

Master Odell 1311

Chapter 1311

Shermaine looked at Sylvia again and said with a sincere expression, "Mrs. Carter, Master Carter and I are innocent. We-".

"Let's go, Charles," Sylvia said to Charles. She did not spare Shermaine a glance and simply turned to leave.

Charles sneered at Shermaine. "Sylvia is smart, so you can save your little tricks for the fools instead."

Christopher patted him. "Alright, that's enough."

The two men then followed Sylvia out.

Shermaine frowned and immediately put on an aggrieved expression. "Assistant Bogard, you know that there's really nothing between Master Carter and me."

Cliff comforted her, "I know. Mrs. Carter is still angry at Master Carter and only ignored you because of him. Don't take offense."

in shining armor. As long as she acted realistically, she might be able to jump into Odell's arms and weep, making him pity her more. Unexpectedly, Sylvia turned up and even insisted on defending that fool and annoying Odell. However, what surprised Shermaine even more was that Odell stood up for her while disregarding Sylvia. Christopher walked straight toward the spot where he parked his car. Sylvia also walked toward the place she parked. She frowned tightly, and her chest felt suffocated, making it hard to breathe.

Even Christopher could see that there was something wrong with Shermaine , so it did not seem like she was overreacting. "Stop."

Suddenly, a low and familiar voice rang out.

Sylvia stopped and looked over.

A black MPV was parked just to her right. Odell's straight figure was leaning against the car, and his dark gaze was fixed on her. His face looked gloomy and seemed to exude unhappiness.

Sylvia's expression turned cold. She turned her head and continued to walk forward.

"I said, stop. Did you not hear me?" he called out to her again.

Not only did Sylvia pretend not to hear him, but she even quickened her pace.

Odell frowned and immediately stepped toward her, chasing after her.

A surge of anger welled up.

Odell gave the bodyguard a cold look, then walked around the outer wall of the mansion toward the back door.

A few minutes later, Ben and Odell's driver both followed him to the back door.

Odell looked at Ben and the driver. While the two pursed their lips and crouched down beside the wall, Odell backed up a few steps. Then, he sprinted forward, using their shoulders as a springboard, and climbed up the wall in one leap. A few moments later, he landed firmly on the ground with both feet and walked toward the house with his long legs. At this time, Madam Carter had long since retired to bed, and the three little ones were in their respective rooms.

Isabel was also deep asleep. Flint was also sleeping soundly by his brother's side. Liam was reading, but he was always disciplined, so Sylvia did not have to say anything to nag him. After Sylvia entered, she passed by their rooms one by one to check up on them, then went straight back to her bedroom.

There was still a fire burning in her chest. She dropped the clutch in her hand, subconsciously walked to the balcony, and looked toward the courtyard gate.

Odell frowned. "She hasn't made any mistakes at work, so I can't fire her."

"Then, find a reason to fire her." "She does her job well. I can't find a reason for now."

Sylvia said coldly, "Admit it, you just don't want to fire her!"

Odell pursed his lips, frowning deeply. His gaze was gloomy. It seemed like he was forcing down his temper. The strength of his arms around her was also obviously not as tight as before. Sylvia's heart instantly clenched. She pushed him away hard and strode out to the wardrobe while wrapped in a bath towel.

She grabbed the towel in front of her body with one hand to prevent it from falling and pushed open the cabinet with the other hand to get her clothes, intending to leave after getting dressed. "Where are you planning to go?" The man's gloomy voice sounded from the door. Sylvia ignored him and continued to take the clothes from the wardrobe.

Odell's eyes darkened. In the next second, he stepped behind her and picked her up by her waist.

Sylvia immediately raised her voice. "Odell Carter! Put me down!"

Odell’s gaze was stunned for a moment, then he said, “Go out and do your own thing. Don’t bother about anything else.”

The words that sounded comforting made Shermaine’s heart rejoice, but she simply said, “Yes, sir.”

Then, she walked out.

Odell immediately closed his eyes to rest.

Odell glanced at him and saw that he was staring at the child in his arms and could not help but ask, "Do you take the child with you everywhere you go?"

"Yes, my Caprice can't leave my side, and I don't feel comfortable leaving her at home alone."

Soon, John returned to the car with Caprice in his arms.

The driver, bodyguard, and Aunt Wanda were in the car. These were the people he brought with him when he went out almost anywhere for the past two years.

After getting into the car, he said to the driver, "Go to the Carters' residence."

Then, he said to Aunt Wanda, "Take out some snacks for me."

"Sure." Aunt Wanda immediately took out a box of small snacks from her bag. They were all Caprice's favorites.

John opened the box and handed it to her.

Caprice sat in his arms, holding the box in her hands. Her stubby little hands picked up the crackers and put them in her mouth. The way she ate was a little slow, much like

Sylvia's expression changed, and she looked at him. "You went to look for him?"

"Yeah, but he seemed very busy, so I came here."

Sylvia said nothing.

John continued, "By the way, when did Master Carter change his secretary?"

Sylvia frowned, and her expression also turned cold." Some time ago."

John took in her expression. It seemed like she knew about the change of secretary. However, according to her expression, she did not seem to like his new secretary very much.

"I think she looks a little similar to you. My Caprice almost mistook her for you at first glance." After a pause, he asked, "Are you two related?"

Sylvia's replied in a cold voice, "No."

"Then, who introduced her to Master Carter as a secretary? She looks quite young and doesn't seem very qualified."

Sylvia looked at him in displeasure. "If you're interested in her, just ask Odell directly. Why are you asking me?"

John smiled at her. "You've misunderstood. I'm just curious. I'm not interested in her type."

For two years, that woman never posted anything on any of her social media accounts. John did not know if it was because she blocked him, or if she simply did not update her status.

After thinking for a while, he typed out a message, "Odell is having an affair. He's cheating on Sylvia with his little secretary who looks like Sylvia."

Then, he copied it and sent it to all her social media accounts, including her email.

Then, he put his phone back into his pocket, held Caprice, and closed his eyes.

It was another night of sleeping alone.

Late at night, after seeing the three little ones go to sleep, Sylvia returned to the bedroom. Her phone rang just as she was about to go to bed.

She picked up the phone and saw a message from Sherry, "Syl, what happened? Did that damned man have another affair?"

Sylvia's lips twitched downward. "Where did you hear that from?"

"That sh*tty John sent me another email and said that Odell is having an affair with his secretary."
