

MEDICAL GOD CHAPTER 730

Zhu Linlin frowned as she didn't know what to say.

John was Nana's classmate in America whom she brought with her during the visit.

He had been here on vacation several times. It was love at first sight for him when he first met Zhu Linlin. Ever since their encounter, he could not stop thinking about her.

After hearing the news of Linlin having a boyfriend, he flew here to confess his feelings to her.

"Yeah, I've heard that John is an expert in stock trading. He makes millions in just a few minutes, that's an incomparable feat to someone here, isn't it?" Wang Yun jeered.

She turned around and gave Qin Jun a sardonic look before continuing to glare at him.

Suddenly, a box on the shoe rack near the front door caught her attention.

"Wow, what's that?"

She reached for the box and tore the package open.

Qin Jun was about to tell her not to touch it when Wang Yun gave him a glare.

"What? This thing is in my house!"

When she opened the box, her eyes lit up with delight.

“Woah! It’s a ruby necklace!”

Of all jewelry, ruby necklaces were the classic types that never seemed to go out of style.

Furthermore, rubies that stood out from the others in the market were a rarity, and she knew from first sight that the ruby in her hands was extraordinary.

The ruby on the necklace was glittering and crystal-clear, with hardly any impurities in it. A gem with such clarity must come with a high price.

“This ruby is stunningly beautiful! It must cost at least a few hundred thousand! Is it for me, Linlin?”

Wang Yun was a thick-skinned woman who yearned for expensive things that she laid her eyes on.

Zhu Linlin shook her head, feeling quite confused. “No, I don’t remember buying a ruby necklace.”

Wang Yun asked again, “Nana, is this from you then?”

“I wish I have the ability to do so, my dear aunt, but I can’t afford such an expensive item!” replied Jiang Nana.

Wang Yun nodded in agreement.

“Then who is the one who bought me this present?”

There was probably no other person in the world that could compete with Wang Yun in terms of being the most shameless person. She had no trouble at all in assuming the necklace was for her.

“I suppose it’s John?” Jiang Nana guessed.

Wang Yun slapped her thighs in realization. “Yeah, I think it should be him. He must have bought it for me!”

John emerged from the washroom when they were discussing the mysterious necklace. “I heard you guys talking about me. What is it about?”

From the fluency of his speech, it was apparent that he took the effort to brush up his language skills in order to woo Linlin.

Unable to contain her excitement any longer, Wang Yun opened the box and showed John the ruby necklace.

“John, is this a present from you?”

He was startled by the question, “Um...”

One didn’t have to be a jewelry appraiser to know that the ruby cost a bomb. It should be at least a few hundred thousand, not to mention the possibility of going up to millions. How could he ever afford that?

“John! You keep telling me that you aren’t that rich, yet here you are with such an exquisite gift! That’s ridiculous, you liar!” Jiang Nana laughed.

John’s hesitant expression suddenly turned into a smile as he nodded at Nana’s remark. He decided to play along with it.

Since everyone was quick to conclude that he bought the necklace, he gladly acknowledged that. He was actually feeling very fortunate because he didn’t prepare any gift of lasting impression for this visit.

Wang Yun’s face blossomed into a vibrant smile.

“Goodness me! I love jewelry. You have such an eye for them. You see, rubies are totally perfect for complimenting my elegance. How do I open this, John? I shall try it on now!”
