Chapter 4669

“Your eldest sister is very nice and open-minded,”

Li Nuo said.

She didn’t dare to say that Ning Yunchu might not care about her brother’s major life events.

On second thought, Ning Yunchu shouldn’t be that kind of person.

Ning Tianlei was not that old yet, so Ning Yunchu might not worry about it. What she said made some sense.

When fate hasn't arrived, there's no point in being anxious.

When fate has arrived, it can't be stopped.

One can only say that Ning Yunchu is just letting things take their course.

"My eldest sister is very open-minded, but she also said that if you meet someone you like, go after them, then bring them back for her to see and help me make the final decision."

Ning Tianlei tilted his head and glanced at Li Nuo twice, his eyes unfathomable.

"Do you have anyone you like?"

Li Nuo asked tentatively.

Ning Tianlei retracted his gaze from her and continued walking forward. Someone almost bumped into Li Nuo, and he quickly reached out to pull Li Nuo away, saying to the person, "Why didn't you look at the road when you walked? You almost bumped into someone."

The person quickly apologized.

Li Nuo also said: "It's okay, he didn't bump into me."

"He almost bumped into you. If I hadn't pulled you away, he would have bumped into me. Be careful

, he's a thief." Ning Tianlei said the latter part in a very low voice.

"You don't know, the more people there are, the more likely you are to encounter pickpockets. They will just bump into you and take your phone when you're not paying attention."

Nowadays, people carry their phones when they go out, and generally don't carry cash.

Pickpockets can only take phones.

"My phone is in my bag."

Li Nuo said: "I thought there were fewer pickpockets nowadays."

She often took the subway and had never encountered a pickpocket, but just because she hadn't encountered one didn't mean there weren't any.

It was better to be cautious.

The two bought tickets and took the elevator down to the boarding point.

Soon, the subway arrived.

Ning Tianlei helped Li Nuo get on the train like a flower protector.

The train was crowded, with no empty seats available. It was after work, and the subway was especially crowded. The two of them had to stand, but fortunately, they only had to travel one stop.

Ning Tianlei kept Li Nuo safe, trying to prevent anyone from squeezing her.

Li Nuo, in turn, protected the bouquet of flowers, afraid that the crowds would damage it.

These were Ning Tianlei's gift to her. While they weren't roses representing love, they were his first flowers, and they meant something to her.

Everyone looked at Li Nuo with envy, and Li Nuo felt a sweet feeling in her heart.

It was just that she hadn't asked Ning Tianlei if he had someone he liked because he was interrupted by the person who almost bumped into her.

Now that there were so many people, she couldn't ask again.

The train arrived soon.

Ning Tianlei helped Li Nuo off the train again.

Seeing Li Nuo protecting the bouquet, he said, "I overlooked this. The subway is crowded, and you could easily get crushed holding the bouquet."

"Thankfully, you helped me block a lot of people, and the flowers didn't get crushed."

Li Nuo looked down at the bouquet and said, "This is the first bouquet you gave me. I have to protect it."

Ning Tianlei's dark eyes flickered.

Did she say this to express her love for him?

Married at First Sight Chapter 4670

She treasured the bouquet of flowers he casually gave her?

“If you like, I can send you flowers every day.”

Li Nuo smiled and said, “That’s not necessary. I’m not your girlfriend. If you send me flowers every day, your girlfriend will find out and get jealous. What should I do?”

Ning Tianlei quickly said that the person he liked was her.

Seeing that she was just walking forward, he swallowed back what he wanted to say. He just smiled.

Li Nuo didn’t look at him, that was because she was nervous. After she said that, she looked ahead, pretending to be just walking, but in fact, she was trying to cover up her panic.

Li Nuo felt a little disappointed when she didn’t get a reply from Ning Tianlei.

It seemed that Ning Tianlei really treated her as a friend and a classmate, and had no intention of taking it further. It’s okay, there’s a long way to go. When she gets a little braver, she can confess her feelings to him and pursue him.

As her best friend advised her, you have to try so that you won’t regret it.

After exiting the subway station, the two walked a few hundred meters to the right and arrived at a hotel they often frequented. While not as upscale or famous as the Wancheng Hotel, it was still considered a major hotel in the city.

Ning Tianlei thought the food at this hotel was delicious, almost as good as the Wancheng Hotel.

It wasn’t that he didn’t want to treat Li Nuo to dinner at the Wancheng Hotel; it was Li Nuo who didn’t want to, saying it was too expensive and a bit far from her company.

As long as they were eating together, even street food was delicious,

Ning Tianlei didn't insist .

Ning Tianlei had made reservations in advance, and upon arriving, he went straight up to the second floor. A waiter immediately greeted them, smiling and asking if they had a reservation.

"Yes, I do. My last name is Ning,"

Ning Tianlei stated, giving his last name and phone number.

The waiter smiled and led them to the private room Ning Tianlei had reserved. Ning Tianlei almost always took Li Nuo to this hotel every time he invited her to dinner. He had memorized the menu by heart.

After sitting down, he skillfully ordered a few dishes, all of which were Li Nuo's favorites.

"Please wait a moment."

After writing down their order, the waiter left.

Not long after, another waitress came in to serve tea to the two of them. When the waitress came in and saw that it was Ning Tianlei, she was stunned for a moment, then quickly poured half a cup of tea into each of the two people's cups as if nothing had happened.

She turned around and left without saying a word. When she reached the door of the private room, she turned her head and glanced at Ning Tianlei twice before silently leaving.

Seeing a colleague walking by, she stopped the colleague and whispered, "Do you know the handsome guy in this room?"

When Ning Tianlei walked into the private room with Li Nuo, many waiters saw it.

The waitress who was stopped also saw it.

She said, "I know him. He's Ning Tianlei, the young master of the Ning family. He often comes here to eat with his girlfriend."

"Does he have a girlfriend? Is that girl his girlfriend?"

“She should be his girlfriend. He brings that girl with him every time he comes here to eat. But I haven’t heard that Young Master Ning is in a relationship. I don’t know if it’s because, in our opinion, she is his girlfriend.”

“If she’s not his girlfriend, why does he bring her here every time?”

“Asi, you are not in love with Young Master Ning at first sight, are you? Don’t be mesmerized by his handsomeness. A young master from a wealthy family is not something ordinary people like us can dream of.”

The waiter named Asi hurriedly denied, “No, how could I be mesmerized by him? I just thought he was handsome, so I looked at him a few more times.” ”

In short, just don’t be mesmerized by him. Although he is a young master from a wealthy family, his parents are in jail. His second sister has also been in jail, but his second sister is now missing. I heard that he is still looking for his second sister.”

“The Ning family is quite complicated. The person in charge now is his eldest sister, the second young lady of the Zhan family.”

Asi said, “Oh.”

Married at First Sight Chapter 4671

Another person arrived for dinner, and the waitress went off to greet guests. The waitress, named Asi, turned again to look at the room Ning Tianlei had booked.

She, too, went to greet guests.

A moment later, Ning Tianlei’s dishes were ready for service.

Asi rushed to serve Ning Tianlei.

Every time she brought a dish in, she glanced at him, but Ning Tianlei only had eyes for Li Nuo, not her.

She said nothing, silently placing the dishes down and walking away.

After all the dishes were served and Asi left, Li Nuo said to Ning Tianlei, “Tianlei, that waitress who served us just now kept looking at you and not saying anything every time she came in.”

“That felt weird,”

Ning Tianlei said with a compliment, “I guess it’s because I’m so handsome. She’s never seen a man as handsome as me.”

Li Nuo smiled.

He was indeed handsome. He turned heads everywhere he went.

Thinking that the waitress looked like she was in her thirties and Ning Tianlei wouldn’t like her, Li Nuo didn’t take it to heart.

It wouldn’t be surprising if someone fell in love at first sight with a man as handsome as Ning Tianlei.

Ning Tianlei never dreamed that the waiter named Asi who served them the food was none other than his second sister, whom he had been searching for for six years.

Ning Siqi had fled Wancheng with the money Mr. Long had given her, as well as the jewelry and bags he had bought her .

She had gone to a city thousands of miles away where no one knew her. She was also away from the influence of the Zhan, Shang, and Su families.

She spent months there in fear, but when Mr. Long didn’t find her, she felt relieved.

She bought a house and a car and settled down there.

But she was used to a life of luxury. After all, she was born with a silver spoon in her mouth. She had never worked since childhood, and she never held a job as an adult.

She had no way of making money and was simply lazy. She spent her days shopping, making new friends, and spending money like water.

Within three years, she had spent all the money she had taken with her. She also sold the jewelry and designer bags she had taken.

That little money wasn’t enough to support her lavish spending.

Eventually, she even sold her house.

Her new friends, seeing she was broke, gradually distanced themselves from her because she would borrow money from them and then never pay it back.

They said it was just a lesson learned, that they had misjudged her, and that she didn't need to pay it back, but that borrowing money again was out of the question.

Someone who had accidentally learned about Mr. Long was still looking for her.

Ning Siqi feared being found by Mr. Long. She had betrayed him, and if she fell back into his hands, she would surely be dead.

Six years later, she was no longer the young woman in her early twenties.

She was already thirty years old, and would soon be thirty.

In the past six years, she had had many boyfriends, and she had lived with every boyfriend. Now, when she looked in the mirror, she lamented that she had really become a withered flower, and had long lost her former beauty.

What made her most sad was that every boyfriend had never thought of marrying her.

She had spent all her money, all her friends broke up with her, and her boyfriend found a new love. She became a poor thing with nothing.

As a last resort, she used the money from selling her house to get plastic surgery. It was not a major surgery, just a minor one, so that people would not recognize her at a glance.

After that, she returned to Wancheng.

She thought that the most dangerous place is the safest place.

Mr. Long certainly would not have thought that she would return to Wancheng.

After returning, she found a job.

Married at First Sight Chapter 4672

If she didn't work, she would starve to death. To survive, the Second Miss Ning had to humble herself.

With no work experience, she couldn't join a large company, nor did she dare to for fear of being discovered. So, she took a job as a waitress in the second-floor restaurant of this hotel.

She no longer had the swagger and arrogance of her past, maintaining a low profile, working during the day and returning to her rented apartment after work, getting along well with her colleagues.

No one could have guessed she was once the second young lady of the Ning family, a child of privilege.

Seeing her brother and Li Nuo over for dinner, Ning Siqui longed to recognize him

, but she didn't dare. She feared her older sister would find out.

After six years, Ning Siqui's hatred for Ning Yunchu and Serenity had faded.

Perhaps due to her age, maturity, and the many experiences she had gone through, she reflected: Was Ning Yunchu and Serenity truly to blame for her current situation?

No, it was her fault.

In the past, she had been spoiled by her parents, becoming overly arrogant. She was willful and overly arrogant, disregarding everyone and offending those she shouldn't have.

She had hurt Ning Yunchu more, more deeply, so it was natural for Ning Yunchu to retaliate.

Technically, Ning Yunchu hadn't retaliated much.

He simply stopped letting her live in the Ning family villa, froze her bank account, and stopped giving her pocket money. Beyond that, he hadn't done anything to her, at least not hit her.

She was unwilling to accept this, blinded by hatred, and obsessed with revenge against Ning Yunchu and Serenity. She felt that if Serenity hadn't meddled, Ning Yunchu wouldn't have risen from the ashes, and she wouldn't have offended Zhan Yin.

If she hadn't offended Zhan Yin, her parents' crimes might not have been exposed.

To vent her anger, her parents wouldn't have attempted to kidnap Yangyang, accidentally severely injuring Liberty and furthering their feud with Serenity.

Ultimately, it was all her fault.

One wrong step led to another.

That's how she was targeted by Mr. Long, exploited, and toyed with, ending up like this.

Six years ago, when she fled Wancheng with her money, she could have enjoyed a peaceful and comfortable life. However, she couldn't break her lavish spending habits.

Ultimately, she was reduced to working as a waitress here, earning a few thousand yuan a month.

She felt lost.

She used to live in paradise, but now, life is hell.

It's been a while since she returned, and after two months of work, Ning Siqu's heart has calmed down considerably.

She was somewhat touched to hear that her brother was still searching for her. At least someone still cared about her.

Six years had passed, and her brother had matured and grown. From colleagues, Ning Siqu learned that her eldest sister had handed over her and her brother's share of the family fortune to him.

The Ning Enterprise was split in two.

Ning Yunchu managed her business. Under Ning Yunchu's leadership, the original Ning Enterprise, now under a new name, had become a multi-billion dollar company.

The company her brother took over, on the other hand, hadn't seen much change, with only a slight increase in assets, not nearly as impressive as Ning Yunchu's.

Ning Yunchu had the Zhan family's backing, and her company had business dealings with the Zhan family. Setting aside other matters, simply by being associated with the Zhan family, her company wouldn't have to worry about anything.

Did she regret it?

Ning Siqu did.

She regretted being so mean in the past, always bullying her sister.

She regretted that even after being reformed, she didn't realize her mistakes, and instead, she kept pursuing revenge, further degenerating herself.

Unfortunately, there was no medicine for regret.

She would have to live like this for the rest of her life.

Married at First Sight Chapter 4673

Nine o'clock in the evening.

Youyou Villa.

Serenity emerged from the children's room to find her husband waiting for her at the door, holding their daughter.

"Baby, are you asleep?"

Zachary asked softly, handing their daughter to Serenity.

"Beibei loves to follow you around at night."

Beibei is usually sensible, well-behaved, and adorable, but once she cries, she's hard to coax and insists on following her mother. Especially at night, she clings to Serenity like a piece of taffy. Even the old lady can't take care of her at this time.

The old lady says that a child is a child of her own, and usually Beibei stays at the villa, cared for by the old lady and other elders.

But the little girl still clings to her mother the most.

Serenity held her daughter in her arms and gently pinched her face.

"It's already nine o'clock, and you're not asleep yet? Your brother's already asleep."

Zachary closed the door to the children's room for his son.

"Baby fell asleep so quickly,"

Serenity said as they returned to their room with their husband, carrying their daughter. "We had a blast all day and went swimming. We're tired, so we fall asleep as soon as we hit the bed."

"Mom,"

Beibei called softly, hugging Serenity's neck.

"Well, what's wrong?"

Beibei rested her head on her mother's shoulder, her expression full of coquettishness.

Zachary reached out and touched his daughter's face.

"It's been so long since she saw Daddy, and she won't talk to him. Just now, when you were trying to coax her to sleep, her little mouth was pouting, and I had to carry her out to find you."

Serenity said, "If you play with her for two days, she'll be willing to go. We've been apart for ten days after all."

Beibei was only a year and a half, still young, and it was time for her to cling to her mother.

During the day, anyone in the family could take care of her. At night, few could.

The couple returned to their room, and Zachary went to make formula for their daughter.

Serenity carried their daughter directly into the bedroom, laid Beibei on the bed, and she followed suit.

"Beibei, go to bed early! You don't sleep much during the day."

Beibei had been playing with her brothers and didn't sleep much, so she should be sleepy at this hour.

In the past, Beibei would go to bed around 8:00, but only after her mother had put her to sleep.

Serenity would start putting her daughter to bed at 8:30 every night, and only after she fell asleep would she resume the tasks she had brought home.

"Daddy,"

Beibei rolled over and sat up, calling out to the bedroom.

Serenity sat up, saying, "Daddy's making formula."

Beibei crawled into her arms, wanting to be held, and occasionally called "Mommy."

Soon, Zachary came in with the bottle.

Beibei still drank 150ml of formula before bed, a habit she had developed since weaning.

Zachary handed the bottle to his daughter.

“Mommy, feed her.”

Beibei refused to take the bottle, asking Serenity to feed her formula.

Serenity, holding her in one arm and taking the bottle with the other, said, “You’re not hungry enough. If you were starving, you’d have taken the bottle and started drinking.”

Zachary sat down on the edge of the bed.

“How could I possibly let her starve?”

The nanny would feed her at set times, three meals a day, on time.

Her mother fed her formula twice a day, morning and evening, and sometimes, when she woke up for her lunch break, she’d clamor for a drink of formula.

Married at First Sight Chapter 4674

“Honey, go take a shower.”

Serenity winked at her husband, signaling Zachary to do so.

Zachary immediately grasped the deeper meaning behind her words. Serenity had taken the children on a ten-day trip to Yangcheng, so the couple had been apart for a short time.

A short absence is like a new marriage.

The couple wanted to spend some quality time together tonight.

That was why Serenity had put her son to bed early and was now coaxing her daughter to sleep.

After putting both children to sleep, it was time for the couple to enjoy their love; otherwise, the two children would always interfere and become the third wheel.

“Okay, I’ll take a shower first.”

Zachary stood up, patted his daughter's head, and said, "Beibei, you need to drink your formula and go to bed early. Daddy's going to take a shower first."

Beibei was so focused on drinking her formula that she ignored her father.

She drank slowly, nestled in her mother's arms, and as she drank, she closed her eyes.

But her mouth continued to move.

By the time she finished her formula, she was already drowsy, but she would occasionally suck on it.

If she didn't suck at all, she was asleep.

Serenity gently took away the bottle and casually placed it on the bedside table.

Although Beibei was one and a half years old and had just finished drinking milk powder, Serenity still habitually held her for a while before putting her on the bed.

Zachary came out of the bathroom, shirtless, holding a towel in his hand, and walked over while wiping his hair: "Is Beibei asleep?"

"She is asleep, don't make noise, wait until she is asleep more, then put her down."

Serenity whispered to her husband, asking him not to talk too loudly.

Looking up, she saw that her husband was shirtless with water droplets visible on his body. She said with a smile: "Why are you so impatient? You don't even wipe the water droplets off your body, and you don't even put on your shirt."

"You will have to take off your clothes later. It's too troublesome to put them on, and this way you won't be seen by others."

At this time, who has nothing better to do than to come and disturb Young Master Zhan.

"Wipe off the water droplets on your body and blow dry your hair. If you wash your hair and don't blow dry it before lying down on the bed, it will not only wet the pillow, but it will also affect your health."

"As the old people said, if you go to bed with your hair wet, you will easily get a headache. Don't think that you men won't get headaches. Those problems are not gender-specific."

Zachary said, "My hair is so short, it will dry quickly. The air conditioner is on in the room."

By the time his wife came out of the shower, his hair was already dry.

A moment later, Hai Tong put their daughter on the bed, covered her with a small quilt, and said to her husband, “You sit on the bed and watch her first. I’m going to take a shower.”

With an adult by her side, the little one would sleep more peacefully.

Zachary first hugged her in his arms, lowered his head and kissed her red lips.

After getting a little sweetness, he whispered in her ear, “Honey, I’ve missed you so much.”

Serenity blushed slightly and gently pushed him away. “It’s only been ten days. We’ve been video chatting almost every day.”

“Video chatting can’t ease the pain of missing you. I can only feel at ease when you’re in my arms, holding you truly.”

Zachary was about to kiss her again, but Serenity covered his mouth.

“Stop kissing me! If you keep kissing me, I won’t even need to shower. You watch our daughter while I go shower.”

Serenity pushed him away and hurried away.

Zachary chuckled softly and didn’t try to hold her back.

After all, tonight, he could sleep with his wife.

Zachary took a book and sat down on the bed, leaning against the headboard, flipping through the pages.

After a few minutes, perhaps unable to concentrate, he closed the book and placed it on the bedside table.

He leaned over and moved closer to his precious daughter, quietly watching her sleeping. The more he looked, the more he felt his daughter was truly adorable, delicate as a doll.

His daughter looked like both him and Serenity; in short, she had inherited both her parents’ good genes.

“Beibei, Daddy really loves you guys.”

Zachary reached out and gently touched his daughter’s face, then pressed his cheek against hers.

The little one was sleeping soundly, not waking up.

Married at First Sight Chapter 4675

Serenity came out and saw her husband teasing their daughter. She walked over and whispered, “You woke her up. She was crying and you coaxed her.”

“I was very gentle and wouldn’t wake her up.”

Zacharysat up straight and said to his wife, “Wife, our Beibei is getting more and more beautiful the more you look at her. She’s even prettier and cuter than Ye Junbo’s daughter when she was a child.”

“Children are all cute when they are young. When Yanyan was as old as Beibei, you couldn’t take your eyes off her and you wanted to bring her home to raise. Now that you have a daughter, you think Yanyan wasn’t cute when she was a child.”

Zacharychuckled, but soon he stopped laughing and said enviously, “I still envy Ye Junbo. His two children are very sensible and have good academic performance. Junyan has the demeanor of an older sister at a young age.”

“I don’t know if our Beibei will do well in school in the future.”

“Can you be as sensible as Yanyan, so that your parents don’t have to worry about you, and you can also take care of your younger brothers.”

Serenity said, “You were a top student before, and I’m not bad either. Our child has a very high IQ, so you don’t have to worry about grades. Anyway, I don’t have to worry about the baby’s grades. I feel the baby’s IQ is better than yours.”

“The disciple is better than the master. He has to be better than me, otherwise he won’t be able to keep the huge family business of the Zhan family in the future.”

“However, some couples are top students, but their children are poor students. For those who have multiple children, the first few children are top students, and the last one is a poor student.”

Serenity glared at him, “Our Beibei is not a poor student, she is definitely a top student. If you say that our daughter is a top student, and she really is a poor student when she goes to school in the future, I will settle the score with you. You are so mean and called my daughter a poor student.”

Zachary smiled, "Yes, yes, our daughter is a top student, not a poor student. I won't say more. My Zhan Yin's daughter is extremely smart. She is only one year old now, and you can see how smart she is."

Think about it, if his daughter was a poor student, Zachary would not be able to accept it, and he might be so angry that he vomited blood.

I hope my daughter will be a top student in the future.

Seeing that Serenity had also washed her hair, Zachary immediately got out of bed, went to get the hair dryer, pulled his wife out of the bedroom, and helped her blow dry her hair outside.

So as not to wake up his daughter.

After the hair was dried, he put the hair dryer away, and Zachary returned to his wife, hugged her waist from behind.

After touching her, he praised: "Wife, you have maintained a good figure, still so slim." "If I didn't tell you, no one would believe you've given birth to two children. In my eyes, you're still as youthful and beautiful as when we first met."

Hai Tong leaned against him and said, "You're in your thirties, middle-aged. No matter how much you take care of yourself, you can't be as youthful and beautiful as before.

"When I first met you, I didn't even use skincare products. I was naturally beautiful, a natural beauty."

"Nowadays, you can't do without skincare. Without makeup, the changes in your skin are obvious. Everyone ages. Eternal youth is a joke. It's all about makeup."

As you get older, makeup can make you look several years younger.

So, it's all technology, high-tech tricks, not true eternal youth.

"In a few years, when the children are grown, we'll start to look older."

Hai Tong is able to face aging calmly. Everyone ages.

As long as you have a good attitude, you can still be a beautiful old lady in old age, like your grandmother, cheerful and confident. Even in her nineties, she's still a leader among the elderly.

"Not really. We'll be old when we become parents-in-law. The baby is only six. We're still the morning sun, strong as ever."

Zachary said as he lowered his head and kissed his wife on the cheek.

“Wife, are we still in the bedroom as usual?”

“Let’s do it in the usual place. It would be embarrassing if we woke our daughter.”

Before their daughter was born and their baby was little, the couple was very loving. Who would have thought that their son would suddenly wake up, frightening them so much that they quickly pulled the quilt over him tightly.

She had to pretend nothing had happened and coax her son back to sleep.

The little guy woke up in the middle of the night, and it wasn’t so easy to coax him back to sleep. It took a lot of effort.

Since then, the couple’s love for each other has always been to coax the child to sleep first, then retreat to the small study, where they had specially added a bed. With the study door closed, they didn’t care whether the child woke or not. That was the world of the young couple.

Married at First Sight Chapter 4676

Zachary smiled, bent down, picked up his wife, and headed for the study.

A night of tenderness.

The next day, Serenity was woken again by her daughter. As usual, the little one would climb onto her mother’s body and into her arms. The weight of her body naturally woke Serenity.

Before she even opened her eyes, she hugged her daughter’s tiny body.

“Beibei’s awake.”

“Mom, I don’t want to sleep.”

Beibei meant that she was awake and wanted her to get out of bed.

Serenity smiled, “Okay, Mommy won’t sleep either. Let’s get up.”

She opened her eyes, still hugging her daughter. The mother and daughter nudged for a moment before she sat her daughter down beside her and stood up. Her lower back felt a little sore, the aftermath of last night's recklessness.

A short absence was like a new marriage. Zhan was truly brave, clinging to her several times.

Now, the consequences of his excessive indulgence were taking their toll.

Well, it was better to rest at home today.

One more day of rest before returning to work.

"Beibei, where's Daddy?"

Serenity asked.

Beibei replied, "Daddy, milk powder."

Serenity said "oh", she turned over and got out of bed, rubbed her sore waist, "Daddy is outside making milk powder for Beibei, right?"

Beibei nodded, she stood up, stretched out her hands to her mother and asked her mother to hold her.

Serenity picked her up and carried her to find some clothes. She changed her daughter and, when Zachary came in with the bottle, handed her daughter to him while she went to wash up.

During the day, Beibei wasn't as clingy, so Zachary could still feed her formula.

Perhaps hungry, Beibei watched her mother walk away without crying. Instead, she nestled quietly in her father's arms, clutching the bottle with both hands, sipping the formula.

She insisted on having her first dose of formula before consuming anything else in the morning.

A one-and-a-half-year-old still had a strong milk craving.

"Ring, ring, ring..."

Zhan Yin's phone rang. He held his daughter in one hand and pulled out his phone with the other. The caller ID read Ye Junbo.

He answered.

“Zhan Yin, we’re getting ready to board the plane now. You’re at the villa, right? Our private jet will land directly on your lawn.”

“Sure, we can land anytime.”

Ye Junbo’s private helicopter.

Beibei reached for the phone.

“Beibei, don’t grab it. Sister Yanyan and the others are coming,”

Zachary said, preventing his daughter from grabbing the phone.

Ye Junbo heard what he said on the other end of the phone and laughed: “Beibei is around you, she can already grab the phone.”

“She is already one and a half years old. She could grab the phone when she was a few months old. Do you think my daughter is only one and a half months old?”

Ye Junbo laughed: “Time flies, your daughter is already one and a half years old.

Married at First Sight Chapter 4677

Zachary said, “Your daughter is already in elementary school, and her grades are still so good. I haven’t seen Yanyan in a long time.”

“You’ll see her soon. Our Yanyan is as sensible as ever, and she’s becoming more and more like an older sister.”

Ye Junbo, like Zachary, favored his daughter. He was particularly lenient with her, but strict with his son, always telling him that the succession would be his responsibility, so his sister wouldn’t have to be burdened.

When the child was young, she didn’t understand. Now that Junyan was in elementary school, she understood more. She would ask Ye Junbo, “Dad, does it have to be my brother who takes over? Why can’t I? Is it because I’m a daughter?”

“Dad, do you think I’m useless, not as capable as my brother? That’s why you won’t let me be the successor?”

Ye Junbo spent a lot of time and repeated explanations to his daughter.

In the end, his daughter kept saying, “Dad, you just think I’m not as capable as my brother, so you won’t let me be the successor.” This forced Ye Junbo to finally tell his children, “It doesn’t matter if it’s a boy or a girl, it’s all about ability. When you grow up, you can take over based on your own abilities.”

Only after that did Junyan stop asking why.

Actually, at the moment, Ye Yao is not as good as his sister. Ye Yao has a lively personality. Of course, a seven-year-old child is at the peak of his mischievousness. It is impossible to ask him to be mature and steady at this age.

Jun Yan can sit still. That is due to her personality. She is born this way.

In terms of academic performance, the brother and sister are both the best. In terms of ability to do things, it seems that Ye Yao is better than his sister.

Jun Yan is not trying to compete with her brothers for the position of successor. She wants her parents to treat her equally and not to prevent her from being the successor just because she is a girl. Her parents and family mean that being a successor is very tiring. Everyone wants her to be happy and carefree, but she doesn’t want to be a lazy little princess who accomplishes nothing.

She wants to compete with her brothers and lose to them, and she will accept it with conviction.

Whenever she wins, she will not give in to her brothers.
Her aunt supported her.

Ye Junbo’s aunt loved her niece Junyan the most. Junyan also liked talking to her aunt and felt that her aunt could understand her.

“Dad, let’s get on the plane. Can’t we chat with Uncle Zhan when we get there?”

A clear child’s voice came.

Ye Junbo immediately said to Zachary: “My daughter talked about me. I’ll hang up first. We’ll talk when we meet.”

Then he hung up the phone quickly, reached out and pinched his daughter’s face lightly, and said to Mu Qing with a smile: “My daughter has started to control me.”

Mu Qing said to him: “Now the only one who can control you is your daughter.”

Ye Junbo laughed, “No way, you can control me too. I listen to my wife very much. Everyone in City A knows that I, Ye Junbo, am a henpecked husband. At home, my wife has the final say.”

The couple let the children get on the plane first, and they followed behind.

Seeing that his children had grown up, Ye Junbo suddenly whispered to his beloved wife, “Qingqing, have you ever thought about having a second child?”

Mu Qing glared at him and said unhappily, “Do you think our home isn’t lively enough? I’m already in my thirties. If I get pregnant again, I’ll be considered an elderly mother. I don’t want to have any more children. I already have a son and a daughter.”

Mu Qing was still a little scared when she thought about how tired she was in the late stages of pregnancy.

Because she was pregnant with twins, her belly was always bigger than others. Even if she was pregnant with a single baby, she was still very tired in the late stages of pregnancy.

“If the second child turns out to be twins, I’ll be so worried.”

Mu Qing was worried that her second child would be twins again, or even twins.

Married at First Sight Chapter 4678

It would be fine if they had twin daughters.

But her husband’s family has always been dominated by men and weak by women. If she really wants a second child, the chances of having a son are higher.

Ye Junbo’s younger brothers all gave birth to sons after they got married. Currently, the new generation of the Jun family only has one daughter, Jun Yan. It is very likely that Jun Yan will be the only daughter in this generation.

The Jun family is slightly better off than the Zhan family, but not much better. They can’t have more daughters even if they want to. The old people said that having Yan Yan is enough. It is better than Ye Junbo's generation, which has no daughters.

"You also said that we don't want a second child. After giving birth to these two, I thought about having a second child, but you firmly said no. Why do you suddenly want a second child now?"

Mu Qing had thought about having a second child a few years ago.

Ye Junbo felt sorry for her hardship during pregnancy and firmly said no to having a second child.

Mu Qing was a little curious when the topic of wanting a second child was suddenly brought up again.

After boarding the plane, the couple sat down. Ye Junbo smiled and said, "No, I was just saying it casually. Maybe seeing Zachary have a daughter as their second child made me itchy and want a second child, too, a daughter."

"Zachary and Hai Tong only managed to have a daughter with their second child, but we only had one child and both a son and a daughter. Now they're so grown and sensible, so just be content."

Ye Junbo chuckled. "Of course, we're the luckiest." He was much luckier than Zachary.

Looking at his sensible daughter and his mischievous son, Ye Junbo thought for a moment and said, "I don't want to do that anymore. I'm afraid of having two more mischievous children like Ye Yao. It's going to give me a headache."

Most of his younger brothers had only one child, except for the second one, who had twins.

The old doctor constantly urged his apprentice and his wife to have a second child, but Cheng Lingling refused, even if it meant a daughter, saying that raising children was too tiresome.

The old doctor told her she didn't need to take care of the child. How long had she taken care of Jun Fei since he was born?

Hadn't it all been the nanny and Jun Qin who had taken care of him, and he often came back to help his apprentice with the baby?

But no matter how much the old man urged, Cheng Lingling refused to have another child. She had a son and an apprentice, and that was enough.

Her son would take over her husband's business, and her apprentice would inherit her legacy, and everyone would be happy.

Another

child would lead to a fight over the family inheritance. The main issue was the child's crying. The couple were frightened by Jun Fei's crying as a child; even now, Jun Fei still cried occasionally.

The saying that men shed blood but not tears didn't apply to little Jun Fei. The little guy said he was still a child, not yet a man, so he could cry.

"Isn't Youyou Villa bustling now?"

"Of course. The kids are on vacation, their parents sent them back, and now we've brought a few more kids over. The Zhan family is like a kindergarten."

Their Fengchen Villa was bustling too.

There were so many nephews, and they quarreled and fought every day, making it very lively.

The nannies worried themselves to death, trying to persuade this and that.

Parents often left their children alone.

Ye Junbo always said that children should solve their own problems, and adults should stay out of the way.

Even when the little brothers started fighting, he didn't intervene. They were only a few years old, and a fight wouldn't be that serious; at most, they'd just get bitten or scratched.

Married at First Sight Chapter 4679

After Serenity changed her clothes and washed up, she came out and saw that her daughter had finished the milk powder.

"Mommy, hold me."

Beibei loves to act like a spoiled child the most in the morning.

As soon as she saw her mother come out, she abandoned her father who had just fed her milk powder, and stretched out her arms to ask her mother to hold her.

Zachary deliberately teased her: “Isn’t it good for daddy to hold you? Where is the milk powder daddy fed you? You don’t want daddy so soon.”

“Mommy, I want mommy.”

Serenity came over and took her daughter from her husband’s arms.

“At your seventh uncle’s house, you missed daddy every day. You just came back yesterday, and today you don’t want to be with daddy?”

Beibei rested her head on her mother’s shoulder.

Daddy’s arms are safe.

Mommy’s arms are warm.

She prefers her mother’s arms, which are warm and reassuring.

“I’m back. I wonder how Seventh Brother and Romina ( Lan Ruoruo ) are doing. I told them to stay a few more days and enjoy some more gossip, but you want me back again.”

Zachary said, “See what others are doing? If you don’t come back, I’ll go and get you myself.”

“Seventh Brother and Romina ( Lan Ruoruo ) both have those intentions. They’ll develop, so we don’t have to worry about it. Just wait for their wedding. I think we’ll have one this year.”

“It’s Eighth Brother we should worry about. He hasn’t made any moves yet. As for Ninth Brother, there’s no rush. At twenty-four or twenty-five, he’s not mature and stable enough. Let Ninth Brother be beaten by society for a few more years. Once he’s made some achievements, it won’t be too late to get married.”

The brothers all married late, so Ninth Brother won’t be getting married too soon either.

“Let it be. I always think it’s all about fate. When fate comes, they’ll be attracted to each other. If it’s not, they won’t have any sparks even after knowing each other for years. Like Seventh Brother and Romina ( Lan Ruoruo ), they’ve known each other for years, and they’re only now starting to have a spark.”

“They had fate first, and destiny came later.”

“Have you washed yourself?”

Serenity asked her husband.

“Well, I got up early and washed up long ago.”

Serenity said to him, “You look so energetic, my back is sore.”

“It’s my fault,”

Zachary chuckled softly, then stood up and took his daughter in his arms. He said to his precious daughter, “Beibei, Mommy isn’t feeling well today. Can Daddy carry you downstairs? We’re going downstairs for breakfast.”

“Sister Yan is coming over today, and the two little brothers will be coming too. Oh, and your aunt also said that when she comes back today, Beibei will have lots of friends to play with.”

“Okay.”

Beibei was content to be held by her mother for a moment, and she was happy to be held by her father.

The three of them left the room.

“You take Beibei downstairs first. I’ll go check on the baby and wake him up.”

Zachary nodded, carrying his daughter downstairs first.

The old lady came in. Her lifestyle hadn’t changed despite her age. She still got up early every day to practice Tai Chi in the yard, then took a walk.

She only returned when she figured the children were about to get up.

The housekeeper followed the old lady.

The old lady always said that she was in good health and did not need the housekeeper to follow her everywhere, but whenever she went out, the housekeeper would still follow her everywhere.

This was Zachary’s order.

After all, the old lady was very old, what if she fell while walking in the yard?

The villa was so big, and there were not people everywhere. If the old lady fell and no one found her, the consequences would be disastrous.

“Grandma.

Married at First Sight Chapter 4680

When Beibei saw the old lady enter the house, she immediately struggled to get off the bed.

Zachary squatted down and put his daughter down, and the little one immediately ran to the old lady.

“Beibei, wake up. Grandma, hold me.”

The old lady stepped forward and picked up her little great-granddaughter.

“Grandma.”

“Did Beibei sleep well last night?” The old lady

, one old and one young, both ancestors of the Zhan family, carried the youngest to the sofa and sat down.

Zachary followed and sat down across from his grandmother.

“Grandma, your walk was a bit long today.”

“This morning, the sun wasn’t up yet, so I walked a little longer because the air was fresh. Now the sun is high in the sky, and it’s really hot outside. The weather is really getting hotter every year.”

Global warming effect.

Summer temperatures are getting higher and higher every year.

The old lady glanced at her eldest grandson, who was full of energy, and said, “Tongtong’s health is important.”

Zachary’s face flushed unusually. He said, “Grandma, a short absence makes a new marriage better. I will pay more attention from now on. I care about Tongtong’s health more than anyone else.”

The couple had been very passionate last night, and perhaps a little too much.

Tongtong was exhausted.

“I’ll bring breakfast upstairs for Tongtong later.”

The old lady thought that the eldest grandson’s wife was exhausted and was still sleeping.

“Tongtong is already awake. She was woken up by the little ancestor you were holding. Once she wakes up, her mother can’t sleep anymore.”

“Tongtong, go wake the baby up.”

The old lady looked down at her great-granddaughter, who was nestled in her arms, so docile and gentle. She couldn’t bear to say a harsh word to her. Instead, she praised her, “Beibei is great. She knows how to wake up her mother.”

Zachary: “...”

If the baby woke Tongtong up, grandma would be criticized if she knew.

Grandma had a double standard. Her great-granddaughter would not be criticized for anything she did, but if her great-grandson did something wrong, he would be criticized to the point of crying. Even when he cried, she would be told that men shed blood but not tears.

Beibei looked so proud when her great-grandmother praised her.

“Grandma, have you had breakfast?”

Zachary asked with concern.

“Not yet. Wait until you get up and eat together. Usually, grandma eats with your parents. No matter how delicious the dishes are, they will not taste good.”

“When you are at home, even if you eat cabbage, grandma feels like eating dragon meat.”

“I’m old and afraid of loneliness, so I like you to be at home with me. But you young people all have jobs, and I can’t ask you to accompany me every day. Fortunately, you are all filial, so you can send the children back when they are on vacation.”

Zachary said a little self-blame: “Grandma, we have been too busy recently and it’s our fault for not accompanying you.”

“You don’t need to accompany me now. I have the children to accompany me this summer vacation. I don’t have to stare at your parents, uncles and aunts every day. The children are cute. Even watching them quarreling and fighting, I think it’s very interesting.”

Zachary smiled: “When they were fighting, was grandma there to teach them a few moves or shout “Come on!”

“I remember when we were little, grandma did this when we fought.”

Zachary would not fight with his younger brothers, but when his younger brothers were a few years old, they would fight each other when they had a conflict. He remembered that grandma not only did not stop them, but also gave instructions, saying that someone’s move was wrong and someone should make a different move.

The nannies were left in tears and laughter, and they wanted to count on the old lady to mediate the fight, but they were dreaming, because the old lady would only teach the young masters how to make moves to defeat the opponent.

The loser would be told by the old lady that they did not practice martial arts seriously enough, and their kung fu was not as good as others, so they lost.

The old lady smiled and said, “Now only the brothers Baobao and Jingchen have started to learn kung fu. Others have not learned kung fu yet. I won’t do that.”

A great-grandson who has learned kung fu must be better at fighting.

“Grandma.”

“Grandma.”

The children’s shouts were heard outside.

Zhan Haochen and his friends arrived before they did.

Soon, a group of little ones came running in one after another.

The youngest was at the back, just like Beibei chasing his brother yesterday, he was so anxious that he kept chasing his brothers and shouting, “Brother, brother, wait for me.”

After shouting a few more times, Zhan Zhe started to cry when he saw that his brothers did not stop to wait for him.

Hearing the youngest cousin crying, Zhan Jingchen stopped and turned to wave to the little cousin, “Seventh brother, hurry up, second brother is waiting for you.”

Zhan Zhe stopped crying when he saw that his brother was waiting for him, and trotted over.

“Second brother.”

Zhan Jingchen took Zhan Zhe’s hand and said, “Come on, let’s go in, Grandma is waiting for us to have breakfast together.”

Everyone came back, and without the old lady asking, they would come to eat with her every day. They all ate three meals a day in the big room.

The Zhan family lived in harmony, and it was the same no matter who they were eating at.

However, the old lady usually lived in the main house, so everyone would eat there.

The two brothers had just entered the house when Bao Bao came downstairs. Seeing his younger brothers, Bao Bao immediately trotted down, leaving Hai Tong behind.

“Go have breakfast first. Eat well and rest for a while before going out to play,”

Hai Tong instructed her son as she descended.

“Auntie.”

“Auntie.”

The children greeted Hai Tong sweetly.
She greeted Zachary again.

Serenity came down and first picked up Zhan Zhe, who had come in later. She asked with a smile, “Xiaozhe, you’re up so early too! Are your parents here?”

“He played like crazy during the day and went to bed early. He goes to bed early, so he gets up early, clamoring to come over at daybreak. I told him brothers and sisters don’t get up so quickly, but he wasn’t happy. His mouth was pouting like two pounds of pork.”

Zhan Yu and his wife entered the house, and the Fifth Young Lady replied with a smile.

“All children are like that,” Serenity said with a smile.

She put Zhan Zhe down. “When the baby has to go to school, he can’t be woken up. When he’s at home on holidays, he sometimes gets up before dawn. I used to say Yangyang was hard to wake up, and now my son is the same.”

Don’t criticize other people’s children, because your own children are like that too.

The old lady smiled happily at the sight of her great-grandchildren, hugging one and then the other, wishing she had a dozen arms to embrace her world at once.

With so many adorable great-grandchildren, she felt like she owned the whole world.

After everyone else arrived and Tang Junye and his wife got up, they went into the dining room for breakfast.

The old lady sat in the main seat, looking at her children and grandchildren. She had a very good appetite and ate more breakfast today than usual. She wanted to eat more, but her children and grandchildren would not let her, fearing that she would be full.

After the meal, the children played with toys in the house, which was also considered a rest. Half an hour later, the little ones were allowed to go out to play. As soon as they walked out of the door, led by the baby, they all ran to the children's playground.

Their respective nannies followed behind.

Today, Serenity and Du Yumeng were going to take care of the children, leaving them completely to the nannies. They were not very confident, mainly because when the little ones had a conflict, it was difficult for the nannies to mediate their conflicts.

Their respective nannies were biased towards the little masters they were taking care of.

Therefore, mothers like Serenity needed to step forward, so that the nannies would not have to do their job too much.

At the same time, Hailing and his wife had just returned to the Lu family with their two children.

Married at First Sight Chapter 4682

When returning from Jiangcheng, Hailing would usually go back to her husband's house first.

She respected Lu Dongming, so she would go back to her husband's house first and meet her parents-in-law before returning to her own home and then going to Youyou Villa.

“Niuniu, Yangyang.”

Mrs. Lu knew early on that her youngest son and his wife would be back today.

The housekeeper told her that the fourth young master was back, and Mrs. Lu was as happy as a child. She came out of the house and just saw Yangyang getting out of the car with her granddaughter in his arms. She walked down the stairs happily.

Before she even got there, she stretched out her arms to hug her granddaughter.

“Grandma.”

Niuniu called her grandma in a baby voice.

Hearing her granddaughter’s soft cry, Mrs. Lu’s heart melted.

She took a few quick steps and took her granddaughter from Yangyang’s arms.

“Niuniu, do you miss grandma? Grandma misses you so much.”

Mrs. Lu kissed her granddaughter on the face and asked with a smile.

“Grandma.”

Yangyang also called Mrs. Lu affectionately.

Mrs. Lu freed a hand and touched Yangyang’s head, saying, “Yangyang hasn’t been here as often. It’s been a while since we last met. He’s grown taller, but a little thin. He needs to eat more.”

Hailing said as she got out of the car, “Mom, Yangyang eats a lot. He’s growing up and getting taller. When you get taller, you look thinner.”

“Actually, his weight is right.”

Very standard.

“Yangyang has grown a lot taller.”

Hailing got out of the car and took out the various supplements she had brought back. Mrs. Lu said to her, “Hai Ling, you’re back home. There’s no need to be so polite. Look at you, you always come home with so many things. We have everything we need, and your dad and I can’t eat much.”

“If I share it with them, they’ll say there’s too much at home and they can’t finish it. There’s no way we can finish it all.” Her four sons, all married and with their own families, didn’t usually live with her and her husband. They only got together during holidays, when the grandchildren were on vacation.

Lu Dongming was the last of his brothers to marry. By the time he got married, his youngest nephew was already in his teens, and his older nephews were already doing internships.

His biological daughter was only two years old. When his eldest nephew took Niuniu out to a party with friends, people thought he'd secretly married and had a daughter.

Hai Ling said, "It's not much. I gave some to each of my brothers, so there wasn't much left."

Lu Dongming was the last to get off the car.

After getting off the car, he wanted to call "Mom", but he saw his biological mother happily holding her granddaughter, pulling her grandson, and calling her daughter-in-law into the house.

Lu Dongming: "After so long, you still prefer your daughter-in-law and don't even want your son."

Lu Dongming complained that his old mother only had eyes for her daughter-in-law and grandchildren, and ignored him, her biological son.

He also had to deliver the remaining supplements in the car.

In the living room, Mrs. Lu was sitting on a double sofa holding her granddaughter. The housekeeper had already prepared all kinds of snacks that the children liked.

Hailing sat opposite her mother-in-law and asked, "Mom, isn't Dad home?"

"He hasn't gotten up yet. I couldn't sleep when I knew you were coming back today, so I got up early and walked around the yard for several laps before waiting for you to come back."

Mrs. Lu kissed her granddaughter's face again, "Our Niu Niu is getting more and more lovely."

Niu Niu also took on the strengths of her parents and looks like both her father and mother.

Mrs. Lu was initially worried about her youngest son not having a biological child. Fortunately, Hai Ling took over the Feng family. In order to give birth to a successor to the Feng family, she gave birth to a second child.

Although it was a daughter, she was still Lu Dongming's own flesh and blood, and Mrs. Lu was satisfied.

Married at First Sight Chapter 4683

After praising Niu Niu, Mrs. Lu moved on to Yang Yang.

Yang Yang felt embarrassed by her praise, blushing and saying, “Grandma, please stop praising me! I’m not as good as you say I am.”

Hai Ling also laughed, “Mom, please stop praising him! If you keep praising him, he’ll be so proud of himself.”

“Our child is just that outstanding. He’s so proud of himself, but it’s because of his own ability. Others can’t even get that kind of praise.”

Hai Ling smiled helplessly.

“Mom, the person you should praise the most is me, your son. Without me, you wouldn’t have a daughter-in-law as wonderful as Hai Ling, a granddaughter as adorable as Niu Niu, or a grandson as smart, sensible, and handsome as Yang Yang.”

Lu Dongming entered, carrying a large bag.

“Mom, you didn’t even wait for me. You picked up your daughter-in-law and the grandchildren left, leaving me alone outside to unload.”

Lu Dongming placed the things he brought back on the coffee table and sofa. The coffee table couldn’t even hold so much.

Mrs. Lu looked disgusted. “What do you have to praise? My grandchildren are excellent because their mother is excellent, not because of you.”

“I have a share of these children. Naturally, they inherited my genes, which is why I am excellent.”

“I am so heavy carrying so many things.”

Lu Dongming shook his arms.

Mrs. Lu said to him, “Who told you to buy so many things? We have everything we need at home. I wanted you to move some things over from home.”

“It’s your daughter-in-law who is showing filial piety to you.”

Mrs. Lu smiled and said, “My daughter-in-law is so considerate and filial. Every time she comes back, she buys this and that for us old people, so that we have no worries about food and clothing.”

Lu Dongming: “...”

My real mother, absolutely my real mother!
What a double standard!

If he bought something, his mother would scold him for wasting money and taking up so much space.

If Hai Ling bought something, his mother would praise her daughter-in-law for being filial and thoughtful.

Even if she didn’t want to eat, his mother would eat it, and after eating, she would brag about what delicious treats this daughter-in-law bought her, and what that daughter-in-law bought her.

If any daughter-in-law gave her jewelry or clothes, her mother would show it off.

It’s undeniable that Mrs. Lu is now the happiest mother-in-law in Wancheng. Her four sons are all capable, and her four daughters-in-law are all filial. She and her daughters-in-law get along like mother and daughter.

After experiencing Lu Dongming’s car accident, Mrs. Lu finally let go. Her children and grandchildren will have their own blessings, so why should she care so much? As long as her sons like her and are happy, that’s all that matters.

She’s open-minded and no longer meddling in her sons’ affairs, and her relationships with her daughters-in-law have grown closer.

It’s true that a harmonious family brings prosperity.

Today, the Lu family’s ancestral business, her sons’ businesses, and even the businesses of her daughters-in-law are all thriving.

Hai Ling burst into laughter.

Yang Yang’s face turned even redder.

This grandma was especially good to him.

He knew why this grandma was so kind to him. Because he wasn't a child of the Lu family, grandma was worried that he would think too much, so everyone was especially nice to him to prevent him from having other ideas.

He had everything that the children of the Lu family had.

Married at First Sight Chapter 4684

Grandpa and Grandma Lu treated him with a kindness that his biological grandparents couldn't compare to.

While his biological grandparents treated him much better now, that was because they were aging, his biological father refused to divorce his stepmother, and she was still in prison. By the time she was released, they would be too old to have any more children.

He was his father's only child

, and the Zhou family's only grandson. Only then did his grandparents begin to cherish him and stopped urging him to help his cousins.

His aunt would occasionally grumble, but whenever his grandparents heard, they would scold her, until she finally stopped.

Yangyang now barely interacted with his aunt's three children. The two older ones were ten years his senior, and now they were adults. His cousins didn't make it to university, so they were still in junior college.

Finding good jobs in the future was uncertain. His aunt simply hoped he could speak well of them to Uncle Lu and arrange jobs for them, so they could be employed upon graduation.

Working for a large corporation offered ample opportunities for promotion and salary increases.

Or perhaps they could arrange for him to work at his uncle's company, hoping he could take on his cousins' jobs.

Yangyang never agreed to his aunt's requests. On the rare occasions they ran into his cousins, his eldest cousin would apologize, saying he shouldn't have hit him back then, explaining that they were cousins and very close.

Yangyang accepted his cousin's apology, but he wouldn't make any other promises, saying he was still a child and couldn't make the decision.

Both the Zhan and Lu Groups had high standards for their employees, and countless people scrambled to get a job at these giant companies. He knew exactly what kind of people his cousins were.

Not to mention his uncle and Uncle Lu wouldn't agree. Even if he had his own company, he wouldn't arrange for his cousins to work there. He was afraid they would abuse their power.

Yangyang knew the character of his eldest aunt's family. He was already precocious, and now that he was older, he knew better.

He was already in junior high school. He wasn't the three-year-old kindergartener he was back then.

If the cousins are capable, they can get in based on their own abilities. He won't give them a backdoor anyway, and he doesn't have the power to do so.

Regardless of whether it's the Zhan Group or the Lu Group, they are not his companies.

If he is not good enough in the future, he won't be able to get into those big groups.

Therefore, based on one's real abilities, those with real abilities will have the opportunity to get promoted and get a raise wherever they work, while those without abilities will be fired even if they use a backdoor.

"When are you going to Youyou Villa?"

Mrs. Lu asked with concern, knowing that her daughter-in-law came back to get together with her sister.

It was summer vacation now, and the children were on vacation, so it would be lively for everyone to get together.

"Come over for dinner in the evening, and let's go with Mom and Dad."

Hai Ling invited her parents-in-law to go together.

Mrs. Lu smiled and said, "You don't have to call me. Your father and I will go with you. It's been a while since I last visited your Grandma Zhan. She should be okay."

“Very well. Grandma Zhan is still in good health. It’s just that she’s old, and she has some of the ailments that elderly people have. Fortunately, she has a family doctor who always keeps an eye on her health.”

“Doctor Cheng will come and check on her regularly.”

Hai Ling said, “I hope she can live to be a hundred years old, like my Grandpa Fei. It would be great if she could live to be a century.” She felt that living to eighty would be enough. She didn’t expect to live a hundred years.

Once her children grew up and were able to take over and live independently, she would be able to take life and death lightly.

Married at First Sight Chapter 4685

Lu Dongming smiled, “With Grandma Zhan’s attitude, she can easily live another ten years.”

“With her great-granddaughter, she’ll definitely live for at least a decade to see her precious great-granddaughter grow up.”

Mrs. Lu also smiled, “Of course.”

For an elderly person like Grandma Zhan, everyone hopes for a long life.

“Grandma, I’m hungry,”

Niuniu suddenly said to Mrs. Lu.

She even touched her belly, “My little tummy’s so hungry.”

Mrs. Lu immediately said with concern, “It’s all Grandma’s fault for being so busy talking to you. Come on, Grandma’s taking you to eat something delicious.”

Neither child took any snacks, a testament to Liberty’s effective parenting.

Or maybe they’d already eaten and didn’t feel like eating. In either case, Mrs. Lu was pleased with the children’s behavior.

In fact, it's better for children not to eat so many snacks; eating too many snacks can make them lose their appetite.

Mrs. Lu led her son and his family into the restaurant.

At this time, Old Lu came down from upstairs and said as he walked: "Who is here? He bought so many things, there is nothing missing at home."

"It's grandpa."

Niuniu, who was already eating, immediately slid off the stool and trotted out of the restaurant.

Usually, her parents would take her back to Wancheng when they were free, and her brother would come back often, but her brother was still a child, and her parents were worried about her brother taking care of her, so she would usually stay in Jiangcheng when her brother came back.

But Niuniu especially liked grandpa and was closest to him.

"Niuniu, don't run so fast."

Mrs. Lu got up and chased after him.

Liberty and his wife ate breakfast calmly, and even Yangyang was very calm.

Old Man Lu was very surprised to see his little granddaughter running out of the restaurant. Then he happily took two quick steps and picked up his little granddaughter who rushed over.

"It turns out that our Niuniu is back. Grandpa thought you wouldn't be here so soon, and you're here so soon."

"Grandpa."

"Niuniu, Grandpa misses you so much."

"Grandpa, I miss you so much. I've wanted to come back for a long time. Mom and Dad are always busy, so they only had time to bring me back today, Grandpa."

"Next time Mom and Dad are busy, Grandpa and Grandma will go to see you."

Old Man Lu was holding his little granddaughter. Seeing his wife coming out, he smiled and asked, "Are the fourth son and his family back?"

"They are all back and eating. They are all hungry. Niuniu said she couldn't eat on the way and wanted to go home to eat."

Old Man Lu felt so distressed when he heard that his little granddaughter hadn't eaten on the way. He quickly carried his granddaughter into the restaurant.

"Grandpa."

Yangyang hadn't known when he'd stopped at the restaurant entrance, and when Old Lu came in carrying his sister, he politely called him Grandpa.

"Yangyang's grown taller again,"

Old Lu observed with a smile, and said to Liberty, "Yangyang's becoming more and more like you, and more and more handsome."

Yangyang was very much like Liberty.

It was when Mrs. Shang first saw Yangyang that she suspected Liberty and her sister were her nieces. Back then, Liberty was so overweight that it was hard to tell what she had in common with her mother.

Married at First Sight Chapter 4686

Yangyang still resembles Liberty now, and the thinner Liberty is just as pretty as her younger sister. Yangyang is naturally a handsome child.

Even his biological father, Zhou Honglin, isn't ugly; otherwise, Ye Jiani wouldn't have stayed with him even though she knew he was married.

"Thank you, Grandpa, for exaggerating."

"Grandpa is telling the truth,"

Old Man Lu said with a touch of emotion. "Time flies. When I first met you, you were only Niuniu's age, and now you're both in junior high."

"Study hard and get into a good university. Grandpa will reward you handsomely!"

Yangyang replied, "Grandpa, I'll study hard and get into a good university."

Lu Dongming and his wife both called him “Dad. ”

Old Man Lu nodded, carrying his granddaughter to the middle seat and sitting down, letting her sit in his arms. “Niuniu, Grandpa will feed you.”

“Grandpa, I can eat by myself. I’ve been able to do it for a long time. Mom said that as I grow up, I need to eat by myself.”

Her mother was very strict with her.

Her father was very gentle, and she wasn’t afraid of him and loved playing with him. She was afraid of her mother, who was strict.

Liberty has been in charge of the Feng family for several years now. She is well aware that the burden of the Feng family is not light. No wonder Kathryn was so quick to return the position of head of the family. It was too tiring.

People who are not power-hungry are really unwilling to take on this burden.

Kathryn can no longer take over the Feng family. No one will obey her. She has also said long ago that if her mother’s position as head of the family was stolen, she will return it to her aunt’s descendants.

Liberty has no choice but to take on this heavy responsibility.

Niu Niu is her only daughter and will be the successor of the Feng family in the future. She needs to be trained from a young age, so naturally she has to be strict.

Niu Niu, like Bei Bei, is the apple of everyone’s eye. If Liberty is not strict, she is worried that her daughter will be spoiled and not be able to shoulder the heavy burden of the Feng family.

She was equally strict with Yangyang.

She explicitly told him that Feng’s business would be handed over to his younger sister. Since Yangyang didn’t have the surname Feng, he couldn’t take over the entire Feng family business. She also didn’t recommend that her son join Feng’s Group.

Liberty hoped that when Yangyang grew up, he would use his own abilities to carve out a niche for himself.

Lu Dongming privately told his wife that Yangyang would take over the Lu Group. Although Niuniu was his biological daughter, he didn’t want her to shoulder the burden of Feng’s business, and he didn’t want to put too much pressure on her. He didn't plan to hand the Lu Group over to his daughter, but instead offered her a share of the company, allowing her to receive only dividends and not interfere in the company's affairs.

He treated Yangyang like his own son and was willing to hand the Lu Group over to him. Liberty said that regardless of whether Yangyang took over the business or started his own business, she would maintain a close watch on him. She preferred that he start his own business first.

He could gain some experience, or perhaps join Lu's Group under a disguised identity, starting from the bottom and working his way up through the ranks. Only then would he be able to take over the Lu Group and everyone would be convinced.

Liberty said, "Dad, let Niu Niu sit and eat on her own. She usually eats by herself."

Niu Niu was a quick learner. After she could walk, he taught her to eat by herself. At first, rice spilled everywhere, but with practice, she gradually mastered the technique.

Old Man Lu said, "Niu Niu is only two years old. How much can she eat on her own? You have to feed her. Eat more. I think Niu Niu has lost weight this time."

If she were raised by his parents, Old Man Lu would definitely feed his granddaughter at every meal. He wouldn't let her eat at such a young age.

"She can eat as much as she can. She's two years old. She knows when she's full. If she's full, she won't eat anymore. Niu Niu isn't thin. She's at the right weight."

After hearing his daughter-in-law's words and seeing his granddaughter insist on eating on her own, Old Man Lu had to put her down and the little girl returned to her previous seat.

Yangyang picked up his sister and placed her in the high chair.

Old Man Lu and his wife exchanged glances.

They loved their little granddaughter more, but they had to admit that Liberty was a good parent.

Married at First Sight Chapter 4687

After the family finished their meal, Liberty's phone rang.

It was Zhou Honglin.

Liberty didn't answer, instead handing the phone to Yangyang.

Zhou Honglin usually called about their son.

Liberty rarely spoke to her ex-husband anymore, and the occasional chat was always about Yangyang. Now, their only topic of conversation was their son.

They both had new lives, and Zachary stopped suppressing Zhou Honglin. He was able to find a job, but he felt the freedom of working for a company wasn't as great.

He drove a ride-Liberty service all day, but it offered more freedom. He could go when he didn't want to, and the money he earned was enough to spend, with a little left over.

Besides the annual child support for Yangyang, he didn't have any major expenses, and having changed his previous lavish spending habits, he still managed to save tens of thousands of yuan each year.

He set aside one day every month to visit his wife, Ye Jiani, encouraging her to reform herself, strive for a reduced sentence, and get released sooner. He would wait for her no matter how long it took her to be released.

His parents had urged him countless times to divorce Ye Jiani, and Ye Jiani had also filed for divorce, but he had refused. He said that it was because he had been unfaithful to his family that he had hurt two women and himself .

Now this was God's punishment for him, and it was also a chance for him to mend his ways. He didn't want to make any more mistakes, so he just waited for Ye Jiani to come out.

The Ye family had already severed ties with Ye Jiani, and they had never visited her in prison. If he didn't want Ye Jiani anymore, what would happen to her when she came out?

Ultimately, it was he who had hurt Ye Jiani.

He was earning money outside, while Ye Jiani was serving her sentence inside. He said that when Ye Jiani came out, the money he had saved would be enough for the couple's retirement.

When Liberty first married Lu Dongming, everyone in the Zhou family worried that Lu Dongming wasn't treating Yangyang well, that his previous kindness was fake, a way to appease Liberty.

Zhou Honglin shared that sentiment.

Now, six years later, Lu Dongming remains just as kind to Yangyang, treating him like his own son. The father and son are incredibly close. As boys grow older, it's natural for them to grow closer to their fathers. Yangyang often talks to his stepfather, Lu Dongming.

Lu Dongming has fulfilled his responsibilities as a father, and Yangyang lives with his mother and stepfather, still the sunny boy he always was.

Zhou Honglin is deeply grateful to Lu Dongming. The two grown men could coexist peacefully when they met, because they were both Yangyang's fathers and wanted Yangyang's best interests at heart.

Yangyang took the phone.

"Dad,"

he said, and Zhou Honglin wasn't surprised at all.

Whether he called Liberty or Lu Dongming, they always let Yangyang answer the phone.

"Yangyang, are you back in Wancheng?"

Zhou Honglin had just dropped off a customer and didn't want to take any orders for the time being. He parked his car in front of the breakfast shop owned by Liberty, where he was eating breakfast.

Usually, he either ate at home or went to Liberty's breakfast shop. Even though Liberty no longer managed the breakfast shop herself, it was still under her name and was still Liberty's property.

Zhou Honglin patronized his ex-wife's business and could taste the taste of his ex-wife's food every day. The manager and waiters at the breakfast shop had all learned Liberty's cooking skills, and the breakfast they made tasted just like Liberty's.

Married at First Sight Chapter 4688

"Dad, we're back at grandpa and grandma's house. We just had breakfast with them. We'll be home soon and have dinner at my aunt's tonight. Dad, I might not be free to visit you and grandpa and grandma until tomorrow."

Zhou Honglin smiled understandingly, "Okay, then Dad won't be driving tomorrow. I'll be home making you something delicious and playing with you."

"Whatever you want, Dad will buy it and cook it for you tomorrow,"

Yangyang said. "I'll eat whatever Dad cooks. I'm not picky."

Now that his father and mother are wealthy, their family doesn't have the luxury of daily delicacies. His parents prefer home-cooked meals and have told the kitchen that for their family of four, four dishes and one soup are sufficient.

The four dishes they eat are pretty standard, but they change the menu frequently to avoid getting bored with the same four dishes and one soup every day.

Both siblings are not picky eaters and are very easy to raise.

"Then, Dad will buy it himself. Tomorrow, are you coming over by yourself? Can you bring Niu Niu with you? Daddy misses Niu Niu so much."

Niu Niu is Lu Dongming's biological daughter. Zhou Honglin has met her a few times and is incredibly fond of her.

She's a perfect blend of both parents and is incredibly adorable. She used to be very shy and wouldn't want him to hold her. He wonders if that's the case now. If he remembers correctly, Niu Niu should be two years old.

Niu Niu is half a year older than Serenity's daughter, but he's never met her. The Zhan family is very protective of her.

Since he's her ex-uncle, Serenity won't let him see her children. He hasn't even met Bao Bao. He only knows Serenity's son's nickname is Bao Bao; he doesn't know his full name.

Yangyang rarely mentions his aunt's two children at the Zhou family. He mentioned Bao Bao twice, but noticed that his grandparents and aunt were being gossipy, so he stopped talking again.

At the time, Bao Bao was only a few months old. Now, many years have passed, and Bao Bao has grown up. The Zhou family hasn't heard anything about Bao Bao in years.

Yangyang is very tight-lipped. No matter how his aunt and grandmother try to coax him, he won't say anything.

He was incredibly protective of Beibei. At the Zhou household, he wouldn't even mention her. Whenever his aunt brought up the topic, he'd either change the subject or remain silent.

The Lu family wasn't as protective of Niu Niu, but they rarely saw outsiders. Zhou Honglin was Yangyang's biological father, and Liberty sometimes brought her daughter to the Zhou household with her son, so Zhou Honglin only saw Niu Niu a few times.

And only Zhou Honglin could see her; the rest of the Zhou family couldn't.

For the sake of his son, to avoid embarrassing Yangyang, Zhou Honglin protected Niu Niu's privacy.

Liberty was the only one who allowed Zhou Honglin to see Niu Niu. Yangyang looked at his sister, who was held in Grandpa Lu's arms, unwilling to let her go, and politely declined his father's request: "Dad, we just got back, and Grandpa and Grandma really love Niu Niu."

"Uncle Lu and Mom probably don't have time to take me there. The driver took me there alone, so I won't be taking Niu Niu with me."

His sister was very active, and he was afraid he couldn't keep an eye on her alone.

If something happened to his younger sister at the Zhou family, the relationship between the two families, which had finally eased, would collapse again.

That was not a situation Yangyang wanted to see.

Besides, if something happened to his younger sister, he would feel guilty for the rest of his life.

Zhou Honglin was silent for a moment, then smiled and said, "Okay, then tomorrow, Dad will be waiting for you at home. Can I notify your aunt and her family to come over for dinner?"

Knowing that his son did not like his eldest sister's family, as Yangyang grew up, Zhou Honglin always had to get his son's consent before notifying his eldest sister and her family to come.

Married at First Sight Chapter 4689

Yangyang thought for a moment and said, "That's Daddy's sister. Daddy can call her Auntie if he wants. But if Auntie continues to be the same, I'll leave after dinner."

Zhou Honglin knew his sister's stubborn ways wouldn't change, so he said, "Forget it. Don't invite her over for dinner. We can't enjoy our meals when she's here. She's always nagging."

"What she says is always irritating."

It was mainly because his sister kept wanting Yangyang to help her children find jobs.

Yangyang was so young, how could he possibly do that?

Besides, those companies weren't Yangyang's.

Even if Zachary and the others were willing to give Yangyang a job, Zhou Honglin couldn't guarantee his nephew would do well.

They were lazy and always wanted to get something for nothing. He was worried they would tarnish Yangyang's reputation and affect his future.

If they did nothing, when Yangyang grew up, Lu Dongming and Zachary would definitely find him a job. Those connections were crucial to his future.

Zhou Honglin didn't want his two nephews to affect his son's future.

"I'll prepare a gift for my eldest aunt. I'll take it with me tomorrow, and Dad will give it to her later."

Yangyang didn't want to go to his eldest aunt's house anymore; he couldn't stand her.

He also didn't like his cousins' hypocrisy. Xiaobao was still as arrogant as before. Whenever they met, he would look at him with hatred and jealousy, asking how lucky he was to have an aunt who married into a wealthy family.

Xiaobao even told his sister to marry into a wealthy family. That way, their family would have tons of money, and he wouldn't have to work for anything and would have endless money to spend, just like Yangyang.

Zhou Hongying looked at her daughter, who was still quite pretty, and felt her youngest son's words made sense. No matter how rich Yangyang became, he wouldn't be able to give it to her. She even asked Yangyang to help her eldest son find a job, but Yangyang refused. So, hoping to enjoy the good life with Yangyang was out of the question.

If her daughter could marry into a wealthy family, her family would achieve a qualitative leap through her.

But they couldn't get in touch with the rich young masters, so they could only do so through Yangyang.

Zhou Hongying taught her three children that they must be nice to Yangyang in the future

. No matter how smart Yangyang was, he was still a child, and if they coaxed him for a long time, they would be able to coax him. Then they would get to know the rich young masters through Yangyang. For example, the ninth young master of the Zhan family was only a few years older than her daughter, and Zhou Hongying really wanted her daughter to marry into the Zhan family and become the ninth young lady.

Serenity had such poor conditions at the time, but she was able to marry into the Zhan family and become the eldest young lady. Zhou Hongying believed that her family was well-off, and her daughter's conditions were much better than Serenity's back then. If she worked hard, maybe her daughter could marry into the Zhan family, and then she wouldn't have to curry favor with her nephew Yangyang.

Yangyang was unyielding, and it was impossible to expect Yangyang to become rich and live a happy life.

Her parents and brother were now on Yangyang's side, and they would not help her like before.

Zhou Honglin said, "When you get home, Dad will notify your aunt to come and pick it up. She has a branch in the city, which is not too far away. It will only take her ten minutes to drive here."

Yangyang didn't say anything else.

He usually only comes home on weekends. During the two days he comes back, he often doesn't have time to spend time with his biological father. The relationship between father and son can't be said to be bad, but it can't be said to be very good either.

"Yangyang, Dad has to be busy. Tomorrow morning, Dad will pick you up. You don't need the driver to take you."

Zhou Honglin wanted to see his son earlier.

Yangyang did not refuse his father.

After the father and son ended the call, Yangyang returned the phone to his mother.

Married at First Sight Chapter 4690

“Mom, I’m going to stay at Dad’s for two days tomorrow,”

Liberty nodded. “You can stay longer. Your grandparents miss you, too.”

As long as Zhou Hongying didn’t come back, Yangyang would be happy to return to the Zhou family. The family now treated him like the apple of their eye; after all, he was their only grandchild.

“Dongming, Liberty, you two should go back and rest first. Niu Niu stays here. We can take Niu Niu with us when we visit the Zhan family this evening.”

Mrs. Lu knew her son and daughter-in-law wouldn’t stay at the old house, as they would only be back for two days. So she sent the three of them home, leaving her little granddaughter at the old house.

The other grandchildren were already grown, but Niu Niu was the youngest. Two-year-olds are at their adorable prime, and the Lu couple cherished Niu Niu.

Lu Dongming and Liberty exchanged glances, then stood up in unison. Liberty said to her parents-in-law, “Mom and Dad, Niu Niu is in your care. She’ll probably be asleep soon.”

“Don’t worry, we’ll take good care of her.”

When they were younger, as parents, they hadn’t properly raised their own children, leaving them entirely to the care of nannies.

When they first became grandparents, they had not yet retired, and they loved their grandchildren very much, just hugging them occasionally, but they had never really taken care of them.

When they retired, they found that their grandchildren had grown up without them noticing, and they had missed the time to really enjoy playing with them.

Fortunately, Liberty gave birth to Niuniu, and this little granddaughter was very close to them, and the regrets of the two old people could be made up with Niuniu.

“Does Yangyang want to stay?”

Mrs. Lu asked him gently.

Yangyang said, “Grandma, I have to go back and pack up the things I brought back.”

“I still have some homework to do, and I want to hurry up to finish my summer homework. I’ll go to my aunt’s house in the afternoon, and Long Ting will be here too, so I can have a good time with him for a while.”

Mrs. Lu smiled and said, “Then you should go back and do your summer homework. After you finish your summer homework, you can play whatever you want.”

Lu Dongming and Liberty will return to Jiangcheng in two days.

The two children will stay in Wancheng. If Niu Niu misses her parents, the two elders will personally send Niu Niu to Jiangcheng.

But the little girl probably won’t miss her parents. With so many friends to play with and her good cousin Beibei, she will probably be reluctant to leave.

Lu Dongming and his wife took Yangyang out of the Lu family’s old house. They went to the homes of Lu Dongming’s three brothers and delivered the gifts they brought back.

It took some time to sit in each house for a while.

Lu Dongming’s three sisters-in-law and nieces and nephews knew that Niu Niu was in the old house, and they all ran to the old house, wanting to take Niu Niu back to their homes to play.

It depends on whether they can snatch her away from the two elders.

Niu Niu prefers to be with her grandparents.

On the way home, Liberty received a call from her sister.

“Sister, are you guys here? Mu Qing and the others are here, leaving you behind. Grandma’s so happy she didn’t even take her nap,”

Serenity said with a smile on the phone. “It’s rare for the villa to be this lively.”

All the nine married Zhan sons returned with their wives and children, and the singles would also come back in the evening. And the families close to the Zhan family all came together, making Youyou Villa busier than Chinese New Year.

It would be strange if the old lady wasn’t happy.

The children were happy too. They only saw each other during the winter and summer holidays, and summer vacation was the longest, allowing them to play the longest.

Married at First Sight Chapter 4691

Liberty smiled and said, “Grandma Zhan will be very happy. We arrived a long time ago and had a meal with my parents

-in-law. We’re just returning to our own home now. Niu Niu is still with them.” “I’ll just tidy up a bit when I get home, and then I’ll go over. Niu Niu will go with her grandparents.”

Serenity said understandingly, “As for Yang Yang, tell him to bring two changes of clothes and stay at my house for a few days. He hasn’t lived at the villa in a while, so he doesn’t have any new clothes. His old clothes probably don’t fit him anymore.”

Yang Yang usually stayed at Serenity’s house in the city on weekends. Even if he came to visit the old lady, he wouldn’t stay there. After all, it was only a day or two, so it wouldn’t be possible to stay there. He hadn’t lived at Youyou Villa for a long time, and the clothes he left there no longer fit him.

Children grow up quickly.

Serenity often told everyone not to buy too many clothes for her daughter. The child grew up in the blink of an eye, and the clothes she bought often outgrew them before she even wore them.

“Yangyang might stay there in a couple of days. He promised his dad he’d go tomorrow. He’s been away for so long, so he’ll probably stay a few days.”

Serenity ignored the Zhou family and said, “Well, when Yangyang wants to come over, tell him to call me and I’ll send a driver to pick him up.”

“Sister, you two can rest up. Beibei’s awake, look for her. I’ll go get her.”

“Go quickly, or you’ll get mad again,”

Liberty urged her sister to take care of the child.

The two sisters rarely get together. They both have children and careers, and they’re very busy. They usually talk on the phone at night or early in the morning, when they have some free time.

Meanwhile, at a certain prison,

Mrs. Ning, accompanied by a prison guard, came into view with Ning Yunchu and her brother.

She had come to visit their mother today with her brother and husband.

Zhan Yichen was waiting for them outside, so he didn't come in. He had no fondness for his mother-in-law.

Seeing Ning Yunchu arrive, Mrs. Ning's face darkened.

Considering her children hadn't been around for a while, Mrs. Ning remained silent for a moment before finally coming over. After sitting down, she looked at Ning Tianlei and picked up the phone.

Ning Tianlei also picked up the phone.

"Mom,"

Ning Tianlei called out to his mother.

"Mom, I'm sorry. I've been so busy lately and haven't had time to see you. But my eldest sister said she wanted to come over today and called me, asking me to come along. I squeezed in some time."

"Mom, are you okay?"

Ning Tianlei looked at his mother's wrinkled face and the graying hair, realizing that his parents were old. Truly old.

In his memory, his mother had always been dignified and graceful. Oh, that was in the eyes of outsiders. At home, she was kind to him and his second sister, but treated his eldest sister even better than a stepmother.

Although now in his twenties and aware of the grudges between his parents, Ning Tianlei still couldn't understand why his mother treated his eldest sister that way. Hadn't she been pregnant for ten months?

She said her mother didn't like her uncle and was forced into marriage by the elders, but her eldest sister was innocent. It wasn't her fault, so why take her out on her?

Mrs. Ning's eyes welled up, and she couldn't stop crying.

"Tianlei, Mom... I'm fine."

Mrs. Ning wiped away her tears. She didn't want to cry in front of her eldest daughter, but she couldn't control her emotions.

She missed her son, her daughter, and she wanted freedom. Unfortunately, she was afraid she would never be able to leave, unless she died. Then her son could claim her ashes and be free.

Did she regret it?

Married at First Sight Chapter 4692

Mrs. Ning had regrets.

Years in jail had smoothed her edges, her arrogance.

Gradually, she came to understand her true faults.

Although she had been forced to marry Ning Yunchu's biological father, it was also because she and her true love didn't fight for it to the end; they both succumbed to reality.

After marriage, her husband treated her very well, but she still clung to her true love. They even conspired to plot against him, killing him and seizing everything in the Ning family.

She and her husband both believed they were innocent, believing everything in the Ning family belonged to them, and that it was her parents and her ex-husband who wronged them. They never faced up to their mistakes.

And then there was their eldest daughter...

Mrs. Ning didn't look at Ning Yunchu. She and her eldest daughter never had a mother-daughter relationship. In the past, she hated her eldest daughter, and now it was her eldest daughter who hated her as her biological mother.

In this life, they would never be able to be a normal mother and daughter.

To this day, she still regretted giving birth to Ning Yunchu and regretted not strangling her daughter.

It was all her husband's fault. He said that Ning Yunchu was his brother's only blood, and since she was a daughter, she would not fight for the family property. They could just raise her and marry her off to anyone, and it would not be a problem for them.

Who would have thought that it was their eldest daughter, who they thought would never be able to turn things around and who was under their tight control, who would turn them over.

Both husband and wife fell into the hands of Ning Yunchu.

“Tianlei, have you seen your dad? Is your dad okay? Have you found your second sister? It’s been six years, and mom hasn’t seen your second sister in six years.”

Mrs. Ning asked about her husband’s recent situation.

Ning Tianlei said guiltily: “Mom, I’m sorry, I haven’t been here recently, and I don’t know how my dad is doing now, but I haven’t answered the phone, so I think he’s doing well.”

If anything happens to his parents in prison, he or his eldest sister will be notified.

The lack of notifications indicated that her parents were still healthy, and even if they had minor ailments or pains, there was no need to worry.

“My second sister hasn’t been found yet. Mom, don’t worry, I’ll definitely find her. Living or dead, I’ll find her.”

Ning Tianlei had indeed been searching for his second sister, but there was no news.

Mrs. Ning looked at Ning Yunchu, who was sitting beside her.

Every time she saw Ning Yunchu, it was like seeing her younger self, who was just as energetic as Ning Yunchu.

Ning Yunchu was probably in her thirties. By then, she had married and had a daughter and a son. Back then, she was the happiest, surrounded by the man she truly loved and the fruit of their love.

After Ning’s enterprise fell into their hands, it flourished, and the Ning family’s assets grew.

However, she still couldn’t compare to Ning Yunchu.

In her thirties, Ning Yunchu was already the president of the Ning Group and married into a multi-billionaire family. Doted on by her in-laws and husband, she had a smart and lovely son, and her in-laws had no worries.

Ning Yunchu was so happy that her mother was going crazy with jealousy.

Thinking that her mother wanted to talk to her sister, Ning Tianlei handed the microphone to her sister, “Sister, can you say a few words to me?”

Ning Yunchu took the microphone and asked her mother coldly, “What do you want to say to me?”

Mrs. Ning was silent.

“The time is short. If you don’t say it, the visiting time will be over.”

Mrs. Ning finally spoke, and she softly requested, “Yunchu, you, help Tianlei and find Siqu.
