

Chapter 2424 The Influence of Cursed Bugs on Ella

By the time the Martial League and the people of Emsgate arrived at the hotel, Ella had already regained consciousness.

There was still a faint aura of killing intent lingering in the air.

She seemed completely unaware of what had just happened.

She buried her head in Matthew's chest, crying and apologizing.

"Matthew, I don't know why this happened. I just lost consciousness for no reason when I heard them say they wanted to kill you."

Matthew gently patted her back as he held her in his arms.

"It's okay, Ella. Don't cry. I know you were trying to protect me."

After Matthew comforted her, Ella fell asleep in his arms, exhausted from the excessive use of her spiritual power.

There were still tear marks on her face.

Due to the special status of the people involved, the Elder of Discipline, Hendrix, led the team from the Martial League to investigate the matter.

After understanding what had happened, he reprimanded them sternly.

"If Matthew is guilty, please provide evidence. Even if he is the Holy Doctor, the Martial League will still judge him according to the rules.

"Remember, this is the land of Bainbridge, and the rules of the Martial League cannot be broken.

"Anyone who causes trouble and disrupts the order will be severely punished."

With these words, he waved his hand and left, clearly frustrated.

As Hendrix walked past Matthew, he suddenly lowered his voice and warned, "You are already a married man. I hope you keep your distance from my granddaughter."

This left Matthew bewildered.

Then, Hendrix led the enforcers and disappeared down the corridor.

As for the Great Octavian who rushed over, he knew that his side was at fault too.

After all, it was those two severely injured troublemakers who started it.

With a murderous intent in his eyes, he glanced at Matthew.

He didn't say anything and ordered his men to take away the three people who were lying on the ground.

Then, the Great Octavian left as well.

"Mr. Matthew, I'm sorry. Originally, I wanted to treat you to a meal to thank you, but I didn't expect to encounter such an incident."

Facing Asuna's apologies, Matthew just shook his head lightly.

"It's mainly my fault, and they were targeting me.

"By the way, regarding Ella's condition just now..."

After what had just happened, Matthew was concerned about Ella.

The sudden surge in strength could indeed be beneficial.

However, the sight of Ella earlier, filled with killing intent, made her seem completely different.

Asuna patiently explained, "This is mainly due to the incredibly powerful cursed bugs inside her, combined with the fact that the Charm Master is still quite young.

"You're also aware of the origin of our Orleans cursed bugs. As the King of Charms, the Charm Master's body has evolved into a Six-Winged Bloodthirsty Butterfly. How can it be a benevolent creature? Even though the bloodthirsty butterfly has no intention of harming the Charm Master, its inherent bloodthirsty intent will still have some influence on her.

"Of course, Mr. Matthew, you don't need to worry. The bloodthirsty butterfly will not cause any harm to the Charm Master's body or mind. She will just feel a bit weakened from overusing her power, but she'll be fine after some rest. Moreover, this situation will gradually fade away as the Charm Master grows up. After all, cursed bugs and their hosts are destined to live and die together."

Hearing this, Matthew felt relieved.

If the Six-Winged Bloodthirsty Butterfly had turned Ella into a murderous maniac, he would do everything he could to remove it from her body.

Just as he was about to hand Ella over to Asuna, despite being asleep, she still tightly clung to Matthew's collar.

As a result, Matthew could only follow the seventy-two cave masters back to their resting place.

As for the dinner plans, they were ruined due to the disturbance caused by the people from Emsgate.
