Chapter 531: Rich People, Strong Army, Northern Glacier Town's Reforms! 1

The world was in chaos and evildoers appeared frequently.

Many people thought that they had read a lot of books and traveled all over the world. Their knowledge was broad enough, but they were still refreshed by what had happened over the years.

As the war between the six dynasties became more and more intense, new things that had never been seen before were happening everywhere in the world.

Of course, with the war, there would definitely be the separation of wives and children.

The world was filled with people fleeing from famine.

However, all the countries were fighting, and the entire world was like a pot of boiling water. Who could escape the flames of war?

There might be some in places far away from the flames of war.

However, compared to the billions of ordinary people in the world, it was too little. The lives of the vast majority of people were like duckweed floating in the waves of war. No one knew if they could continue to float on the surface of the water when the next wave hit.

At this time of chaos, Northern Ice River Town should be one of the few utopia places. Because the north of Northern Ice River Town was directly adjacent to the Hundred Thousand Mountains, it was the territory of the Star Moon Army's ally, Little Fox.

The neighboring country to the south was the Great Zhou, but the Great Zhou had just been repelled by Li Yueming's army. In addition, the Great Qi was causing trouble at the border, so they did not have the energy to care about the matters of Northern Glacier Town.

There was no need to talk about the west side. With the Western Garrison Army guarding Human Emperor Pass, as long as the Qin army did not attack, the west side would be relatively stable. Great Qin was also unable to take care of itself. They had not even finished digesting the resources that they had plundered from the Great Zhou Dynasty, so they did not plan to go to war in the short term.

It was also under such circumstances that the other countries were in chaos, but Northern Glacier Town had regained its rare peace in this chaotic world.

According to the rough calculations of the upper echelons of the Starmoon Troop, this hard-won war window would probably last for another 20 to 30 years. This should be the last critical golden period of development for Northern Ice River Town before the disaster that would affect the entire continent. Whether or not they could defy the heavens and change their fate would depend on how Northern Ice River Town and the Starmoon Troop would develop in these 30 years.

In short, he could not miss any opportunity.

After making up his mind, the Starmoon Army began to expand on a large scale.

The first was the actual amount of land they had occupied. In the past, other than Northern Ice River Town, which was built along the waters of the Northern Ice River, although the other cities had some connections with the Star Moon Army, they did not dare to publicly bind themselves to the Star Moon Army.

The northwest was only nominally controlled by the Star Moon Army and the Western Garrison Army. In reality, it was only in name. Most of the land in the northwest still belonged to the Great Zhou.

Now that the Star-Moon Army had defeated the invincible army of the Great Zhou, many factions in the northwest immediately responded to the Star-Moon Army's call and began to merge into the territory of Northern Ice River Town on a large scale.

This time, the merger was no longer like the nominal merger a few years ago.

It was a true change of course, including the payment of taxes and the appointment and dismissal of officials. Everything was based on Northern Ice

River Town.

The reason for this was naturally due to many factors.

The first reason was naturally that the Starmoon Troop had worked hard in the Northlands for so many years and won over a large number of people.

After all, in the past, although the Northern Battlefront Army and the imperial court would guard the pass, they could not protect the interests of most ordinary people and small families.

In other words, when the Qin army invaded the Northern Lands in the past decade, the ones who suffered the most were not the peasants at the bottom, but the ordinary people and the small and medium-sized families.

After all, the peasants at the bottom did not have land. Even if they were not affected by the war, they would still go hungry from time to time.

The ones who suffered the most were the farmers with land and the small and medium-sized landlords in the villages.

Their fields had been destroyed by the Qin army, so they could only wander around like refugees, living a life of exile.

Under such circumstances, the arrival of the Starmoon Troop provided them with a shot in the arm.

Unlike the Northern Battlefront Army, which was stationed in the important passes, the Star Moon Army was mostly stationed in small and medium-sized towns. They were well-trained and had high fighting spirit. They could fight head-on with the Qin army without falling into a disadvantage.

In the past ten years, he had protected countless people in small and medium-sized towns.

Later on, the 12 cities of the north were all taken by the Qin army. Under the Qin army's cavalry, the more important passes were basically not spared.

Ten of the twelve cities in the north had probably become empty cities.

Because attacking the small and medium-sized towns was not worth it, the Qin army did not have much energy to snatch the resources of the small and medium-sized towns.

Now that the influence of the big towns had plummeted, as long as they had the support of the citizens of these small and medium-sized towns, there would be no other forces in the entire North that could stop the rule of the Starmoon Army.

After spending two years to bring the entire Northlands under the management of Northern Glacier Town.

The Starmoon Troop officially became a powerful military force that divided the two regions.

Because the Western Garrison Army had a small population, they did not have the ability to quickly annex the western border. After hesitating for a long time, they finally did not choose to annex the territory of the western border. Instead, they gave the territory to Li Yueming.

It had to be said that the current Western Garrison Liege Lord was a bold and courageous lord.

If the Western Garrison Army and the Star-Moon Army were to split up in the northwest, it would not be long before all kinds of contradictions and conflicts would arise between the two. At that time, the alliance between the Star-Moon Army and Northern Glacier Town might be shaken..

Chapter 532: Rich People, Strong Army, Northern Glacier Town I s Reforms! 2

Besides, the West Garrison Army was different from the North Glacier Town, which had a huge population and was full of talented people. They probably only had a population of 300,000. It was really impossible for them to annex such a large piece of land in the west.

If the Western Garrison Army wanted to annex the western frontier, it was not impossible. After all, the people of the western frontier recognized the western frontier very much.

However, if they really did this, no one could guarantee that the Qin army would not take this opportunity to attack the city.

In the end, the Western Garrison Army ended up in a situation where they were unwilling to accept the offer.

Now, he had given up the entire western border.

Other than trusting Li Yueming's character and not letting the Western Garrison Army suffer losses, the main reason was that there was a very reliable relationship between the two sides. Perhaps after a few generations, the relationship between the Western Garrison Army and the Star Moon Army would fade.

However, at least for now, the alliance between the two sides was unbreakable, whether it was from the perspective of blood ties or benefits.

In fact, Li Yueming did not let the Western Garrison Army suffer any losses.

The western frontier was more barren than the north because, other than the cold climate in the north, most of the land was more suitable for farming. However, the western frontier was different. Other than the land near the southwest of the Great Zhou Dynasty, most of the land in the northwest was yellow sand. There was no way to grow any crops.

The Western Garrison Army was located at the Human Emperor Pass at the edge of the western border. There was yellow sand everywhere, and there was no land suitable for farming. Only by carefully protecting the land could they expand some land suitable for farming.

The West Garrison Army had been cultivating the land in Human Emperor Pass for generations. They had managed to obtain a piece of land that could barely make a living after thousands of years of operation. Of course, the population could not increase.

Therefore, Li Yueming took the initiative to send the improved seeds to the West Garrison Army.

Many of them were crops with rough skin and thick meat that were resistant to drought.

At the beginning, the Garrison Liege Lord didn't show too much joy at this gift.

However, as these special crops were planted, the Western Garrison Liege Lord quickly discovered the uniqueness of the seeds sent by Li Yueming.

Not only was its skin tough and tough, it was not easily affected by the outside world. Its output was also about half of the grain output in the Western Garrison City!

What kind of concept was this?

On the same mu of land, the crops sent by North Glacier Town could feed half the population of the Western Garrison Army!!!

In other words, the population of the Western Garrison Army could be increased by 50%.

With this 50% of grain production, it was not impossible for the strength of the Western Garrison Army to double.

Through the exchange of interests between the two sides, the relationship between Northern Ice River Town and the Western Garrison Army became even closer.

And expanding the land was only a part of the development direction of Northern Glacier Town over the years.

As the land continued to expand, Northern Glacier Town was also recruiting talents from all over the place.

After all, the vast land required a larger number of managers. Although Northern Glacier Town had a large number of talents, it was still unable to meet the development needs.

As for the recruitment target, there were no other countries around Northern Glacier Town. They could only poach the Great Zhou.

This was because of the conflicts between the Great Zhou royal family and the other small nobles over the years.

Once Li Yueming's recruitment notice was sent out, many scholars in the Great Zhou were tempted.

However, due to the hatred between the country and the family, many scholars could not bring themselves to go to Northern Ice River Town to develop.

Li Yueming couldn't do anything about it.

There were many people in the world who had a bottom line, but there were also many people who did not.

Especially after the Star Moon Army promised high positions and generous salaries, many scholars chose to go to Northern Glacier Town to seek development.

In just two short years, the number of scholars in the Star Moon Army had doubled. This was the result of the Great Zhou Imperial Court stopping it after discovering that something was wrong. Otherwise, half of the scholars in the Great Zhou Imperial Court would have been poached by Northern Ice River Town.

With scholars who could read and write and had learned the teachings of the saints, the other towns that Northern Ice River Town had already accepted could be governed.

Li Yueming asked Tian Liang and the others to jointly formulate a set of laws that could be implemented in the entire northwest on the basis of the laws of North Glacier Town. They issued them and began to prepare for implementation.

In order not to be suspected, Li Yueming did not do this on his own. He only added his own opinions after Tian Liang and the others had drafted the draft of the law.

As experienced reincarnators, Tian Liang and the others naturally had a set of rules.

In fact, it took them less than half a month to complete this task that required ordinary people to study for decades.

It wasn't that they were extraordinary, but that how to set laws in the fantasy world had long become a compulsory course for reincarnators who specialized in personal power.

Under Li Yueming's planning, the first ten-year plan of North Glacier Town was released.

In the past ten years, the Star Moon Troops had spent most of their energy on expanding their territory, expanding the scale of food production, and increasing the population in the northwest.

Under the circumstances where everyone was united, this plan had achieved considerable results.

After the completion of the first ten-year plan, North Glacier Town officially became a military force that occupied the two northwestern regions. The population under its command was close to ten million..

Chapter 533: Rich People, Strong Army, Northern Glacier Town I s Reforms!_3

At the same time, all the fertile land in the lower reaches of the Northern Ice River and other towns were planted with the No. 3 wheat seed carefully cultivated by the beast tamers, as well as other crops that increased production.

In just a few years.

The food production of the Northern Glacier Town military group was rising steadily.

The lives of the people under his command were improving at a speed visible to the naked eye.

The surrounding Qin and Zhou countries suddenly realized: Ten years ago, the northwest region was still on the verge of death. Smoke and flames of war were everywhere, and a tremendous vitality that made people panic suddenly burst out!

Everyone was extremely suspicious of the rapid development of Northern Glacier Town.

Weren't the western and northern regions of the Great Zhou famous for being barren?

Why was it that under the governance of the Star Moon Army, the vitality that burst forth was even stronger than those fertile lands?

The Qin and Zhou empires, who had a bad premonition, sent out wave after wave of spies to gather information.

However, he still could not grasp the core point.

It wasn't because these spies were incompetent, but because the development of Northern Glacier Town was too astonishing. It wasn't something that a single core reform could achieve.

He ignored the gazes of the other countries.

Year 7853 of the Great Zhou Royal Calendar. The first ten-year plan of Northern Ice River Town had come to an end.

Li Yueming began to formulate and implement the second ten-year plan.

The main goal of the second ten-year plan was to strengthen the army and the people.

There was no need to say much about a strong army.

The geographical location of Northern Glacier Town was very special.

Whether it was the Great Zhou or the Great Qin, they could not allow it to develop and grow.

Not to mention the Great Zhou, the two places in the northwest were cut off from the Great Zhou. If there was a chance, the Great Zhou would definitely think of ways to take them back.

On the surface, Great Qin and Li Yueming were teammates.

But that was on the basis that Li Yueming would not threaten the Qin army.

Once Northern Ice River Town became stronger, Great Qin would not be able to gain much from Li Yueming, and the relationship between the two sides would plummet. At that time, if Great Qin wanted to invade the Great Zhou, they would not be able to go through the Hundred Thousand Mountains and would have to continue attacking Human Emperor Pass.

If the two sides did not do well, they would fight each other.

Therefore, whether it was to unify the world and rule the Central Plains, or simply to protect themselves in this chaotic world, it was necessary to strengthen the strength of the Star Moon Army.

After the start of the Second Ten-year Plan, the Star Moon Army began to recruit soldiers on a large scale.

The Star Moon Troop, which had lost less than 300,000 soldiers, had expanded to 500,000.

Li Yueming also did not neglect the training and education of the army.

With Ding Yi as the leader, a few reincarnators who were good at war established the Military Academy.

He taught the basic level generals of the Star Moon Army how to lead troops in battle.

At the same time, Li Yueming's plan to strengthen the people was also carried out simultaneously.

Because of the bumper harvests in the past few years, the population of the Northern Glacier Town Group had increased explosively.

Nowadays, as long as every household had a family and a career, most of them would bring two to three children with them.

Under great pressure, Li Yueming began to implement a free education system. In just a few years, he established nearly a hundred schools, which were roughly divided into three categories.

One was the beginner class, which was specially set up for children and adults who did not have a foundation in writing. Because the content of the beginner class was simple, as long as they were citizens of Northern Glacier Town, they did not need to pay money and could obtain the opportunity to enter the beginner class through labor.

The other was the special class, which was created for people who already had a certain cultural background. They taught them how to improve their farming techniques.

The content of the special class was slightly more complicated. Ordinary people who wanted to study here had to pay some tuition fees.

The Star Moon Army would provide subsidies and deductions for students with good academic performance.

As for the last class, it was the World Ruling Class.

As the name implied, the world governance class meant governing the world.

This school also did not charge money, but the content of the lessons was the most complicated among the three types of schools.

If one wanted to enter this school, not only did one have to master the content of the beginner class, but one also had to have a certain amount of talent before they could be selected to become a reserve officer of the Starmoon Army.

After establishing these schools, Li Yueming issued a series of combination punches.

After all, the people's desire for knowledge was one level lower than food, so it was not easy to get them to give up production and learn 'useless' knowledge.

However, Li Yueming was also very experienced in this.

Anyway, the world is bustling, all for profit; The world is bustling, all for profit.

As long as they saw the real benefits, the people would naturally think of ways to climb up Li Yueming's policy.

This set of combined punches not only greatly increased the people's enthusiasm for labor, but also greatly improved the basic quality of the people of Northern Glacier Town. As long as they persisted in carrying out this set of punches, the Northern Lands, which used to be a place where talents were scarce and the environment was difficult, would also hatch talents that could change the world.

After all, Northern Glacier Town still had to continue to develop in the future. They needed a group of talents who were completely bound to the Starmoon Army to assist them. Only then could they continue to advance. They couldn't possibly keep poaching the talents of other countries, right?

In the year 7863 of the Great Zhou Dynasty, Li Yueming was 55 years old. The second ten-year plan of North Glacier Town had come to an end.

It was different from twenty years ago, when there was smoke everywhere and nine out of ten houses were empty.

Li Yueming spent a lot of effort to completely change the appearance of the people in the northwest.

Chapter 534: Translate, Translate, What is a Surprise?_1

Twenty years ago, when they had just announced their departure from the Great Zhou, Northern Ice River Town was still a small city. Although the entire northwest region was nominally under the jurisdiction of Northern Ice River Town, in reality, it had not received the recognition of everyone.

It was not until the war with the Great Zhou that shocked the world that Li Yueming led the Star Moon Army to fight against the entire Great Zhou with the strength of the northwest. In the end, the insufferably arrogant Great Zhou army was defeated and fled all the way back to the front line of the Dragon Conqueror Pass, not daring to show up again.

Only then did the Star Moon Troop officially become famous among the countries of the world.

At the same time, they had also subdued the Great Zhou and Great Qin, who were eyeing them covetously. Through this, they had obtained more than 20 years of precious peace in this chaotic world.

After Li Yueming himself, as well as the dozens of reincarnators from the Star Moon Army and countless knowledgeable people, together for decades, Northern Glacier Town had undergone earth-shattering changes.

After the first round of reform, the Star-Moon Army had finally completely digested the benefits of the previous war.

The land controlled by Northern Glacier Town bordered the territory of Prince

Yu to the east, connected to the remaining mountains of the Hundred

Thousand Mountains at the end of the western border to the west, included Dingyuan City and other border tidal towns to the north, and extended to the south all the way to the outside of the Dragon and Tiger Subduing Pass.

The actual territory spanned nearly ten thousand miles from east to west and thousands of miles from north to south.

Even though 70% to 80% of the land was barren land that was unsuitable for human survival and farming, the size of the land was already shocking enough.

At the same time, because Li Yueming attached great importance to production, not only did he send capable people to research high-yield crops, but he also spared no effort to promote them.

As a result, the grain production of Northern Glacier Town had also increased explosively in recent years.

According to Tian Liang's preliminary statistics, from the start of the first ten-year plan to the completion of the first ten-year plan, the grain production of Northern Glacier Town and its twenty-three first-tier towns and thirty-two second-tier towns had soared by five times!!!

Because this increase was too terrifying, in order not to attract the attention of other countries, Northern Glacier Town took the initiative to hide this data. They also collected all the excess food circulating in the market through various channels.

He was deeply afraid that the detailed information about the grain production of Northern Glacier Town would spread to the outside world.

This caused other countries to covet it for no reason.

Currently, the total population of Northern Glacier Town and the towns under its rule had already exceeded 20 million. If the scattered and hard-to-count residents in other small towns and villages were included, the total population would have already exceeded 30 million.

This population was nothing compared to when there was no war in the Northlands.

After all, back when the Qin army had yet to open up the roads to the Hundred Thousand Mountains, the Northern Lands alone had a population of nearly 20 million.

However, the Star Moon Army was taking over the land that had been destroyed by the Qin army!

After the first ten years of war, the people in the northwest were often disturbed by the Qin army and its elite cavalry. As a result, they had no way to sow the crops even though they had food in their hands. Every year, there was no harvest.

Just the number of people in the North had decreased by about one-third.

In addition, after the Qin army conquered the 12 cities in the north, they burned, killed, and plundered, causing the population of the north to fall even more.

By the time the Starmoon Troops took over, there were less than eight million registered citizens in the Northwest and Northwest regions. Even if there were many refugees who had not been registered, there were at most fifteen million.

In other words, the population of Northern Glacier Town had increased by more than 15 million in just 20 years.

Every household had at least one child.

The reason why the population could recover so much in just 20 years was mostly due to Li Yueming's promotion of high-yield food.

After all, it was both easy and difficult to make the people have children.

The commoners wanted to give birth, but after giving birth, they had to have something to eat, right?

Only by satisfying their lowest needs could the population grow so quickly.

This was also the main reason why Li Yueming put increasing food production and restoring the population in the first ten year plan. Without food, there was no way to support the human population.

Without a population, they would not be able to support an army.

Without an army, it would be very difficult for one person to contend against a country.

Naturally, he would not be able to complete the difficult hidden mission.

Now that the first ten-year plan had been completed, the people who had gradually become rich in their pockets had gradually developed trust in Northern Glacier Town and Li Yueming. The second five-year plan was much easier than the first plan.

Li Yueming only needed to issue the policies jointly formulated by the upper echelons of the Star Moon Army. There was no need to specially publicize them. The people of the entire northwest region would take the initiative to study them.

Their enthusiasm was like fire, even beyond Li Yueming's own expectations. The conscription and strengthening of the people in the Second Ten-year Plan were generally supported by the people.

The people basically had no special concept of how to strengthen the people.

After all, most of them were illiterate. They had to rely on scholars to read the documents announced by Li Yueming.

Under such circumstances, it would be too much to expect them to understand what knowledge was power.

However, they did not understand the meaning of the policy of strengthening the people, but they understood what it meant to strengthen the army!

Chapter 535: Translate, Translate, What is a Surprise?_2

In the past countless years, the imperial court and the Zhenbei army would recruit soldiers outside the pass. If they could not recruit soldiers, they would even be forced to recruit.

Most of the time, the people complained about this. After all, the military conscripted young men from their families every year. They were considered strong laborers and often took care of the entire family.

Not only was his life in danger, but he would also not get much reward.

Therefore, if it wasn't for the disastrous year where they couldn't even eat their fill, the people would be extremely reluctant to recruit soldiers. But now, when he heard that the Star Moon Army was recruiting soldiers.

However, the people of the entire northwest region were all flocking to it.

As soon as the news was released, the young and middle-aged laborers lining up at the entrance of the Star Moon Army even surrounded the entire Star Moon Army headquarters in North Ice River Town.

In order to get a spot for the physical examination, there were even people who fought.

Looking at the lively scene outside the military camp, even though Ding Yi, Tian Liang, and the others were experienced and knowledgeable, they were all somewhat speechless.

Under normal circumstances, it was not easy to recruit soldiers.

Sometimes, they even had to go from house to house.

It was rare to see such a situation where the citizens would line up to send their family's pillar of support to join the army.

And the reason for this.

Tian Liang, Ding Yi, and the others also made a simple conclusion.

The Starmoon Troops were so popular in the northwest because their policies were too friendly to the people.

The slogan of conscription was not to protect the country, but to protect the people.

Although the soldiers did not have much food and pay, they would never lose a single cent of what they should have. If they died in battle, even if the Star Moon Army was so poor that they had no pants, they would still think of ways to give compensation to the soldiers who died.

Moreover, the Starmoon Army would occasionally help the families of the deceased soldiers tide over the difficulties.

Other than completing their daily drills, the Starmoon Troop spent most of their time helping the people build houses, reclaim farmland, and Hoshi's canals.

This situation was simply impossible to achieve in other countries.

It was undeniable that part of the reason was because Li Yueming, the main commander, had a strong political accomplishment. However, the biggest part was not Li Yueming, but because of the existence of the group of reincarnators.

The ultimate goal of the reincarnators was the same as Li Yueming's ultimate goal. They both wanted to do their best to build the Star Moon Army better and achieve the goal of unifying the world.

For this reason, the reincarnators did not care about other power and fame at all.

He didn't even consider what would happen after he died.

Every policy that Li Yueming issued after discussing with them was in favor of the majority of the people. As for the reincarnators' own interests, they were completely disregarded and never considered at all.

Several items were added together.

The internal politics of the Starmoon Troop was clear and prosperous.

After all, the higher-ups did not dare to take it. Even if the people below wanted to take it, they had to think twice.

Of course, there were some brave ones, but most of them died miserably.

The unity of the upper and lower levels ensured that the orders of the Star Moon Army would remain the same.

No matter which world it was, the emotions of the people were always very simple.

Who was good to them and who was bad to them? It was never about how to say it, but how to do it.

Deceit might be popular for a while, but no one was always a fool. In the end, only sincerity could obtain sincerity.

The rolling Yangtze River mows eastward, and the waves wash away all the heroes.

After less than a week, the Star Moon Army was filled to the brim, and the people who were still not satisfied even suggested that the Star Moon Army continue to expand. After all, only with more soldiers would the Star Moon

Army be able to ensure that they would not be bullied by Great Zhou or Great Qin.

Therefore, they were eager for the Star Moon Army to recruit more people.

The Star Moon Army's higher-ups didn't know whether to laugh or cry.

However, Li Yueming did not plan to expand the Star Moon Troop in a short period of time. After all, some things could be done quickly, but some things could not be done quickly.

The army was like this. If too many soldiers were recruited at once, it might cause the combat strength of the entire Star Moon Troop to drop drastically. Moreover, it might not be able to recover for several years.

The reason why the Star Moon Army had been able to grow in the gap between Great Zhou and Great Qin was not because of their large numbers, but because they were well-trained and fearless.

Li Yueming had spent a lot of effort to cultivate this spirit.

They could not let the number of recruits disperse their hard-won determination.

Therefore, in the first year of recruitment, no matter how others looked at it, Li Yueming only recruited less than 50,000 soldiers according to the original plan.

In fact, by this time, the entire northwest region had basically recovered its vitality. It had already recovered from the flames of war and began to become more and more prosperous.

For the people who had lived in the bitter cold of the northwest for generations, this could be considered a fairy-like life. They were already very satisfied with everything in front of them.

However, he did not expect that this was only the beginning of Li Yueming's reform. The real highlight was still to come.

After the recruitment was completed.

The Star Moon Troop began to build schools in the North Ice River, North City, and West City. They started to teach from the beginner class to the world governing class. They also began to tell the people in the northwest about the significance of building schools and the benefits of reading and writing.

If Li Yueming had carried out such a reform a few years ago, it was estimated that there would be no sound in the entire northwest..

Chapter 536: Translate, Translate, What is a Surprise?_3

After all, they hadn't even eaten their fill. Who had the time to do something trivial?

Even if he had the time, wouldn't it be nice to plant a few acres of land?

But now, because the food production was still abundant, a portion of the people with better family conditions were liberated from the yellow soil. After the construction of the school palace, there were people who went to try.

Most of them signed up for the beginner class. After all, not only did attending classes in the school not cost money, but they could also have a place to shelter from the wind and rain. Who could resist the temptation of a free prostitute?

As for the other class, many people were interested.

After all, according to the propaganda, anyone who entered this class would have the chance to become an official of the Star Moon Army and Northern Ice River Town as long as their grades did not drop.

This was very attractive to the people.

The first two classes had recruited quite a number of people.

As for the last special class, it was prepared for adults.

In order to encourage more people to learn, Northern Glacier Town implemented a grading system.

Whether it was a craftsman or a citizen, if they wanted to obtain higher salaries and more tax deductions, the easiest and fastest way was to go to the academy to carry out special training.

According to their personal strengths and hobbies, the school would select teachers to lead the apprentices.

After the construction of the three categories of schools was completed, they had each recruited students to begin their studies.

In the first few years, it did not attract much attention.

Only after the first batch of students graduated from the academy did the entire northwest realize that the times had changed.

In order to ensure that the results were immediate, he wanted everyone to know the benefits of establishing the academy.

Therefore, the first batch of teachers in the school were all existences that excelled in perfection. Basically, they were all directly in charge of the reincarnators.

For example, Ding Yi taught the soldiers how to fight, Tian Liang and Huang Li 'er taught the farmers how to farm in a more scientific way, and Wang Biao and the others taught the craftsmen how to improve their skills.

Who were these reincarnators?

They were all ruthless people who had dominated dozens of reincarnation worlds.

He was not omniscient and omnipotent, but he was quite proficient in most skills.

Under their guidance, the students in the academy naturally lay in the classroom and their skills increased.

After several years of study,

After the initial shock, all the students who entered the classroom felt as if a brand new door had been opened in the world that they had never come into contact with before.

It turned out that the crops in the fields had so many special habits. It turned out that there were so many techniques and rhythms in the smelting of steel. It turned out that there were so many details to pay attention to when marching and fighting...

Before this, these were things that only a few people could master.

Even if there were books, they would not be as clear as the reincarnators.

However, after the school was pushed out, the door opened to all the people of Northern Ice River Town.

After finishing their studies, the apprentices did not care about the disturbances in the outside world. They did not even care about the questions from their families. Under the puzzled and puzzled gazes of countless people outside, they began to create miracles.

The same piece of land, in the hands of the farmers who had learned how to cultivate in the school, could produce 500 catties per mu.

In the hands of the farmers who had not learned how to farm, they could only produce 400 catties per mu.

The same ironware could be forged into a peerless divine weapon by a blacksmith who had learned how to smelt in the school. However, in the hands of a blacksmith who had not learned how to smelt, it could only be used to chop wood and trees.

For the same soldier, a soldier who had learned how to march and fight would always react faster to orders than a soldier who had never learned how to fight.

This strange phenomenon caused a sensation.

Just like when they were recruiting soldiers, the people around several large towns surrounded the school set up by Li Yueming overnight. Countless people wanted to see what could create such a magical scene.

Because of this, the school was overcrowded.

The heads that yearned for knowledge scrambled to squeeze in. According to incomplete statistics, when Li Yueming started the second ten-year plan, most of the people in the northwest were illiterate.

By the end of the Second Ten-year Plan, except for the old people who were not sensitive, most of the people in the northwest had already received the education of the elementary class and could basically recognize most of the characters.

This kind of progress was considered to be across eras.

Many reincarnators cooperated with Li Yueming to create this unprecedented miracle.

After the end of the second ten-year plan.

Li Yueming, who had been cultivating in the main tent, woke up for a short while.

He briefly looked through the development of North Ice River Town in the past few years. After a moment, he smiled and said to Li Ruxing, who was sitting next to him, "Second Sister, we'll be able to surprise everyone very soon!"

Li Ruxing gathered her long and straight thighs and yawned out of boredom. "You're thinking too much. Normally, there might still be people paying attention to Northern Ice River Town, but now that the Six Nations are at war everywhere, and even the Great Zhou is at war with the Great Qi, they have no time to care about themselves at all."

In response, Li Yueming smiled, his white teeth appearing very harmless. "Precisely because of this, they should be even more shocked!"

This time, Li Ruxing didn't tear Li Yueming down. Instead, he echoed, "That's true. After all, who would have thought that the Star Moon Army, which was still suppressed by the Great Zhou Dynasty 20 years ago, would soon have the power to sweep the world?"

The two of them were silent for a moment. After a long time, they smiled at each other.

It was obvious that both Li Yueming and Li Guoxing were very satisfied with the current reforms in the Northwest. They both believed that on the road to unification, the Star Moon Army, which was originally backward in strength, had unknowingly walked ahead of the other countries.

It would depend on when the other countries, which had already been beaten up, would realize this. At that time, the Star-Moon Army might give them a huge surprise.

Chapter 537: Li Yueming was the God of this world! 1

The reason why Li Yueming chose North Glacier Town as the initial development location of the Star Moon Army was decided after careful consideration. Other than the fact that North Glacier Town was close to the extremely cold snow mountain, which caused the climate to be a little cold, the other geographical locations were very advantageous.

Regardless of whether it was the flood season or the dry season, the North Ice River was a relatively mild river. After all, whether it was hot or cold, it could not affect the temperature in the extremely cold snow mountains.

The Northern Ice River flowed down from the extremely cold snow mountain.

It first flowed through the northeast land of the Great Zhou Dynasty, then crossed the border of the Great Zhou Dynasty and flowed into the territory of the Great Qi Dynasty. Finally, it flowed into the sea thousands of miles away.

This was a natural barrier that could be used to attack or defend. It could provide a basic advantage for the development of Northern Glacier Town.

Now that the Star-Moon Army had actually taken over the two regions in the northwest, the benefits of Northern Glacier Town's position were even more obvious.

From a strategic point of view, if Northern Ice River Town was powerful enough, they could drive their warships downstream and bypass the pass controlled by King Yu of the Northeast to directly attack the northeast region of the Great Zhou.

From a geographical point of view, North Glacier Town looked to the west at the West Garrison Pass, guarded the Hundred Thousand Mountains to the north, and was not far from the Twelve Cities in the North to the south. It was just in a range where it could be commanded, but it would not be easily attacked by the Great Zhou.

It was also because of this that when the Great Zhou led a large number of soldiers to kill the Star Moon Army, the supply line was too long and was cut off by the Star Moon Army's special forces.

Year 7865 of the Great Zhou Royal Calendar, the third year after the end of the Second Ten-year Plan.

The densely packed houses were scattered all over the winding North Glacier Town. Currently, the population of North Glacier Town alone was close to two million. It had already become the largest city in the northwest.

Currently, the Star-Moon Army and Northern Ice River Town were filled with talents. The people who had learned simple knowledge all felt the charm of knowledge. Usually, after the busy farming season, they would take some time to attend classes in the school.

The noisy crowd made Northern Ice River Town seem particularly lively.

Li Yueming stood on the high city wall and looked at the joyous crowd below him, but there was not much excitement on his face.

It was not because he was unhappy, but because he knew that the more arrogant he was, the more modest and cautious he had to be.

Now, the world was filled with smoke.

The Great Zhou Empire had already started a war with the Great Qi Empire in the northeast.

In the beginning, the two sides were just testing each other.

After all, whether it was the Great Qi or the Great Zhou, it had been many years since they had experienced a large-scale war.

They had to give the generals and soldiers of both sides a process to adapt to the rhythm of the war. However, as the war continued to intensify, the war between the Great Zhou and Great Qi also became more and more intense.

After a few ridiculous wars between Great Ming and Great Song, they quickly returned to the negotiation table. Great Song took the initiative to offer tribute to Great Ming every year. After discussing for a while, they felt that a living Great Song was better than a dead Great Song.

Thus, they decided to call a temporary truce. The Great Ming, who had already gained enough benefits from the war, was prepared to recuperate, but they did not expect to turn around and clash with the Great Tang on the border.

At this moment, the Great Ming and Great Tang were also engaged in a fierce battle.

Four of the six states were already embroiled in the flames of war.

Among the other two countries that were relatively stable, the Great Song was relatively soft-boned. They survived by paying tribute to the Ming Dynasty. As for Great Qin, it was fearless because it had a strong army.

Under normal circumstances, if Great Qin did not provoke the other countries, it would be enough for the other countries to burn incense and pray to the Buddha. Naturally, no country would dare to provoke Great Qin when it was in a state of complete victory.

According to Li Yueming's judgment, Great Qin should have finished digesting the earnings from the Great Zhou Empire.

If nothing unexpected happened, he would most likely appear on the stage of the Six Nations again in the next few years and assume a role that no country could ignore.

Now, it was time to see which country this unlucky fellow would land on. In the year 7868 of the Great Zhou Royal Calendar, the originally turbulent situation had undergone a great change.

Before the war between Great Ming and Great Tang could come to a conclusion, Great Qin, which had been recuperating, had finished digesting the gains from conquering Great Zhou a few years ago.

Great Qin's army of one million tigers and wolves, motivated by the war, attacked the Great Tang from the southern pass, claiming revenge for invading Great Qin's belly.

However, in reality, Great Qin had seen that the war between Great Ming and Great Tang was getting fiercer and fiercer, so it had stepped forward to take advantage of the situation. After all, the large amount of gold and silver that they had plundered in the Great Zhou had caused many Qin soldiers to taste the sweet taste of war.

The mighty Qin army had crushed the Great Tang soldiers in the southern border, catching the Great Tang by surprise.

Whether it was Great Ming or Great Qin, they were both very powerful. The Great Tang, which was being attacked from both sides, quickly could not hold on and sent a distress letter to Great Zhou.

At the beginning, the Great Zhou Dynasty was also watching from the sidelines, hoping to benefit from the fight between the snipe and the clam.

But in the blink of an eye, Great Tang had been besieged by Great Ming and Great Qin.

In just a few years, they had lost thousands of miles of land. Seeing that they were about to face a life-and-death crisis, the Great Zhou, who had been watching coldly, immediately became anxious..

Chapter 538: Li Yueming was the God of this world! _2

It had to be said that the reason why the Great Zhou could resist Great Qin's attack was because the Great Tang on the southwest side of Great Zhou was a crucial ally.

If not for the fact that the Great Tang had been to the south of Great Qin, preventing the Qin army from coming out in full force, the Great Zhou might not even be here.

If Great Qin and Great Ming divided up Great Tang, Great Zhou would undoubtedly be in an extremely awkward position. Perhaps Great Zhou would be the next target to be annexed.

Thus, seeing that the Great Tang was being attacked from both sides, even though the Great Zhou was still at war with the Great Qi in the northeast, they gritted their teeth and sent reinforcements, barely keeping the Great Tang from being completely annexed by the Qin and Ming armies.

This is a new message, a new one

Suddenly, the world was in an uproar. All of the people could feel the drastic changes in the situation of the various countries.

In just a few decades, the intensity of the war between the six dynasties had reached a level that could put a prosperous country in a life-and-death situation. This was something that had never happened in many years.

Thinking back to the clamor over the past few years about the unification of the Six Nations, many people felt that something called destiny was descending.

The smoke of war engulfed everything, and the entire earth trembled.

North Ice River Town, Star Moon Army tent.

Li Yueming had completed two 10-year plans in a row and did not carry out a third one.

The reason was that the third ten-year plan was not suitable to be launched at this time. It had to wait until the time was ripe to get the effect that Li Yueming expected.

Taking advantage of the peace in the northwest, Li Yueming put almost all his energy back into cultivation.

Twenty years ago, when Li Yueming fought with many reincarnators of the Qin army, he had already reached the peak of the Spirit Concentration Realm. He was only one step away from the Void Refinement Realm.

After 20 years of exploration and accumulation, Li Yueming had already become a powerful Guiyuan Qi Refiner.

However, this wasn't a difficult task for Li Yueming.

After all, he had two golden talents. Infinite deduction could make up for his lack of comprehension, and the perfect genetic body could make up for his lack of talent.

In addition to the cultivation experience accumulated in the previous two lives, if this could not surpass 99% of the geniuses in this world in terms of Qi cultivation, Li Yueming could probably buy a rope and hang himself early.

Therefore, he did not make any noise even though he had broken through to the Void Refinement Realm.

The only thing that could make Li Yueming feel emotional was the development of the human body treasure.

The difficulty of this thing was very high. Even if Li Yueming had the heaven-defying talent of infinite deduction, he couldn't comprehend it quickly. He had been fumbling around in the vague acupoints of the human body.

The human body was too mysterious. Every time he moved a meridian or controlled an acupoint, it would trigger countless chain reactions.

If one was careless, the treasure of the human body would not be fully developed, and the chain reaction might even cause the entire body to be directly scrapped.

Therefore, Li Yueming had to be extremely cautious when it came to exploring the treasures of the human body.

The reason why he was in seclusion now was that after more than 20 years, he had finally found traces of the human body's treasure. Now, he was doing his best to deduce and develop it.

As long as he could develop this human body treasure, Li Yueming's combat power would probably be able to stand at the top of the world.

After so many years of cultivation, the Starmoon Army had already recovered its vitality.

In the past twenty years, the Starmoon Army would recruit fifty thousand people every two years.

It would increase by 50,000 every two years, so it would be 500,000 in 20 years.

Currently, the number of Starmoon Troops stationed in North Glacier Town alone had exceeded 500,000. As for the Starmoon Troops stationed in other towns, there were about 300,000 of them.

In other words, the number of Starmoon Troops had exceeded 800,000.

This was already an extremely powerful force. Even Great Zhou or Great Qin could only gather two million soldiers at most, and this was a number that could only be gathered at the cost of life and death.

Under normal circumstances, recruiting a million soldiers was already a good thing.

And now, Northern Ice River Town could gather 800,000 soldiers with just one place. It had to be said that this was a very terrifying concept.

This was also due to the fact that the Star-Moon Troop was not completely out of production.

After joining the Star Moon Army, when they were not training, the soldiers had the obligation to work in the city or in the fields.

The fertile plains downstream of North Ice River Town had land that was specially reclaimed by the Star Moon Army. The food produced there would be used to feed the Star Moon Army. This policy, known as the Garrison Order, greatly reduced the consumption of food and grass by the soldiers.

Not only did it ensure the combat effectiveness of the army, but it also ensured the normal supply of grain.

Together with the other decrees of the two ten-year plans, they pushed the strength of the northwest to the highest peak in tens of thousands of years.

When he heard that the Qin army was fighting the Great Tang in the south, Ding Yi went to Li Yueming and said, "General Li, the Six Nations are currently in chaos. Can we take this opportunity to expand again?"

Li Yueming shot him a glance. In fact, under normal circumstances, the Star Moon Army should continue to develop in North Glacier Town.

However, this was obviously an awkward situation for many reincarnators.

Now, the other six states 'reincarnators were rushing to complete the main mission. Only they had been in hiding for more than 20 years, and they were almost forgotten by the other reincarnators..

Chapter 539: Li Yueming was the God of this world!_3

Of course, this was not the most important thing.

After all, Ding Yi and the others had been following Li Yueming for a long time. They wouldn't do something like this.

The most important thing was not the reincarnators, but the soldiers under the Star Moon Army.

After more than 20 years of expansion, the number of Starmoon Troops had reached its peak since its establishment.

However, he had not experienced war for so many years.

Other than a few veterans who had not retired, the combat strength of the rest of the recruits was far worse than before.

Under such circumstances, it didn't seem appropriate to preserve their combat strength and keep a low profile.

After all, it would take a long time to make the army tense up, but it would only take a few decades of peace to make the army relax.

The Star-Moon Army was already a troop that was about to give its soul.

Before his will obtained the recognition of heaven and earth, his will could not relax.

Therefore, after weighing the pros and cons for a moment.

Li Yueming finally decided to take action.

Moreover, this time, he did not plan to leave Northern Ice River Town, nor did he plan to personally command and dispatch the Star Moon Army. Instead, he planned to hand over the Star Moon Army to the reincarnators led by Ding Yi. They would arrange the battle and command it.

This was a grand event that belonged to reincarnators. As a native, he did not want to join in the fun.

Breaking through to the next realm with peace of mind was the right path.

Moreover, the scale of Northern Glacier Town was now very large. It no longer needed him to worry about everything like in the past. Therefore, Li Yueming said, "I'll give you the position of Grand Marshal of the Northern Ice River

Town's army and command the 500,000 soldiers of the Northern Ice River Town's Star Moon Army. As for whether you want to attack Great Qin in the west or Great Zhou in the south, or directly take a boat down the river to attack

Great Qi, just get someone to draft a memorial and hand it to me!"

Ding Yi was stunned.

Although he came here to find Li Yueming and said that he wanted to mobilize his troops, in fact, he did not think that he would succeed. He did not expect that Li Yueming would actually hand over the entire Star Moon Army of Northern Ice River Town to him without holding back.

In his opinion, although the combat strength of the soldiers in the Star Moon Army had decreased, their mental state was generally not bad. At least for the next one or two generations, they did not have to worry about some of the military spirits that had been condensed dissipating because of this.

The reason why he mentioned it was just to pave the way for the future.

He believed that Li Yueming knew the specific situation of Northern Glacier

Town and the Star-Moon Army very well, so there was a high chance that he would not accept his advice. Instead, he would choose to wait until Northern Glacier Town accumulated more power before launching an external war.

After working together for so many years, Ding Yi felt that he understood Li Yueming well enough.

However, Li Yueming's reaction this time was far beyond his expectations.

As the saying goes, a scholar dies for a confidant.

Even though Ding Yi was a reincarnator, he was touched by Li Yueming's trust.

Therefore, he respectfully bowed to Li Yueming and said, "Thank you for your trust, General. I will not disappoint you!"

The most important thing for the Starmoon Troop right now was to condense the army spirit.

As long as one's will could obtain the recognition of heaven and earth, heaven and earth would bless them with endless power.

Even though the vast majority of the World Energy would only be given to the most determined members of the Starmoon Troop, it would still greatly increase the strength of the entire army.

If Northern Glacier Town wanted to join the war that would engulf the entire world, they must have a force that could not fear any armies from other countries!

After receiving Li Yueming's authorization, Ding Yi did not delay too much. He quickly presented a detailed strategic plan to Li Yueming. In the plan, the Star Moon Army was prepared to take a boat down the Northern Ice River. However, they were not going to attack Great Qi, but the army of King Yu in the east.

If this strategic goal could be successfully achieved, then a portion of the land in the north of the Great Zhou Dynasty would be gnawed off by the Star Moon Army.

Li Yueming didn't say much after reading the plan and directly passed it.

He did not comment on any of Ding Yi's strategic plans. The only thing he emphasized was that the Star Moon Army's strategic goal should not be to annex land, but to save the people.

Ding Yi was puzzled.

However, it didn't matter if he saved the people or annexed the land.

In his opinion, it was nothing more than an excuse.

Anyway, the final goal was the same, so he did not refute.

After spending more than two months, Ding Yi finally reorganized the army that was going to set out.

Standing on the city wall of North Ice River Town, looking at the endless crowd below his feet, Ding Yi said coldly, “‘ The world is in turmoil, and the people are in dire straits. As an army established by refugees and hunters, the Star Moon Army should have the responsibility and obligation to protect the people at the bottom!”

‘ When the Starmoon Troop was first established, General Li’s expectation for the Starmoon Troop was to protect the suffering people in the world. Right now, in the east of us, the Great Qi and the Great Zhou are engaged in a protracted war. Both sides are fighting to the death on the border, and blood flows like rivers. Even the black soil in the northeast has been dyed blood red...”

“Let’s not say anything about them for now, but how innocent are the people in the northeast? All of them have lost their homes because of the war. As far as the eye can see, the entire northeast is a barren land filled with starving corpses...”

“However, in order to prevent the population from flowing into our Northern Lands, the Great Zhou actually guarded the pass and forcefully prevented the refugees from migrating eastward. How cruel is this? How can we, the Starmoon Troop, just sit back and do nothing?”

The soldiers of the Star Moon Army basically came from poor families.

Over the years, most of the soldiers had received the school education tailored for them by Li Yueming and understood the simple truth that the existence of the army was to protect the people.

At this moment, they all became excited and shouted in unison, “Send out the army, how can we have thousands of mansions to protect the world’s poor scholars!”

The soldiers shouted louder and louder.

Looking at the scene below them, Ding Yi, Huang Li ‘er, and the others who were standing on the city wall were all amazed.

Such an army.

No matter which world it was placed in, it was like the brightest star in the night sky, emitting an intoxicating luster.

As one of the founders of this army, they still could not understand why these soldiers were so excited to take the initiative to participate in a war that they could not see any benefits from.

It could only be said that Li Yueming, as the true soul of this army, had reached the peak of understanding and control of human nature and the human heart. It could make countless people who followed him to fight in the direction he pointed out without fear of death.

He’s really a man of God in this world!

Chapter 540: Lightning Battle, Shocking the World!_1

In the early spring of the 7869th year of the Great Zhou Royal Calendar, this was a season where all things burst forth.

Under the warm spring breeze, the temperature in Northern Ice River Town began to rise slowly. At the same time, the plants buried under the snow could not wait to sprout.

Everything was celebrating this hard-won early spring.

At the same time, the Northern Ice River, which was already able to see the dry riverbed during winter, also welcomed the annual flood season.

Although the temperature of the extremely cold snow mountain would not change with the increase or decrease of the temperature of the outside world, the Northern Ice River did not only have one source. The rivers in other parts of the Hundred Thousand Mountains also had water sources.

Therefore, during spring and summer, the Northern Ice River would also gallop like other rivers. However, under normal circumstances, the fluctuation of water volume would not be as rapid as other rivers.

On a sunny spring day, the Star Moon Army soldiers were riding on the warships that had been cast long ago, ready to drift down the Northern Ice

River.

If they went down the river, they could avoid being blocked by the pass that

King Yu had set up on land.

This was the benefit of living upstream.

As long as there were enough warships, the countries upstream could send troops to attack the cities and countries downstream at any time.

Whether it was the supply of rations or the mobility of the soldiers, the consumption of water was much lower than that of land.

A few years ago, there was a courtier in the Great Zhou who proposed to build a pass in Wing City downstream of the Northern Ice River to prevent the Star Moon Army from threatening the safety of the northeast.

At that time, this memorial had caused quite a stir.

Many people with insight felt that this city was very necessary to be built. After all, although the strength of Northern Glacier Town had not reached a level that could threaten the Great Zhou, it had already reached a level that could not be underestimated.

Building a mountain pass downstream of the Northern Ice River was not a big deal, especially to curb its development.

Of course, some people felt that this was unnecessary.

In their view, no matter how powerful the Star-Moon Army was, it was just a rebel army that occupied an area. Although the Great Zhou's plan to lead a large army to attack Northern Ice River Town did not succeed completely, it had also caused the Star-Moon Army of Northern Ice River Town to pay a huge price.

After this battle, the Star Moon Army would be able to stay quiet for a long time.

The two sides argued endlessly in the court.

In the end, it was the emperor who personally came down to be the referee.

After thinking for a long time, the emperor confirmed the worries of the construction party. The Star Moon Army of Northern Ice River Town was indeed not to be underestimated. He had to think of a way to stop them from expanding to other places.

But at this moment, the Zhou Dynasty was plagued with internal and external problems, and it had yet to stabilize itself. Moreover, the eastern region was at war with the Great Qi, and the south was similarly not peaceful. It was still doing its best to help the Great Tang resist the attacks of the Ming and Qin.

They simply couldn't afford to dispatch a large amount of money and grain to build a pass that wouldn't produce much economic income in the lower reaches of the Northern Ice River.

Therefore, although this plan had been finalized, the Great Zhou Dynasty had only come up with a rough plan in recent years and had not had time to implement it. After all, no matter how much the Great Zhou Dynasty thought highly of the Star Moon Army, they did not expect that the Star Moon Army, which only occupied the northwest, would be able to completely recover in just over 20 years. Just from the number of troops, it was even much more than in the past when it was at its peak.

The time difference was undoubtedly a great convenience for the Starmoon Troop to advance eastward.

The Star Moon Troop drifted along the North Ice River for half a month, bypassing the Great Zhou defenders who were in charge of guarding the cities and passes on land. After drifting for thousands of miles, they finally arrived at the waters around Wing City.

After they found out that they had reached their destination, as the commander in chief, Huang Li'er and the others immediately organized people to protect the soldiers on the ship.

This plan was highly confidential.

Many soldiers only received orders from their superiors when they were about to send out their troops. Even if they received orders, they were only told to prepare for battle at the beginning. They did not reveal in detail what they were going to do.

It was only when they were about to set off that Northern Glacier Town revealed their true strategic goal. The buffer time was very short, leaving no opportunity for the enemy to take advantage of.

In order to prevent a long night from having too many dreams.

The Star-Moon Troop got off the warship and rushed towards Wing City in the middle of the night.

In the battle strategy that Ding Yi and the others had jointly formulated, Wing City was obviously a very important city.

This town, like North Glacier Town, was situated on both sides of North Glacier Town.

If they couldn't take Wing City, not only would the Star Moon Army have no foothold on the east coast, but they might also be attacked from both sides by the soldiers of Wing City when they retreated or were defeated.

This kind of accident was naturally not allowed by Ding Yi.

Hence, the Star-Moon Troop's first mission after entering the northeast was to occupy Wing City and provide a platform for North Glacier Town to transport rations and reinforcements down the river.

Currently, Wing City's defense was very strong.

There were nearly a hundred thousand soldiers defending the city, and in addition to the ten thousand elite troops of King Yu's lineage, the total number of soldiers was close to a hundred and fifty thousand.

These were the numbers of soldiers that the Great Zhou had carefully considered when rearranging the defense of the remaining territory after the loss of the two northwestern regions.

Under normal circumstances, the difference in strength between the defending and attacking sides would not exceed double. It would be very difficult for the attacking side to break through the defending side's city head-on. Therefore, the Great Zhou had arranged more than 100,000 troops in Wing City, and many of them were elites..
