

Chapter 162

"What? You are going to confess to Alpha? Oh my God!"

Sara's cheerful voice came out of the phone. Sophia grinned upon realizing how content her friend was.

"Y-Yeah."

Sophia said this while tapping on the keyboard.

She gave Bryan his coffee a long time ago. She also made sure that Beta Robert had a cup of coffee.

He was the beta of the pack. How could she disrespect him like that?

She was now discussing her plan with Sara while seated in the chair behind the desk.

"I have no doubt he will accept your feelings. The way his mother offered you money, I bet she would brainwash him. Thus, it would be best if you came clean about your relationship with him right away."

By listening to her, Sophia was only thinking about how Juliana was acting toward her while they were at Bryan's house. She told Sara everything. Sara was the only person to whom she could express her pain and happiness.

"Sophia, you definitely need to take a firm hold of your position. There is so much competition around you."

With a sigh, Sophia answered,

"He is the only thing that matters to me. I know he loves me. I just want him to accept my heart, just like he accepted the matebond."

She talked to Sara for a while. She asked her about her vacation. Sara said they were having fun.

Just as Sophia took a quick glance at the clock, she became aware that it was already time for the pack meeting.

As soon as she finished hanging up the phone, she immediately dialed the number of the receptionist. She inquired as to whether or not any other Alphas had arrived yet.

"What? They are already here."

Quickly rising to her feet, Sophia made her way to the meeting room in order to check on everything.

On the way, she ran into Troy.

"Hey!"

"Hello, Troy."

"You look in a hurry."

"Yeah, I came to check first, then I will go to inform Alpha," she replied, peeking inside the meeting room.

"I reviewed everything. Don't worry. You can go ahead and call Alpha. "This is an important meeting."

"Thanks, Troy."

She headed to Bryan's cabin. She knocked on the door and waited outside until he spoke out.

"Come in."

As she opened the door, she noticed Bryan staring out the window. His hands were tucked into his pockets.

"It's time for the meeting. Other Alphas were waiting for you in the meeting room."

Bryan turned around. Sophia gulped when his gaze fell directly on her.

He walked toward her. She lowered her head when he approached her. He came to a stop in front of her.

She blinked her eyes, looking at the floor.

"Has your brother returned home?" he asked calmly.

She looked up at him with brighter eyes. "Yeah. Thanks a lot."

His eyes observed her bright face and asked,

"For what?"

She bit her bottom lip and looked away from him. She took a slow step forward, gathering the courage to hug him.

She buried her face against his chest and put her hands around his waist.

As his cologne reached her nostrils, she inhaled deeply. She closed her eyes and grinned. She felt all of her nervousness go away. Her wolf felt at ease, and so did her heart.

"Thank you for coming into my life. I know there are times when I do things that make you angry, but please don't get mad at me. You know what you mean to me and my life."

Bryan remained silent for a while. It seemed to her that he would not give her a hug in return. However, just as she was about to walk away, his powerful arms came down and landed on her waist, preventing her from breaking the embrace.

She moved her head to look at him. The intensity of his gaze, which was directed directly into her eyes, caused her to blush out of shyness.

He brought his hand up to her face and gently touched her chin. At a slow pace, his thumb rubbed under her chin. When she averted her gaze from him, he lifted her chin.

He leaned down his head to her face. The tip of his nose touched hers. Her heart started to beat faster.

She swallowed her breath as the closeness was making her desperate.

Bryan stared at her face. She shut her eyes. He chuckled at her shyness.

He tilted his head to the side and planted a kiss on the corner of her lips. He did not move, and neither did she.

Sophia felt the moment freeze the clock and the entire world around her.

Bryan moved away from her face and stood up straight.

"Always remember one thing. I never allow anyone to be my weakness."

Sophia opened her eyes when she heard him. He patted her head and unwrapped his hands from her body.

He turned around and headed to the door.

Sophia stared at his back while thinking,

"What did he mean?"

When Bryan left the cabin, she shook her head and hurriedly left the cabin to follow him.

She touched the corner of her lips and said in her head,

"Weakness? Am I his weakness? But he said he never allow..."

Bryan entered the meeting room. All the Alphas got up to give him a courteous greeting.

Bryan nodded to them before settling into the head chair.

The meeting started. Sophia began reporting everything to Bryan whenever he inquired about the project.

Most of the Alphas came from nearby packs.

While Sophia was occupied with the meeting, her phone rang unexpectedly.

Her eyes widened as she realized her phone had interrupted the meeting.

She immediately glanced at the screen and noticed an unknown number.

She lowered the volume. She turned her attention to Bryan, who was sitting close to her.

She expected Bryan to be angry, but he did not look angry at all. He glanced at her phone before shifting his gaze to hers.

"I don't know who's calling. It must be Mom. She mentioned she was going to her friend's house," Sophia said in a lower tone.

Other men in the room chuckled at Sophia. They felt that Sophia was really young to be the assistant of the pack's head Alpha.

It was not about only making coffee or accompanying the head Alpha. But it was all about being the secret keeper of the head Alpha in business.

"Assistant Sophia should know that Alpha will never allow anyone to pick up the ca--"

"Take it."

Bryan interrupted the brand management director and told Sophia to accept the call.

Everyone shut their mouths and stared at Bryan in shock.

Sophia smiled at Bryan and excused everyone, then rushed outside so that others could continue the meeting.

"That's my man!" she muttered with a broad smile, thinking about Bryan's permission.

She noticed the missed call and was about to call the number, but the caller called her once again.

She quickly picked up the call. Before she could speak, the person on the other end of the phone spoke up.

"You told me to contact you. But now you are ignoring my phone calls!"
