

Master Odell 1741

Chapter 1741

Sherry said, "Thank you, Lisa. I'm fine. She didn't touch me."

Lisa sighed a breath of relief. She added, "I'll definitely make this right for you."

She was furious. Aiden had hired thugs to harm Sherry and got arrested for his crime, yet Anne was trying to give Sherry a tough time?

Lisa was not a weak and helpless woman!

Sherry pursed her lips. "It's fine, Lisa. I'm okay."

Anne stopped Sherry in front of the office just to give her a hard time. Had John not arrived in time, Sherry would have been slapped and insulted in front of the public. It would definitely have caused a series of unhappy events.

Anne was a major shareholder in the company, but she was not working there. She had Madam Sager and some other old folks' support, so Lisa could not do anything to her either.

If Lisa was correct, Anne probably came here because Ron instigated her to. Since she had no way giving out of guilt. She looked at John and said, you are being too kind. Sherry is my froze for a

a timely manner and said, "It's okay now. Go back and I will come to pick you

he already left before she could say so, thus had a glance at Carl who was her and Anne earlier. Fortunately, even if the girl saw it, John could probably explain the situation in an understandable

The car left.

said to Lisa,

expression. She simply hummed a reply and

Carl alone petrified by the road. He watched as Sherry and Lisa went inside. His brows furrowed and his hands had saved

car cruised smoothly on the freeway.

Chapter 1742

The day passed while Sherry buried herself in work.

At dusk, Sherry walked out of the office and saw her white car parked beside the road.

The window was wound down and Caprice popped her head out, calling her adorably, “Mommy...”

The sweet expression felt warmer than the breeze.

Sherry hastened her steps to the car. She got in, hugged the girl in her arms, and kissed her on the cheek.

Caprice giggled as she kissed her mother back. They played around for a while before Sherry released the girl. She then switched her attention to the driver’s seat. “Why aren’t you driving?”

John smiled and looked at her through the rear mirror. “I’m waiting for your order.”

Sherry gulped. “Drive.”

John started the car and drove, but not in the direction of her apartment.

Sherry asked, “Where are you going?”

He said, “Caprice wants to have something good to eat. I booked a restaurant. We’ll be there in twenty minutes.”

Sherry frowned.

booked a table. I didn’t pay wants to their relationship was not as tense as before, it did not mean that she had outside the

the rear window. His lips arrived at the restaurant that room on the second

Caprice and followed John and the waiter to the room. She was stunned when on the first floor that could fit a family of four. The man just had to choose the best room with the most space. The minimum spend to dine longer living under the poverty line, she was still a working adult. Her purse was already bleeding before she even sat confused. “What’s wrong? Something wrong with your eyes?”

came by

and said, "Caprice

smaller to fit

the baby chair and sat

each. Sherry saw the price listed on the menu, she gasped. The cheapest dish on the had no concept of money. She pointed at the pictures that captured her attention and said,

Chapter 1743

Sherry was probably counting how much she had to spend for the meal. She noticed the man's gaze and it irritated her. "What are you looking at?"

John smiled. "Nothing. I just want to look at you."

Sherry choked. She wanted to argue, but Caprice reached out to her face with her tiny hands.

The girl held her collar and said, "Mommy, don't be angry at Daddy."

Sherry was forced to swallow her grievance. She said, "Mommy isn't angry at Daddy. I'm just teasing him."

John was left speechless, and so was Caprice.

Caprice added, "Mommy, don't tease Daddy. Daddy is scared."

Sherry said with a smile, "He's thick-faced. He won't be scared so easily."

Caprice pouted in confusion. Being thick-faced and cowardly had nothing in relation. Before she could figure out the question, the waiter returned with the dishes.

The dishes served were mostly vegetarian, but they were decorated meticulously. Caprice's eyes widened in astonishment.

on the girl's girl ate happily, and Sherry started eating as

and soon the table

could not stop munching. Her stomach started to bloat, yet lot as well, but there were still a lot of leftovers on the table. She did not want to waste them, and on the verge of exploding, she

The man chuckled.

at him.

man pursed his lips innocently and turned a deaf ear at her.

Caprice. The girl was already dozing off.
she looked at John, signaling him to help. "Why are smiled. He got up and carried Caprice into
to the counter and gave the cashier her that she had just used nearly gasped in shock.

was then a tall shadow
and comforting voice echoed in her thousand plus for dinner was okay?

Chapter 1744

When they arrived at Sherry's apartment, Caprice was already dead asleep.
After Sherry got out of the car, she carried Caprice into her arms and threw a gaze at John.
"You can go now."

John stood by the car and leaned against it lazily. The moonlight's reflection shone from his glasses as he smiled bewitchingly. "Goodnight."

Sherry ignored him. She carried Caprice into the apartment without looking back.

The night was quiet.

After Sherry entered her apartment and turned on the living room lights, the man's slender figure remained by the car with no intention of leaving.

However, he pulled his attention away from the window and looked to his left. There was a garden on the left of the apartment, and there was a fake mountain decoration by the side.

the shadow cast by the fake mountain was aware that John noticed him, so he came out from the shadows.

doing here?" John said, "I live around here. I'm you have a

was not a park where everyone could have a stroll. It was just a small garden for flowers, and I heard Sherry telling you to go back. Why are you still here?"

here. How could I, her husband, helplessly. "You imprisoned her, tortured her, and she almost died in the fire because of you. If I were you, I wouldn't have the guts or the today onwards, I will protect Sherry from danger, and that includes so he planned to stay guard for a while starting today. He did not want Ron and his not expect the question. Surprised, he asked, "That's right.

John

Carl was stunned.

"Thank

need to thank me. I saved her

Chapter 1745

Ron was a sly man, and Anne had the support of Madam Sager and the other old folks at home.

Lisa had done a lot to reach her current position while bringing Carl up.

It had not been easy for her.

It was not easy to kick Ron out of the company.

Carl went silent for a moment and said, "I know, but he's cunning and we don't have anything on him." John chuckled.

"Then, let him give you something to hold against him." Carl narrowed his eyes.

John leaned against the car with his arms crossed.

He continued, " Ron Wright has a property in the suburbs, where there are a woman and a pair of twins.The woman was his secretary from five years ago."

Carl was shocked.

It took him several seconds to recover and say, " How do you know about this?"

curled

my ways." Carl remained

Ron was a playboy

fooling around, and he had been obedient ever since.He never showed any flaws in a pair of twins with his while investigating him? And why

Sherry wants to help you will help

pursed his lips

John smiled.

getting late. Why don't you go back and rest, Young Master Carl? I've arranged for bodyguards to look after her. Ron Wright and the apartment, leaving Carl petrified by mind was replaying the words he heard from John. His brows furrowed. He believed his love and he already found out that Ron had a

his life and always had close contact

John too capable or was Carl just an amateur? The weather was with sunny days two days ago, but it

day of dark and gloomy weather,

the next day, and the sky was

Chapter 1746

Lisa dragged Sherry into a rather inconspicuous sedan instead of the usual luxurious car she liked to be driven around in.

They were quite some distance from the suburbs.

Sherry reached for her phone and dialed Caprice's number. She had given Caprice a smartwatch suitable for children several days ago so that she could directly contact Caprice, effectively bypassing John as the middleman.

It only rang twice before Caprice picked up.

She answered the phone cheerfully, "Hello".

Sherry lit up the moment she heard Caprice's voice.

"Caprice, it's Mommy." Caprice's voice raised several pitches the moment she recognized her mother's voice.

"Mommy! Are you coming back already?"

"Mommy has something to do. I'm going out with Grandma Lisa and probably will be home later than usual. Make sure you eat dinner with Daddy, alright?"

"Okay."

Although Caprice was slightly saddened to hear this, she did not make a fuss about it.

smooched into mother and daughter shared an

some small

to see Lisa adorable." She expressed with a sigh, "I wonder if I assured her,

for a moment, then she took a deep

Inside the hotel opposite the apartment building where Sherry lived, in a penthouse suite, the man was sitting on browsing through the finance

was huddled next to him, having just wrapped up her home later than smiled, "Alright, Daddy heard you two muttered, "I wonder what Mommy is doing

for a bowl

John smiled silently.

to see some of Coastrock was a cluster of premium residence available in the city region; it was merely were posh enough but nothing to write home

not the first choice for the wealthiest an access card and managed to drive through the main entrance

Chapter 1747

Shortly after, the car came to a stop a short distance from them.

Ron stepped out of the car; he was by himself. He held an umbrella in hand and walked toward the villa.

Upon reaching the front door, he looked around suspiciously before pushing the door open.

Someone had been waiting inside for him the entire time.

The moment he pushed the door open, a woman was revealed. She excitedly threw herself into Ron's arms as soon as the door was opened.

The two behaved like a pair of a couple that had been reunited after an indeterminable length of separation.

It was as if they were mimicking the scenes commonly seen in romantic movies.

It would have made for a wonderful scene if not for Ron's bulging belly and unsightly appearance.

Stalking from a short distance, Sherry and Lisa watched as Ron kissed the young woman in his arms, then went into the house with his arms wrapped around her.

Sherry felt a wave of chill and goosebumps crawling on her skin.

She turned to Lisa and asked, "Aunt Lisa, is this the mistress he's been hiding?"

Lisa chuckled humorously, "You could say that. This mistress of his used to be his secretary. Keep your eyes peeled. This is only the beginning."

As soon as she said this, another car swerved into the compound.

car screeched to a stop directly in front of the

and out came three stocky and large bodyguards, followed by what seemed like only two days ago outside the Sager Tower!

pressed her face against the

The men who came with Anne bashed through the stormed into the house, a menacing air

rain was getting

Sherry heard some cries coming

shout,

came after that was a

asked, "Why is there a kid

the kid he

Sherry was startled

out of the house, each of them carrying a child who pair of them were frightened and were crying for their being affectionate with Ron at the front

could fully comprehend what was happening, Anne to the ground, then she got up again and screamed frantically, "My children! Give my children back to me!"

again, but before she could do so, a you doing?!" He shoved bodyguards holding Anne steady, she would have fallen herself at Ron and cried out desperately, " Ron, you have to save our kids!" Ron put his them to let go of Timothy and Diana!" Timothy and Diana

Chapter 1748

One of Anne's bodyguards came charging in and promptly helped Anne up from the ground.

Ron was going to continue charging Anne but wisely took a step back when he saw the bodyguard stepping up to defend her.

Anne pressed a hand over her stomach and groaned in pain.

Her voice was a hoarse rattle as she said, "Ron...you kicked me..you dare kick me for a woman like her..." Ron spoke with utter detest, "Don't you dare insult her! She's nothing like a foul woman like you! I would have dumped you a million years ago if not for your wealth and status!" Such a hateful declaration came as a shock to Anne.

Ron would have given anything to punch her right in the face, but the rational part of his mind prevented him from acting on impulse.

After all, she was the esteemed madam of the Sagers and held a majority of the shares of the corporation.He swallowed his rage and put on a benevolent act to save face.

" Here's what I propose: I will be willing to forgive you if you let go of Timothy and Diana, then take your men and scram! I'll pretend none of this ever happened. If not, I'll teach you to not mess with me!" Sherry was baffled.

She had seen countless shameless men in her time but never had she seen such arrogance and shamelessness.

Even though Anne was getting on in her years, she had taken care of her health and appearance over the years, unlike Ron who looked several decades older than her.

No matter how you put it, Anne was far more commendable in every way possible.

It was embarrassing that Ron would ever think he was better than her.

and would rush up to slap Ron again,

Lisa sighed.

"Aunt Lisa, Anne isn't going record, she heard stories of

she was an angelic beauty and a famous socialite who came from with Ron, who in his youth, was a handsome man as well and Anne had begged her mother in combination with her fervent love for Ron led her to her a handful of times, she chose to forgive these years, the another woman who had given birth to a he was despicable enough to hit her to defend his mistress, so why would Anne ever forgive him? The rain had stopped by growing anxious right outside the villa, Anne was helped up by her bodyguards, tears streaming endlessly down her shells,

Anne, I'm telling you to let my children go. Are you
"Heh..." Anne laughed her bodyguards, and bodyguards immediately took the children to the

Chapter 1749

She picked herself off the ground and crawled over to Anne where she began to beg, "Mrs. Sager, it's all my fault. Blame it all on me. I never should have fallen in love with Ron. I never should have been together with him in the first place. If you're going to punish someone, let it be me, but please, please have mercy on my children and Ron!"

Inside the car, Lisa scoffed with stark disdain, "She's fallen in love with Ron? As if anybody would believe that."

Sherry held her tongue.

This ex-secretary of Ron was truly something.

Her tearful outburst incited Ron further, so his hatred for Anne had grown to an unprecedented degree. If he could, he would have killed Anne with his bare hands right then and there.

"Willow, get up!" He shouted as he approached the mistress hastily.

The mistress was drenched in tears by this point. She collapsed weakly in his arms and whimpered, "Ron, I don't want to lose my children. I don't want anything to happen to you..."

Ron embraced her tightly to comfort her.

scene, Anne erupted with fury.

charged past the bodyguard shielding her. She swung her fist in Smack!

parried all of her blows before landing a vicious slap right across Anne's face.

and collapsed to the

ran up to her quickly.

one step ahead of the bodyguards and dug his fingers tightly into Anne's neck. He glared at the bodyguard murderously and rushed up to Anne's face, and she could bodyguards dared not to Anne and demanded ferociously, "Let go of my children, was crying again, and her eyes had become

she had once fallen in love with when she was young. She was heartbroken at the thought that he had been cheating on her for so many years and had been hiding a woman who had given birth to a pair will to let her breathe so she could speak.

bitterly, "I won't let them free even if you

Chapter 1750

Outside the villa, Ron was just about to choke the life out of Anne when a crew of large bodyguards surrounded him. He was visibly jolted,

Before he could react to the situation, he heard someone speak in a low, commanding voice, "Take the girl."

The person speaking was referring to Willow, Ron's ex-secretary mistress.

The bodyguards sprang to the task immediately and apprehended her.

Willow cried out, her voice filled with panic, "Ron, help!"

Carl commanded sharply, "Strangle her."

The bodyguard complied.

Blood rushed to Willow's face as the bodyguard wrapped his arms around her neck. She began to whimper helplessly as she stared at Ron with her eyes widened.

Carl stepped forward, stopping between Willow and Ron. He glanced at Anne who was near passing out by this point. Then, he smiled tauntingly and asked, "Ron, why don't we find out who can finish the job faster?"

Ron was horrified and furious. He roared, "Carl! Let Willow go!" completely unfazed. "You're going to have to let my look, then he promptly took and to hold her steady just in time. After making sure she was unhurt, they led her to and ordered, "Let She immediately behind him as he assumed a defensive position. He shot a vicious glare at Carl. "Carl, this is none of your business. Take aunt! Now, you're the one telling me it's none of my business? Do you step back. He looked at Carl warily. "What do to happen to turned to the crew of bodyguards around him and gave the fatal sure you don't charged Ron before he could even turned around and tried to run but only managed a couple of steps before he was thrown to the ground, landing hard on that was a vicious beating. care to not hit any groaned in could only back with amusement for a while before he turned to