

The billionaire and his son want me back novel

Chapter 254

Chapter 254 35 The name Enya Christina hadn't heard it in over twenty years .

If she had her way , she'd never hear it again for the rest of her life .

But she never expected it to resurface under such circumstances today .

She should have realized earlier .

Since it was the Beaumont family who approached them , the name was bound to come up .
Seeing Christina lost in thought , Gregory nudged her and said , Hes asking you a question .
I didn't you have a close friend named Enya back then ? Snapped back to reality by Gregory's push , Christina shuddered under Byron's scrutinizing gaze .

Yes , over twenty years ago I had a close friend named Enya .

But the Enya she knew wasn't some heiress of the Beaumont family .

Up until Byron found her , Christina had always thought Enya was just an ordinary person like her .

At most , Enya was prettier and a bit smarter .

She never imagined Enya was Byron's younger sister .

A flicker of complicated emotion passed through Christina's eyes .

Yes , that's right .

I met her as well .

Back then , she and my wife were the best of friends .

They not only got married around the same time but were also pregnant at nearly the same time . Gregory eagerly shared , trying to build rapport with Byron .

Little did he know , his words only reminded Byron of Tyson the scoundrel who had taken away his beloved sister .

That scoundrel not only took Enya away but also failed to give her a happy life , leading to her untimely death at a young age .

As Byron's expression darkened , Gregory felt uneasy .

He couldn't figure out what he had said wrong to make Byron upset .

Ignoring Gregory , Byron turned his attention back to Christina .

So , you deliberately chose to adopt my sister's daughter ? Christina froze for a moment , unsure of Byron's intent with the question .

She lowered her head and replied , Yes , that's right .

After Enya passed away , her daughter was sent to Angel Orphanage .

I couldn't bear to see her child suffer there , so I applied to adopt her .

Pausing for a moment , Christina then looked up at Byron with a sincere expression .

When I knew Enya , she told me she was an orphan with no parents .

I had no idea she was your sister .

If I'd known , I would have brought the child directly to you .

Byron nodded , not doubting Christina's words .

Back then , Enya was indeed an orphan .

Moreover , she had been estranged from him due to her refusal to accept the marriage he had arranged for her .

Given Enya's personality , it was natural she wouldn't reveal her connection to the Beaumont family to others .

After Christina's explanation , Byron's expression softened , and his gaze toward her became much kinder .

Did you know ? You actually resemble Enya in some ways .

Yes , people used to say that a lot , Christina responded with a smile .

In the past , she used to resent being told that she bore some resemblance to Enya .

Every time she and Enya were together , people would always notice Enya's resemblance to Enya and shower her with compliments .

Only after they were done praising Enya's beauty would they casually add , You know , you do look a bit like Enya .

That feeling was like Enya was the flawless original , and she was the laughable imitation .

But now , at this moment , Christina felt fortunate that even a tiny part of her resemblance to Enya had been passed down to Brittany .

The atmosphere in the break room lightened up considerably .

However , just then , Dylan received some news and whispered it to Byron .

Upon hearing it , Byron's expression turned cold again as he looked at Gregory and Christina , Why did you lie ? His deep voice , carrying the authority of someone used to commanding respect , pierced through their 1/2 19:37 Tue , 18 Feb & sa .

What do you mean ? We didn't Gregory said , his voice lacking conviction under Byron's sharp glare .

Christina , on the other hand , kept her head down , gripping the hem of her clothes tightly , too scared to even look at Byron as her heart pounded like a drum Byron observed their reactions carefully .

After a few seconds , he spoke slowly , Didn't you say she went on a trip ? Huh ? Gregory froze , stammering .

Yes , that's right Byron let out a cold snort .

A trip to the police station ? Gregory was stunned speechless by Byron's words , his mouth opening and closing without finding anything to say .

The Beaumont family's in-ence was so strong .

In such a short time , they had already discovered Brittany's visit to the police station .

In an instant , Gregory gave up resisting and hurriedly apologized , I'm so sorry , sir .

We didn't mean to lie to you .

It's just While Gregory stammered with a pale face .

Christina subtly relaxed her grip on her clothes and let out a barely noticeable sigh of relief .

But this small action didn't escape Byron's sharp eyes . Sorry , it was wrong of us to lie to you but we just didn't want Brittany to leave a bad impression on you .

Christina said earnestly , looking at Byron .

Besides .

Brittany was set up .

She acted impulsively , but she's kind hearted at her core .

Yes , exactly Gregory nodded vigorously in agreement .

Byron didn't respond immediately .

He simply stared at Christina coldly , as though evaluating the truth of her words .

Seeing the probing look in his eyes , Christina grew anxious .

Sir , even if you don't trust me , you should trust Enya . She's your sister after all . At the mention of Enya , Byron's expression softened slightly .

Brittany is your sister's biological daughter , the only bloodline she left in this world Christina said , clearly playing the family card .

Sure enough , the harshness in Byron's eyes diminished further .

If she truly is Enya's child , I can't leave her in the police station , Byron finally relented .

Christina was just about to express her gratitude when Byron spoke again .

However , whether or not she's Enya's child still needs to be confirmed through a paternity test , Byron said , his eagle-like eyes locking onto Gregory and Christina .

You two don't have any objections , do you ? 2/2
