

Marry Ex's Uncle After Divorcement

Chapter 751-800

Chapter 751 Being With Me

"Did mommy call you here?" Ben asked.

Charlie nodded. "Yes! When I received the message she sent me, I rushed over right away. Look how early it is! I'm sleepy."

While speaking, he let go of his son. "You can sleep a little longer, and I'm gonna be here for you."

At this moment, he felt guilty about the precious moments he had missed with them. When he met them, they were a few years old and could express themselves clearly. Before their encounter, Theresa had to raise the two kids alone while being bossed around by the Watson family. She must have experienced a lot of suffering. No wonder Ben put on a brave face and swore to shield her from any harm when he grew up.

Lying beside Charlie, he creased his face into a smile as he looked at his father. He loved Charlie. Charlie's appearance always brightened up his day. Recently, he had been on the edge of his seat at the thought of Charlie leaving him. What if he could never see Charlie again? What if Charlie became the father of other children?

Although he didn't find himself detesting Roderick or Dick, it never entered his mind that they'd replace.

Charlie and become his father.

At the same time, Cristina in the other room also woke up. Eugene, who was sleeping beside her, leaped. to her eyes when she opened them. Confused, she looked at him. But soon she remembered he spent the night with her.

He was still in his slumber. Leaning closer, she scrutinized his face while secretly parting his hair and revealing the scar on his forehead where his mother hit him. Though scabbed over, it left a scar.

He was able to wear a hat during the day to cover it up. Now the wound was exposed before her, she failed to dam back her tears. She loved this man so much that it crushed her even more seeing him. injured.

For a light sleeper like Eugene, her sniff had easily hauled him up out of his dream. Realizing that she was sobbing, he asked, "Why are you crying? Are you uncomfortable?"

The scratch on her face was obvious, yet he always suspected that she was hurt somewhere else as well.

Grabbing his hand, Cristina whimpered, "Let me be with you. Please don't push me away again!"

Still early in the morning, it was still quiet outside. His brain was in a whirl after he heard that. As her remark replayed in his mind, he could hear nothing.

Ever since he came back, she had been cold and indifferent to him. Because of his threats and pestering, he managed to make her submit and move in with her. But during that period of time, she had been very resistant to him. Never had he expected that she could say such things after knowing what his life was really like.

Focusing his eyes on him, he appeared rueful. "Why? You can be carefree on your own. There is no need to get involved in my messy life."

It was too late for him to cut himself loose from his mother. She was like a nightmare, haunting him forever... He hadn't expected that she'd follow him back from abroad. Before that, he had thought he finally got rid of her and could enjoy the rare moment of peace. But soon, she intruded into his life and ruined it again.

Cristina insisted, "I'm not afraid of her. I just want to be with you. What, am I that bad to you that I can't be with you even if I ask so humbly?"

"Of course not." Eugene looked at her, seeming helpless. "You know I don't mean that."

She was a good girl and deserved a better man. He didn't have the heart to drag her into this living hell.

Raged, she snapped, "Since that, you should not refuse me! I want to be with you, if you don't say yes, get out of my bed right now."

Her angry look didn't spook him. Instead, he swept her into his arms. "Okay, I know what to do now." What did he mean by that? A frown made its way to her face. This was how he gonna respond to her soulful confession? What was wrong with him?

Feeling depressed, she noticed that he tightened his embrace. Their eyes met, he lowered his head and kissed her.

Chapter 752 Her One And Only

Despite her complex family condition and the divorce of her parents, Cristina always yearned for true love. Eugene was her first man, the only one she had even devoted to. She gave him her first date, first kiss...

A few years after he left, she never got together with another man. Her aunt had fixed her up with her friends or colleagues several times. But then, Cristina either went on fake trips or refused them after the meeting. She even felt that she had lost interest in men.

Until he came back, she realized that what she resisted was just other men, not him! As soon as they met again her dormant love for him was rekindled.

His kisses were already familiar to her. When she was with him the other day, she was still torn between getting back with him and breaking up. She mustn't let him hold her in thrall easily. Yet now, she wasn't hesitate any longer.

When he parted her lips, she took the initiative to wrap her arms around him. As the long kiss ended,

Cristina gazed at him and asked, "The injury on your head..."

"Don't worry about it." Eugene said, "It's really a small injury. I have had Dr. Hill check on it. Don't his superb medical skill?"

Once he finished his words, she put her hand on his shirt buttons, and soon, the top three buttons were unbuttoned by her. She then slid her hand into his clothes, making him coy.

He coughed. "It's early in the morning. We can't do this. After a while, Theresa would come and ask us out for breakfast."

Rolling her eyes at him, she touched those jagged and nasty scars riddled on his back. She was now contracted into sympathy and fury. "These... Are they all caused by that crazy woman?" "No." Eugene was about to jerk her hand off his body.

Cristina averred, "Don't lie to me. I can tell if you're lying with one glance!"

Obviously, he didn't want her to worry about him. So he said, "That's history now."

"I don't know how you can stand it." She sulked, "It tugged at my heartstrings even when I saw you hurt yourself by accident in a basketball game! How could she do this to you..." The person she cherished the most was tortured by that, how could she bear it?

Yet he laughed. "Well, you know what they say, men's scars are all medals of honor."

"Be more serious!" Cristina put on a straight face. "I don't think this is funny! Nor do I think it's any medal! Why on earth would she do this to you? Isn't there any other reason?" She was eager to get a clear understanding of his relationship with his mother. After Eugene heard that, a stunned look crosses his face. He did not answer her questions. "See? You're mute again! I hate it when you hide everything from me. I don't have any secret hidden from you, do I?" She had told him everything about herself.

With a pause, he then continued, "I'll tell you later, okay?"

Of course not okay! However, a knock on the door interrupted them and Brenda's voice sounded outside,

"Cristina, it's time for breakfast."

When Eugene came over last night, Brenda wasn't aware. She thought Cristina was the only one in the room. Sensing that Cristina was emotionally unstable last night, Brenda brooded about her and decided to check on her in the early morning.

Just then, Theresa descended downstairs. Seeing Brenda standing outside Cristina's door, she stopped Brenda. "Let her sleep a little longer."

Chapter 753 A Bad Daddy

"How is she doing? I'm worried about her." Concern was written all over Brenda's face.

Cristina was her niece. After taking care of Cristina for all these years, she had already treated Cristina as if she was her own daughter.

Theresa whispered, "Eugene should still be inside the room with her."

Frozen for a moment, Brenda soon came back to her sense and discard all thoughts of checking on Cristina in person. She coughed. "She's very much her own man."

Inside the room, Cristina heard all their conversation. She was rendered speechless. Eugene and she merely lay in the bed together last night. They didn't do anything else. Why did Brenda speak as if they had had sex...

Casting a glance at the man beside her, Cristina uttered with exasperation, "Forget it. Let's get up for breakfast!"

She didn't want them to further misunderstand it.

Theresa then went to the boys' room to wake them up for breakfast. Once she entered, she saw Charlie dozing with Ben, both fast asleep. The bed was clearly too small for Charlie. It seemed rather cramped after he squeezed himself onto it. Yet their serene sleeping faces melted her heart.

With her eyes riveted on them, she didn't ruin this heart-warming scene. Standing there quietly for a while, she drew close to them. "Get up. Breakfast's ready."

When Ben heard her words, he opened his eyes and sat up, looking at her. "Mommy."

She beamed. "So glad to see your dad?"

His eyes were glinting with joy.

With a sigh in her heart, she relocated her gaze to Charlie lying next to the boy. She must admit that she was jealous of him. He didn't spend much with Ben, but Ben admired him deeply. Perhaps, fatherhood was an immortal flame burning forever warmth for his children, strong and silent.

Theresa said to the boy again, "Rouse your father. It's time for breakfast."

After that, she went to prepare clothes for the two little boys. She first handed Ben the outfit, and then pulled Leonard up from his bed. Seemingly having pressed the snooze button, he was reluctant to be up. At this tie, he still didn't spot Charlie. With a bright smile, he planted a smacker on her cheek. "Mommy."

"Yes?" A grin spread over Theresa's face as she helped him take off his pajamas.

"Love you!"

Her smile broadened after she heard that. "I love you too. Here, put your clothes on. Did you sleep well last night?"

"Yes, I did." Leonard then got dressed by himself as he was told. Just then, his eyes fell on the bed of

Ben. He sulked as he saw Charlie, "Why is he here?"

A look of disgust came over his face.

At once, she explained, "Well... He's here to see Ben. What's wrong?"

The boy frowned. "He's a bad daddy."

To his eyes, Charlie was a villain of bad faith.

His angry look made her helpless. "He's still

Leonard snorted, "I don't need such a daddy."

At this moment, Charlie was already awake. He sat up from the bed and stared at them. Swiftly, Leonard had dressed up. Noticing his gaze, he swiveled his head away.

His rude manner provoked Charlie. But with Theresa here, he took an almost superhuman effort to contain his anger.

She voiced in a soft tone, "We're going out first. Get up and dress quickly for Ben."

After saying that, she left the room with Leonard.

Chapter 754

Chapter 754 They Made up

Ben sat on the bed and looked at Charlie. "Dad."

Charlie looked at him and asked, "What's wrong?"

"Do you like Leonard?" Ben asked curiously.

Hearing Ben's question, Charlie replied, "Of course I like him. You and he are both my children. How would I not like him?"

However, Charlie always believed that Leonard deserved a lesson. Charlie would teach that brat a lesson when Theresa's anger ceased. "Can you be nicer to Leonard then?" Ben pleaded.

Hearing Ben's words, Charlie looked at his silly son and rubbed his head. "Son, you are so young. Why do you think so much every day?"

Leonard hated Ben, but Ben was still afraid that Charlie would dislike Leonard.

Ben was really worried about them.

Theresa took Leonard downstairs and helped Brenda prepare breakfast. The others also came downstairs.

Charlie sat down next to Leonard and took a look at the boy who was eating. In fact, Leonard was like Charlie in character. Both of them were aloof and cold.

Although Leonard was still a child, he looked a little serious when he was silent.

Charlie intended to say hello to the boy but gave up the idea at thought of Leonard's bad temper. He couldn't spoil the child.

"Anyway, I'm his father. I have to maintain my dignity," thought Charlie to himself.

Eugene and Cristina walked downstairs.

"Good morning, Mr. Calsis," Eugene greeted.

Charlie looked at Eugene and then at Cristina.

Thinking that he had regarded Cristina as his children's mother and Eugene as his children's father,

Charlie couldn't help but cough, feeling a little embarrassed.

Charlie responded with a straight face, "Good morning."

When Leonard and Ben saw Eugene, they greeted him, "Good morning, Uncle Eugene. Cristina."

Eugene's mouth twitched. "Why do you call her Cristina?"

Cristina was a friend of Theresa. The children wondered why they couldn't call her Cristina.

Ben replied, "Because she looks very young."

Eugene's face darkened. "So I look very old?"

He was not many years older than Cristina, all right?

Charlie smiled and said, "You do look older than Cristina."

Seeing that Charlie was also making fun of him, Eugene said, "Mr. Calsis, you don't look younger than Theresa, either."

"Really?" Charlie said, "But I'm not much older than Theresa."

After saying that, Charlie took a look at Theresa.

Theresa was drinking water and ignored them, thinking that they were children.

She couldn't believe that mature men like them would compare who was younger here.

Theresa glanced at Cristina and asked, "Cristina, are you feeling better today?"

"Yes." Cristina nodded.

Eugene said, "I'm going to take her to the hospital later. I'm worried about the wound on her face."

Theresa took a look at the wounds on Cristina's face and nodded at Eugene. "Okay. I was just going to take her there. Thank you for doing that!"

When Theresa spoke, Brenda was standing behind her, looking at Cristina.

Cristina felt a little embarrassed. She lowered her head and ate silently.

Although Cristina didn't say anything, Theresa and Brenda could see that Cristina had made up with Eugene.

Theresa, in fact, wasn't happy about it at all.

After dinner, Cristina and Eugene went out.

Theresa was lighting candles while sitting.

Seeing her sitting on the sofa, Charlie asked worriedly, "What are you thinking about?"

Theresa looked up at Charlie and responded, "Nothing. I'm just a little worried about Cristina. You know, Eugene's mother is a lunatic. When Cristina wasn't with Eugene, Eugene's mother was already very irritated. If she knows...."

Chapter 755

Chapter 755 Get down to His Knees?

Charlie sat up, looked at Theresa, and said, "Don't worry! Eugene will handle it well."

"I don't trust him now," remarked Theresa. "I used to think he was reliable, but last time when I met his mother, I found him really good to her." Charlie comforted, "Don't worry. Eugene is not a mama's boy."

"I hope so," said Theresa. She glanced at Charlie and asked, "When will you leave?"

Now that Charlie had had dinner with Ben, he had achieved his goal.

Charlie took a look at his watch and said, "I'm leaving now."

As he was speaking, Jonathan came.

Jonathan was here to pick up Charlie and stood at the door without getting into the living room when he saw Charlie sitting next to Theresa. Theresa said, "Go ahead."

She didn't feel well today and wanted to have a rest. She didn't intend to go out anymore.

Charlie looked at Theresa and said, "Ben is having a class now. I'll come to accompany him after I'm done with my work."

Theresa nodded. "Okay. He should feel better now. Don't worry too much. I'll tell him you're busy. It's fine if you don't come."

Theresa also felt it troublesome to ask him to come here today.

As soon as she finished her sentence, she found Charlie staring at her.

Theresa looked up at him and asked, "What's wrong?"

Charlie gave a wry smile when he realized that she tried to draw a clear line with him. Clearly, he was driving him away after using him. But he could only accept it, not daring to say anything to protest. "Nothing. I'm leaving now."

After saying that, Charlie stood up and walked out.

When Jonathan saw Charlie come over, he carefully handed a coat to Charlie.

On the way out of Theresa's residence, Jonathan looked at Charlie and asked, "Mr. Calsis, have up with Theresa?"

Charlie frowned. "No."

"You look on good terms with each other." After looking at them at the door for a long time, Jonathan thought that Theresa finally forgave Charlie.

Charlie said, "She won't forgive me anymore."

With that, he reached out and took some documents from Jonathan.

Jonathan remained seated and looked at Charlie. It seemed that Charlie looked a little sad.

When Rose went out of the hotel, she saw Jimmy in the lobby.

At the sight of him, she pulled a long face and asked, "What are you doing here?"

She had thought that Jimmy would never come to her again.

Never did she expect that he still came.

Rose looked at this man and found herself really disappointed.

She hated him so much, and she was so angry, but she still hoped that he would come to her.

Jimmy looked at her and said, "Are you still angry? I'm here to pick you up. Let's go home."

"Do you think I don't look angry?" Rose asked Jimmy. "I thought you had forgotten me, your wife."

She even spent Christmas alone.

And they had quarreled for a few days.

Rose looked at Jimmy and said, "Jimmy, I thought you loved me very much, but now I realize that I was just flattering myself."

Jimmy looked at her and reached out to hold her hand. "Stop making a scene here. I was just a little angry that day and said something I shouldn't have said. I came to pick you up, didn't I? Rose, you know how much I love you!"

"I don't believe you love me!" Rose broke free from his grip and intended to leave. However, when she was about to leave, Jimmy got down to his knees.

"Honey, I was wrong!"

Rose turned around and saw him kneeling on the ground. He grabbed her hand and apologized to her with guilt in his eyes, "I'm sorry, honey. I really know I was wrong. Please forgive me!"

It was completely out of Rose's expectations.

"Oh, my God!" thought she to herself.

Chapter 756

Chapter 756 Visit Her Grandma

Rose didn't expect that Jimmy would kneel to beg for her forgiveness.

She took a look at the crowd and pulled him to his feet. "What are you doing? Many people are watching us."

She couldn't believe that he knelt down in front of so many people.

Jimmy held her hand and said, "If you don't forgive me, I won't get up."

"You..." Rose stammered, "You value your dignity a lot, don't you?"

He was angry with her and said something outrageous just because he cared about his dignity.

Rose didn't expect that he would kneel to apologize at the moment.

Jimmy said, "I do care about my dignity, but I care more about my wife. Rose, did you fall in love with someone else? Are you going to abandon me?"

"Of course not." Rose's tone softened. "Don't slander me. Get up!"

"So you have forgiven me?" Jimmy looked at her expectantly.

Seeing this, Rose couldn't be angry anymore.

She pursed her lips and said with resignation, "All right. Get to your feet!"

Only then did Jimmy stand up. He looked at Rose and asked, "Have you had your breakfast?"

Rose replied, "Not yet."

"Why don't you have breakfast?" Jimmy asked. "You have stomach problems. Are you getting lady without me by your side?"

Rose glanced at him and said, "I can't eat as long as I think of you."

She had been thinking about her relationship with Jimmy in the hotel these days.

She even wanted a divorce.

Since he didn't want to talk to her, why should she maintain the m with him?

But she didn't expect that Jimmy would come to her.

Jimmy apologized immediately, "Honey, I know I was wrong. I won't be angry with you anymore. I was just too stupid. If I do such a stupid thing again, just teach me a good lesson and beat me black and blue." Rose looked at him and responded, "I'm not that mean. How would I have the heart to hit you?"

"Let's go to have breakfast now," Jimmy said. "You can't be starved."

Rose said, "I'm going to visit my grandma. Why don't you go with me? It happens that she wants to see you."

Jimmy was a little surprised to hear that. "When did Grandma come?"

"She has been here for a long time," replied Rose. "But I haven't visited her before."

When she was with Jimmy, she didn't dare to contact her family.

But after meeting her grandma last time, Rose found that her grandmother was not in good health, so she still wanted to visit her grandmother often.

Rose's grandmother was Pat's mother-in-law.

Jimmy had almost offended all of Rose's relatives, and they all disliked him.

If Rose's grandmother was willing to talk to him, it would be a chance for him, so Jimmy went with Rose.

When they entered the Halls, Ella was eating breakfast with the help of a servant.

Ella said in her seat, "I have no appetite."

Besides, because she had a terrible headache, she didn't want to move at all.

Rose called out, "Grandma."

Ella raised her head and looked at Rose. "You're back."

Ella had just come back from Theresa's residence the night before. When Eugene knew that Ella had gone to see Cristina, he had a quarrel with Ella and hadn't come back home yet. Ella realized that Eugene really cared about Cristina.

However, Ella didn't expect that her son would dare to disobey her for the first time for a woman.

Rose asked, "Are you not feeling well?"

Chapter 757

Chapter 757 Another Acupuncturist

"I'm fine." Ella glanced at Jimmy who followed Rose in and asked, "This is...?"

"This is my husband," Rose replied. "Didn't you want to see him before? His name is Jimmy. I brought him to visit you today."

"Good to see you, Grandma," Jimmy greeted Ella politely.

Ella said, "Good to see you! Please have a seat."

Jimmy was good-looking and tall. In terms of appearance, he was really good enough for Rose.

Ella made no remarks.

Jimmy sat down.

Rose asked Ella, "Are you not going to eat anything?"

Ella said, "I have a headache."

"Did you call the doctor?" Rose asked with concern.

"It's useless." Speaking of this, Ella thought of Theresa. "Last time, Theresa came to do acupuncture for me, and it worked well. Unfortunately, she's reluctant to come now." Rose asked, "Why? Ask Uncle Eugene for help, and she will definitely come."

Theresa and her uncle had two children. How could they not come?

Of course, Ella wouldn't tell Rose that she had almost hurt Leonard and offended Theresa.

Ella replied, "Rose, Eugene quarreled with me and left in a fit of anger. He hasn't come back yet."

"I see," Rose responded, thinking that it was only natural for Theresa not to come since Eugene had a quarrel with Ella.

After all, Rose believed that Theresa wouldn't do anything without benefit.

Rose turned to Ella and asked with concern, "Then what should we do? How about I call my uncle and ask him to come back?"

"No, thanks," Ella said. "Have you eaten yet?"

"Not yet. Let me have some food with you." Rose then asked the servant to bring her the tableware.

Jimmy sat next to them and said, "Grandma, I know an acupuncturist. Maybe he can cure your headache."

Jimmy didn't believe that Theresa, who had just learned acupuncture for a short time, was as professional as the acupuncturist he was familiar with. Hearing this, Ella looked at Jimmy and asked, "Really?"

Jimmy nodded. "Sure. If you think acupuncture can help, I'll ask him out now. He's quite famous in our country."

Jimmy was referring to Keith.

Keith had been a famous acupuncturist for a long time, so Jimmy believed that he couldn't possibly be inferior to Theresa.

Rose said, "Then call him and ask him to treat Grandma. Grandma must be feeling pain now."

Jimmy went to make a phone call immediately.

Keith happened to be free today, and Jimmy made an appointment with him.

Ella didn't meet normal doctors, especially those who were found by Eugene.

But Rose was here today. Things were different.

After all, Ella doted on Rose.

Keith gave Ella an acupuncture and asked, "Are you feeling better?"

Ella nodded. "Yes. Thank you, Mr. Cooper."

Keith replied, "You're very welcome."

When Keith walked out, Jimmy walked him to the door and said politely, "Thank you, Mr. Cooper."

"Don't mention it," Keith said to Jimmy. "I'm leaving. Bye!"

Rose stayed with Ella in the room and asked, "Grandma, how are you feeling now?"

"Not bad," Ella responded. "Your husband looks good."

"He's really quite a good man," Rose said with a gloomy look. "But we have had some issues recently." "What happened?" Ella asked.

Chapter 758

Chapter 758 Mr. Holland

Rose said, "Jimmy used to work in our company, but later my father kicked him out. Grandma, could you please talk to my father and ask him to let me Jim go back to the company? What do you think?"

On the way back, Rose had asked Jimmy about his work. Jimmy told her about Dick's attitude. After thinking for a while, Rose thought it was better to help Jimmy go back to her family's company. "I haven't seen your father for a long time," Ella asked. "How is he?"

"He's fine," said Rose. "If you say something, he will definitely listen to you."

Seeing the worried look on Rose's face, Ella smiled and rubbed her head. "You really look exactly like your mother. Haven't you told your father about it?"

"Yes, I talked to him, but he rejected me," Rose sighed in depression.

Thinking that her father was nice to Charlie and believed whatever Charlie said, Rose felt resigned.

If Jimmy hadn't left the company, they wouldn't have quarreled and misunderstood each other.

Now that Theresa was going to be with Charlie, Rose wondered why she couldn't live an easy life with Jimmy.

Seeing her depression, Ella said, "All right. I'll talk to your father."

Ella seldom talked to Pat. Since her daughter passed away, Ella had not been so close to her son-in-law as before.

Besides, Ella was not in good health and didn't contact Pat much.

Now she would like to help her granddaughter.

At noon, Robert and Leticia went to the hospital to visit Old Mr. Calsis.

The three brothers were having dinner at home.

Charlie took out his phone and texted Ben on the sofa.

Pat and Chandler were discussing something.

Pat asked, "When will Mr. Holland come?"

"The day after tomorrow. Charlie, remember to come."

After saying that, Chandler looked at his brother and found that Charlie was not interested in their topic at all.

Chandler could not help but feel a little angry. "What are you looking at?"

Charlie said, "Chandler, I'm talking to Ben."

"Ben?" Chandler asked. "Your son?"

Their parents had been talking about this boy every day recently.

However, Chandler had never seen Charlie and his two kids, so Chandler was curious about them.

Charlie nodded.

Pat looked at Charlie and said, "What? You haven't brought the kids back yet? Charlie, you are too nice. If I were you, I would have picked up the two kids earlier. I really don't know why you are so nice to Theresa. We're not afraid of her."

Hearing this, Charlie took a look at Pat and said warily, "Stay out of my business."

Things were not going well between Charlie and Theresa not. Pat had a short temper, and Charlie was afraid that Pat would make things worse.

Chandler said, "Did you hear me? Mr. Holland is coming. We'll treat him to dinner. Remember to come!"

Chandler couldn't help but remind Charlie again because he knew that Charlie always went out recently. After all, Charlie had left halfway when Chandler and he went to visit someone last time. Charlie asked, "Do I have to go?"

The Mr. Holland mentioned by Chandler was Chandler's leader, who was on good terms with Chandler's family.

They had kept in touch with each other over the years, but because Chandler didn't come back all year round, Mr. Holland hadn't come to pay a visit for several years.

It was because of Chandler that Mr. Holland came to visit them this time.

Charlie knew that Mr. Holland was a man of high status and needed to be entertained warmly. However, Mr. Holland was Dick's biological father.

This made Charlie feel a little uncomfortable.

How embarrassing it was for him to talk to Mr. Holland in a respectful manner even when he was at odds with Mr. Holland's son? Chandler said, "The grudges between you and Dick are just small issues. Don't let it affect your attitude toward Mr. Holland." Charlie nodded. With no intention of arguing with Chandler, he nodded and said, "All right."

After talking about Mr. Holland, Pat looked at Charlie and said, "By the way, Charlie, Rose's grandmother called me today."

Chapter 759 His Father Is Coming?

"What did she say?" Charlie couldn't help but feel that Rose's grandmother began to sound unfamiliar. Pat said, "Rose went to visit her and asked me to let Jimmy come back to my company. I think I should let you know."

He meant to inform Charlie instead of discussing it.

Charlie frowned and asked, "Can't we negotiate?"

Pat said, "You know I don't like Jimmy either, but since my wife left, my mother-in-law has never asked me to do anything. It was the first time she called to ask me for help. I have to do Rose a favor for my mother-in-law's sake. Please let Jimmy go for my sake. Anyway, you have divorced Theresa."

When Charlie heard the name Jimmy, he would think of Theresa.

It was not until he knew that Leonard and Ben were Theresa's children that he realized how shameless

Jimmy was and how much harm Jimmy had caused to Theresa.

Charlie sneered. "What a bastard!"

After saying that, Charlie stood up and left.

Both Chandler and Pat looked at Charlie's back. Pat knew Charlie well and said to Chandler, "I'm full too."

Looking at the two, Chandler sighed with resignation.

After dinner, Chandler drove to Dick.

Theresa was doing acupuncture for Dick.

Chandler stood aside and looked at Theresa. Recently, he had heard her name every day at home, and he couldn't help but look at her up and down.

After Theresa finished the acupuncture carefully, she raised her head and saw Chandler looking at her at the door.

After a short pause, she greeted, "Hello, Mr. Chandler."

Chandler walked up and sat down on the sofa next to Dick. Dick looked at him and asked, "Why are you here?" Chandler responded, "I'm here to discuss something with you. Are you done? Can I talk now?"

He said the first sentence to Dick and the last two sentences to Theresa.

After all, Theresa was treating Dick just now. Chandler didn't dare to disturb her when she was busy.

Theresa nodded. "Sure, go ahead."

Chandler looked at Theresa and said, "Can I have a private talk with Dick?"

Theresa took a look at Dick and said, "Then I'm leaving now."

"Wait for me downstairs. I'll drive you home later," Chandler said.

Theresa was stunned and asked, "Mr. Chandler, are you talking to me?"

Chandler smiled. "Yes."

Although he looked polite, he exuded a powerful aura that prevented others from disobeying him. Theresa glanced at him, wondering what he would like to drive her home. But she still nodded and sat downstairs without leaving.

Dick looked at Chandler and asked, "What's up?"

"Your father will come in two days," Chandler said. "I heard that you didn't see him when you went back this time. Is that true?"

Dick felt embarrassed about that. He sneered and said, "You're really well-informed. I hate it."

"You know, your father has a lot of things to deal with, especially during Christmas. Try to understand him. He told me that I must invite you to dinner this time."

"Dinner?" Dick looked at Chandler.

Chandler said, "I've booked a place to treat him to dinner. I'll send you the address later."

"I don't want to go," said Dick.

Dick couldn't see his father when he went all the way back, and now his father came to Serameton not for him but for the Calsis family.

In Dick's opinion, he was not even as important as his father's friends and clients to his father. Even Chandler, Mr. Holland's subordinate, made Mr. Holland so concerned. It was so ironic!

Chapter 760

Chapter 760 Which One of Them Are You Dating?

Chandler looked at Dick and advised, "Please come! If you don't, you wouldn't know when you can see your father next time."

Dick pursed his lips and looked more serious.

Knowing that Dick would agree, Chandler stood up and patted him on the shoulder. "Listen to me."

Chandler treated Dick as his brother.

Because both Dick and Chandler were living in Serameton, Dick's father was close to Chandler.

Chandler also took good care of Dick.

Dick used to be very thin and bullied by others when he was at school.

He was not a person who would not admit defeat and liked to fight with others.

In fact, Dick had hated Charlie since they were at school. The two of them were about the same age and studied in the same school. Chandler had always asked Charlie to help Dick. Hence, every time Dick lost the fight with Charlie, Charlie would look at him with disdain and say,

"Stupid!"

It seemed that Dick was a fool, while Charlie was an extremely smart person.

Charlie was talkative. In addition, he was a member of the Calsis family, so the teachers in the school would care about him all the time.

Charlie was also good-looking. No one would bully him, and no one would dare to bully him.

Compared to Charlie, Dick felt really pathetic. It seemed that everyone liked to bully him.

Over the past few years, he didn't like Charlie at all. As long as something could make Charlie unhappy, Dick would be very happy.

Chandler went downstairs. Seeing Theresa sitting on the sofa, he said, "Let's go."

When Rawlins saw Chandler, he said, "Mr. Chandler, let me walk you to the door."

He was very respectful to Chandler.

Chandler didn't refuse.

Theresa followed the two out.

Chandler's car was parked at the door. He opened the door and said to Theresa, "Please."

Theresa looked at him with hesitation. Chandler looked at her curiously and asked, "What's wrong?"

Hearing his words, Theresa thought for a while and got in the car, thinking that there was nothing to be afraid of.

Chandler told the driver to drive Theresa back first. In the car, Theresa didn't say anything.

But she had been tense.

She hadn't seen Chandler many times, but seeing that Dick obeyed him so much, Theresa knew that Chandler was not an ordinary person.

So she kept a wary eye on him.

Chandler said, "I have a question about you, Charlie, and Dick."

Theresa frowned and asked, "What do you want to know?"

"Charlie is my brother, and I also see Dick as my brother. So Ms. Cameron, which of them are you dating now?" asked Chandler.

Chandler, who had known Dick for so many years, could tell that Theresa was the person he trusted most and he couldn't help thinking that something was going on between them. What was more, when Chandler talked with Charlie a few days ago, Charlie seemed to have mentioned

Theresa and Dick.

Charlie meant that Dick was playing tricks and approached Theresa simply because he hated Charlie, but Theresa was still fooled by Dick.

Charlie was worried that Dick would hurt Theresa if they were together.

After, Charlie didn't think that Dick would really fall for Theresa. He believed that Dick was just setting her

But in Chandler's opinion, Dick really trusted Theresa, and the two of them seemed to have a special relationship.

Hearing Chandler's question, Theresa took a look at him.

Chandler also looked at her, waiting for her answer.

Theresa felt that his powerful vibe could make the atmosphere in the car tense, and she couldn't help smiling. Chandler asked, "Why are you smiling?"

Chapter 761

Chapter 761 May I Come in?

Theresa said, "Do I have to date one of them? Or do you think nothing can go on between a man and a woman except love?"

Chandler's questions made her feel a little uncomfortable.

Chandler said, "So you have nothing to do with Dick?"

Theresa responded, "As his acupuncture master, I can't deny that I have something to do with him. Mr. Chandler, you may not be able to understand. A woman like me also needs to earn money." Dick offered her good pay and helped her a lot.

Although Theresa said she wanted no pay at the beginning as long as Dick helped her family, Dick still gave her what she deserved.

Hearing that, Chandler seemed to be a little relieved. "That's good. Charlie cares about you very much. I'm just reminding you. Dick is not someone you can date with. Even if you want to be with him, his father won't agree."

Theresa raised her eyebrows. "You make me think that you and Dick are father and son."

Chandler looked at Theresa and continued, "You're as eloquence as Charlie."

For a moment, Theresa didn't know whether Chandler was praising her or scolding her.

Chandler said, "I know more about Dick's father than you do. You have divorced, and you have two children. He won't allow his son to be with you."

"All right," Theresa said. "Judging from what you said, Dick's father loves Dick very much. Otherwise, why does he have to interfere with what kind of woman his son wants to marry?"

"Of course," said Chandler. "After all, he is Dick's father."

"In that case, why can't he care more about his own son? Do you know how much Dick hopes to be cared for by his father? If his father cared about him, I wouldn't have to come here every day," remarked Theresa.

Theresa knew that it had nothing to do with her.

After all, it was Dick's family affairs.

But Theresa really felt sorry for him.

He was so seriously sick that he even needed her help to fall asleep.

But his family didn't seem to realize it at all.

Hearing this, Chandler looked at Theresa and said, "Not everyone has time to care about the trifles at home every day. There is always something more important in the world. I don't think it's appropriate for you to attack people like this."

Chandler's words reminded Theresa of his special identity.

It seemed that Chandler was the kind of person who stayed outside all year round.

It was not that he was not good to his family. It was his work that made him have that idea.

Theresa didn't argue anymore.

Soon, Theresa arrived home.

She took a look at Chandler and said, "I'm leaving now. Thank you for sending me back."

After saying that, she opened the door and got out of the car, and then walked into the gate.

Chandler's car was parked outside, and he stared at her back.

It seemed that she was not afraid of him at all.

Theresa returned home and went upstairs. When she passed by the door of the study of the two children, she saw Charlie giving lessons.

Ben listened with great interest. Although Leonard looked disdainful, he listened carefully as well.

Theresa wondered when Charlie came back.

Noticing her gaze, Charlie raised his head and glanced at her. He immediately winked at her and told her to go away and not to disturb him and the children.

After all, as soon as she appeared, the kid would shift their attention to her.

Theresa still hoped that Charlie could get along well with the children, so she didn't disturb them and went back to her room.

She changed into pajamas and lay down.

A moment later, there was a knock on the door.

Theresa didn't bother to open the door and said, "It's unlocked."

Charlie pushed the door open and asked, "May I come in?"

Chapter 762

Chapter 762 Invite Her to Dinner?

Theresa sat up and looked at Charlie. "Sure. Come on in."

Then, she reached out and smoothed her messy long hair.

Charlie walked over and looked at her. "Didn't you say that you wouldn't go out? Why did you go to Dick again?"

Theresa didn't feel well these two days.

Hearing his words, she said, "I have to deal with something there."

Theresa had planned to sleep at home, but Rawlins called and asked her to give Dick a check-up.

In the past two days, Dick not only couldn't fall asleep but also caught a cold.

Besides, his condition worsened today.

Charlie looked at her and said, "If I fell sick, would you come to treat me like this?"

Hearing Charlie's words, Theresa looked at him as if she were looking at a fool. "You're fine. Don't say words like these to curse yourself!"

"I was good to him when we were together, wasn't I? I was his acupuncturist, and he always ordered me to do all kinds of things, didn't he?" thought Theresa.

But at that time, due to Charlie's poor health, she always gave in to him.

Compared to him, Dick was much easier to deal with.

However, Charlie seemed to have forgotten it.

And Theresa didn't want to talk about the past.

Seeing that she was unhappy, Charlie didn't mention it anymore. "I have something to do at home these two days. I may be busy."

Theresa said, "As I said, just go ahead with your business. No need to waste your time coming here."

"Ben said that you wouldn't have dinner at home, so I came to accompany him." Charlie looked at her and said, "I just want to spend more time with him." Theresa said, "You can come to see him when you have time. Don't force yourself when you are busy."

Charlie nodded and said, "All right. I'll leave after talking with him. I won't come back tomorrow or the day after tomorrow. You can go to bed now."

Then he walked out.

Looking at his receding figure, Theresa felt weird. She was not used to his courtesy.

She wondered why he suddenly changed.

The man who used to be domineering would actually knock on the door when he came in. Besides, he wouldn't argue with her.

Theresa felt a little bored and fell asleep.

When she woke up, she went downstairs and found that Charlie had indeed left, but Dick had come. He wore a mask and coughed from time to time.

It seemed that he had just woken up not long ago.

Theresa took a deep breath, walked up, and asked, "Mr. White, what brings you here?"

Dick looked at her and said, "I have a favor to ask you!"

Theresa asked, "What's up?"

Theresa didn't think she could help him much except for helping him fall asleep.

Dick asked, "Are you free the day after tomorrow?"

Theresa replied, "Yes. What's wrong?"

Dick said, "I want to invite you to have dinner with me."

Theresa looked at Dick in surprise. "Why?"

Dick looked at her and said, "Please. I'll ask Rawlins to pay you for it."

He paid her for her treatment.

Of course, he would also pay her if she was willing to have dinner with him.

Theresa asked, "What kind of dinner is it?"

Dick thought for a while and responded, "It's a dinner that I don't want to attend. If you are there, I may be relaxed a lot. I'm afraid that I will lose my temper without you around."

Chapter 763

Chapter 763 A Dress for Her

Theresa asked, "Do I have such an effect?"

Dick's eyes lit up. "Dr. Cameron, I'll be much calmer when I see you recently. Don't you think it's strange? You can always calm me down. Maybe it's because I can sleep well every time you appear that I trust you very much."

Theresa looked at Dick, knowing that he wasn't having an easy time. She said, "All right."

Dick said, "Then I'll ask someone to pick you up. This is a dress for you."

After saying that, he raised his hand and Rawlins handed over a box.

Theresa didn't expect that Dick had prepared a dress for her.

She opened it and took a look. It was a customized luxury dress. This kind of dress was not only expensive but also hard to get even if one had money. Theresa said, "It's too expensive."

"So be careful. I'll return it to my friend after dinner. I asked someone to borrow it for you. After all, I don't have women's clothes in my house," responded Dick.

Theresa nodded. "All right. Thank you."

She was under great pressure because of Dick's words.

Dick coughed again. Seeing that Theresa took the dress, he said, "Then I'll go back."

In the evening, Charlie went to a hotel with Chandler.

Because Mr. Holland was coming, Chandler carefully checked the surroundings.

Charlie, who was standing beside Chandler, felt sorry for him. After all, Chandler had to get busy even when he came back for a vacation.

Charlie had two children now, but Chandler hadn't been married yet.

Chandler's job really sucked.

After getting it done, Chandler went to have dinner with Charlie.

After taking a seat, Chandler said, "I met Theresa today."

Hearing this, Charlie raised his head and asked, "Did you see her at Dick's?"

Chandler replied, "Yes. I drove her back."

"I see." Charlie looked at Chandler. Chandler wasn't like a Pat. Charlie wasn't afraid that he would make trouble and just asked with concern, "Did you say anything to her? Did you scare her?"

Seeing that Charlie was so protective of Theresa, Chandler smiled faintly. "Is she so good in your eyes? I heard that you have pissed Rose off for her."

"Yes." Charlie didn't deny his concern for Theresa. "Without her, I'd be a cripple now."

Chandler understood what Charlie was thinking. "I've asked her. She said that she had nothing to do with Dick. It seems that she is only treating Dick. Don't worry too much. There shouldn't be anything going on between her and Dick."

As Charlie's brother, Chandler could tell that Charlie had been bothered by this matter recently.

Charlie was a little annoyed today because of what Pat had mentioned.

Now he calmed down a lot after hearing what Chandler said.

He looked at Chandler and asked, "Really?"

Chandler said, "I don't have to lie to you."

"Thank you, Chandler," Charlie said. "You're so nice. When you get everything done in two days, I'll introduce a good woman to you and let you be a father as soon as possible."

"Forget it!" Chandler rolled his eyes at him and said, "Just mind your own business. You're a grown-up."

Don't let your parents worry about you. They have had a hard time because of you in the past two years." Charlie thought of his parents and nodded. "I know."

They used to worry about his legs, and then about his children.

Thinking of this, Charlie also felt that he was a troublemaker.

Chapter 764 Sow Discords

After dinner, Charlie and Chandler went back home together. Because Charlie was busy these two days, he didn't go back to Theresa's.

As soon as Charlie and Chandler entered the house, they saw Rose and Jimmy having dinner with Pat.

At the sight of two people, Charlie's face darkened.

Rose called out, "Hello, Uncle Chandler, Uncle Charlie."

She was bringing Jimmy back to see her father.

For the sake of Ella, Pat had the intention of asking Jimmy to come back to his company, so he asked Rose to bring Jimmy here.

Rose didn't know whether his father had agreed or not, but she still brought Jimmy back.

Chandler walked up and said to Rose, "It's been long. I thought you wouldn't come back anymore. After all, you didn't even come back during Christmas.

Rose felt a little embarrassed. "I'm sorry, Uncle Chandler."

While speaking, she stole a glance at Charlie.

Now that Charlie had broken up with Theresa, Rose thought Charlie would not dislike Jimmy as before. Jimmy also greeted, "Good evening, Uncle Chandler, Uncle Charlie."

It was not the first time Jimmy had met Chandler, but they were not familiar. Jimmy felt a little reserved in front of Chandler.

Charlie walked to the sofa and sat down before asking the servant beside him, "Have my parents come back?"

"No. They said that they had something to deal with and went to their friend's home. They will come back later."

Charlie didn't say anything more.

Pat remained seated and asked Jimmy, "I heard that you've worked in Dick's company recently. How is it going?"

Pat must be aware of what happened after Jimmy left the company.

Now that Jimmy wanted to come back, Pat had to learn more about it.

Jimmy could tell that Pat wanted him to come back.

It seemed that the relationship between Theresa and Charlie was not that close.

Jimmy replied, "I've been working in Johnson's company recently."

Hearing this, Pat took a look at Jimmy and teased, "You're quite ambitious."

He couldn't believe that Jimmy had gone to Johnson's company.

Pat hated Johnson very much and thought it was all Johnson's fault for bringing Theresa to them. Later, Theresa helped Charlie to get to his feet. Although Pat had no problem with Theresa, he didn't like her family.

What was more, Theresa had secretly taken away Charlie's two children.

Jimmy looked at Charlie in silence and responded to Pat, "I have no choice. I have offended Uncle Charlie before, and I have to find another job. My friend happens to work in Dick's company, so I went there. But then Dick transferred me to Johnson's company for Theresa. I told you that Theresa disliked me. Wherever I go, she goes against me. At that time, you always thought that she was falsely accused. Now, do you believe me, Uncle Charlie?"

Theresa was with Dick now, and Charlie had become a joke.

Jimmy looked at Charlie gloatingly.

Charlie raised his eyebrows and remained silent for Pat's sake.

Charlie didn't expect that Jimmy would mention him.

How could Jimmy be so shameless?

Charlie looked at Jimmy coldly, "What did you say?"

Seeing that Charlie was getting angry, Jimmy restrained himself and said in a flattering tone, "I don't mean to offend you, Uncle Charlie. I just think that Theresa is very good at lying. You are just fooled by her. Uncle Charlie, are you still in charge of the company of Cameron's group now? Dick said that he wanted to invest in Cameron's Group and focus on making the Cameron's Group the most famous brand in the industry."

Chapter 765

Chapter 765 Stay at the Cameron's Group?

Charlie was surprised to hear that and thought, "Dick cares so much about Theresa?"

Because Charlie didn't get involved in the domestic clothing market, Dick wasn't involved either.

Charlie didn't expect that Dick would want to get involved in this industry now, and it was related to

Theresa.

Charlie, who had just thought that Theresa had nothing to do with Charlie as Chandler said, couldn't help but suspect it again.

While he was wondering, Jimmy said, "If Dick is really interested in this industry, he can choose many companies, but he chooses Cameron's Group. Theresa is really something. She could make you listen to her in the past, and now Dick."

"What do you mean?" Charlie glared at Jimmy.

Charlie could suspect the relationship between Dick and Theresa.

But Jimmy couldn't slander Theresa here.

Jimmy thought that Charlie was interested in Dick's matters and he explained, "Theresa is with Dick now. Dick treats her very well and is very gentle with her. It seems that they will get married soon." Chandler frowned at Jimmy.

Charlie liked Theresa so much. Obviously, Jimmy was trying to sow dissension between Charlie and Theresa.

No wonder Charlie hated Jimmy so much.

Hearing Jimmy's words, Charlie smiled. He looked at Pat and asked, "Pat, are you really going to let this kind of person come back?"

Pat replied, "It's fine. You've divorced Theresa. Without Theresa, things won't be the same as before."

Charlie said, "Since that's what you want, I can only support your decision."

When Jimmy heard that Charlie had compromised, Jimmy suddenly felt that there was hope for him to.

come back.

Sure enough, Rose's grandmother was quite helpful.

Jimmy felt lucky that he had gone to beg Rose today.

The next second, Charlie said, "I also intend to take over the Cameron's Group in the future. Since you want to come back, from now on, you will be in charge of it."

Jimmy was speechless.

"What the hell! Do they have to target me like this?" thought he to himself.

He just wanted to leave the Cameron's Group, but all of these people wanted him to stay in that damn company.

Jimmy said, "Uncle Charlie, I don't have a good relationship with Theresa and her family. I don't think I can do a good job if I stay in their company."

Charlie said, "You look obedient to Dick. You did a good job when he asked you to go to the Cameron's Group, but now when I ask you to go, you have a problem with it. What? What's wrong? Do you think Dick is more remarkable than me?" Charlie also had the right to speak in Pat's company, because he had a large part of the shares.

Nandlall's Group was an Internet company established in recent years. It was different from the industrial enterprises of the Calsis family.

Although it was the Internet age, the world still relied on some traditional industries.

Nandlall's Group was no match for Calsis's Group.

As the head of the Calsis's Group, Charlie had a final say about the company's affairs.

Jimmy looked at Charlie, knowing that he couldn't afford to offend Charlie, Jimmy had to ask timidly, "I want to go to another company."

"Okay," Charlie said, "Then go to another country. I told you to go to Afreton, but you didn't want to go, saying that you didn't want to leave Rose. Now, are you willing to go?" "No, he can't." Rose could tell that Charlie was going against Jimmy.

She looked at Charlie with confusion and said, "Uncle Charlie, why do you have to do that? You've divorced Theresa. Why are you still targeting Jim like this?"

Chapter 766

Chapter 766 Silly Rose

Charlie said, "Jimmy owed Theresa."

Charlie's words took Jimmy aback.

Charlie actually said he owed Theresa

Jimmy wondered if Charlie had known something.

But then Jimmy thought it was impossible.

Looking at Charlie, Jimmy became a little angry and said, "It seems that even if Theresa is with Dick now, Uncle Charlie still trusts her so much. That's interesting."

Charlie raised his eyebrows in anger. "Do you mean that I'm stupid and blind?"

If he hadn't known Ben and Leonard were his children, Charlie might have been misled.

But now Charlie knew exactly what Jimmy had done, and the two children were the evidence.

After all, Charlie had nothing to do with Theresa at that time. Since Theresa gave birth to the two children, she must have gotten pregnant in the hospital. But the Watsons actually said that Theresa had an affair.

How shameless they were!

Jimmy lowered his head and replied, "How would I dare to say that?"

Charlie said, "I don't think you don't dare. You said so much in front of me just to imply that Theresa and Dick are together and she doesn't deserve my protection, right? But Jimmy, no matter if I'm with Theresa or not, I still dislike you."

Pat took a look at Charlie's angry face and then at Jimmy before saying, "Since Charlie wants it, just stay in the Cameron's Group to help him."

Pat asked Jimmy to come back just for the sake of Rose's grandma.

Pat could see this made Charlie unhappy.

Now that Charlie wanted Jimmy to stay in the Cameron's Group, Paul would just ask Charlie to stay.

Jimmy's face darkened. He didn't expect that Charlie really hated him so much.

If Charlie hadn't intervened, Jimmy thought he would have returned to the Nandlall's Group. Jimmy clenched his fists.

But he couldn't change the current situation.

Rose had thought that Jimmy could come back according to her father's attitude. But she didn't expect that her plan would fail because of Charlie.

Charlie stood up and said to Jimmy, "Come with me. I want to talk to you about the Cameron's Group."

Hearing Charlie's words, Jimmy stood up and followed him upstairs.

Seeing that Charlie asked Jimmy to go with him alone, Rose was a little worried. She looked at Chandler and said, "Uncle Chandler, will Uncle Charlie lose his temper?"

Hearing Rose's words, Chandler said, "Don't worry. Charlie is not that scary."

"Alas! You know what? Uncle Charlie hates Jimmy the most," sighed Rose.

Raising his eyebrows, Chandler looked at his niece and said, "You really care about Jimmy."

Chandler didn't talk much to Jimmy, but judging from what Jimmy had said to Charlie just now, Chandler could figure out what kind of person Jimmy was. Jimmy, who thought he was scheming and kept showing off, was extremely stupid in their eyes.

However, Rose seemed to trust Jimmy a lot.

Rose had been pampered by her family since she was a child.

Chandler didn't expect that she would be spoiled and become such a moron. It made Chandler sigh with resignation.

Jimmy followed Charlie into the study, and Charlie took a seat. Now there was nobody else around. Jimmy plucked up his courage and asked, "Uncle Charlie, I know it was my fault before, but I have been punished. Rose is your niece. I have married her for so long. We are family. Why do you have to do this to me for a woman?"

Chapter 767 Slander Theresa

Charlie looked at him with a darkened face without a word.

Jimmy continued, "You know what? In fact, Theresa's two children are Dick's."

Charlie looked at Jimmy and asked in a low voice, "What did you say?"

He didn't expect that Jimmy would say something like that.

In fact, Charlie also had such suspicion before, but he didn't know the truth at that time.

But Jimmy must be aware of the truth. How could he still have the nerve to say words like that? This jerk was obviously lying. In order to achieve his goal, he threw dirt at Theresa.

Jimmy looked at Charlie's cold eyes and felt a little scared. But now, since he and Charlie were at odds, Jimmy didn't fear offending Charlie anymore. Jimmy plucked up his courage and said, "I just knew it recently. A few days ago when I went to Dick's, I saw Theresa's two children call him dad. I thought her children were Eugene's, and I didn't realize it until I saw it with my own eyes."

Of course, Jimmy knew that Theresa's children were neither Dick's nor Eugene's.

But since everyone could believe that the two children were Eugene's, why couldn't he say that they were Dick's at the moment?

Jimmy didn't think it would be a good thing for him if Dick and Charlie continued protecting Theresa. Anyway, Charlie and Dick were at odds. Jimmy thought he might get some benefit from it if he made them go into a big fight.

No matter how well Charlie treated Theresa, he couldn't forgive a woman who had given birth to two children for Dick, could he?

Charlie asked, "Did you really hear the two children call Dick dad?"

Jimmy replied, "Yes. And the two kids look like Dick very much."

Jimmy continued to lie.

Charlie looked at Jimmy and suddenly smiled.

Jimmy said, "Uncle Charlie."

Charlie's smile confused Jimmy, and Jimmy wondered why Charlie was smiling.

Charlie threw a book beside him at Jimmy. "You're simply full of shit, you liar! Jimmy, don't you feel guilty when you say these words?"

When Charlie didn't know the truth before, he felt disgusted to see Jimmy.

After all, Jimmy was always against his ex-wife and was not graceful at all.

Now that Charlie knew the truth, he disliked Jimmy even more.

How could Jimmy say something stupid like that in front of him?

Charlie was really impressed.

Jimmy looked at Charlie and argued, "Uncle Charlie, why do you think I'm lying? I saw the two children call Dick with my own eyes. Otherwise, why do you think Theresa didn't let you see her children before?" Charlie remained seated and said to Jimmy, "Go on. I'm listening."

He'd like to see what else Jimmy could say.

Jimmy felt strange that Charlie didn't believe him at all.

"Why doesn't Charlie trust me? Does he really trust Theresa to such an extent? He was still angry with Theresa when she took the two children away, wasn't he? Why would he trust Theresa so much again? It seemed that Theresa has really bewitched him," thought Jimmy to himself.

Seeing that Jimmy remained silent, Charlie looked up and asked, "Why don't you continue?"

Seeing that he couldn't get any benefit from this topic, Jimmy didn't continue. "Uncle Charlie, why did you ask me to come here?"

Charlie said, "Send me the information about Cameron's Group."

Jimmy responded, "I'm working for Dick now, and I haven't resigned yet. These are business secrets. Even if you are my uncle, I can't do such a thing."

Chapter 768 The Beautiful Dress

Charlie looked at Jimmy and knew that Jimmy was making things difficult for him. "All right. Get everything ready. I will go to the Cameron's Group in two days." Jimmy was taken aback and asked, "Are you going to the Cameron's Group?"

"Is there anything wrong?" Charlie looked at Jimmy.

Jimmy replied, "No."

He just didn't expect that Charlie could still help Theresa after Theresa took his children away.

Seeing that Charlie didn't say anything more, Jimmy said, "Uncle Charlie, if there's nothing else, I'll go out."

Charlie looked at him in his seat and wished to beat Jimmy black and blue to vent his anger.

He knew that Jimmy wanted to make a difference, but Jimmy had to stay in the Cameron's Group for the rest of his life to atone for what he had done.

In the afternoon, the weather was good. Theresa put on the dress given by Dick in the room.

The black dress was decorated with diamonds, which looked like the stars in the night sky.

Leonard and Ben looked at Theresa and said, "Mom, you're so beautiful!"

Dick had good taste and the dress he borrowed was very beautiful.

Cristina also thought it was beautiful and whispered, "This dress is so beautiful! I didn't expect that he would have such good taste. Theresa, do you think he really wants to chase you?" Theresa looked at herself in the mirror and said to Cristina, "You think too much!"

Cristina said, "I don't think I'm thinking too much. Why didn't he give a dress to anyone but you?"

"I've told you. I just want to do him a favor," Theresa said. "He's probably afraid that my plain clothes will disgrace him."

After all, she was invited to help him.

Cristina asked, "Are you going to make up with Charlie and that's why you reject Dick?"

Theresa smiled. "You're really thinking too much. Charlie and I are never ever getting back together."

Theresa told Cristina the truth only when the two kids walked away.

Cristina said, "I trust you, but he still hugged you two days ago."

Theresa thought of the scene at that time and felt embarrassed. "He was mad that day. Don't think too much. I won't get back together with him. Besides, he hasn't contacted me in the past two days." "What about Leonard and Ben? Will he come to pick them up?" Cristina asked with concern.

If Charlie and Theresa were not together, who would the children live with?

Theresa took a look at the two kids who were playing aside and said, "Charlie said he wouldn't come to take them home. From now on, the two kids will live with me. Ben likes him, so we should raise the two kids together."

As long as the children stayed with her, Theresa was fine if Charlie came to see them.

After all, the children also needed a father.

Cristina said, "I'm surprised that he would give up the children. It seems that he's quite nice."

Theresa nodded.

Cristina said, "Since you have no intention of getting back together with Charlie, just consider Dick. In fact, Dick is really a good man. I heard that he was very fierce before, and I think it's okay."

Theresa looked at Cristina and said, "What's wrong with you? Why do you want me to get married so much as soon as you make up with Eugene? I've divorced two times. Don't try to persuade me to get married anymore."

Theresa had no feelings for Dick.

Moreover, according to Chandler's attitude, if she really had something to do with Dick, she was afraid that she would get into endless trouble.

Theresa was not interested in causing trouble.

She only wanted to spend the rest of her life with her two children.

Theresa changed her clothes and began to put on makeup.

Standing next to Theresa, Cristina looked at her and said, "It's unfair, sweetie. Why are you so breathtaking?"

Chapter 769 Meet Dick

Theresa said, "Stop making fun of me!"

"I'm not kidding," Cristina said seriously.

Theresa glanced at the wound on Cristina's face. In the past two days, Eugene had accompanied Cristina to the hospital and kept an eye on Cristina to prevent her from eating anything that would make her scar stay on her face

Cristina always liked to eat whatever she wanted, but not she was really controlled by Eugene

After a while, Rawlins sent someone to pick up Theresa

Theresa said to Cristina, "Then I'll go

Theresa couldn't take her children along when she went to dinner with Dick, so the children stayed at home with Cristina Brenda was also home, and they wouldn't starve

When they arrived at the hotel, Theresa got out of the car. Dick had arrived. Rawlins was waiting for her at the entrance

Seeing Theresa, Rawlins smiled. "Good evening, Dr. Cameron."

Theresa walked into the hotel and saw Dick in the private room of the cafe on the second floor

He was sitting there alone to rest.

When Dick saw Theresa coming in, his eyes lit up. He picked the dress, but she looked more stunning in it than he had thought.

Theresa looked at Dick and called out, "Hi, Mr. White."

Dick said, "You can call me Dick."

Theresa responded, "I wouldn't dare to call you like that."

Dick's eyes softened when he looked at Theresa. "Didn't you say that you wanted to be my friend?"

Theresa was dumbfounded and asked, "By the way, have you recovered?"

Dick replied, "Yes, I feel much better these two days. Thank you for your concern."

Theresa looked at the dark circles under his eyes and said, "You haven't slept well."

She didn't expect that it would be so difficult for him to fall asleep.

Dick smiled and said, "I can sleep much better than before. It's still early. I'll sleep for a while. Wake me up later."

He could sleep at ease with Theresa around, and he decided to take this opportunity to have a rest.

When he was sleeping, Theresa sat next to him and drank water quietly.

After a while, Rawlins knocked at the door. He came in and said, "Mr. White, it's time."

Dick slowly opened his eyes and asked, "Can I not go?"

"I don't think it's a good idea," Rawlins responded. "You've come. Besides, Dr. Cameron will accompany you."

After taking a look at Theresa, Dick stood up reluctantly and said, "let's go!"

Theresa followed him out, looked at Rawlins, and asked, "Who are you going to meet?"

She had never seen Dick so nervous.

After all, Dick had never been afraid of anyone before.

He was even so arrogant in front of Charlie. Theresa didn't expect that Dick would be afraid of someone.

"His father," said Rawlins.

Theresa was surprised to hear that.

She didn't expect that Dick would bring her here to meet his father.

However, she was treating Dick now. She didn't think it was a big deal to meet his family.

They went upstairs and came out of the elevator. The security guards at the door searched their bodies, and even their mobile phones were taken away. The security was extremely strict.

Theresa was not used to it. After all, it was the first time that she had come to such an occasion.

Dick seemed to read her mind and said, "Please understand. That old guy has always been like this." Rawlins, who was standing aside, wiped the sweat off his forehead when he heard his boss's words. "Is it really good to commend your father like this, Mr. White?" thought Rawlins.

Chapter 770

Chapter 770 Go to Dinner With Him

Theresa looked at Dick and said, "Mr. White, it seems that you have a hard time."

Dick raised his eyebrows.

After they entered the room, someone led them to the private room.

Rawlins stayed outside without following them.

Theresa followed Dick into the private room and found that everyone had arrived. Most of the people sitting in the room were from the Calsis family.

They were Robert, Leticia, and the three sons of the Calsis family.

Of course, Charlie was also there.

At the sight of Charlie, Theresa was stunned. Charlie didn't expect to meet her there, either.

He was slightly shocked and wondered, "Why would Theresa come to such a dinner?"

Dick said, "Have a seat."

He pulled out a chair for Theresa and let her sit down.

The elders were chatting and didn't pay much attention to them.

As the most important figure of today's dinner, Mr. Sam Holland was sitting on the host seat, with a girl beside him. It seemed that she was his daughter, who was about the same age as Dick. When that girl saw Dick, her face turned cold. Obviously, she didn't like Dick.

When Chandler noticed Dick, he called out, "Hey, Dick."

He knew that Dick would come, but he didn't expect that Dick would bring Theresa here.

After Chandler took the initiative to greet him, Dick responded, "Hi, Chandler."

Theresa, who was sitting next to Chandler, felt embarrassed by Charlie's gaze.

She picked up her glass and took a sip of water to relax.

Charlie stared at her. In the past two days, he had been immersed in the good news brought by Chandler

Dick had nothing to do with her.

But why was Theresa here today?

Why did Dick bring her here?

Sam was talking with Robert and Leticia about Old Mr. Calsis. "Why didn't Old Mr. Calsis come?"

Robert replied, "He is in poor health and is recuperating in the hospital. So I didn't ask him to come here."

Sam felt sorry and said, "Then I'll go to the hospital to visit him later."

"Mr. Holland, you're so busy. Don't bother. My father doesn't anyone now. Even if he meets you, he may not be able to recognize you."

Sam took a look at Chandler and said, "Chandler has told me that Old Mr. Calsis was sick, but I didn't expect it to be so serious."

"He's getting old," Robert sighed.

Sam thought about his schedule and found that he indeed didn't have much time. He then looked up at Dick, who had been staring at Charlie, and called out, "Dick." Dick was in a daze and didn't hear it. Theresa took a look at him and gently pushed him. "Your father called you."

Dick then looked at his father and asked, "What's the matter?"

It could be seen that the young people were very reserved in front of Sam, and only Dick looked flippant.

Seeing this scene, Sam took a deep breath, feeling that he was almost pissed off by his son.

Sam held back his anger and said, "Old Mr. Calssis is in poor health. You're in Serameton. Help me visit him often when you have time."

"I see." Dick smiled. "No wonder Chandler always comes to see me on your behalf."

Celia was annoyed by Dick and snapped, "How can you talk to Dad like this?"

Dick looked at the girl. Celia and he had the same biological daughter but different mothers.

Hence, they were treated differently.

Celia grew up with her father, unlike Dick.

Dick asked, "Did I say anything impolite?"

Celia glared at him and said, "You are a grown-up, but you're still so flippant. Shame on you!"

Dick didn't reply. He just looked at Chandler and said, "Chandler, I said I wouldn't come. Why do you insist on asking me to come?" Chandler took a look at Celia, and Celia shut her mouth.

Chapter 771

Chapter 771 We're Going to Get Married

Theresa remained seated in her seat. She was not a moron, so she could tell that the Hollands thought highly of Chandler.

Not only Sam but also Celia seemed to be nice to him.

Sam didn't comment on Dick's behavior but just said to Robert and Leticia, "I'm sorry. Dick has always been reckless. Sorry for troubling you!"

Dick got worked up as he listened to his father's words. Sam was so polite to the people from the Calsis family, but he actually ignored his own son.

Dick wondered if he really disgraced his father so much.

Theresa looked at Dick and knew that he must be very angry now.

If she were Dick, she would be angry as well.

She comforted, "Eat something!"

With that, Theresa picked up a spoon for him and motioned for him to eat some soup.

Charlie was sitting next to her. Seeing that Theresa was taking care of Dick, Charlie couldn't breathe.

It was fine if Theresa did that somewhere else.

But now, Dick's father and Charlie's family were both here.

Charlie wondered if she was really with Dick.

A flush of anger flooded over Charlie. He felt stung by their intimate scene.

But, Charlie was in no position to get jealous.

After all, Theresa had divorced him.

Logically speaking, Charlie had no right to interfere with who she wanted to date.

But why did he feel such difficulty in breathing?

Even his heart cracked open.

Sam took a look at Theresa and Dick. This woman brought by Dick obviously had a good relationship with Dick.

Sam asked, "Dick, you haven't introduced this lady yet. She is...?"

Hearing his father's question, Dick replied, "This is my girlfriend. We are going to get married. Mr. Holland. I know you don't have time. Don't worry. I won't invite you. I can make good arrangements by myself." Theresa was caught off guard.

She looked at Dick in disbelief and thought, "What is he talking about? Get married? When did I agree to marry him?"

When she was about to stand up and explain, Dick grabbed her hand under the table and looked at her with pleading eyes. He begged in a low voice that only the two could hear, "Help me, please!" "But..." Theresa could feel that everyone in the room was looking at her, including Robert and Leticia.

Subconsciously, Leticia took a look at her son, Charlie.

Looking at Theresa and Dick, Charlie couldn't help asking, "When did you decide to get married? Why didn't I know?"

Dick chuckled. "I don't think I have to report this to you. What's wrong? Mr. Calsis, do you want to be my father?"

Charlie looked at Theresa and asked, "Are you really with Dick?"

Celia watched them in her seat. She was shocked when Dick said that Theresa was his girlfriend.

She didn't expect Dick to have a girlfriend, and he even brought her to meet their father.

But now, Celia was confused by Charlie's attitude.

It seemed that Charlie and Theresa knew each other.

Chapter 772

Chapter 772 He's Really Insane

Theresa looked at Charlie. She wanted to say yes. After all, she had nothing to do with Charlie. Since she had pretended to be Charlie's wife, why couldn't she pretend to be Dick's girlfriend at the moment? However, Charlie's eyes were fixed on her, which made her unable to nod.

Dick smiled and said, "What's wrong? Mr. Calsis, do you want me to prove that I'm dating Theresa? I told you. why don't you believe me?"

Dick lowered his head to kiss Theresa in front of everyone.

Seeing that Dick was approaching her, Theresa raised her hand to stop him and reminded, "Enough is enough."

Dick stopped. But from Charlie's point of view, the two of them seemed to have kissed.

Dick looked at Theresa and asked in a low voice, "Do you still love him?"

He could tell that Theresa didn't want Charlie to be sad.

Although she had divorced Charlie, she still cared about Charlie's feelings so much.

Charlie was really happy.

It seemed that everyone in the world would be attracted by his charm.

Seeing what was happening before his eyes, Charlie took a deep breath and said, "I'm not feeling well, so I'll go back first."

After saying that, Charlie stood up and quickly walked out of the room.

Seeing Charlie leave, Dick raised his head and said to Sam, "I'm going to marry Theresa. I'm just here to tell you about it, in case you blame me for not informing you in the future."

Sam looked at Theresa.

Theresa felt uneasy because of their gazes. She stood up and said, "I have something urgent to attend to now. I'm leaving."

When she promised to come for dinner with Dick, she didn't expect such a scene.

Rawlins, who was standing at the door, didn't expect them to come out so soon.

Theresa didn't say anything. She took her phone and walked out of the restaurant.

Theresa didn't answer but walked quickly.

When they arrived at the elevator, Dick followed her in. He looked at her and asked, "Are you angry?" "Mr. White If I had known that you would make such a joke on me, I wouldn't have come," said Theresa. Dick said, "I just said that to piss my father. You don't have to take it seriously."

Theresa raised her head and looked at Dick. "I always respect you and treat you as my friend. I want to help you because you can't sleep well. But Dick, you really went too far today!"

"Are you so angry because of Charlie?" Dick asked. "do you still have feelings for him? Do you think you can still get back together?"

Theresa remembered that Charlie had left in a fit of anger.

She clenched her fists and said, "It has nothing to do with Charlie. It's just that no woman likes to play such a boring game with you." "What if I say that I'm not playing games, but really want you to marry me?" Dick asked while staring his dark and deep eyes at her.

Theresa felt a little suffocated and said, "Today, I finally become aware of your identity, Mr. White. You are someone I can't afford to latch on to. We belong to two different worlds. You don't have to joke with me like this."

"No," said Dick. "I really like you. When you are with me, I can sleep better. You may think that my father is a bigwig but in fact... I don't have any feelings for him. He comes to see me even less frequently than Chandler. In the past few years, nobody has accompanied me except Rawlins. I just want to have a warm home all of a sudden. Can't I?"

Theresa was dumbfounded. "I've divorced two times, and I have two children."

"I don't care about that. Leonard and Ben also like me. If we got married, I would treat them well."

Theresa couldn't believe what he said.

He was really insane.

Chapter 773

Chapter 773 She Has No Intention of Marrying Him

Theresa said, "Mr. White, Charlie, and I have two children. And I haven't gotten over him yet."

"So I think I need to stay by your side." Dick looked at Theresa and said, "You know what kind of person Charlie is. Has he been harassing you recently? He'll pester you forever unless you get married. If you married me, it would be good for both you and me. What do you think?"

Theresa glanced at him and said, "I don't think it's a good idea."

"You can plan to do it now," said Dick.

"No, I don't plan to do that," Theresa said. "Please don't push me anymore and don't make fun of me. If you insist, I'm afraid I can't do acupuncture for you anymore."

The twinkling light in Dick's eyes went out. He sighed and said, "Forget it. I won't push you since you don't want it."

Dick admitted that he proposed to Theresa simply because he wanted to annoy Charlie.

But when Theresa refused him, Dick felt an indescribable loss.

He was jealous of Charlie because Theresa loved Charlie so much.

Theresa breathed a sigh of relief when she realized that Dick didn't make things difficult for her anymore.

She knew that Dick came up with such an idea because he wanted to piss Charlie off.

Theresa didn't intend to get back together with Charlie now, but she didn't want to have anything to do with Dick or let Dick use her to go against Charlie.

She remembered how angry Charlie looked before he left earlier.

It seemed that Charlie believed something was going on between her and Dick.

But it was also a good thing.

When they arrived downstairs, Theresa said to Dick, "Since there is nothing else, I'll go back. Mr. White, go back early and have a good rest."

Dick looked at her and said, "I'll drive you home."

"No, thanks," Theresa said with a smile. "Don't bother. Bye."

The dinner was still going on, and it didn't stop because of the departure of Charlie and Dick.

Anyway, the two of them didn't matter.

After dinner, Robert, Leticia, and Pat went back together.

Chandler hadn't left yet. He stayed to soothe Sam and Celia.

When Chandler followed Sam out, Sam asked, "By the way, who is that woman? You've been here recently. You should know her, right?"

Chandler replied, "Dick has sleep problems. Theresa is his doctor who is responsible for treating his insomnia. You know, Dick is sensitive and has a psychological shadow."

Sam remarked, "He just likes to fool around and think too much about everything. Nobody in our family is like him."

In Sam's eyes, Dick was too sentimental.

Chandler pleaded, "If you have time, you may go to see him alone. In fact, he has always wanted to meet you."

"I don't think he wants to meet me at all." Sam looked at Chandler and asked, "Is he really going to marry that woman?"

Thinking of Theresa, Chandler had to tell the truth. "Honestly, Theresa used to be Charlie's wife. She gave birth to two children for Charlie." Sam's face turned serious.

He had thought that Dick was old enough to get married.

But Sam's face darkened when he learned that Dick intended to marry Charlie's ex-wife who had two children. In Sam's eyes, Dick was just fooling around.

Sam said, "I won't agree to this marriage. You can go back and talk to him. He is not a teenager anymore. If he keeps stirring up trouble, I will be more and more disappointed in him." Charlie had left in a fit of anger.

It was obvious that he still had feelings for Theresa.

Sam would never allow Dick to do such a shameful thing.

Chapter 774

Chapter 774 He's Drinking Alone

If Dick were to marry Theresa, how would the people from the Calsis family think of him?

Dick didn't care about his dignity, but Sam did.

Chandler said, "I don't think I can convince him."

If he could, such a thing wouldn't have happened.

"Please persuade him," said Sam. "Thank you, Chandler!"

Over the years, Chandler had to deal with a lot of trouble because of Dick.

Chandler said, "All right. Don't mention it! I'll go to see him later."

Compared with Dick, Chandler felt that he should be more worried about Charlie.

Chandler how Charlie was doing.

At dusk, Roderick parked his car outside and walked in.

Jonathan and Jack were standing at the door of the private room, looking nervous.

At the sight of Roderick, Jack called out to him as if he had seen his savior, "Roderick, you're finally here."

Roderick frowned and asked, "Why did you ask me to rush over? What happened?"

Jack quickly pulled him to the door and pushed the door open a little.

Roderick looked through the gap between the doors and saw Charlie sitting on the sofa with a can of beer in his hands. He raised his head and gulped it down.

It was said that drinking would only be fun with several friends, but Charlie was drinking alone here.

Roderick asked, "What's wrong with Charlie?"

"I don't know," Jack responded. "I don't dare to ask either. Who do you think has irritated him?"

Roderick looked at Jonathan, who also shook his head. "I don't know. Today, Mr. Calsis went to have dinner with Mr. Holland and came out before the dinner was over." Jack didn't know what had happened.

Roderick said, "I'll go and have a look."

As Charlie's friend, Roderick was not afraid of Charlie at all.

Roderick pushed the door open, walked over, and sat down.

Charlie looked up at him without saying anything and continued to drink.

Roderick asked, "Shall I drink with you?"

Charlie forced a smile and said, "Don't make fun of me. You can't drink,"

Roderick raised his eyebrows and said, "It seems that you are quite sober."

Charlie put down the can of beer and said to Roderick, "Dick said he wanted to marry Theresa."

Roderick raised his eyebrows and said, "Maybe he just did it to piss you off."

After all, Dick always tried to irritate Charlie.

It seemed that he targeted Charlie and Charlie every day. In fact, when Charlie got into an accident before, everyone suspected that Dick was behind it.

"He said that in front of his father that he even took Theresa to the dinner." Charlie's face turned gloomy as he recalled the scene.

Dick and Theresa were so intimate at that time.

Looking at Charlie's sad face, Roderick said, "Charlie, did you really fall in love with Theresa? I thought you were just a little interested in her. It's just a woman. Since you've broken up, you can easily find another one."

Charlie gave a wry smile. He was good-looking, and when he smiled, he looked charming.

With a hint of sadness in his eyes, he said, "I think so too. But I'm just afraid...."

Roderick chuckled. "Afraid? What are you afraid of, Charlie?"

Charlie lowered his head. His long eyelashes cast shadows under his eyes. "Will Dick treat her well? You know what kind of person Dick is. He just approaches her to provoke me. He hates me. He always wants to take away what I'm interested in."

Chapter 775

Chapter 775 Go to Theresa's!

Of course, Charlie didn't want to give Dick the chance.

But now, Theresa really seemed to be Dick's girlfriend.

Besides, she looked very happy with Dick by her side.

Roderick sighed, "Don't think about it anymore. Everyone has his or her own life. What Theresa is thinking about is the most important. She doesn't know that you are worried about her here. Since she chooses Dick, she should be responsible for her decision."

Charlie crushed the beer can in his hand.

He frowned and said, "I just hate myself for not treating her well when she was with me. I hate myself for letting her leave me and end up like this."

Roderick said in a deep voice, "Honestly, I was really worried about you when you got a divorce, but now that things have come to this point, you should try to get over it. You can't maintain the relationship between you two alone. Maybe you and she are just not meant to be. Don't force it."

Charlie picked up a glass and took a look at Roderick. Every time Charlie met some difficulties, Roderick was always there to comfort him. "Let's have a drink."

Roderick took a look at him and picked up a glass as well. But what Roderick drank was not wine, but water.

He clinked glasses with Charlie and said, "Be optimistic, Charlie! Look at you. You shouldn't look like this. Theresa has nothing to do with you now. But you have two children. Take care of them!" After saying that, Roderick sighed inwardly and suddenly felt that he looked like a nanny.

He had to comfort Charlie and Charlie's wife and children every day.

What a wonderful life!

After drinking for a while, Charlie got hammered, and Roderick drove him home.

As soon as they got into the car, Charlie said, "Let's go to Theresa's."

"Are you sure you're going to meet her in such a state?" Roderick raised his eyebrows.

"Go to Theresa's!" Charlie repeated.

Noticing that Charlie didn't listen to him at all, Roderick said to Jonathan, who was sitting in the driver's seat. "Go to Theresa's."

Jonathan took a look at his boss and Roderick nodded and drove toward Theresa's residence.

Theresa was sitting on the bed, applying ointment prescribed by the doctor to Cristina's wound.

It could prevent scars from leaving on Cristina's face.

Cristina looked at Theresa and asked, "So, did Dick really say that he wants to marry you?"

Theresa sighed with resignation. "Yes, you are right."

"It's good news, isn't it? Why are you not happy at all?" Cristina asked. Theresa had had a sad face since she came back.

Theresa pursed her lips and forced a smile. "How do you know that I'm unhappy?"

"You're just unhappy, Cristina said. "You've always said that you want to draw a line with Charlie, but now it seems that you're still not over him. You're worried about him, aren't you?"

It was so difficult to stop loving someone.

Even Theresa was no exception.

She had gone through a lot with Charlie, the highlight of her dark period.

How could she give up now?

Theresa denied awkwardly. "I'm over him."

Theresa always told herself that love was the most unworthy emotion in life.

But she still felt nervous when Cristina questioned her.

"Yes, you are." Cristina didn't call her bluff but just closed her eyes and patiently let Theresa apply medicine to her wound..

Suddenly, the sound of a car stopping came from downstairs. The doorbell rang, and Theresa's hand, which was applying ointment on Cristina's face, shook.

Cristina grabbed Theresa's hand and whispered, "All right. Go and have a look. It should be Charlie." Theresa screwed the lid on and put the ointment away before walking out of Cristina's room. Because Theresa had taken a shower, she went downstairs in pajamas and slippers. Roderick was standing in the living room, while Charlie was lying on the sofa as if he had gotten hammered. Brenda asked, "Why did Mr. Charlie drink so much?"

Chapter 776

Chapter 776 Please Help Him to My Room!

Theresa asked Roderick, "What's going on, Dr. Hill?"

"Charlie was drunk and said he wanted to come back to see his children, so I drove him back." Roderick smiled at Theresa and asked, "Is Dick here?"

Theresa was stunned. It seemed Roderick had known what had happened during the dinner.

She replied, "No."

Roderick said, "Which room does Charlie sleep in? Let me help him go upstairs. Otherwise, you can't move him into the room after I leave."

Charlie was nearly 1.9 meters tall. It was quite difficult for Theresa and Brenda to help him go upstairs.

Theresa said, "Please help him into the guest room."

Roderick smiled. "Okay."

However, Charlie, who was lying on the sofa, suddenly raised his head and said, "I don't want to sleep in the guest room!"

Theresa looked at him and thought, "Is he really drunk?"

Charlie sat up and squinted at Theresa before getting to his feet. Brenda offered her arms to him immediately, afraid that he would fall down.

Charlie walked up to Theresa, having only her in his eyes.

Theresa remained motionless and calmly looked at the drunk man. She had seen him get drunk before, and it seemed that he had a poor memory every time he was drunk.

Charlie was quite a cold man, but when he was drunk, he was as cute as a child.

He fixed his eyes on Theresa at the moment. Because he was tall and right in front of her, Theresa felt he was blotting out some of the light.

When she was about to say something, Charlie held her in his arms.

Theresa was taken aback.

Jonathan, Roderick, and Brenda watched them silently.

Theresa only felt a headache.

Charlie was so clingy to her.

How could Theresa draw a clear line between them?

He was really so....

He knew he would become like this every time he got hammered, but he still drank.

He would become clingy as soon as Theresa appeared every he got drunk, but Theresa didn't expect that he was still the same as before.

To avoid embarrassment, Theresa called out, "Charlie."

"Yes?" Charlie responded in a soft voice.

Theresa had thought that she might have a quarrel with Charlie when they met again. Never did she expect such a scene.

Theresa, who had been upset for an entire night, suddenly felt sorry for him.

"How cunning he is!" thought Theresa to herself.

She said, "All right. Time to go to bed."

"I don't want to sleep in the guest room." Charlie protested.

When Theresa asked him to sleep in the guest room before, Charlie just went back home.

Although he was so drunk now, he still refused to sleep in the guest room.

Theresa looked at him and said, "Then go back home and sleep in your own room. Jonathan and Roderick are still here. I can ask them to drive you home."

"No!" Charlie rejected it.

He held Theresa tightly in his arms and said, "Honey, you smell good."

Theresa was dumbfounded.

If it went on like this, there could be an intimate scene.

Thinking of what Charlie had done after getting drunk before, Theresa was really afraid that he would do something to her.

She had to say to Jonathan and Roderick, "Please help him into my room. I'll sleep in the guest room."

Chapter 777

Chapter 777 Double Standards

After hearing what Theresa had to say, Roderick nodded and help Charlie together with Jonathan, heading upstairs.

When Theresa entered her room, she saw them help Charlie lie on the bed.

Brenda said, "I'm going to make some Prairie Oyster for him."

Theresa nodded. "Thank you, Brenda."

Jonathan was taking care of Charlie.

Roderick walked up and looked at Theresa. "I've heard you are going to marry Dick. Is that true? Charlie is very sad. He drank all night."

Theresa looked at the man on the bed and responded with a smile, "Charlie and I have broken up.

Roderick smiled and said, "I know. I don't mean to persuade you to get back together with Charlie. I just think... it is necessary to tell you. Theresa, if you really love Dick, I hope you will be happy. But... I hope. you won't stand on Dick's side and hurt Charlie. You know how much Charlie cares about you. Everything you do could make him sadder."

If Roderick had told Charlie earlier about the children, so many things wouldn't have happened.

At that time, Roderick just respected Theresa and didn't want to interfere too much in their affairs.

But now...

Roderick couldn't bear to see Theresa hurt Charlie anymore.

After all, Roderick and Charlie had been good friends for so many years.

Theresa looked at Roderick and found that he spoke with a serious look. She didn't expect that even he thought she was dating Dick.

For a moment, she didn't know what to say.

It didn't seem to be necessary to explain, after all.

Theresa could only sigh silently inwardly.

After finishing what he wanted to say, Roderick looked at Theresa and said, "I'll take my leave. Is it okay for Charlie to stay here with you?"

"Sure!" Theresa said. "Thank you!"

She knew that Roderick and Charlie were close friends. Otherwise, Charlie wouldn't have told him about such a thing.

Brenda and Jonathan were taking care of Charlie. Theresa didn't stay to watch them. Instead, she went to the room of Leonard and Ben. The two kids were about to go to bed after taking a shower.

Both of them lying on the bed. Ben sat at the head of the bed, with an iPad in his hand. Theresa asked, "What are you doing?"

"I'm texting my dad," answered Ben.

Theresa looked at the little boy and felt a little embarrassed. "Well, he's drunk. He can't check your message. Just go to bed."

"Is Dad here?" Ben asked curiously.

Theresa nodded. "Yeah, he's next door."

"Then I'll go to see him." After saying that, Ben turned over and got out of bed.

Theresa didn't stop him. Instead, she sat next to Leonard and began to tell him stories.

Leonard, who was sitting next to Theresa, looked at her with his eyes wide open. In his opinion, he was old enough to read by himself and Theresa didn't have to tell stories. Although the boy was only four years old, he was good at reading and knew a lot of words.

But he still liked to stay with Theresa like this.

When Leonard was about to fall asleep while listening to Theresa's whisper, Ben rushed in and went back to bed.

Seeing that Charlie was sleeping soundly, Ben couldn't do anything but come back to sleep after showing his concern.

Theresa asked, "Did you see your dad?"

Ben said, "He's drunk and needs a rest. I'm going to see him tomorrow morning."

Leonard said in disgust, "Why do they all like to drink? I hate those people. They stink."

Hearing Leonard's words, Theresa coughed. Remembering that she had been drunk before, she said with shame, "All right. I won't drink anymore."

Theresa seldom drank.

But she had been drunk before.

At the thought of it, she felt embarrassed in front of the two kids.

Hearing Theresa's, Leonard responded softly, "Mom, I'm not referring to you. I'm talking about someone else."

The boy really had double standards.

Theresa looked at the little boy and said, "Leonard, you're so lovely. Come on. Let me kiss you."

Leonard leaned over and raised his face.

Theresa lowered her head and kissed him on the cheek. "Good boy!"

Chapter 778

Chapter 778 Then You Won't Run Away

"Mommy, I want it, too," said Ben, jealous.

Leonard said, "Just let Dad kiss you."

"Why?" Ben, who had just gone to bed, moved over and gave Theresa a hug. "I love both Daddy and Mommy. Mommy, kiss me!"

With that, Ben wrapped his arms around Theresa's neck, raised his head, and kissed her on the cheek, which melt Theresa's heart.

She helped Ben lie down and whispered, "Good boy! Time to sleep."

Although the two kids usually slept on separate beds, they were fine with sleeping together.

Although Leonard was cold, he still cared about his brother. They were twins who grew up together, so they were actually quite close.

Theresa stayed with the two kids until they fell asleep. Then she got up and lay down on the other empty bed.

As soon as she lay down, there was a knock on the door.

Afraid that it would wake up the two kids, Theresa stood up immediately and opened the door, only to see

Brenda standing at the door, followed by Charlie.

"Isn't he asleep? Why did he suddenly come here?" wondered Theresa.

She asked, "What's wrong, Brenda?"

Brenda replied, "Mr. Charlie is looking for you everywhere. What should we do?"

Charlie was fixing his eyes on Theresa.

Theresa looked at this clingy man, feeling speechless.

Jonathan, who was taking care of Charlie, couldn't stop Charlie at all and felt ashamed. "I'm sorry, Ms.

Cameron. Mr. Charlie is drunk. I can't stop him."

Theresa yawned, closed the door, and walked out.

She looked at Charlie and asked, "Why are you here? Why don't you sleep in the room?"

"Because you're not there." Charlie pursed his lips.

Theresa looked at his face, which looked a lot like Leonard's and Ben's, and sighed with resignation.

Since Charlie was drunk, she couldn't reason with him at all.

Afraid that he would disturb the two children, Theresa had to walk him back to his room.

Theresa really felt a headache.

She had let him sleep on her bed in her own room.

But he still stirred up trouble.

When they went back to the room, Charlie lay down and stared at Theresa.

Theresa said, "Why don't you sleep?"

She thought to herself, "Alas! I just lured the two kids to sleep. Now I still need to lure him? This is just too much."

Charlie reached out and said, "Give me your hand."

"What do you want?" Theresa looked at him warily.

Charlie stared at her and urged, "Hurry up."

Theresa reached out, and he grabbed it immediately.

His palm was hot because he was drunk.

Theresa looked at the man and asked, "What's wrong with you?"

"Then you won't run away." Charlie held her hand and closed his eyes with contentment.

Brenda and Jonathan were watching them.

Theresa felt her toes curl.

"God! Why do I have to face this?" thought Theresa to herself.

This drunk man was just too clingy.

She couldn't understand why the aloof and proud Charlie would become like this when he was drunk.

Jonathan and Brenda were both wise people. Noticing Theresa's embarrassment, they said, "We're leaving. Good night."

Chapter 779

Chapter 779 Dirty?

Before Theresa could say anything, Jonathan and Brenda had already left.

Theresa looked at the closed door and found it was too late to leave.

Hearing the door closing, Charlie opened his eyes again and went back to sleep after confirming that

Theresa was still there.

Theresa complained inwardly, "He's holding my hand. Is he still afraid that I'll run away?"

The room was quiet. Theresa lay down on the bed, with a pillow distance between her and Charlie. She held the pillow and looked at the man. Her hand was held by him, and she could not fall asleep at all. Theresa leaned on her elbow with her head in her hand and stared at him for a long time.

The next morning, Charlie woke up before Theresa.

He opened his eyes and found that he was holding her in his arms.

He knew he had indulged himself and gotten hammered the day before, but he didn't expect her to be here.

The light shone through the window. Her face looked soft and delicate, which melted his heart.

But the next second, Charlie's warm heart was filled with disappointment as he thought of what she and Dick had done at the dinner the day before.

He let go of her and sat up. After looking around the room, he found that it was Theresa's room.

He wondered why he was still here even after such a thing happened?"

After getting out of bed, Charlie went to the bathroom.

The noise he made awakened Theresa. She opened her eyes and saw him coming out of the bathroom. Charlie sat down and buttoned himself up. In order to help him sleep well the night before, someone took off his suit jacket, and he only wore a shirt. Now the shirt was a little wrinkled, and his collar was unbuttoned.

It seemed as if he had been forced to have sex.

Charlie asked, "Why am I here?"

Theresa looked at his cold face and felt speechless. She hadn't questioned him yet, but he asked her in such a cold tone.

Theresa explained, "You got hammered last night. Roderick drove you back."

As soon as Theresa finished her words, Charlie approached her. He grabbed her shoulders and pressed her down on the bed. He then stared at her and said, "Why did you let me sleep with you when I was drunk? Theresa, you're going to get married. Why did you still do this?"

"What?" Theresa looked at his cold face and knew that he didn't seem to be joking. His words came from the bottom of his heart.

"What the hell! That's so ridiculous!" thought Theresa.

She snapped, "Are you sure you are still sober? Do you realize how much you got drunk last night? You shouldn't have come to my home. You should have gone back home."

Charlie said, "I was drunk and unaware of what I was doing. Were you also drunk? Why didn't ask me to go back? Why did you let me enter your room? You're so stubborn. Can I, a drunk man, force you to do something you don't want to do?"

The one who had caused her trouble actually complained first. Theresa was really impressed.

She sneered. "Charlie, you're really shameless. I let you stay and sleep in my room out of kindness. But you blame me instead of saying thanks?"

Charlie retorted sternly, "Your house is so big. Why didn't you let me sleep in another room? Why did you insist on letting me sleep in your room? You just wanted to make a move on me, didn't you? I wouldn't blame you for that before, but now you're Dick's girlfriend. I have no interest in having anything to do with you. It makes me feel dirty."

"Now, get out of here!" snarled Theresa.

She was so angry that she didn't want to reason with him anymore.

Inwardly, she yelled, "You shameless bastard! You've been pestering me for the whole night. How dare you say that I'm dirty? It's just too insulting. When he gets drunk next time, I'd rather drive him out and make him sleep on the road than let him enter my room!"

Seeing her angry face, Charlie said, "You're so angry because I touched a raw nerve in you, right?"

"Yes, you are right, Mr. Charlie. Get out! Hurry up! It's early in the morning. You don't want more sleep. But I want it," shouted Theresa.

Chapter 780

Chapter 780 I Insisted on Sleeping with Her?

Theresa didn't want to argue with him anymore.

She shoved him away, picked up her phone, and made a call.

Leaning against her pillow, she ordered, "Jonathan, come and pick him up!"

Jonathan could feel Theresa's displeasure. He nodded and said, "Okay, I'll be right there."

Jonathan didn't leave Theresa's residence but slept in the guest room the night before because he was afraid that Charlie would cause trouble for Theresa if he left.

At the moment, Jonathan just woke up.

After a while, Jonathan knocked on the door.

Charlie stood by the bed and looked at Theresa coldly. Theresa didn't mind. Although he was staring at her, she still lazily hypnotized herself, as if she was about to fall asleep. Charlie said, "I can't stop you from marrying Dick. I just hope that you won't do anything that makes me misunderstand you from now on."

It was time for him to break up with her.

Just as Roderick said, he shouldn't be a man who couldn't even get over a woman.

It was just a woman.

Theresa was not the only woman in the world.

Charlie didn't believe he should fall in love with a woman and let her hurt him again and again.

Theresa yelled, "Get out of here!"

Charlie had been pestering her for the whole night, but when he woke up, he was so cold to her and even blamed her. Theresa was really pissed off. Charlie took a look at her, stood up, and walked to the door. Jonathan was standing at the door and waiting for him. "Good morning, Mr. Charlie!" Before the door was closed, Theresa heard Charlie rebuke Jonathan. "Why didn't you drive me home after I got drunk? Why did you drive me here?" Obviously, Charlie was scolding Jonathan, but Theresa had a feeling that Charlie seemed to be scolding her, which made Theresa grind her teeth in anger.

She clenched her fists and wrapped her head into the quilt, telling herself not to listen to Charlie. Jonathan was dumbfounded when he heard Charlie's words. He had not only driven Charlie back but helped him enter Theresa's room. Charlie should be happy about that, shouldn't he?

Jonathan had thought Charlie would be overjoyed. Never did he expect that Charlie would yell at him like this.

Jonathan explained, "I wanted to drive you home, but you insisted on coming here. If you don't believe me, you can ask Dr. Hill."

Charlie was taken aback and thought, "I asked him to drive me here?"

He didn't believe that he would do such a thing when he was drunk.

But Jonathan never lied.

Charlie said, "Even if I insisted on coming here, you shouldn't have let me enter her room. Why did you leave me to sleep with her?" Jonathan was rendered speechless

He looked at his boss in confusion and asked, "Did Miss Cameron make you angry?"

"If not, why did Mr. Charlie ask these questions as soon as we met?" continued Jonathan inwardly.

Charlie replied coldly, "Answer my question!"

Jonathan was embarrassed. "She let you sleep in her bed simply because you insisted on sleeping in her room. When Miss Cameron was sleeping in your sons' room next door, you got up to look for her, and that was why she went back to her room to sleep with you. You kept holding her hand and didn't let her go."

"Are you kidding me?" Charlie's face changed when he heard Jonathan's words. "Jonathan, you never lied before."

Jonathan felt wronged. He didn't lie before, and neither did he at the moment.

Jonathan said, "Mr. Charlie, I didn't lie, really. It was you...."

As Jonathan spoke, he felt his hair standing on end because of Charlie's cold stare.

Chapter 781

Chapter 781 Why Can't You Just Stay Together?

If Jonathan argued, he would embarrass Charlie.

Charlie was a person who cared about his dignity after all.

Jonathan had no choice but to take the blame silently. He nodded and said, "Sorry, it was my fault. I didn't handle it well."

Charlie said coldly, "Keep an eye on me from now on, and don't let me do anything shameful to her again."

Jonathan nodded. "Yes!"

However, Charlie was so clingy when he was drunk. Who could stop him? Who would have the heart to stop him?

"Dad." Just after Charlie berated Jonathan and made him feel bad, Ben opened the door and walked out.

The boy was still wearing his pajamas without putting on his shoes. He stood on the carpet barefoot and looked at Charlie. "Dad."

Charlie looked at Ben and said, "Good morning."

Ben held Charlie's leg and responded, "Good morning, Dad! You were drunk last night. I went to call you, but you just ignored me. Are you feeling better now?" Charlie nodded. "Yes, much better."

Ben asked, "Dad, why do you drink? It's said that one only drinks when he or she is unhappy. Are you unhappy?"

Charlie was stunned. He felt a little embarrassed when a four-year-old boy asked him such a question. He was unhappy?

Why was he unhappy?

Charlie explained to Ben, "No, I just got drunk when I went out to have dinner with my friends last night."

Then Charlie picked up Ben and walked into Ben's room.

Jonathan followed them in.

Charlie ordered, "Bring his clothes over."

Upon that, Jonathan went to get Ben's clothes.

Thinking that Jonathan was not familiar with the environment here, Ben said, "My clothes are on the left."

Jonathan fetched the clothes, and Charlie helped the little guy put them on.

The little boy usually wore a sweater at home, but when he went out, he always wore a down jacket.

Charlie dressed the boy in thick clothes and took him out of the bedroom.

Theresa wanted to sleep for a little longer, but she couldn't fall asleep at all because she was pissed off by Charlie.

After a while, Ben came in and called out, "Mom!"

Theresa looked at him and said softly, "Good morning, my boy. Why are you wearing so many clothes?"

"Dad said he would take me to the park. I'm here to tell you about it."

Theresa frowned and said, "No way!"

"Why?" Ben looked at Theresa curiously.

In the past, he couldn't go with his father because his father and mother didn't get along well with each other. The boy wondered why he still couldn't go now. Looking at the suspicious look on Ben's face, Theresa suddenly remembered that she had lied and told him that she had reconciled with Charlie.

She asked, "Where is your dad?"

"He's waiting for me at the door."

Theresa responded, "All right. Just go ahead. But remember to come back."

Ben's eyes lit up, and he said to Theresa, "I'm leaving then. Bye. Just go on to sleep. I love you!"

With that, the boy trotted out happily.

Charlie was standing at the door. Seeing Ben come out, Charlie asked, "Did your mother agree?" "Yes, she agreed." Ben held Charlie's hand and said, "Let's go."

Charlie led Ben downstairs.

Theresa stood in front of the window and watched Charlie leave with Ben.

Because Charlie had intended to take the children away from her before, Theresa was quite worried.

But she couldn't let Ben know about her current relationship with Charlie, so she had to agree.

After all, she didn't want to see Ben secretly cry in the quilt in the middle of the night.

Charlie took Ben to the park for a walk. Although it was cold in the morning, there were still quite a lot of people there.

After that, Charlie and Ben went to have breakfast.

Ben was eating very carefully. Charlie looked at him and called out, "Ben."

Ben looked up at Charlie and responded, "Yes, Dad?"

Charlie continued, "If I break up with your mother one day and she married someone else, will you to live with me?"

Hearing-Charlie's question, Ben was stunned. "Why would you break up? Can't you just stay together?" Charlie picked up a tissue and wiped the boy's mouth. "There is no reason." Ben said, "I'll never leave my mom."

Chapter 782

Chapter 782 Charlie's Worry

"Ben, it seems that you don't like me at all," Charlie sighed with disappointment.

Ben shook his head and said, "I love you, Dad. It's just that I think Mom needs me more."

Charlie thought of Theresa and wondered if she really needed the children.

"If she married Dick, she would only think of our two children as burdens, wouldn't she?" Charlie thought, feeling helpless.

He really wanted to keep Theresa by his side, but the reality made him realize that he might not be able to do that.

But he really couldn't leave the two children.

Moreover, he didn't want Theresa to marry Dick and let the two children live with Dick.

After all, Dick wouldn't want to see the two kids unless he intended to hold them as hostages.

Charlie couldn't help but suspect Dick's purpose.

If Theresa really married Dick, Dick would be able to manipulate the two kids, Charlie believed. "Theresa, have you ever thought about these things?" wondered Charlie. After dinner, Ben walked out of the restaurant with a toy that a waiter had given him and he asked Charlie, "Dad, are we going back?"

"Not yet," Charlie said. "We're going to a place."

Ben looked at him and asked, "Where are we going?"

Charlie carried him into the car and said, "Let's go, and you'll see"

Ben looked at Charlie while sitting in the car and asked, "Dad, you're not taking me away secretly, are you?"

Hearing the little boy's question, Charlie smiled and asked, "Do you think I'm that kind of person?" "You did intend to take me away before, didn't you?" Ben glanced at him. Charlie rubbed his head. "Don't worry! I won't do that again."

If truth be told, Charlie did intend to take Ben away secretly.

But if so, Theresa would come to make a scene.

Charlie had no intention of dealing with this thing in such a way and made the kids hate him.

Ben said, "I trust you, Dad."

His words caught Charlie off guard.

Charlie looked at him and smiled. Finally, the car stopped at the door of Johnson's house.

Charlie was there to visit Johnson.

Sarah had been detained for a few days, and she just got released and returned home,

Leah went to pick her up early in the morning.

At the moment, Sarah was sitting on the sofa with a long face.

A servant led Charlie and Ben into the house and reported to Johnson, "Sir, Mr. Charlie is here."

Hearing this, Johnson raised his head and looked at the entrance, surprised to see Charlie making his way in.

Ben trotted to Johnson and called out, "Grandpa."

Johnson hugged the boy and asked, "Good boy! Why do you come here all of a sudden?"

"Dad brought me here." Ben leaned against Johnson and took a look at Charlie.

Charlie looked at Johnson and said, "I'd like to have a talk with you."

Johnson looked at him and responded, "Let's go upstairs then."

Charlie followed him upstairs.

Sarah, who was sitting on the sofa, found that Charlie didn't even spare a glance at her from beginning to end. She had been living a hell-like life in the past few days, but Charlie was still so cold to her after she got released. Leah asked, "Did Theresa give the children back to Charlie?"

Sarah gave a wry smile.

Leah looked at her and asked, "What's wrong?"

"Do you know who is the mother of Leonard and Ben?" Sarah asked. Leah was confused. "They're Cristina and Charlie's children, aren't they?" "No, you are wrong," said Sarah. "They're bastards Theresa gave birth to."

Chapter 783

Chapter 783 I Hate Your Guts!

Leah was shocked greatly. "Are you talking about Leonard and Ben?"

Sarah replied, "Sure, or else?"

Leah asked in disbelief, "But Theresa never told us about it. Didn't she say they were Cristina's children?" "Who knows what she was up to," Sarah said. "She is really scheming and good at acting. Although she knows we've targeted her, she never makes any explanations."

Inwardly, Sarah added, "No wonder the two bastards didn't even spare a look at me when I tried to please them. Damn! Theresa just meant it. She just wants to see my mother and me make a fool of ourselves."

Sarah felt humiliated at the thought of it.

She clearly remembered what had happened when she had been detained in the past few days. She hated Theresa's guts now.

"Good for Theresa! We've been living together for so many years, yet she called the police to get me arrested regardless of our relationship. What's more, she didn't even think about pleading for me. She doesn't treat me as her family at all," thought Sarah to herself.

She really regretted giving up the position of Charlie's fiancée and let Theresa marry Charlie.

In Sarah's eyes, if she hadn't done that silly thing, Charlie wouldn't have fallen in love with Theresa, a divorced woman abandoned by Jimmy at all.

At that thought, Sarah really wanted to strangle herself.

Leah said, "Oh, I see. No wonder the Calsises treat her so well. I heard she got pregnant with the two children by artificial insemination in the hospital. I didn't expect them to be Charlie's children. She is so lucky."

Back then, Leah had thought that Cristina and Charlie were in love and that the two children's mother was Cristina. Never did Leah expect that the children were Theresa's.

Therefore, Leah didn't think much about it even if he learned from the recording that Theresa had gotten pregnant by artificial insemination in the hospital and given birth to two babies.

"Who knows if she's just lucky or not?" Cristina retorted. "She was in the same school with Roderick, and they're familiar with each other. Maybe she planned all this. If I can latch onto the Calsis family, I'm also willing to give birth to two children for Charlie."

After all, Charlie was so remarkable back then that Theresa didn't even dare to imagine marrying him.

Sarah used to be Charlie's fiancée. She felt very regretful at the thought that she didn't cherish the excellent man who didn't have an interest in any other woman.

In frustration, Sarah said, "Mom, Charlie, and I are never ever getting back together, are we?"

Leah persuaded, "Charlie and Theresa have two children now. He will definitely care more about Theresa."

Sarah said, "But I was Charlie's fiancée back then. If it weren't for me, how could Theresa marry Charlie? I feel bad when I see Charlie treat her so well but ignore me. I still want to marry Charlie." Leah felt sorry as she looked at Sarah's crying face.

Sarah had just gotten released and looked very embarrassed.

She didn't wear any makeup and her face was pale.

What was more, the two children's issue was a heavy blow to Sarah, which made her look desperate.

Leah looked at her and said, "Don't cry! Even if they have two children, they're divorced. What's the point of giving birth to the children? After you marry Charlie, the children still have to call you Mom." "Those two bastards won't call me like that." Sarah finally realized it. They only care about Theresa."

"That's better," Leah said. "Just let Theresa take the two kids away. You can always give birth to babies for Charlie in the future. If her children stay in the Calsis family, it will be no good for you. After all, they won't see you as their mother. And they will share the family property with your children in the future."

"But Charlie doesn't want to talk to me at all because I went to look for the two children before. He's really mad at me," sighed Sarah.

Chapter 784

Chapter 784 Where's Your Mom?

Sarah felt depressed at that thought.

"Charlie was supposed to be with me. He even went against Leticia for my sake. He just fell out with me after he knew that Leonard and Ben were Theresa's children later," thought Sarah to herself.

Leah said, "It's only natural for Charlie to be angry. After all, the two children like Theresa. It was indeed your fault, but you didn't know it either. Make a sincere apology to him. I believe he will forgive you." Sarah asked, "Really?"

"Men are softhearted. As long as you don't mess with him, you will get a chance sooner or later. I don't think Theresa cares about Charlie at all. How can Charlie stand her? Sooner or later, Charlie will dislike her. You'll get him as long as you can play tricks. Johnson has listened to me over the years, hasn't he?" Sarah looked at her mother. Thinking of Johnson's attitude towards her mother, Sarah responded, "Okay, I see."

Back then, Johnson could have married an unmarried woman. After all, he was rich and good-looking. But later, he still fell in love with Leah, who had nothing, and even treated Leah's daughter as his own daughter.

Therefore, Leah was quite impressed by herself.

Sarah also admired her mother a lot.

And Sarah believed that Charlie would fall in love with her sooner or later as long as she tried her best.

Charlie and Johnson sat down in the study upstairs, and Ben sat beside Charlie.

Johnson looked at the little boy and felt a little worried when he found that the boy was alone with Charlie. "Did Charlie take Ben home?" thought Johnson to himself.

Theresa, of course, wouldn't allow Charlie to take Ben home.

The child, however, was with Charlie. Johnson was worried that Theresa had been bullied.

Johnson asked, "Ben, where is your mother?"

Ben replied, "My mom is sleeping at home. Dad takes me out for fun and then we come to visit you.

Grandpa, how are you? Are you feeling better?"

With Theresa taking care of him, Johnson felt much better in the past two days.

Therefore, Johnson would only go to the hospital when Theresa gave him acupuncture, and he would deal with things at home at other times.

Hearing Ben's words, Johnson heaved a sigh of relief because he found that Charlie had secretly brought the child out. "Good boy. I'm feeling much better now."

Charlie looked at Johnson's face and could tell what Johnson was thinking.

Charlie said, "Johnson, I have something to discuss with you."

Johnson looked at Charlie and asked, "What's the matter?"

Although Theresa and Charlie had divorced, Charlie still came to visit him, which shocked Johnson.

"It's about the company," said Charlie. "I've heard that Dick has sent Jimmy to help you manage the company. I know it was Theresa's idea. But I want to take over the company in the future." Johnson was a little surprised. "My company is so small. It's just insignificant to you. Why do you want to waste time on it?"

Charlie said, "I've wanted to tell you this for a long time, but I only had time to come and visit you now. I didn't know Leonard and Ben are both Theresa's children before, but now I'm aware of it. I invested in the company before, and I am one of the shareholders, right?"

Johnson replied, "Sure."

Chapter 785

Chapter 785 Take over the Company?

But later, because of the divorce of Theresa and Charlie, Charlie didn't want to take care of the company anymore, and Jimmy began to take charge of it.

Charlie looked at Johnson and said, "I have no other intentions. I just want to help you manage the company well so that I can make up for Theresa. It's not good to let Dick take care of the company all the time. What do you think?"

Johnson responded, "I agree. After all, I'm not familiar with Dick. He did ask Jimmy to help us, but the company had no choice before."

Speaking of this, Johnson took a look at Charlie. If it weren't for Jimmy and Dick, Charlie would have ruined the company in a fit of anger.

Johnson was afraid of Charlie, who could easily make his company go bankrupt.

Charlie was a smart woman. He knew what Johnson was thinking and with a guilty look on his face, he said, "Johnson, those were all misunderstandings. I brought Ben here today just to show my sincerity. You are not in good health, and Theresa is your only daughter. You'll give your company to Theresa instead of Sarah and Leah in the future, right?"

"Of course." Theresa Johnson's his biological daughter. Although Leah had the right to inherit the company, Johnson didn't want to give it to Sarah at all.

After all, Sarah was not reliable at all, and Johnson really didn't dare to trust her.

Charlie said, "Since you're going to give it to Theresa, it's just the same as giving it to Leonard and Ben. I intend to give all my shares to Leonard and Ben and help them manage the company well. You don't need to worry that I will cause trouble for your company. I won't treat these two children harshly. Nor will I be irresponsible to the company."

As Charlie spoke, he looked at Ben's head and rubbed it.

Johnson looked at Charlie and asked, "What do you want me to do now?"

"I hope you can give me the company's management right to me. Now the company is in a more difficult time. I want to fix the problem. More importantly, I don't want to let the company be controlled by Dick anymore. What do you think?"

Johnson looked at Charlie. He used to worry that Charlie would do something to suppress his company. But now with the relationship between Leonard and Ben, Charlie seemed to have become Johnson's family.

Johnson asked, "Does Theresa know it?"

Charlie suddenly came to him. Johnson was curious about how Theresa thought about it.

Besides, Johnson had no idea about how things between Theresa and Charlie were going.

Johnson didn't want to cause trouble for Theresa again. He wanted to handle it well.

Instead of answering Johnson's question immediately, Charlie looked at Ben and said, "Ben, go glass of water for me."

Ben nodded. "Okay."

With that, he quickly trotted out.

After sending the boy away, Charlie said to Johnson, "Theresa doesn't know yet."

Johnson said, "Why don't you tell her?"

"I don't think she will agree," Charlie said. "She's going to marry Dick."

"What?" Johnson looked at Charlie in shock.

Charlie replied, "You must have heard that Dick has some grudge against me. He is very unfriendly to me.

I suspect that he wants to marry Theresa because he wants to anger me. You don't want to let your company become his because Theresa marries him, do you? Otherwise, everything will become worst once he abandons Theresa. Johnson, I don't have any other intentions. I'm not good enough in love and did a lot of things to hurt Theresa. But I didn't mean to hurt her when doing other things. So I want to get the company's management right now. I hope you can support me.

Johnson looked at Charlie and said, "I don't trust Dick, either."

Dick had a bad reputation, and Johnson didn't know him well.

To be honest, Johnson would rather trust Charlie.

After all, the Calsis family had always supported them.

Besides, Charlie was the father of two children.

He was better than the mysterious Dick.

Johnson said, "Sure, as long as it's for the two children. After all, I will give the company to the two children sooner or later. But now Jimmy is in charge of a lot of the company's affairs. I'm afraid I have to tell him about it first."

Chapter 786

Chapter 786 Bump into Leah

Charlie said, "Don't worry. As long as you agree, I will deal with Jimmy and Dick."

Johnson nodded.

Charlie looked at him and said sincerely, "I'm sorry, Johnson! I went too far before, but Sarah just pissed me off. Because of her, my grandfather is still in the hospital. I hope you can forgive me. Regardless of how things between Theresa and me will go in the future, you'll always be the grandfather of my two children."

Charlie's words made Johnson feel a little embarrassed.

Johnson sighed, "I'm ashamed of what happened to your grandfather. I'm sorry, Charlie. Your family treated me very well. It was my bad. Your engagement was too hasty. In fact, the person who was supposed to get engaged to you was Theresa. But she had married Jimmy. I couldn't let her marry you." Charlie smiled. "It's all fate. If I had known her earlier, maybe we would have had a different ending."

Then he and Theresa wouldn't have ended up like this.

Johnson said, "Then I'll write a commission for you right now."

"Thank you."

Johnson took a look at Charlie. He found that Charlie was a good man after getting along with him for a while.

But unfortunately, Charlie and Theresa had divorced.

Ben walked to the kitchen. When he saw the servant in the kitchen, he asked, "Excuse me! Can you give me a glass of water?"

The servant looked at the boy and knew that it was Charlie who had brought him here. She asked, "Do you want to drink some water?" Ben was very lovely and good-looking.

Besides, the servant often browsed short videos and could often see the boy's memes online.

Ben replied, "It's my father who wants to drink it."

The servant poured a glass of water and said, "Then I'll send it to Mr. Charlie."

"Just give it to me. I'll take it to him," said Ben.

"Can you do that?" The servant's eyes were full of doubts.

Ben nodded and responded, "Sure, I've grown up."

Looking at his cute face, the servant chuckled and thought, "He's just a little child? How can he think he has grown up?"

But she still gave the water to Ben.

With the water in his hand, Ben turned around to leave the kitchen when he suddenly bumped into Leah who was walking toward him. Some water spilled out and sprinkled on Leah's body.

"I'm sorry!" Ben apologized immediately. Then he looked up and caught sight of Leah. The boy had a bad impression of Leah and remembered that she often bullied Theresa

He frowned.

Leah looked at the little boy and she knew that he was Charlie's child. When the boy came to the house before, Leah had tried her best to please him. She didn't expect that he would be Theresa's child. He looked exactly like Charlie!

"Who are you apologizing to?" Leah asked.

Chapter 787

Chapter 787 I'm Afraid You'll Misperceive My Son

"I'm apologizing to you," Ben said. "I just got your clothes wet by accident."

Leah took a look at her clothes and asked, "What should you call me then?"

Ben shook his head. "I don't know."

Leah said, "Call me Grandma!"

Ben pursed his lips and didn't want to call her.

His mother's mother was his grandmother.

But the woman in front of him was not his mother's mother.

Seeing that he didn't say anything, Leah knew that he was unwilling to do so. After all, this little boy had always regarded her and Sarah as bad people.

Leah said, "If you don't call me, I won't let you go. Don't forget that you got my clothes wet."

Ben looked at Leah and said, "I'm going to meet my father. He's waiting for me to bring him some water."

Leah looked at the servant next to them and said, "Get a glass of water for Mr. Charlie."

The servant nodded.

Soon, she went upstairs with a glass of water.

When the water was put in front of Charlie, Charlie looked at the servant and asked, "Where is Ben?" The servant replied, "He's downstairs. Mrs. Cameron is playing with him because she thinks he's cute." Charlie frowned upon that. "Leah is playing with my son? How could it be possible? Ben doesn't like her at all."

At that thought, Charlie put down the water and stood up.

Ben, who was stopped by Leah, shouted, "Let go of me! I'm going to see my

"But you haven't called me yet. Call me, and I'll let you go!"

Seeing this, Charlie walked up in one breath and called out, "Ben!" father."

Leah didn't expect that Charlie would come down so soon. She raised her head and asked, "Mr. Charlie, have you finished talking with Johnson?"

Charlie waved at Ben and said, "Come here."

Hearing Charlie's words, Ben rushed over as if he had seen a savior.

Leah explained awkwardly, "I just want to have a talk with him."

Charlie stared at Ben who was walking towards him and said calmly, "You're a bad person? I'm afraid you'll mislead him. From now on, you'd better not talk to son."

Leah's smile froze, and she took a look at Charlie.

"I'm a bad person? What does he mean by that?" thought Leah.

Regardless of what she was thinking, Charlie took Ben back to the study.

After getting the business done with Johnson upstairs, Charlie took Ben out. Seeing that Leah was standing at the door and looking at them, Charlie ignored her and went downstairs with Ben. After entering the study, Leah looked at Johnson and asked, "Why did Charlie suddenly come to visit you?"

Johnson glanced at her and responded, "Nothing."

"What do you mean by 'nothing'? I always feel that he was here for something important. How would he come suddenly for no reason? Did he cause trouble to you again?"

Johnson replied, "No."

"Really?" Leah kept asking.

Chapter 788

Chapter 788 My Father Only Cares About My Mother

Johnson glanced at her and said, "I'm tired, and I want to have a rest. How's Sarah?"

"Do you still care about her?" Leah complained. "She's so miserable now. It's all Theresa's fault. After all, Sarah is her sister. How can Theresa treat her sister like this? I've always treated Theresa as my own daughter, but she has never treated me as her mother at all. It's too difficult to be her stepmother."

Johnson looked at her and said, "What does it have to do with Theresa? I've told you not to make trouble with Sarah, but you just didn't listen."

"Come on! Your precious daughter called the police to get Sarah arrested. We are family. Why can't we enter the house?" Leah got angry at the mention of this. She looked at Johnson and said, "Do you know Leonard and Ben are Theresa's children?"

Johnson nodded and responded, "Yes. You already know it?"

He assumed that Sarah had told her mother about it.

Leah looked at Johnson in disbelief. "So, you've known it for a long time, but you've been playing dumb all the time? Johnson, I'm your wife. How could you hide such an important thing from me?" Johnson glanced at her and tried to cover it up. "I didn't know it until recently."

He didn't mean to hide it from Leah, but if he had told her earlier, she might have leaked it out long ago.

"I don't believe you!" Leah snapped. "If you had told me earlier, how could Sarah go to pick up the children. and get arrested?"

Johnson cast a cold glance at her and said, "Don't you realize that you've misled Sarah? She even rushed to Theresa's house with her people. What the hell did she want to do?"

Leah had wanted to blame Johnson, but she didn't expect that he would retort.

She said with embarrassment, "Sarah just did it for the two children."

"She would get Theresa arrested if Theresa weren't the mother of the two children, right?" Johnson took the advantage of the chance to finish his words. With no intention of arguing with Leah, he just said, "I'm tired. I'm going to have a rest."

After that, Johnson stood up and left the study.

When Charlie went downstairs, he happened to meet Sarah in the living room. At the sight of Charlie,

Sarah stood up immediately. "Hi, Charlie."

Ben followed Charlie closely, looking at Sarah warily.

"This bad woman wants to steal his father again," thought the boy.

Charlie asked, "You're released. So how were you doing in that place?"

Sarah's face darkened when she heard his sarcastic tone. "I went to Theresa for you. Charlie, how could you do this to me?"

Charlie's mother and Theresa had gotten Sarah arrested, but Charlie didn't plead for Sarah at all.

Charlie said, "For me? Sarah, you just did all the things for yourself? If I were still a cripple, would you still come and talk to me?" How ridiculous!

Charlie thought the existence of this woman was just an insult to his intelligence.

Sarah's face darkened. "I just did all that for you. I know you don't want to part with the children, so I went to pick them up for you. You agreed when I called you, didn't you?" "What did I agree?" Charlie asked. "You went to Theresa without permission and said that I asked you to go. Do you know how much Theresa hates me because of this?"

How dare she mention it!

Charlie couldn't believe his ears.

Hearing Charlie's cold tone, Sarah couldn't help but pretend to be pitiful. "Charlie, I did it for your own good. I love you so much. Let's forget what happened in the past and get back together, shall we?" Charlie looked at her coldly without saying anything.

He wondered how she had the nerve to say something like that.

Ben grabbed Charlie's hand, stood out, and said, "My father only cares about my mother. He won't like you!"

Sarah was rendered speechless.

She looked at Ben with a sullen face. She didn't like Ben before, and now she disliked him even more. However, Sarah didn't take the boy seriously and just said, "Ben, I want to have a private talk with your father now. Can you wait outside?"

Ben shook his head and said, "No. I can't let you stay with my father alone."

Chapter 789

Chapter 789 She Went to Meet Mr. White

"You!" Sarah glared at Ben, almost losing her temper.

Charlie raised his eyebrows and asked, "What's wrong? I'm here. Do you still want to give him a hard time?"

Charlie's words scared Sarah.

In order to maintain her image in front of Charlie, she had to put up with it.

She said softly, "Of course not. But Charlie, you said you would be with me."

"I have made it clear to you. I just use you as an excuse. Now, I don't need you anymore," Charlie.

"Don't you think you've gone too far? How could you make that promise when you need me and kick me away when you don't?" Sarah questioned.

Charlie raised his eyebrows and said, "You've never thought that you've gone too far, either."

"I..." Sarah bit her lips and looked at Charlie, tears streaming down her face. "We've known each other for a long time. How can you treat me like this?"

"Well," Charlie glanced at her coldly and said to Ben, "let's go."

Ben was pleased to see that Charlie was cold to Sarah.

The father and son got into the car, and Jonathan closed the door.

Ben sat on Charlie's lap and looked at him. "Dad, you're awesome!"

Charlie was dumbfounded. "Why?"

"You made that bad woman cry." Ben had been worried that Charlie would be with Sarah before. After seeing Charlie's attitude toward Sarah with his own eyes, the boy believed that Charlie would not be with Sarah at all, and he was relieved.

Charlie said, "Ben, it seems that you hate her very much."

"She's a bad woman," Ben remarked. "She even asked someone to take me and Leonard away last time. She's so bad!"

"I won't let her do that again." Charlie touched Ben's head.

The two of them left Johnson's house and went back to Theresa's residence.

Leonard was eating on the sofa alone, nodding off.

Ben rushed to him and called out, "Leonard!"

Leonard opened his eyes and looked at Ben. When Leonard was about to speak, he saw Charlie following behind Ben, and immediately shut his mouth, looking very cold.

"Where is Mom?" Ben asked.

"She went to meet Mr. White," said Leonard, taking a look at Charlie.

Charlie's face darkened.

He didn't expect that she would still go to Dick.

"She doesn't even care about the children?" thought Charlie.

Brenda walked out and saw Charlie. "Mr. Charlie, you're back. Lunch will be ready soon."

Charlie asked, "When will Theresa come back?"

"She went to Mr. White's house. I don't know when she will come back. Let's eat first!"

Ben said, "Then I'll wash my hands."

He then said to Charlie, "Dad, let's go to wash our hands."

Charlie had no choice but to follow him.

Leonard looked at the two and sent Theresa a voice message. "Mom, Ben is back."

Theresa was in Dick's house at the moment. Charlie had taken Ben away and didn't come back for a long time. She was very anxious, but Dick kept calling her. She had no choice but to go to meet Dick first.

Chapter 790

Chapter 790 Who Does She Think She Is?

Theresa had been worried that Charlie would not take Ben back to her.

She breathed a sigh of relief when she received the message from Leonard.

Dick was sleeping. When Theresa was about to leave, a familiar voice came from behind. "Dr. Cameron."

Theresa turned around and saw Chandler standing behind her, followed by Celia.

Chandler came to see Dick, and Celia came with him.

Celia smiled sarcastically when she saw Theresa.

After Theresa and Dick left the day before, Celia heard something about Theresa and learned that Theresa had divorced two times and had two children.

In Celia's eyes, Dick was really blind to choose such a woman.

Chandler asked, "How's Dick?"

Theresa replied, "He is sleeping. Don't disturb him. Let him sleep for a while!"

"Ha!" Celia sneered, "He is so arrogant. We came to see him. How can he sleep and ignore us?"

Theresa looked at Celia, and she could tell that Celia really hated Dick.

People who had normal sleep probably couldn't imagine how painful a sleepless patient like Dick would be every day.

Of course, Celia thought sleeping was nothing important.

Theresa said calmly, "You may discuss this with me after you stay awake for two whole days."

"How dare you talk to me like that?" Celia sneered and raised her hand, intending to slap Theresa.

Chandler grabbed Celia by the hand. "Stop, Celia!"

Celia glanced at him and said, "Chandler, look at her. She doesn't take me seriously at all. She hasn't married Dick yet. I'm afraid she has already regarded herself as Dick's wife."

Speaking of this, Celia looked at Theresa and said, "Remember, even Dick doesn't dare to talk to me like- that. Don't be so arrogant even if you marry him in the future!"

Theresa was not a fool. Since they had dinner together, she knew how prominent Celia's father was.

Theresa said to Celia, "From the beginning to the end, I don't think I have offended you, Miss Holland. It's you who's kept saying harsh words."

Celia sneered. "No wonder Dick likes you. You're just as arrogant as him. But don't try to take his side in such a hurry. We're here to tell you that my father doesn't agree with your marriage, so you can never marry Dick."

"Really?" Just then, the voice of Dick came from behind Theresa.

Theresa turned around and saw Dick coming out. His hair was in a mess with dark circles under his eyes because he had stayed up the whole night the night before.

He would really indulge himself when Theresa wasn't around.

As soon as he appeared, there followed tension between him and Celia.

Chandler called out, "Hey, Dick."

Celia looked at Dick and thought he looked like a ghost. He had dressed himself up the day before, but now he looked completely different.

Celia stared at Dick and asked, "Are you a ghost? Why did you make yourself like this?"

Dick raised his eyebrows. "Miss Holland? How did you talk to Theresa just now?"

"How did I talk to her?" Celia glanced at Theresa in disgust and said to Dick, "How do you think I should talk to her? Dick, I'm just here to tell you that Dad doesn't allow you to marry her." "You're not welcomed here." Dick looked at her sternly and said, "Please get out of my house right now.

Otherwise, I don't mind having someone drive you away!"

As soon as Dick finished his words, Rawlins came over and stood beside Dick, looking at Celia.

Chandler took a look at Dick and said, "Dick, Celia just came to visit you with me. We will leave soon."

"Mr. Chandler, please keep an eye on her, then. How dare she behave like this in my house? Who does she think she is?" said Dick.

Chapter 791

Chapter 791 You Should Learn to Love Yourself

Indeed, Dick was in awe of his father.

But it didn't mean that Dick was in awe of everyone in the Holland family.

"All right," replied Chandler.

After saying that, he took a look at Celia who was about to speak.

Celia took his hint and pursed her lips.

Chandler followed Dick into the room. Seeing that Dick sat down on the sofa, Chandler looked at him and asked, "Why don't you sleep?" Dick said, "None of your business!"

"No matter how busy you are at work, you should have a good sleep," persuaded Chandler.

"You don't have to say that. I don't want to hear it," Dick said impatiently. "Why don't you serve my father but come to my place?"

Chandler said, "Your father has said that he doesn't want you to be with Theresa."

Dick smirked. "I've never seen him care about me so much before. Why does he care about me so much all of a sudden? He's really hypocritical. Just tell him. He doesn't need to care about who I'm with. I'm not a child anymore!"

Theresa was standing next to him. Obviously, she was not with him. Dick just said that to anger his father.

Theresa took a look at Dick and didn't know what to say.

Celia sat down and sneered. "Dick, who do you think you are? Do you really think you are successful now? Without Dad, can you reach such an achievement?"

Dick looked at Celia and asked in confusion, "What does my life have to do with him?"

Celia looked at him with a cold face. "Do you think others would take care of you if you weren't Dad's son?"

Dick said, "Dad has never admitted that I am his son, but you admit it. I really have a good sister."

He stressed the two words "sister" on purpose.

Celia got worked up.

She stood up and said, "I don't want to talk to you anymore. I'll wait outside."

Then she walked out of the door. Before leaving, she glanced at Theresa, snorted coldly, and left.

Dick watched Celia storm out and said to Chandler, "I don't want to see her in my house anymore."

Chandler nodded. "Okay. But about Theresa..."

"Tell my father that don't blame me for meeting death before him if he doesn't allow me to marry Theresa," said Dick. Chandler was speechless. "Dick."

He wanted to persuade Dick not to be impulsive.

But judging from the miserable look on Dick's face, it seemed that he really didn't have much time left.

"All right. I'm sleepy. You can leave now!"

Dick reached out his hand and pinched the place between his eyebrows. Obviously, he was driving

Chandler away.

Chandler didn't bother him anymore, and he just stood up and left the room.

After they left, Theresa came over and said to Dick, "You shouldn't have said that to them."

Dick looked at Theresa and asked, "Why?"

"We didn't plan to get married at all. Your father might really be angry with you after hearing your words."

"It doesn't matter," said Dick. "I just want to see him get angry. Only when he is angry will he remember I'm his son."

Theresa really could do nothing to this willful man.

She said, "You can't pin all your hope on others. You should learn to yourself."

Dick asked, "Oh?"

Theresa nodded. "Just live a good life for yourself rather than rely on others to treat you well. Have a good sleep. You must go to bed on time at night from now on." Theresa looked very serious when she said this.

"But I can't fall asleep," said Dick.

Chapter 792

Chapter 792 It Seems that You Have Some Feelings for Him

"Even if you can't fall asleep, you have to," Theresa said. "Did you use the sachet that I asked Leonard to give you last time? It can help you fall asleep." "So you gave me that stuff to help me fall asleep?" Dick asked.

Theresa rolled her eyes at him. "Or what do you think it is? Have a good sleep. I'll ask Rawlins to keep an eye on you. If you can't do it, I'll be angry."

No one dared to order Dick like that before.

But Theresa's serious face really made Dick afraid.

He nodded. "All right."

Theresa looked at him and said, "Then I'll go back to take care of my children."

Dick nodded. "Okay. Bye!"

Theresa walked out and told Rawlins to keep an eye on Dick.

"Every time I ask him to sleep, he won't listen to me. I also hope that he can go to bed early," Rawlins said in depression.

"Call me if he doesn't sleep. We have to make him get enough sleep every day," said Theresa.

Rawlins nodded. "Okay, Dr. Cameron."

Theresa walked out of the room after talking with Rawlins.

When she went downstairs, she found that Celia and Chandler were still there.

Their car was parked at the door.

Seeing Theresa come out, Chandler rolled down the window and called out, "Theresa."

Theresa was taken aback when she saw Chandler.

"Mr. Chandler, what can I do for you?" she asked.

After all, Chandler even waited for her there.

Chandler said, "I want to ask you something about Dick."

Then he opened the door and got out of the car. Celia said, "I want to go with you."

Chandler stood by the window and said, "Wait for me in the car. I'll be back after I finish talking to her."

Celia pursed her lips and responded, "All right."

Theresa looked at Chandler and felt a little nervous when she saw him walking toward her step by step.

Was he here to keep her away from Dick?

Dick had lied to them. Theresa was wondering if she should make it clear to Chandler.

But if she explained it, Dick would be embarrassed.

Chandler looked at her and asked, "Is Dick's condition really that serious?"

Seeing that he only cared about Dick's health, Theresa breathed a sigh of relief and said, "He was fine before. But after he failed to meet his father, he couldn't fall asleep." Chandler said, "Please care more about him."

"Didn't you say that I couldn't be with him last time? Why do ask me to care about him now?"

Theresa didn't understand what Chandler was thinking.

Chandler said, "I just think he trusts you more. Dick seldom trusts others. He used to take my advice, but now he doesn't."

Theresa looked at Chandler curiously, "So you won't object even if I'm with him?"

Chandler chuckled. "Didn't you say that you were only his doctor? I ask you to care about him, but it doesn't mean I don't have an objection to your marriage. I really want to know what's going on between you and Dick? Does he just want to piss his father off?"

Theresa took a look at Chandler and found that this man was very smart.

Seeing her reaction, Chandler knew that he was probably right. He said, "If that's the case, you'd better not get involved in their family affairs. It won't do any good to you. Charlie takes what happened yesterday seriously. If you feel sorry for him, make it clear to him. I don't want him to be so sad."

Hearing Charlie's name, Theresa frowned.

Chandler said, "It seems that you also have some feelings for him."

Chapter 793

Chapter 793 Go to the Spring Hotel

"No, I don't have any feelings for him," Theresa said sulkily. She opened the door, got into the car, and drove away before them.

Chandler raised his eyebrows and went back to the car.

Celia asked, "What did you say to her?"

"Nothing," replied Chandler. "Shall I drive you home?"

Celia raised her eyebrows. "Are you not going to show me around? I seldom come here."

Chandler looked at her and said, "All right, Miss Holland. Let's have dinner tonight. What would you like to eat?"

"Is this place far from here?" Celia handed her phone to him.

Chandler responded, "It's a little far away. But if you want, we can go there."

"Then let's go there," Celia said with a smile. "I heard that the scenery there is beautiful."

Chandler nodded.

The place mentioned by Celia was exactly the springs hotel Theresa had been to before. It was newly developed by Daphne's company and had been very popular during the festival. Many people spend their holidays there.

Although the hotel was far away from the city, it was their key project and there were a lot of places to have fun, so it was very popular.

While Chandler was driving to the hotel, Celia tried to book a hotel room. Unfortunately, the hotel was full.

Chandler said, "It's fine. I'll ask someone to arrange a room for you."

"Thank you," Celia said with a smile.

The two soon arrived at the hotel. After Chandler made a call, Daphne came over.

When Chandler opened the door and got out of the car, Daphne greeted, "Hello, Chandler."

Chandler turned around. "It's been long."

Daphne's and Chandler's families had been friends for generations and the two knew each other since childhood.

Chandler hadn't seemed to change over the years. Daphne found that he would be a little nervous every time he looked at Chandler's face. "What brings you here?" Chandler said, "My friend wants to have some fun here."

After Chandler finished his sentence, Celia opened the door and got out of the car.

Seeing Celia, Daphne was stunned.

Chandler said, "I've heard that your hotel is full. Can you help me arrange a room?"

"Sure." Daphne looked at Celia and said, "Don't worry. I'll take care of it."

As Daphne spoke, he led them into the hotel in great shock.

When Theresa returned home, Charlie had left and the two kids were said to be taking a nap at home.

However, when Theresa went to their room, she found the two kids playing on the bed.

Theresa walked in. Ben was still sitting on the bed and too slow to lie down. Seeing Theresa come in, he chuckled and greeted, "Hello, Mom."

"What are you doing?" Theresa looked at him.

Ben replied, "Nothing. I'm just missing you."

"You naughty boy," Theresa remarked. "Go to sleep!"

This little boy always didn't sleep when it was time to sleep.

Ben nodded and lay down as Theresa said. Looking at Theresa, he said, "By the way, Mom, I have something to tell you."

"What?" Theresa had intended to close the door and go out.

Hearing what Ben said, she came back to the boy.

Ben said, "My dad and I went to visit Grandpa today."

"I see." Theresa was curious about where Charlie had taken the boy.

She was afraid that Charlie would take Ben away, but she didn't expect that they would go to visit her father.

"Why did he go to visit my father?" wondered Theresa.

Ben said, "I spilled some water on that person by accident."

"That person?"

"I mean Grandpa's wife, Leah."

Chapter 794

Chapter 794 Jimmy Came to Threaten Her

Theresa's mouth twitched at the mention of Leah. Suddenly, she became worried. "Did she make things difficult for you?" Ben replied, "No. but..."

"But what?"

"I apologize to her, but she didn't let me go and forced me to call her Grandma."

Theresa looked at Ben and rubbed his head. "Are you all right? Did she bully you?"

She couldn't believe that Leah still made things difficult for Ben after knowing that Ben was Charlie's child.

Ben grabbed Theresa's hand and said, "I'm fine. Later, Dad came and told her not to talk to me anymore."

Theresa thought of Leah and said thoughtfully, "It seems that she knows that you are my child."

Leah didn't know about it before, so she didn't dare to force or embarrass Leonard and Ben.

Now that she was aware of it, she asked Ben to call her Grandma.

Theresa really hated Leah because Leah often sow discords and made Theresa divorce Jimmy and made Johnson ignore Theresa for many years. However, Leah actually wanted Theresa's children to call her grandma. How ridiculous!

Ben looked at Theresa and said, "By the way...."

"What else?"

"When that bad woman, Sarah talked to Dad, Dad made her cry," Ben said happily. "Mom, Dad loves you very much. He doesn't like that bad woman at all!" Ben had always thought that Charlie liked the bad woman who often bullied Theresa, so he was very disappointed in Charlie.

What had happened today made Ben very happy.

Theresa looked at his gloating face and said, "She cried. Why are you so happy about that?"

"She is a bad person. She bullied you a lot. I don't like her," said Ben.

Theresa hugged the little boy and said, "All right, let's go to bed. Don't think about these bad things every day. If you have time, just think about me, okay?" "Okay."

After Theresa just lured Ben to sleep and intended to go to bed, Brenda came up. "Theresa, Jimmy is here."

Theresa looked at Brenda in disbelief. "Why is he here?"

Theresa almost forgot him these days.

Brenda responded, "He's right at the door. Do you want to have a look? He said he had something important to tell you."

Theresa wasn't afraid of Jimmy, so she went downstairs after hearing Brenda's words,

When Theresa opened the door, she saw Jimmy standing at the door. "How do you know I live here?"

"I can always find you as long as I want," said Jimmy as he looked at Theresa.

Seeing her sullen face, he said, "I have something to tell you."

"What's the matter?" Theresa didn't understand.

Hearing her words, Jimmy asked, "Are you alone at home?"

"I won't invite you in no matter if I'm alone at home. Just say it."

Jimmy glanced at her. He didn't want to see her, but he had no choice.

Now both Dick and Charlie were against him for Theresa. Jimmy had got to do something, or he would be suppressed by Theresa all his life.

Therefore, Jimmy was here to have a good talk with Theresa.

He couldn't let her ruin his life.

Jimmy said, "I want to see the two kids."

"Kids?" Theresa looked at him in confusion. "Why should I let you see them?"

Theresa still remembered that Jimmy once said the two children were bastards.

Everyone had thought that Theresa had cheated on Jimmy and given birth to the children.

At the thought of the miserable life back then, Theresa still felt angry.

Jimmy said, "Theresa, I'm not here to quarrel with you. Of course, if you insist on quarreling with me, I can also argue with you. Don't think that I will be afraid of you just because you have Dick's back now."

Chapter 795

Chapter 795 The Most Ridiculous Joke

"Ha," Theresa said. "How arrogant you are! If Dick were really here, you wouldn't even dare to utter a single word, would you? Stop putting on airs here!"

How would Jimmy have the nerve to say that he wasn't afraid? Obviously, he was extremely afraid of Dick.

Jimmy retorted, "I was afraid of him simply because I wanted to work in his company before. Now, I'm going to resign."

Theresa looked at Jimmy in surprise. "Really? Are you going to resign?"

He would leave the Cameron's Group, would he?

Jimmy said, "Dick is bewitched by you now. I have to admit that you are good at seducing men. Both Charlie and Dick fell in love with you."

Theresa said, "Mr. Watson, you're far better at flirting than me. Since you're going to leave Dick's company, why did you still come to me?"

Theresa was not stupid. If things were going smoothly, Jimmy wouldn't have come to her.

He must be up to something today.

Jimmy said, "I'm going back to the Nandlall's Group."

"Awesome!" Theresa teased. "I can't believe that Rose is so obedient to you and still trust you till now."

Theresa had thought that Rose saw Jimmy's true color when they quarreled last time.

But now, it seemed that the relationship between Jimmy and Rose was not affected at all.

Rose even helped Jimmy go back to the Nandlall's Group.

She really loved this jerk.

With a darkened face, Jimmy looked at Theresa and said, "I'm here to tell you that you have to make it clear to Charlie and ask him not to interfere in my affairs."

"Oh?" Theresa raised her eyebrows. "It seems that you came to me because Charlie stopped you. from going back to the Nandlall's Group?"

It was quite a shameful thing. Jimmy felt speechless at her words.

But it was true.

He said, "Theresa, since you are with Dick, I wish you happiness. I just want to live a good life in the Calsis family. Why do you have to push me like this? My parents have already returned what your parents gave you when we got married, haven't they? You have made me so miserable. We are already even."

"Even?" Theresa sneered. "Mr. Watson, I'm afraid you've made a mistake. We'll never be even for the rest of our life. I've been busy divorcing Charlie these days, so I don't have time to deal with you. Do you seriously believe that I'll let you go? Do you think you can make up for what you have done to our family. simply by returning those presents?"

Jimmy said, "Theresa, don't go too far. I'm not a pushover. Don't push me too hard!"

Jimmy's words caught the attention of Theresa.

She looked at the man curiously. "What do you want? I'm quite curious about it."

Jimmy said with a cold face, "If you don't agree, don't blame me for being merciless! Give the two children back to me!"

Most Ridiculous Joke

"What?" Theresa looked at Jimmy in disbelief. "What did you say?"

This was the most ridiculous joke she had ever heard!

Chapter 796

Chapter 796 Don't Blame Me for Being Rude!

The man who had forced her to have an abortion now asked her to return the children to him?

"What did I say?" Jimmy said, "Well, I didn't mean to take the children away from you. But since you're so stubborn, I have no choice but to take them back. We demanded for IVF together, and I still keep the information! That is evidence. I am the father of the children! Why can't I take them back?"

In fact, Jimmy was not interested in those two children.

But if he could force Theresa to give in, he didn't mind having a try.

After all, he thought Theresa had ruined his life.

Even if he really took the two children back, it wouldn't affect him a lot.

He didn't mind raising one more child, but Theresa loved children and wouldn't be willing to give them to him.

So he wanted to threaten her with the children.

Theresa looked at Jimmy and said, "You are their father? Ridiculous!"

"I signed the paper at that time!" Jimmy raised his eyebrows. "Do you really think that the child will really become yours just because I don't care about them in the past few years? Theresa, you can give it a try and see if I can take the children away from you."

"Ha." Theresa sneered. "Jimmy, you're really shameless. I'm afraid you have forgotten why we divorced back then. How can you want to take my children away? I can't believe that I once married a man like you. What the hell did I think back then?"

The contempt in her eyes made Jimmy unhappy.

He said, "No matter how inferior I am, you still can't get over me, can you? I left the Calsis family, and you followed me to work for Dick. Do you still have feelings for me?"

Theresa heard Jimmy's words and said, "Can you give me a basin? I'm going to throw up."

Jimmy snapped, "Theresa, after all, we used to be a couple. I don't want to make things difficult for you.

But don't go too far. Leave me a way out. I know Charlie respects you. If you make it clear, I won't do anything to the children. But if you don't, I have to take the children away." "Are you threatening me?" Theresa looked at Jimmy and said, "I'm quite familiar with this side of you."

When Theresa went to the Calsis family in the first place, Jimmy often threatened her.

He hadn't been so arrogant in front of her for a long time, and Theresa was not used to it.

With a cold face, Jimmy said arrogantly, "You forced me. You know what a hard time I have, but you still push me so hard. Why do you want to ruin my life? What can you get from it? You are so vicious!" Theresa smiled and said, "I just like to see you suffer. When I was with you in the past, I always hoped you could be happy. Now I just want you to suffer. In fact, you should be content. It's your honor to work for my father in our company. But you don't seem to be satisfied, do you?"

Jimmy said coldly, "You know who I am. How can I work for your father? Do you know how many companies wanted to hire me in the past? Your company is not good enough for me at all. If I tell you, if it weren't for me when Charlie wanted to destroy your company, it would have been gone."

Jimmy thought only he could bring the company back to life.

And he was quite impressed by his ability.

But a capable man like him was cornered by Theresa.

Jimmy thought God was really unfair.

Theresa said, "Indeed, our company doesn't deserve you. If you want to leave, just go ahead. Don't worry. I won't put in a good word for you in front of Charlie. I'll only ask him why he let a person like you go back."

"You!" Jimmy's eyes widened. Disdain was written all over his face. "It seems that you really want to corner me."

Theresa didn't show any fear. "Yes! What's wrong with it?"

Jimmy snarled, "Since you're that mean, don't blame me for being rude!"

Chapter 797

Chapter 797 Get down to Your Knees and Apologize!

Theresa smiled. "I'm really afraid of you, Jimmy. Don't show mercy to me. Just see how I'm going to torture you to death! How dare you take my children away? Do you think Rose Nandlall will agree? If she knows how the two children were born, will she believe the lies you told her before? I really should congratulate you. You've pissed me off today! It seems that I should never show mercy to a bastard like you, because it will only make you more complacent. You can never reflect on yourself.

"What do you want?" Jimmy looked at her arrogant face, feeling that she was implying something.

Theresa smiled. "I don't want to do anything. Haven't your mother told you anything these days?"

Theresa picked up her phone and played the recording in front of Jimmy. She had recorded most of his words, including how he had threatened her and something about the children.

Jimmy looked at Theresa in disbelief. "These recordings..

"Don't you always want to know why your mother suddenly became so afraid of me? Jimmy, as long as I post it online, you'll be doomed. I know you are very influential. It's said that you are the God of the Internet, and you're good at debating. Do you think you will be more famous than you are now if I post it online?"

Jimmy didn't expect that Theresa would record their conversations.

And she had recorded so much.

He was surprised that she hadn't shown it to him until now.

He looked at Theresa and said, "How could you record our conversations?"

"I have no choice," Theresa said. "After all, I know what a despicable person you are."

Seeing that the recordings were still played, Jimmy reached out to grab it, but Theresa dodged easily.

She said, "Jimmy, don't ever do anything to me! Otherwise, you won't be as lucky as last time."

Looking at Theresa, Jimmy said, "Deleted the recordings."

"How is that possible?" Theresa said. "I'm looking forward to showing the netizens your true color."

Jimmy said, "Theresa, this is my bottom line. If you dare to post it, I swear I'll take the children away from you."

He had said that he would take the children away just to frighten Theresa.

But if Theresa really posted the recordings online, Jimmy swore that he would take the two children back and let Theresa experience the feeling of losing her beloved sons.

He was not Charlie, and he wouldn't go easy on her as Charlie did.

Theresa sneered. "Mr. Watson, don't talk to me like that. I'm really afraid of you."

He just said that because he didn't know that the two children were Charlie's.

If Jimmy really wanted to take the children away, he would have to fight with Charlie.

How ridiculous!

Looking at Theresa's smug face, Jimmy knew that she might really post the recordings if he irritated her.

His voice suddenly softened. "Theresa, it's all my fault. Please don't do this to me. I won't come to you again. Can you just let me go? I used to be very nice to you, didn't I? Later, we just had different opinions. I just wanted to have our own children. What's wrong with it?"

"You're really wrong," Theresa retorted. "Jimmy, maybe your honey trick works on Rose, but it's really useless in front of me."

Jimmy's face darkened. He looked at the phone in her hand and asked, "W-What do you want?"

Theresa lowered her head and said, "I haven't had an idea yet. But if you get down to your knees and apologize to me, I may postpone my plan to post the recordings. Otherwise..."

Chapter 798

Chapter 798 A Talk with Brenda

When Jimmy heard Theresa ask him to kneel down, he thought she was daydreaming. "Don't go too far."

Theresa said, "I'm going too far? Then what about you? Don't you think you went too far when doing those things to me?"

Theresa remembered how he had bullied her before when she was powerless.

Jimmy looked at Theresa, who had the evidence in her hand. He admitted that he was flustered.

But he also knew that no matter how flustered he was, it was useless. He had to calm down at the moment.

He said, "If you leak the recordings out, people will know that your two children are mine. Then I can at least take one of them away. Aren't you afraid?" Theresa said, "I'm really not afraid."

Jimmy only knew that Theresa was taking care of two children, but he had never seen the two children's faces.

If he had known the truth, he would not have said such words.

Jimmy smiled and said, "Whatever. I'll just wait and see. Just show the recordings to the public. I'm not afraid of you." Then he left.

Looking at Jimmy's back, Theresa knew that he was actually very scared, and he was just playing tricks with her.

Since he liked to play tricks so much, Theresa would just have some fun with him.

After sending Jimmy away, Theresa went back to her room. Brenda was standing at the door. She looked at Theresa with a worried face and asked, "Did Mr. Watson make things difficult for you?" "No, don't worry."

Brenda said, "He's really annoying. I can't believe that he still wants to make trouble for you." Theresa smiled. "He just came because he has no way out. There's nothing to be afraid of."

Seeing Theresa's calm face, Brenda felt a little relieved.

Theresa said, "Do you know why he came to me?"

"No. Why?" Brenda asked curiously.

Without hiding anything from Brenda, Theresa told Brenda the purpose of Jimmy's visit. "He asked me to tell Charlie not to make things difficult for him anymore. Otherwise..."

"What did he say?" Brenda's interest was piqued, and she looked at Theresa curiously.

Theresa said, "He said that if I didn't agree, he would come to take the children away. He said that he had signed his name when I tried to get pregnant with the children in the hospital. I thought he had deleted all the information, but now it seems that he has kept them all!"

Hearing this, Brenda also felt incredible. "How could he have the nerve to say that? Has he forgotten how he slandered you by using those two children before?"

Theresa said, "Someone is just so shameless. I'd like to see how far can he go."

Brenda sighed, "I'm sorry for Miss Rose. She used to be a good girl, but she's been misled since she got married. When can she realize she married such a man? I really hope that she can wake up early." Hearing Brenda's words, Theresa thought of Rose and said to Brenda, "Don't worry. She will know it sooner or later."

Chapter 799

Chapter 799 They Used to Be So Closed

Theresa had intended to have a rest after returning to her home, but she didn't feel sleepy anymore because of Jimmy's visit. She turned on her computer and checked the recordings of Jimmy. She had already left a copy on the computer, afraid that her phone would be taken away.

Of course, she was cautious about this kind of thing.

Theresa turned on the recording and listened to it. When she heard Jimmy's arrogant words, she was furious.

She divided the recording into several parts and sent some to Rose.

It was time for Rose to know about all this.

When Theresa was done with it, Charlie came in.

He pushed the door open without knocking.

Theresa was startled. She turned around and saw him standing at the door.

She still remembered what he said to her when he got up this morning.

Therefore, she wasn't nice to him. "What brings you here, Mr. Charlie?"

Charlie looked at her and breathed a sigh of relief when he found that she was sitting on the chair and didn't seem to be hurt.

He said in a cold voice, "I heard Jimmy had come. Why?"

Theresa was not stupid, and she noticed the concern in Charlie's eyes.

"So he came here because he learned about Jimmy's visit?" wondered Theresa.

She responded, "Well, he has left. He just came to have a talk with me."

"Had a talk with you?" Charlie walked in and stared at Theresa. "You know he is a jerk. Why did you still meet with him? Aren't you afraid that he will do something to hurt you again?" Back then, Jimmy had almost strangled Theresa.

Charlie was still scared when he thought of it.

Although it had been so long and he was still angry with her because of Dick, Charlie was still worried about her.

Hearing his words, Theresa couldn't help but think of the day when Jimmy bullied her and Charlie beat Jimmy up.

During the time when she was injured, she and Charlie were close.

Charlie, who used to be sharp-tongued in front of her, was very gentle and nice to her during that period.

Theresa really wanted to be with him at that time.

But now, they ended up like this, which made her sigh deeply.

Theresa replied, "Nothing. I heard that he was going back to the Nandlall's Group. What's going on?"

Now that Charlie was there, Theresa would like to figure it out.

Charlie responded, "It's Pat's idea. Rose's grandmother called Pat and asked him to help Jimmy go back."

"Rose's grandmother? Eugene's mother?" Theresa looked at Charlie in surprise. She didn't expect that it had something to do with Eugene's mother.

Charlie nodded and said, "Yes. She is an elder anyway. Pat transferred Jimmy back for her sake."

"Then why did Jimmy come to me today? He has found his own backer, hasn't he?"

Charlie said, "He wants to leave the Cameron's Group, but I didn't let him go and asked him to stay in the company. Recently, I'm going to take over your father's company and make him continue to be in charge there."

Theresa's mouth twitched. She looked at Charlie and thought that he was really scheming.

She said, "Are you really going to do this? Then all his previous effort will be in vain."

After all, Jimmy had put so much effort into leaving the Cameron's Group and going to work in a better place.

Theresa knew that Jimmy didn't want to stay in her company at all.

Chapter 800

Chapter 800 All For the Children

After all, in Cameron's Group, Jimmy had to admit that Johnson, whom he looked down most before, was his boss, and he had to bow and show respect to Johnson.

Charlie said, "I just want all his effort to be in vain so that he won't waste time playing tricks. He'd better work for the Cameron family all his life."

Charlie's righteous indignation touched Theresa.

She looked at the man in front of her in surprise. "Charlie..."

She had thought that her affairs would have nothing to do with him since they had divorced and fallen out.

Rose was Charlie's niece after all. Theresa had thought that Charlie would see Jimmy as his family and take his side.

Never did Theresa expect that Charlie would still defend her and make Jimmy unhappy.

Noticing the evident tenderness in Theresa's eyes, Charlie looked away with some embarrassment. "Don't look at me like that. By the way, I've already told your father that I'll take over the company from now on. Don't let Dick meddle in anymore."

"Well," Theresa looked at Charlie and asked, "what do you want to do?"

She sounded a little nervous.

This man chose to take over her father's company when he thought she was going to marry Dick. Theresa wondered if he wanted to make their company go bankrupt again.

She said in a soft tone, "Charlie, can we deal with the matter between you and me by ourselves? I know you are remarkable, but can you not get my father's company involved?"

Charlie looked at Theresa in disbelief. "Do you think I took over your father's company just to make it go bankrupt?"

"I'm mistaken?" It seemed that she had misunderstood him.

Theresa looked at him in surprise.

Charlie looked at Theresa and suddenly sneered. "Do you think I'm such a jerk? I'm not as good as Dick in your eyes, right? I just want to help you develop your father's company so that Dick can't take his painstaking efforts away."

Theresa didn't expect that Charlie would have such an idea.

She still couldn't believe it.

Theresa said, "Charlie, don't you hate me? I'm going to marry Dick. You should try all kinds of ways to threaten me, shouldn't you?"

Charlie was very proud. Even if Theresa was his ex-wife, he had to meddle in her affairs. Charlie only heard the words "I'm going to marry Dick" from Theresa although she had said a look. Looking at Theresa, he said with disappointment, "Since you've chosen him, what can I do? I hope you can be happy. But I have to remind you. Dick won't treat you well. I don't want your father's company. I just want to run it well and leave it to Leonard and Ben in the future. I've never done anything for the two children, and now I just want to make up for them."

Theresa admitted that what he said surprised her.

She had thought that he was such a narrow-minded person who didn't want her to live a happy life.

After all, he used to pester her by using the two children.

She didn't expect him to allow her to marry Dick.

Theresa just wanted to test him, but the result surprised her.

She looked at Charlie and wanted to tell him what had happened between her and Dick.

She didn't want Charlie to misunderstand her all the time.

After all, he was at odds with Dick.

Charlie would only feel bad if he thought that she was going to marry Dick with Leonard and Ben.

Charlie stood up and said, "I'm going out!"

"Wait," Theresa said and stopped him.

Charlie looked back at her and asked, "Anything else?"

He looked very impatient.

Theresa looked at his sullen face, and the tenderness in her eyes faded away.

She coughed and changed the topic. "Jimmy asked me to put in a good word for him and tell you not to interfere in his affairs."
