

Married at First Sight Chapter 4414

After a moment, Zhan Yiyang said, “Yumeng, I haven’t done well enough. I’ll try harder and do better in the future.”

“There’s a party on Saturday. I’ll be attending and need someone to go with me. See if you’re free that day.”

The surprise came so suddenly that Zhan Yiyang looked up at Du Yumeng in disbelief. “Yumeng, are you talking to me?”

“Is there anyone else here besides the two of us?”

This guy could really be dense sometimes.

Zhan Yiyang grinned. “I was just afraid I misheard. Yumeng, I’m free—anytime. If you ever need someone to accompany you to an event or social gathering, just say the word.”

“I’d love to go with you and be your personal bodyguard.”

Even if she hadn’t asked, if he knew she was going to a party, he would’ve found a way to get himself invited just to be there with her.

He couldn’t risk letting his fox be lured away by other men.

From what he knew, many wealthy families in Haicheng had their eyes on Du Yumeng, hoping she would become their daughter-in-law.

But Du Yumeng didn’t feel any connection with their sons. Those well-groomed local elites just weren’t her type.

The one she liked was Zhan Yiyang.

Yes, even though she hadn’t formally accepted his feelings, Zhan Yiyang could feel her love for him.

She had fallen for him last year.

“Come to my house and wait for me around six on Saturday evening.”

“Okay.”

“Do you have a new suit?”

Zhan Yiyang was about to say no, but quickly changed his answer. “I don’t have any new suits. The ones I wear are all older.”

Was Yumeng going to buy him one?

“Then find some time in the next few days to shop for two new ones. If you want them custom-made, it might be too late. Just buy some ready-to-wear ones—there are a few good brands out there.”

Zhan Yiyang felt a little disappointed again.

Zhan Yiyang felt a fresh wave of disappointment.

Yumeng wasn’t offering to buy clothes for him—she was asking him to buy them himself.

“Yumeng, could you help me pick out a few new suits? I usually get my clothes custom-made. If I buy them on my own, I’m afraid I’ll choose poorly.”

It would be hard for Du Yumeng to take that seriously.

The men of the Zhan family were perfectly capable of dressing themselves. Were they really afraid of buying the wrong clothes?

She knew exactly what he was getting at—he just wanted her to buy him some new clothes.

At that moment, the waiter began serving the food.

Once all the dishes had arrived, Du Yumeng invited Zhan Yiyang to start eating.

As for whether she would buy him those new suits, she gave no clear answer—at least not until she was full and content.

Zhan Yiyang resigned himself to the outcome.

He would have to buy new clothes on his own.

He hadn’t won her over yet—so the effort had to continue.

“I haven’t been to the movies in a long time,” Du Yumeng replied. “I’m not even sure what’s worth watching right now.”

“Well, we won’t know unless we go check it out.”

“Since you don’t have any social engagements tonight, why not relax a bit? My treat.”

Du Yumeng didn’t say no.

And just like that, Zhan Yiyang, who had been feeling a little down, perked up instantly.
