Married at First Sight Chapter 2025-Mr. Brown also said: "Liberty, you keep it and cultivate Sonny well, we will be very pleased."

His son's reputation was rotten, and he probably won't remarry in the future.

Then their Brown family only had one grandson, Sonny.

Now in the eyes of Mr. Brown and Mrs. Brown, the grandson was the most important.

As long as the grandson was doing well.

"The business in my store is very good and I can make money. It's not much money. You can buy something to eat. I still have something to do in the store and go back first. When Sonny has a holiday on Saturday, I will bring Sonny to see his Dad."

Liberty forced the little money into Mrs. Brown's hands.

The money was not too much, just $2000.

Mrs. Brown reluctantly accepted $2000, picked up the bag of fruit bought by Liberty and chased it out, insisting that Liberty take the fruit away, but Liberty refused, and the two of them pushed each other again. It was Mrs. Brown who brought her back to the ward.

Chelsea opened the bag and looked at the nutritional products Liberty sent, and said: "They are all nutritional supplements for nourishing blood. Liberty is really caring. Our family used to treat her badly. She looked at it for Sonny's sake and still willing to come over and have a look."

She took out another box of nutritional supplements from her bag, and said to her mother, "Mom, I've been injured too, and I've been hospitalized. After being discharged from the hospital, Liberty bought two boxes of supplements, and I will take one box back to supplement."

Mrs. Brown: "What kind of fruit did Liberty buy?"

Chelsea took the bag from her mother and opened it to see that it was a bag of grapes. She picked a grape and ate it. It was crisp, sweet and seedless, and she didn't need to peel it. She immediately said, "Mom, Hank can't eat these now. The fruit won't last long and the weather will be hot, so it will go bad."

Mrs. Brown: "You and my dad take out some, and bring the rest back to the small refrigerator for me to eat."

Liberty was generous; she had tasted the grapes she purchased, and she estimated that each catty cost more than $30.

When she bought it by herself, she was reluctant to buy more, so she bought one or two catties to try something new, unlike Liberty who bought a big bag at once.

“Well, if Liberty and Hank don’t divorce, nothing will happen, and our family’s life will get better and better.” Chelsea sighed.

If her younger brother and Liberty hadn’t divorced, her parents would still be taking care of her children, the couple wouldn’t be unemployed, and their parents’ money would subsidize her small family, so the money given to her by the couple would be saved.

Although her husband was opening a shop to start a business, the expenses were high, and the money he earned a month was not as much as Liberty’s breakfast shop.

When it came to this matter, Mr. Brown and Mrs. Brown were all disheveled.

After a long time, Mr. Brown sighed and said: “Our Brown family is unlucky, and Hank is unlucky.”

A good daughter-in-law was divorced, and the remarried daughter-in-law was not a good one, which made the family turbulent, and almost killed his son.

“I heard that Liberty is going to open a new restaurant again, and her business will get better and better, and she will grow bigger and bigger. I really envy her.” Chelsea was really envious.

Knowing that his daughter couldn’t get rid of sh!t, Mr. Brown immediately warned his daughter: “Chelsea, you can’t go to Liberty. She has a good business, that’s because of her ability, no matter how much money she makes, it’s her ability, it’s her blessing. You can’t go to her to borrow money or something.”

Chelsea: “Dad, I know. In the past, seeing Liberty’s life is so good, I must be jealous, and I will find a way to destroy it. But now, after Serenity gets someone to rescue me, Lucas, I won’t target her and her sister again.”
