

Married At First Sight Chapter 3501

Married At First Sight Chapter 3501-Callum said with a serious expression, “You know Carrie’s personality best. Her parents couldn’t teach her well, but now that person can transform her into a lady of noble standing. Although she’s still a little short, it’s impressive. I’ll talk to my eldest brother later.”

Camryn replied, “It feels like she’s targeting Serenity, but I don’t know why.”

Callum comforted her, “Don’t overthink it; we’ll find out. When your assistants return, we’ll go eat. Do you want to go back to Wildridge Manor or the hotel?”

“The hotel. It’s too far to return to Wildridge Manor.”

Although the old seniors were still at Wildridge Manor, they were about to leave, so Callum and the others had resumed their normal routines. Those who had work went to work, and those still in school continued their studies.

It was the beginning of the winter vacation. Most students were on break, but Rowan, a high school student, was still attending extra classes. He could only take a break when the New Year approached and would start school earlier than others afterward.

“I didn’t want to go back to Wildridge Manor tonight, but now I think I have to. My sister-in-law is still there.” Camryn nodded, wanting to inform Serenity about what had happened.

Considering that Serenity was at Wildridge Manor with the old lady, Camryn decided to wait until after dinner to discuss it.

Meanwhile, the fake Carrie left Spring Blossoms by car and immediately called her stand-in.

The stand-in answered quickly. “Where are you now?”

“On the way back to your residence.”

Carrie was silent for a moment, then said, “Okay, let’s talk when we meet later.”

The fake Carrie said, “Just prepare the money for me. I got slapped several times and need compensation.”

Carrie smiled, “Don’t worry, I won’t treat you unfairly.”

Watching others get slapped felt gratifying to Carrie. She couldn’t stand seeing others happy and relished their suffering. Without a stand-in, she would have been the one slapped.

Callum really protected that blind woman. Her mother was right: the men of the York family dote on their wives, and all members of the York family have weaknesses.

Everything Camryn has now originally belonged to Carrie. She vowed to take it all back, ruin Camryn's reputation, leave her with nothing, and hand her over to Mr. Labbe for abuse.

Mr. Labbe had said the blind woman was much smarter than Carrie. He was interested in both the blind woman and Serenity. Carrie felt thrilled thinking about their fate. She envisioned herself as the head of the Newman family, worth over a billion, and marrying into the York family would be a perfect match.

She didn't mind if Callum and Camryn divorced. As long as the second-married man was Callum, it was worth it to her.

“Ring, ring, ring...”

Carrie's phone rang. Seeing the caller ID, she saw it was Mr. Labbe.

She composed herself before answering, “Mr. Labbe.”

Mr. Labbe laughed on the phone, “I can hear your joy. You seem in a good mood. It appears your plan is working well.”

“Yes, it is. The blind woman now believes Mrs. Labbe is Mrs. Labbe, not Miss Newman. You were amazing to find a lookalike so quickly.”