

MEDICAL GOD CHAPTER 486

Everyone was astonished as Ouyang Yanyan did not have much appetite lately. Even if they put the most delicious food in front of her, she wouldn't even look at it. Today, all of a sudden, she wanted to have Bao's snacks?

Bao handed her the cookies and said, "Here you go, grandma."

The Old Madam had only relied on glucose infusion for the past few days, and her body was in a very weak state. However, after eating a few pieces of the cookies, she instantly regained her energy and her complexion improved.

"Get me something else to eat, will you?" she said.

Bao was only a child after all, so his snacks weren't a proper meal.

The whole family rejoiced after hearing what she said. It seemed like she had recovered.

"Mum, what would you like eat? I'll get it for you!"

"Some buns and porridge."

"Ok, sure!"

Zhu Ming ordered a family member to go out and buy her food. The whole family spared no effort to accommodate her needs.

Shortly after, the person returned with a box of buns with all sorts of fillings. There was also porridge with pickled vegetables that was bought from a famous breakfast store.

Ouyang Yanyan devoured the buns instantly. At her age, it was rare for her to eat in such a manner. Qin Jun's acupuncture treatment seemed to have removed whatever blockage there was in her stomach. Her appetite was stimulated to the point that she could even eat a horse.

She ate six buns that were as big as a fist continuously. When she finally stopped, she leaned against her chair and released a long, deep breath of relief.

With food in her stomach, her overall condition improved greatly.

Zhu Linlin was delighted. "Grandma, you're okay now!" she exclaimed.

Looking at how elated Zhu Linlin was, Zhu Ming's face sank a little.

Everyone in the family could see that it was Qin Jun's acupuncture that cured Ouyang Yanyan. Were Qin Jun's medical skills really better than the renowned doctor's?

After this fiasco, Zhu Linlin would become the new matriarch of the family, and Zhu Ming was certain that his life would not be pleasant under her reign.

Zhu Ming quickly stepped forward and asked, "Mum, how are you feeling? Do you want to eat anything else?"

Ouyang Yanyan looked at Zhu Ming, her mind clouded with deep thoughts.

Wang Yun and the rest of the family waited in anticipation for her response. It was clear that the Old Madam didn't show any improvement after Dr. Lu's scrape therapy treatment. In fact, she became worse than before.

However, after Qin Jun performed acupuncture on her, she displayed immediate improvement and regained her appetite. It was as though she recovered completely.

Ouyang Yanyan had mentioned earlier that whoever cured her would become the next head of the family. Naturally, the entire family awaited her decision anxiously.

Her face was solemn as deep thoughts flowed through her mind. After a moment, she finally said, "Indeed, Traditional Chinese Medicine takes effect at a slower pace. The scrape therapy from earlier is only showing results now."

When she said this, the entire family's expression fell.

Dr. Lu quickly used this opportunity and said, "That's right, Traditional Chinese Medicine uses a slow and gentle approach. Since you're not young anymore, this type of approach is more appropriate. When I was performing scrape therapy on you just now, I knew that it would only show results after a period of time. This kid took advantage of the situation and started doing acupuncture to prove as if he were the one who cured you. Haha!"

Zhu Ming was thrilled and immediately corroborated what Dr. Lu said, "Yeah, Dr. Lu deserves his title as Beijing's most renowned doctor. Mum was cured as soon he performed his magic on her."
