

Chapter 506

His driver started the car. When the car started moving, she felt her life would also move from there.

She turned her head to look at the pack house. She had a great connection with this pack house. She would miss it a lot.

She felt upset that she could not go to see her house for the last time.

She believed they would come back here soon.

She did a quick head turn and cast a glance in Ryan's direction. He was sitting like a mannequin. There was no movement, no speech, and absolutely nothing else. His eyes were dull and distant.

"What's wrong with him?" She mumbled.

His head turned to her side, and she immediately averted her gaze from him. She acted like she was looking outside through the window by his side.

He leaned his back on the seat and rested his head. He closed his eyes. She looked at his face.

'Such a handsome man!' She thought and felt eager to hug this man.

Her wolf jumped inside her at the thought that she could spend time with her mate.

Now she understood why her wolf had always desired to be with him and why she had fallen in love with him. It was due to the fact that he was her mate. That was the reason she felt that way when she was around him.

She was powerless to stop herself from uttering his name.

"Ryan"

She did not receive a response from him. She heaved a sigh as she continued to stare at him.

"How long will you be angry with me?"

As soon as he heard her question, he opened both of his eyes. She drew a breath and then turned her gaze away from him.

"Why are you giving it any thought at all? Just move on and live your life as fate has decided for you. You were going to be the Moonlight Crown Pack's Luna. Now, it has changed into the Black Moon pack. Just focus on your responsibilities and ignore everything else."

She turned her gaze toward him. His eyes met hers. She was entranced by the look in his eyes.

She started pondering the various ways in which she could gain his love back.

"You said I could never win your heart. What if I can?"

His brows furrowed. "I will never open my heart for you."

"What if I open it for myself and then enter? You can't separate me from yourself, Ryan. I am going to be your Luna."

He kept his calm without responding. He closed his eyes again and then replied,

"I can't separate you, but there are so many ways to keep myself away from you."

It broke Allison's heart. Why was he talking like that?

She felt sore. She also leaned back against her seat and closed her eyes.

After a while, the car started to shake because of the bumpy road.

Her body shifted forward, but the seat belt saved her. She pressed her palm on the back of the front seat to keep her balance. On the other hand, the pressure caused her wrist to hurt. She writhed in agony and hissed.

She examined the wrist that was bandaged while holding it in the other hand.

She heard Ryan yelling at the driver.

"Watch out while driving."

"Y-Yes, Alpha. It's just that this road is damaged. I didn't take a shortcut since we all have to go together."

Ryan did not say anything to the driver. His focus shifted to the bandage that was on Allison's wrist.

Allison turned her head to the side and focused her attention on the shifting scenery beyond the window.

Suddenly, she heard Ryan,

"My pack is not like your old pack. My pack members are different and dangerous. They are hungry beasts who only know how to fight. After getting there, you will need to acquire a great deal of knowledge. Colin will help you learn to fight. Just cooperate with him and others."

She shifted her focus to gaze at him. "I have already learned many things. I'm a trained Luna."

"Should I repeat what I've said? That pack is different from your old pack. Being another Alpha's Luna and being Alpha Ryan's Luna both are far different. To be able to compete or stand next to him, you will have to be perfect in everything."

She smiled at him and gave him a nod.

"I will do everything for you."

He turned his head away from her and replied,

"Stop thinking about other things. The Black Moon Pack is not a joke. The most difficult part for you will be getting used to living there."

"I can bear any difficulties for you." She uttered those words while maintaining her gaze on him.

She felt like the table had just turned. After two years, she finally got even with him by teasing him in the same way that he used to tease her in the past.

While remembering the good old days, she couldn't help but chuckle.

"Stop laughing like a crazy woman."

"I am crazy for you." She mumbled and almost slapped her own mouth to mumble nonsense.

He looked at her with his sharp eyes. She shut her eyes and pretended to be sleeping.

'His eyes almost killed me.' She thought.

To her surprise, she fell asleep in the car. She had trouble falling asleep in the guest room since Ryan kept messing with her mind, which made it difficult for her to get to sleep. But at this moment, he was there with her, occupying the seat next to her. Her heart was experiencing a sense of relaxation so that she could sleep peacefully.

She did not know when her head leaned to the side.

The man beside her held her head and rested it on his shoulder. His eyes were focused on her hand. He held her hand and opened the bandage to look at her wounded wrist, which had been burned by spells.

His fingertips gently rubbed over the swollen red marks. His gaze moved to the woman, who was leaning her head against his shoulder.

"You need to work hard, Woman."
