

Chapter 181

Abraham was walking back and forth in the living room. He was waiting for his sister. He could not sleep the whole night out of worry.

A while ago, Sophia called him and told him that she was coming back home.

He could not help but tell his mother that Sophia was totally fine and that she was with her friends last night.

After hearing that, his mother let out a breath of relief.

He told her that Sophia would take time to return, so she should go to sleep first since she also could not sleep last night.

He was fortunate that his mother agreed and went to sleep.

He wanted to talk to Sophia alone. She did not sound very good when she called him. Her voice was cold and emotionless, which scared him with so many possible dangers.

His eyes fell outside through the window when a cab stopped in front of his house.

Sophia got out of the cab. He dashed out of the house and walked toward her.

"Sophi."

Sophia stopped her steps and raised her head to look at him.

Abraham's eyes widened when he saw her swollen eyes. Water was dripping out of her dress.

He glanced at the cab and saw it drive away. He returned his attention to her and asked with a shaken tone.

"What happened to you?"

Sophia's lips trembled, then she took a deep breath and replied,

"Nothing."

She was about to walk past him. But Abraham grabbed her wrist and pulled her back to her place.

"Tell me what happened. D-Did someone--"

"No, I was in the forest last night."

She interrupted him and replied.

She knew he had thought someone had tried to do something bad to her.

But that was not the truth. She explained it to her brother so that he did not have to worry about it.

Abraham sighed with relief.

He cupped her cheeks and asked,

"You said everything was over. What did you mean by that?"

She shook her head in response. "Nothing."

"You wanted to tell me something yesterday. What did you want to share? I'm all ears."

Sophia looked away from her brother. The dried eyes began to fill with tears. She blinks her eyes to push them away.

However, a few tears fell down on her cheeks.

"Why are you crying?" he asked with confusion.

He wanted to know why she even went to the forest at night. It was not safe for her.

"I tried, brother."

Her words were confusing to him. "What are you talking about?"

She hugged him and cried. "Brother, I tried to move on and start a new life. But..."

She could not say anything more. Her brother's hands froze around her.

"Who broke your heart this time?" he asked her in anger.

She broke the hug and wiped her tears. She realized that if she told him everything, his brother would quit his job on his own.

She could not tell him what had happened between her and Bryan.

So she chose to tell him half the truth.

She lowered her head and replied,

"I wanted to start a new life with the man my fate chose for me. But he doesn't want me, brother."

His brother was stunned. He observed her broken look and muttered,

"How can you expect anything from him? His Luna was fixed a long time ago."

Sophia was taken aback. "Y-You knew about it?"

He wiped her tears that rolled down her cheeks again. "Of course, I knew about it. I am his Gamma. "

Her heart shattered once again. "It looks like everyone knew about it except me," she mumbled.

Abraham dragged her inside the house and closed the door.

"When I heard you joined the Morrison Group, I was angry at you. I was actually worried that Alpha would hurt you. I knew that he didn't break the engagement because it was already fixed. I was mad at first at him because he is your mate, and that he was thinking about making another woman his Luna. But then I realized that it would be better if you stayed away from him. He is a good Alpha for our pack, but not a good man for you. You are too good for him."

Abraham put his hand on her head and said,

"I thought you loved Bruce, so this type of thought never crossed my mind."

Sophia felt embarrassed in front of her brother. He was right. Anyone would think that.

She was with Bruce in the past; then, how could she fall for his elder brother?

"It's because he is my mate," she mumbled.

Abraham shook his head. "The life between the royal life and ordinary life is way more different, Sophia. Don't even think about that path. Their relationships totally depend on deals. They don't have hearts but only powers."

Sophia laughed in her head. How she wished she could understand that before giving her heart to that cruel man.

Abraham did not know how Bryan played with her all these months. He only knew his sister fell for her mate. He thought she could get rid of it just like she moved on from Bruce.

"Where is mom?" she asked, changing the topic.

"She is sleeping in her room. She didn't want to. I had to convince her."

"Okay, I'm going to my room. You should also take some rest."

Abraham nodded at her. Sophia walked to the staircase. But she paused as something hit her mind.

She immediately turned around and asked,

"You knew that if he married someone else, he would have to reject me; if he did, I could end up dead. Then how did you stay so calm all these months?"

He looked at her calmly and said,

"On the first day of my training in the camp, Alpha came to talk to me about this matter."

She raised her brows. "What did he say?"

He smiled at her and replied,

"He said there is a way to break the mate bond. Only he knows about it. He also assured me that you would not be hurt by it."
