

MEDICAL GOD CHAPTER 765

“Wan’er, her friend, and I haven’t got the contestant tickets for the healing competition, Ting. We only have online tickets for the audience.”

Qu Ting was shocked. “Are you talking about the Miracle Healer Contest? You are all planning to take part?”

She gave Momo a meaningful glance before she continued, “Momo should be able to win if she takes part in the dentistry category. There will be less competition. As for Wan’er...”

Qu Ting pretended to feel sorry.

“I’m afraid that you aren’t even a resident yet! Aren’t you a mere apprentice at some medical center?”

Ye Wan’er nodded.

“Sheesh, what’s with hospitals these days? How can they deprive someone with a lower education of the right to be a resident?”

Enough. Ye Wan’er rolled her eyes.

“It’s better to be working at a small medical center than some crowded hospital.”

She meant every word. Her medical skills might not be as good as the hospital specialists, but she had absolutely no problem with treating patients.

Qu Ting’s pretense of caring about her was in fact mockery and taunt.

The wicked cousin snorted at her reply.

“Oh my, I don’t think you should go. It’s going to be impossible for you to qualify for the contest; and even if you do, you are going to make a fool of yourself.”

Su Momo felt awkward by their bickering. “Don’t say that, Ting! We are here for your help! Can you get us two tickets?”

Qu Ting shook her head with a faked awkward expression. “Oh no! It’s so difficult to get a ticket now. I don’t think I can do it.”

“If you can’t help, we are leaving.” Ye Wan’er stood up and led Qin Jun out of the house.

She looked sullen as she walked to the door.

She suddenly sighed, “Fine. I will thank her before leaving. Lest she thinks that I’m being impolite.”

As she headed inside, she overheard the conversation.

Momo said, “Ting, I remember you have two extra tickets. Why don’t you give them to Wan’er?”

Qu Ting scoffed coldly, “Give her? Why? She’s so irritating. It’s true that I have the tickets, but I’m not helping her.”

She took out the tickets and tore them apart.

“I would rather destroy them than give them to her. Don’t bring her here next time, Momo. She always ruins the day!”

Disappointed, Ye Wan’er turned around and left.

She didn’t sulk much on the way. Instead, she looked quite cheerful.

The truth was, she always felt uneasy about being related to Qu Ting. It didn’t seem right to cut off all ties with someone related to you by blood.

However, what she did to her today was the last straw. Ye Wan’er would never visit her again. It would be much better if they remained strangers.

“Jun, I’m afraid we can only be part of the audience tomorrow.”

Qin Jun smiled. “Do you want to take part in it so badly?”

“Of course! I really want to see how capable I am.”

“Fine, I’ll call someone.”

Qin Jun took out his phone and gave Lei Hong a call.

“Hong?”

“Mr. Qin? Is there anything that I can help you?”

“There is. You see, my friend and I decide to take part in the Miracle Healer Contest. I need two contestant tickets. Can you get those for me?”

After a short silence, Lei Hong replied, “No problem! But don’t you think it’s unfair for you to take part? You will definitely win!”