

Chapter 2568 Teaching the Heart Method

Satisfied with the person before him, Matthew's expression gradually turned serious. "Sit down. I'm about to grant you a tremendous opportunity."

Although Danny didn't understand Matthew's purpose, he still obediently sat down cross-legged.

The next second, he felt a heavy hand on the top of his head.

"Don't be nervous. Relax your body and clear your mind."

Following Matthew's advice, Danny took a deep breath and slowly began to relax. However, the next second, he experienced severe throbbing in his brain, as if it were being forcefully drilled through.

"Hold on, endure it. This is what sets you apart. If you can't endure it, you'll spend your life being oppressed and treated like a doormat by them."

With Matthew's thunderous guidance echoing in his ears, images of his family being bullied by various forces flashed through Danny's mind. In those memories, he saw himself being stepped on, his face being rubbed into the ground. Suddenly, the boy who had been oppressed opened his eyes.

"I, Danny Allison, will pierce through this barrier in the sky!" With a growl, the excruciating pain that had made him wish for death instantly dissipated. His mind became extraordinarily clear in an instant.

At the same time, two sets of information quickly merged into his memory.

"Divine Skill, Chant of Freedom."

After murmuring these words softly, Danny's body trembled with excitement. In just a breath, he could feel the martial arts gate that he could only look up to before now within his reach.

Suppressing the overwhelming joy in his heart, Danny quickly stood up and bowed deeply to Matthew.

This time, Matthew did not stop him. With the imparting of the martial arts heart method, he had become Danny's nominal master, and it was only reasonable for Danny to show respect in this way.

"Thank you, Master!"

At this moment, Matthew's face also turned pale. Given his current strength, using such a technique was clearly a bit strenuous. If it weren't for the tempering of his mental power by the Solitary Nine Needles, he would have already passed out.

What surprised him even more was that Danny, who had no foundation in martial arts, had such a strong will.

"It's alright. Since you can withstand it, receiving the complete heart method is your destiny. But remember, without my permission, the heart method is not to be passed on. Anyone who violates this will face severe consequences.

"Furthermore, I haven't consulted my Master yet. For now, I can only accept you as my named disciple. The master-disciple relationship will be discussed later."

The faint killing intent came and went quickly. Danny only felt a cold light piercing through his body. After shivering, he replied solemnly, "Yes, I understand!"

"Go, diligence is the key, don't tarnish my reputation." With that, Matthew placed his hands behind his back and left.

Danny shook his head in place, watching his master's departing figure, knelt again, expressing his gratitude.

Taking on his first disciple had given Matthew a peculiar feeling. Bearing the martial knowledge that would shape someone's entire life, he felt the weight of responsibility growing heavier on his shoulders. However, this decision was only made after observing these children for a long time.

The Divine Skill was a heaven-defying technique capable of enhancing one's innate talent while the Chant of Freedom was an advanced martial art technique that could accelerate one's cultivation speed. With these two techniques, Danny could gradually catch up to others. Of course, how far they could go in the future depended on their own potential.

With these thoughts in mind, he slowly returned to the villa. But before he could enter the courtyard, a figure appeared beside him.

"Mr. Summit Warden, we have caught a few rats who were following and monitoring ma'am. Do you want to take a look?"

Hearing this, Matthew frowned. "Lead the way!"

At that, he disappeared from the spot along with the secret guards responsible for protecting his wife's safety.
