

Chapter 2566 Sasha Imparts Experience

After uttering those words, Vivian began to feel some regret. Initially, she had been swayed by Sasha and thought of the Yarwood Family's recent oppression. In a fit of anger, she had spoken those words. However, when she was filled with worry and feared that this might affect Matthew's plans, the expected scenario of these people turning hostile did not unfold.

Instead, after a bout of scolding from her, the businessmen showed even more eagerness on their faces.

"Ms. Shaffer, this is a small token of appreciation from our VitalCure Pharmaceuticals. Please accept it. If you need anything, please don't hesitate to contact us."

After placing the heavy box down, this person took out a business card. Deliberately opening the box, they revealed the large pearl inside and pretended to insert the business card. He then quickly closed the lid and left with a flattering expression without waiting for Vivian to respond.

One after another, the merchants followed suit.

Valuable herbs, gold and silver jewelry, branded decorations, and other expensive gifts were all presented.

Under Sasha's intervention, Vivian accepted them all.

After all the pharmaceutical merchants had left, Sasha patiently said, "Simply accept the gifts. It'll put their minds at ease. Look at how happy they were. If you refuse them, they will think there's no chance for cooperation. It's the opposite of what you want."

With her explanation and the memory of how the more distant and colder Vivian acted, the more eager the others became, Vivian seemed to be gradually understanding something. However, it remained a vague and elusive realization.

Unbeknownst to Vivian herself, her demeanor was slowly changing. Though subtle, it didn't escape Matthew's notice.

After exchanging a glance with his wife, the couple shared a knowing smile.

Matthew was almost finished with his tasks as well.

Vivian had already handled the matter concerning Lavian Pharmaceuticals.

For other companies interested in collaborating with Matthew, he directed them to Evander and Tanner.

This also brought some excitement to their otherwise monotonous lives.

In just one afternoon, Matthew's stagnant industry returned to normal and experienced rapid growth.

As for Warly Hill, when Tanner's excavation team arrived, Matthew had Evander take the group of reserve youths there for training. This arrangement also helped with security in that area.

On the pharmaceutical company's side, Sasha and Vivian took charge together. Sasha's main responsibility was to transfer her management experience to Vivian as much as possible until Lavian Pharmaceuticals was completed.

At this point, Matthew found himself with the freest time. He spent his days teaching apprentices and monitoring the progress of the reserve children's training.

Simultaneously, at the Yarwood Mansion, Valentin finally released Malachi from house arrest.

The reason was simple: Malachi's same-age friends, who happened to be the scions of the most influential power in Seraphis, were about to visit Hulwin.

Upon regaining his freedom, Malachi's first action was not to arrange for reception but to summon Grimsby.

"When will Ophelia, Leander, and Axel arrive?"

In response to Mr. Malachi's question, Grimsby naturally provided the information. "According to the reports, Miss Zedler is said to have already arrived in Hulwin. Mr. Keller and Mr. Roycroft learned of this and are currently on their way. They should arrive within three to five days."

Upon hearing this news, a wicked smile appeared on Malachi's face.
