

Chapter 42

"It can't be, right? It looks very safe here." Leslie looked at the hill, which reminded her of what happened in her previous life.

The balcony where she fell to the ground in her previous life was a cliff.

The pain of falling down seemed to still remain in her memory. It was so deep-rooted that she couldn't help but shudder when she thought of it now!

"What's wrong? Cold?"

Noticing her subtle movements, Carlos couldn't help but ask in a strange tone.

Today's weather was just fine. It wasn't cold or hot. The gentle night wind was really comfortable. Thus, Carlos couldn't understand why Leslie was shivering.

"I'm fine. I just suddenly felt a little scared..." said Leslie with a smile. How could she tell him this secret?

On the side of the big stone, there were messy footprints. It seemed that someone had come here to investigate.

Along with the soft moonlight, Leslie saw a little wildflower under her feet.

"Hmm, it's all weeds around, but there's this little wildflower. Let me check if it's fragrant!" Leslie exclaimed with childlike joy, squatting down to take a whiff. The wildflower, however, turned out to be scentless, quite plain.

Leslie was about to stand up when suddenly there was a faint rustling sound. She looked up and saw a snake about the size of three fingers, its mouth open, a tiny tongue flickering like a ghost. Startled, she let out a scream and took a few steps back!

"What's wrong?" This scream scared Carlos so much that he also became nervous!

After all, this was the wilderness. A while ago, Carlos had heard that the workers had discovered a snake as thick as an arm!

"Ah, ah... Snake..."

Leslie screamed, and the snake slipped away. However, when the stone behind her was hit by her, it almost fell to the ground!

Leslie was so frightened that she quickly retreated. However, when she stepped on a round rock, her body lost its balance. Amidst Carlos's scream, she suddenly fell backwards.

Fortunately, Carlos reached out his hand and grabbed hold of her.

However, the stone actually rolled downwards. Carlos was shocked. He quickly held onto Leslie and moved to the side to avoid it!

The huge rocks rolled down and dropped into the lake below with a loud crash, causing the water to splash. After that, it was completely silent!

Leslie's heart skipped a beat. She looked at Carlos's arm with a pained expression. When he held her in his arms to avoid her, she could clearly see the huge rock brush past his arm.

Bathed in the silver moonlight, Carlos's arm revealed a rather painful wound, slowly oozing blood from the injury.

"You're hurt! I'm sorry, it's all my fault..." Leslie's heart felt a little uncomfortable. Carlos's desperate attitude had touched her a little.

After all, if he couldn't avoid it, Carlos would definitely be crushed!

She may not die, but she would also lose a layer of skin!

In this life, the ruthless Jensen contrasted sharply with the resolute Carlos, becoming the most vivid comparison. Leslie knew that a man would never make a desperate decision in such a critical situation if he didn't love her!

"Nothing serious. Let's walk a bit further. These stones here seem to have been moved by someone. Perhaps the workers thought they were nice and wanted to use them as decorative rocks." Carlos tightly held Leslie's hand, taking several steps upward, away from another stone.

"Phew! You scared the hell out of me! Is there any medicine in the car?"

Leslie pulled Carlos towards the car in a hurry.

The corners of Carlos's lips curled upwards slightly.

A cold sweat broke out from Leslie's palm. She hurriedly pulled him to the side of the car, and then he slowly laughed. "Nope. I usually don't prepare these things."

"You... then you have to go to the doctor as you get back!"

Leslie frowned. Glancing at the wound on Carlos's arm, she felt a faint sense of pain in her heart.

"Silly, why are you in such a hurry to go home? It's just a minor injury. It doesn't matter. Look at the tree over there. Does it look like they're hugging each other?"

Carlos leisurely pointed to a spot not far away and asked her with a smile.

"Carlos, stop joking around. Let's go!"

Leslie was still afraid. What if he got tetanus...

Uh! What's wrong with her brain? How can she especially think about these negative things?

"Well. There's some disinfectant in the car. It'll be all right after the disinfection. I don't want this date to end in such a sorry way."

Carlos originally ignored it, but when he saw her expression, his heart warmed. In this world, there was finally someone who wouldn't care about him just because of his identity, right?

"Carlos, you lied to me! You liar, what are you saying?"

"Apart from the matter of the medicine, everything else is true. I especially want to eat you!" A man said shamelessly with a smile.

Leslie rolled her eyes at him and got into the car.

That night, under the moonlight, she and he spent tender moments together, gently leaning on each other. Despite the recent brief scare, it didn't at all disrupt the romantic atmosphere of their date.

When he saw her off in front of the villa, Carlos gave her another deep kiss before leaving with satisfaction.

In the Byrd family, Sarah's room.

Sarah's face darkened and she gulped down a mouthful of milk.

"Mommy, I really don't get it. How did that b*tch know that we'd put the drug in her juice!"

Sarah had just returned home. After comforting Bonnie for a while, she was in a very downcast mood.

As soon as they got home, Ashley took her back to her room and asked about the birthday party.

Sarah briefly described what had happened, and Ashley's face darkened completely.

"In that case, Leslie, that bitch, has to be wary of us no matter where she is! It seems that she has noticed our bad intentions! But... she is still pretending, and she didn't expose us!"

Ashley's voice was ice-cold. When she thought that Leslie had escaped yet again, the hatred and killing intent in her heart grew even stronger!

"Mommy, why did she suddenly become so smart? Did we make a mistake in some part and let her find out our intention?"

Sarah looked at Ashley in shock, unable to believe what she said.

"We didn't do anything wrong. She's become smarter... Maybe she has someone to help her!"

Ashley was also uncertain, and her eyes were cold. "Your daddy is also slowly leaning towards her. It seems that if we don't take any action, we will definitely be hated by your daddy!"

"Mommy, daddy loves you so much... How can he hate us?" Sarah chuckled. Although Ashley was a middle-aged woman, she took good care of herself and looked like a woman in her thirties.

Moreover, Ashley's figure was also well maintained. She was plump and sexy.

Who didn't love such a woman?

"Have you forgotten... the lipstick mark that your daddy saw the other day? Your dad has been back late these days, but my people only responded that he went to the coffee shop to drink coffee and work there!"

Ashley's voice cooled down. "I think... he may be interested in a female attendant!"

Sarah looked at Ashley in surprise. "How is that possible? Daddy loves you so much..."

"Man's heart is hard to remain unchanged forever! When a woman he is interested in shows up, it's the time when he is about to cheat!"

Grief flashed across Ashley's eyes!

Send Gift

Comments

 Watch Ads to Get 8 Vouchers