

Married by Accident (English) Chapter 15 - Shocking confession

Chapter 15: Shocking confession

Arabella is currently still silent in place, with her supine position and clothes that have been opened so that the top is exposed very clearly, showing her white skin.

She who had just seen Leonard suddenly leave just left her without saying a word after receiving the call. Made her wonder at the man who left without looking back.

She hastily tidied up her appearance that looks very pathetic. Since there was no one in the room, Arabella took off her clothes and threw them on the cold white floor that she had stepped on. Her long legs tread with bare feet which immediately made her feel the coldness of the floor.

As if she didn't care about her surroundings when she took off all her clothes and immediately cleaned herself in the bathroom. Of course to take a shower and scrub her all over. She felt very disgusted because her body was easily touched by Leonard. In fact, she did not stop the tears flowing from her eyeballs when she felt a tightness in her chest when she remembered her bad luck.

A few moments later, Arabella came out of the bathroom with a towel up to her chest and did not forget the small towel wrapped in her wet hair. At this time, she feels very cold because the time is 22.15 WIB, she instead washes her hair with cold water.

Her rent is not like the luxury homes of the conglomerates that have hot water, air conditioning and all luxury furniture, in contrast to the current one where there is only a small pot as a place to cook in the rented house. Still shivering from the cold, Arabella grabbed a change of clothes from the closet and hurriedly put them on.

"Where's that bastard? What actually made him look so happy and just walk away?" Arabella reflexively slapped her forehead repeatedly while cursing her stupidity.

"You idiot! Why are you questioning where he went. You should be happy, Arabella. You've survived that bastard."

Satisfied with cursing and cursing her stupidity, Arabella walked out of the room and immediately locked the front door. For a moment she paused in front of the chair which was a silent witness to the marriage agreement a few minutes ago.

Even the positions of all the people who had been standing in their respective places, she also memorized very well. Starting from the man who was none other than Billy, Vino and two young masters from a wealthy family who were highly respected by everyone.

"Now my status is Leonard's wife. A man who only intends to take revenge and destroy my future. How can I make Leonard immediately divorce me and not touch me like before?"

Over and over again Arabella shook her head as she recalled the brutality of the man who nearly raped her. She remembered the voice of Leonard who had called out to a woman in a gentle tone. In contrast to the treatment that was very cruel and rude to her.

Ayumi. Is she Leonard's lover? I should be thanking her, for saving me from that bastard's madness. Even if I could, I would have that woman make Leonard divorce me. Hopefully, she won't come here anymore and forget today after having fun with Ayumi. Her name is just like Japanese. Is she descended from people from that sakura country?"

Feeling herself so stupid, thinking about another woman who was related to Leonard, made Arabella shake her head again and again, to stop thinking about unimportant things and wasting her time.

She who felt very tired and her body ached all because of the harsh actions of Leonard who threw her body many times. Starting from the wall, also the bed and maybe there are bruises on the back area of her body.

Once inside the room, she didn't forget to lock the door before laying down on her bed. A few moments later, she who was lying on her back, looked up at the ceiling and her mind flashed back to her past sentence.

"Father, mother. Can you see from up there that your child is now living in misery? If that accident had not happened, my fate would not have been as bad as this."

Unable to contain it, the already teary eyeballs were now rushing down her cheeks. For a while, Arabella sobbed to express her sadness. As if she wanted to let go of all her burdens and complaints when loneliness hit at night.

Every night, she always wept bitterly when she remembered that she lived alone in this world. In fact, no one even loved her because she only became herself when she was alone and felt that no one was by her side. A few moments later, she again complained and vented everything by complaining.

"If only my parents were still alive. Somehow, I want to see them again. God, let me dream of meeting my parents even if it's only in a dream."

That prayer every time Arabella said every night before going to bed. However, only disappointment that always came to her because she could not dream about her parents.

I don't know how long Arabella had been crying, a few moments later, only the sound of regular breathing could now be heard from her mouth and signaled that the thin woman curled up with her head under the pillow had fallen into her sleep.

A few hours later, at 01.15 WIB, Leonard had just arrived at Arabella's rented house. He who has a spare key, of course, can easily get into a simple house that is far from worthy. Without wasting any time, he had already walked into the house and headed towards the room.

However, the door that was locked from the inside by Arabella, made him bang on the door to wake up the woman he had only been married for a few hours.

"Open the door, you cheap woman!"

Leonard repeatedly cursed when he remembered the threats from his brother and also the young master from a conglomerate family who told him to immediately bring Arabella back to his house.

"Damn, I just missed Ayumi, but those two annoying men have messed everything up," Leonard whispered, remembering the incident when he was in a restaurant during a romantic dinner with a woman who was none other than a childhood friend whom he secretly loved very much. .

However, Ayumi has only considered him as a friend and made him never express his feelings. Until a surprising confession came from the woman today.

"Leonard, I'm going to marry a man I never loved and I don't want to. So I told my parents that you proposed to me. Come on, let's get married!"

Continued...