

Chapter 499

"She really said that?" Ryan muttered while looking at Glen.

Glen nodded at him. Neil strolled to him and asked,

"Glen, why didn't you inform me about it?"

"Alpha, I always thought Ethan liked Allison; that was why I never put up the matter in front of you."

"But Georgiana never said anything like that to me. However, she said something similar to it. She said Ethan's prosperity would depend on Allison. If she stays closer to him, he will become a powerful Alpha."

Ryan frowned at the two fathers who were discussing their children's lives. He could not help but scoff.

"And you all believe in her?"

Glen turned to him and said, "I know you have feelings for my daughter, but my hands are locked, my son. I can't push her to death. She is not an ordinary omega. I have been hiding her wolf since her childhood."

Alpha Neil looked at Ryan and said,

"Ryan, how can we not trust Georgiana? She has the vision to see the future. No prophecy of hers has even gone wrong. She is the greatest of all the powers. A lunar witch, the highest rank in the most powerful coven."

Ryan gazed at his father and nodded his head. "That was why she took advantage of her abilities and used the opportunity to fool you all."

"Fool? What are you talking about, Ryan?" Neil asked.

But instead of Ryan, Allison replied the answer,

"H-He is my mate."

Everyone turned to Allison. Glen's voice shook as he asked,

"Who?"

"Ryan is my mate, Dad." She mumbled and lowered her head.

Both of their parents' eyes widened. Glen pressed his hand over his chest and stepped back.

"DAD!"

Allison screamed and grabbed him, along with her mother.

"Glen, are you okay?" Joey asked. She was also shocked to hear her daughter. It was unbelievable to them.

"T-This can't be possible." Glen said and tried to take deep breaths."

"Linus, help him." Ethan told Linus since he was the pack doctor and he was also there to look for everyone's wounds after the war.

Linus went to Glen and put out an air pump from his pockets. After using it, Glen was able to return to his normal self.

At that moment, nobody spoke to one another. Ryan was maintaining his composure as he observed everything. But his official was the only one who could comprehend the wrath that was roaring out of his body.

He refocused his attention on his officials and turned to face them.

"Did you all hear what they say?" He asked them. Then his eyes shifted to Elora.

She was present there, standing in a corner.

"Come here." He ordered with a deep voice.

"Ryan, she is not-"

Ethan was about to take a stand for Elora, but he was paused by Ryan's glare.

Elora walked to Ryan while lowering her head. Everyone could notice that she was crying. Her cheeks and eyelashes were full of tears.

"Did you know about all of these?" He asked her with a deep voice.

She sobbed and shook her head.

"Words, Elora."

"N-No, A-Alpha. I didn't know that she was planning all of these."

He nodded his head. He lifted his hand, and she flinched in fear. But he rested his head on her head and said,

"I didn't make you a hybrid to feel fear like this. Right after this moment, it will be a tough time for you. I hope you will not lose your loyalty and disobey your Alpha in any situation."

Everyone was shocked when they heard Ryan. Ethan parted his lips and asked,

"You made her hybrid?"

Ryan glanced at him and replied,

"Didn't she say before rejecting you that she is a true hybrid? I made her hybrid to save her life."

"I didn't know that my son was that powerful." Neil spoke out.

"You know nothing about your son." Ryan replied without looking at him.

Neil felt bad that he was right; he did not know much about him. But he was happy that Ryan at least acknowledged that he was his son.

"Where is she? Find her and bring her in front of my eyes." Ryan ordered his officials.

They were about to leave the pack house when Wade entered with a few guards. But with them was a woman. They were grabbing her arms while dragging her inside.

"Alpha, look at them. They dared to lock me up. I was looking for you, but they dragged me here." The woman spoke the moment she entered the pack house.

"Nice try, Georgiana. I was also looking for you." Ryan said with a maniacal smile.

Everyone was holding their breath. They were amazed by the way Ryan handled every situation. No matter what danger was in front of him, he looked calm or indifferent, as if nothing was affecting him and he was enjoying dealing with it.

"Leave her." Ryan ordered the guards, and they released Georgiana.

He walked to the couch and sat down in a relaxed manner. He lit up a cigarette and looked at her.

Georgiana looked around the living room and could guess what had happened. She could see anger in everyone's eyes for her.

Her eyes shifted toward Ethan, who was glaring at her. She immediately looked away and walked to Ryan.

On the other hand, Ryan gazed at Ethan and asked,

"Why did you send your man after her, big brother?" There was amusement in his tone.

Ethan turned his head to Ryan and responded,

"This woman was going to kill me during the war when I was lying on the bed. In fact, she almost killed my wolf when she first came to check on me. I could hear her at that time. I heard each and everything. I was lucky that you saved me that night with your blood. Otherwise, this woman had already planned my grave."

"Ryan saved you?" Neil and Ella asked at the same time. Elora and Allison were stunned as they looked at Ryan, who was peacefully smoking.

Meanwhile, Georgiana could not help but gasp.

"Y-You saved him? I was right. You saved your brother. But why?" She asked Ryan with wide eyes.

"Of course, I saved him. If a brother can't help another, then what is the meaning of the relationship of blood?"

"B-But you sai-"

"That you saved him?"

Georgiana nodded her head. Her mind was puzzled by Ryan.

Ryan blew out the smoke and replied,

"Georgiana James, you have forgotten who I am. By just looking at your eyes, I can say that you are lying. Didn't I warn you that day not to play any trick with me in any way? But tonight, I found out about your biggest conspiracy of all time.

Didn't you do the same with your daughter, too, by pushing her to death?

My bad! Looks like my own witch has turned out to be a disloyal bitch."
