

Chapter 70 I Want You to Kneel And Apologize

After hearing this, Richard sneered, "That's right. I did them all, and so what?"

If you did them, you should dare to admit it, but what can you do if you admit it?

"Mr. President, asking Caroline to leave my family is my decision alone; it has nothing to do with my daughter Coco and my son-in-law Wendell. If you want to take revenge, you can just come to me. You shouldn't hurt Coco. She is innocent!"

Mark tried to calm himself down.

"I am taking revenge?" Richard sneered, "Do you think the South Group is worth my revenge?"

Mark looked at Richard's eyes, a pair of dark and deep eyes; even at his age, Mark still felt that Richard's eyes were scary.

"Mr. Preston, what exactly do you want to do? My daughter and son-in-law did not do anything wrong, so please let them go," Mark said, almost begging.

Mark could put down his dignity if Richard could let him go.

"Let them go? Why?" Richard sneered again.

Mark held his breath and then said, "Coco and Caroline are sisters. Caroline and Wendell grew up together; I believe Caroline does not want her sister and her childhood friend to be in trouble."

Hearing this, Richard felt amused, "So you are asking me to let them go for Caroline's sake?"

Mark hung his head for a long time before saying, "Yes."

"That's really funny!" Richard snorted coldly, "Do you remember what I said when the agreement was signed? I said that in the future, the Fowler family's business had nothing to do with Caroline anymore."

"Now legally you have no relationship with Caroline. Your daughter Coco was born to you and other women, so since you severed your relationship with Caroline, Caroline has no relationship with Coco," Richard continued.

"Mr. Preston," Mars said.

Richard raised his hand and continued, "I warned you not to go begging Caroline when things go wrong in the future, but you still end up coming."

"I am desperate! I have no other choices. Mr. Preston, please let us go. If you can let me go, I will resume paternity with Caroline right now," Mark said.

"It's too late to do this right now," Richard said to Mark indifferently.

Mark was silent for a while and then said, "Then...what do you want?"

"I want you to kneel and apologize to Caroline," Richard's cold eyes squinted slightly.

Mark stared at Richard with widened eyes, "She is my daughter! How can a father kneel to his daughter?!"

"Mark, it seems that you don't have a good memory. You have signed a paternity severance letter with Caroline; you are not her father any longer."

Mark was so angry that he couldn't speak; he didn't expect Richard to make such a demand!

"If you want me to let you go, you have to show a little sincerity; If you can't do such a simple thing, why did you come to beg me?" Richard stood up, "Mark, you can leave now."

John walked to Mark, "Please, this way. Mr. Fowler; You must suffer a lot when you came by a fishing boat. So I will arrange a boat to send you back."

Mark stood up, "Richard, you will be struck by lightning if you bully others like this!"

"Really? Then I have to wait for a while. I have never seen such a spectacle," Richard didn't care.

Mark glared at Richard angrily, "Tell Caroline, if she insists on hating us, then don't blame me for being unrighteous! She will never be my daughter again!"

"Don't worry. Caroline is now glad that she doesn't have you as her father," Richard said.

Mark left straight away from the living room.

After Mark left, Richard smiled blandly and was about to go back to accompany Caroline.

Tom opened his mouth, "Mr. Preston, there are a few urgent documents you need to handle."

Richard was very unhappy, but in the end, he still went with Tom to check the documents.

In the bedroom, Caroline was sleeping sweetly when she was awakened by the phone ringing.

She was so dazed that she didn't even open her eyes. She went to touch her phone and her eyes squinted into slits, and then she pressed the call button.

"Hello..." Caroline was still very sleepy.

"Caroline, you will get retribution for doing this! Don't forget that I raised you up. Even if the relationship is severed, it was I who gave you the life!"

The irritable voice startled Caroline, and when she was about to speak, the phone hung up.

Caroline was awakened and sober; she hurriedly opened the call log and looked at the phone number. It turned out that her father had just called.

Hasn't our relationship already been severed? How come he scolded her like that? She thought and was confused. She was in a bad mood because she was in her period.

Caroline was so aggravated!

She threw the phone away, turned it over, and went back to sleep.

She slept until late afternoon. When Richard finally finished his business, he came back to the bedroom; as soon as he came in, he saw Caroline blinking her big eyes and staring at the ceiling.

He smiled and sat by the bed, "What's wrong? Does your stomach still hurt?"

The tone of his voice was very gentle.

"A little," Caroline replied.

"Are you hungry? Do you want to eat something?" Richard asked.

If he didn't mention it, she wouldn't feel hungry. She stretched out a hand towards Richard, "Pull me up."

Richard put his hand out and pulled Caroline up.

"I'm hungry," Caroline said.

"Then I will take you to eat something," Richard said.

Caroline freshened up and went to the restaurant with Richard.

The table was already full of various delicacies, but the taste was light. The ribs were made into rib soup, and several fried meat dishes were also light in taste.

"Richard, are you deliberately not letting me eat well? I am a heavy-taste person! Are you treating me like a beggar?" Caroline was not satisfied with the light flavor of the dishes.

Richard ignored Caroline's complaints, but picked up a small bowl and personally served Caroline a bowl of pork rib soup.

"You have a cold and in your period, so it's not suitable for you to eat something heavy; these light foods are just right for you," Richard explained.

When saying that, Richard put the soup in front of Caroline. Caroline pouted, wanting to go on a hunger strike, but she was so hungry that she had to pick up a spoon and start eating.

"Only when you eat well will you get better quickly. When you are better, I will take you out to eat delicious food. You can then eat whatever you like," Richard comforted Caroline.

"Well..." Caroline nodded and accepted Richard's reason.

Richard reached out and touched Caroline's head, "Good girl."

At that moment, Caroline felt an electric current passing through her body from Richard's palm!

John walked over, looking flustered, and whispered in Richard's ear for a while.

Richard instantly frowned.

Caroline looked at them and had a sense of foreboding.

Reward

6

Comments

0

15:39

Marry My Rich Uncle

32.3%