

Married At First Sight Chapter 3592

Married At First Sight Chapter 3592 – Bianca sat down next to Camryn and held her hand with concern. “Camryn, don’t dwell on the past. We’ve gone from bad to good. Your life will be smooth, and you’ll be happy for the rest of your days.”

“Why worry about those people and what they did? They’ve already received the punishment they deserved.”

Camryn blinked away the tears at the corners of her eyes. “Yes, I won’t think about it anymore. I’ve waited for the clouds to clear and the moon to shine. Good things have come after the bad times. What awaits me now is a happy life. Bianca, let’s go out and fly a kite. While it’s still windy, let’s go to the big lawn. It’s perfect for flying kites.”

“Okay,” Bianca agreed.

Camryn pulled Bianca outside.

Bianca followed her readily. Meanwhile, Evan, who had been hiding by the window near the stairs and eavesdropping, grew anxious.

Had his sister-in-law forgotten her mission today?

She had invited Bianca over as he had requested, but he still hadn’t figured out where Bianca and Fox might be connected. Yet his sister-in-law was taking Bianca to fly a kite!

Join our Telegram and WhatsApp for quick updates

And they were heading to the big lawn to do it. Although there were trees around the lawn where he could hide, the distance would make it hard to see them clearly. Even if he could watch them flying kites, he wouldn’t catch the small details.

Evan cursed his elder brother in his heart. His sister-in-law had casually mentioned that it was windy today and suitable for kite flying, and his brother eagerly sent the kite back to her. Now, both of them were off to fly kites.

He wanted to hide and observe them, but if he followed too closely, Bianca might become suspicious and not reveal anything.

Yes, Bianca was definitely on guard against him.

As soon as he entered, he had asked his sister-in-law if Evan was home. Her explanations were convincing, but Evan still felt something was off.

As Silver Fox’s apprentice, Bianca was skilled and of considerable status. Why would she be afraid of being recognized?

Was she wary of him because he might discover something?

Could it be that Bianca was actually Fox in disguise?

Fox's nickname hinted at her abilities. If she changed her appearance and identity, people unfamiliar with her would easily be deceived.

Foxes are cunning.

If Bianca is Fox and Fox is Bianca, it would make sense. Bianca is Silver Fox's apprentice, with many fellow apprentices and access to a powerful information network. If he tried to investigate Fox, Fox would find out first.

Moreover, even if Fox was highly skilled, he couldn't harm her.

If she was Silver Fox's apprentice, trained by so many masters, she would have to be formidable in combat.

Evan suspected this connection, but without evidence, he couldn't treat them as the same person.

Fox was the woman he had fallen for.

What if he was wrong? If Bianca and Fox weren't the same person, and he mistakenly poured all his feelings for Fox into Bianca, wouldn't it be a mistake—a misguided love?

If Fox found out, he'd lose any chance of winning her over.

"Sister-in-law."

With this thought, Evan called out to Camryn, who was already at the door.

Camryn turned her head.

Bianca also looked back at Evan, thinking, So Evan is home.

"Evan, you're at home. I thought you weren't here," Camryn said. Then she turned to Bianca and added, "I only saw Evan late last night, so I didn't know he was back. Evan, when did you return to the villa?"