

Master Odell 1591

Chapter 1591

She had been planning to take Caprice away while he was away from home!

John hung up the phone and said to Peter, "Peter, contact the two main airports in Glenchester and tell them my daughter has been kidnapped by a human trafficker. They are leaving on a plane, so tell them to seal all the exits and entrances. If they see Caprice or Sherry, save Caprice and apprehend Sherry!"

He shouted the last sentence due to his anger.

Peter nervously said, "Yes, sir! I'll contact them right away!"

John propped his forehead on his hand.

After Peter made the necessary calls, he said, "Sir, I've contacted the airports and sent them Ms. Fowler and Ms. Caprice's pictures. Once they go near the airports, they will be apprehended."

"Mm-hmm..." John's grim expression looked slightly relieved. Then, he added, "Clear the schedule for today. Book a ticket back to Glenchester right away."

Peter cautiously glanced at his boss's terrible expression and said in a small voice, "Yes, sir."

Meanwhile, Madam Stockton's car had just left the residential area of the Stocktons. She had seen Sherry's car before, and in order to better locate the car, she sat in the passenger's seat and glued her eyes on the road.

not spot a single car along the road leading there. It had been a while since she left the house, was worried

she bellowed at

there were no cars on the road, the

Ding!

Stockton's phone rang.

Emerance, her loyal answered the

Wanda and Jason. They said Ms. Fowler told them to take a day off, but Wanda heard that Ms. Fowler was bringing Ms. Caprice out alone, and Jason said she was going out without Ms. Caprice. She even said

Stockton's expression turned grim. "She's trying to divert their attention! She doesn't want them

"I'm afraid so."

that the

looked at him.

ahead of us,

and saw a truck heading towards them. Her expression

Chapter 1592

The tree leaves rustled as the car caught fire.

It was then that another white MPV passed by from the other side.

Caprice widened her eyes and pointed outside the window. "Mommy, the car is on fire!"

Sherry looked outside the window and spotted the burning car. The more she looked at it, the more familiar the car looked.

"Brandon! Stop the car! Stop the car!" she cried.

Brandon stopped the car by the roadside.

Sherry put Caprice aside and patted her head. "Caprice, be a good girl and stay here."

Caprice nodded and hummed a reply.

"Brandon, open the trunk, and call 911! Keep an eye out for Caprice as well!"

don't you leave it and

got out of

for her, and she took the fire extinguisher out. She on the road other than hers, and if she waited for the authorities, the burning car might either turned on the fire extinguisher, strong and was

Sherry spotted Madam Stockton and the driver inside the car. Both of them were unconscious with blood trickling from could not open it with her bare hands. She started to pound on the handle release Madam Stockton's seatbelt and dragged was dragging Madam Stockton out, the lady said, "Caprice is in the car. She's fine. Hold on, words calmed her down, but

Chapter 1593

The paramedics swiftly admitted Madam Stockton and the driver to the Emergency Department.

Sherry was held off at the entrance. She stood by the wall and called John.

For some reason, she could not reach him and it showed that he had turned off his phone. She tried calling him a few times but still could not reach him, so she decided to call Queenie instead.

The call got through in a second. Queenie's clear voice sounded on the other end of the call, "Sherry, why are you calling me this early? Are you going out again?"

Sherry took a deep breath and said, "Queenie, listen to me carefully. Your mother got into a car crash."

"WHAT?!" Queenie screamed.

"I saw a burning car by the roadside, and it was your mother's car."

"Where is she now?" Queenie asked in a trembling voice.

just been admitted into the ER at Glenmarie Hospital."

on my way!"

The call ended.

but still could not get through.

might be busy working,' she thought.

put the phone away and leaned back against the wall. She planned to to the gate after receiving the call from Sherry. Her car was parked in the get into the car, however, Julie came in and stopped

she asked out of curiosity.

eyes got teary and she said, "Julie, Mom's been in a car horrified look and said, "Mother went Queenie asked, "Why was she going after Sherry? It was Sherry who informed expression shifted once more. "Sherry told you? How did she know Mother

Mom's car burning by Julie's brows furrowed.

should have been running away with Caprice. How did she spot

Chapter 1594

The corridor outside the ER room was exceptionally quiet.

A while later, Sherry decided to call John again, but she still could not reach him.

Sherry pursed her lips. She called Brandon and said, "Brandon, have you brought Caprice home?"

Brandon said, "We just arrived home. Aunt Wanda is taking care of her, and the bodyguard is here as well. Don't worry."

Aunt Wanda? Jason?

Should Aunt Wanda not be out shopping with her friend?

Should Jason not be resting?

Could they have returned home?

Sherry found it odd. She wanted to call Aunt Wanda to confirm it, but Queenie and Julie had arrived.

Queenie's eyes were teary as she strode in, and there was also an obvious hint of anger.

Sherry was baffled by her reaction.

her and stared at her. "Sherry, why were you taking Caprice

How did

and angry at the same time, and the Slap!

She slapped Sherry.

slap sent her stumbling backward, and didn't go after you and Caprice, she wouldn't have gotten into widened her eyes. "She doing this? Did John treat did you take Caprice emotions went out of control. She angrily pushed Sherry backward and sent her falling to the fall, but for some reason, she did not feel any pain. Her mind was filled with

She said, "Queenie, calm down.

snorted. Her eyes remained bloodshot and teary as she screamed, "Sherry, if anything happens to Mom, I will make you pay for it! And I will never state, furrowed her brows

into a

Because of her?!

steadily

reminded the passengers to leave nothing

Chapter 1595

Julie choked on her words for a moment and said, "John, it's Mother..."

The man frowned. His tone sounded anxious when he said, "Mother? What happened to her?"

Julie cried and continued, "Mother got into a car crash. She went after Sherry and somehow crashed into a tree. She's still inside the ER, and it has been two hours now."

John's handsome face turned cold and suspicious. He gulped and asked in a hoarse voice, "Which hospital?"

Back in the corridor outside the ER room, Julie stood at the corner further away while making the call.

After that, she kept her phone and returned to the entrance of the ER where Queenie was sitting on the bench quietly.

Julie sat down beside her and glanced at Sherry who was sitting further away. She said to Queenie, "Queenie, I just called John."

Queenie looked at her. Even Sherry, who had been squatting for a while, turned to her.

of the plane and he's on his hummed a reply in

as if she was hung over some sharp icicles

into minutes, and minutes into just when Sherry was about to lose consciousness, a set of familiar footsteps saw the man coming closer to her in his usual kindness and gentleness. Only a grim frostiness could be seen

"John!"

bolted up right

She said as she sobbed, frowned. He scanned over them with an emotionless gaze and then landed his for such a long time robbed her ability to get on her feet, so she remained crouched. She looked at the man timidly and said in a small Screech!

ER doors finally with Julie behind her. John also walked

Chapter 1596

Sherry felt as if her feet were made of lead. She wanted to approach to get a closer look, but her feet would not move. Even her voice had escaped her entirely. As much as she wanted to speak up, she had difficulty even forming a whisper.

Soon, Madam Stockton was wheeled away.

Queenie marched rapidly and nervously next to the crew of nurses. Julie trailed after closely as well. They passed by Sherry.

Then, John suddenly walked up to her. There was a hint of redness and a piercing look in his eyes.

Sherry suddenly felt suffocated. Her lips quivered, "I... I'm sorry."

John grimaced instinctively and spat, "I must have been blind to fall for a woman like you time and time again."

Sherry felt a sour sting rising up to her nose, and she was overtaken by an urge to cry. She lowered her head to avoid looking at John and apologized in an aggrieved voice, "I'm sorry... I'm sorry."

"What is your apology good for at this point?" His towering figure domineered over her. He grabbed her by her chin and made her look into the sharp reflection in his eyes. "I wouldn't forgive you even if you died right here and now."

John's spiteful remark was like a punch to the gut, and Sherry felt as if her insides were torn apart. Before she could utter a single word, he let go of her.

marched away in the direction Madam toward.

steady herself on

It was one of the paramedics

looked like Sherry's legs were going to give out underneath her, the nurse hurriedly stepped forward burned. We need

at her left

that she had burned her arm when she had through, and doubted that she would even have noticed her injury if not for the nurse pointing

a detached voice, "Thanks, nurse objected, "No, we have to have it treated now, or only grunted

going to head to the ward to have her wound.

in the other direction. Dressing her wound was the last night on her mind now. She had Glanchester. Still, she recalled that Madam Stockton still exhibited a glimmer of consciousness when she was dragged out of the car, and she hoped building into gust of cold wind blew from the oncoming direction. She took a deep breath and stared absently in front

Chapter 1597

Peter motioned for Sherry to step into the car.

She obediently followed his directions without any qualms.

Peter did not follow her into the car. Instead, several bodyguards entered the vehicle with her.

With that, the car drove off and took her away from the hospital.

Meanwhile, in a certain ward on the second floor of the hospital, Madam Stockton was lying on the hospital bed with a ventilator and an IV bag rigged up to her.

Queenie was seated next to her, her eyes were swelling with tears.

The ward was as silent as a grave. It was so quiet that one could hear the regular drip of the IV bag.

There was a tall man standing stoically in front of the window. He gazed outside at a particular car that was driving out of the hospital compound. He continued staring at the said vehicle until it went out of sight.

the ward. He quietly went up to John and informed in still lying on the

a pause, Peter added, "They've also made arrangements to have the best doctor in the hospital attend to Madam Stockton. The moment she is transported to the hospital, she will be placed in the doctor's

They had a whole host of the most reputable doctors across the country. The current hospital's facilities

the sofa and closed his eyes, finally feeling the outside without descended into

for some time. She stole a look out of the window in the direction John was staring long time ago. She wondered where John sent her off to. Did he send her home? Or perhaps he sent as she lay motionlessly on the bed. She was on her last legs. Chances were slim that she was going to

She had tried to smirked without

transporting Sherry drove down the highway at a constant flanking her on both sides. She could not even fidget around in her down the highway without making any stops. It seemed like they were heading back

Chapter 1598

Sherry felt a lump growing in her throat. She held her breath and sank back into her seat.

Upon ensuring that she was going to stop resisting, the bodyguard on her left let go of her arm.

Shortly after that, the car swerved into the woods.

It was an entirely uninhabited area. What was strange was that someone seemed to have taken a special effort to develop the area. The asphalt road was well-paved with rows of tall and dense trees along both sides.

After passing through the woods, the car stopped.

Sherry saw a house. It was a large and well-designed villa, but it looked poorly maintained since it was filled with dried leaves coating its roof and courtyard. She had not even gotten out of the car, but already she could feel a terrible shiver run through her.

Her escorts proceeded to step out of the car one after another.

"Miss, this way, please." The leader beckoned her to follow.

a deep breath and got out of the car as told, then she followed them stopped at the

was a significant distance away from the city. It was in the middle of the

thus she shivered from the cold pushed the door open, she was windows were shut. The last time the interior had seen any glimpse of flight must have been ages ago. Not a soul had ever lived in this flung to sweep the accumulated dust off the couch before settling down on the of wind blew in through the window. She wrapped a blanket around herself to get while, she felt the searing pain in her arm. She winced from the functional and ticking along. It must have been

be noon

eating lunch from takeaway containers. None of them bothered to hand her a box as if she was invisible to them. She had not eaten anything all to them and asked,

only swiped a disinterested look at her, then they turned their attention back to None for her.

Chapter 1599

John's expression was terrible as he frowned.

Queenie put a hand over her mouth and began to weep.

Julie sank her head toward the ground and seemed just as depressed as the other two, except she was hiding a wretched smile.

Meanwhile, in the forest, Sherry remained nested on the couch and stared outside all afternoon. At one point, she accidentally fell asleep.

When she opened her eyes again, she was surrounded by darkness.

The only sound there was to be heard were the faint rustling of wind against the leaves and the ticking of the clock.

She shivered from the cold.

After taking a moment, she gently stretched her legs and jumped off the couch. She was going to go to the courtyard to see if the bodyguards were still around since the presence of any other person would help her feel less lonely.

She had only stepped off the couch when a dark shadow suddenly flashed past her peripheral vision.

It appeared behind the couch out of nowhere. In the pitch-black darkness, its silhouette looked especially ominous.

She shrieked the moment she noticed its presence. "Ahh!" She was so frightened that her legs immediately gave out underneath her as she sank onto the floor with a loud thump.

figure began to approach her, and she could feel Help! Help!" she cried out and tried to crawl outside in her haggard and pick herself off the ground, she felt a hand seizing her by her neck. It was cold when she heard the familiar and snappy voice of a man,

grew wide

2/3

held her in place. She could feel his chest pressing against her back but could not move and struggled to going to

John sneered and continued

could do was claw at his arms, the only thing driving her her will man was here to kill her. He put air

going to strangle her in slowly sapping away from her body, and she very last moment, she saw a vision. It was the familiar face of her daughter, Caprice. Her adorable Caprice as well as Smack.

lifelessly and smacked against realized she was losing consciousness and proceeded to release his body thumped to the ground like a puppet with its strings cut

Chapter 1600

John stood unmoving.

His whole figure was engulfed in the darkness of the night, save for the shining gleam of his gold-rimmed glasses.

He noted the frantic and terrified demeanor of Sherry but did not utter a word.

Sherry was deeply terrified of the man. He was more menacing than the devil himself. She wrapped her arms around her neck protectively and whimpered, "I didn't know your mother was tailing me. After you called me, I began to regret what I was doing and wanted to bring Caprice back... I never intended for anything to happen to your mother..."

She was curled up into a ball and had never felt as terrible as she did at this moment.

John watched her silently.

After a long time, he approached her.

Sherry shrunk away from him, but there was nowhere for her to go with the wall right behind her. She guarded her neck with her hands and stuck close to the wall, hoping she could somehow slip through it like a ghost.

stopped when he realized how noticed him stopping, but the

and asked, "So, you're saying that it's not your fault, is that

Caprice in the first place, Madam Stockton would not have had to chase her down, and none of what happened after would have gone to deal with it when I see you sneaking around with the man you used to cheat on me with?" He could how hard I tried to look for her in the years when you went missing? Do you know that I married you not only for about you that I looked past what happened back then and help Mason, the man me? Nine years ago, I cut off all ties with my family to be with you, all the hurt and betrayal and focus on building our future together, you were going to this how you treat me?!" He poured everything out tears fell endlessly. She was choking back on her tears so badly that she could not saw her tears and felt overtaken by remorse, but it only lasted an instant. He steeled himself and said, "Look at you... What's with that look on your face? Are you going to use your tears

She did not want to deceive him any further, but the tears would not stop. It was as if a a machine, "I'm sorry. I wasn't trying to endanger your mom. It was an accident. I'm sorry, I'm sorry I hurt you... You...

bawled her