

Master Odell 1231

Chapter

1231 She lay still and allowed the breeze to wrap her with chilliness. Her tears uncontrollably trickled down the edge of her eyes.

The man obviously used her as a tool to vent his sexual desires.

At Carter Residence, Westchester City, Odell grabbed his phone and went to the balcony after his wife practically shoved him out of bed.

Sylvia followed him to the balcony with a worried heart.

After the call, she asked, "How's Sherry?"

Odell furrowed his brows. "My men were arranged to work in other places. They are not in the Stockton's residence, so they have no updates on her." Sylvia's eyes shrunk in shock. She asked, "They were all transferred somewhere else?"

"Mm-hmm. John might have found out that they are my men."

The depressing news fueled Sylvia's anxiety. "He's as cunning as a fox!"

Julie looked towards Sherry's window. The window was open, which allowed her to see Sherry reading a book. Her gaze slightly changed. She maintained the smile and said to Shannon, "Alright. I'll go by myself."

Shannon nodded and saw Julie walk inside.

She took a deep breath and left the employee's dorm.

A few steps later, Julie turned around and saw Shannon disappearing from her sight. She grinned and thought, 'Shannon, I'm looking forward to how you are going to make Sherry disappear from the Stocktons'.

John came by around four o'clock in the evening that day.

Sherry was soundly asleep and did not even notice the creaking door. She only opened her eyes when she felt the intense pressure on top of her, making it difficult to breathe. Before she could make a noise though, he sealed her mouth with a violent kiss and ravaged her body at will. Sherry furiously clawed his back, leaving her frustration

"There's no surveillance or recorder here. Just speak," Sherry said.

John might have been a bastard, but he came here only to have sex with her. He would not be that stupid to record it and have his reputation ruined.

Sherry had checked the room multiple times but did not find anything. With that assurance, Shannon lowered her guard. She tossed the breakfast on the table and said, "Sherry, do you still want to leave the Stocktons' residence?"

Sherry squinted. "Do you have a way?" Shannon said, "There will be a dinner here in three days. Guests will come, and most of the servants will be at the event hall working to serve the guests. You can use that opportunity to escape." Sherry pondered about the suggestion. "Shannon, I'm quite far away from the event hall, and there are bodyguards at the entrance and the gate, so how am I supposed to leave undetected?"

Shannon frowned. "I still haven't come up with a viable solution. If you really want to leave, that night will be your best opportunity." Sherry pondered further. "Are you really going to help me? Is this going to be another trap of yours?"

John turned around to her cold and sulky expression after he hung his jacket up.

With a grin, he walked over to her. He caught a glimpse of the dinner by her bed, so he asked, "Why haven't you had your dinner?"

Sherry ignored him.

John sat on the edge of the bed. "Lost your appetite?"

"You made me lose my appetite," Sherry snapped.

John smiled while he started to unbutton his shirt. "It's okay. You can eat later when you feel better."

Sherry wanted to roll her eyes again, but before she could, he continued, "Or else, I won't let you sleep tonight."

Sherry was silenced by the disgusting suggestion and glared at him in return.

He smiled bewitchingly. "Your choice."

He released her chin after that.

Chapter 1236 The next morning, Sherry woke up to John's absence.

He left nothing behind, not even his warmth on the bed. It was as though he never came last night.

Sherry got out of bed and opened the window. The morning sun warmed her body up as she stretched to get rid of the sleepiness.

It was then that she caught a glimpse of a figure standing behind the tree outside the employees' quarters. She squinted to have a better look and saw Celine.

Celine signaled her with an 'okay' sign before leaving.

Sherry subtly pulled her gaze away and looked downstairs. The two bodyguards were still on duty.

She then closed the window and returned to the room.

She saw Celine waiting for her there.

Celine was surprised to see her in the maid's uniform. She whispered, "Come with me."

Sherry followed her to the dark and whispered back, "How is Shannon going to help me get out of this place?"

Celine snorted. "Just follow me and you'll know."

Everyone in the Stocktons' residence must be at the event hall because they did not bump into anyone a long the way.

After sneaking along the shortcut for ten minutes, Sherry followed Celine to a lively front yard. Music and chatter permeated the air. This must be where the event was held.

Sherry asked, "Why did you

The man's expression changed. He sighed a breath of relief and smiled. "Alright, I'll do just that! I'm so sorry that this happened! Please excuse us!"

He then brought his son away.

Just when Sherry wanted to answer, Celine suddenly turned and hid behind the trees.

Sherry immediately held her breath and peeked through the gaps in the bushes and trees.

Two figures walked out of the event hall and were walking along the garden by the main path. John was in the lead while Julie was following him.

Julie asked, “John, are you going to see Ms. Fowler?”

John glanced at her. “What’s the matter?”

Julie said in a small voice, “Nothing really. I just saw that Shannon’s got a little condition tonight, so I was thinking if you could just check on her.”

"Lock down the place. Seal the main gate and every other possible exit. No one leaves the premises."

The bodyguards immediately ran out upon receiving the order.
