

My Dreamy Old Husband Chapter 760

Mr. West screamed the moment he entered, "You are such a scumbag! You had the nerve to whack your mother into such a state! Get down on your knees now! I won't let this matter slide easily today!"

Sarah had actually beaten Victoria into a pulp that time, causing her to be in such a state—and it was something that could be resolved with a property!

An infuriated Sarah rushed up like a gust of wind and lectured her biological father. "To hell if I will kneel down! Peter, you are here in the nick of time. I'm telling you this here and now—I'm cutting ties with you! We will go our separate ways after this!"

There were a bunch of relatives from the West Family behind Peter.

After learning that he appeared at Sarah's door to find fault with her after she whacked her stepmother, everyone quickly came to watch and look at the house as well—the same one that would soon belong to the West Family.

The father and daughter crossed swords with each other the moment they met—she dashed forward to fight her father while Peter did the same thing.

"You unfilial daughter! I dare you to come at me! Just come. I'm standing right here!"

Peter and Sarah used to have at least some affection for each other. However, after his two sons were born in three years, he naturally sided with his younger sons. It also did not help that Victoria's instigation had made the matter worse, which caused Sarah to become even more insignificant to him. Not only were the betrothal gifts given by Harry, the washed-up celebrity, insufficient, but he even rejected my request to move in here. Does he have any respect for me as his father-in-law at all?

She struggled like a little beast when Harry grabbed her. "I will hurt you today! There is not even a good person in your entire family! You are plotting against my husband and conspiring to snatch my property and even my company! In your f*cking dreams!"

Upon seeing that her husband had come over the hill and lacked the power to protect her, but learning that she had managed to attain success with a gaming company and luxurious brand, her relatives had coveted a slice of the pie without knowing where they stood!

The bunch of people of the West Family tried to be the peacemakers. "That's enough, Sarah. It's better to talk less and apologize to your father. He is still your father, so it won't be nice to make a scene!"

"Your father merely wants to upgrade to a larger and nice house as the West Residence. Why don't you follow his wish?"

"This house is big enough to accommodate dozens of people from the West Family. It'll only be a waste if the two of you are living here!"

"You will bring honor to the West Family if we are able to have such a gorgeous house to proclaim as the West Residence! You should just sacrifice for us..."

Sarah was beyond furious. They actually have the guts to say those words while scheming for my husband's house! "Pfft, in your dreams! Only my name and my husband's name are listed on the property title! I'm making this clear today—from today onward, I'll sever ties with the West Family, so you can all get lost!"

The bunch of people continued to make noise as they accused and pointed fingers at her for committing treason and being unfilial, causing chaos at the scene.

Harry watched as the West Family revealed their true colors. He was never able to handle matters like that in the same manner that he usually did in the underworld. I can't just exterminate her entire family in one night, can I?

Therefore, all he could do was to let them be, but they actually turned out to be a malignant tumor.

Every single one of them thought that a washed-up celebrity like him would be an easy target, so they continually showed up to scheme for his property and it was exhausting to deal with them.

His tall and sturdy build grabbed on Sarah's collar, which was as effortless as grabbing a cat's nape, while he tried to coax her. "It's alright, Sarah. Your father is going bankrupt soon. It's not nice to fight with him now!"

Bankrupt? The West Family burst into laughter. The West and Edwards Family had joined forces and were now on the crest of the wave as they were considered to be one of the leading upper-class families in Bayside City. Hence, they were certain that they would not be bankrupt even when it happened to a washed-up celebrity like Harry.

"What do you mean, Harry? We are a family, so how can you wish for your father-in-law to be bankrupt? That's an unfilial act!"

"That's enough. Stop making a scene. You are both father and daughter, so let's have a seat today and talk things out. This house has great energy and moving in here will surely bring fortune to the descendants of the West Family."

Sarah cursed, "F*ck! Other than my brother and myself, whoever with the surname West will die if they dare to enter this house!"

When her brother learned about the news, he rushed to help her to fight against Peter.

After her brother had been framed, he had been at odds with his father. The shares that he held in the West Family were snatched from him before he was driven out. He had to start his business from scratch by relying on the tiny capital that she gave him and managed to persuade his wife and child to return while leading a rather successful life.

Therefore, it was beyond his imagination that after driving him away, the greedy and insatiable West Family intended to plot against Harry, the washed-up celebrity, and lay their hands on the last valuable item that he owned!

The two groups of people now crossed swords with each other. However, there was a large gap between them as they were held back by those beside them.

Victoria's family members also showed up to pressure Harry into surrendering the property.

Plenty of neighbours and paparazzis were outside as well to watch the commotion.

A rather calm Harry felt thirsty after coaxing his wife and ordered his butler to prepare a glass of water. As he drank the water from the glass that he held in one hand, he used the other hand to grab his enraged yet pretty young wife. This is the last showdown. Let's enjoy till the end!

All the involved parties were present—the West and Edwards Families, both of whom were coveting his house with brightening eyes.

The Imperial had always been hyped up as the classic of the real estate industry. Everyone was fixated on the house in that area like a fly eyeing a piece of meat.

After glancing at his watch and discovering that it was almost time, Harry suddenly raised his voice and addressed everyone at the scene while maintaining his grip on his pretty wife, "Everyone, please check the news now—especially the financial one. The West Family has gone bankrupt."

Bankrupt? Haha. Members of the West and Edwards Families guffawed again.

Nevertheless, a large yet orderly wave of phones suddenly rang.

Peter's phone was also ringing and he exhaled before growling, "Just you wait! I'll come for you after answering this call!"

Sarah replied, "Just come. I'm not afraid of you!"

Peter, who had a pot belly, profusely perspired after the little amount of exercise he had earlier and answered the call before rudely responding, "What's the matter? I'm busy here!"

The person on the other side of the phone reported something in an anxious manner while throwing a lot of profanities in those few seconds.

Peter could have heard something shocking because he was dumbfounded as he held the phone in his hand. His face seemed to have frozen as it lacked motion for a long time.

As if Sarah had noticed that something happened, she stopped moving and looked at Peter in curiosity. It seems like something big has happened.

The West Family discussed among themselves while the Edwards Family watched from the side.

Harry lowered his head and glanced at his phone—someone had sent him the related information. This is expectedly... harsh.

He then kept his phone and announced, “The West Family has been found to have committed tax evasion. There are serious quality issues with your products and you have plenty of complaints from the consumers. Even the act of bribing the related departments has been exposed. The stock price of the West Family’s business has plummeted. Speaking of which, there was a large fire in the factories owned by the West Family. I wonder why people are so careless, especially in such hot and dry weather. The row of factories were burnt down in a matter of minutes.

Everyone from the West Family was rooted to the ground. I-It’s impossible! However, Peter, who seemed to know something, suddenly slumped to the ground. His eyes lacked life after being dealt with such a huge blow.

“Dear, what’s wrong?” Victoria caringly supported him. Damn it, could it be that something has happened to the West Family?

Harry then spoke to the Edwards Family, who had been watching the entire scene from the side, “The Edwards Family is in a similar situation as well, but you guys are slightly better off—at least you can sustain for a few more days.”

The members of the Edward Family received plenty of calls as well and all of them had sour expressions too.

Sarah seemed to suspect that something was amiss, but all she felt was a sense of relief and she could not resist laughing. “Haha! Haha! Serve you right! You finally get a taste of your own medicine! You deserve it!”

She was glad that the West and Edwards Families were defeated—in fact, she felt an immense amount of pleasure that she had vented her frustrations and anger!

The show finally came to an end where Harry ordered his men to throw the entire West and Edwards Families out of the place. Sooner or later, you will have to pay for what you have done!