

Chapter 2382 Calixto Fair From Pearl Island

Pearl Island was an island located at the east independent from the influence of the Ten Great Families and the Six Kings. Calixto Fair was the first prodigy of the Fair Family on Pearl Island.

He traveled to Bainbridge. Upon arriving at his destination, Calixto immediately visited Martin Newmont.

In the courtyard, Levi reclined in a chair, leisurely enjoying the sunlight. He was taken aback when he saw the handsome young man by how Calixto actually resembled the young King of Rivenia.

"I'm Calixto Fair from Pearl Island. Greetings to Uncle Newmont!"

Martin, who was training his falcon, stopped. "Calixto?"

As forces from the eastern region, Martin Newmont and the Fair Family naturally had some acquaintance. They weren't strangers, but they couldn't be considered close either.

There had been some business dealings between them.

In recent years, Martin had been focusing on expanding overseas, so he cut off contact.

"Are you here to participate in the re-election of the Martial League?"

Calixto nodded. At this moment, Martin patted his Green Phoenix on the shoulder, allowing it to spread its wings and soar into the sky.

Then, he stood up. "Shaw, stop being lazy. Get up and bring out your tea. Let's entertain this young genius from the Fair Family. What's wrong with you recently? Why are you always sleepy?"

Martin walked over to Shaw and kicked his chair.

"They are your guests, so you should entertain them yourself. Don't disturb me while I'm sunbathing."

Despite that, Shaw felt his throat getting dry when tea was mentioned. After stretching his legs, he stood up and coughed a few times.

"The weather is dry. Looks like I need to drink more water to moisturize my lungs." He strode toward the room. The moment he turned around, his eyebrows furrowed involuntarily.

Meanwhile, there was another courtyard not far from Shaw. The monochrome snake, who was preparing poison, seemed to sense something. After a slight smile, he continued burying himself in work.

As Shaw prepared the tea, Calixto didn't have the qualification to sit down in front of the two kings because of his low status.

He could only stand aside and respectfully answer the questions from the two Kings. When Martin learned that Calixto had been appointed as the branch master of the Martial League on Pearl Island, he was somewhat surprised.

"Not bad. Becoming a branch master at such a young age. You have a more promising future than us."

However, before Calixto could express his modesty, Martin suddenly changed his tone.

"By the way, speaking of the branch master, has Matthew completed the handover in your southern region?"

Shaw snorted angrily. "I'm a narrow-minded person. He came from the southern region, so I'm equally proud of his achievements. Well, are there any young talents worthy of attention in the vast Rivenia?"

Martin became agitated. "Matthew rose to prominence based on his own abilities. It has nothing to do with you."

Shaw calmly held the cup of tea, squinting his eyes. He repeated, "He is someone from the southern region. He is not only the branch master of the Martial League, but also the Medical League's Holy Doctor and Old Mr. Bane's disciple. It's not an exaggeration to say that he is the number one young genius in Cathay. What about you? Are there any young talents in Rivenia worthy of attention?"

Being hit in a sore spot twice in a row, Martin set his teacup down. "Levi, I... I..." Despite stuttering for a few moments, he couldn't come up with a retort.

Even the monochrome snake and the others only had business with him, not in a superior-subordinate relationship.

With a flick of his sleeves, Martin left the place right away.

"Levi, wait up! Is this kid your illegitimate child? He resembles you when you were young."

"Get lost! I am a virgin."

Accompanied by laughter, only the resentful Calixto was left on the spot. "Hmph! the number one genius in Cathay?"
