

Master Odell 1801

Chapter 1801

Lisa's eyes teared up. "Good, good. As long as you know your way home."

She urged Sherry to take the property deeds. "Keep these."

Sherry accepted her goodwill. "Thank you, Lisa."

The lunch went on for hours. Lisa chatted with her about many things.

They only went back to the office in the evening.

There were still resignation procedures that Sherry needed to be a part of, especially since she was a department manager.

There was some time left before clocking out, so she went back to her department and held a small meeting with her subordinates to tell them that she was leaving. Her subordinates were all smart people, and they already expected her to leave for Glenchester sooner or later.

It was the time spent together that made it difficult to see her leave.

them for

She told her subordinates to go home without holding them back any further. She then grabbed her purse wondered if Caprice was waiting for her at home.

lot. When she approached her car, she heard an adorable voice calling her," Mommy..."

and saw John and Caprice by

on the

out of John's arms and waddled her way bent over to carry the girl into her arms then gave the girl a big kiss kissed

the girl over to John.

here with Caprice?" she asked.

his lips. "Caprice missed you,

The girl snuck a glance at John before she nodded and hummed a her

Chapter 1802

Even until the car disappeared into the traffic, the man did not show any intentions of turning away. His charming eyes teared up under the starry night.

Some time later, an exasperated sigh could be heard.

Lisa had been standing behind him for a while. She tapped on his shoulder and said, "Sherry said she will come to visit us often. Stop standing here. Go home and take a rest."

Everything that needed to be said had been said, thus Lisa then left the office.

Carl remained standing before the window with pursed lips. After his mother left the office and shut the door, his body leaned forward against the window. He held up his hand against the window and propped his forehead against the back of his hand.

Tears fell from his tightly shut eyes.

It took Sherry a full month to do a complete handover. Her last day was on a Friday.

Sherry booked a table at a restaurant to treat her subordinates to a feast.

they learned that she her direct subordinates, Sherry also invited other department managers who were rather close to her. She texted them personally and told them to wait the invitations, Sherry spotted Carl's contact at the bottom of the list. His display picture had changed from a sexy a month ago, and it had been ultimately decided not phone away and went downstairs move first to the restaurant while the other department managers waited for her in the out of the elevator, but before she could reach them, a tall figure in a handsome suit came towards turn a blind eye, but Carl hastened his steps to in such a hurry?" he asked choked on her words.

other department managers waiting for her. He smiled at her and then said, "Are you going to Sherry nodded.

to?" he asked.

in the Southern beach."

Chapter 1803

After dinner, Sherry and the group arrived at a club near the office

The club was the first to operate under the Sagers after she joined the company, and it continued to be the most popular one in the city

The group had fun until midnight. Many of them got drunk.

Sherry waited by the roadside and saw them off before she headed to the parking lot. There were still many cars in the parking lot at this hour, but her car stood out from the rest because there was a tall and elegant figure next to it.

The handsome man wore a white shirt, had a pair of golden framed glasses and looked extra clean-cut with the combination. He held a big bouquet of roses in his hands.

When Sherry spotted him, she met his bewitching smile. Her heart raced. She smiled and went over to him.

“Sherry, Happy Resignation,” he said and gave her the roses.

it and lips and are you doing?” She glared at and brought the

away, but he circled her lips against hers. His kiss felt firm but soft, so soft that Sherry lost the lasted for a push the man away to stop the kissing streak.

released her and pinched her face once more. “Did you have a dozen reeked of alcohol, and it was flickered. “No, it was my subordinates. I just is flowing with alcohol. Do you really think gulped nervously because she knew it was a lie as well. She replied with a glare. “This is my last day dare he question her

Chapter 1804

The flight back to Glenchester was on the next morning.

After breakfast, Sherry and John brought Caprice, Jason, and Aunt Wanda to the airport. When they finished checking in, Sherry carried Caprice and was walking through security with John.

Suddenly, a ground staff came to her with a smile. “Hi, are you Ms. Sherry Fowler?”

Sherry was slightly surprised. “Yes, I am.”

The staff then handed her a small bouquet of flowers and a delicate-looking box. "Someone wanted me to hand you this. He wanted me to tell you to be happy."

Looking at the flowers and the box, Sherry was slightly stunned.

Noticing her mother's blank state, Caprice took the little box.

The staff then left.

Sherry looked at the flowers in her hands. It was a bunch of pink roses with a beautiful daisy in the middle. It was lovely.

Caprice then opened the box out of curiosity. Her eyes blinked in awe, and her jaw dropped when she saw what was inside.

looked into the box.

was a diamond necklace inside. The pink diamond was carved into the shape this?" The girl pulled out the little a big hand

a glance at the handwritten words on the card. As his eyes words on

"Sis, safe journey."

be

when she would be leaving Coastrock around. All she saw was bustling people and airport security, but Carl was nowhere in sight.

pursed her lips gave you this?" Caprice asked curiously with her big eyes staring at at her as well. His

Mommy's. He

"Oooh..."

the flowers and the box while holding Caprice. She took the box

Caprice through silence, lips pursed. He then went after time before boarding, so they went

Chapter 1805

Carl replied, "Alright, I'll remember that!"

Sherry smiled. She put her phone away.

Last time, she might have nagged him a little more, but he was no longer the playboy.

Carl would only become more and more mature and reliable, and Sherry believed the company would excel under his leadership.

"You look happy. Who are you chatting with?" The man's rich voice suddenly sounded.

Sherry regained her composure. Just when she was about to say it was Carl, she was surprised by what surrounded John. His feet and legs were covered in rose petals.

Caprice was sitting on his lap, plucking the petals from the roses that Carl had given Sherry and throwing them around.

Sherry furrowed her brows at John.

John helplessly smiled. "Caprice did it." In other words, he did not help her or instigate her to pluck the petals.

Sherry sighed exasperatedly.

baby, after all, so there was no way she could be mad at have to throw them away as hands and tossed the petals into the air. The dancing petals landed her mother looking at her. She widened her grin and said to her father, "Daddy, was rendered

frowned and glared at awkward head and said, "Good girl. Let showed off her masterpiece. "Mommy, look at me! I've plucked all that was left in the bouquet of roses were thorny stems. Not even the daisy did not even feel guilty about destroying the flowers. She looked pleased really seemed like John did not instruct her took a few petals from the

"Hehe."

widened her smile, showing off her

Chapter 1806

To Sherry's surprise, Queenie and Madam Stockton came to the airport to pick them up.

After leaving the airport, the group of Sherry, John, and Caprice headed back to the Stockton villa.

The surroundings of the villa were the same as they had remembered it. However, they noticed that there were new flowers in the garden and some new decorative details on the exterior.

Some of the flowers were in full bloom while others were still mere seedlings. As a result, it added a different splash of youthful flavor to the ancient villa that seemed to be a relic of a long gone past.

Upon stepping through the courtyard, Caprice leaped out of Madam Stockton's arms and strolled into the garden. She jabbed at a colorful bell hanging on one of the branches.

Queenie approached her. "Caprice, I made these myself and hung them around the garden. Aren't they beautiful?"

Caprice nodded, mesmerized by the trinket. She quickly asked, "Aunty, can I take it and play with it?" "Sure-" She had barely finished her sentence when Caprice plucked the bell off.

She did not forget her manners. "Thank you, Aunt Queenie."

softly.

to one side

who decorated the garden. Sherry noticed that the walls were painted with bright murals, then she saw strips of tiny bulbs lining the corridor. Was Queenie

"Sherry,

"I

this was how it should be done. If you nice as a lot of time and effort!" Queenie heard Madam Stockton. She quickly marched up to Sherry and shot a playful, cross look at her mother, then she turned to Sherry. "But if any of these is not up to your taste, I wouldn't mind if you get revamp the look of the entire house to remove all traces of Julie ever being here. Everything that had once been used, or even just touched this was their way of repairing past mistakes. She smiled and said sincerely, "I think it's wonderful.

this and smiled with

Stockton was pleased as well, "Alright."

home, Madam Stockton and Queenie excused themselves and Sherry lived with John and Caprice nearly a year ago.

garden and the exterior walls a new look. The

Chapter 1807

After sending several work-related texts, he turned to Sherry.

She was grinning as she stared at her phone display.

Based on her giddy expression, John wagered that she was texting Sylvia. He smiled faintly. After observing her for a while, he reached for a platter of fruit set on the table and took a slice of pineapple. He brought it toward her lips.

Engrossed in conversation with Sylvia, Sherry instinctively opened her mouth when she sensed something approaching. She only realized she had been given something to eat when the taste of pineapple swarmed her taste buds.

It was as sweet as it was sour and was very delicious.

After she finished with the first slice, another slice seemed to materialize out of thin air in front of her.

Again, she devoured the slice that was magically brought to her lips, her attention still transfixed on her phone's display the entire time.

The same sequence was repeated several times. Every time she finished a slice, she would open her mouth again with full confidence that another slice of pineapple would be presented to her.

The queer interaction lasted as long as her conversation with Sylvia on the phone.

leave to attend a parent-teacher meeting, so Sherry said goodbye and wrapped up the conversation. She had just another. There was no pineapple this time.

from her phone for the tray. Each slice looked so fresh that it yourself?" he asked with and put her hand out and she simply could not get enough a slice of pineapple from the to deliver it into her mouth. Instead of giving it to her, he threw the slice into his mouth, he remarked with shot a look at him. "I

he

this point and flung herself at frenzied charge and had the mind to slide the platter of fruit onto the table in the middle of forward momentum and plunged into him. She palm pressing on the back of her head, then her

Chapter 1808

John must have sensed what was on her mind. He fell silent for a moment before stating, "We can choose to invite only our close friends and relatives."

Only the ones closest to them in their personal lives needed to witness the commemoration of their relationship.

He brushed her cheek again and asked softly, "Is that alright?"

Sherry wavered for a moment, then she nodded. "Alright."

John smiled softly, the same gentle glow appearing in his charming eyes.

She was going to get up and leave, but there was an enchanting, magnetizing power in his eyes that made her draw closer to him. She had barely inched her head toward him when he palmed the back of her head and drew her into him.

Their lips locked.

The date of the wedding was set for the next week.

The time, venue, and every other logistic detail had been sorted out. Ten sets of wedding dresses had been tailored for Sherry. All she needed to do was to choose her favorite one among them.

say, John had begun making the preparations for the overwhelmed but managed to keep of guests to be invited finalize

wedding, she promised called Lisa who was in Coastrock. Lisa was shocked were the ones in charge and Lisa would attend, Sherry forwarded the immediately began designing the invitation cards for Sherry's guests.

to Sherry, "Sherry, your parents made a look and decided, "No they could one day repair their broken relationship. Now, she had Caprice and a life of her own. What Matthew and Janine have done to her was utterly unforgivable and answered any remaining doubts she had about whether they cared about her at all. As far as they were concerned, she face. She said with an understanding week flew by.

children arrived at Glanceshter the night before the highlights of a wedding procession was when one of the houses John owned in the

Chapter 1809

Liam was stronger than he looked, and he could lift Caprice rather effortlessly.

Sherry thanked him with a smile and noted, "There's a dollhouse down the corridor. You can bring Caprice there with you."

Liam went to the dollhouse, carrying Caprice in his arms.

Sherry turned around and took Sylvia's hand. "Syl, let's talk inside."

"Alright."

Sylvia followed her to another room.

The two sat on the edge of the bed and chatted.

Despite telling herself that it was just a simple wedding and that it was nothing to make a fuss over, Sherry found herself wrung with anticipation and unable to fall asleep. She stayed up all night.

She and Sylvia talked about all sorts of things. They talked about the past and caught up on recent events in each other's lives until it was nearly four in the morning.

They only slept for a few hours before they were woken up by Aunt Wanda.

the makeup artist had arrived to help Sherry get ready for her big day. She to the dollhouse last night. They went to Caprice's room and caught in pajamas, and sleep still lingered on his well. She spoke in that signature darling voice smiled faintly.

turned toward him and gently pecked him on

not speak, but his eyes

Sherry and Sylvia

silence hung in the

look at signifying that she was completely clueless transfixed in shock. He stared and looked back at do something She immediately approached them away from Liam, Caprice rebelled immediately She cried out insistently. frowned and cast a stern, questioning look at her "Caprice, why did you kiss Liam just now?"

look and answered confidently,

Chapter 1810

Sylvia did not join them.

Caprice craned her head to the side and kept stealing glances at the door. She wanted to go back to Liam.

Sherry pinched her chubby cheeks and lectured her, "Caprice, the kind of relationship Mommy and Daddy has is different from the one between you and Liam."

Caprice frowned and protested, "What's the difference? If I like Liam, then it's the same."

"You and Liam are both children. The way you like each other is different from the way adults like each other." Sherry lowered the pitch of her voice and explained patiently. "You will understand when you grow

The last part was the only part that got through to Caprice. She shaped a short "ohh" with her mouth.

Sherry smiled and told her nicely, "You can kiss Liam if you want, but only on his forehead or cheek, maybe even his nose. Anywhere but the lips, got it?"

"Why can't I kiss his lips?"

"Because children shouldn't kiss on the lips. That's for adults."

"Okay." Oh well, she figured. As long as she got to kiss Liam. All she wanted was to be close to him.

Sherry smiled and heaved a sigh of relief, glad to finally have gotten through to Caprice. She sat her on the ground and gently brushed the top of her head. "Go on, go to him."

Caprice ran

while, Sylvia

while ago and entered the room as well.

went to the dressing table. She chatted with Sylvia while the makeup artist worked her magic.

Time passed quickly.

put on her wedding gown

a knock on the door.

“Who is it?”

They heard Caprice’s door for them and as well. Liam looked dashing in the black suit he wore while Caprice wore a white frilly dress, looking dress, they were both in awe and did not conceal was enchanted and cried out, “Mommy, you are and stroked her hair.

I noticed Uncle John’s car with an enthusiastic nod, quickly approached the door to shut it. Before she managed to close the door, two tiny figures bolted through the slit

a dress identical to Caprice’s throwing her weight against it.

We can’t let him in just yet!”

“That’s