

Master Odell 1771

Chapter 1771

Sherry tried to help him up, but he lost all his strength to the stab. His weight and physique overpowered her, dragging her down to the ground despite mustering all her strength to hold him up.

The stench of blood entered her nose. She tapped on his shoulder to nudge him, but as soon as she lifted her hand, her palm was blood-stained. His back was drenched in his own blood.

Her hand shook.

Sherry looked at John. His face was bleached white and his half-closed eyes were glued to her Sherry's lips trembled out of fear "John? John? JOHN!? Hang in there!"

She pulled her phone out to call the ambulance.

Ada, who was kicked to the ground by Carl, was apprehended by the security guards.

Carl swiftly made a call and ran over to Sherry. He looked at Sherry and her blood-stained hand. "Sis, don't worry, I've called an ambulance. Help is arriving."

John. "Did you hear that? Help is coming! Hold spelling the word

rolled down her cheeks uncontrollably. She resented the man. She resented him for imprisoning her, bullying her, starving her, and because of her and dying in his own puddle of blood, her heart tightened uncontrollably. The heart-wrenching scene was too much for her to handle. Her lips pursed, her teeth gritted and she held his hand tightly until swiftly to attend to John's regained her composure

a stab to the chest, possibly harming the heart. We need to bring him to the hospital carried John into the

the paramedics to the ambulance, and of the security guards thought Carl was leaving, so he immediately

bellowed, "Turn her into body was shaking because back from her shock. She shouted at Carl, "Carl, I did this for you! Sherry is a shameless bitch! She's trying to deceive you and her ex-husband!

Slap!

finish, she was slapped in

Chapter 1772

The corridor outside the emergency room, Sherry squatted down with her blood-stained hands over her face

It had been two hours, yet the door remained closed and the sign remained lit

Sherry saw several medical staff running in and out of the emergency room, but there were no signs of surgery being over. She had been squatting down for so long that she could not feel her legs anymore.. Her body felt cold and stiff

For some reason, her mind kept replaying some old memories while she waited for the surgery to be over

When they were together ten years ago, he had been the Stocktons' eldest son, a handsome young man with a bright future. He was the ideal husband of many socialites and young ladies in Glenchester, but he had fallen for her out of all the other women

At the start of their relationship, her then fiancé, Mason, was taken away by Shannon. Hence she cut all ties with her family, the Fowlers. She relied on her own hands to make a living

He knew she was a woman with dignity so he never explicitly gave her money but helped her find part-time jobs that paid well. He would also give her gifts that looked normal but were actually expensive, and he would pick her up from school when she finished working.

Later, his family found out about his relationship and there and then, he chose her instead of other women. Due to his father's influence, he had never given her a hard time. He cooked for her when he came back from work, gave her all his money when he got paid, and told her to buy dresses and makeup to look good and care for her, he tightened his belt and ate the least amount of food just to stay with her. She wanted to break up with him because she could not bear seeing him suffer, he used to think it was he who had failed her and did not

her grievance tortured her for as a matter of fact, had she not asked for Mason's help to survive, he would have betrayed him, hence the resentment and grudge it was also the reason

she buried her face behind her hands. If he could make it out of the emergency room, she would forgive him for

She lifted her head up to look at the emergency room but saw Lisa and Carl in front of her. She was unaware of their arrival and they were caught off

said, "Sherry, I'm

and hummed a reply.

on, don't sit on the floor it's cold. Let's go

Chapter 1773

John had to stay for another day for observation purposes. If he could make it through, he could be discharged

Sherry stayed by his side for the entire night.

Lisa and Carl stayed back to accompany Sherry, but she told them to go back to take a rest. They refused though

It was until Lisa received a call about an urgent matter back at the Sagers house, only then she left while Carl stayed back.

It was a quiet night in the corridor outside the ICU

Carl stood beside Sherry and looked at her silently.

A while after Lisa left, Sherry looked at him. She said in a disheartened voice, "I'm fine. You should go back and take a rest"

Carl's eyes flickered. "I'm responsible for what happened to Master Stockton as well. I failed to contain Ada, that was how she was able to hurt him. I should be the one who stays."

His words made sense, which silenced Sherry

continued, "Sis, why don't you go back and take

"I'm not tired" was safe under Aunt Wanda's care. There were bodyguards at home as well, so nothing would pursued his lips silently as he silence lasted through

doctor and a nurse

Sherry remained outside.

opened and the doctor came out with a heavy expression.

asked, "Doctor, how should be waking up by now, but there are

heart skipped a beat.

looked at her "Are

"Yes, I am."

the encouragement he can get.

you,

doctor then left with the

Chapter 1774

"Huh?"

Sherry thought she heard John replying She wanted to pull her hands back to wipe her tears but one of her hands was caught.

She wiped her tears with one hand swiftly and then saw John looking at her gently.

He looked weak and pale, but he was awake!

Sherry's eyes gleamed as she was surprised.

As though he was afraid that she would not keep the promise, he held her hand tightly. He smiled and said, "I heard what you said just now. I know you will keep your promise, am I right?"

Sherry's eyes flickered several times.

Seeing his eyes open and him talking to her made Sherry no longer feel less pain.

"I said it because I wanted you to wake up," she said.

changed. His brows furrowed and he looked like he was immediately asked, "What's wrong?"

he said feebly before his eyes closed once

Sherry got anxious.

it because of hand tightly and said nervously, "I was just joking! I'll eyes remained afraid that he would never wake up again. She wanted to him smiling like

you well," he

the urge to punch him. She glared at him.

look. "You said

to inform the doctor to check

he had already woken up, the doctor should check on him again

checked on me already it dawned on her that something was wrong. She looked at him and asked. "How did you know the doctor checked on you before I

Chapter 1775

Carl came back with breakfast and was standing outside the glass window. He looked disheartened when he saw the scene inside the ICU.

He put the breakfast on the bench that Sherry sat on earlier and left quietly.

Sherry stayed by John's side for a while before her stomach started to growl.

John released her hand and told her to get something to eat.

Sherry walked out of the ICU.

The corridor was quiet.

Sherry took off her visiting gown when she came out. She went on her phone to order some food, but then she noticed the breakfast on the bench.

Surprised, she looked at Jason who was on guard further away. "Jason, who bought this?"

"Young Master Carl."

"Where is he?"

"He left."

for a moment. She then asked, "Have you

"I have, Madam."

of checking up on John just wanted to ask her colleague to bring her breakfast and Sherry was aware of it. She gave the nurse the extra breakfast meal and took the other one than medical staff. The reason why Sherry was able outside the ICU for the rest

that John

before leaving again.

Aunt

her parents for a whole phone and lullabied her to sleep before hanging up. She stayed at the gave John another check-up. John was who paid for it herself. The room felt comfortable, but the closed window down, Sherry went to open the window and allowed the comfortable leaned against the bed and watched she opened the window, she turned to him and said, "Can you stop staring at

"You have dark circles. Didn't sleep last but the bed is not comfortable. I didn't get a his lips. "Then, you

Chapter 1776

"Daddy, what happened to you?" Caprice asked frightfully while slowly tearing up.
It hurt Sherry to see her like this.
John raised his hand and gently stroked Caprice's head, "Daddy will be fine."
Caprice whimpered, "Daddy, your voice is hoarse."
"It's what happens when you get sick, Daddy will be fine after a few days of rest."
"Are you sure?"
"Yes."

Caprice pursed her lips and tried to crawl onto the bed. She had trouble climbing up due to her height.
All she could manage was to awkwardly prop one of her feet onto the bed, but she did not have the strength to pull her weight onto the bed.

She groaned and tried to muster her strength to fling herself onto the bed.

Sherry chuckled and stepped forward to help her onto the bed.

After Caprice managed to get onto the bed, she crawled over to John and hugged him tightly. She began to blow large puffs of air on his face. She must have learned this from one of those cartoons she liked to watch.

keep doing this, you will feel

technique for a while until her lips were beginning patted her head gently, "Thank you, Caprice. Daddy is feeling much to hear this, "You're welcome,

proud of her

on top of his chest, Sherry was worried that it was going to “Caprice, Mommy and Daddy haven’t been at home these two in her arms without protest. She smiled brightly and expressed proudly, “I’ve been a good girl!” She missed her parents very much, but she was very strong and

Caprice on

snickered happily and gave Sherry a big smooch

carried her over

was nearing

showed up

food to him and set it on a table next to the bed. Then, she went back hopped out of the chair and went out, “Caprice, Daddy is still injured. Make sure you

Caprice nodded.

a look

recognized the look in his eyes and asked suspiciously, “What’s with

After a

you

Chapter 1777

Sherry gave her word. “Alright, Mommy promises to never say something like that ever again.”

Caprice smiled and seemed content at last.

Sherry kissed her on the cheek.

Caprice returned the same favor, and they made up.

Sherry smiled and carried her onto the bed.

John was looking at Sherry with a smile forming in the corner of his eyes. He seemed to find the situation. of a mother getting lectured by her daughter very humorous.

Sherry shot a look at him.

He traced a smile and told her tenderly, “I’ll keep Caprice company for a bit. Why don’t you get some rest?”

There was a large recliner next to the couch with blankets and pillows laid on top of it. It was ideal for her to catch up on some rest.

Sherry was certainly getting tired. She doubted she needed to worry about Caprice since she was with her father.

reclined into the chair and threw the blanket on top

was very quiet

to fall asleep, she faintly heard John's voice. He was speaking to Caprice, "Caprice, Mommy stayed up all night last night to watch over Daddy, so she's very tired. She was only joking when she said with a plushie. She seemed surprised to hear this and said in a reflective tone, "I didn't know, I wasn't her chubby cheeks and spoke gently, "It's alright. I'm not angry at you. I just wanted you to know guilt, "But I got angry at won't hold it against

"Okay."

was the end of entire time. It may look like she was sleeping calmly, but there was a wave end, her accumulated exhaustion took over. Soon, she fell into a was the next morning by the time she opened her eyes again. The curtains were slightly parted, allowing a trace of sat up against the headboard of the bed and was and sleeping soundly. She must have climbed into the recliner at some lips. She was completely irresistible cause of how cute she looked in that she woke up and greeted

and returned

she got up and went to the bathroom. She brushed her

Chapter 1778

John smirked and teased her, "Clumsy, aren't you?"

Sherry did not utter a word.

Scumbag!

"Get your hands off me!" she snapped suddenly.

John continued pressing the back of her head, completely unfazed by her outburst. "Were you hurt?"

Sherry's felt her cheeks growing red hot. "No!"

John smiled, "Alright then, good."

Sherry clenched her jaw and repeated sharply, "Let go!"

Or else, she was going to beat him up!

"Okay," John said as he pressed her toward him.

Sherry felt her weight shifting forward, and in an instant, it seemed like she was zooming in on John's eyes. She felt the softness of his lips pressing against hers. The warmth and tender texture of his lips sent a wave of electric shock through her.

her a moment before she fully registered what was happening. Just as she was about to begin swinging her fists at John, he let go of her so that she could pull herself a spring. Her heart was pounding incessantly, and her cheeks were flushed red. She spoke calmly, "Actually, I went before

Sherry was flabbergasted.

did he ask for her help

it intentional just so with a wide grin on his face, the smug type that implied he was fully aware of what was furious and shouted, "You scumbag! Do you want me to break briskly, "Go

Sherry was speechless.

the couch the entire

to the side as she beheld their interaction with much moments ago,

Adults were so strange.

fuming. She took Caprice and stormed out. She wanted to go out for a walk and get some breakfast found a nice breakfast place. They

a portion to go, then they began heading back to the ward was on

in her arms and stepped into the elevator. Soon, the floor.

noticed Jason, Nelson, and several bodyguards crowded

Chapter 1779

Queenie smiled warmly, then she turned to Sherry.

Sherry recognized Queenie at last and was astounded. "When did you get here?"

Queenie beamed with joy. "Just this morning. I came here with my mother and Peter."

"Is Madam Stockton here too?"

"Yeah, my mom is inside."

As soon as she said that, Madam Stockton stepped out of the room and revealed herself.

She was dressed rather plainly, her hair tied back in a common ponytail. She looked thinner and frailer than when Sherry last saw her.

Her lips quivered. It looked like she wanted to say something to Sherry but did not know how to start or where to start.

Sherry seemed visibly affected to see Madam Stockton here.

When John was still in the intensive care unit, Peter had trouble reaching him at all, so he ended up contacting Jason. It was Sherry who then took the phone and told him about John taking a knife for her to protect her.

that Madam Stockton still harbored resentment towards her. Even if she knew that what happened in the past was all an evil ploy of

Caprice down and handed the takeout container to her before urging her to go

Caprice nodded obediently.

a glance at Queenie who nodded and took the hint. She took into the ward.

politely. "Madam

Stockton remained silent the Sherry stepped to the corner, Madam Stockton followed after approached some chairs and gestured. "Please, have

Stockton tucked her lips and told her with a tint of reservation in her voice, "Alright, sit with me, please." With that,

in her voice,

speak. There was a blank look on her face, and she still had trouble forming her considered for a moment and asked to you saving me from the burning car.

with emotions. She said with a faint smile, "No need, anyone would have saved you."

John away from you." Madam Stockton expressed with a tired sigh, "But you looked past all that and spoke sincerely, "You are John's mother. I would do everything I can to save just thought... What I did in the past was wrong. If it wasn't for me, things would have gone much better between you and John, and all those terrible things would not have happened." After a pause, she continued, "It was right for John to take that knife for you, especially considering how terribly he treated you back then. You could even say he deserved it. Julie... that wretched woman almost quickly reached for was not expecting such a heartfelt confession.

Chapter 1780

Sherry quickly cleared things up. "No, I promised to forgive him and to make up with him in time."

"In that case, you should take this." Madam Stockton tried to shove the box into her hands.

Sherry insisted on not taking it. "It's just too sudden. We can talk about this later."

Madam Stockton frowned sourly. She expressed with a sigh, "I understand that he hurt you gravely. I should not have forced you two to break up a decade ago. It must have left a bad taste in your mouth. If I were you, I would have a hard time forgiving him as well."

Her voice became choked up as she spoke.

Sherry was silent. She winced. This was a tough situation for her.

Although some emotions were welling inside her that she still could not look past, she was aware that she had promised John to repair their relationship. She could not go back on her word.

She knew that it would not please Madam Stockton if she continued to refuse the family heirloom.

"It was all my fault. I've made things difficult for you two during all those years and put you through so much..." Madam Stockton went on and on.

Sherry made up her mind. "It's alright. I'll take it.

immediately

took the box and promptly tucked it into her purse.

to Sherry and thanked her sincerely, "Thank you, Sherry." She was thanking her for being willing to make up with

Madam Stockton had been nothing but miserable. She would spend every waking hour of the day praying that the pair would reconcile their differences. Otherwise, she would have to live with the guilt

Sherry frowned.

had learned her lesson and was committed to being a better person. Despite that, it was difficult for no point in holding the past against her, especially considering how she had never done that in the past as you had breakfast?" she

"I have. After I got off the plane with Queenie, we ate in the car while we were on the way here."

Sherry the same question,

she got up. "Come on, let's go in."

"Sure."

had some difficulty getting up. It seemed like the accident had impacted her physical health.

kindly helped her up, Madam Stockton smiled

returned the same

they entered the

near the entrance and traced a smile when she saw the hospital bed and eating the breakfast Sherry bought for him.

she was playing with a