

Chapter 2573 Warning

Seeing that, Ophelia furrowed her brows. "That's enough! Who are you? How dare you come here causing trouble, resorting to violence."

Initially, she had a favorable impression of Matthew. He had good martial talents and exceptional medical skills. However, after witnessing the current situation, her opinion of Matthew changed drastically, seeing him as rough and uncivilized.

Matthew first glanced around at the people present before fixing his gaze on Ophelia. "It doesn't matter who I am. What matters is that this son of a b*tch sent someone to spy on my wife. I just came to give him a warning and help him remember better."

At this point, Malachi desperately attempted to defend himself. However, Matthew firmly pressed him down on the table, rendering him unable to speak.

Meanwhile, Leander, who had sobered up, abruptly stood up. "Ophelia, don't waste your breath on him. If he dares to touch my brother, I'll disable him."

The next second, Leander slammed the table and charged toward Matthew like a cheetah.

Witnessing his close friend being humiliated before his eyes at that...

"Die, b*stard!" With a furious roar, Leander threw a powerful punch, intending to smash the troublemaker before him.

Meanwhile, Axel smiled triumphantly. "No need to get upset, Ophelia. Leander will undoubtedly teach him a lesson. In Hulwin, no one of the same age can withstand Leander's Tiger Canon Fist, not even the older generation..."

However, he suddenly began to stutter.

Accompanied by a series of dull thuds, the tables and chairs around them were knocked over by the shockwaves of their battle.

What astonished Axel was that despite his praise, Leander's full-force strike was easily blocked by Matthew with a casual palm.

"With this level of strength, you dare to intervene?" Matthew mocked.

Leander was both shocked and infuriated. He was amazed by Matthew's unexpectedly formidable strength, as his full-force strike didn't even faze him. His anger flared at Matthew's mockery.

However, just as he was filled with anger and ready to continue his attack, his expression suddenly changed.

Sh*t!

As he was about to counterattack, his wrist was firmly grasped by Matthew.

With a swift step back and a forceful flick, Matthew sent Leander flying off balance.

Simultaneously, Miles, watching the battle, suddenly shook his head and remarked, "I didn't expect this young man to be so strong. It seems I underestimated him."

Hearing this, Ophelia was about to turn around when Matthew made his move again.

Before Leander could land, Matthew raised his right leg and delivered a roundhouse kick.

Accompanied by a shockwave, Leander was sent crashing down, leaving a depression in the ground that was over a foot deep. The surrounding floor cracked densely.

As for Leander himself, after coughing up blood, he immediately fell into unconsciousness.

This...

After that, Matthew clapped his hands casually, then turned his gaze toward Valentin.

"You must be Valentin Yarwood. To think we'd meet under these circumstances. This time, it's just a little warning. If there's a next time, the Yarwood Family will be swimming in blood. Of course, if you don't believe me, you can give it a try."

With that, Matthew wasted no more words. He laughed heartily and turned away.

Before departing, he glanced meaningfully at Miles, whether intentionally or unintentionally.

Although this individual concealed his aura, Matthew still detected his presence.

This man is a formidable opponent.

Back at the scene, silence persisted until Valentin's roar shattered the stillness. "What are you all standing there for? Hurry up and save them."