night Sea.

"Have you come to Demonica Mountain for the matter of the Celestial Battlefield, too?" Igor asked Kai.

Without hesitation, Kai nodded. "That's right, but we encountered some delays on our journey. I wonder if the magical items hidden in the Celestial Battlefield have been taken by others."

Swiftly, Rosetta said, "The Celestial Battlefield hasn't opened yet, Mr. Chance. No one can enter to take anything, so you aren't late at all."

"What? It's not opened yet?" Kai was dumbfounded. Hamish and Misho were similarly dumbstruck. After all, they were told the Celestial Battlefield had been discovered, yet apparently, it hadn't been opened yet.

Igor explained, "The Celestial Battlefield is indeed on Demonica Mountain. However, it isn't within Demonica Mountain. The battle from way back then was capable of splitting space open. If such a battle had occurred in the Ethereal Realm, the whole place would've crumbled. While the Celestial Battlefield is located on Demonica Mountain, it's in another space. Right now, in the heart of Demonica Mountain, a crack leading into that other space has formed. However, it hasn't fully opened yet, so there are only temporal disturbances there. No one can get through it."

Upon listening to Igor's explanation, Kai understood something. He recalled the island in Night Sea and the dead dragons. Those were also located in an alternate space.

"In that case, it seems we aren't late at all." Kai breathed a sigh of relief. In this case, whether one can obtain the magical items in the Celestial Battlefield will depend on one's luck!

"Of course not. Not only that, we can ensure you'll be the first to step foot into the Celestial Battlefield." Igor grinned.

"I can go first?" Kai was stunned.

Once the Celestial Battlefield was opened, groups of people would undoubtedly swarm toward the entrance, and there would be chaos. As powerful as Kai was, there was no guarantee he could get there first.

"The opening of the Celestial Battlefield on Demonica Mountain wouldn't be the same as any other location, without any rules to speak of, Mr. Chance. The six major factions on Demonica Mountain have already achieved an agreement with the various clans and cultivators in the same area. No random individual will be given entry to the Celestial Battlefield on Demonica Mountain. Only those who possess a token will be able to get there. This method will ward off some wandering cultivators and cultivators from other regions. Unless they are willing to offer some resources, they can't get it. An entrance fee, so to speak. This way, the cultivators and clans in the southern region will gain a natural advantage and even obtain extra resources. Blood Spirit Valley, as one of the major factions on Demonica Mountain, naturally has a limited amount of tokens we can distribute to people we deem worthy. I can assure you that you will be able to enter the Celestial Battlefield first,” said Igor.

His words stunned Hamish, Kai, and the others.

“Why would the cultivators in the southern region agree to cooperate with you Demonic Cultivators?” asked Misho, puzzled.

“Why not? If we work together, everyone benefits from this arrangement. If we don’t, then it’s a lose-lose situation for everyone. No one will say no to extra resources, so they complied. Don’t forget that many people tend to value benefits over most things. If the Celestial Battlefield is located in your territory, and some Demonic Cultivators propose to work with you to make the best out of it, will you turn them down?” Igor sneered.

Misho grew silent because he agreed with Igor’s words. After all, the Demon Seal Alliance, an organization with the goal of eliminating the Demonic Cultivators, ultimately worked with them. If that could happen, then why couldn’t any group cooperate with the Demonic Cultivators under the right circumstances?

“This is better. With order, massacres can be avoided. If there is no order, then Demonica Mountain will surely become a hellish place littered with death,” remarked Kai.

The entire Ethereal Realm now lacked order. While the realm’s five major territories were governed by someone, the rulers tended to care more about their cultivation than anything. If they didn’t care about their territory, then certainly no one else would.

“Let’s go. Follow me. No one will stop us when we enter the Celestial Battlefield together,” said Igor.

The crowd exchanged glances before settling their gazes on Misho and Hamish. After all, they were all human cultivators, so they felt a little uncomfortable following the Demonic Cultivators.

However, if they refused to comply, then they wouldn't be able to enter the Celestial Battlefield because they were outsiders, thereby rendering their journey futile.

Misho and Hamish glanced at each other, not daring to speak up. Upon seeing that, Kai realized those people also wanted to enter the Celestial Battlefield but didn't want to bear the responsibility of saying it.

After all, there was still a barrier between Demonic Cultivators and human cultivators.

"I'll follow Mr. Lothian in. If anyone tries to use this as an excuse to cause trouble after we return, ask them to meet me." Kai took the initiative to bear the responsibility. When the crowd saw this, they agreed and were willing to follow along.

"Very well. Since all of you are willing to join me, we'll set off right away. We'll first gather at Creston Sect and wait there for the opening of the Celestial Battlefield. Once we arrive, there will be no more difference between humans and demons. No one is allowed to start any private fights. Several prestigious families in the Demonica Mountain region will also be present, so the other human cultivators will restrain themselves. Even if you encounter your nemesis, please do not act violently.

Remember, even if you still have a prejudice against Demonic Cultivators, you must behave yourselves. Remind yourselves that you're here for treasures, not petty fights," reminded Igor.

The crowd nodded. Since they had chosen to follow Igor, they naturally had to obey his commands.

Before long, they set off for Creston Sect, with Igor leading the way.

The Mans Decree Chapter 3350

At that moment, Zayan was still slowly recovering his spiritual sense under a tree on Demonia Mountain. Xavion was getting bored, fiddling with a golden knife in his hand.

At that moment, two branch leaders returned but didn't bring anyone else from the Demon Seal Alliance. Zayan frowned. "What's with the two of you? Do you not have any subordinates?"

"Mr. Cabeza, we received a message from Mr. Lfterov. Take a look." One of the branch masters handed a communication device to Zayan. Zayan accepted it. He read it with his spiritual sense and furrowed his brows.

"What did my father said, Mr. Cabeza?" asked Xavion.

"It seems we aren't allowed to deal with Kai on Demonia Mountain. Right now, everyone in that region is forbidden from attacking anyone. The main demon factions on Demonia Mountain have reached an agreement with the nearby sects to enforce that rule. To think all these people want a piece of the pie waiting in the Celestial Battlefield so badly that they're willing to cooperate with the Demonic Cultivators. How shameless!" spat Zayan disdainfully.

Upon ending his sentence, he instantly felt embarrassed. After all, the Demon Seal Alliance was also working with the Demonic Cultivators behind the scenes.

The only difference was that those on Demonia Mountain were doing so openly.

In response, Xavion persuaded, "In that case, we can visit the Celestial Battlefield too, Mr. Cabeza. You don't need to worry about my safety there."

“Mr. Xavion, they only mentioned that no one is allowed to fight on Demonica Mountain. Once inside the Celestial Battlefield, no one can control anyone. People will definitely battle each other for the various magical items there. While I can bring you there to take a look, you aren’t allowed to enter the Celestial Battlefield. If anything happens to you, I won’t be able to explain myself to your father,” said Zayan. While those people can prevent conflicts from erupting on Demonica Mountain, no one will give a d*mn about the rules once they’re inside the Celestial Battlefield.

“Let’s go, then! Since we can’t do anything on Demonica Mountain, we’ll just wait until Kai leaves the place and deal with him then,” said Xavion impatiently.

Resignedly, Zayan led Xavion toward Creston Sect Creston Sect could be considered the largest sect on Demonica Mountain. It had been residing in a large crack deep within Demonica Mountain.

As people rarely passed by that area, and it was swarming with demon beasts, human cultivators rarely visited the place. Creston Sect had the space to develop.

If not for the Celestial Battlefield, barely anyone would visit Demonica Mountain. Igor eventually brought Kai’s group to Creston Sect’s territory. Above the sect was a gigantic dimensional crack.

The crack appeared to be tearing the sky apart, surrounded by a cloud of white mist. Anyone could see the continually spinning vortexes above them. Those were all temporal disturbances.

“It seems it’ll only be mere days before the Celestial Battlefield fully opens,” said Igor as he glanced at the crack.

“So that’s what the entrance to the Celestial Battlefield looks like. It’s completely different from how I imagined it to be!”

“What a superb sight! Also, to think that Creston Sect is such a huge demonic sect despite the current situation in the Ethereal Realm.”

“If the Celestial Battlefield opens at such an obscure location, how did news of it spread out? Were Creston Sect themselves the ones who leaked the news?”

“Why didn’t Creston Sect keep this matter a secret and take the magical items for themselves when the entrance opens?”

“Is this a conspiracy?”

The crowd had numerous thoughts on the matter because they were still wary about the Demonic Cultivators.
