

Marry Ex's Uncle After Divorcement

#Chapter 801 -828

Chapter 801

Chapter 801 Too Much for Her to Take

"Dream on!" said Charlie. He then looked at Theresa with a worried face. "Did he threaten you?"

Theresa nodded. "Yes. He said that if I didn't agree, he would take the children away from me, saying that the children were also his. When I got pregnant in the hospital, the paper showed that he was the father and he signed."

Charlie's mouth twitched. "He must be insane! How dare he take my sons away?"

Theresa remained seated and looked at Charlie without saying anything.

Charlie took a look at her and went out quickly.

After Jimmy left Theresa's residence, he went to pick up his mother, Rosales and then went back home with his mother.

When he got home, Rose was sitting on the sofa alone, lost in thought.

When Rose saw them, she didn't say anything.

Usually, she would take the initiative to greet them when they came back.

Rosales asked, "Rose, what are you doing?"

Hearing what Rosales said, Rose raised her head and asked, "You're back."

Rosales said, "Have you eaten yet? Let me cook for you."

"No, thanks! I don't want to eat." Rose's attitude seemed very cold.

Jimmy looked at her, stunned. He felt that Rose was strange today.

Could it be that...

He took a look at his mother and said, "Mom, go back to sleep early. I'll take Rose out for dinner."

Rosales said, "It will cost a lot of money if you eat outside. I can get it done very soon."

"Let's go," Jimmy said to Rose.

Rose didn't refuse and followed Jimmy out.

It was a little cold outside. Rose followed Jimmy. She didn't wear many clothes, but she didn't feel cold.

Jimmy didn't take her far away. Instead, he found a restaurant nearby and reserved a private room. It was quiet inside.

After taking a seat, Jimmy asked, "What would you like to eat? Do you want to have a look at the menu?"

Rose looked up at Jimmy and asked, "Do you like Theresa?"

Jimmy was not surprised by that. "It seems that she has contacted you."

Theresa did it faster than Jimmy had expected. He had thought that Theresa would consider it carefully for the sake of the children, but he had thought too much.

Rose said, "You said you loved me, but now you want to get back together with her?"

The recordings showed the conversations between Jimmy and Theresa when Jimmy went to meet

Theresa before.

Jimmy even said Rose was too willful and asked Theresa to get back together with him.

Rose's eyes were full of sadness. She finally reconciled with Jimmy. When she heard the recordings, she was on the verge of breaking down.

It was too much for her to take.

Jimmy said, "Rose, don't listen to her nonsense."

"Is she really talking nonsense? Or do you think I'm a fool? Jimmy, if I didn't hear the recordings, I would never know it. Why would I end up like this? It's all because of you!"

Because Jimmy said that Theresa was a bitch, Rose trusted him and even believed that he was the victim and thought that Theresa had an affair with another man. She even couldn't understand what Theresa had done.

Chapter 802

Chapter 802 Let's Get Back Together, Shall We?

But the truth was, Theresa never cheated on Jimmy.

She had gone to get artificially pregnant with Jimmy in the hospital.

In the end, Jimmy actually wanted Theresa to have an abortion.

Rose said, "Jimmy, I really don't understand what kind of person you are. If what you said in front of me at the beginning was all fake and you've been pretending, then you're really horrible."

He said that he didn't like Theresa and always spoke ill of Theresa. But in fact, he said something different to Theresa behind Rose's back.

To stop him from arguing, Rose played the recordings, bearing the disgust. Soon, the voices of Theresa and Jimmy sounded.

"Did you sleep with Charlie?"

"Didn't you say that Charlie didn't like me? Why do you still ask such a question? You're simply slapping yourself in the face."

"So, you really slept with him? You've just known him for a short time. How could you sleep with him so soon?"

"Jimmy, watch your mouth! It has nothing to do with you who I sleep with."

"How come it has nothing to do with me? You know what? I feel disgusted when I see you flatter Charlie."

"You're so strange. What does it have to do with you whether I like Charlie or not? Don't you feel sick when you tell the Calsises that I cheated on you?"

"Go to the Calsis's house and divorce Charlie! Don't appear in the Calsis family again. You got Jimmy felt embarrassed when he heard his words, wishing that the ground could open up and swallow him in. Seeing Rose's sullen face, he reached out to turn off the recording. After all, he had heard it when Theresa played the recordings, and he didn't want to hear it again.

Rose stopped him. "Don't move. It's not over yet."

Jimmy looked at her serious face and had to withdraw his hand.

The recordings continued being played.

Theresa said, "Do you think I will listen to you? What do you think you are? We have divorced. What I do has nothing to do with you. In the past few years, when I took care of the children and asked you to give me the house, you dodged me every day. What's wrong? Are you jealous when seeing me living a good life with Charlie?"

"Theresa, I'm not kidding."

"Mr. Watson, if you keep pestering me like this, I will call the police! Let go!"

Jimmy grabbed his trousers' legs tightly and thought of Theresa. She really gave him a surprise.

"She has hidden the recording for so long and showed it now. Damn it! Does she seriously believe that I don't dare to take the children away from her?" thought Jimmy.

Just then, Jimmy's voice sounded again, but it became much softer:

"Theresa, let's go back together, shall we?"

"You're really out of your mind!"

"You went to the Calsis family and fawned on Charlie just to piss me off, didn't you? I admit that you have achieved your goal. I'm very angry now and I don't want you to be with him. So, can you stop now?" "Piss you off? Do you think I went to the Calsis family just to piss you off? What's the point of pissing you off? Will you give me the house if I piss you off? Will you support the children if I piss you off?" "It's just a house. I'll give it to you! I can also raise the children! As long as you leave Charlie, we can discuss everything."

"Can you raise those two children?"

"Yes, you married Charlie now, but so what? He has two children. The Calsis family won't accept your two children. I'm not sure what will happen to them in the future. But if you leave the Calsis family now, I can. raise the two children."

Chapter 803

Chapter 803 Play the Recordings

"You really spent a lot of effort to get me out of the Calsis family."

"So, what do you think?"

Rose stared at Jimmy. From the recording, she could tell that Jimmy had been pestering Theresa, but he told Rose that it was Theresa who had been pestering him.

He had been lying to Rose all the time.

What was worse...

"What do I think? How are you going to raise two children? Jimmy, are you crazy? You have married Rose. Now everyone knows that you are the son-in-law of the Nandlall family. Are you kidding me? Am I really that stupid in your eyes?"

"I have money now. It doesn't cost a lot to raise the two children. I can't afford it. You don't need to worry about this." "And then? I'll get back together with you and never flirt with other men anymore, right? Who do you think you are?"

"Theresa, we have known each other for so many years. Don't you have any feelings for me? I can give you everything you want now. You should be glad that I'm willing to get back together with you. Cherish i before I change my mind."

"Get back together with me? You don't deserve it! Did Rose know what you said to me? For you, she has been against me and loved you wholeheartedly. How can you say such words here?"

"She is just a little girl who knows nothing. I only love you. If you hadn't insisted on giving birth to the two children, we wouldn't have divorced. Theresa, you know, I can't get over you."

"Love?"

"You don't believe it? If you hadn't given birth to the two children, we would live a happy life, wouldn't we?"

Rose finally turned off the recording.

She looked at Jimmy with her eyes full of tears. She hadn't been able to calm down since she listened to the recordings.

She wanted to call Jimmy, but she held it back several times.

At this moment, Rose looked at Jimmy and said, "Say something. Didn't you say that Theresa has been seducing you? Did she? She didn't want to talk to you from beginning to end." Jimmy said, "Rose, let me explain."

"Go ahead then!" Rose looked at him, with only suspicion in her eyes.

He was sitting right in front of her, but she found that she couldn't see through him.

She said, "Jimmy, I'll give you a chance to explain. You can even explain until dawn. Tell me! How did Theresa get pregnant with the children?"

Jimmy lowered his head and said, "We couldn't have a baby after we got married. My mother has been urging us, so she went to have an artificial pregnancy in the hospital."

He knew it was useless to hide it, so he had to admit it.

Rose looked at Jimmy and asked, "Then why did you say that she cheated on you?"

Jimmy lowered his head and said, "Obviously, she went to the Calsis family to get back at me. I have a deep hatred for Theresa."

"So you just slandered her like that?" Rose said. "Because of you, I always think she is a bad person. If I had known it earlier..."

"You would have left me, would you?" Jimmy looked at Rose and said "Rose, I know you hate bad people. My past is indeed a mess. I was a jerk in the past, and I hurt Theresa. But after meeting you, I really want to change and become a person who deserves you. I've been trying, and as you see, I've been trying to make up for her, haven't I? But she pushes me too hard. I should have admitted it earlier. I just... love you. so much, and I'm afraid of losing you. That's why I don't dare to tell you the truth."

Rose sneered and continued, "You said you loved me, but you told her that you wanted to get back together with her. You said in the recording that you loved her, and I was just a little girl who knew nothing." Jimmy really took Rose as a fool.

But she actually believed it.

"Of course not!" Jimmy said, "I just lied to her. I thought that Theresa would leave the Calsis family and stop making trouble after hearing what I said."

Chapter 804

Chapter 804 She Can't Stay with Him Anymore

"Things between her and me are not as simple as love. She and I are enemies. She sent the recordings to you just to completely ruin my life. If you hate me and break up with me, you will be fooled by her!

"I went to Theresa and asked her to forgive me. I just want to live a simple life with you. But look, what did she do? I left the Calsis family, and she also left. She even went to Dick's company and stayed with Dick. She will pester me all her life.

"Well, it's my fault. It's all my fault! I hurt her. Why don't I kill myself to make up for her? If I'm gone, you can marry someone else. But never marry a bad man like me again. If there is a next life, I hope I can meet you early, but not after I have done so many wrong things. Rose, I'm sorry! I'm really sorry!" Then he stood up and left the private room.

After going out, Jimmy took a look at her and closed the door.

Rose remained seated in her seat and stared at her phone. She thought of Theresa and the things that had happened since she knew Theresa.

Rose seemed to have done a lot of wrong things for Jimmy, but she didn't realize it.

Soon, Rose left the room without having dinner. When she came out, the car of the Nandlall family stopped at the door. Her father's driver came to pick her up.. "Hello, Ms. Rose."

Rose got in the car with a straight face.

She felt that she couldn't stay with Jimmy anymore.

He was such a terrible person who had disguised himself so well in front of her. No wonder her family didn't allow her to be with him.

Jimmy's face darkened when he saw it while standing at the corner of the street.

It seemed that Rose was really angry!

"Good for you, Theresa! Do you think you can break up Rose and me by doing so? How ridiculous!" thought Jimmy.

Instead of returning to Watson's house, Rose went to Calsis's house. The maid had already prepared the food. Rose walked in and sat down at the table.

Leticia looked at her and asked, "Why did you come back all of a sudden?"

Rose looked at Leticia and asked, "Grandma, was I very wilful in the past?"

Hearing Rose's words, Leticia laughed. "Why do you suddenly ask such a question?"

Rose lowered her head and said, "I just feel that I have done a lot of wrong things." Although Theresa had nothing to do with Rose, Theresa used to be her aunt.

Theresa had suffered a lot because of Jimmy, but what did Rose do?

Leticia asked, "Did you quarrel with Jimmy?"

Rose pursed her lips and made no reply.

But Leticia was not stupid. It seemed that something really happened to Rose and Jimmy.

She said, "Rose, I just hope you can be fine. Have a good sleep after dinner."

"By the way, how is Uncle Charlie? Hasn't he come back yet?" Rose asked.

Chapter 805

Chapter 805 Leticia's Worries

When it came to Charlie, Leticia thought about the upcoming marriage between Theresa and Dick. She said, "Theresa is about to marry Dick, which might pique Charlie, who doesn't like him." Hearing this, Rose was surprised. She believed she was partly accountable for the divorce between Theresa and Charlie. Rose told Leticia, "Grandma, Theresa must find me nasty." Leticia was surprised that Rose had put aside her hatred for Theresa and ceased dealing with her. "Do you know the matter between them?"

Rose nodded. "Yes. I was gullible and was fooled by Jimmy before. I was too stupid to see him through and have never doubted him!"

Leticia comforted Rose, saying, "Don't worry about it anymore. It's all over. It's the trick of that hypocrite, Jimmy, and you are not the one to blame. Since you've come back, have a good rest." Rose nodded.

At night, Charlie was having dinner with Theresa and their children.

As for Cristina, she left in advance because she would go to work in a few days.

Only the four of them were at the dinner table! The two children sat at the side, and Charlie cared for Ben.

Only the sound of eating food could be heard.

In the dining room, everyone was silent when Charlie's phone rang. He looked at the phone and found it was Leticia calling. So he answered the phone. "Mom."

"Where are you?" Losing contact with Charlie for a few days, Leticia was anxiously concerned about him. She was eager to know how he would deal with the matter between Theresa and Dick. Charlie said, "I am eating with Ben."

"Since you are with your children, I am reassured." Knowing Charlie was in the company of his children,

Leticia breathed a sigh of relief. "How will you settle the matter between you and Theresa?"

Theresa was eating boiled beans when she suddenly found Charlie peeping at her. She glanced at him and wondered what made him steal a glance at her. She guessed Leticia must have mentioned her on the phone.

Charlie answered, "Nothing happened between us."

Leticia asked, "Is she going to marry Dick?" She was always curious about this matter. But she didn't have the chance to ask Charlie after she returned yesterday. Now she called him to figure it out. Charlie said, "Yes."

Leticia asked, "Then what about the two children? Will Theresa bring them with her to Dick? Although I know Theresa cherishes them, I can't bear to let them live under the same roof with Dick!" Theresa didn't know Charlie for long and was ignorant of to what extent he hated Dick.

But the members of the Calsis family knew about the poor relationship between Charlie and Dick. couldn't send the two children to Dick and put them at risk. If they made a silly move, it would ruin the reputation of the Calsis family.

Charlie said, "It remains unsettled. What did you call me for?"

Leticia answered, "I called you to inquire about you. By the way, Rose has returned home."

Knowing Rose back home, Charlie said, "I see."

Leticia said, "She seemed to know about the affairs between Theresa and Jimmy and felt guilty about it.

She finally understood our solicitude for her and grew up!"

"She might as well learn it by heart," Charlie said, "It's fine that she was enlightened in time and remedied her wrongs."

Chapter 806

Chapter 806 The Recording

It was known to all except Rose that Jimmy was a scumbag. Every time she stood on Jimmy's side, Charlie was at a loss about what to do. If he taught Jimmy a lesson, he would hurt Rose and make her feel he didn't take her feelings into account. But he couldn't indulge Jimmy simply because he was trusted by her.

Leticia said, "Uh-huh. By the way, if it is inconvenient for you to tell me about Theresa, how about I talk with her?"

Charlie raised his head and looked at Theresa, saying, "No, you don't have to worry about her. It's her own business, and it's up to her to decide whether the two children will go with her."

At the side, although Theresa couldn't hear Leticia's words on the other end of the phone clearly, she inferred from Charlie's responses what Leticia had talked to him.

Charlie hung up the phone, and Theresa looked at him, asking, "Was it Leticia calling?" Charlie answered, "Yes. She said that Rose had known about your affair with Jimmy and returned home today." Theresa raised her eyebrow and said, "I see."

"You seem not to be surprised." Charlie stared at Theresa hard.

Theresa said, "Jimmy is a downright scoundrel, and he cannot hide his evil deeds for good. Rose will find out his true nature sooner or later!"

"Why are you so certain about it?" Charlie looked at Theresa suspiciously.

She was upset by his doubtful gaze and asked, "Why do you look at me like this? Are you suspecting me?"

"Rose firmly believed that Jimmy was innocent despite the persuasion of her family members. How could she find out the truth all of a sudden?"

"It has nothing to do with me." Theresa bit her lip subconsciously.

"You'd better tell me the truth." Charlie looked at her hard and said seriously.

The two children looked at them blankly.

To avoid making Ben distressed, Theresa had agreed with Charlie that no matter what happened, they shall not quarrel before the two children. Faced with Charlie's interrogation, she had to speak the truth to put an end to the tense atmosphere lest the two children should doubt they were quarreling. "I recorded my conversation with Jimmy when he came to me and sent the recording to Rose today." "What recording?" Charlie looked at Theresa curiously.

Theresa said, "I will send it to you." As she spoke, she picked up the phone and sent the recording to Charlie.

Charlie opened the audio file and played it, looking at Theresa. "When did it happen?" He noticed that the incident recorded happened some time ago.

Theresa smiled dryly. "When I was first introduced into your family, Jimmy bore a grudge against me and regarded me as a thorn in his flesh. Later, he found me under your protection and had to coax me into leaving you. But he didn't know my marriage with you only existed in forms, and as a matter of course, I couldn't meet his request." Speaking of this, Theresa recalled the time she had spent with Charlie. She had married him not out of love and had an aversion to him for his mean words and the superior air he put on. But in retrospect, she missed those good old days and found Charlie's image improved in her mind...

Charlie looked at Theresa and said, "This being the case, why didn't you reveal the recording immediately? If you exposed it in time, you would have given Jimmy away and prevented him from running wild for so long and causing many troubles."

When it came to the recording, Theresa felt awkward for some reason. "If I revealed it to you, you would know I had your children."

"You..." Hearing this, Charlie lost his temper. He glared at Theresa, who sat in her seat docilely with her head bent down.

At the side, Ben said, "Dad." He was afraid of seeing Charlie vent his anger on Theresa.

Charlie looked at him and suppressed his anger, saying to Theresa.

Chapter 807

Chapter 807 The Quarrel

"Do you hate me to the point of covering up the evil deeds Jimmy had done to you and withholding from me the information about my children? Theresa, if I were you, I would have revealed this matter. At least you have two sons who back you up."

Theresa looked at Charlie and said, "I have never thought of this."

Hearing Theresa's playful tone, Charlie was distressed. "I don't believe this idea has never occurred to you. Stop fooling me! Why did you prefer to put yourself at risk rather than ask me for help?"

"It's because of your attitude toward me!" Theresa explained in an aggrieved tone, "Charlie, don't you remember how you treated me before? You always complained that I had divorced and was not qualified to be your wife. Since you didn't like the woman who had divorced, I wouldn't bother you to care for me."

Hearing this, Charlie remembered those insulting words he had said to Theresa on a whim. He had never expected that he would be in love with Theresa one day!

Seeing Charlie stunned, Theresa lowered her head and ate the soup.

Charlie's eyes rested on Theresa. He lowered his voice and said, "What about now? You know I like you, but you still hide the truth from me."

Theresa didn't respond to Charlie's words. She picked up the chopsticks and helped the two children with food.

Charlie knew she pretended not to hear his words. But he stopped questioning her to spare the two children from worries about them.

At the side, Ben observed the interactions between Charlie and Theresa carefully and asked, "Mom, are you angry with Dad?"

Theresa was surprised. She took a look at Ben and found it increasingly difficult to fudge the issue before him. He was smart enough to notice the subtleties of her exchanges with Charlie. Initially, Theresa only intended to help the two children with food. But now she had to put a morsel of vegetable into Charlie's bowl to dispel Ben's doubt. She looked at Charlie and added in a low voice, "Regarding the abusive words you said to me, I won't let them pass." Besides, she had no intention of resuming her romantic relationship with Charlie before Jimmy's matter was solved.

Charlie looked at Theresa and was at a loss about what to say.

After dinner, the two children took a rest, and Charlie was about to leave.

Theresa saw him off. "Take care of yourself!"

"You don't need to pretend to show concern for me." Charlie was kind to the two children but assumed an aloof air before Theresa.

Theresa stared at Charlie, who was indifferent to her exclusively, and said, "You can sleep in the guest room, but you are determined to leave, which is not my idea."

"I will never sleep in the guest room of your house."

Theresa looked at Charlie, who said these words arrogantly, and gave up persuading him to stay. She said, "It is also my wish. If it weren't for two children, I wouldn't have paid attention to you." After speaking, Theresa closed the door.

Charlie stood outside the room and looked at the door that blocked his view of Theresa. He felt a similar obstacle wedged between the hearts of Theresa and him.

Jonathan walked toward Charlie and said, "Charlie!"

Charlie took a look at him. "Let's come back!"

Theresa stood behind the door and eavesdropped on the conversation between Charlie and Jonathan.

She watched her tiptoes and heaved a sigh before she walked inside silently.

At night, Rose tossed and turned on the bed without falling asleep. She repeatedly opened the audio file, though reluctant to listen to the recording. At this moment, someone called her and interrupted the playing of the recording. She took a look at the phone and answered it, hearing Luna's flustered voice on the other end of the phone. "Rose, where are you?"

Chapter 808

Chapter 808 Jimmy Committed Suicide

"Luna, what's the matter?" It was Luna calling.

"Rose, go to the hospital! Jimmy committed suicide! He took many sleeping pills and slit his wrist..." Hearing this, Rose was stunned and felt her heart twitch. She remembered Jimmy's unnatural expression in the box and what he said before leaving "It's all my fault. I have failed her! This being the case, I can only kill myself to make up for the wrongs I have done to her! After my death, you should marry a man better than me. If I have an afterlife, I wish I could meet you earlier." She hadn't expected Jimmy to speak it seriously and intend to atone for his crime by committing suicide. Thinking of this, she put on the clothes hurriedly and went downstairs.

After leaving Theresa's house and returning home, Charlie had been sitting on the sofa. Seeing Rose go downstairs in a hurry, he asked, "Where will you go?"

"Charlie?" Rose stared at him, her delicate face pale from fright. "I have something to do." After speaking, she rushed out of the door.

Charlie frowned at the sight of Rose running away. The sound of a car engine running came from outside. He guessed she went out to deal with the matter of Jimmy. He could hardly imagine any other thing that could affect Rose so deeply.

Leticia went downstairs and saw Charlie, saying, "Why don't you go to sleep?"

Charlie explained, "I will go to bed soon."

Leticia asked, "Who went out just now? I heard the sound of a car."

"It was Rose. She ran out to deal with something!"

"Why did she go out so late?" Leticia watched the clock and found it inexplicable.

Charlie said, "It seems to have something to do with Jimmy."

Leticia retorted, "How could it be? She has already known about the matter of Jimmy."

Charlie didn't respond to her and kept silent.

Leticia looked at him and said, "Hurry up to take a rest! Don't linger in the living room at night like a ghost."

Charlie smiled wryly. "I would rather be a ghost so as to visit Theresa without disturbing her." He was desperate to see her but was afraid of losing face before her. As a result, he could only return home unwillingly. The more he thought about it, the more he hated himself.

Hearing this, Leticia glared at Charlie. "Don't say such unlucky words. I place so much hope in you. You have just recovered. Both Robert and I wish you would be safe and sound. As for your romantic relationship with Theresa, it will be lucky if you can be with her. If not, you should not force love out of her." Hearing what Leticia said, Charlie was distressed. "Mom, is all I suffer now the retribution for my indifference to Theresa before?"

"For youths, failure in love is an indispensable lesson in their life. By the way, how about Leonard and Ben? I want to take a look at them!" Leticia was indifferent to Charlie's pains and was exclusively concerned about his two children.

"They are fine. It's only that Leonard always ignores me."

"It's because you pulled a long face when you first met him!" When it came to the relationship between Charlie and Leonard, Leticia was helpless, now knowing how to ease the tensions between them. She had never seen them get along well with each other!

Charlie knew Leticia was partial to Leonard and didn't ask for pity from her. "Well, I will go to sleep." As he spoke, he stood up and went back to his room.

Rose arrived at the hospital and saw all the members of the Watson family present. Eric, Rosales, Luna, and Gentry were waiting by the door of the emergency room.

Rosales sat at the side, weeping. Luna hugged her and comforted her. "Mom, don't worry too much. Jimmy will be fine."

Chapter 809

Chapter 809 The Anxious Waiting

Rose wobbled over and asked, "Mom and Dad, how is Jimmy now?" Death was a horrible concept to Rose, and Jimmy's suicide was a bolt from the blue for her! It reminded her of the scene where she had gone to the hospital together with her father to visit her mother, who had been involved in an accident... That was why she was transfixed with shock when hearing the news of Jimmy's suicide.

Rosales raised her head and looked at Rose, asking, "What happened when you ate with Jimmy? He was always free of worries but was in low spirits when he returned home today. What reduced him to this?" Rosales' interrogation made Rose bend her head down awkwardly. Since she had ignored Jimmy when he had confessed words from the bottom of his heart to her, she felt she seemed to be accountable for his suicide. She hadn't expected her conversation with Jimmy to be the trigger for his suicide and was overwhelmed with panic.

Seeing Rosales lose control, Luna comforted her. "Mom, it was probably because Jimmy was under too much pressure. He has been working in Cameron's Group and must have been ostracized by the people of the Cameron family."

Gentry heaved a sigh. "I have been persuading Jimmy to join my company. Of course, I did it out of disinterested kindness. But he refused me flatly. He is always such a stubborn guy.

Rosales said, "Jimmy was so excellent before. It must be that Charlie who schemed against him! We have been abject before the people of the Calsis family, but they won't be satisfied until Jimmy is dead." Eric said, "If something happens to Jimmy, I will settle accounts with Charlie! In the past few years, Jimmy has worked hard, only to be bullied by such a villain."

Rose stood aside and listened to their conversations, which reminded her of Jimmy. She knew he was always hardworking and proud of himself. She spoke nothing and waited silently for the doctor to come out of the emergency room.

In the morning, Theresa had just got up when she found Leticia come.

Leticia was preparing breakfast for the children together with Brenda.

Theresa was surprised by Leticia's visit. "Auntie Leticia, what did you come for?"

Leticia looked at Theresa and smiled. "I came here to see the two children. Do you mind it?"

Theresa was reassured by Leticia's friendly manner and nodded. "No." It was just that after eating with Dick and his father, Theresa was ill at ease before the people of the Calsis family. Initially, she had believed they would be angry with her, who got so close to their foe, Dick. But she hadn't expected Leticia to remain friendly when seeing her again.

Leticia said, "Wash your hand and have breakfast. Why did you get up so early? Will you go out in the morning?"

"No," Theresa said, "I just couldn't sleep and took a look at what was going on here." After speaking, she went upstairs to call two children to come downstairs and have breakfast.

At the dining table, Leticia watched two children. Despite their young age, they ate attentively and were not fastidious about food. They obediently ate up the nutritionally balanced breakfast.

Chapter 810

Chapter 810 Leticia's Threats

Leticia said, "Theresa, these two kids are so lovely."

Hearing Leticia's compliment, Theresa was relieved and nodded. "They are always well-behaved and spare me from many troubles."

"It's because you set a good example for them." Leticia looked at Theresa. "I found them smart when I met them back then." Speaking of this, Leticia was ashamed. She said to Theresa, "I thought naively that they learned good manners from their mother, Cristina, and had a good impression of her." She had even wished that Charlie would divorce Theresa and marry Cristina, thinking Cristina would be a better mother for the two kids than Theresa.

When it came to the matter back then, Theresa smiled.

Leticia said, "But after I met Cristina in person, I found her different from what I thought and was disappointed with her."

Hearing this, Brenda at the side felt awkward for Cristina. Cristina had a different personality from Laura and was not good at pleasing others. As her aunt, Brenda was concerned about her.

Theresa spoke for Cristina, "She is a nice person. She left a poor impression on you to be the foil for me."

Leticia nodded. "I know it. I had misunderstandings about her. I am happy that everything is clarified now."

"Mom, I want to eat vegetables!" Ben said.

Theresa picked up the chopsticks and helped him with the food.

Leticia looked at two kids and pursued, "By the way, how will you settle these two kids in the future?" After beating around the bush for a long time, she got straight to the point.

Theresa looked at Leticia and asked confusedly, "What do you mean by "in the future"?"

Leticia explained, "After your marriage with Dick, you have to move into his house. After all, it is weird for a newly married couple to live apart. Are you going to bring these two kids with you?"

Theresa took a look at the two kids.

Leticia looked at Theresa gently and firmly, "Theresa, I know you are fond of your kids and are inseparable from them. So I always remind Charlie not to make you and them distressed no matter what happens. We are capable of filing a suit against you or sending you back to the Calsis family. The members of the Cameron family, Cameron's Group, or your best friends..."

"Auntie Leticia!" Hearing this, Theresa looked at Leticia.

Leticia said calmly, "Keep patient. Let me finish my words. We had every reason to do this, but I gave it up because I knew you were kind to the two kids and spent much time and energy on them. As a mother, I understood your love for them and didn't bear to separate you from them." Theresa said, "I always appreciate you."

"I also take two kids into account," Leticia said, "You devoted so much for them that they were willing to stand on your side. But... The relationship between Charlie and Dick is poor. If you are about to marry Dick, I propose to bring two kids back to the Calsis family. It is good not only for them but also for you. As Charlie's children, they can't recognize Dick as their father. If they go with you, you have to reconcile them with Dick, who might bear a grudge against them simply because they were the children of his foe. Today, I came to you to clarify if you marry Dick, I won't hand two kids over to you, which will be against my principle."

Theresa was wise enough to find Leticia threatened to take two kids away in the guise of showing concern for her and giving instructions to her for her own good. She believed if she married Dick, Leticia would definitely snatch the kids from her.

Leonard was eating the vegetables. Hearing Leticia's words, he widened his eyes and looked at Theresa and her. He was interested in the conversation between the adults.

Theresa looked at the two kids and said to Leticia, "You are mistaken. I am not going to marry Dick. You misunderstood the matter last time."

Leticia asked, "Is this the case?"

Chapter 811

Chapter 811 The Belief for Love

Theresa said, "Of course. I didn't explain to Charlie to spare him from hope in me. He should part with me and live a better life. As for me, I am content to live with the two children, which is the most desirable condition for me. And I don't want to get entangled with him anymore." She knew about the poor relationship between Charlie and Dick's kin. So she wouldn't entrust the two children to them and put them and her at risk.

Leticia looked at Theresa and heaved a sigh. "Well. Sorry, I shouldn't be so mean to you."

Theresa got the tissue and wiped her hands. "Never mind. I know you are concerned about your grandsons." After she divorced Charlie, she was sensible enough to know the people of the Calsis family cared for her simply for the sake of two children and didn't place too much hope in them. Regarding how much sincere concern Leticia had for her, she didn't bother to consider it.

Leticia said in a formal tone, "Theresa."

Theresa looked at her and asked, "What is the matter?"

"If Charlie marries another woman, will you take it to heart?" Leticia asked seriously.

Theresa was stunned and then nodded violently. "No." She didn't know what made Leticia ask such a question.

Leticia said, "I always believe from my experience that you have strong feelings for Charlie. Did I make a wrong judgment?"

Theresa's hand that held the cup got stiff. She cast a glance over the lawn in the yard and said to Leticia, "If I meet Charlie at the age of seventeen or eighteen, I will be in passionate love with him regardless of any difficulty. But now, I am tired of maintaining a romantic relationship with him." She wasn't confident about continuing to be with Charlie. He explained to her then that he had never trifled with her, who had misunderstood him. She thought he was right. Probably, she was afraid of admitting her feelings for him because she had misgivings about him and didn't believe she could regain his love. It was an issue she had to deal with for the time being.

Hearing this, Leticia was enlightened and looked at Theresa knowingly. She heaved a sigh and said, "Theresa, as for the matter of Jimmy, it's not your fault, and we have never put the blame on you. I believe Charlie also doesn't take it seriously."

Hearing this, Theresa said, "Let us put it aside."

Seeing Theresa unwilling to talk about it, Leticia inferred Theresa didn't have an aversion to Charlie.

Probably, Theresa was traumatized by the matter of Jimmy and didn't believe in love anymore. Instead, she valued friendship and kinship. Leticia understood her and didn't know how to comfort her. After all, there were so many scumbags who toyed with women in the world! She said, "By the way, Rose may divorce Jimmy."

Theresa looked at Leticia and asked, "Is that true?"

Leticia said, "Yes. If you are willing to go home, you won't meet Jimmy there. In fact, we are also reluctant to see him and hand him over to Rose. She has grown up under our care, and we respect her decision. She is a nice girl and has reflected on herself recently. Let us talk about the matter of Jimmy when she settles it before long."

"It's fine that she could see Jimmy through." When Theresa sent the recording to Rose, she wasn't sure whether Rose would be enlightened and reform herself. Now it seemed that her efforts had paid off.

As Leticia spoke, she remembered that Rose had gone out last night and picked up the phone to send a message to her. [Rose, where are you? Have you eaten breakfast?] She didn't know what urgent matter had made Rose go out so late. But Rose didn't respond to her.

In the morning, Theresa and Leticia arranged flowers at home, and the two children followed suit at the side.

Chapter 812

Chapter 812 Jimmy's Trick

A subordinate walked in and said to Leticia, "Mrs. Calsis."

Sitting in the seat, Leticia put down the scissors gracefully and asked, "What is the matter?"

"Ms. Nandlall has been staying in the hospital."

"The hospital?" Leticia asked curiously, "Why did she go to the hospital?"

"I heard that Jimmy had committed suicide and that all the people of the Watson family were in the hospital."

Hearing this, Theresa paused. She looked at the informant and asked, "Is Jimmy dead?"

"No. He took an overdose of sleeping pills and slit his wrist. The people of the Watson family found him. in time and sent him to the hospital. He had his stomach pumped, and his condition was not life- threatening for the time being."

Theresa said calmly, "It's a pity he is alive."

Leticia looked at her hard.

Theresa restrained her eyebrows and apologized, "I am sorry." She shouldn't have expressed what she thought in the first place. Theresa was not the kind of person who was kind enough to feel sorry for those whom she disliked. Considering Jimmy's evil deeds, she would rather see him end up in misery. Seeing him reduced to such a deplorable condition, she didn't feel guilty and was even overjoyed. She remembered the plots of TV dramas she had watched in her childhood. In the denouements, the kind-hearted heroines often forgave the villains generously. She had been as magnanimous as them before, at least before she divorced Jimmy. But afterward, the people of the Watson family had not been satisfied and almost driven her mad. From then on, she learned that it was of no use to compromise with those despicable people who never appreciated her generosity and took it for granted.

Leticia told the subordinate, "Go to the hospital and pick Rose up."

Hearing this, the subordinate asked, "What if she was reluctant to come back?"

Leticia glanced at Brenda and said, "Brenda, how about you go?" She put her trust in Brenda, who had served her for a long time and was reliable.

Brenda nodded and said, "Okay. Should I send her to Calsis Villa or Cameron's Residence?"

"Cameron's Residence. I am here today and want to have a look at her!"

"Okay," Brenda responded and left.

Theresa looked at her back silently.

Leticia said, "I wish Rose would be sensible enough to see through Jimmy's trick."

Theresa looked at Leticia with surprise, "I believed you would show anxious concern for Jimmy after this news came to you."

"I don't believe he intended to kill himself." Leticia said, "I have contacted him and know what kind of person he is. Such a villain as him is afraid of death." Leticia knew Jimmy was not too vulnerable to live on.

He pretended to commit suicide to make Rose cling to him out of pity for him. Leticia called her subordinate to bring Rose back for fear that she should fall into Jimmy's trap again!

In the hospital, Jimmy woke up. After staying up all night, almost all the people of the Watson family had returned home.

Rose sat at the side and looked at Jimmy. His face looked pale, and the sanguine color on it had gone.

Jimmy asked, "Why are you here?"

Rose questioned him, "Why did you intend to kill yourself? Don't you know how concerned your parents are about you?"

Jimmy closed his eyes and said, "I was just too tired."

Rose stared at him.

Chapter 813

Chapter 813 Jimmy's Confession

Jimmy heaved a sigh, "When I was with you, I was plagued by the fear of losing you. Now that I have lost you, it suddenly occurred to me that my life is not worth living... I was a nobody in my previous life and lived humbly, different from Charlie and Dick, who are my peers and always do as they like without worries."

Rose stared at him. "You are not such a sentimental person."

Jimmy said, "I am just an ordinary person. I didn't take it seriously when I quit Cameron's Group because I thought you were on my side. But I didn't expect you to abandon me. I believed that however tough my life was, you would support me. After all, you are the only ray of hope in my life. But now that you have turned your back on me, I find my life signifies nothing. When I was a child, I knew studying hard was my only way out. My parents strove to collect the tuition fee for me, and I believed as long as I worked hard, I would establish myself in society. I didn't expect myself to be incapable of keeping my favorite woman at my side."

"Theresa dealt with you to settle accounts with you," Rose said, "Why were you so ruthless to her?"

"I was immature and sensitive about others' views of me then. To save face, I did wrong to Theresa. After my death, you can pass on my apology to her. I failed her with regard to the matter of her children because I was poor then. If she gave birth to them, I couldn't afford to raise other people's children. Rose, you are from a rich family and cannot understand the worries of poor people like me. With a meager income, my parents could hardly support my sister and me. To lessen their burden, my sister dropped out of high school to make a living by herself. I asked Theresa to have an abortion, fearing the two children would grow up in poverty... Rose, do you understand my difficulties?"

As he finished speaking, Jimmy's eyes were red with tears.

Seeing him confess so sincerely with a haggard look, Rose felt distressed. She was born into a wealthy family and, since her mother had passed away when she was young, was well-protected by the surrounding people and spared from suffering. She had never worried about money. Besides, after graduation, she didn't need to find a job and was free to do anything she liked. As a result, she found it difficult to feel for Jimmy, who lived in a different world from her. But she could tell from his look that he had hard times. When he had been at Cameron's Group, he had been a hard-working employee who had always worked overtime and stayed up late. Rose said to Jimmy, "I know you have your difficulties. But they cannot justify the wrongs you have done to Theresa." She had been ignorant of the truth and misunderstood Theresa as an adulterer. After listening to the recording, she found Theresa had been wronged by Jimmy and suffered a lot. It was understandable that Theresa had taken revenge on him now! Jimmy said, "I am the one to blame."

"Since you have done injustice to Theresa, you should apologize to her instead of putting an end to your life, which is a silly move. Jimmy, if you die, your kin will be sad, and I won't forgive you, either!" Jimmy looked at Rose and said, "My life is at my disposal, and it has nothing to do with you."

"Don't talk like a child," Rose said, "You can escape the charges by death. But have you never been concerned about the people who care for you? Do you want me to feel guilty for your death forever?" Jimmy lowered his head and said in grief, "I was dead the moment I lost you."

Rose looked at him and relented, saying, "Jimmy, I will accompany you to apologize to Theresa. I think she is not merciless, and we can reason with her. As long as you promise to reform yourself, she will put aside the hatred and forgive you. What do you think about it?"

"If I do as you require, will you return to my side?" Jimmy looked at Rose pleadingly.

Rose looked at him and hesitated before she nodded. "Yes." She believed he was determined to reform himself, considering he had been desperate to atone for his crime by suicide. He was in trouble, and she wouldn't make life harder for him. She would like to be the glimmer of hope in his life. After all, she was his wife and couldn't bear to see him dismayed, not to mention to lose him forever.

Jimmy said, "Rose, I don't want to share my trouble with you."

Chapter 814

Chapter 814 Leticia's Order

"Don't worry about me," Rose said, "As you said, I was born into a wealthy family and knew nothing of the bitterness of life. As a result, I could hardly imagine what hardship you have suffered in your life."

Jimmy looked at Rose, who lowered her head guiltily, and a triumphant look flashed in his eyes. Rose was artless and different from Theresa, who was calculating. But the recording she handed over to Rose seemed not to make her change her mind and leave him. Instead, she forgave him when he put on a pitiful look and acted miserable before her.

Since Jimmy had agreed to apologize to Theresa and given up the idea of committing suicide, Rose cheered up.

Not long after, someone knocked on the door.

Rose said, "Come in."

The door was opened, and Brenda showed up. "Good morning, Ms. Nandal."

Seeing Brenda appear, Rose was surprised. "What do you come for?"

Brenda explained, "Mrs. Calsis has been concerned about you after you left home last night and asked me to pick you up. How is Mr. Watson's condition now?" Speaking of this, Brenda stole a glance at Jimmy. He was lying on the bed feebly, but his condition was not life-threatening.

Rose said, "Sorry, I can't go with you now. I won't be reassured until I send Jim home after he is discharged. After that, I will come to see Grandma Leticia."

Seeing Rose insist on staying by Jimmy, Brenda persuaded, "But Mrs. Calsis has ordered me to send you home. As for Jimmy, I will find someone to take care of him. Don't worry about him." She said in a peremptory tone, showing that she was following Leticia's order. It seemed that they had known about Jimmy's suicide.

Rose thought it over and turned her head to speak to Jimmy, "Have a good rest. I will return home to deal with something." She had stayed up all night and was exhausted now.

Jimmy said, "Rose." He hadn't expected the people of the Calsis family to come so soon and was worried.

Rose looked at him and said, "Don't worry. I will come back to see you. By the way, don't forget to keep your promise."

Jimmy couldn't ask Rose to stay longer, especially considering Brenda was present. So he watched her walk away helplessly.

Rose followed Brenda out of the hospital. After getting into the car, she asked Brenda, "Brenda, I remember you are not at Calsis Villa. When did you come back?" When she returned home yesterday, she heard that Brenda had been sent to Cameron's Residence to take care of Leonard and Ben. She hadn't expected Brenda to pick her up today.

Brenda explained, "I was at Cameron's Residence just now. Mrs. Calsis visited Theresa's two sons today and asked me to send you there."

Rose said, "Well. If this is the case, I won't object to it." Coincidentally, she wanted to meet Theresa.

Chapter 815

Chapter 815 Rose's Apology

Both Theresa and Leticia were at home. Brenda led Rose into the room.

Since she had stayed up all night, Rose looked lethargic. She said, "Good morning, Grandma Leticia."

Leticia said, "Take your seat."

Rose walked to the side and sat down. Since she was close to Theresa, she looked at her and said, "Hello, Mrs. Calsis."

Theresa took a look at Rose and said, "I have divorced Charlie. So you don't need to address me as 'Mrs. Calsis.' Just call me by my name." Rose nodded. "Okay."

Leticia's eyes rested on Rose, and she said, "I heard that Jimmy had committed suicide. What is the matter?"

Rose said, "Don't worry. He has been out of danger. And the people of the Watson family are concerned about him."

"Have you been staying by him in the hospital till now?" Leticia looked at Rose in surprise.

Rose explained, "His parents were busy taking care of him all night, and I had to attend to him after they left."

"Stay away from him," Leticia said, "Rose, have you never found that you were fooled by the people of the Watson family? When you returned home yesterday, you promised me you would part with Jimmy. Why did you come to see him again?"

Rose said helplessly, "But I haven't divorced him yet. Now that his life is threatened, I can't bear to leave him unattended."

"Jimmy was sure that you couldn't make up your mind to leave him. So he pretended to commit suicide to arouse your pity for him," Leticia heaved a sigh. "You are too innocent to see him through. If he intended to kill himself, he would leave no room for rescue."

Rose knew Leticia had a strong bias against Jimmy. She believed in Jimmy's confession that she had seen with her own eyes and spoke for him, "Grandma Leticia, don't talk like this. Jimmy has indeed made many mistakes before, but he reflected on himself this time."

"Reflection?" Leticia asked with disapproval.

Rose looked at Theresa, who sat at her side and didn't join their conversation, saying, "Theresa, I have known about the truth. Jimmy has failed you and made you suffer. I was cheated by him into condemning you, and I am sorry for that."

Seeing Rose apologize to Theresa in person sincerely, Leticia was relieved.

Theresa looked at Rose and said, "It's not your fault. And I didn't take it to heart."

The first time Theresa had seen Rose, she knew Rose was kind by nature. After all, Rose had spoken for her before Jimmy. But she fell into his trap step by step and misunderstood Theresa.

Rose said, "I talked with Jimmy after listening to the recording you sent me. He was guilty of the wrongs he had done. Before I left, he said that if he died, he wished I could pass on his apology to you. He pleaded for your forgiveness and could only make up for your sufferings by death." She was careful about what she said.

Chapter 816

Chapter 816 Rose's Defense for Jimmy

Rose was not evil by nature. After knowing the injustice Theresa had suffered, she had a bad conscience and felt sorry for her.

Seeing Rose defend Jimmy earnestly, Theresa said, "You needn't apologize to me on behalf of Jimmy. It's he who has done wrong to me, and he should apologize to me in person."

Rose continued, "I have talked with him about this. He said he would apologize to you when he recovered. He was determined to right his wrongs. Theresa, Jimmy has indeed caused many troubles. But it has been a long time since he made those mistakes, and he has received due punishment. Besides, he lives a tough life. He has been working hard in Cameron's Group but has now lost his job. Can you forgive him?"

"I can't forgive him," Theresa looked at Rose, not knowing how to persuade her, "Love makes you blind. There are strong pieces of evidence of his crimes. Why did you still believe in his lies? Do you think he has reflected on himself? He never thinks he has done anything wrong. His only fear is that you will leave him. Do you know it?"

"I don't think so," Rose said, "You didn't see how pitiful he was now. Theresa, despite the crimes he has committed, he has the right to reform himself. Please give him a way out. Otherwise, he will die." "You worry too much. He won't die," Theresa said, "A shameless man like him would rather hound other people to death than kill himself. Since you apologized to me, I believe you are redeemable, not like him who is incorrigible. If I am right, I remind you not to believe in every single word he says. Otherwise, you will be at his disposal."

"It can't be true..." Rose recalled Jimmy's sincere confession and didn't believe it was just his performance. After all, he had committed suicide! If it weren't for the people of the Watson family who had saved him in time, he would have been doomed to death! She told Theresa, "I know you have reason to be suspicious of his sincerity. But if he dies, you will regret not believing in him."

"Why should I have regrets?" Theresa raised her eyebrow. "If he dies, with your family condition, you will be free to find any other man better than him."

"You..." Rose looked at Theresa, surprised by her indifference. "If Jimmy dies, won't you have a bad conscience?"

"A bad conscience?" Theresa looked at Rose curiously. "Why should I be guilty of his death? I will celebrate the date of his death. My hatred for him is implacable."

Rose was stunned and interlocked her fingers. She hadn't believed it when Jimmy had said that Theresa wouldn't forgive him. But now she testified to Theresa's stony heart with her own eyes. Everyone would naturally feel sorry for the person who died for them, but Theresa was an exception.

Leticia looked at Theresa and knew she was indifferent to Jimmy's suicide because she was sure he didn't have the heart to kill himself. Leticia said, "Rose, although Theresa's words may sound cruel to you, I share the same view with her. Jimmy is too selfish to commit suicide and will live on shamelessly. I am worrying about you... Since you know he is a hopeless villain, you should cease to trust him. Otherwise, you will regret placing hope in the wrong person."

Rose tried to persuade them to believe her. "You didn't meet him in person and can hardly imagine how determined he was to kill himself. I have never seen him so desperate before. I believe what I saw with my own eyes!"

"What about his past wrongdoings?" Leticia heaved a sigh. "You naively believed in his lies before."

"Jimmy has admitted his crimes and apologized to me. I know he has done many wrongs, but he doesn't deserve to die. Please, don't murder him with your indifference."

Speaking of this, Rose looked at Theresa and said, "Theresa, when Jimmy is discharged, I will accompany him to apologize to you. Please give him a chance to reform himself. He is guilty of what he has done."

Theresa looked at Rose coldly.

Seeing Theresa indifferent to her, Rose knelt down and lowered her head. "I am sorry for imposing wrong judgment on you. Both Jim and I have realized our misdeeds. We will reflect on ourselves and never relapse into our old mistakes in the future."

Chapter 817

Chapter 817

Theresa looked at Rose who looked sincere, knowing that she was genuinely sorry for what she had done. But... Jimmy and Rose were not the same people! Rose was so silly!

As soon as Leticia saw Rose like this, she got angry and said, "Get up! What are you kneeling for? You've lost your head for Jimmy!"

Rose said, "I just want to apologize for Jimmy."

"Apologize for him?" Leticia felt she was dying of anger at Rose. "We didn't raise you to be led around by men. Can you be any more stupid? It's Jimmy's fault, not yours. Why do you apologize for him? Gosh, you're killing me!"

"Grandma." Rose looked at Leticia guiltily.

Leticia found that Rose was really brainwashed by Jimmy. She commanded Brenda, "Ask someone to send her home. From now on, she is not allowed to see Jimmy. After Pat back, I'll ask him to deal with. their divorce things."

"Grandma! Rose said, "I promised to pick him up at night. He's still waiting for me in the hospital."

"You can rest assured of that!" Said Leticia. "He's not an orphan. His parents care much more about him than you do. They're gonna let him die? You're the one who have no brain and do everything he wants." Leticia finished and looked at Brenda.

Brenda walked over and helped Rose up from the ground, "Ms. Nandlall."

"Brenda." Rose grabbed her hand and said, "You just went to the hospital and saw Jimmy, right? Tell grandma, Jimmy looked terrible, right? He really wanted to kill himself, no kidding."

Leticia and Theresa heard this, and all looked at Brenda. Brenda put on a helpless look and said, "Sorry, I didn't see that."

Jimmy was indeed living in the hospital and looked pathetic, but may be because Brenda knew Jimmy well, so she didn't think he would die. But Rose cared about him too much to tell. Rose looked at Brenda, confused, "how could you...."

"Just go back and have a rest! You think the family who loved you so much would hurt you?"

Rose looked at Leticia, who was angry, and Theresa who had put on an indifferent look, saying, "You guys are so unsympathetic."

Leticia didn't care what she said and had Rose sent home.

After Rose was taken out, Leticia looked at Theresa and sighed, "How can she be so easily fooled? We used to take care of her because we were afraid of her getting hurt, but I never expected to let her become so naive."

Theresa sneered, "Jimmy is such a person. The same old trick. Rose is no match for him!"

She thought of the time when she had married him, and found out that he was impotent, but he could trick her into staying with him as if he loved her so much. Then he tricked her into getting pregnant... With his acting skills, it was a pity that he would not be the best actor.

People were all like this. If you had not gone through some detours, you might always feel that others are lying to you. Theresa thought of herself. She also used to be like that.

Leticia stayed to have lunch with Leonard and Ben. At noon, Charlie came. He came in and saw Leticia looking upset, then sat down and asked, "What's wrong? Who has upset you?"

"Who could it be? When Leticia talked about this, she was annoyed. "Rose was back?"

Charlie got up late today, so he didn't come till the noon. He nodded, "Yeah. Before I came out, I heard her making a fuss and she wouldn't eat. What's the matter with her?"

Chapter 818

By Jacqueline Chapter 818

Charlie knew there must be a reason why Leticia suddenly had her freedom restricted.

Leticia said, "She's crazy. She said she would break up with Jimmy yesterday, but last night Jimmy pretended to commit suicide, and she changed her mind."

Hearing this, Charlie subconsciously glanced at Theresa and said, "Jimmy would actually commit suicide?" Jimmy was so thick-skinned and scheming Charlie did not think he would commit suicide. Leticia said, "I don't think he will either, but he really scared Rose. She actually fell on her knees to Theresa to apologize for Jimmy. What does what Jimmy did have to do with her?"

Charlie looked at Leticia and said, "Don't be angry. I'm gonna go to the hospital to do an examination. I'll see Jimmy by the way."

"Okay. Make it clear to him. Tell him to leave Rose alone! He is so shameless!" Think of what Jimmy had done, Leticia only felt sick.

Theresa was eating. Charlie's eyes suddenly turned to her. "You wanna go with me?"

Theresa heard Charlie's words and said, "I have something to do later."

"It won't keep you from seeing Dick." Charlie seemed to know what she was thinking.

Theresa blushed. She was going to check Dick sleeping situation. Theresa now just wanted to fix him up and repay him. But speaking of seeing Jimmy, Theresa was also very interested. She would like to see how he had attempted suicide. So she agreed, "All right!"

Leticia looked at the two people, thinking it was good that Charlie took Theresa to see Jimmy. After all, Theresa wouldn't be able to let go until Jimmy's things was over. Leticia nodded and said, "Then I'll be home with Leonard and Ben and get there back."

Charlie nodded. So after lunch, Theresa and Charlie went out.

"I'll drive and take you to Dick later." Said Charlie.

Theresa heard said, "You won't cause any trouble, will you?"

Charlie gave her a look. "Did I cause any trouble when I sent you there last time? Why would you say that about me?"

Seeing his aggrieved look, Theresa just shut up.

After the two arrived at the hospital, Theresa accompanied Charlie to do the examination. He could already stand up, but he came regularly for check-ups. The doctor in charge of the examination and Theresa were also old acquaintances. After all, Theresa had accompanied Charlie here before. Theresa stood by, listening to the doctor tell Charlie about his condition, and did not say a word.

The doctor glanced at Theresa and said, "Dr. Cameron, you'll have to take care of him when you get back.

He is on his feet, but he need more rest and can't overwork himself."

Theresa took a look at Charlie, remembering the time when she and Charlie came, the doctor would communicate with her directly about many things. However, she had broken up with Charlie long ago. She felt kind of uncomfortable when the doctor said that, but she could only nod.

When they came out, Theresa followed Charlie in the corridor and said, "You didn't tell the doctor about our divorce?"

Chapter 819

Chapter 819

"There's no need to say that." Charlie said, "After all, it's a private matter."

Theresa said, "Well, that's right."

Charlie looked at her and said, "What? Are you under pressure to take care of me?"

"I just dare not care about you." Theresa said in a cold voice. She remembered that day when he had drunk, she had kindly let him sleep in her room, and the way he had behaved chilled her, so she could never care about him again.

Charlie heard her words and fell silent. Seeing this, Theresa also did not speak. The two went straight to Jimmy's ward.

Eric has come from home and was accompanying Jimmy. Seeing Theresa and Charlie here, he looked cold and asked, "What are you doing here?" Especially Theresa, after what she did to Jimmy, driving him to suicide, she actually showed up here!

Standing beside Charlie, Theresa glanced at Jimmy in the hospital bed and calmly said, "To see your son, of course."

Jimmy put on a livid face, staring at Theresa. He knew she would be here just to laugh at him! "You sure you're not here to see if I'm dead?" Said Jimmy.

"How do you know?" Theresa stood beside Charlie and looked at him curiously. "I heard that you are gonna die and I'm looking forward to it. Why you are still alive?"

Jimmy stared at Theresa, his face grim. He was the way he was just because of Theresa!

When Eric heard Theresa's words, he got irritated. What kind of person would make fun of someone who had attempted suicide? He stood up and said to Theresa, "Get out of here!"

Their whole family was very angry about Jimmy attempting suicide. So now even if Charlie was here, they didn't care. They wouldn't let Theresa walk all over them. Seeing Eric coming, Charlie raised his eyebrows and said, "Try her."

Eric held back his anger. See Charlie defend her, Eric was somewhat afraid. Although Charlie was young, when he got a cold face, he had the arrogance of a superior. Besides, the door was open, and there stood Charlie's men outside, so Eric wissed out.

Eric did not dare to do anything to Theresa, and just tried to Reason with Charlie, "Mr. Calsis, Jimmy is Rose's husband. Don't you think this is too much?"

Eric had long heard that Theresa and Charlie had divorced. He didn't know how these two people could show up together! But no matter what, Charlie had no reason to be so helpful to an outsider!

Charlie said, "Don't worry. I came here today just to see Jimmy and talk to him... About Rose."

"What do you want to talk about?" Jimmy was puzzled and looked at Charlie.

Theresa glanced at Charlie and said for him, "About your divorce, of course. What else is there to talk about?"

"Divorce? Jimmy felt displeased when heard this. "Where is Rose?"

Rose said she'd be here this afternoon. Jimmy was pretty sure that she was not mad at her anymore. But it seemed that the Calsis family would not allow her to associate with him!

"Jimmy, Rose already knows about the recording. She doesn't want to talk to you anymore. Will you stop pestering her?" Said Theresa.

Chapter 820

By Jacqueline Chapter 820

Jimmy snapped, "It's none of your business! She said she'd be here this afternoon."

Theresa sneered, "Sorry, aren't you dying? How come you don't look you are dying when you talk?"

Hearing this, Jimmy was choked. He was playing a suicidal, dying man. Theresa reminded him of that, and he restrained a lot. Theresa gave a contemptuous smile, looking at Jimmy. He could only fool little girls with his tricks.

When Eric saw Theresa act arrogantly in the ward, he said, "Mr. Calsis, look at her. She's bullying my son. Don't you think it's so unfair to help her?"

Charlie glanced at Theresa and said, "That's the kind of attitude a man like your son deserves. Theresa's right. We're here today to talk about the divorce. Soon Jimmy won't be part of our family!"

"Says who? Eric was not convinced. "When we brought Rose back, we gave you bride price. Now they have to divorce just because you want them to?"

"Oh," Theresa looked at Eric and said, "We got the bride price, so Rose has to be a slave to your family forever? Why can't we get a divorce? You think your son is good enough for Rose?" "You wicked girl!" Hearing this, Eric rushed over to beat Theresa regardless of Charlie's warning.

Eric was at the end of his patience. But as soon as he rushed over, he was held up. Charlie's men rushed in and took him down on the ground.

Jonathan stood aside, looking at Theresa. "Ms. Cameron, are you OK?"

Seeing this, Jimmy only felt headache. He turned to Theresa and asked, "Theresa, what do you want?"

"I didn't want anything. I just came and see you. But your father tried to beat me. Looks like your family has a violent streak."

Jimmy took a look at Charlie. He was standing next to Theresa. With him, they couldn't approach Theresa at all. Jimmy said, "Does Dick know that you two are here?"

He knew what Charlie hated most, so he was very good at driving a wedge between them. He deliberately mentioned Dick and sure enough, Charlie's face turned grim.

Theresa took a look at Charlie and said to Jimmy, "You think your provocations will help? You think if you mentioned Dick, Charlie's gonna side with you because he hates me?"

Jimmy took a look at Charlie. He did not understand why Charlie and Theresa could show up here at the same time. Jimmy wondered why Charlie didn't mind that Theresa was so close to Dick, and Dick was her kid's father.

Jimmy said to Theresa, "Theresa, I've been putting up with you for old time's sake, but now, you really get too far."

"I'm still far behind you, Mr. Watson." Theresa said modestly.

"You let my father go!" Yelled Jimmy.

As they spoke, Eric was held aside. Charlie did not speak, so his men did not release him. Eric was speechless, just lying there shouting, "Help! So hurt!"

Seeing this, Theresa had no sympathy for him. She would never forget on that day, Eric's birthday party, her father just passed by their house, but they treated her father like that.

"Who knows if I let him go, he'll hit me?" Said Theresa.

Of course, Jimmy could that Theresa was trying to spite him. He glared at Theresa and said, "Theresa, you made me quarrel with Rose, trying to get her to divorce me. I didn't get even with you for this. But you came to me?"

Chapter 821

By Jacqueline Chapter 821

Jimmy had planned to go after Theresa, too. But in order to keep Rose, he put it aside. He didn't expect that the one who started it had the nerve to show up.

Theresa said, "I know you have something to say, so I come to you. Am I considerate?"

Jimmy looked at Charlie standing aside. He knew it was because Charlie was here that Theresa dared to act so arrogantly. Jimmy asked Charlie, "Mr. Calsis, you really don't want me to be with Rose, right?" Charlie said, "You don't deserve to be with her."

Jimmy said with a self-deprecating smile, "Of course I know your family has always despised me. No matter what I do, I'm inferior in front of you. Even when Rose's grandmother wanted me to go back to the company, you tried to stop me."

"Why we despise you? Don't you know the reason?" Said Charlie.

"I'm poor, of course." Jimmy said, "My parents have no money. My family has no background. That's why you're bullying me at will."

"He he." Theresa laughed.

Jimmy took a look at her and asked, "You think it's funny?"

"Of course it's funny." Theresa said, "People like you can only blame your family for people's dislike of you. But Jimmy, when I was with you, did I ever despise your family? Or had I been hard on your parents since I married you?"

Jimmy choked when heard this. He turned to Theresa and said awkwardly, "It was all in the past!"

"In the past?" Theresa said, "What did you do to me at that time? Eh?"

"What did he do to you?" Eric, standing aside, snorted, "If you hadn't cheated on him, would he be disappointed in you?"

"Cheated?" Theresa looked at Eric with cold eyes.

How ridiculous! Until now, Jimmy still did not want to clarify with his family, and until now Eric still so thought his son was innocent. Upon hearing this, Theresa was furious!

Jonathan looked at Eric and said, "It seems that you do not know that your son is impotent and sterile. Your family wants a child, so you det Theresa and him go to the hospital for artificial insemination and have a baby! And that gives you reason to stander Theresa?"

Even Jonathan couldn't stand it. It could be imagined that how angry Theresa must be as a party.

Eric did not believe it at all. "Nonsense! She had cheated on Jimmy!"

"Huh? Jonathan said, "Then tell me, how can you be so sure?"

"If she didn't cheat, why didn't she explain all these years? She's been with a couple of guys! She's a slut! My son is not at fault!"

In this kind of person's eyes, it seemed that a woman should live with a man all her life. Otherwise, she would be considered to be lacking in virtue.

Theresa looked at him, amused.

Jonathan took a look at Eric, took his mobile phone, and played the recording he had not heard to him. Eric struggled at the beginning, but when hearing, he was losing his confidence.

Chapter 822

Chapter 822

"That's impossible!" Said Eric.

"Why? You don't even recognize your son's voice?" Theresa looked at Eric. "Don't you wanna know why your wife doesn't dare come to me now? Because she was afraid I would release the recording." Eric said, "Jimmy, is this really you?"

Jimmy sat on the hospital bed. He looked pretty calm when saw Jonathan play the recording. He had heard it more than once. Since Rose knew this, Jimmy wouldn't be surprised that Charlie knew that. He guessed they were prepared.

"Yes, Theresa and I did go to the hospital to get those two babies. And I signed it!" Said Jimmy.

Theresa raised her eyebrows and said to Eric, "Now you believe it?"

Eric was so arrogant that he thought he was justified, so he was not afraid. But he never thought that there would be such a big secret.

Charlie stood beside Theresa, looked at Jimmy, and said, "You clearly know about everything, but you still let your family slander and hurt Theresa?"

When Jimmy heard this, he knew that Charlie was going to pick on him. He said, "I was just saying a few words. Don't you only say something beneficial to yourself when you talk to others?"

Seeing that he could defend himself with such an excuse, Charlie said, "You are free to speak, but do you know you are hurting her?"

"If I hadn't hurt her, how would she have gotten to you guys?" Jimmy took a look at Theresa and now regretted divorcing her.

'I should never have divorced her! I should have made her my own forever and kept her away from other men!' Thought Jimmy.

Theresa was a little angry at what Jimmy had said. "So I should thank you?"

Charlie looked at Jimmy and said, "You don't have the most basic qualities as a man. No company would tolerate such a corrupt person as you!"

For Jimmy, these words were no surprise. He snorted, "What you can do is to fire me and not allow me to work. The law can't convict me, but you can, right, Mr. Calsis?"

Charlie looked at him and said, "You don't have to be so sarcastic. I didn't say that I wouldn't let you work. You are always welcome at Cameron's Group." He just wanted to watch Jimmy working hard for his family!

I.ne

Jimmy stared at Charlie. Charlie clearly knew that he had ambition and wanted to climb higher, but she just killed his hopes in that company. For people like Jimmy who wanted to get ahead, killing his dream. was worse than killing him.

Jimmy knew what he said in front of Charlie was useless, so he could only turn to Theresa. "Theresa, let I ask you again, are you really gonna push me like this?"

Theresa raised her eyebrows. "You deserve it. Jimmy, I could have dragged you down, but now it is just to let you divorce Rose, let you leave the company you are proud of. I've been kind enough to you."

Jimmy said, "Fine! You ruin my dream, ruin my marriage. I can break up with Rose. But you can't keep the kids with you. Now that we've talked about the kids, I want to get them back now!" "You want the kids?" Charlie looked at Jimmy. Last time Theresa talked about it, he was skeptical. Now Jimmy actually said it himself.

Eric echoed beside, "Since you say the kids are Jimmy's, then we will bring them back! Theresa's with someone else now anyway."

Chapter 823

Chapter 823

Eric defended his son after all. After hearing what Jimmy had said, he echoed. After all, he still thought Theresa had gone too far!

Charlie smiled and said, "You must be dreaming!"

Jimmy looked at Charlie and said, "You think that when I have nothing, I'll still be afraid of you? You can use your status to keep me from working. But can you help Theresa take the baby from me? Why do you think you can? You're divorced!"

The reason why he was so afraid of Charlie before was just to seek a better future. But now Charlie had blocked his future, so he was going to get Theresa into trouble.

After saying this, Jimmy took a look at Theresa. He did not believe that Theresa was not afraid. Jimmy was not afraid of her before, just worried about many things. But now, thanks to her, he had nothing to worry about! Charlie was not the father of the children, so he had no right to force him to give up his children.

Theresa listened to Jimmy, and did not say a word.

Charlie looked at Jimmy's self-righteous look and said, "Then have a try. I am looking forward to it."

Seeing Charlie's confident look, Jimmy said, "You may go back, then! Don't worry. I won't let you down."

Theresa looked at Jimmy then at Charlie. Then the two came out of Jimmy's ward and went to see Dick. On the way, Theresa looked at Charlie and said, "Why didn't you tell him that you are the kids' father?" "You didn't say either." Charlie gave her a look.

Sitting in the car, Theresa looked down at her fingers and said, "He doesn't know that the kids are yours.

If he knew, he'd give up! I'm bored. I just want to see him mess around."

Charlie looked at her and smiled. "So do I! I wish he would do something! He can't be worse off if he doesn't make any trouble."

Theresa raised her eyebrows. When they arrived at Dick's place, Charlie stopped the car, took a look at

Theresa and said: "I'm going with you!"

"Eh?" Theresa said, "Is that OK? You won't be upset when you see Dick?"

"Chandler is here recently. I won't make trouble with him. You can rest assured."

Charlie had much respect for

Chandler, and Dick also honored

Chandler, so in addition to fight.net

each other in work, they would not make a scene.

Hearing this, Theresa did not stop him. She knocked at the door, and the servant opened it and let her in.

"Where's Mr. White?"

"He's upstairs." "Said the servant, glancing at Charlie." "This is..."

"This is Charlie." Said Theresa.

"Oh, Mr. Calsis!" The servant looked at Charlie and didn't dare say anything.

When they entered the house, Theresa took a look at Charlie and said, "Suit yourself. I'll go see Dick."

Then she went upstairs. She found

Dick wearing pajamas, sitting on a sofa and reading a magazine. Theresa came in, sat down on another sofa next to him, looked at him, and asked, "How's it going?"

"I had a good sleep last night." Dick said like a good baby. Theresa made a point of telling him to try to sleep yesterday before she left, and he listened to her.

"How long?"

"Eight hours," Dick said.

"Didn't you ever wake up?" Theresa was not convinced.

Dick raised his head and looked at her, his eyes still a little tired. He didn't look like he had slept eight hours at all.

Dick said, "I can't sleep!" Lying in bed, he could not fall asleep and got more and more anxious.

Theresa glanced at him and said, "Let's get started."

Chapter 824

Chapter 824

Theresa was here to give him acupuncture.

Dick listened to her words, nodding. "Okay."

The room was quiet. Theresa was busy with acupuncture and occasionally chatted with Dick.

Charlie came up from downstairs and stood at the door, looking at the two people. Dick's room was large. The two were at the window, looking very close from a distance. Remembering the time when Theresa performed acupuncture on him, Charlie felt uncomfortable. He didn't know why he was here! He even wanted to go in there and stop them. But he knew Theresa would definitely be angry.

"Mr. Calsis." Charlie was looking carefully when Rawlins's voice rang out behind me. Charlie turned around and looked at Rawlins.

Rawlins was Dick's confidant, and was very loyal to Dick, so when seeing Charlie, he would not be too polite to him, but would say something harsh to him.

"What are you doing here? You don't seem to be on such good terms with my boss, do you?"

Charlie raised his eyebrows. "I sent Theresa here. Is there a problem?"

Rawlins glanced at Theresa and Dick inside and said, "Please have a seat downstairs. They are busy. Don't disturb them, okay?"

Charlie looked at Rawlins with some displeasure. "How can you see that I'm disturbing them? Besides, who are you to talk to me?"

Rawlins said, "Shall I ask Dr. Cameron out?"

Hearing this, Charlie froze for a moment and turned away. He sat down on the sofa and the servant got tea for him. Of course Charlie would not drink it. Who knows if they might have poisoned him? He didn't drink and Rawlins didn't care.

After Theresa and Dick finished, Rawlins came in and said to Dick, "Mr. White, Mr. Calsis is here." "Charlie?" Hearing this, Dick looked at Theresa, then turned to asked Rawlins, "Where is he?"

'Downstairs. It's been a while. He said he came with Dr. Cameron!"

Dick asked, "Did Charlie come with you?"

Theresa said, "I'm on his way."

"He's still pestering you, right? Dick stood up.

after listening to Theresa's "Now that he's here, I need to 2m."

"You are not gonna sleep?" Theresa asked Dick. She did not know why she always felt that when Dick heard the name of Charlie, he would become energetic. He was nothing like the guy she just saw!

Theresa looked him, helpless. But she still followed Dick downstairs. Knowing they weren't on good terms, Theresa was afraid they might fight. Charlie sat on the sofa and soon Dick also sat down.

Dick looked at the cup that was not moved in front of Charlie and said, "What brings you here, Mr. Calsis?"

Charlie looked at him and said, "Theresa was coming. I drove her here and drop by."

Dick raised his eyebrow and said, "It's very kind of you to take care of my fiancée."

Theresa's lips twitched. 'Fiancée? He is very capable of angering Charlie.'

The corners of Charlie's mouth twitched. He raised his head, looked at Theresa and said, "It's just a woman, Kdon't want. Why not let you have her? Well, I guess It's gonna be I hard for you to get a woman! Dr.

Cameron must have lost her mind So she fell for you."

Chapter 825

Chapter 825

Charlie put Theresa to nothing. She was originally not that angry about what had happened yesterday because Charlie had sided with her on Jimmy's thing. However, hearing his words, she was irritated again She looked at Charlie and said, "You..."

Dick held Theresa's hand and said, "Don't be angry. It doesn't matter what he thinks of you. In my eyes, you are the best! But Mr. Calsis, you seem to have a lot of time? You are so charming, but why instead of hanging around with your woman, you're pestering my fiancée?"

Dick's hands were cold. He was usually very polite. After the last time Theresa refused to get married, Dick did not mention again. He was obviously saying this to piss Charlie off on purpose! Seeing this, Charlie looked grim but did not get angry. He was already trying to accept that they would get married! Charlie stood up and said, "You're right. I gotta go, to see my girlfriend! I wish you happiness!"

He said the last word through gritted teeth. His eyes fell on Theresa. Originally he wanted to make Dick. angry by sending Theresa here. However, he became the one who got angry. He didn't expect that he'd be the clown.

Theresa saw him leave with anger, then looked at Dick. Dick let go of her hand, smiled and said, "Sorry, I just like to see Charlie angry. You should also like it, right?"

"You're boring. Mr. White." Theresa commented.

"Life is so boring, so we should do something fun. What do you think?"

"It seems that Charlie is very important to you. Every time you see him, you are so fresh."

Dick was speechless.

Theresa smiled and said, "I gotta go!"

"By the way, I heard that Jimmy attempted suicide."

"Yes! Theresa said, "I just came from the hospital."

"How is he?"

"Pretty well!" Theresa said. "Don't worry. He's not gonna die."

"I will deal with the matter of your company in person. You can rest assured." Said Dick.

Theresa took a look at Dick and said, "By the way, I want to tell you this thing."

"What?"

Theresa said, "Charlie said he would take care of the company's matter."

When Dick heard this, his eyes darkened. "You agreed?"

Theresa said, "My father agreed! I came to you before because I was afraid that Charlie would do something harmful to the company after divorced him. But he has no idea about the company now, if you are busy, you can leave the company alone for the time being."

Dick looked at Theresa and said, "I would say no." "Why?" Theresa thought it would save him trouble.

"I always

I

help me with my treatment, so net

ou what I promise. You should help you with your company." t belongs to sw

Theresa had a headache when she saw his persistence. She said, "But Charlie... He has shares in the company and has invested a lot of money in it. There's gonna be a fight if you two work together." "Don't worry." Dick said, "I won't take it out on your company."

Chapter 826

Chapter 826

Theresa was still thinking about the company while she walking out of Dick's house. When she came out, she found Charlie's car was still there. She thought he had gone, but his car was still parked at the door. She hesitated for a while, went to him and knocked on the window.

Charlie was in a daze. Hearing the knock on the window, he turned and took a look at Theresa and then unlocked the door. Theresa opened the door and asked, "You haven't gone back yet?" "Waiting for you." Charlie sat in his seat coldly.

Theresa looked at him. "I told you not to come! You know how much Dick hates you!" There was nothing going on, but Dick had to mess it up.

"I like it! Charlie said, "None of your business."

Hearing this, Theresa looked at him without saying a word.

"Get in!" Said Charlie.

Theresa took one look at him and got into his car. She found that the man who was self-righteous before now could accept the drudgery.

Theresa turned to Charlie and said, "Hey, Charlie, you have so much time on your hands these days. Why don't you find yourself a girlfriend?"

Hearing this, Charlie was stunned for a moment and asked in a dull voice, "What do you mean?"

"I'm gonna get married with Dick, anyway. You should also move on. So you don't have to worry about me anymore and it won't bother you to see a twice-divorced woman."

Charlie felt depressed and soon became rational again. He told himself that there was nothing wrong with what Theresa had said. It was his problem that he had become angry! After all, they didn't really have much to do with each other. And there was nothing wrong with her saying that.

He said, "Right! You can hook me up with a girl."

Theresa looked at him and was stunned.

"What kind of girl do you like?" She answered, not showing her surprise.

a

Charlie thought for a moment and said, "It's not important what I like. What's important is that what Leonard and Ben like. After you and Dick get married, kids will stay with me, right? So I should find them: stepmother they like, avoiding meeting a girl like Sarah, don't know what I am supposed to do if the children won't talk to me."

Theresa's mouth twitched at his words. She was really stumped.

Charlie looked at her being silent and said, "Why don't you speak? Now you start to worry about your sons? I've thought about it. You've done so much for these two kids over the years. It's hard for you keep them after all you've suffered, when Jimmy was doing that to you. Now it's your right to find your happiness. I didn't do anything for them as a father. Love is dispensable to me. It doesn't matter who I'm with. I'll be good to the children. Don't worry!"

ณ

He had begun to arrange things after she and Dick got married. Theresa looked at him and felt something strange.

She said, "Actually, I'm not sure if I'm gonna marry him."

"You know Charlie said, "Chandler said that his father would not agree. If you really want to be with him, it's gonna take a lot of detours. It might not be safe for the children to stay with you!"

The more he talked, the more horrible Theresa felt. She did not know how to answer his words.

On the way, Charlie drove the car, silent. Theresa was silent for a while, looked at the man driving, and said, "Charlie."

"What?" His voice was cold.

Theresa said, "Let we talk after Jimmy's thing is over."

Theresa planned that when it was all over, she would tell him clearly about Dick's matter.

Chapter 827

Chapter 827

In the morning, Theresa woke up and called her father. Johnson answered the phone and asked, "What's up?"

Theresa said, "Dad, are you at home today? I'll come to give you acupuncture."

Johnson said, "I'm going to the office today. You can come later!"

Theresa checked the calendar, only to realize today was the opening day. It was already the eighth day! Time flies, and the New Year holiday had passed in the blink of an eye.

"You are not well enough. Aren't you supposed to rest at home? Let someone else take care of the company." Said Theresa.

Now that her father was getting older, Theresa hoped he could take good care of himself, instead of being busy at work.

"I'm fine. After you gave me acupuncture, I feel much better. Tess, you're really getting more professional." Said Johnson.

It was the first time Theresa had heard her father praise her about her acupuncture. She smiled and said, "I owe it all to my master. I'll take you to him sometime!" Speaking of Leo, Theresa felt kind of guilty for she had been busy these days and had not visited him. So she thought she would get a chance to see him. "Okay." Said Johnson.

"Alright, you go to the office and I'll go directly there to meet you. And I haven't been of any help to you. with the affairs of the company, so I can take a look." Johnson nodded. "OK."

Theresa got up soon because she had an appointment with her father at the office. She went downstairs and found the two little ones already up and sitting at the table. Charlie was there, too. Charlie and Theresa came back together last night and had dinner at home.

Theresa looked at Charlie and said, "You didn't leave last night?"

Brenda said, "Mr. Calsis came in the morning."

Charlie was formally dressed today because he had to go to work later.

Glancing at the clock, Theresa was surprised and said to Charlie, "When did you get up?"

Charlie looked very handsome in a suit with slicked back hair. He looked at her and said, "Why do you care about me?"

Theresa watched him being ungrateful and said, "Fine, I'm sorry!" She sat down beside him and muttered, "I just thought it was hard for you to get up so early. So ungrateful."

Her voice was very small, but Charlie still heard her. "Not hard at all. I want to see my sons." Charlie said and he looked at Leonard and Ben, "I got their teacher and she will come this afternoon."

After Theresa brought her two children out, the tutors she had been giving them stopped. Now that he had to start to work, he couldn't be with the kids every day, so he had called a tutor so they could learn something.

"Thank you." Said Theresa.

When Charlie heard her words, he frowned and said, "Theresa, I'll turn against you if you say that again." "As if you hadn't turned against me!" Theresa felt that Charlie was turning against her. After all, he talked as if she owed him money!

Charlie glared at her and said, "I shouldn't care about my own sons?"

"You should." Theresa said, "I shouldn't have been nice, worried you're too busy."

"Don't worry. I can't sleep anyway." Said Charlie.

Chapter 828

Chapter 828

"Why can't you sleep?" Theresa looked at him. Maybe because recently she was worrying about Dick, now she got worried when people said they couldn't sleep.

Charlie saw her look at him with a serious look and was stunned. He was surprised that she would be concerned about him.

Theresa and Charlie looked at each other. She could only look away when he looked at her and did not answer. "I forget he said he would keep me out of his business!" She thought.

Not wanting to offend Charlie by talking. Theresa soon finished her meal. After that, she looked at the two little ones and said, "I'm going to Grandpa's office. You guys wanna go with me?" When the two heard this, their eyes lit up at the same time. "Yes!"

Charlie glanced at the two children and said to Theresa, "Are you taking them?"

"Yeah, we should be able to get back at noon. I don't take them out much."

Charlie said, "I wanna go, too."

"Huh? Theresa looked at Charlie. "You don't have to go to work?"

"I said I would be in charge of the Cameron's Group."

Theresa looked at Charlie in surprise and said, "Are you serious?"

"No kidding." Charlie checked he time and said, "I'll go to the office first and look for you later. We can have lunch together!"

"OK." Answered Theresa.

After breakfast, Theresa took the two children to the Cameron's Group. After arriving, she first went to Johnson's office. When she entered the office, she actually met Jimmy. He stood there, wearing formal clothes and was not the frail man he had been in the hospital yesterday. Although still a little haggard, he was clearly getting into working state and asking someone to take care of some business.

Theresa was surprised to see him now. And Jimmy soon saw Theresa too. Theresa was not afraid, and took the initiative to speak, "Mr. Watson, what are you doing here? Shouldn't you be in the hospital recovering?"

"I work here now. Why can't I come? Do you think your father's company would have survived if it wasn't for me?" Said Jimmy.

He had been in charge of the company until the end of last year.

I.n

ex

Now that people started to work, course he should come back. Jimmy had now accepted his fate. He knew that he cannot leave the company, so he simply worked hard.

Leonard and Ben stood behind Theresa. The two little ones were wearing hats, and their big eyes were exposed.

Jimmy recognized the two little guys and said to Theresa, "What a good mother you are. You don't care about your own children, but you are here to take care of Charlie's children!" Theresa raised her eyebrows. "I like them. You have any problem?"

"No wonder Charlie helped you so much, just for the sake of these two boys! Theresa, if you don't want those kids, just give them to me! Don't hide my children."

Hearing this, Leonard clenched Theresa's hand.

Theresa looked at Jimmy and said, "I told you, the children will not be given to you. You can come and take them if you want."

Jimmy looked at Theresa with his eyes dark and cold. "I've already got a lawyer. I'll Sue you in a few days!"

Hearing this, Theresa raised her eyebrows. She was not worried at all, and even look forward to seeing Jimmy get slapped in the face. "As you please." She said. Jimmy probably would not have thought that no matter how well prepared he was, he was destined to be busy in vain.

Theresa was ready to take the two children upstairs when she saw a car stopped at the door. It was none other than Dick that came. Rawlins helped Dick open the door, and Dick walked down from the car. He looked in good spirits in his black coat.

Leonard recognized him at once and called out, "It's Uncle Dick."
