

Chapter 2377 Current Situation

Following Rhett's complaint, the brothers reconciled. After sending off the group of elderly seniors, Matthew bid farewell and left because there were still matters to handle at the shop.

He had to gear up for tomorrow's competition with the Cunninghams. The Wyatt brothers came to the secret room to discuss something.

Rhett explained the major events that happened after Urain's retirement and Urain's face turned serious. "I didn't expect the current situation to be this chaotic. Fortunately, Blake Carr and that person from Martial League are still able to deter the situation. However, some parties have become so bold and blatant. That is a problem."

Although the conflict between the top ten families and the six kings has always existed, it has been in a state of mutual balance under the Martial League's deterrence. Unfortunately, in recent years, the hidden struggles have become more and more serious.

Rhett said with solemnity, "One of the variables that has stirred up this big game is Matthew. He's the only bloodline of the King of Stagford. The more he rises, the more attention he gains. Moreover, the Larson Family's inheritance is with him."

Hearing this, Urain showed curiosity. "What is it?"

Rhett answered, "The medical skills passed down by the divine physician Holy Doctor, Christopher Larson."

Urain sprang up to his feet. "The third-generation ancestor of medical skills, Christopher Larson? No wonder, no wonder! The rumor has it that Christopher not only created the technique of acupuncture for curing diseases but also possessed the secret recipe for immortality. No wonder those parties dared to do such outrageous things back then."

Urain instantly sorted out his thoughts. "I see. Although Matthew has experienced many tribulations, he carries a great fortune and his foundation is here. By the way, what about the other variables?"

At this moment, Rhett's brows creased deeper. "It's Billy Newman."

Urain could only smile bitterly and scratch his head. "Hasn't that matter been resolved? It has been so many years. The grievances and enmities should have been settled. Don't the Nolan Family know that the longer this matter drags on, the greater the implications are?"

Rhett explained, "Many people were involved in that matter. The Nolans' attitude toward Billy was not unanimous. Some wanted to eliminate him, while others wanted to protect him. Gabriel put his guard up against Billy, but I'm not sure about that person. He neither comes forward to straighten things out nor secretly protects Billy. So even though the Nolan Family knows that many forces have been eyeing their position to be the first-ranked aristocratic family, they have been hesitant in their actions."

At this point, Urain kneaded his temples. Looking at the withered trees outside the window, he sighed helplessly. "What a troublesome situation to face during this lovely season! If these two troublemakers come together, the situation in Cathay will be completely overturned sooner or later."

Rhett clapped his hands. "I forgot to tell you something. Matthew and Billy are on good terms."

The corner of Urain's lips twitched. Did I just jinx that again?

"Alright, alright. You've been dealing with so many troublesome matters, and I appreciate your hard work. After Matthew's competition is settled tomorrow, I will summon all the elderly seniors who have retired."

Upon hearing this news, Rhett's face instantly brightened. The CAUMP was currently lacking manpower, which kept him busy all the time.

"Urain, they have been retired for many years. What if they are unwilling to come?"

Urain slammed the table. "As long as they are still alive, they must crawl back to Bainbridge for me. Those who don't come back will be directly removed from their positions."

This was exactly what Rhett wanted to hear. After all, many of those retired elderly scenarios were personally promoted to Urain, and most of them owed his elder brother a favor.