

Chapter 2426 In Pursuit of Glory

After venting his anger, the Great Octavian felt a weight lift off his shoulders and a sense of relief.

He stood up and fastened his belt.

The woman behind him, her body as pure as snow, now adorned with a blush on her face.

"Mr. Kaur, you almost took my life."

After saying that, she extended her dainty foot from beneath the covers, tracing along the Great Octavian's back, sliding down to his waist.

Just as she was about to venture further with her toes, the Great Octavian suddenly grabbed her ankle.

"Behave, don't be naughty."

"When I'm free, I'll come and satisfy you, you little enchantress."

With these words, he placed a fervent kiss on the woman's foot, then left the room.

As the door closed behind him, the captivating woman on the bed, previously filled with desire, suddenly contorted her expression from lust to disgust.

Of course, the Great Octavian was unaware of all this.

When he arrived at the conference hall, apart from a few severely injured comrades, the others had all gathered.

The series of defeats in today's competition had dealt them a heavy blow.

Even Horatio, an incredible expert, had been defeated by his counterparts from Cathay.

The others were even worse off.

Sensing the young men's low spirits, the Great Octavian comforted them with sincere words.

"You're feeling disappointed, aren't you? Indeed! I am also disappointed."

"Before I set off, I made a solemn promise to the elders of the Emsgate Warriors Association that this mission will be completed, but we have let down the glory of the Land of Divinity."

The already gloomy atmosphere became even more despondent.

"We are not inferior to them. The unrivaled geniuses of the Land of Divinity can easily overpower their counterparts from Cathay."

"However, they have a weightier mission to fulfill, and so do you. Now, the glory of the Land of Divinity rests on your shoulders."

With that, his assistant beside him brought a large box.

"Now, there is still one opportunity before you."

"Risk everything you have and bring glory to our Land of Divinity."

"Are you willing to do so?"

This was directed at the young people present.

And when they heard the word "glory," a sudden glint of determination appeared in their eyes.

At this moment, the previously quiet scene immediately grew restless.

"Mr. Kaur, I am willing."

"I am willing to give my all."

As he spoke, an elite young warrior from the Warriors Association stepped forward.

And with the first person leading the way, more and more people stepped out of the crowd.

As for the disciples of the hidden sects and the disciples of prestigious families, they were eager to join, but the elders by their side suddenly intervened and halted them.

When they turned their heads in confusion, the elders shook their heads subtly.

Then, the Great Octavian spoke again.

"This is the latest miracle tonic developed in our Land of Divinity."

"After taking it, your strength will undergo a tremendous change within an hour. Of course, the corresponding side effects are equally potent. It may cause irreversible damage to your body."

"You are the future of our Land of Divinity. I hope you think carefully before making a decision."

With these words, he fell silent, simply watching the group of passionate young men before him, leaving the decision up to them.

After just about ten seconds of silence, one person stepped forward without hesitation and took out a vial of tonic, tightly holding it in his hand.

Following that, the second person, the third person...

When all the tonics were taken away, there were still more than half of the people who missed this opportunity due to their hesitations.

"I believe you all know where these tonics should be used."

"Tomorrow, the glory of the Land of Divinity will depend on your efforts."
