

Chapter 90

"Alpha, where are we going?" Sophia asked him.

"You will see when we reach there," Bryan replied while focusing his eyes on the road.

He was her mate, and she trusted him blindly.

She kept glancing at him. He looked in a good mood. She did not want to ruin it by asking more questions.

The whole ride was silent.

The car stopped in front of a place. Sophia got out of the car and looked at the nameplate.

"Love Dines"

It looked like a restaurant. It had only one floor, which she could see from outside.

Bryan signaled her with his head to walk inside. She entered the place and felt stunned.

There was a small reception area. But from the glass doors, she could see that it was an open place.

"Alpha, this way," the manager said as he himself came to take them to the place Bryan had booked for them.

Sophia looked around while heading to the area; they had to walk a little before they reached the place.

"Please take seats," the manager said as he gestured his hand to the only table there, which was in the middle of the garden.

The decorations on the trees around the table amazed Sophia. Yellow lights were set up in the trees that were brightening the place.

She could see a big candle on the table. She walked to the table with a happy face. She turned her head and saw that the manager had left the area, leaving them alone.

"Alpha, it's so beautiful!" she mumbled with a cheerful voice.

As they took their seats on the two chairs at the table, Bryan gazed at her.

"Do you like it?"

"Of course, it's fascinating."

Bryan chuckled and shook his head. "It's nothing."

In a few minutes, dinner had been served on their table. Sophia could not be more surprised by the appealing dishes.

Bryan gestured to her to start eating. "You are hungry, aren't you?"

She grabbed his plate first, started to fill it with food, and placed it in front of him. After that, she held her plate.

"You first," she said with a warm smile.

He stared at her all the time while having dinner. She was nervously eating and trying to avoid his gaze.

After dinner, the waiters came to clean the table. They poured red wine into two glasses for them and bowed to Bryan.

"Have a great time."

Sophia glanced at the wine and shook her head. She wanted to make this night memorable for her. As Sara told her, she also believed that Bryan would tell her about his feelings tonight. So, she could not get drunk to ruin this unforgettable night.

She stood up to see the whole place since it looked like a beautiful open garden.

Bryan gripped his glass and swallowed the whole drink.

His eyes were fixed on her. Her every movement was captured by his eyes as they studied her.

A butterfly on a flower caught Sophia's attention.

"So beautiful!" she said while looking at the butterfly.

She was unaware that Bryan had stood up and approached her from behind.

"Exactly, so beautiful!"

She heard Bryan's voice close to her right ear.

She froze when a pair of strong arms wrapped around her waist and pulled her backward, which made her body press against a hard chest.

"A-Alpha--"

She was interrupted when he rested his chin on her shoulder and kissed her neck.

"Hmm?"

His hum and the touch of his lips both gave her goosebumps. He enjoyed seeing the reaction of her body to his touches.

She closed her eyes and took a deep breath when his nose brushed her neck.

"Aahh!"

She moaned when she felt him nipping her neck lightly, then sucking in the skin.

Hearing her moan caused his hold on her waist to become more firm.

"Do you know what I feel whenever I see you?" he asked her.

She was eager to know that, but the sensation of his touch was making her feel an unthinkable pleasure.

He turned her around to him. Her breasts squeezed against his chest. His eyes slowly shifted to her cleavage.

She felt shy and tried to move away from him, but he pressed her against the tree close to them and asked,

"What are you getting shy about? You can't even imagine what I will do to you."

His words were intimate, and she shyly looked at him.

"I-I..."

She was lost for words. He lifted his hand and touched her lips with his thumb.

He parted her lips using his thumb but did not give her a chance to speak as he smashed his lips on hers.

The unexpected kiss caused her eyes to widen in surprise. At the moment that he began to move his lips on hers, she carefully wrapped her hands around his neck to convey to him that she wanted him just as much as he wanted her.

The kiss heated when he pressed his body against hers.

She felt his hands begin to roam around her body.

When his hands and his long fingers made contact with her soft breasts, it caused her to moan in the kiss again. He took the chance and pushed his tongue inside her mouth.

He kissed her deeply and hungrily as if there were no tomorrow.

When she was feeling breathless, he let go of her lips and attacked her neck.

Her hands caressed his hair when he was kissing her neck. She had never thought someone would ever make her feel like this.

Was it because he was her mate or because he had the charm to make any woman feel like this?

Bryan moved his head and pressed his forehead against hers as both of them took deep breaths.

"Be mine, Sophia."

She was stunned by his words. She immediately looked at him.

He had finally confessed his feelings to her. A burden of worry left her heart as she found her true love in him.

He released her and took a step back to look at her. She turned to the other side to avoid his gaze. She had a shy smile on her face that she wanted to hide from him.

She wanted to tell him that she was his. She wished to be his for all of eternity.

He spoke again, which made her focus on his words.

"My wolf wants you. Since you are my mate, he can't resist you."

She thought that he was talking about accepting her as his life partner.

But the reality was cruel.

The ground slipped beneath her legs when she heard Bryan's next statements.

"Do you remember when I took back my order for your brother's position? I told you to wait for my command. It's the right time for you to pay back. Be the woman who can satisfy my desire. All you have to do is come to me whenever I need you. In exchange, I'll give you a luxurious life that every woman dreams of."